WEIGERT, HERMANN O.—Conductor. Born in Breslau, Germany, 1890. Appearances: Conductor, Staatsoper, Berlin (1914-33). Teacher of Flagstad, Huehn, Cordon and other members of Metropolitan Opera. At present, Conductor, Metropolitan Opera Company. Address: Metropolitan Opera House, New York City.

WEIGL, KARL—Composer, Teacher. Born in Vienna, 1881. Education: Vienna Conservatory and Vienna University; pupil of Zemlinsky; Adler (musicology). Degree: Ph.D., Vienna University (1903). Member of faculty, New Vienna Conservatory (1918). Compositions: Symphonies, piano concerto, violin concerto, orchestral works, choral works, sonatas, piano pieces and songs. At present, living in the United States.

WEIL, HERMANN—Baritone. Born in Karlsruhe, Germany, 1877. Education: Karlsruhe Conservatory; pupil of Smolian (piano), Krehl (theory), Mottl (conducting) and Adolf Dippel in Frankfort (voice). Debuts: European, Wolfram in "Tannhaeuser," Freiburg, (1901); American, as Kurwenal in "Tristan und Isolde," Metropolitan, New York (1911). Appearances: Operatic roles throughout Germany; Bayreuth Festivals (1909-12); with Metropolitan Opera Company (1911-17), and various concert appearances.

WEIL, LE ROY WILLIAM—Baritone, Teacher, Choral Conductor. Born in Kenosha, Wis. Education: Northwestern University; Rutgers College; Fontainebleau, France; pupil of Barnes, Rockford, Ill.; G. A. Grant-Schaeffer, Evanston, Ill.; John D. Mehan, Frank La Forge and Caroline Mehan, New York; Salignac, Fontainebleau; Bloch (conducting). New York District winner, National Federation of Music Clubs Young Artist Contest (1921). Teacher's Certificate, Fontainebleau (1926). Appearances: In recital and as church soloist, Paris and London; soloist in Christian Science churches in Detroit, Buffalo, New York, North Jersey; Philadelphia Musical Club (1922); Aeolian Hall, Brooklyn Academy (1924); Duo-Art Concerts (1924-27); soloist, Metropolitan, New York (1926); Detroit Women's Club Musicale (1926); Town Hall, New York (1938); Bridgeport Oratorio Society 1938); Ridgewood, N. J. (1939). Choir Director, Christ Reformed Church, Newark (since 1923); Director and Music Chairman, Newark Orpheus. Conductor, Montclair W. C. Chorus; Little Falls, W. C. Chorus; Newark Evening News Operetta Society; Elizabeth Oratorio Society; Bloomfield W. C. Chorus. Founder and Editor, The Octave, New Jersey Federation of Music Clubs monthly magazine. Address: 83 Second Ave., Newark, N. J.

WEILL, KURT—Composer. Born in Dessau, Germany, 1900. Education: Pupil of Busoni, Humperdinck and others. Compositions: Fantasy, Passacaglia and Hymn, for orchestra (1923); The Protagonist, Mahagony, The Threepenny Opera, The Czar Photographs Himself, The Man Who Says Yes, Marie Galante, Seven Cardinal Sins, operas; works for orchestra, chamber and choral groups; incidental music to Maxwell Anderson's Knickerbocker Holiday, and Ulysses Africanus; works for radio; incidental music for The Eternal Road and Johnny Johnson. Address: Suffern, N. Y.

WEINBERG, JACOB—Pianist, Composer. Born in Odessa, Russia, 1879. Education: Moscow Conservatory; pupil of Leschetizky in Vienna. Professor, New York College of Music; member of faculty, Philadelphia Musical Academy. Compositions: Piano concerto, violin sonata; A Night in Palestine and The Pioneers, operas; Gettysburg Address, ode for chorus and orchestra (1937); songs, chamber music, other works. Member: Scholarship Committee, New York Philharmonic Symphony Society. Address: 135 W. 84th St., New York City.

WEINBERGER, JAROMIR—Composer. Born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, 1896. Education: Pupil of Hofmeister, Kricka and Reger. Professor of Composition, Ithaca Conservatory, N. Y. (1922-26); conductor and teacher, Eger, Moscow and Vienna. Compositions: Schwanda the Bagpiper, opera (1927); Die Geliebte Stimme, opera (1930); Fruehlingssturme, operetta (1932); Don Quixote; Variations on "Under The Spreading Chestnut Tree," for orchestra; other works for the theatre, orchestra, piano, organ, and violin. At present, composing in New York City. Author of: Various articles in periodicals.

WEINER, LAZAR—Composer, Conductor. Born in Kieff, Russia, 1897. Education: Kieff State Conservatory; pupil of Schilling, Bennet and others. Organizer, Freiheit Singing Society (1923); Jewish Culture Society (1929); former Conductor, Mendelssohn Symphony Orchestra, Brooklyn; Workmen's Circle Chorus (1931). Compositions: Once upon a Time, musical comedy (1932); Legend of Toil, cantata (1933); Theme and Variations, for orchestra (1937); other works for chorus and the theatre, and chamber music. Member: American Musicological Society.

WEINER, LEO—Composer, Teacher. Born in Budapest, Hungary, 1885. Education: Landesakademie, Budapest; studied in Vienna, Berlin, Leipzig and Paris; pupil of Koessler. Winner of Franz-Josef Jubilaeumspreis. Former teacher of theory, Landesakademie; Coach, Comic Opera, Budapest. Compositions: Serenade, for orchestra; Fasching, humoreske for orchestra; Ballade, for piano and clarinet; Sonata, for violin and piano; incidental music for Vorosmarty's Gongor e Tuende: other works for orchestra; chamber music; transcriptions for orchestra.

WEINRICH, CARL—Organist. Appearances: Recitals throughout the United States. Head of Organ Department, Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J. Instructor in Organ, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass. Recordings: Bach Trio-Sonatas (Musicraft); Early Organ Music (Musicraft); Bach Passacaglia in C minor (Musicraft); Bach Six Schuebler Chorales (Musicraft). Management: Bernard R. La Berge, 2 W. 46th St., New York City.

WEINSTOCK, HERBERT—Critic, Author. Born in Milwaukee, Wis., 1905. Education: University of Chicago; with private teachers. Former Critic, Milwaukee Leader. Author of: Articles on Mexican music for various periodicals; Men of Music (1939), with Wallace Brockway. Translated Carlos Chavez' book, Toward a New Music (W. W. Norton, 1937); co-editor, Renascent Mexico (Covici Friede, 1935). Contributor to Who Is Who In Music (1940-41 Edition). Address: 19 E. 48th St., New York City.

WEIS, EZRA H. F.—Pianist, Teacher. Born in Reddick, Ill., 1887. Education: Evanston Academy, Northwestern University and Columbia University. Degree: B.S., M.A., Teachers College, Columbia University. Ph.D., Columbia University. Appearances: Tour with Guilford College A Cappella Choir annually. Teacher and Director, College Music Department, Guilford College; Director, A Cappella Choir, Guilford College; Church Choir. Chorus, Orchestra. Member: M.T.N.A.; Phi Alpha-Sinfonia. Address: Guilford College, Guilford College P.O., N. C.

WEISMANN, DIEZ—Violinist, Violist, Teacher. Born in Wiesbaden, Germany, 1900. Education: Technische Hochschule, Breslau, Germany; Staatliche Hochschule fuer Musik; pupil of Carl Flesch, Maxim Jacobsen and Willi Hess. Appearances: Concert tours of Germany, Italy, Holland, Finland, Esthonia, Poland, Russia, Rumania, Bulgaria; concerts with Blech, Schuricht, Scheinpflug, and Ansermet conducting; appeared with New Friends of Music, New York City (1939). Director of Violin Department, State Conservatory, Guatemala City, C. A. (1935-39); member of faculty, Chatham Square Music School, New York. Radio: Musical director, TGWA Guatemala City. Address: 6646 Booth St., Forest Hills, N. Y.

WEISS, ADOLPH—Composer. Born in Baltimore, Md., 1891. Education: Pupil of Weidig, Rybner, Lilienthal and Arnold Schoenberg in Vienna. Awarded Guggenheim Fellowship (1932). Appearances: As bassoon player, New York Symphony, New York Philharmonic, Chicago Symphony and Rochester Symphony. One of organizers of "Conductorless Orchestra," New York. Now teaching and composing in Hollywood and New York. Compositions: I Segreti, American Life; Theme and Variations, for orchestra; Kammersymphonie for chamber orchestra; chamber music. Address: 1803½ N. Bronson Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

WEISS, WALTER O.—Guitarist, Banjoist. Born in New York City, 1902. Education: Pupil of Jules Levy (harmony). Appearances: With Eddie Leonard (1922-23); others. At present appearing with dance orchestras in night clubs. Recordings: River Boat, Shuffle

(Best. 1925). Address: 404 W. 47th St., New York City.

WEISSMANN, FRIEDER—Conductor. Born in Germany. Education: Munich University. Degree: Ph.D., Munich. American Debut: Guest Conductor, Cincinnati Symphony (1937-38). Appearances: As conductor, throughout Germany (1920-33); as conductor, Concertgebouw Orchestra, Amsterdam (1934); as conductor, opera, Teatro Colon, and symphony concerts, Buenos Aires (1934); South America (1935-36-37); Holland (1935-36-37-38); Wagner series, New York City Symphony Orchestra (1939); New York Philharmonic, Lewisohn Stadium, New York (1939, 1940). Radio: AVRO, Holland. Conductor, State Opera, Berlin (1920-25); First Conductor, Muenster and Konigsberg Operas; Conductor, Dresden Philharmonic, and Guest Conductor, orchestras in Frankfort, Stuttgart and Hamburg (1928-31); Conductor, Berlin Symphony, and Guest Conductor, merged Berlin Symphony and Berlin Philharmonic (1931-33). Conductor, New Jersey Symphony Orchestra (since 1939).

WELCH, ROY DICKINSON—Educator, Author, Composer. Born in Dansville, N. Y., 1885. Education: University of Michigan, University of Munich, University of Vienna; pupil of Lhevinne. Degrees: B.A., University of Michigan; Hon. Mus. M., University of Michigan School of Music. Member of faculty, University of Michigan (1907-10 and 1912-14); Assistant Professor of Music, Smith College (1914-18); Associate Professor (1918-21); Professor (1921-35); visiting Professor, Harvard University Summer Sessions (1923-34); visiting Professor of Music, Princeton (1934). Professor and Head of Music Department, Princeton University (since 1935). Author of: Study of Music in American Colleges, Appreciation of Music (Harpers); essays (published by Norton, Oxford Press, Princeton University Press, others). Member: Phi Beta Kappa, Music Teachers National Association, and A.M.A. Address: 141 McCormick Hall, Princeton, N. J.

WELD, ETHEL ROSS—Lecturer, Writer. Born in Breckenridge, Minn., 1905. Education: Hamline University, St. Paul; Fargo Conservatory of Music. Appearances: Lecture-recitals and dramatic programs, on tour for musical organizations, and in radio. Writes on musical subjects for newspapers. Member: Minnesota Federation of Music Clubs (President). Member of Board of State Editors, Who Is Who In Music (1940-41 Edition). Address: 2030 Second Ave., Hibbing, Minn.

WELGE, GLADYS—Conductor, Violinist, Violist. Born in Chicago, Ill., 1902. Education: Chicago Musical College; pupil of Sametini, Louis Victor Saar, and Borowski. Degree: Mus. M., Chicago Musical College. Appearances: Principal second violin (13 years), Assistant Conductor (8 years), Associate conductor (1 year), Conductor (1 year), Woman's Symphony Orchestra of Chicago. Conductor of Oak Park-River Forest Symphony Orchestra (9 years); conducted Woman's Symphony, Grant Park Summer Concerts (1936); Symphony Concerts, Navy Pier (1937-38); others. Address: 1040 N. Humphrey Ave., Oak Park, Ill.

WELK, LAWRENCE—Accordionist. Born in Strasburg, N. D., 1904. Appearances: Hotel William Penn, Pittsburgh (1938); Chicago Theatre (1939); Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago (1939). Leader of Lawrence Welk Orchestra, known as "The Champagne Music of Lawrence Welk." Composition: Bubbles in the Wine (Paramount, 1939); My Donna Lee. Address: c/o Frederick Bros., 520 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WELKE, WALTER CARL—Conductor, Teacher. Born in Detroit, 1905. Education: University of Michigan. Degree: B.A. in Music Ed. Teacher of instruments, Cass Technical High School, Detroit (1922-23); Assistant to Joseph E. Maddy, University of Michigan (1925-29); Assistant Supervisor of Music, Ann Arbor, Mich., Public Schools (1928-29); Director, Freshman Men's Glee Club, University of Michigan (1928-29). At present, Director, University of Washington Bands; Head of Instrument Department, University of Washington; Chairman, Regions 1 and 5, National School Music Competition-Festivals. Address: University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.

WELLERSON, MILA—Violoncellist. Born in New York City, 1916. Education: Conservatory of Paris; pupil of Rubios, André Hekking, Klengel, Willeke, Casals. Debut: With Cincinnati Philharmonic (1921). Appearances: Soloist with major orchestras throughout the United States and Europe. Radio: Concerto series, WQXR and WNYC, New York. At present concertizing throughout the United States. Compositions: Arrangements of violin concertos for cello. Address: 110 Riverside Dr., New York City.

WELLESZ, EGON—Composer, Musicologist. Born in Vienna, Austria, 1885. Education: Vienna University; pupil of Adler, Fruehling, Schoenberg, and Walter. Degree: Ph.D., Vienna University. Member of faculty, Neues Konservatorium (1911-15); Privat Dozent, Vienna University (1915-28). Professor of Music History, Vienna University. At present, teaching in England. Compositions: Die Prinzessin Girnara, opera; Alkestis, opera; Persian Ball, Das Wunder der Diana, Achilles auf Skyros, ballets; Der Abend, Eklogen, Epigrams and other works for piano; Gebete der Maedchen zu Maria, for soprano, chorus and orchestra; other works for orchestra, chorus and the theatre; chamber music; songs.

WELLS, HOWARD—Pianist, Teacher. Born in Rockford, Ill. Education: Studied in Vienna, Paris and Chicago; pupil of Leschetizky, Bauer and others. Debut: Berlin (1910). Appearances: Soloist with Chicago Symphony Orchestra; recitals and concerts in middle west. Teacher of piano in Berlin (1909-14). Conducts own studio in Chicago. Author of: Ears, Brain and Fingers and The Pianist's Thumb. Member: Society of American Musicians. Address: 410 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WELLS, JOSEPH WILLIAM—Teacher. Born in Madisonville, Ky., 1908. Education: Ithaca College, Ithaca, N. Y.; pupil of Patrick Conway and Ernest S. Williams. Degree: B.S., Ithaca College. Appearances: Member of concert band and symphony orchestra of Ithaca College. Former Director, Ithaca College Little Theatre Orchestra; Teacher of Music, Groton and Ludlowville public schools, Trumansburg Central High School; Choir Director, First Methodist church, Trumansburg; Director, Watkins Glen Union High School. At present, Director of Clifton High School Band, Clifton, Ariz. Member: Music Educators National Conference. Address: City Schools, Clifton, Ariz.

WELSMAN, FRANK S.—Conductor, Teacher of Piano. Born in Toronto, Canada, 1873. Education: Pupil of Krause, Schreck, Hoffman and A. Mendelssohn. Former member of faculty, College of Music, Toronto; Toronto Conservatory; Founder and Conductor, Toronto Symphony (1906); member of faculty, Canadian Academy (1918). Director, Canadian Academy (since 1922).

WELTI, WALTER—Teacher of Voice. Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, 1899. Education: Cornell University; pupil of Eric Dudley, Isadore Luckstone, Paul Althouse, Edgar Schofield. Degrees: B.A., M.A., Cornell University. Appearances: Wanamaker Auditorium, N. Y. (1926); Bailey Hall, Ithaca (1932); Willard Straight Auditorium (1933) and U. S. A. C. Summer School (1936). Radio: KSL. Member of faculty, Utah State Agricultural College. Address: Utah State Agricultural College, Logan, Utah.

WENDELIN, ANDREW—Violinist, Violist, Teacher. Born in Denver, Colo., 1894. Education: Riga Conservatory of Music; Chicago Musical College; pupil of Maurice Goldblatt, Harold Maryott, Felix Borowski (musical history), Czerwonky (conducting). Member of faculty, Finney School of Violin, Chicago (1920-30); Cragun School of Music, Chicago (1926-28); Orchard School of Music, Chicago (1928-31); Chicago Public School Instructor of Violin Classes (1920-22); Conductor of String Choir, Finney School of Music (1925-27); Conductor of Cragun School of Music Symphony Orchestra (1926-27); Chicago Lutheran Children's Orchestra (1929); Lutheran Symphony Orchestra of Greater Chicago (1932-38); Illinois College of Music Symphony Orchestra (1932-34); Southtown Civic Orchestra (1934-35); lecturer on choral and church music, Northwestern University; founder, Lutheran Symphony Orchestra of Greater Chicago (1932). Member of faculty, Arcadia Music School, Walther League Camp, Arcadia, Mich. (since 1939); instructor of stringed instruments, Greater Chicago Lutheran Schools (since 1936); Conductor, All-Lutheran School Orchestra of Greater Chicago (since 1938). Maintains own studio. Compositions: Transcriptions for violin and piano; for symphony orchestra. Author of: Articles on music for various periodicals. Editor of: The Lutheran School Musician. Has compiled catalogs of sacred music. Member: Lutheran Band and Orchestra Directors Guild (President since 1936); Northern Illinois District Walther League Talent Quest Adjudicator (since 1937). Address: 6546 S. Peoria St., Chicago, Ill.

WENDELL, BRUCE—Pianist. Born in Antigua, West Indies. Education: Keble College, Oxford; pupil of Violet Clarence, George Coleman and Frederic Lamond. Debuts: European, in recital, London (1926); American, Town Hall, New York (1937). Appearances: Recitals throughout British Isles (1926-36); tour of West Indies, British Guiana, Dutch Guiana, Bahamas, Bermuda (1936-37); with Boston Symphony at "Pop" Concert, Fiedler conducting (1939). Radio: WJZ, NBC. Management: George W. Lattimore, 110 W. 47th St., New York City.

WENDLAND, NORALEE MAYHEW (MRS. R. E.)—Violinist, Teacher, Patron. Education: Pupil of Venth, Sevcik, and Andrea Proudfoot. Member of faculty, McMurry College, Abilene, Texas (until 1924). Member: Texas Federation of Music Clubs (President); Mu Phi Epsilon; Texas State Board of Applied Music. Member, Board of State Editors, Who Is Who In Music (1940-41 Edition). Address: 1204 North Third St., Temple, Texas.

WERLÉ, FREDERICK CHARLES—Pianist, Theorist. Born in New York City, 1910. Education: New York University; New School for Social Research; Cincinnati Conservatory; Curtis Institute; Eastman School of Music; pupil of Harold Morris, Ernest Toch, New York; Rosario Scalero, Italy; Jean Batalla, Robert Casadesus, Nadia Boulanger and Igor Stravinsky, Fontainebleau, France. Degrees: Mus. B., Cincinnati Conservatory; Artist's Diploma, Curtis Institute; M.M., Eastman School of Music. Appearances: As soloist with orchestras, in recitals and lecture-recitals. Church organist. At present, conducts own studio in Philadelphia, and is engaged in musicological research. Address: 405 Presser Building, 1714 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

WERRENRATH, REINALD—Baritone. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1883. Education: Pupil of Carl Dufft, Frank King Clark, Arthur Mees and Percy Rector Stephens. Debut: Worcester Festival (1907). Appearances: In recital and concert; as member of Victor Opera Quartet. Member of Metropolitan Opera (1919-20).

WESCHLER, ANGELA E.—Pianist. Born in Vienna, Austria, 1900. Education: Conservatory of Vienna. Degree: Professorship, awarded by Austrian Government (1935). Debut: Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra (1915). Appearances: Recitals; soloist with Budapest Philharmonic Orchestra (1920); Prague Symphony Orchestra; others. Radio: WNYC, New York. Member of Faculty, Vienna Conservatory of Music; New York College. At present, appearing in lecture series, WNYC. Address: 215 W. 91st St., New York City.

WESCOTT, MARCY—Soprano. Born in Chicago, Ill., 1918. Education: University School for Girls; Faulkner School, Chicago; pupil of Hanna Butler, Chicago, and Lucien Muratore, Fontainebleau, France (mise en scene). Debut: In operetta, Two Bouquets, New York (1938). Appearances: In Boys From Syracuse (1938); Too Many Girls (1939-40). Address: 101 W. 57th St., New York City.

WESSEL, MARK—Composer, Teacher. Born in Coldwater, Mich., 1894. Education: Northwestern University; pupil of Arnold Schoenberg. Recipient of Guggenheim and Pulitzer scholarships. Former member of faculty, Northwestern University. At present, Professor of Piano and Composition, University of Colorado. Compositions: Symphony Concertante, for orchestra (1929); Holiday, for orchestra (1933); Sonatine and Green River, for piano; other works for orchestra, piano and the theatre; chamber music.

WEST, EDITH ADAIR—Pianist, Teacher. Born in Savannah, Ga., 1913. Education: Bell-Carroll School of Music; St. Louis Institute of Music; graduate, Washington Seminary, Atlanta, Ga. Debut: Recital, Atlanta (1934). Conducts residence studio. Member: Beta of Georgia, Pi Mu; Young Artist Division, Atlanta Music Club; Georgia Federation of Music Clubs. Address: 94 Inman Circle N.E., Atlanta, Ga.

WEST, EVERETT—Tenor. Born in Chicago, Ill., 1913. Education: Crane Junior College, Chicago; Northwestern University. Appearances: With Chicago Operetta Co. (1934); as Director, California Varsity Eight. Chicago World's Fair; vaudeville tour of the United States; with Ziegfeld Follies and at Fort Worth Exposition; with Billy Rose's Show of Shows; in Knights of Song; at night clubs in Hollywood, San Francisco and Chicago. Radio: With "Al Pearce and His Gang," NBC. Organized the California Varsity Eight. Address: National Broadcasting Company. RCA Bldg., New York City.

WESTBERG, J. ORVILLE—Choral Conductor. Appearances: As director, Bel Canto Club, Spokane, Wash. (1937). Organized Spokane Madrigal Singers and Spokane Civic A Cappella Choir (1938). Director, Spokane Madrigal Singers and Spokane Civic A Cappella Choir (since 1938). Management: John Huneke, Old National Bank Bldg., Spokane, Wash.

WETTERGREN, GERTRUD—Contralto. Born in Eslov, Sweden, 1896. Education: Royal Academy of Music, Stockholm. Debuts: European, The Marriage of Figaro, Royal Opera, Stockholm; American, Metropolitan Opera, New York (1935). Appearances: Covent Garden, London (1936); Prague and Vienna; concertized throughout the United States. Member, Royal Opera, Stockholm (1925-35); member, Metropolitan Opera (1935-36); member, Chicago City Opera (1936-37). Repertoire includes roles of Brangaene, Amneris, Venus, Carmen, Orfeo, Fricka, Dalila, others.

WETTLING, GEORGE—Percussionist. Born in Topeka, Kansas, 1907. Education: Pupil of Roy Knapp, Chicago, Illinois. Appearances: Bud Freeman Trio; with Eddie Cantor. Radio: With Paul Whiteman. Address: 17 E. 45th St., New York City.

WETZEL, LE ROY—Choral Conductor. Born in Chicago, Ill. Education: Chicago Musical College, American Conservatory, University of Chicago, De Paul University; pupil of Herman DeVries, Victor Heinze. Compositions: Knight of Bethlehem, Magnificat, Indian Serenade, Prayer, When the Herds Were Watching, In the Merry Month of May, Ring Out With Bells, Sanctus et Benedictus, Ave Marie. Address: 1127 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

WETZLER, HERMANN HANS—Composer, Conductor, Organist. Born in Frankfort, Germany, 1870. Education: Pupil of Heermann, Humperdinck, Schumann and Scholz. Organist, Trinity Church, New York (1892-1901); Organizer, Wetzler Symphony Orchestra; conductor of opera and concert, in the United States and Germany. Now in the United States. Compositions: Overture to As You Like It (1917); Assisi, legend for orchestra (1924); The Basque Venus, opera (1929); Magnificat, for chorus (1936); other works for orchestra, chorus and the theatre; chamber music.

WEYMER, GRACE—Harpist. Born in the United States. Appearances: Throughout America as member of Salzedo Harp Ensemble, Lawrence Harp Quintette; solo recitals, guest soloist with symphony orchestras. First harpist, Syracuse Symphony Orchestra. Head of Harp Department, College of Fine Arts, Syracuse, N. Y. Author of: Four Year Course in Harp to be Used in Colleges; Outline of Four Year Course in Harp to be Used for Credit in High Schools. Member: National Association of Harpists, Inc. (Board of Directors). Management: Willard Matthews, 333 E. 43rd St., New York City.

WHALEN, MARY A.—Mezzo-Soprano, Teacher. Born in New York City, 1908. Education: New York College of Music; Columbia University; pupil of Mursell, Dykema, and Gildersleeve. Degrees: B.A., M.A. in Mus. Ed., Columbia. Appearances: Director of Christmas Musicale of Knights of Columbus, New York (1939). At present, with Educational Music Magazine. Author of: Music in the Activity Program in Education (1936). Member: In and About Club. Address: 3273 Parkside Pl., Bronx, New York City.

WHISTLER, HARVEY S.—Educator. Born in Fresno, Cal. Education: Fresno State Teachers College; pupil of Mishel Piastro, Ondricek (violin); Hummel (composition). Degrees: A.B., Fresno State Teachers College; M.S., University of Southern California. Head of Music Department, Fresno State Teachers College (1928-30); Selma High School (1930-38); Pasadena School System (1938-39). At present, doing research work in Graduate School of Ohio State University. Compositions: Fanfares, instruction books, manuals, others (published by Carl Fischer, Inc.; Rubank, Inc.; Theodore Presser Co., Oliver Ditson Co. and Volkwein Bros.). Address: Box 3046, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

WHITE, ALMA—Soprano, Composer. Born in Lewis County, Ky., 1862. Education: Millersburg Female College, University of Denver and Vanceburg Seminary, Kentucky; with private teachers. Degree: A.B., Millersburg. Founder and Bishop, Pillar of Fire Denomination. Compositions: Hymn tunes. Author of: Various works, including Looking Back From Beulah (1902) and The Sword of the Spirit (1937); texts for hymns. Editor of Pillar of Fire magazines and The Dry Legion. Member: Board of Trustees, Pillar of Fire Church (President). Address: 1845 Champa St., Denver, Colo.

WHITE, CLARENCE CAMERON—Composer, Violinist. Born in Clarksville, Tenn., 1880. Education: Oberlin Conservatory; pupil of Zacharewitsch and Coleridge-Taylor. Recipient of David Bispham Prize. Compositions: Ouanga, opera (1933); Negro Rhapsody; string quartet; Negro spirituals, and others.

WHITE, FRANCIA—Soprano. Born in Greenville, Tex. Education: Occidental College, Los Angeles, Cal.; pupil of Phoebe Ara White and Louis Graveure. Debut: "Opera-of-the-Air" radio series (1933). Appearances: Several seasons with Civic Light Opera, Los Angeles and San Francisco; soloist with Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra; soloist at Hollywood Bowl; Los Angeles and San Francisco Grand Opera Companies (1934); singing double for Jenny Lind in motion picture, "The Mighty Barnum." Radio: Star of "Beauty Box Theater"; Nelson Eddy program; Fred Astaire series; Ford "Summer Hour"; and several others. Now appearing on A. T. and T. program with James Melton, NBC. Address: 405 E. 54th St., New York City. Management: A. and S. Lyons, 515 Madison Ave., New York City.

WHITE, PAUL—Conductor, Composer. Born in Bangor, Me., 1895. Education: New England Conservatory; University of Maine. Degree: Mus. D., University of Maine. Appearances: As guest conductor throughout the United States. Associate Conductor, Eastman School

Symphony Orchestra, Rochester Civic Orchestra. Radio: Eastman Symphony, Rochester Civic Orchestra, NBC. Compositions: Overtures, Suites, Tone Poems, for orchestra; Voyage of Mayflower, for chorus and orchestra; Sonata for Violin and Piano, String Quartet. Address: Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y.

WHITE, PHOEBE ARA—Contralto, Teacher. Born in Mason City, Iowa. Education: Studied in London; Paris; New York. Appearances: Soloist in Minneapolis, New York; toured in concert, directed choirs. Conducts studio. Address: 808 S. Broadway, Hollywood, Cal.

WHITE, RAY BRIDWELL—Baritone, Choral Conductor. Born in Mount Morrison, Colo., 1892. Education: Columbia University, Princeton. Degree: A.B., Columbia University; A.M., Princeton. Hon. D.D. Sings with and directs choral groups in hymnals. Radio: With religious orchestras, WAWZ, Zarephath, N. J., and KPOF, Denver. Address: 1845 Champa St., Denver. Colo.

WHITE, WILLIAM BRAID—Piano Technician, Sound Engineer, Teacher. Born in Thursley Hall, Halsemere, England, 1878. Education: King's College, London; Cambridge University; Chicago Musical College. Degree: Mus. D., Chicago Musical College (1930). Has lectured at Princeton, Illinois, Minnesota, Northwestern, Wellesley, Vassar. Director of Acoustic Research, American Steel and Wire Co. (1927-38). Founder, School of Pianoforte Technology, Chicago (1938). Principal, School of Pianoforte Technology (since 1938). Author of: Theory and Practice of Pianoforte Building (1906), Piano Tuning and Allied Arts (1st edition, 1917; 2nd edition, 1927; 3rd edition, 1938); Piano Playing Mechanisms (1925); articles in periodicals. Technical Editor, Music Trade Review, New York (1904-29). Technical Editor, Piano Trade Magazine, Chicago (since 1938). Member: American Association for the Advancement of Science (Fellow); Acoustical Society of America (Fellow); American Society of Mechanical Engineers; American Physical Society; Institute of Musical Instrument Technology, Great Britain; Contributor to Who Is Who In Music (1940-41 Edition). Address: 5149 Agatite Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHITE, WILLIAM CARTER—Conductor, Arranger. Born in Centerville, Utah, 1886. Education: New England Conservatory of Music; Institute of Musical Art, New York. Appearances: Massed Shrine Bands, Washington, D. C.; guest conductor of Sousa's Band (1926). Assistant Principal and later Principal of the United States Army Bandleaders School (1915-28). Radio: WMCA, New York. With Sixteenth Infantry United States Army Band. Compositions: Martinez (Cundy-Bettoney, 1916); El Supremo (1917), Saracen Guard (1923), Kiwanians (1925), The Call of the Clarions (1932), and Regimental Heralds (1932) (all published by Carl Fischer); American Doughboy (George F. Briegel, Inc., 1939). Author of: Scales, Chords and Rhythmic Studies for Military Bands (1921); Military Band Arranging (Carl Fischer, Inc., 1924); The History of Military Music In America (1940). Contributor to Who Is Who In Music (1940-41 Edition). Address: Fort Jay, New York City.

WHITEHEAD, HENRY COWLES—Conductor. Born in Amherst, Va., 1910. Education: Curtis Institute of Music. Degree: Mus. B., Curtis. Appearances: Radio City Music Hall. Radio: NBC; Director of Orchestra, WTAR. Conductor, Norfolk Symphony Orchestra. Address: WTAR Radio Corporation, Amherst, Va.

WHITEMAN, PAUL—Conductor. Born in the United States, 1891. Appearances: Violist, Denver Symphony Orchestra; Conductor, forty piece orchestra in United States Navy during World War; leader of own dance orchestras throughout the United States. Conductor of "symphonic jazz" programs in New York City. Radio: NBC, CBS. Recordings: Paul Whiteman and his Orchestra, Whiteman's Concert Orchestra (Victor).

WHITEZEL, LEE BOND—Basso, Teacher. Born near Peru, Ind., 1899. Education: Muncie Conservatory of Music; American Conservatory, Chicago. At present, second soloist, Our Lady of Sorrows Church, Chicago. Maintains own studio. Address: 310 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHITHORNE, EMERSON—Composer. Born in Cleveland, O., 1884. Education: Pupil of Rogers, Leschetizky and Fuchs. Teacher, Music Critic for Pall Mall Gazette, London (1907-15); Executive Editor, Art Publication Society, St. Louis (1915-20); vice-president, Composers Music Corporation (1920-22). Compositions: New York Nights and Days, suite (1923); Sooner and Later, ballet (1925); Saturday's Child, for tenor, soprano and orchestra (1926); Fata Morgana, symphonic poem (1927); Violin Concerto (1931); The Grim Troubadour; El Camino Real, for piano (1937); other works for orchestra, piano, violin and the theatre; chamber music.

WHITLOCK, VERA—Musicologist, Educator. Born in the United States. Education: McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill.; Chicago Musical College; pupil of Rosenwald, Ganz and Margolies. Former teacher of piano and voice; choral conductor. At present, Head of Music Department, High Point College, N. C. Member: Mu Phi. Address: High Point College, High Point, N. C.

WHITMER, THOMAS C.—Composer. Born in Altoona, Pa., 1873. Education: Franklin and Marshall College; pupil of Gilchrist, Jarvis and S. P. Warren. Music Director, Stephens College, Mo. (1899-1909); Pennsylvania College for Women, Pittsburgh (1909-19); teacher at Pittsburgh Musical Institute (1916-19). Organist, Sixth Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh (after 1916). Compositions: For orchestra, chorus and chamber ensembles. Author of: Considerations on Music, The Way of My Mind (1918); contributor to various music periodicals.

WHITMIRE, ALICE GIDEON—Educator. Born in Omaha, Neb., 1891. Education: University of Nebraska, University of Chicago (School of Education); Columbia School of Music; studied voice and piano; did research work in western folk music in Wyoming. Degrees: Mus. B., Columbia School of Music. Compiled Wyoming version of cowboy folk songs, Highways and Byways (Silver Burdett Co., 1936). Contributor, Who Is Who In Music (1940-41 Edition). Addresses: Business, Seward School, 4600 S. Hermitage, Chicago, Ill.; residence, 907 E. 52nd St., Chicago, Ill.

WHITMORE, ROGERS—Violinist, Conductor. Born in Ilion, N. Y., 1902. Education: Ithaca College; Utica Conservatory; Ecole des Hautes Etudes Musicales; Fontainebleau; pupil of Auer, Sevcik, Cesar Thomson, Hewitt and Lucien Capet. Member of faculty, University of Missouri (since 1925). Chairman of Music Department (since 1936). Member: Phi Mu Alpha (National Executive Committee); Missouri Music Teachers Association (President); Misscuri Music Educators Association; University of Missouri Concert Series Association (President). Address: University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.

WHITNEY, EDITH—Violinist. Born in Chicago, Ill., 1916. Education: American Conservatory, Chicago Musical College; pupil of Herbert Butler, Leon Sametini, Radie Britain. Debut: Radio (1930). Appearances: Whitney String Quartet, Woman's Symphony Orchestra, Chicago. Address: 6054 Stony Island Ave., Chicago.

WHITNEY, EDNA—Violist. Born in Chicago, Ill., 1914. Education: American Conservatory, Chicago. Debut: In concert (1931). Appearances: Tours of the United States with various ensembles. Member of Whitney Quintet and Whitney String Quartet, Woman's Symphony of Chicago. Address: 6054 Stony Island, Chicago, Ill.

WHITNEY, JOAN—Pianist, Mezzo-Soprano. Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., 1917. Education: Finch College; with private teachers. Appearances: In Kiki, others, with Marc Connelly; soloist with Will Osborne's and Enric Madriguera's orchestras. Address: 580 Fifth Ave., Broadcast Music Inc., New York City.

WHITNEY, MAURICE C.—Pianist, Organist, Educator. Born in Glen Falls, N. Y., 1909. Education: New York University, Ithaca College. Degrees: B.S., Ithaca College (1932); M.A., New York University (1939). Member: New York School Music Association (Vice-President); National Music Educators Conference (New York State Chairman). Address: Hudson Falls Public Schools, Hudson Falls, N. Y.

WHITNEY, NOREEN—Violinist. Born in Chicago, Ill., 1909. Education: American Conservatory of Music, Chicago Musical College; pupil of Sametini, and Sowerby. Debut: With Whitney Trio (1927). Appearances: With Whitney Trio and Whitney String Quartet throughout the United States; Chicago Woman's Symphony. Radio: WMAQ, Chicago; others. Address: 6519 University Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHITNEY, ROBERT S.—Composer, Conductor. Born in Newcastle, England, 1904. Education: Pupil of Reuter, Oberndorfer, Sowerby, Stock and others. Radio: WMAQ (1924-31); NBC. Director, Whitney Trio and Whitney Chamber Music Ensemble. District Supervisor, Federal Music Project, Chicago. Compositions: Concerto Grosso (1933); Symphony (1935); suite for orchestra (1937), and chamber music.

WHITTINGTON, DORSEY—Pianist. Born in Effingham, Ill., 1899. Education: University of Southern California; Juilliard Institute; pupil of Carl Friedberg, Ernest Hutcheson, Edwin Hughes and Percy Goetschius. Degrees: Artist's Diploma, Institute of Musical Art; Hon. Mus. D., Boguslawski College of Music. Debut: American, Aeolian Hall, New York (1922); European, Wigmore Hall, London (1926). Appearances: Tours of America and Europe as piano recitalist; in duo-piano recitals with wife, Frances Whittington. At present, conductor of Birmingham (Ala.) Civic Symphony; member of faculty, Birmingham Conservatory of Music. Address: Birmingham Conservatory of Music, Birmingham, Ala.

WICKHAM, FLORENCE—Contralto. Born in Beaver, Pa., 1882. Education: Pupil of Alice Groff in Philadelphia; Mme. Mallinger and Franz Emerich, Berlin. Debuts: European, as Fides, Wiesbaden; American, as Kundry in Savage's English "Parsifal" (1904). Appearances: Operatic roles in Germany, and Covent Garden, London; Metropolitan Opera Company (1908-12). Compositions: Operetta, Rosalynd, based on Shakespeare's As You Like It, produced at Carmel, N. Y. (1938). Address: 1215 Fifth Ave., New York City.

WIDDOP, WALTER—Tenor. Born in Norland, near Halifax, 1892. Appearances: Barcelona International Season (1927); concerts and festivals in Holland, Germany, England and the United States; operatic roles at Covent Garden, London; tours with British National Opera Company. Recordings: Victor.

WIDENOR, DAVID KENNETH—Organist, Pianist, Conductor, Teacher. Born in Omaha, Neb. Education: Juilliard Institute; Municipal University of Omaha; Columbia University; pupil of Cecil Berryman, Percy Goetschius. Degrees: B.S., M.A., Columbia; A.A.G.O. Appearances: Organist in theatres (20 years); Publix, Loew, RKO, Warner Circuits, Rivoli and Criterion Theatres, New York. Radio: WDAF, WOW, WHAM, WINS, WNEW. Organist, Choirmaster, Grace Episcopal Church, Rutherford, N. J. Address: 239 Passaic St., Hackensack, N. J.

WIENKE, EVELYN—Soprano, Teacher of Voice. Born in Woodstock, Ill. Education: University of Wisconsin, Columbia School of Music, American Conservatory; pupil of George Nelson Holt, Theodore Harrison, Ellen Kinsman Mann. Appearances: Soprano soloist, First Methodist Church, Chicago; Director, Orionis Vocal Ensemble. Member: Musician's Club of Women; Mu Iota Chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon. Address: Kimball Bldg., Room 500, Chicago, Ill.

WIER, ALBERT E.—Editor, Author. Born in Chelsea, Mass., 1879. Education: Harvard University and New England Conservatory. Editor, various publishing companies in New York. Compiler of the Macmillan Encyclopedia of Music and Musicians. Author of: Book on the piano (1940), and others. Editor of: Whole World Music Series; Master Composer Series; Ideal Home Music Library; What Do You Know About Music?

WIESEMANN, CARL—Organist, Educator. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1892. Education: Hochschule fuer Musik, Berlin. Appearances: Recital tours; soloist with Guilmant and Dallas Symphonies; others. Director, Schubert Club (12 years), Trio Club (4 years), Dallas Texas; Organist, St. Matthews Cathedral (20 years). Member: Texas Music Teachers Association; State Department of Education Music Advisory Board (Organizer, Executive Secretary); A.G.O. (Dean, Texas Chapter); Music Teachers National Association (Legislative Committee), and others. Address: 5100 Ross Ave., Dallas, Texas.

WIGENT, JOHN—Conductor. Born in Chicago, Ill., 1915. Education: Northwestern University. Degrees: B. Mus. Ed., Mus. M., Northwestern. Debut: Choral conductor, NBC (1936). Appearances: Chicago Civic Orchestra; Garv Municipal Chorus, as conductor. Radio: NBC. Recordings: D'Arcy. Address: North Park College, Chicago, Ill.

WIGGINS, VERONICA—Vocalist. Born in New York City. Education: Montclair Private Schools. Radio: "Album of Familiar Music" (78 weeks); "Hoffman Hour" with Nelson Eddy (52 weeks); A. & P. Gypsies (26 weeks). Member of Moonbeams Trio. Address: 235 W. 71st St., New York City.

WIGMAN, MARY—Danseuse. Born in Hanover, Germany. American Debut: New York (1930). Assistant to Rudolf von Laban (1913-19).

WILCOX, JOHN C.—Teacher of Voice. Born in Sebewaing, Mich., 1870. Education: Mehan School of Vocal Art, Detroit. Degree: Hon. M. M., Denver College of Music (1922). Appearances: In concert and oratorio throughout the United States. Former Director, Denver Municipal Chorus, Denver A Cappella Choir and Fortnightly Club Chorus, Greely, Colo.; Wilcox Concert Choir, Denver. At present, member of faculty, American Conservatory. Author of: The Adult Singing Voice, The Adolescent Singing Voice, The Speaking Voice, Training Voices in Class Groups (Carl Fischer, Inc.). Member: American Academy of Teachers of Singing and Chicago Council of Teachers of Singing. Address: American Conservatory, Kimball Building, Chicago, Ill.

WILD, EARL—Pianist. Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., 1917. Education: Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh. Debut: In concert, Carnegie Institute of Technology. Appearances: Carnegie Institute. Radio: NBC. Address: 325 W. 57th St., New York City.

WILD, JULIANNA M.—Supervisor. Education: Chicago Teachers College, University of Chicago, Chicago Musical College, University of Wisconsin, Loyola University. Degrees: Ph.B., University of Chicago (1915); A.M., University of Chicago (1934). Former teacher in Chicago public grade schools; teacher in Tilden Technical High School, Chicago; Director of Choral Club and operettas, Tilden Technical High School. At present, Supervisor of Music, District 6, Chicago public schools. Author of: Range and Change in the Adolescent Boy Voice (1934). Address: 4642 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WILDE, EDWIN ERNEST—Organist, Pianist, Educator. Born in Calais, Me., 1887. Education: Brown University. Lecturer in Music, Brown University (7 years); Instructor, Columbia University Summer School (5 years). Organist, Choirmaster, Grace Church, White Plains. Address: 7 Greenridge Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

WILDERMANN, MARIA BERNADETTE—Pianist, Teacher. Born in Vienna, Austria. 1892. Education: Benedictine Academy; Vienna University; Royal Conservatory of Vienna; pupil of Leschetizky, Godowsky and Maurice Aronson. Debuts: European, Vienna (1908); American, Carnegie Hall, Pittsburgh (1914). Appearances: Tours in concert and recital throughout the United States and Europe. Founder and Director of the Wildermann Institute of Music. At present, concertizing throughout the east and western states. Author of: Illustrated Fundamentals for Instrumentalists and Singers; Illustrated Fundamentals of Memorizing; Illustrated Fundamentals of Rhythm; Expectations of Life. Address: 3242 Decatur Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

WILKS, NORMAN—Pianist, Teacher. Born in Birchington, England. Education: Conservatory of Brussels; pupil of Lamond, Schnabel, Breithaupt, Prout and Michael Hambourg. Degree: Hon. R.C.M., Royal College of Music, London. Appearances: Tours throughout Europe, Canada and the United States, in concert and recital. Radio: CBL, Toronto. Former member of staff of the Royal College of Music. Member of faculty, Toronto Conservatory of Music (since 1928); executive officer (since 1936). Member: Savage Club, Military Institute; Arts and Letters Club. Address: Toronto Conservatory of Music, Toronto, Canada.

WILLARD, CAROLYN—Pianist. Born in Erie, Pa. Education: Oberlin Conservatory; pupil of Ernst Jedliczka, Otto Boise, and Fanny Bloomfield-Zeisler. Degree: Mus. B., Oberlin Conservatory. Debut: Recital, Chicago. Appearances: Recitals in Aeolian and Steinway Halls, New York; Beethoven Saal, Berlin; London; soloist with Chicago and Detroit Symphony Orchestras; recitals throughout Michigan, for Federated Music Clubs. Former member of faculty, Bush Conservatory, Chicago; Battle Creek College. Conducts own studio in Battle Creek. Address: 149 Capitol Ave., N.E., Battle Creek, Mich.

WILLEKE, WILLEM—Violoncellist. Born in Holland, 1878. Education: The Hague Conservatory; pupil of Hartog. Appearances: As solo cellist, Riga Orchestra (1896); European tours; solo cellist, Leipzig Philharmonic (1901-03); Covent Garden; Royal Opera, Vienna. Former member of faculty, Duesseldorf Conservatory; member, Kneisel Quartet (1907-17); Founder and Cellist, Elshuco Trio. Director, Berkshire Music Colony, Pittsfield, Mass.; member of faculty, Juilliard Institute.

WILLIAMS, ALEXANDER—Music Critic. Born in Needham, Mass., 1909. Education: Harvard; Fontainebleau, France (piano). Degrees: A.B., Harvard (1931); A.M., Harvard (1932). Assistant Music and Dramatic Critic, Boston Herald (1933-34). Music Critic, Boston Herald (since 1934). Address: Boston Herald, Boston, Mass.

WILLIAMS, FREDERIC ARTHUR—Teacher of Piano. Born in Oberlin, Ohio, 1869. Education: Studied with Rogers, Smith, Clemens, and Sherwood. Compositions: Teaching material, Wrist and Forearm Studies and Octave and Chord Studies.

WILLIAMS, JEAN—Pianist, Soprano, Teacher. Born in England. Education: University of Chicago; Conservatory of Music, University of Toronto; St. Louis Institute of Music; pupil of Gottfried Galston, William Shakespeare, others. Appearances: In the United States. Former member of faculty, Toronto Conservatory (10 years); Supervisor of Music, Cleveland Public Schools; member of faculty, Progressive Teachers College, St. Louis. At present, conducts Williams-Tholen Studio, Portland, Ore.; Vice-President, Symphony Society of Portland Philharmonic Orchestra. Compositions: Tyrolean Dance, The Boys Are Marching, Indian Lullaby (Schirmer & Co., 1935). Author of: A Modern Method of Piano Instruction (Art Publication Society, 1932). Member: Oregon Music Teachers Association (State President); Music Teachers National Association. Address: 315 N. E. 41st Ave., Portland, Ore.

WILLIAMS, MAHLON—Clarinetist, Saxophonist. Born in Mancelona, Mich., 1886. Appearances: Honey Boy Minstrels, Neal O'Brien Minstrels, Barnum Show, Ringling Brothers; others. At present with Sunset Corner Symphony. Radio: WHO. Address: 701 Leland, Des Moines, Ia.

WILLIAMSON, ALIX B.—Writer, Editor, Publicity Director. Born in New York City, 1916. Education: Hunter College. Degree: A.B., Hunter (1935). Editor, New York Amusements (1935-36); Account Executive, Constance Hope Associates (1936-38); founded firm, Alix B. Williamson—Publicity, Promotion and Public Relations (1938). Head of firm (since 1938). Author of: Metropolitan Portraits, in Metropolitan Opera Program (1939-40); articles in periodicals. Member: Sigma Tau Delta. Address: 67 W. 44th St., New York City.

WILLIAMSON, JOHN FINLEY—Conductor. Born in Canton, Ohio, 1890. Education: Otterbein Conservatory of Music, Westerville, Ohio; Wooster University; pupil of David Bispham and Herbert Witherspoon. Degrees: Mus. D. (1928), LL.D. (1935), Otterbein College. Appearances: European tours. Founder, Conductor, President, Westminster Choir College (since 1926); Editor, Westminster Series (Schirmer, Inc.); Dean, Ithaca Conservatory. Address: Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J.

WILLITS, SCOTT ALLISON—Violinist, Teacher. Born in New Boston, Ill., 1896. Education: Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.; graduate, Metropolitan Conservatory, Chicago; pupil of Harry Dimon and Sevcik (four years). Sevcik's first American representative in America. Appearances: Concerts in Europe and principal cities of the United States. Taught at Ohio University and in New York. Faculty member, American Conservatory, Chicago. Teacher of Fritz Siegal, Herman Clebanoff, Ruth Rubinstein, Theodore Silavin, Frank Fiatarone, Sidney Miller. Address: 500 Kimball Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

WILLMAN, ALLAN ARTHUR—Composer, Pianist. Born in Hinckley, Ill., 1909. Education: Knox College Conservatory of Music, Chicago Musical College; pupil of Boulanger. Recipient of Paderewski Award (1935). Degree: Mus. M., Chicago Musical College. Former member of faculty, Chicago School of Music. Member of faculty, University of Wyoming. Compositions: Solitude, symphonic poem (1935); A Ballade of the Night, for string quartet; suite for violin and piano (1937); other works for orchestra and piano.

WILLMORE, ARTHUR—Concert Manager. Born in New York City. Former Manager, Wharf Theatre, Provincetown, Mass.; with concert firm, Berkhard & McFarlane, New York. Founded firm of Willmore and Powers, with Rhea Powers (1934).

WILLOUGHBY, WINIFRED D.—Supervisor. Born in St. Clair County, Ill., 1878. Education: Northwestern, Washington and Columbia Universities; Lieber Conservatory; pupil of Oliver Clark, Dudley Buck. Degrees: Mus. B. Ed., Northwestern; M.A., Teachers College, Columbia. Appearances: As director of a cappella choirs and church choirs. Supervisor of Musical Education, East St. Louis schools. Address: Board of Education, East St. Louis, Ill.

WILLSON, MEREDITH—Flutist, Conductor, Composer. Born in Mason City, Ia., 1902. Education: Damrosch Institute of Musical Art, New York; pupil of Bernard Wagenaar, Henry Hadley, Mortimer Wilson. Debuts: As flute soloist with John Philip Sousa (1921); as Conductor, with Seattle Symphony (1929); as composer-conductor, with San Francisco Symphony (1936). Appearances: On tour with Sousa (1919-22); solo flutist, New York Philharmonic, under Toscanini, Mengelberg, Furtwaengler, Riesenfeld, others (1925-29); Conductor, Seattle Symphony; others. Radio: With regional network in northwest; Musical Director, Western Division, NBC (1932-39). At present, Musical Director, "Good News of 1940," NBC. Compositions: Three symphonies; O. O. McIntyre Suite, Song of Steel, Radio City Suite; others (published by Fischer, Witmark, Robbins). Author of: What Every Young Musician Should Know (Robbins). Address: Chateau Elysee, 5930 Franklin Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

WILSON, GEORGE CLAY, JR.—Violinist, Violist, Conductor. Born in Champaign, Ill., 1908. Education: University of Illinois; Teachers College, Columbia University. Degrees: Mus. B., B.S., Illinois; M.A., Columbia. Appearances: Tucson Symphony Orchestra, University of Arizona Bands. Address: University of Arizona, Tucson, Ariz.

WILSON, HARLIE E.—Accompanist, Concert Manager. Born in Morrisville, Vt., 1896. Education: University of Vermont; also studied with private teachers. Radio: WCAX, CKAC, WQDM, WDEV. Organist, Methodist Church, Burlington (5 years); College St. Church (7 years); First Congregational Church (8 years). Pianist and Organist, Vermont State Symphony Orchestra. Maintains own studio and appears as accompanist. Member: Berkshire Symphonic Festival (Advisory Committee); Vermont State Symphony Orchestra (Board of Directors). Address: 54 Clarke St., Burlington.

WILSON, HARRY ROBERT—Conductor, Composer. Born in Salina, Kan., 1901. Education: Wichita College of Music; Kansas State College; Teachers College, Columbia University; Juilliard Graduate School; pupil of Rubin Goldmark (composition) and Albert Stoessel (conducting). Degrees: B.S., Kansas State College; M.A., Ed. D., Teachers College. Appearances: As Conductor, performance of The Messiah (1939). Radio: NBC; Vass Family and Hal Gordon programs. At present, Conductor of Teachers College Chorus; Director of Teachers College Singers; member of faculty, Teachers College. Compositions: Choral works and arrangements (published by Hall and McCreary, G. Schirmer, and Presser & Co.). Address: Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City.

WILSON, LLOYD H.—Vocalist, Saxophonist. Born in Darlington, Wis., 1899. Appearances: Leif Ericson Orchestra, Mae and Her Swing Billies, Darlington Firemens Band. Address: 332 S. Main St., Darlington, Wis.

WILSON, M. EMETT—Teacher, Organist. Born in Wisconsin, 1894. Education: University of Minnesota, University of Chicago and Ohio State University. Degrees: B.A., Minnesota; M.A., Chicago; Ph.D., Ohio State. Lecturing on music and music education (1940). Address: Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

WILSON, MURIEL—Soprano. Born in New York City. Education: Pupil of William H. Reiger. Appearances: Recitals and concerts throughout the middle west and New England; duet recitals with Fred Hufsmith, tenor. Radio: As Mary Lou in "Show Boat," NBC; other commercial and sustaining programs, NBC, CBS. Management: Willard Matthews, 333 E. 43rd St., New York City.

WILSON, MRS. R. WAYNE—Pianist, Teacher. Born in Camden, S. C., 1854. Education: Dalcroze Temple of Art, Dresden, Germany; attended classes of Leschetizky. Conducts piano studio in Atlanta (since 1871). Address: 1040 Peachtree St., N.E., Atlanta, Ga.

WILSON, ROGER C.—Composer, Editor. Born in Dayton, Ohio, 1912. Education: University of Southern California. Associate Editor, Lorenz Publishing Co. Compositions: Cantatas, operettas, organ works, anthems; arrangements. Address: Lorenz Publishing Co., Dayton, Ohio.

WILSON, WILLIAM LLEWELLYN—Organist, Choral Conductor. Born in Baltimore, Md., 1887. Education: Morgan College, Universities of Pennsylvania and Columbia; pupil of W. G. Owst, H. D. Phillips and others. Degree: A.B., Morgan College. Appearances: Concerts and organ recitals; as conductor of National Choral Symphony; Director of Music, Douglass High School, Calhoun and Baker Streets, Baltimore, Md.

WINDINGSTAD, OLE—Conductor. Born in Norway, 1886. Education: Oslo Conservatory, Leipzig Royal Conservatory. Decorated by King Hakon VII of Norway with Order of St. Olav (1929). Appearances: As conductor, Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra (1913-39), Carnegie Hall, New York, and Academy of Music, Brooklyn, N.Y.; United Scandinavian Singers and United Norwegian Singers of New York, tour of Norway (1926); Oslo Philharmonic (1923, 1926); Symphony Orchestra, Philadelphia Sesquicentennial Exposition (1926); Richard Wagner Symphony Orchestra of New York (1930); Brooklyn Symphony Orchestra (1930-32); Promenade Concert Symphony Orchestra at Mecca Auditorium, New York (1931); NBC Symphony Orchestra (1935); New York Civic Orchestra (1936); Long Island Little Symphony, Westchester Philharmonic and Brooklyn Symphony Orchestra (1937); Knickerbocker Symphony Orchestra, performances in upstate New York, including Albany, Troy, Poughkeepsie, Hudson, others (1937-39); Federal Symphony Orchestra of New York (1938); Metropolitan Opera Orchestra in Festival Concert to Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Norway, Metropolitan Opera House (1939); New York Civic Orchestra in concerts and broadcasts, including appearances at New York World's Fair (1939); New Orleans Symphony Orchestra (1939-40). At present Conductor, New Orleans Symphony Orchestra. Compositions: Symphonic works for orchestra. Contributor to Who Is Who In Music (1940-41 Edition). Address: 613 Common St., New Orleans, La.

WINDSOR, HELEN—Pianist. Born in Michigan, 1909. Education: Oberlin College Conservatory; Institute of Musical Art; in Germany. Degree: Mus. B., Oberlin College. Appearances: In Germany, Holland, England; Barbizon recitals (1931, 1932); others. Radio: WQXR, New York. At present, conducts studio in New York. Address: 66 E. 93rd St., New York City.

WINKLER, EMIL—Pianist. Born in Leipzig, Germany, 1866. Education: Royal Conservatory of Music, Leipzig; pupil of Richter, Reinecke, Schreck, Jadassohn, and others. Appearances: With Nashville Symphony Orchestra (1904); recitals at Willamette University (1895); Nashville University (1897); Ward Conservatory (1910); Ward-Belmont School of Music; Ebell Club, Los Angeles; Highland Park Conservatory of Music (1927-28). Compositions: Two Caprices; Theme and Variations; At the Seashore; Fantasie-Impromptu; Mazurka; Paraphrase on Motif from "Tristan and Isolde"; Dreams of Childhood, twelve progressive pieces; also violin and piano works. Address: 520 North Ave., 54, Los Angeles, Cal.

WINSTON, MARGARET GROVER—Mezzo-Soprano, Teacher. Born in Chicago, Ill. Education: Kemper Hall, St. Timothy's School and American Conservatory; voice with Van Grove, Lucie Lennox, Louise Gilbert, Elaine De Sellem, Zerline Muhlman Metzger, Chicago; D'Aubigny in Paris; also in Germany and Italy. Appearances: Concerts in Europe and the United States; Chicago World's Fair (1933); Kimball Hall (1940). Radio: As guest artist, WGN, Chicago. Compositions: April, Life and other songs. Address: Seneca Hotel, 200 E. Chestnut St., Chicago, Ill.

WINTER, ERNEST W.—Percussionist. Born in Melrose, Minn., 1905. Education: University of Minnesota. Member: St. Paul Musicians Association (President, 1940). Address: St. Paul Musicians Association, St. Paul, Minn.

WINTERS, EMMANUEL—Violinist. Born in Malmoe, Sweden, 1919. Education: Cornell University, Ithaca Conservatory. Degrees: A.B., LL.B., Cornell University. Appearances: Cornell Symphony, Wilkes-Barre Scranton Sinfonietta. Former member of Cornell String Quartet. Correspondent, Musical America; Columnist, Anthracite Tri-District News. Author of: The Becoming of Oswald Or Wake Up and Loaf. Member: Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Curia. Address: Deposit Savings Bank Bldg., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

WIRGES, BILL—Conductor, Arranger. Born in Buffalo, N. Y., 1900. Education: Pupil of John Lund, Mme. Leginska. Has conducted orchestral accompaniments to Al Jolson, Harry Richman, Belle Baker, Jessica Dragonette, Jane Froman, James Melton, George Jessel and others. Radio: WOR, NBC, CBS. Musical Director, Brunswick Recording Co. (1926-31); Musical Director, WFBM, Indianapolis. Compositions: Mississippi Lament, Valse Viennoise; works for piano; songs; also has arranged music for radio programs. Address: 22 W. 48th St., New York City.

WIRSEN, EDITH CLAUDIA—Soprano. Born in Eksjo, Sweden, 1882. Education: Sherwood Music School, Chicago; pupil of John Hall, Belle Forbes Cutter, Lara. Appearances: Concerts in Gothenburg and Stockholm, Sweden (1909, 1911, 1920); and tours of the United States in concert and recital. Compositions: Elegy (Wesley Webster), awarded first prize in Schubert Club contest (1934). At present, maintains own studio. Member: MacDowell Club, Europe Opera Reading Club, Pro Musica Schubert Club and National Federation of Music Associations. Address: 530 N. Orlando Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

WISE, B. FRED—Tenor, Teacher of Voice. Born in Winfield, Iowa, 1896. Education: Parsons College, University of Chicago, Northwestern University; pupil of James N. Dodge (theory); T. N. McBurner (voice); Dudley Buck; Trobadelo, Paris (voice); Edgar Nelson, Herman DeVries; also with coaches of Paris Opera-Comique. Degrees: B.M., Parsons College; Ph.B., University of Chicago. Appearances: Soloist with Chicago Symphony, Apollo Musical Club, Swedish Choral Club; recitals at the University of Mississippi, University of Chicago, University of Illinois, North Park College, and many music centers of the middle west. At present, member of faculty, American Conservatory, Chicago; Director of Music, International Convention of Disciples of Christ; Director of Music, University Church, Disciples of Christ, Chicago. Address: Kimball Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

WITMARK, ISIDORE—Music Publisher. Born in New York City, 1869. Address: 315 Central Park West, New York City.

WITTGENSTEIN, MILTON—Flutist. Born in New York City, 1900. Education: College of the City of New York; pupil of Georges Barrere. Founder and flutist of Oxford Ensemble. Radio: Staff member, CBS; performances on NBC, WABC, and WOR. Recordings: Two Mozart Quartet albums; J. C. Bach's Quartet for Flute and Strings (Musicraft, Decca). Address: 875 West End Ave., New York City.

WITTGENSTEIN, PAUL—Pianist. Born in Vienna, Austria, 1887. Education: Pupil of Leschetizky. Appearances: Concerts throughout Europe, the United States and Canada. At present, concertizing in the United States.

WITWER, KATHRYN—Soprano. Born in Coatesville, Pa. Education: De Young Studios; pupil of Richard De Young, Chicago; Frank La Forge, Oscar Seagle, Louis Bachner, New York; Marie Gutheil-Schoder, Salzburg; also studied in Paris. Winner of National Federation of Music Clubs Prize and National Opera Prize. Debuts: With Chicago Symphony Orchestra; operatic, with Chicago Opera Co. Appearances: Soloist with Cleveland Orchestra, Sokoloff conducting; soloist, Bach B minor Mass, Chicago Symphony, Stock conducting; American premiere performance of Holst chamber opera, Savitri, Kruger conducting. Annual tours of the United States (since 1928). At present, prima donna of the "Pageant of Melody," conducted by Henry Weber, WGN-MBS. Member: Arts Club, Cordon Club, Tri Kappa, Sigma Alpha Iota (national honorary member). Address: 721 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WITZEL, FRANK—Oboist, English Horn Player. Born in Amsterdam, N. Y., 1916. Education: Juilliard School of Music, New York City. Appearances: Good-will tour of Canada, with National Symphony (1938). At present, member of National Symphony Orchestra, Washington, D. C. Address: National Symphony Orchestra, Washington, D. C.

WOESSNER, JULIUS—Violinist, Conductor. Born in Lorrach, Germany, 1893. Appearances: Lowell Philharmonic Orchestra. Organizer, Director, Manager, Lowell Philharmonic (15 seasons). Address: 263 W. Merrimack St., Lowell, Mass.

WOHLMUTH, HANS T.—Teacher, Stage Director. Born in Vienna, 1900. Education: University of Vienna; pupil of Rainer Simons. Degree: Ph.D., University of Vienna. Appearances: Vienna Schoenbrunner Schlosstheater (1925); Reichenberg, C.S.R., Basel, Switzerland; Volksoper Vienna; Salzburg (1937). At present, Stage Director Philadelphia Opera Co.; member of faculty, Curtis Institute of Music. Address: Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, Pa.

WOLF, ARTUR—Teacher of Voice. Born in Russia, 1885. Debut: Vienna. Appearances: Germany and Austria. Former member of faculty, Vienna Conservatory. Title of Professor conferred by Austrian Government. At present, maintains own studios in New York and Philadelphia. Author of: Gymnastik des Gesangsapparates and Kritik der einseitigen Gesangsmethoden. Addresses: 716 Steinway Bldg., New York City; 207 Presser Bldg., 1714 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

WOLF, HANS—Conductor, Theorist. Born in Hamburg, 1912. Education: Universities of Hamburg and Vienna; New Vienna Conservatory; pupil of Heinrich Schenker. Degrees: Conductor's Diploma, New Vienna Conservatory; Ph.D., University of Vienna. American Debut: As Conductor of The Messiah, Oskaloosa, Ia. (1938). Appearances: As conductor of college choruses in performances throughout the middle west. Radio: WHO, Des Moines, and WSUI, Iowa City. Teacher of theory; Conductor of chorus, band, and orchestra, John Fletcher College. Address: John Fletcher College, Oskaloosa, Ia.

WOLFE, JAMES—Bass. Born in Riga, Latvia, 1890. Education: Riga Conservatorium; pupil of Ott, Vienna. Debuts: European, Riga Opera House (1906); American, Metropolitan Opera Co. (1923). Appearances: Tours with major opera companies throughout the United States and Europe. At present, member of the Metropolitan Opera Association. Address: Metropolitan Opera Association, New York City.

WOLFE, LILLIAN REZNIKOFF—Pianist, Clavichordist, Coach. Born in New York City, 1901. Education: Graduate, Juilliard Institute; Institute fuer Auslaender, Berlin (1929); pupil of Edwin Fischer, Walter Gieseking, Curt Sachs, and others. Collaborator with Reuven Kosakoff and Stella Nahum in compilation of Piano and Musicianship Courses, Music Study Method for Class and Individual Instruction (J. Fischer & Bro.). Conducts studios in Brooklyn and New York City. Addresses: 1379 Union St., Brooklyn, N. Y.; 113 W. 57th St., New York City.

WOLFES, FELIX—Pianist, Conductor. Born in Hannover, Germany. Education: Leipzig Conservatory, Strassbourg Conservatory; pupil of Max Reger, Hans Pfitzner. Appearances: Conductor, opera in Cologne, Mannheim, Frankfurt, Breslau, Essen, Dortmund, Monte Carlo; Konzertverein Munich; Sidney, Australia. Assistant Conductor, Metropolitan Opera House, New York City. Address: 228 W. 71st St., New York City.

WOLFF, ALBERT LOUIS—Conductor. Born in Paris, France, 1884. Education: Paris Conservatoire. Chorusmaster, Opéra-Comique; Conductor, French repertoire, Metropolitan Opera, New York (1919-21); Chief Conductor, Opéra-Comique (1922); Conductor, Concerts Lamoureaux (1928-34), and Conductor, Concerts Pasdeloup.

WOLFF, ERNST—Baritone. Born in Baden-Baden, Germany. Education: Hoch's Conservatory, Frankfort-am-Main (piano, conducting); pupil of Vittorino Moratti, Milan (voice); Johannes Willy, Frankfort (voice). Appearances: As pianist in concert, recital, and as accompanist, early in career; lieder recitals throughout Europe and the United States and Canada (since 1933). Brought to the United States by Max Reinhardt and Kurt Weill for role and musical assistant in Eternal Road (1935). Musical Director of Opera School at Hoch's Conservatory; Conductor, Frankfort-am-Main Opera House (1928-33); guest conductor, International Modern Chamber Music Festivals, under direction of Paul Hindemith, at Baden-Baden, and elsewhere in Europe; member and touring artist of Concert Project of the Association of American Colleges, New York. At present appearing in lieder recitals, New York (accompanying himself at the piano), and conducting master classes at universities and colleges; also concertizes in Europe. Recordings: Columbia. Addresses: Hotel Wellington, New York City; Villa Bella Vista, Lugano-Breganzona, Switzerland.

WOLFF, ERNST VICTOR—Pianist, Harpsichordist. Born in Berlin, 1898.

Education: University of Berlin, Harvard University; pupil of Philipp, Scharwenka. Degree: Ph.D. Appearances: With Schola Cantorum, New York; soloist with symphony orchestras in Europe and the United States; Boston Symphony, Koussevitzky conducting. Boston and New York. Radio: With Alfred Wallenstein, WOR, New York. Recordings: Piano and harpsichord solos, ensemble recordings (Columbia, Gamut, Musicraft, U. S. Records). Address: 257 W. 86th St., New York City.

WOLFF, WERNER—Conductor, Teacher, Writer on Music. Born in 1883. Conductor, Hamburg Staatsoper (1917-32); Conductor, Italy. Compositions: Chamber works and songs. At present, concertizing in the United States.

WOLF-FERRARI, ERMANNO—Composer, Teacher. Born in Venice, Italy, 1876. Education: Pupil of Rheinberger. Director, Liceo Benedetto Marcello, Venice (1902-07). Compositions: La Sulamite, for soli, chorus and orchestra (1899); Rispetti, for soprano and piano; Le donne curiose (1902), The Secret of Susanne (1909), The Jewels of the Madonna (1912), L'Amore Medico (1913), Il Campiello (1935), operas; other works for the theatre, chorus and orchestra; chamber music.

WOLFFERS, HARRIETTE—Violinist. Born in Boston, Mass. Education: Juilliard Institute; pupil of Felix Winternitz in Boston, Auer and Toscha Seidel. Appearances: Recitals and concerts throughout the United States and Europe; violin and piano recital with husband, Jules Wolffers in Town Hall, New York; other joint recitals in New York and Boston. Management: Willard Matthews, 333 E. 43rd St., New York City.

WOLFFERS, JULES—Pianist. Born in Antwerp, Belgium. Education: Pupil of David Levine, London, Julia Aerts, Brussels, Hans Ebell, Boston, (piano); Otto Straub, Hugo Leichtentritt, Boston (theory), and Henry Gideon (organ, choral conducting). Appearances: Recitals and concerts in England, and New England states; joint violin and piano recitals with his wife, Harriette Wolffers. Management: Willard Matthews, 333 E. 43rd St., New York City.

WOLPE, STEFAN—Composer. Born in Berlin, Germany, 1902. Education: Pupil of Richter, Taubman, and Juon. At present teaching and composing in New York. Compositions: Schöne Geschichten, and other operas; The Passion of a Man, On the Education of a Man, and The Prophets, oratorios; Andante for piano; Two Fables; Four pieces on Grundtonreihen; Nonett; Sonata for Oboe and Piano; Song of Songs, for alto, piano, and instrumental obbligati; two Chinese Epitaphs, Four Songs after the Prophet Micah; a Dance Symphony, for orchestra; Jeremiah, for singing and speaking voice and piano; settings for Sixty-fourth Psalm and Thirty-fifth Chapter of Isaiah; cantata for chorus, solo and orchestra.

WOLTMANN, FREDERICK—Composer. Born in Flushing, N. Y., 1908. Education: Eastman School of Music; MacDowell Colony; American Academy, Rome. Recipient of Juilliard Fellowship (1937). Compositions: Song of the Forest Dweller (1932); Rhapsody, for horn and orchestra (1935); The Pool of Pegasus, tone poem (1937); Songs for Autumn, for baritone, soprano and orchestra (1937); other works for orchestra; chamber music.

WOOD, ANNABELLE—Teacher of Piano. Born in Gloversville, N. Y. Education: Graduate, American Institute of Applied Music, New York; Tobias Matthay Pianoforte School, London; Harold Bauer Master Classes, New York; pupil of Kate S. Chittenden and Tobias Matthay. Former member of faculty, American Institute of Applied music. Annual judge, Music Education League contests, New York. Director and Head of Piano Department, Hartley House Music School, New York; Director, Normal School for Piano Teachers, New York; instructor in piano, Vassar College. Member: American Matthay Association. Address: The Osborne, 205 W. 57th St., New York City.

WOOD, BARRY—Singer, Saxophonist. Education: Yale University. Radio: With "Your Hit Parade," CBS. Address: Columbia Broadcasting Company, 485 Madison Ave., New York City.

WOOD, CARL PAIGE—Composer, Organist. Born in Taunton, Mass., 1885. Education: Harvard University, Northeastern Conservatory. Degrees: A.B., A.M., Harvard. Director, School of Music, University of Washington. Compositions: Serenade (Boston M. C.); Lads of Liège, Canzonetta (H. W. Gray); Postlude, and Abide With Me (Ditson). Author of: The Texture of Music (Bruce Humphries Inc.); Ear Tests in Harmony (American Book Co.). Address: University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.

WOOD, MARY KNIGHT—Pianist, Composer. Born in Easthampton, Mass., 1857. Education: Pupil of Lang, Parsons, Cornell and Huss. Compositions: Songs.

WOOD, RUSSELL A.—Composer, Teacher of Voice, Arranger. Born in Lansing, Mich., 1912. Education: Hans Wilde Conservatory, Lansing. Former member of faculty, Detroit Conservtory. Radio: Arranger for orchestral and choral groups, WXYZ and WWJ. At present member of voice faculty, Central Y.M.C.A. College, Chicago. Teacher of Ray Charles, Judy Miller, Norman Luboff, and others. Compositions: Piano sonata; Studies in Rhythm for Piano; songs, on text by Beaudelaire; violin sonata; Phantasy, for oboe and piano; others. Address: 1234 Kimball Hall, Chicago, Ill.

WOOD, SIR HENRY JOSEPH—Conductor. Born in London, England, 1869. Education: Royal Academy of Music; pupil of Prout and Garcia. Degree: Hon. Mus. D., Oxford University. Appearances: As conductor, various opera groups; festivals and choral groups throughout England; Conductor, Promenade Concerts; Nottingham City Orchestra; Liverpool Philharmonic; International Society of Contemporary Music Festival, Zurich (1921); Wiesbaden (1925); California. Member of faculty, Royal Academy of Music (since 1923).

WOODBURY, "BY"—Woodwind Player, Conductor (Popular). Born in Salt Lake City, Utah, 1908. Education: Basle Conservatory of Music, McCune School of Music. Appearances: Orpheum Theatre, Salt Lake City. Radio: NBC; KDYL, Salt Lake City. At present, conducts own orchestra (Woodbury's Orchestra). Compositions: By the By (Paramount, 1940). Address: KDYL Playhouse, First S. and Second E., Salt Lake City, Utah.

WOODBURY, FRANCES MARION—Violinist. Born in South Portland, Me., 1912. Education: American Conservatory, Fontainebleau, France; pupil of Hewitt, Pascal, Bazelaire, Morel, Boulanger and Guidi. Debuts: American, Concert in Mars Hill, Me. (1920); European, soloist at Salle Faure, Fontainebleau, France (1934). Appearances: Concerts in Brunswick, Augusta, Lewiston, Providence, West Newton, Bronxville, Fontainebleau, and others. At present, violinist in Portland Concert Trio. Member: The Portland Rossini Club, and Marston Club. Address: 24 Tremont St., Portland, Me.

WOODBURY, MAX ST. CLAIR—Trumpet Player, Teacher. Born in Ogden, Utah, 1907. Appearances: Indianapolis Symphony; Cleveland Orchestra (1929-34). Trumpet instructor, Indiana University; Cleveland Settlement School (1931-33). Address: Murat Theatre, Indianapolis, Ind.

WOODMAN, RAYMOND HUNTINGTON—Organist, Composer. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1861. Education: College of the City of New York; pupil of Dudley Buck and Cesar Franck. Degree: F.A.G.O. Appearances: Organ recitals at Chicago World's Fair (1892-93). Organist of First Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn (40 years); former member of faculties of Packer Institute and Master School of Music; Editor, Church Music Department, New York Evangelist; Head of Music Section, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. Compositions: Cantatas, anthems, works for piano, songs (published by G. Schirmer, Oliver Ditson, H. W. Gray, A. P. Schmidt Co.). Member: Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences; A.G.O. Address: 131 Hicks St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WOODSIDE, LULA B.—Pianist, Harpist. Born in Baton Rouge, La. Education: Belhaven College; pupil of W. B. Clark, Elizabeth D. Giltner. Member: National Federation of Music Clubs (Member of Board); South Carolina Music Teachers Association (Charter Member); Music Forum of Greenville (Vice-President); others. Address: 113 Crescent Ave., Greenville, S. C.

WORK, JOHN WESLEY—Composer, Teacher. Born in Tallahoma, Tenn., 1901. Education: Fisk University, Columbia University, Juilliard Institute and Yale University. Degree: A.B., Fisk University; Mus. B., Yale University; M. A., Columbia University. Member of faculty, Fisk University. Compositions: Choral Music. Address: Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.

WORTH, MAYNARD—Baritone. Born in Chicago, Ill., 1921. Education: De Paul University; pupil of Marjorie Montell. Appearances: As soloist with nationally known bands, Grant Park Summer Concerts, Chicago. Winner of radio vocal contests. Radio: As soloist and in dramatic sketches. Now on tour as soloist in summer concerts. Management: Concerts Bureau of America, Inc., 45 W. 57th St., New York City.

WORTHINGTON, FLOYD—Baritone. Born in St. Joseph, Mo. Education: Missouri State Teachers' College; Juilliard Music School. Winner, Atwater Kent District Award (1930). Appearances: Juilliard Opera Performances; Cosmopolitan Opera Co.; New York Madrigal Society (by competition); National Music League; Chautauqua Opera Co.; New York Oratorio Society and Schola Cantorum. Radio: Guest artist, Radio City Music Hall, NBC.

WREN, LORNA—Flutist. Born in Orlando, Cal., 1915. Education: University of California, Susquehanna University, Juilliard Institute and Juilliard Graduate School. Degree: Diploma, Juilliard Institute. Debut: With Orchestrette Classique, Carnegie Hall (1937). Appearances: Soloist, with

Nassau Philharmonic Society (1939); tours throughout the United States in concert and recital. At present, first flutist, "Hour of Charm" program, NBC. Member: Phi Beta National Fraternity of Music and Dramatic Art; Nassau Philharmonic Society and Susquehanna Symphonic Society. Address: 536 W. 113th St., New York City.

WRIGHT, EDYTHE—Vocalist. Born in Highland Park, N. J., 1916. Education: New Jersey College, New Brunswick, N. J. Appearances: With Frank Daly's dance orchestra; tours of the United States with Tommy Dorsey's orchestra. Radio: With Tommy Dorsey's orchestra, NBC.

WRIGHT, LAURA MAE—Soprano, Teacher. Born in Huntsville, Ala. Education: Cincinnati Conservatory; pupil of Don Biddoe, Howard Brown and Frank La Forge. At present, member of faculty, Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. Address: Cincinnati Conservatory, Cincinnati, Ohio.

WRIGHT, NORMAN S.—Composer, Organist, Choir Director. Born in Moorhead, Minn., 1905. Education: Dakota Conservatory of Music; Concordia College; Sorbonne, Paris; pupil of Marcel Dupre (organ); Noel Gallon and E. Robert Schmitz (piano), Jeanne Herschmer-Clement, Ravel, Respighi, DeFalla (composition). Appearances: Soloist, Gaumont Palace and Paramount Theatres, Paris (1926-29). Radio: NBC, CBS. At present, Choir Director and Organist, First Methodist Church, Hollywood, Cal. Compositions: Twenty-Third Psalm (Carl Fischer, Inc., 1937); Tired Cowboy, (Willis Pub. Co., 1938); music for David The Shepherd Boy Who Became King, New York Centennial Pageant (1934); Cleveland Centennial Pageant (1936); works for piano, strings and voice. Recordings: Popular and ballad organ solos (Pathe, Paris, 1926-1929). Member: Authors Club. Address: First Methodist Church, Hollywood, Cal.

WURLITZER, RUDOLPH H.—Manufacturer of Musical Instruments. Born in Cincinnati, O., 1873. Degree: Hon. Ph.D., University of Berlin. At present, Chairman of Board, Rudolph Wurlitzer Company. Member: Beethoven Association, New York. Address: 121 E. 4th St., Cincinnati, O.

WYCKOFF, LEAH EHRICH—Teacher of Piano and Voice. Born in New York. Education: Pupil of Rubin Goldmark, William Sherwood. Has lectured on history of music. At present, conducts own studio in New York. Address: 45 E. 55th St., New York City.

WYNN, NAN—Singer. Born in West Virginia, 1919. Appearances: Theatres and motion pictures; at night clubs with Hal Kemp. Radio: At present, in "Concert in Rhythm" program. Address: Columbia Broadcasting System, 485 Madison Ave., New York City.

WYSOR, ELIZABETH—Contralto. Born in Easton, Pa., 1912. Education: Juilliard Graduate School; Staatliche Akademie der Tonkunst, Munich; pupil of Paul Bender and Margarete Matzenauer. Debuts: In concert, Town Hall, New York (1935); in opera, as Fricka in "Die Walkuere" with Cincinnati Symphony (1935). Appearances: Soloist with Boston Symphony (six times, 1935); Toronto Symphony (1938); Chicago Symphony and Philadelphia Orchestra (1939); Cincinnati May Festival (1937); North Shore Festival (1939); Ann Arbor Festival (1939); American Society of Ancient Instruments, Philadelphia (1936-37-38); Washington Opera Co. and Cincinnati Summer Opera (1939); Town Hall recitals (1935, 1937-38); recital tours of the United States and Canada; radio broadcasts. Compositions: Songs: Norse Lullaby, Gifts, Fifteenth Century Carol, Remembrance, Weary the Cry of the Wind; also arrangements. Member: League of American Pen Women, Lehigh Valley Vocal Teachers Association. Address: Hotel Ansonia, New York City. Management: Columbia Concerts Corporation, 113 W. 57th St., New York City.

Y

YALKOVSKY, ISABELLE—Pianist. Born in Philadelphia, Pa., 1907. Education: Studied in Chicago; Juilliard Graduate School; pupil of Olga Samaroff. Debut: With New York Philharmonic-Symphony (1929). Appearances: In concert and with orchestras throughout the United States.

YANOVA, NAOMI—Pianist. Born in Toronto, Canada, 1908. Education: Hambourg Conservatory, Toronto; Toronto Conservatory of Music; Parkdale Collegiate Institute and University of Toronto; pupil of Paul Wells, Mona Bates. Debut: In duo-piano recital with Etta Coles, Barbizon-Plaza Concert Hall, New York (1934). Appearances: Soloist with Etta Coles; Rochester Civic, Buffalo, Montreal and Toronto Symphonies; two-piano recitals. Radio: Soloist with CBC String Orchestra; two-piano recitals; NBC. Management: George Mitford Limited, 68 King St. East, Toronto, Canada.

YATES, BILLY—Orchestra Leader (Popular), Vocalist. Appearances: With band at The Willows, The Show Boat, and The Pines, Pittsburgh; Castle Farm, Cincinnati; Edgewood Club, Albany, N. Y.; Bangor Cave Club, Birmingham, Ala.; Chez Ami, Buffalo; El Tivoli, Dallas; Coronado, Houston, and Blue Moon, Wichita, Kan. Radio: Vocalist, "Lucky Strike Dance Hour," Ethel Shutta-Walter O'Keefe program and with Jack Benny, NBC. Management: Stanford Zucker, 501 Madison Ave., New York City.

YEISER, FREDERICK—Music Critic. Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, 1898. Education: Princeton University; Cincinnati Conservatory; pupil of Louis Saverne, George Leighton; Egon Wellesz, Vienna; H. J. W. Tillyard, Cardiff, South Wales. Music Critic of the Cincinnati Enquirer; correspondent for Musical America. Address: The Cincinnati Enquirer, Cincinnati, Ohio.

YINGLING, ROBERT WRIGHT—Tenor, Choral Conductor. Born in Old Fort, O., 1900. Education: North Central College, Ill.; Oberlin College; Gunn School, Chicago; Lamont School, Denver; University of Kansas and University of Wisconsin; pupil of William Shakespeare (voice). Degrees: B.A., North Central College; M.A., Oberlin. Radio: KDKA, Pittsburgh. At present with Town and Gown Choral Society, Storrs, Conn.; Director, University of Connecticut Glee Club. Address: University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn.

YON, PIETRO—Organist, Composer. Born in Piedmont, Italy. Education: Royal Conservatories of Milan and Turin; Academy of St. Cecilia in Rome; pupil of R. Renzi (organ), A. Bustini and G. Sgambati (piano), and C. de Sanctis (composition). King Victor Emanuel of Italy conferred upon him the honor of knighthood and later the title of Officer of the Crown of Italy; made Knight of St. Sylvester by Pope Pius XI (1936). Debut: As substitute organist at the Vatican and the Academy of St. Cecilia (special prize medal by the Italian Minister of Public Instruction). Appointed Organist and Choirmaster of the Church of St. Francis Xavier, New York (1907); Honorary Organist of the Vatican (1921); Organist and Music Director of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York (1926). Compositions: Choral works, songs; piano, organ and orchestral works. Contributor, Who Is Who In Music (1940-41 Edition). Address: Institute of Concert Virtuosi, 852 Carnegie Hall, New York City.

YORK, FRANCIS L.—Organist, Editor, Composer. Born in Ontonagon, Mich., 1861. Education: University of Michigan; pupil of Guilmant in Paris. Appearances: Organ recitals throughout the United States. Member of faculty, University of Michigan School of Music (1892-96); State Normal School, Ypsilanti (1895-1902); President, Detroit Conservatory (1902-27). Chairman of Board, Detroit Institute of Musical Art (since 1927). Compositions: The Inca, comic opera; Spring Song, for organ; church music, transcriptions. Author of: Harmony Simplified, Counterpoint Simplified; Report on Music Schools in America, for the French Government (1905); articles for various periodicals. Editor of: Schirmer Library. Member: Detroit Orchestral Association, The Bohemians, Pro Musica and Michigan Composers Club. Address: 52 Putnam, Detroit, Mich.

YOST, DIXIE—Pianist, Teacher, Author. Born in Eastland, Texas, 1899. Education: Phoenix Junior College, New Mexico State Teachers College and University of Arizona. Appearances: Recitals in Prescott, Yuma, Tucson and elsewhere in Arizona. Radio: KOY, Phoenix. At present, teaching in Phoenix; Music Critic, Phoenix Gazette. Member: Phoenix Piano Teachers Association (Founder, with Bertha Kirkland); Musicians Club of Phoenix. Address: 1338 W. Roosevelt, Phoenix, Ariz.

YOUNG, MOZELLE HORTON—Pianist. Born in Senoia, Ga., 1906. Education: Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C.; Chicago Musical College; pupil of William C. Mayfarth, Converse; Hugh Hodgson, Atlanta; Rudolph Ganz, Chicago. Degree: Mus.B., Converse. Appearances: Piano recital, Converse College (1927); concerts throughout Georgia; concert, Piedmont Driving Club, Atlanta (1939). Music Editor, Atlanta Constitution (since 1931). At present, conducts own studio in Atlanta; Assistant Organist, St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Atlanta. Member: Atlanta Music Club; A.G.O.; Atlanta Young Artists Club (Program Chairman, 1938-40). Address: 712 Loews Grand Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

YOUNG, VICTOR—Pianist, Composer. Born in Bristol, Tenn. Education: College of Music, Cincinnati; New York University; pupil of Pomer Corno, Louis Saar and others. Debut: As soloist with Russian Symphony Orchestra, New York; recital, St. Georges Hall, Liverpool, England. Appearances: Tours of the United States as soloist and accompanist. Former Director, Thomas A. Edison phonograph activities. Compositions: Scherzetto, for orchestra; operettas and songs (published by Presser, Schirmer, Willis and others); children's songs in World of Music, textbook (Ginn & Co.). Member: ASCAP and Edison Pioneers. Address: 41 W. 54th St., New York City.

YOUNG, WILLARD—Tenor. Born in Brookline, Mass. Education: Curtis Institute, Philadelphia, and Juilliard Graduate School. Appearances: Concerts and recitals throughout eastern and southern states; with Chautauqua Opera. Radio: "Beauty Box Operettas," Colgate Hour, others, NBC. Management: Willard Matthews, 333 E. 43rd St., New York City.

YOUNGDAHL, CARL R.—Organist, Choral Director. Born in Wisconsin, 1887. Education: Gustavus Adolphus College; Chicago Musical College. Degrees: M.M., Mus.D., Chicago Musical College. Appearances: With Augustana College A Cappella Choir, concerts throughout the United States, including New York, Chicago, Boston, Washington, Cleveland, Omaha, Seattle, Baltimore, others. Director of Augustana College Choir, Sioux Falls, S. D. (since 1921). Compositions: Choral numbers (published by Augsburg Publishing House, Minneapolis, and by Kama Co., Chicago, 1939-40). Address: Augustana College, Sioux Falls, S. D.

YOUNGFELT, FREDRIC SEWARD—Theorist. Born in Omaha, Neb., 1897. Education: Sherwood Music School; pupil of Clarence Eidam, Leo Podolsky, Leon Rosenbloom, Rossetter Cole and Walter Keller. Degree: M.M., Sherwood Music School. At present, Head of Theory Department, Sherwood Music School. Compositions: Two scherzos; Pastoral Suite, for orchestra; Quintet, for oboe and strings; Fantasie, for two pianos; songs and piano pieces. Address: 410 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

YVETTE—Vocalist. Born in Alabama, 1923. Education: Sacred Heart of Mary Convent, Louisiana; pupil of her father. Sings French and Creole songs. Radio: Staff artist, NBC. Appeared in Paramount "short," Have You Met Yvette? Address: 350 W. 85th St., New York City.

Z

ZADOR, EUGENE—Composer, Teacher. Born in Bataszek, Hungary, 1895. Education: Vienna Conservatory of Music, Leipzig Conservatory; pupil of Reger, Schering, Volbach; others. Degree: Ph.D. Appearances: Throughout Europe. Former Dean of Vienna Conservatory, Professor at Academy of Music in Budapest. Winner, Grand Hungarian State Prize for Chamber Music, others. Compositions: Operas, Ballet, symphonic music, songs, others. Address: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Culver City, Cal.

ZADORA, MICHAEL—Pianist, Composer, Teacher. Born in New York City, 1882. Education: Paris Conservatoire; pupil of Busoni and Leschetizky. Appearances: Throughout Europe and the United States, in recitals and concerts. Teacher of master-class, Lemberg Conservatory (1911-12); Professor, Juilliard School of Music, New York (1913-14); other master classes in European and American music centers. Compositions: Kirgish Sketches, and Preludes, for piano; arrangements for piano of organ and violin works. Member: Busoni Society (Founder). At present, teaching, composing and on tour throughout the United States. Address: 323 W. 74th St., New York City.

ZADRI-GALILIT, HANNAH—Soprano. Born in Lutzke, Poland. Education: Conservatory of Vienna, Austria; pupil of Artur Wolf. Debut: Soloist with symphony orchestra, Vienna. Appearances: In recital, Poland, Paris, Palestine; Chicago and New York. Address: 335 W. 71st St., New York City.

ZADRI, NICOLAS—Violinist, Teacher. Born in Russia, 1893. Education: Conservatories of Odessa and Petersburg, Russia; Royal Academy of Music, Vienna. Received First Prize, Imperial Academy of Music, Vienna. Appearances: Soloist with Orchestre Symphonique de Paris, Pierre Monteux, Director; Orchestre Colonne, Albert Wolff, Director; Orchestre Symphonique de Jassy, Bucharest, Weingartner and Nedbal, Directors; State Orchestra of Odessa, Glazounow, Director; also appeared with symphony orchestras of Holland, Poland, Belgium, Greece, and Palestine; Town Hall, New York. Professor, State Conservatory of Rumania (1920-24), and State Conservatory of Athens, Greece (1924-28). Director, Institute of Music, Jerusalem. Address: 335 W. 71st St., New York City.

ZAHLER, LEE—Pianist, Composer. Born in New York City. Compositions: Motion picture background music, for more than 1000 photoplays. Address: 121 S. Mt. Trail, Sierra Madre, Cal.

ZAKIN, ALEXANDER—Pianist. Education: Hochschule fuer Musik, Berlin. Member of First Piano Quartet (since 1928). Appearances: With Quartet, throughout Europe and the United States. Personal Representative: Savely S. Sheftel, 209 W. 104th St., New York City.

ZANDER, LOUIS—Violinist, Teacher, Conductor. Born in the United States. Education: Pupil of Earl Drake, Leopold Auer. Concertmaster, Abom Opera Co.; introduced Children's and Artist's Concerts at World's Fair, Chicago. Address: 645 Forest Ave., Glen Ellyn, Ill.

ZARING, IRENE BELDEN—Organist. Born in Illinois. Education: Whitman College, Lindenwood College and Northwestern University; pupil of Peter C. Lutkin, Walter Spry, Clarence Eddy, Felix Borowski and others. Former Organist and Director of New England Congregational Church and Church of Holy Comforter, Episcopal. At present teaching at evening public high school; Organist, Third Church of Christ Scientist, Chicago. Member: Mu Phi Epsilon; A. G. O.; Chicago Club of Women Organists; Cameo Salon of Chicago. Address: 4308 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ZASLAWSKY, GEORGES—Conductor. Born in Russia. Debut: As conductor (1908). Appearances: Guest conductor, Paris, Prague and Berlin. Founded Filarmonica Conservatory, Russia; Organizer, Beethoven Symphony, New York.

ZAWISZO, LEON—Violinist. Born in Camden, N. J., 1915. Degree: Mus.B., Curtis Institute. Appearances: Concertmaster of Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra. Formerly member of Minneapolis Orchestra, Cleveland Orchestra. Address: 1550 Louis St., Camden, N. J.

ZEBRANSKA, ELSA—Mezzo-Soprano. Born in Riga, Latvia. Education: Riga Conservatory; Ecole Normale, Paris. Debut: With Chaliapin Opera Company, Theatre des Champs Elysees, Paris (1929). Appearances: In opera in Belgium, Sweden, France, Finland, Spain, and England. Former member, Chaliapin Opera Company. At present, member, Metropolitan Opera Company. Address: Metropolitan Opera Association, Inc., Metropolitan Opera House, New York City.

ZECH, FREDERICK—Pianist, Conductor. Born in Philadelphia, Pa., 1858. Education: Studied in San Francisco and in Berlin. Former teacher of piano, Berlin and San Francisco.

ZENATELLO, GIOVANNI—Tenor. Born in Verona, Italy, 1876. Education: Milan; pupil of Moretti. Debut: Manhattan Opera House, New York (1907). Appearances: La Scala, Milan; Covent Garden, London; Boston Opera, Chicago Opera.

ZENTAY, MARY—Violinist. Born in Budapest, Hungary, 1897. Education: Budapest; pupil of Hubay and Sabathiel. Debuts: European, Budapest (1910); American (1915). Appearances: London (1914); with Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, as soloist; tours of Hungary and England.

ZEPPILLI, ALICE—Soprano, Teacher. Born in Menton, France, 1890. Debut: Monte Carlo. Appearances: Chicago Opera Co., Metropolitan Opera House, others. Teacher (since 1938). Recordings: Columbia. Address: 319 W. 46th St., New York City.

ZERFFI, WILLIAM A. C.—Baritone, Teacher. Born in Bredbury, England, 1887. Debut: Berlin (1913). Author of: Functional Vocal Disabilities, pamphlet; articles for musical periodicals. At present, teacher of voice, National Hospital for Speech Disorders, New York City. Address: 31 W. 84th St., New York City.

ZIEGLER, EDWARD—Critic, Manager. Born in Baltimore, Md., 1870. Education: Zion School and Friends School, Baltimore. Music Critic, New York World (1901-07) and New York Herald (1907-16); associated with Metropolitan Opera (1916). Assistant General Manager, Metropolitan Opera Association, New York.

ZIEGLER, M. PAUL—Organist, Teacher, Choral Director. Education: University, Berlin; Royal High School of Music. Former Director, Conservatory of Music, Bromberg, Posen; former member of faculty, New York Grand Conservatory of Music; Organist and Musical Director, various churches in New York and Pittsburgh; Director of singing societies. Compositions: Works for piano, organ and voice. Address: Woodstock, N. Y.

ZIMBALIST, EFREM—Violinist, Composer, Conductor. Born in Rostov-on-Don, Russia, 1889. Education: St. Petersburg Conservatory; pupil of his father and Auer. Debuts: European, soloist with Berlin Philharmonic (1907); American, soloist with Boston Symphony (1911). Appearances: In concert and recital throughout Europe and the United States. Head of Violin Department, Curtis Institute. Compositions: American Rhapsody for orchestra; Sonata for Violin and Piano; Symphonic Tone Poem, Daphnis and Chloe; Slavic Dances, for Violin and Piano; String Quartet; others. Address: Curtis Institute, Rittenhouse Square, Philadelphia, Pa. Management: NBC Artists' Service, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City.

ZIMMER, EDWARD—Composer, Conductor. Born in New York City, 1893. Education: Barnard School; New York University; Institute of Musical Art. Degrees: B.S., New York University (1915); M.A., New York University (1931). Music Critic, World Court magazine (1915-17). At present, Conductor, West Chester Civic Symphony. Compositions: Great Smoky, Night Witchery, Ships, tone poems for orchestra; Kubla Khan, for tenor and orchestra (1940); Saga Overture, for band

(all published by Elkan-Vogel Co., Inc.); arrangements and transcriptions. Address: West Chester State Teachers College, West Chester, Pa.

ZIMMER, NELLIE—Harpist. Born in Newark Valley, N. Y., 1899. Education: Pupil of Van Veachton Rogers; Henriette Renié, Paris. Debut: With Zimmer Harp Trio, Aeolian Hall, New York (1926). Appearances: Soloist, Fitchburg (Mass.) Choral Club (1939); Klifa Club, Burlington, Vt. (1939); Orpheus Ensemble, Jordan Hall, with Boston College Glee Club. At present concertizing throughout the United States. Recordings: Aeolian, Victor. Member: Woman's Symphony Society of Boston. Address: 98 Hemenway St., Boston, Mass.

ZIMMERMAN, WALTER—Composer, Organist. Born in New Glarus, Wis., 1895. Education: Dubuque, Ia., and Chicago, Ill.; pupil of Dunham, Delamarter. Plays with Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Compositions: St. Cecilia Serves (H. W. Gray Co.). Address: 220 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ZIRATO, BRUNO—Concert Manager. Born in Reggio, Calabria, Italy. Education: Royal Institute of Rome, Italy. Secretary to Enrico Caruso (1915-21); Business Manager, Musical Digest (1921-26); manager of artists (1926-30). Assistant Manager of Philharmonic Symphony Society of New York (since 1930); Assistant to President of Columbia Concerts Corporation (since 1938). Address: 113 W. 57th. St., New York City.

ZOBEL, ROY—Tenor. Born in Chicago, Ill. Education: Studied in Italy. Debuts: European, in Madame Butterfly at Teatro Filodrammatico (1936); American, concert, Kimball Hall, Chicago (1934). Appearances: Services at Temple Sholom, Chicago (1939); tours with leading opera companies throughout the United States and Europe. Radio: With "The Northerners," WGN. At present, soloist, Baptist Church of Evanston; member of trio, "Millionairs," appearing at clubs, in concerts and recitals. Address: 5929 W. Walton St., Chicago, Ill.

ZOELLNER, JOSEPH—Violinist, Teacher. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1862. Education: Studied in New York and Dresden. Appearances: In recitals; tours of the United States with Zoellner Quartet. Taught in Brooklyn (1882-1903); Brussels (1907-12). Founder, Zoellner Conservatory, Los Angeles (1922).

ZORN, RAY H.—Author. Born in Troy Grove, Ill., 1910. Education: North Central College, Naperville, Ill. At present, Manager, Rayco Publications; Editor, The Tunesmith. Compositions: Sho', Ah Knows, and Honey, Come Out From Thar! (in Star Collection of Home Songs, United Music Publishers, 1939). Author of: A Guide to the Music Publishers (Rayco). Address: Rayco Publications, P. O. Box 626, Troy Grove, Ill.

ZOTTOLA, FRANK—Trumpet Player. Born in Stamford, Conn., 1916. Education: New York. Appearances: Columbia University Orchestra, Frankie Arch Orchestra, Nat Rhads Orchestra, others. Address: 301 Bruce Park Ave., Greenwich, Conn.

ZUCH, ANNETT V.—Pianist. Born in Austria. Education: Vienna Conservatory of Music; pupil of Richard Singer, Godowsky and Theopold Wendt. At present, conducts choral groups, teaching. Author of: Piano Teacher (1940). Address: 123 Carnegie Hall, New York City.

ZUIDEMA, ALLE D.—Organist. Born in Holland, Mich. Education: Detroit Conservatory of Music, Chicago Musical College, Peabody Institute and Belgian Carillon School. Degree: Mus.D., Detroit Conservatory. Appearances: Organ recitals. Former Organist, Preston Methodist, Church of Our Father, Temple Beth El; others. Editor, The Clef, Kansas City. At present, Organist and Carilloneur, Jefferson Ave. Presbyterian Church, Detroit. Address: 52 Putnam, Detroit, Mich.

ZURKE, BOB—Pianist, Conductor (Popular). Born in Detroit, Mich. Appearances: With Oliver Naylor's Orchestra; with Jean Goldkette, Joe Venuti, Seymour Simon, Mike Falk and Bob Crosby. At present, leads own orchestra. Selected as "All-American Piano Player" by Paul Whiteman. Management: William Morris Agency, 1270 Sixth Ave., New York City.

ZWEIG, FRITZ—Conductor. Born in Olmuetz, Germany, 1893. Education: Pupil of Schoenberg. Appearances: As guest conductor, Moscow (1934), Leningrad (1934), Paris Opera-Comique (1935), Covent Garden, London (1937, 1938), Paris Grand Opera (1938); others. Conductor, Mannheim (1913-14, 1919-21); Chief, Barmen-Elberfeld Opera House (1921-23); Grosse Volksoper (1923-25); Staedtische Oper (1925-27); Staatsoper am Platz der Republik (1927-31); Staatsoper Unter den Linden (1931-33). Conductor, German Opera House, Prague (since 1934). At present, concertizing in the U. S.

SUPPLEMENTAL NOTE:

WHO IS WHO IN MUSIC IS THE CLEARING HOUSE FOR INFORMATION ON THE CONTEMPORARY MUSICAL WORLD. IT IS THE AIM OF THE PUBLISHERS TO KEEP THEIR FILES UP-TO-DATE AND AS COMPLETE AS POSSIBLE. ALL THOSE ACTIVE IN MUSIC ARE INVITED TO SUBMIT BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION; QUESTIONNAIRES WILL BE FURNISHED UPON REQUEST. NEW INFORMATION, SUCH AS CHANGES IN POSITIONS, CHANGES OF ADDRESS, ETC., WILL BE WELCOMED FOR FUTURE EDITIONS.

A Panorama of Modern Music

By HANS ROSENWALD

IN contrasting the music of the past century and that of the twentieth which is really new and progressive, there is the difference of nationalism (or pretended nationalism) on the one hand and purposeful internationalism on the other. The music of the early twentieth century is decidedly influenced by romantic thinking—by the doctrines underlying the Wagnerian music-drama and their portrayal in tonal art, by a lofty pathos and a luxurious language of the orchestra, and by an intense intellectualization of musical ideas. Thus, after Berlioz and Liszt had made the symphony a symphonic poem and the Wagnerians the musical stage a medium of philosophy, Mahler tried to wed absolute and vocal music in his symphonic giants; Strauss combined such absolute forms as sonata and rondo with the literary portraits of Zarathustra, Don Juan and Eulenspiegel; and Hugo Wolf applied the armaments of modern psychology to the composition of song. The impressionists of France neglected the tone as a vehicle of mere description in favor of its use to mirror subtle reactions. Abandoning the aesthetic principles of neoromanticism, they emphasized color in music, employing a new harmonic palette and most subtle dynamic nuances. Debussy, perfumed rather than realistic, dreamy rather than concrete, idyllic rather than heroic, replaced the monstrosity of nineteenth-century language by highest sensivity.

It is under the combined influences of nationalism (paramount idea in nineteenth-century music) and impressionism (both the direct continuation of nationalism and counteraction) that the transition from old music to new music is taking place.

Russia, after the "Russian Five," is powerfully represented by Rachmaninoff, a characteristically bourgeois artist dwelling on comfortable euphony, pathos and richness, easily recognized as repetitious. Medtner defended his own conservative idiom against modernism in his book Muse and Fashion as well as in his myriad Fairy Tales. Glière, though he turned from the grandiloquent Ilya Murometz symphony to Soviet music such as The Red Poppy ballet, began and remained—in the essentials—nationalist and impressionist in spite of his revolutionary subjects. Miaskowsky, the most prolific symphonic writer of our epoch, went through the two indicated phases before turning to the more intransigent works of his third period which may be characterized by the somber mood and mellowness of his thirteenth symphony. The esoteric quality of impressionism is manifoldly reflected in Scriabine's career and output. But the creator of The Divine Poem, on the summit of mysticism, realizing his isolated position as composer with no public and but few disciples, reacted against his self-imposed style.

In Italy, after the orgies of sensuous pleasure induced by Puccini's operas, Pizzetti tried to counteract the traditional voluptuousness of Italian music-making by emphasis on a dramatic soberness theretofore unknown. Respighi, on the other hand, eager to combine the harmonic innovations of the impressionists with novel tendencies toward strictness of design, used retrospective means and sometimes succeeded in replacing hedonistic euphony by the religious fervor of his ascetic Gregorianism. At the same time the Spaniards, awakened by Pedrell to an awareness of their musical mission, and echoing impressionism in the works of Albeniz and Granados, also decisevely turned toward modernism. Manuel de Falla, as an example, departed from the parochial color of the Nights in the Gardens of Spain to the more objective style of The Puppet Show and the Harpsichord Concerto.

Finland, the youngest of the smaller European countries to join the polyglot chorus of postromantic music, offered Sibelius as a genuine product of the nineteenth century. He feels the elemental forces of nature and is deeply absorbed by the world of myth and legend. Szymanowski, as representative of Poland, fostered a more modern idiom though it did not quite coincide with his innate desire for retrospection. Hungary most aggressively pushed forward to the coinage of a modern musical vocabulary as may be seen in the not too-well known works of Zoltan Kodaly, the spontaneous lyricist who, in contrast to his compatriot Bartok, has remained inimical to audacious experiment. In some of the undeservedly neglected masters of former Czechoslovakia the tendency toward a music which is universal, cosmic and humane, was most pronounced, notably in the dramatic output of the full-blooded melodist Leos Janaček.

Some of the indications of rising modernism may be viewed in the more important works of Vaughn Williams. In his Symphony in F Minor, for example, he presented a polytonal study concise in form and contrapuntal in texture which is as modern as many a contribution of the younger neoclassicists. In the G Minor Mass he succeeded in creating a study in self-restraint reminiscent of some of the universal masterworks of the a cappella period (16th century). Such departure from the original nationalist and impressionist principles is not to be found in the Junglebook by Scott and the contemplative though highly sensitive works of Frederick Delius, or other Englishmen.

Some of our own American masters have worked under the influence of German idealism—Chadwick, Foote, Parker, Converse, and even MacDowell, often compared to Grieg. Others have proved to be standard-bearers of Debussy, as is testified by the noble artistry of Charles Martin Loeffler, John Alden Carpenter's songs, or the hermit-like music of the prematurely deceased Tomlinson Griffes. Howard Hanson might well be considered a prominent representative of the aesthetic catholicity of the old school. There are also quite a few composers of today who, in their endeavor to produce an indigenous American music, have employed nationalistic paraphernalia such as Indian themes which are found in the works of Jacobi, or jazz which emanates from the more important contributions of Gruenberg. George Gershwin deserves mention among those who made Europe listen to the language of an American music. But of all these it is Charles Ives who, with the radicalness of a self-taught composer, achieved that gleichschaltung which indicates that America is ready for the production of a new music. If we count Ernest Bloch among our own composers we must place him in this same class, for as both creative artist and teacher he has paved the way toward the realities of intense logic in music.

* * *

Thus far external material has been the working basis in determining the horizon of the creative artist. With the advent of the expressionistic school, the composer himself becomes the spirit of the art work. He subjects the material to his own way of thinking. The situation of new music, characterized by the renunciation of the idols of neoromanticism and impressionism, reveals readiness for experiment, for new experiences. All modern music lacks national spirit because it deliberately rejects the nationalistic viewpoint. It seeks to obviate that cultural isolationism which has destroyed European art. Instead it realizes new responsibilities in the life and the empiric facts of the Machine Age.

A great number of technical innovations characterize the new aesthetic situation. Functional harmony taken for granted during the nineteenth century is expanded to extreme dimensions, is even obliterated. Rhythm is viewed anew, its aesthetic role is that of a nucleus of dynamic energies never intimated before; it becomes manifest in form and technique to such an extent that at times the music-lover sees in modern music only "the music of our rhythmic age." He readily construes relationships between musical rhythm and fast ocean travel, dancing palaces, airplanes and streamliners. Melody, no longer limited to a segment of a scale, but using all twelve tones impartially, is also revaluated in the form of polyphony, that style in which independent voices are wedded to organic simultaneousness. Each voice becomes the bearer of ideas and, going its own way, frequently collides with other voices with a clash of dissonance. Such collisions, however, produce new thought, new life, new movement. Thus polyphony is viewed as a sturdy check against the hyper-subjectivism of some old fashioned contemporary composers. Tone is no longer symbol or allusion, but material with which to work. New timbres present new problems. Instruments are added to the traditional orchestra, new combinations are invented, the compass of the media extended. Similarly, the human voice becomes the object of intense experimentation. Moreover, to secure a new timbre the division of the half step into two equal parts and even smaller intervals is considered. Finally, forgotten or long-neglected forms are reanimated: the sonata and the concerto grosso, the suite and the fugue, and cabaret, revue, light comedy, jazz, popular hit and movie besiege the strongholds of conventionality in opera. A novel relationship of word and tone is proclaimed in all vocal music.

The school of expressionism is represented by Arnold Schoenberg. His system is one of rigidity. His dodekaphonic technique is synonymous with composition developed from a definite arrangement of all tones of the scale, diatonic and chromatic, in a set order. Such a technique does not accept greater and lesser significance of certain tones, but concludes each invention of a row with utmost mathematical exactitude, with the acerbity of a musical logic. Every measure of the composition deals as authorized representative of the series, its basic form. Schoenberg, the great solitary among present day composers, the prophet of the new language of the future, influences Hauer, another theorist of the twelve tone system, Webern who pushes expressionism to an exaggerated phase, Berg, thus far the only composer to succeed in a synthesis of twelve tone technique and old-fashioned emotionalism, and Krenek who, after long wandering and searching, has arrived at a style which makes him the most promising of all living expressionists.

The driving force of Bartok's music was originally the genuine Hungarian peasant idiom. It is this idiom which has urged this great master of the piano to a new harmonic language; his piano works, his string quartets—indeed, they reveal an amazing and a great coolness of spirit.

Apart from the expressionists, another school, essentially French and post-impressionistic, has paved the way for modernism. Though Ravel originally was an impressionist of Debussyan caliber, as many of his most popular works testify, he later gained that decisive intellectual control over his imagination which makes him a pathfinder of the neoclassical style. Roussel dresses his contemplative tenderness as well as his juvenile élan in the concise forms of clarté latine. Satie, a grecophile of gentle satire, stands as philosopher in moderateness on the threshold of a school which emphasizes workmanship rather than sentiment. The approach of the younger French school, profoundly lacking in dignity, bears the stigma of disillusionment. Their battle cry is "red flesh and acerb wine." The "Six" found encouragement from Jean Cocteau, the audacious propagator of modern tendencies, from Henri Collet, and from that genius who has done more for modern music than most contemporary musicians, Diaghilev, the creator of the Russian Ballet. Milhaud wavers between the ridiculousness of a florist's catalog set to music and the caricature of his sophisticated Minute Operas on the one hand, and the superb drama of his spiritual opera Colomb on the other. Honegger frees himself from the somewhat superficial effects of Pacific and Rugby and advances to the grandiose King David and a Jean Cocteau adaptation of Antigone, a cacophonic oratorio most convincingly rejecting the bombastic monstrosities of hyper-romantic schools. Eventually Stravinsky, originally also captivated by nationalistic themes and nourished by the great masters of the past—whom he ridicules and yet adores—crowns this development with Oedipus Rex and the Symphony of Psalms, written "to the glory of God," epitomizing economy of expression by perfect negation of the expressive qualities of tone color.

Long is the list of those who work under the influence of the French school. Casella, as pianist, conductor, and champion of new art, opposes the crude methods of Italian verismo by invoking the rococo spirit of Scarlatti. Prokofieff, the ironic cacophonist, advertises modern tendencies in his transparent Classical Symphony. Dallapiccola joins this phalanx as does Shostakovich whose first symphony epitomizes the tremendous vitality for which the neoclassical composers are generally noted. Among those who enjoyed the direct guidance of Stravinsky, Igor Markevitch and Jean Francaix are undoubtedly the most talented. Martinu, the Czechoslovakian, achieved great significance in this country. Malipiero found salvation from the apparently hopeless hedonism of Italy in the revival of Monteverdi, of baroque and renaissance tendencies, and amalgamated stylistic elements of those eras with his own harmony.

Others such as Vladimir Vogel and Kurt Weill were led to neoclassicism by Busoni who might be considered another harbinger of new sobriety and objectiveness in music. The Englishmen, Arnold Bax, Arthur Bliss and Constant Lambert tried their own devices, none, however, with the success of William Walton who, in his concerto for viola and orchestra for example, shows that even the English school with its conservative trends could not remain aloof from recent developments. A great number of younger talents follow the neoclassical avantgardists: Carlos Chavez the Mexican and Jean Binet the Swiss, Ernest Toch and Karol Rathaus, Lopatnikoff, Mossolov and our own American modernists. Aaron Copland shows the strength of his genuine musicianship in his Music for the Radio. Roger Sessions, an unusual intellect, will be listed in American history as one who not only conspicuously departed from the camp of the European romanticists but scorned the American as well. Roy Harris, whose third symphony has aroused the great admiration of the American music-lover, is another commanding voice in the progressive music of today.

Among many composers who, due to the hopeless European music situation, have come to this country and found refuge in our midst is Paul Hindemith. He represents the type of prolific musikant who has written music for use in schools and music-lovers' organizations; he has successfully combatted the passiveness of concert and opera listeners "yearning for the marvels of inspiration," and has given a most remarkable account of modern polyphony in both the opera and the symphonic suite Mathis der Maler, in his numerous works for orchestra, particularly in those for the viola.

* * *

Blossoming periods in music are those of prolific creation, as well as epochs in which appreciative audiences understand their creative artists. An era just becoming conscious of music as a spiritual force must necessarily show many symptoms of a youthful state. Both concert and opera address themselves to but a limited number of music-lovers and sophisticates. Under the present royalty system the modern composer has to suffer from severe handicaps. Yet even more frequent performing of modern works in concert and opera will be only small help in developing interest in modern composition. Unfortunately modern music still plays but a very small role in picture production though it seems to dawn in some minds that a better type of incidental music to movies does not necessarily interfere with commercial success. The radio has not realized all its potentialities in sponsoring the contemporary composer. The contemporary composer must be given a chance in places where the public-at-large meets music. Church and school must be activated for him. The modern teacher will instill in our youth the respect for the greatness of the old masters but he will also not neglect to confront his charges in due time with contemporary composition so that they will be given an opportunity to train their ears to its language and to form their own opinions. Indeed, upon the humanization of music in the schools the fate of modern music, as of all music, is dependent: here we build genuine music-lovers, the audiences of the future.

Music is the universal language of mankind.—Longfellow

A Tribute to Paganini

1840 ON THE CENTENNIAL OF HIS DEATH 1940

By ARTHUR HARTMANN

ON May 27, 1840, there passed away at Nice one of the most unique figures in musical history, and it is painful and bewildering to see how little the musical world is preparing to celebrate this centennial with all the homage and honors due a truly great creative musician.

To the general public, Paganini is known mostly by monstrous fables of Hollywoodian distortions and by an occasional playing of some of his unaccompanied Caprices by a violinist who firstly secures the prop of a piano accompaniment and who, in almost every case without exception, then performs these compositions with utter disregard of Paganini's own inventiveness of manifold combinations of bowings, accents and even tempo as well. Such performances merely document that particular violinist's inability to play even the few of these genial Caprices in public, in their original form, bowings and fingerings. This is instanced when they fail to produce the effects of a spiccato through ricochet—or rebounding bows—up and down-hill, so to speak. Instead, they race through it in a straight wrist-motion spiccato, a thing infinitely easier to do even in the fastest conceivable tempo than one of moderate tempo in which the bow is commanded to bounce three or four notes with the same evenness on the upstroke as on the down. Critics, blandly unaware of these parodies, remain uninformed of Paganini's art, as the public at large is yet ignorant of his greatness as a musician (by which is meant, Paganini's greatness as a creative genius).

Niccolo Paganini, who was born at Genoa, Feb. 18, 1784, passed away in his 57th year, as did his famous contemporary Beethoven (1770—1827) with whose chamber-music works he was thoroughly familiar. He played them privately and studied them with profound understanding and appreciation.

Paganini's greatness as a composer has furthermore remained unknown to the public because he had not contributed to the orchestral literature and because the greater part of his violin works are unplayable to the largest number of violinists of this and all past generations. This is a stupendous statement to make, yet one which, on examination of history, is proven by violinists themselves. Pianists play with great fidelity the Twenty-four Etudes and the 24 Preludes by Chopin, but no one violinist has yet played the 24 unaccompanied Caprices by Paganini without so much as one change in the bowings, accents and positions on the strings, in the upper regions, not to speak of the exact observance of tempi, as originally created by Paganini.

In his violin compositions, Paganini "cut the cloth to fit his own back." It was not alone this part of his anatomy that was ill-shapen and abnormal, for no one had quite the shape, size and flexibility of his hands any more than his super-human power of will to overcome a thoroughly diseased body and command nerves that were of hysterical extremes of weakness and strength. This is primarily the reason why no one is physically fitted to play all of Paganini's music, for they have neither the suppleness of hands and excessive stretches between the fingers, any more than that their right arms are capable of executing (simultaneously with the left) the endless demands of diversified difficulties and highest virtuosity of bowings.

In 1829 the twenty-year-old Chopin heard the forty-five-year-old Paganini once in Warsaw and was so electrified by his unique virtuosity that he resolved then and there to try to create new, nameless effects on the keyboard, like those on the violin in Paganini's hands. From that year dates the composition, if not the publication of a "Souvenir de Paganini" by Chopin and which has since practically disappeared. Even if it must in justice be said that Chopin's own genius was already so complete in its embryo that beyond this impression it developed entirely along its own lines of musical originality, yet the facts remain that in creating a new idiom, new vibrations, on the piano, it was the spark of Paganini that brought these revelations to him, and that Chopin ever after worshipped the genius of Paganini.

Rossini (1792—1868) was his accompanist in 1814 and it is easy to concede the influence which the older musician had on the younger, for, as a matter of fact all composers received greater incentive in their orchestrations, once Paganini had revealed what the violin is really capable of.

The twenty-year-old Liszt heard and met him in 1831, in Paris, and was so completely overwhelmed as to thenceforth begin the arduous work of remodelling his life. Liszt finally achieved for the piano what Paganini had done for the violin, and this was the first result of his influence. Of the yet greater and deeper influence on Liszt's creations and of their importance to the succeeding generations of composers, the space for an extra and lengthy chapter would be required.

Paganini, like Liszt, was a combination of genius and charlatan in his musical expressions (compositions) as in his public life. There is not even an implied reproach in making this estimate, for there are yet many creative musicians—even among the "classics"—to whom this applies. (Of the private and emotional lives of these two quoted geniuses, there is a shelf full of romances, fictional and also largely fictitious, available to the curiosly-inclined). In all of music I know of no instance where a composer places his name with an Opus 1 which consists of twenty-four compositions of such originality and variety of moods and meanings as these Caprices by Paganini. And if this to me has always smacked of charlatanism—for no person attains such mastery of forms and expression of depths of feelings, not to speak of "ésprit," without terrific preparatory work and attempts that must have stuffed many a waste basket—what are we to say when Paganini follows with an Opus 2 and 3, consisting of twelve Sonatas for Guitar and violin!

While yet in knee-breeches, the writer studied these Caprices and before the age of seventeen had started to sketch Number Four as a "Marche Funébre" for orchestra, for at first glance one will recognize that this theme presents imitations and later, through genial modulations and changes of mood, many opportunities for good counterpoint and orchestral colours.

The value of anyone's contribution to Art or in musical utterance is not gauged by the quantity of the output but solely by the merit of quality, and enshrined in Immortality is many a single line or phrase because of its lovliness or wealth of meaning. The outstanding force of Paganini's expressiveness lies in his exposition of the dramatic (not the theatrical) and few among the violinists have full realization of this, for instead of interpretation they give us notes, notes, notes. What drama and eloquence and epic greatness of simplicity in the slow movement of his First Violin Concerto, with that cry of pain, like the shriek of a malediction, at the end! What greatness of drama occurs in the middle section of the first movement of that same Concerto, and do we ever hear it presented with its tragic force and its plangent appeal as of a being almost crushed by great sorrow and helplessness, and yet defiant and unconquerable?

If the art of violin-playing seems to have lost its way from "the big manner," "the grand style" the art, the dignity and eloquence of interpretation, it is the fervent hope of this writer that these great or heroic qualities will not always be mentioned between quotation-marks and as things having belonged to the Past; and that when some artists 'en vogue' at present will have passed their temporary successes, every violinist will work toward the re-establishment of that style of violin-playing of which Ysaye was the last and the greatest exponent. Thus we find that this too has its roots in the musical creations of Paganini and directly from him to Ernst, Vieuxtemps and Wieniawski who built the Temple in which the greatest violinists must always bend the knee.

There is no explanation for genius or why it should emerge from a class of people who had neither the love nor the culture of art, and even whose antecedents had neither inclination, means nor the leisure requisite to the acquiring of even an ordinary general education. History furnishes many such instances, among poets, painters, writers, scientists and musicians, among whom we also find Paganini and Debussy. We have always held to the belief that the only logical and satisfactory solution to this enigma (as also the most easy of acceptance) is to be found in the theory of re-incarnation, and that of Paganini inclined to the sardonic, the fantastic and "Satanic." His personality was of the kind that haunted; his Art was sheer wizardry and because his individuality partook of something that was moribund, unwholesome as of sepulchral shadows, his musical individuality had a spiritual force which was revealed to those who had the eyes to see and the soul of understanding. To these artists . . . . Schumann, Berlioz, Liszt, Chopin and others yet to come, the inner meanings and importance of his musical message stood revealed and remained an inspirational beacon for decades after his remains were dragged from one interment and exhumation to another. The fates which pursued him with strange restlessness during his fifty-six years on earth, continued it with an equal number of years after his death. During those years the putrefied remains of this super-human-being were restlessly jolted on land and sea, torn from graves and ditches, until 1896 when the body was laid in its final resting place in the church cemetery in Parma. His sepulchral shadow stayed on earth, one may well say, for more than a century, and can it be claimed that even yet this weird and gruesome figure has entirely vanished from our globe any more than that Paganini's influence or his great service to Music has been outlived?

What was there in the character of the theme to the Twenty-fourth Caprice which intrigued musicians? Paganini himself found eleven transformations in which to interpret it; Liszt found yet others as did Schumann. Thirty or forty years after it was first played, Brahms found such variety of inventiveness in it as to create, in two volumes, consisting of no less than twenty-eight variations, masterpieces of such amazing musical value that they assure him for all time, a place in the front rank among the Masters and equally as one of the greatest of all variationists. These facts are of course known to the musical public and musicians alike, but it yet remains to become known how many unannounced composers have written their own reactions to this miserly little theme, among them Eugene Ysaye with a long series. Rachmaninoff, almost a century after the death of Paganini and despite all the varied expressions given by other composers, is yet intrigued to document his own fantasies with regard to it. I venture the prophesy that more composers will yet arise who will see into the wealth of musical meaning unrevealed to mere players who have not the inner ear nor the eyes which perceive and understand the Soul of Music, and there will yet be complete, and orchestral compositions created from and extended beyond the kernels which yet lie buried and unrevealed: ideas requiring extension to fully expostulate on the drama and the playful, the sardonic and the diabolic, the theatrical and the tragic, as contained in some gems of the Caprices of Opus 1, and other than the immortalized No. 24. Paganini lives, both directly and indirectly, and I feel it a great honor and memorable privilege to have the opportunity to humbly place my tribute to the celebration of him who not only bequeathed us violinists inspirational and almost unattainable heights but whose genius was acclaimed by so many of those masters whom the world has learned to venerate and whose music lives in mankind's love and gratitude.

A Tribute to Tschaikowsky

1840 ON THE CENTENNIAL OF HIS BIRTH 1940

By JOHN FREDERICKS

As the world of music celebrates in 1940 the centenary of the birth of Peter Ilich Tschaikowsky, it pays homage to a master who, strange to say, has been more fully understood and appreciated by the general masses of music lovers than by the intellectual élite. The paradox of Tschaikowsky is that he is, at one and the same time, too greatly and too little appreciated: too greatly appreciated by the musical novitiates who derive from him a satisfaction they do not draw even from Beethoven or Bach; too little by the more schooled musicians who insist upon magnifying Tschaikowsky's faults until these faults succeed in obscuring his genius. But of these two opposing judgments of Tschaikowsky, it is the novitiate, and not the trained musician, who has more accurately evaluated the true artistic stature of the great composer; the everyday untutored music lover (who knows what he likes even if he is sometimes at a loss to explain why) has better understood Tschaikowsky than critics, historians or trained musicians. The educated musicians have often—too often!—accepted Tschaikowsky's music apologetically, almost as if they were indulging in an escapade by listening to it and enjoying it. Tschaikowsky, so the musician has often said, has little capacity to enlarge and expand his musical ideas, which were often expressed episodically; Tschaikowsky, he has added, has no subtlety in projecting his dramatic or emotional effects; Tschaikowsky, he concludes, is too much of the earth, too much the Russian peasant.

And yet, it might be said of Tschaikowsky what Francis Bacon once wrote of religion. A little bit of learning brings one away from Tschaikowsky, but a great deal of learning brings one back to him. It is easy to assume an air of condescension to Tschaikowsky, to his morbid self-pity, to his handwringing; to his hysteria, which are the moods so often reflected in his greatest music. However, though he has his faults, there are moments of enchantment in his music which it would be difficult to duplicate elsewhere; moments in which he speaks of the elemental passions of man with a simple directness for all to understand and appreciate. Tschaikowsky's music, personal document that it is, has been an emotional experience for masses of music lovers because he knew how to speak simply and honestly. Thus, these music lovers have been touched by the deep rooted pessimism of the last three symphonies, stirred by the passionate yearnings of Romeo for Juliet, touched by the poignant sweetness of his chamber works (particularly by the elegiac tenderness of the A-minor trio), bewitched by the youthful charm of his Nutcracker Suite, swept by the force and strength and drama of his two concertos, one for the piano, and the other for the violin.

If there are composers who are profounder than Tschaikowsky, whose music is more cerebral than his, there are also few composers who have equalled his poignancy of self-expression. For he is above all a sensitive poet who unashamedly spoke his heart. His heart is in his music, and this music is for all those who approached it more with heart than with brain.

It has often been said that Tschaikowsky wrote his autobiography in his symphonies. Certainly no biographer has so aptly depicted the turmoil and mental anguish of his life as he himself has done in his music. It is for this reason, if for no other, that an intimate acquaintance with Tschaikowsky's life-story is essential for the full appreciation of his music. Only then, does the moving tragedy of his music acquire full significance.

He was born at Votkinsk, a section of Viatka, on May 7, 1840, third child of a mining engineer who, in 1833, had married the daughter of an old French Protestant family. Peter Ilich showed early signs of extraordinary love for music. Tirelessly would he listen to a mechanical instrument owned by his family which tinkled Zerlina's air from Don Giovanni. Given some lessons on the piano, he would spend hours at a stretch in imaginative improvisations.

Despite his great love for music, he was trained, not for a musical career, but for law. At the end of his legal studies, he was permitted by his father to study the piano. His teacher, Rudolf Kündinger, once informed Tschaikowsky's father that Peter Ilich had no talent for music whatsoever, and that he must be discouraged in undertaking any serious study in that field.

Given a clerkship in the Ministry of Justice, he held that position for three years. He was, at best, a shiftless and unambitious worker, the despair of his immediate superiors. The truth was that Peter—despite the advice of his teacher—was drifting more and more helplessly toward music. In 1861, he joined the theory class of Nicolas Zaremba, making enough progress to be able to enter Anton Rubinstein's class in orchestra at the St. Petersburg Conservatory the following year. By this time, he knew that his life belonged to music, and to music alone. "Whether I become a famous composer or a poor music teacher is a matter of indifference to me," he wrote to his sister. "At all events my conscience will be clear, and I shall no longer have the right to complain about my lot."

As a graduating exercise, he composed a cantata which won the silver medal. The leading masters of the Conservatory did not think much of the work. But one music student had prophetic vision. "In you," said Hermann Laroche—later to become one of Russia's most astute music critics, "I see the greatest, or rather the only hope of our musical future. Your real works will perhaps only begin five years hence, but those mature works will surpass all that we have had since Glinka."

After his graduation from the Conservatory, Peter Ilich knew a period of great hardship. He had abandoned law and his government post. His father, having suffered severe financial losses, could not support him. Fortunately, at this critical time, Nicholas Rubinstein, director of the newly opened Conservatory in Moscow, offered him a post as professor of harmony. The salary was a meagre one, but it meant protection from actual starvation. And it meant that Tschaikowsky could devote his spare time to composition.

He was working on his first symphony when overwork brought him to the brink of a nervous breakdown. His head stormed with horrible hammer blows. At moments, he thought he was about to go insane. The months that followed were gruesome ones, filled with the terror that any moment he would lose his mind. Even when he recovered from his protracted illness, Tschaikowsky bore its indelible impression. Henceforth, his nervous system was to be highly attuned and sensitive; and his life was to be darkened by periodic depressions and brooding fears.

The tragedy of Tschaikowsky's life now begins to unfold. Illness and the fear of insanity were followed by the pain of having his first works rejected and abused. In February, 1867, two movements of his first symphony were performed in St. Petersburg. The music was badly received. Other performances of subsequent works failed to bring him any measure of encouragement. Even his first masterpiece was a failure. Romeo and Juliet, composed in 1869 upon the advice of Balakirev and performed for the first time in Moscow in 1870, appeared to its critics uninspired and unoriginal. Oppressed by discouragement, Tschaikowsky sought some occupation which would support him until that time when his creative works would receive recognition. He became a music critic, work which he detested. For a period of four years, he wrote pieces on music for the papers—and cursed his fate.

But worse luck was to follow. The major tragedy of Tschaikowsky's life took place in 1877. A pupil of the Moscow Conservatory, Antonina Milkyoukova, sent him flattering letters of affection, begging at the same time for an opportunity to meet him. He, of course, gave the girl an interview. That interview proved to be the most fatal mistake of his life. During the course of their conversation the girl fell on her knees, said she loved him and offered to become his servant. The embarrassment, perhaps, or the flattery of her adulation—or need we seek a deeper and profounder explanation? — drove him to make a rash and hasty promise. He would marry the girl. Once having given his word, nothing and no one could dissuade Tschaikowsky from keeping it. It is not necessary to say that the marriage, so thoughtlessly entered upon, was a horrible experience. To escape from it, Tschaikowsky, at one time, stood neck high in the icy river Neva with the hope that pneumonia might bring an end to his trials.

The physicians urged him to separate himself from his wife and to travel, in order to avert another breakdown. For one year, he wandered in Switzerland and Italy. He worked feverishly. Two symphonies—the second and the third; a piano concerto; two string quartets; an opera—Vakoula; the famous Variations on a Rococo Theme, for violoncello and orchestra; the even more celebrated Francesca da Rimini for orchestra.

And then, the one kind turn of fate in Tschaikowsky's life . . . .

While traveling in Switzerland and Italy, he received word that a kind patroness in Russia had decided to endow him. The patroness was Nadejda Filaretovna von Meck, a wealthy widow who loved music passionately. She guaranteed Tschaikowsky three thousand dollars a year, if he devoted himself exclusively to composition.

The relationship between Tschaikowsky and Mme. von Meck remains a mystery which neither time nor their voluminous exchange of letters (only recently revealed to the world have satisfactorily solved. For thirteen years, Mme. von Meck supported Tschaikowsky, gave him encouragement, and was his staunchest friend. For thirteen years, they exchanged letters voluminously, sometimes letters of great friendship, sometimes even tender letters of love. And yet, during these thirteen years, they never once met. It was agreed between them that neither one would make any effort to come into personal contact with the other. Sometimes they were in the same concert-hall, in different parts of the house. Sometimes, even, they were in the same city during their travels. In Florence, which they both visited at the same time, it was agreed between them that at a certain hour each day Tschaikowsky would pass under Mme. von Meck's window, so that she might look out and see him. But never did Tschaikowsky and Mme. von Meck come face to face. How to explain this strange relationship? Could it have been that Mme. von Meck—who idolized Tschaikowsky through his music—feared that personal contact would rob the composer of his glamor? Could it have been that Mme. von Meck, recognizing that their different stations in life made marriage impossible, preferred to keep their relationship at a distance?

Whatever the explanation — the friendship between von Meck and Tschaikowsky resulted in the greatest music that he was to compose. Under her warm encouragement and friendly enthusiasm, he produced the works that have made him an immortal. The Fourth Symphony, dedicated to Mme. von Meck, the violin concerto, and Eugen Onegin, were composed in the early years of their friendship.

Then — suddenly and mysteriously — the friendship of Mme. von Meck and Tschaikowsky came to an end. While he was traveling in the Caucasus, he received word that Mme. von Meck, because of severe financial reverses, could endow him no longer. He hurried to reply that he hoped that their friendship could continue, that—by this time having become one of the most famous composers in Russia—he was not entirely dependent on her generosity. This letter, and other letters, remained unanswered. When Tschaikowsky returned to Moscow, he learned that Mme. von Meck had suffered no financial losses whatsoever, that she had used that as a pretext to break off their thirteen year friendship. This realization was a severe blow to him.

In 1891, Tschaikowsky visited the United States, conducting orchestras in New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia. He was given a warm hand of welcome. It was generally conceded that he was one of the masters of the music of the time.

Tschaikowsky's last important work, the Symphonie pathétique was composed in 1893, and given a successful first performance that same year in St. Petersburg. In this work, undoubtedly, he poured out his heart, gave voice to the pain and tragedy of his own life. It is almost as if Tschaikowsky, in a reminiscent mood, recalled his tragic marriage, his frequent attacks of illness and nervous ailments, his beautiful relationship with Mme. von Meck which was brought to such a sudden and bitter ending; and recalling these things, he spoke his anguish in immortal music.

The circumstances surrounding Tschaikowsky's death are well known. On November 2, 1893, while eating luncheon with a few friends, Tschaikowsky rashly drank a glass of unboiled water, against the advice of his brother who dreaded cholera. That same night, he was attacked by the fatal illness. Delirium set in. Again and again, he called for Mme. von Meck. And then. . . .

"Peter Ilich suddenly opened his eyes," later wrote his brother. "There was an indescribable expression of unclouded consciousness. Passing over the others standing in the room, he looked at the three nearest him, and then towards heaven. There was a certain light for a moment in his eyes, which was soon extinguished, at the same time with his breath. It was three o'clock in the morning." The day was the sixth of November.

Twelve days later, Napravnik conducted the Symphonie pathétique in the memory of its composer. As the audience listened to this music, profoundly moved by its splendid projection of grief, it must have wondered if in composing this work Tschaikowsky had not written his own requiem.

Problems of the Younger Composers of Today

By GARDNER READ

ERUDITE musicologists and other writers on musical history have for years been telling us that of all the workers in the creative arts, the composer is faced with the most difficult problems of bringing his finished product to the attention of the public. So far, few people outside of the composers themselves have taken this fact at its face value, else there would not still be the disheartening obstacles to overcome in getting one's music heard, let alone appreciated.

How is it, one may ask, that the composer's problem differs so from that of the author, the poet, the painter, or the sculptor?

Let us consider for a moment each in turn: An author writes a novel; the finished, typewritten manuscript is accepted for publication; the book goes to press and in a reasonably short time is ready for country-wide distribution; it is advertised and reviewed in the newspapers and trade journals, and the public has only to go to the nearest book-store, buy the novel in question, take it home and read it, retaining ownership as long as is desired. A painter completes a canvas, a sculptor a newly-wrought bronze; they are sold or loaned to an art gallery; people come to examine both at their leisure, returning as many times as they are of a mind to for further acquaintance, just as one may re-read a new book, poem, or play for additional enjoyment or studied analysis. The important thing to remember is — the serious examination of a new canvas or sculpture, the perusal of a recent novel or collection of poems, are all accomplished without the aid of any "interpreter." There the book is in one's hands, the printed page before one's eyes, a reasonable knowledge of the language in which that book is printed sufficing for a minimum degree of understanding and appreciation of what the author has to say. There, too, before us is the picture or statue; we may stand at any distance or angle we choose for contemplation, and feel no need to have the objects "interpreted" for us.

With music, however, all this is not the case, for music requires the services of yet another personality between the creator and the listener — the performer. When a composer finishes a new work, that score is not yet music, but simply a series of pages filled with complicated symbols for producing sound. It cannot be music until it is played or sung, for music is purely and above all an aural art, and unless it is heard it simply does not function as music at all. From time immemorial music has been called the "universal language." That is true only when those musical symbols are sung or played, and the message buried in them comes to momentary life, for the language of the printed note is as much a mystery to the average music-listener as that of the ancient Greeks. Latin and Greek are today termed "dead languages"; certainly the symbols of musical notation are equally "dead" until they are resuscitated and translated, as it were, into sound, and to do this the composer is dependent upon the performer, the interpreter of the thousands of black notes he has set down on manuscript paper. And therein lies the primary difference between the painter's, the sculptor's, the writer's, and the composer's approach to his public.

But the composer's many problems do not stop, or even begin with his securing an artist to sing his songs or an orchestra to play his symphonies. Before his finished work reaches the stage where it is ready for public presentation, a hundred other difficulties must be met and in some way taken care of. For the sake of illustration, let us watch the evolution of a new orchestral composition by a contemporary young American composer, from the moment it is first conceived until after it has received its premiere by a symphony orchestra. Though this article is mainly concerned with the problems and opportunities of the younger composers, it would not be amiss to consider the following as representative of what all American composers must go through, regardless of age, experience, or reputation.

To begin with, the composer obviously starts off with a musical idea, the basic theme with which he will work; whether he does so at the piano or away from it is immaterial, the final result is what the public is interested in, not so much how it was evolved. Our hypothetical composer may make countless first drafts or sketches of his idea and its subsequent developments on a two, three, or four-stave score, with instrumentation and elaboration of accompaniment noted. To any but the composer himself, these preliminary sketches would be well-nigh undecipherable, even to one of his fellow colleagues, for every composer has his own peculiar "short hand" system of notation, and not until he begins to write out the full orchestral score does his music begin even to look like anything resembling printed music. Whether or not it will eventually sound like music is, of course, a matter of pure conjecture!

Assuming then that the composer has now made his full, complete score, it still remains for him to write out a carefully inked copy, if he has not already done so, and to extract all the individual orchestral parts, an exhausting and thankless task at best. If he is so fortunate as to be financially able to hire a professional copyist to do this for him, the total cost for such services may well run into hundreds of dollars, and this before the work has even been put before an orchestra for rehearsal! With score and parts copied, our composer now faces the most discouraging problem of all — getting his work performed. If he is a well-established composer, with any degree of local or national fame, securing a first hearing of his new score probably will not prove too difficult, but if he is a young unknown, his task is discouraging indeed, and the only factor definitely in his favor is that his work is new, and thus would constitute a "first performance" by the orchestra which undertook to play it. This mania of giving "world premieres" has seemingly attacked every conductor of note in this country — so much so that one is led to believe those gentlemen are more interested in the prestige such a gesture brings them than in the actual unfolding of new, significant music for its own sake. This is a deplorable situation, and so long as it continues the young composer will find himself in difficulty, for once his score has been played, it no longer offers the novel allure of a premiere, and so is more often than not politely shelved to be heard no more. The older composers with firmly established reputations may hope for a few additional performances, but oddly enough, seldom by the same orchestra.

There are three methods by which the American composer gets his music performed by our major symphony orchestras: first, by way of influence and pull of the "higher-ups" on the board of directors, by wire-pulling, and such, or because of the composer's prominent local position; secondly, by winning a prize contest, being commissioned for a specific work, or being invited to submit a new score for definite performance, this last being so rare as to constitute a major phenomenon in music history; and thirdly, the most tedious way of all, by sending one's scores personally to conductors all around the country, from one orchestra to the other, until finally one courageous maestro decides to risk a performance.

There are some not too apparent drawbacks to this last method of trying for a performance, mainly financial, for it costs the young composer a good deal to have extra copies of his scores made, while the postage for constantly mailing them out is considerable. Then, too, the majority of conductors, it is regrettable to say, receive the scores without even acknowledging them, and proceed to file them away and forget their existence, which means one less score of the composer available for circulation or eventual performance. Should the work be ultimately performed, the composer can expect no fee for the use of his music, however infinitesimal. Our great orchestras have taken the rather uncompromising attitude that they are doing the young composer a tremendous favor merely to perform his music. That is all very well; a composer must have honor and glory as he must have encouragement to keep on, but he must also live. The law of gravity is not applicable here, for what goes out, financially speaking, does not necessarily come back in — that much the young composer has learned by bitter experience!

So much has been written lately about the golden opportunities for the young American composer, about the frequent prize contests conducted for new native scores, the festivals of American music given in various sections of the country, and the airing of much fine and significant music over the radio by our serious composers, young and old, that this article may very likely sound an unduly sour note in the complacent atmosphere of musical chauvinism that has enveloped our American music of late. It is not my wish or intention to decry in any way what has been accomplished and what is being done at present for the American composer, to give him encouragment, much-needed recognition, and pecuniary reward for his labors. But I do believe the debit side of the ledger should be made known, especially in relation to the younger, and hence less established, composers.

We may dream of a complete musical Utopia, wherein every serious composer is assured of economic security; wherein his scores are played magnificently and frequently by all our top-ranking orchestras; and wherein his status quo remains ever commensurate with the quality of his work. But while this sounds too much like wishful thinking on our part, we at least can cling to our rather stubborn hopes that one day, in the not too distant future, the young American composer will find his perplexing problems fairly met, and as fairly solved.

Is There An American School of Composers?

By RUDOLPH GANZ

MANY may disagree with my statement that the Russian composers from Glinka to Stravinsky represent the most powerful and distinct national school of composers in Europe. During an entire century they have been inspired by the extremely rich treasure box of national Russian songs and dances.

Song and dance are the essentials of self-expression through music. Song and dance are the privilege of the masses to express themselves through music in times of peace and war, in the home, in the church, and in public places.

No one has ever dared to find fault with those inspired masters of Russian music over the fact that many of their most beautiful ideas were born out of known, accepted and often used melodies or rhythms dear to the Russian people. Goethe said, when challenged: "Yes, I have taken many ideas from others, but, see, how noble I have made them." And, thus, Russian masters have always shown great ability and unfailing taste when using folk songs and folk dances. They never altered them and never disturbed their initial meaning.

To a lesser degree we can affirm the same tendencies in the art music of Spain. The Hungarian composers, Bartok and Kodaly, have, during the last 30 years, collected thousands of old Magyar folk tunes and dances which they have used in their works, large or small, their purpose being the establishment of a pure Hungarian expression in music as against the (to them, at least) pseudo-Hungarian idiom of Liszt rhapsodies and Brahms dances. And yet, have not Brahms and Liszt done more to bring that country to the attention of the world than any other individuals?

The music of Chopin is the song and the dance of Poland. As long as the works of this "poet of the piano will live, the spirit of his country will not die."

Melody has been the prominent characteristic of the Italians from Scarlatti to Puccini, via Rossini. The French school, from Rameau to Debussy, has always favored harmony. The German era from Bach to Hindemith is predominantly polyphonic. National songs and anthems appear only in such works that I would call "pieces d'occasion" (Weber: Jubel-Overture, Wagner: Kaisermarsch, Brahms: Akademische Festouverture, etc.). In the French school we find little of that. Naturally I am not speaking of passing citations of themes but of well-known melodies or rhythms used as important thematic material. What of the old church-tune, the "Dies irae" which has been not only used but abused by composers of all nations without, however, interfering with its intrinsic value. May I, at this time, refer again to my pet punishment, the spiritual firing squad, for national anthem harmonizers, as stated in my story on Muck in Musical Facts (July 1940). I consider the re-harmonizing, or better, deranging of traditional simple harmonies in folk songs and anthems the lowest crime in music making. The innate taste of the Russians in this direction should be a lesson to all others. It is too easy to be smart at somebody else's expense!

What about American folk songs, anthems, and popular dance music? We, too, have an enormous treasure box to "grab from." For scores of years we have been utilizing this collection of musical riches. As an observer (during practically all of 40 years) of efforts to create "American" music, I can now declare that we have successfully arrived at the end of many kinds of influences that have prevented us from seeing the light of a pure American art expression through music. During the first years after my arrival from Europe I could feel the ebbing of Mendelssohnian and Lisztian influences upon American writers. As early as May, 1901, I had programmed piano pieces by MacDowell, William Mason, and William Sherwood. My share in bringing the native composer to the attention of the musical world is a modest one, I know, although, during my St. Louis conductorship of six years, I performed symphonic works of over 60 different American writers. This interest in the native art represents a very natural and honest expression of gratitude on my part for the splendid opportunities offered me in the pursuit and evolution of my personal artistic ambitions and endeavors. The Mendelssohnian influence, that is, the sentimental, sweet, homophonic side of it still vegetates in the cheap, amateurish, sexless, watery ballads inspired by commercially profitable ideas and harmonized by unskilled arrangers.

The German influenced era was followed by a healthful contamination with the ideas of César Franck and his outstanding disciples d'Indy and Chausson.

While waiting for the crossing of the Atlantic by French impressionism, American composers were exploiting the considerable wealth of native music as collected from the different parts of the country: the songs and dances of the Red-Indian, the Negro spirituals, the tunes from the Bayous, the Spanish-Mexican dance rhythms, the cowboy songs, the hill-billy fidler tunes, and finally the almighty "Jazz." However, when toastmastering for the Victor Talking Machine Company at a memorable banquet in New York in 1928, I proclaimed, as an introductory remark before presenting John Philip Sousa, that American music had gone around the world in the form of the famous lieutenant's stirring marches, that it was again circling the globe with the lively output of Tin Pan Alley, and, finally, that I knew it would, in the not-too-distant future, go on its third and most important around-the-earth cruise as a purely absolute, independent, powerful symphonic expression. That this moment is near, that it is in sight, is my humble prediction.

We seem to have successfully overcome and obliterated Creole, Negro, Indian, Spanish and jazz quotations, imitations, concoctions, and transcriptions. "Jazz" has developed into "Swing," and popular dance music has smartly absorbed many of the good tunes of the masterworks for melodic exploitation. Beethoven has no heirs; there is no copyright for the Love Dream. As to the unethical transformation, if not plain mutilation, of well known melodies and rhythmical patterns, how can we protest when we remember—with justified horror—the celebrated Nibelungen March of the German Army for the sake of which the most beautiful Wagnerian Leit motifs were squeezed into tightly-buttoned army uniforms? Alas, it does not pay to worry about things we are powerless to change. Nature and the good sense of most of the people are the guarantors of final victory of all that is worthy of existence. After all, Father Time is the only unerring, permanent veteran of critics. His judgment makes music—history. What will he say of the present generation of American composers? Deems Taylor, some years ago, suggested in an essay that the American Beethoven may have been born at that moment in Hoboken, New Jersey. An American master born in that suburb of Europe? No! I counter-intimated that a small farm ten miles south of Sleepy Eye, Minnesota, might be a better birthplace for that first great American symphonist. Why not? Think of Haydn! Think of all the humble homes of the great masters!

There has come into the present American expression through music a straightforward simplicity, a natural ruggedness, a desire for brevity, an avoidance of unnecessary complicatedness, a sympathetic search for the new, brief, an attitude of courage, integrity and confidence which we may consider a safe guarantee for ultimate success. Echoes of native melodies and dance music as well as of jazz rhythms will always be welcome when artistically presented. After all, they are in the blood of the average American. Our composers of today are writing in the most difficult forms: chambermusic, the symphony, the opera. In doing so they challenge the past in a general way and the present (as represented by Europe or by Europeans in the United States) in particular.

We are apt to say: There is nothing new in art. The different cycles of expression repeat themselves. We have had melodic, polyphonic, rhythmical eras. A short atonal and twelve-tonal one seems to be on the way out. A melodic one is in the offing, we feel, though it will not be the end of a perfect day, but the perfect dawn of a morrow. We must remember that "there is no progress in music itself, the progress is only in the means of expression." The early Beethoven thrived on Haydn and Mozart, young Wagner on Weber and Meyerbeer. Richard Strauss as a youth was nurtured on a Mendelssohn (Wind Instrument-Serenade) and Brahms (Burleske) diet. Berlioz, Wagner, Liszt furnished the spices for the final bill of fare on which we find his lasting masterworks, the tone poems, and one, or two operas; they still thrill our audiences. Are our young masters not supposed to lean on anyone; are they expected to sow and reap from untilled ground? It would not be human to expect that. The evolution of music in our country is being quickened by the influx of refugee-composers from the Old World. What with the creative masters like Schoenberg, Hindemith, Krenek, Toch, Hijman, Korngold, Britten, Boulanger, Castelnuovo-Tedesco, Weinberger and many others installed in American institutions of learning where their genius, talent, professional and other cultural experience and background are bound to bear fruit! What with their new enthusiasm born out of the realization of the opportunities offered them by the land of their adoption! American youth will profit by their counsel, and derive inspiration from their refreshed activities and the new works conceived on the soil of their new home. And they in turn, these experienced masters, will work with added impetus in their new surroundings and create values unhampered by political trends, free from dictated coercion and regimentation.

During the past few thousand years the music center of the world has shifted from Egypt to Greece, from well known Italian cities to Paris, Vienna, Berlin, London, until it finally settled in New York after the first World War. No one can deny the supremacy of the musical life of the great American metropolis. However, other American cities have risen as important musical centers, and the country-at-large has become a musical beehive. The symphony orchestras, the music schools, the choral and chamber music organizations, the radio, the phonograph, the public school music system,—they all have contributed to the establishment of standards of execution as well as of instruction that point to a future music life in the United States not equalled by any other country in the past.

The chaos in Europe and its repercussion in other parts of the world will delay the art life in all countries affected by the upheaval. However, the arts do not die. As long as there is one human being living, endowed with imagination and filled with the desire for self-expression, art will go on.

It is not so long ago that the serious American composer was defined as an individual whose works were seldom, if ever, performed, and who therefore could claim income and royalties leading to death by hunger. How this has changed! Today everybody seems to be interested in him. Staunch champions of his worthy cause have come to the fore. Festivals of American music are taking place in all parts of the land. There is hardly a program to be found without the name of a native or naturalized American composer. No greater promise for the immediate future seems possible. Young America is on the way to an absorbingly powerful music-life.

It seems to harbor the will to lasting leadership. An irresistible desire to express themselves has taken hold of some of our living young masters of music, and they are in my opinion the forerunners, the pioneers, of a coming national American school of composers.

It was at a luncheon offered to Arnold Schoenberg by some Chicago musicians several years ago that I had the privilege of translating for the guests the short speech made by the Austrian Master of twelve-tone independence. He had said that while still in Vienna he had realized what fine orchestras the United States must have, to judge from the excellence of phonograph records which he had heard; how astonished he was upon arrival here to find a music-life so extraordinary in every phase of the profession; how he had noticed with great joy the spirit of aggressive progress and daring exploration among some of the young native composers; and how he felt that his coming to America was somewhat superfluous! This from the most radical writer of music in our time.

Music and The Dance

By RUTH PAGE

DANCING is fundamentally, of course, the art of movement. But dancing apart from music, in one form or another, cannot exist. In fact, it is truer to say that dancing is the art of movement to music, for, in the last analysis, it is upon the union of the two arts that the expressiveness of the dance largely depends. Certainly nothing is more fundamental or revelatory of the individual dancer's work than his relationship toward music in general and his choice of music to accompany his own performances in particular. Necessarily, therefore, each dancer's attitude toward music is highly personal to him and he need make no apology for expressing his own personal views, likes and dislikes towards music since it is one of the most important of all the means by which he projects his choreographic ideas across the footlights.

Good music, I think, should be essential to good dancing. It seems to me that the ballets which have lived the longest, and the ballets which will live the longest, are those which employ the best music for their background. The Green Table is possibly one of the exceptions to this rule, for here is a strong ballet with an important sociological theme. The music is perfectly adequate but not of any great musical value. The ear of most people is more sensitive and better educated than the eye, and the right music can establish the proper mood for a ballet even before the curtain goes up. Naturally, good music, alone, cannot make a good ballet, and the dance should not rely too much on its music, but only the professional dancer knows what a help it can be.

What is it that makes "good" dance music? Perhaps one can only define it by taking examples. Of the older ballets, Giselle and Coppelia, because of their charming danceable scores, will probably always be in the repertoire of every classical ballet company, while other ballets of the same period will seldom be revived on account of the triviality of their music. In this period in which simple pantomimic stories were used, the success of the ballets depended mainly on the personal charm of the ballerinas. The music had to be equally simple and tuneful so that the ladies could show off their dance technique and be light and airy and charming; and these two scores helped the dancers in every way to do this.

The ballets which the Russian Ballet keeps reviving are the ones with the best musical scores such as Sylphides, Prince Igor, Petrouschka, Firebird, Carnaval, Coq d'Or, Tricorne, etc. These scores help the dancers because they are strong rhythmically, they create a mood, and they stimulate the audience as well as the dancers. On the other hand I feel that Massine makes for himself an almost superhuman task when he dances to famous and popular symphonies. Certain parts of many symphonies are certainly danceable (in actuality all music can be danced), but for a choreographer to maintain in the dance the abstract musical line of an entire symphony seems to be too great a burden for even as great a dance creator as Massine.

Isadora Duncan was, I believe, the first dancer to be inspired by well-known symphonies. She would listen to the music and be so emotionally carried away that the movement would pour from her body in ecstasy as an extemporaneous emotional expression of the music. She was such a great and sincere artist and she was doing something so new and astounding, that she apparently was successful in dancing whole symphonies all alone. This, unfortunately, led in the hands of lesser artists to the school of "interpretative" dancing in which the emotion was limited to the performer rather than projected by the dancer into his audience. It was only natural, then, that Laban and his disciple Wigman ultimately revolted from the feeling that dance had become the slave to music. The premise upon which the modern dancers started sounds very plausible, and I think their complete break with the "music interpretation" idea was necessary at the time, as dancing had certainly become for the most part entirely subservient to the music. But they went to the opposite extreme, deciding that their dances should first be created without music and then having the composer create some kind of sound to accompany them. However, this was not in itself a new idea as most of the music for the ballets in Russia, France and Italy in the pre-Diaghileff era was composed in just this fashion. The composer was told how many bars of music to add or subtract here and there, and if the choreographer did not like the music, the music was instantly changed. The musical results were on the whole negligible, just as today most of the modern dancers have a very sterile kind of musical accompaniment.

It seems to me, therefore, that both Isadora's idea of interpreting symphonic music, and the moderns' accompaniment on instruments of percussion, were both well enough for their day, but wrong for ours. Now that both the musicians and dancers have made their points, there should be a happy collaboration in which neither attempts to dominate the other. The most successful dance scores, so far, seem to have been those that were commissioned or chosen by Serge Diaghileff. Of course he had access to the best musical talent of his day, which was principally due to his uncanny ability in discovering and promoting talent. Almost all of the foremost composers of today had commissions to compose music for ballets for Diaghileff when they were young and before they were famous. The choreographer apparently did not have very much to say until the musical score was completed. This again seems to me to be wrong. However, Fokine was such a thoroughly musical person that he, as we all know, obtained superb results. In creating most of his early ballets he was inspired, as Isadora had been, by music that was already famous, but he persisted in his reform of the strict classical technique which has continued to our own day.

All of this may seem to prove that there can be no set rules to dictate the relationship of music and dance, and each choreographer must decide the problem for himself. For me, the ideal arrangement is to work out the synopsis for the story of the ballet, choose a sympathetic composer of real musical talent rather than just a dance accompanist, show the composer the type of movement I want to use and the approximate length of time needed for the various episodes, and then let him submit the score. If he does not turn out a really good musical score, then I think either the score should be rewritten or the ballet should be abandoned.

I do not mean by this that it is absolutely necessary for the music to stand alone without the dance, although a great many of the best Russian Ballet scores are a part of the standard repertoire of our leading orchestras. However, I have never heard a single score for the modern dance played independently of the dance. Most of them are just disagreeable noises which do not help the dancers at all except to preserve the rhythm of the dance. There are, of course, exceptions. Lehman Engel, David Diamond, Louis Horst, Henry Cowell, George Antheil, Norman Lloyd, Paul Nordoff, Wallingford Riegger, and others, have written some very "functional," helpful and "good" music for our modern dancers, Graham, Humphrey-Weidman, and Tamiris. To me Kreutzberg has been the most gifted choreographer musically since Fokine. He uses the music to establish the mood of his dance, but without slavishly following its rhythms, with the result that the interplay between dance and music is so subtle that his dance seems almost like a song.

If the choreographer chooses music already written, then the music must suggest the movement rather than have the movement come first. Three of my ballets have been done this way. The Bolero of Ravel, which was of course written as dance music, is difficult to choreograph because of the single sustained musical line which steadily mounts from the pianissimo beginning to the frenzied climax at the end. This music dictates a simplicity in idea and concept of movement which most choreographers of the Bolero have completely missed. The second, Jacques Ibert's Divertissement, I called Gold Standard. This humorous sparkling score is ideal dance material, and on its first hearing suggested a gay, humorous story which, with the help of the artist Nicholas Remisoff, worked itself satisfactorily into a neat and tidy whole. The third ballet for which I have taken music already written is Love Song. I went over practically everything which Schubert ever wrote and evolved a simple romantic story out of the music which turned out to be ideal material for a romantic ballet. Similarly Massine's ballet Gaité Parisienne is a potpourri of Offenbach's music which has made a highly successful score for a gay, charming ballet.

However, the more venturesome way is to "commission" a score. This is at best a gamble but one has all the excitement of a plunge into the unknown. The first ballet music I ever commissioned was the fairy-tale Cinderella, composed for me by the French composer Marcel Delannoy. Cinderella is a comparatively simple ballet idea, but we had our difficulties with Mr. Delannoy in Paris and the dancers in Chicago. This ballet was not particularly successful, mainly, I think, because it came at a time when classical ballet in America was anathema to critics, if not to audiences. However, the musical score was excellent, and I saw the fiftieth performance of this ballet in Paris at the Opera Comique more than a year ago. It was not particularly well choreographed, but the charming music carried it through. The second ballet for which I commissioned specially written music was La Guiablesse by William Grant Still, the Negro composer. I arranged this ballet for Katherine Dunham and fifty negro dancers. It was, I believe, the first time that she was introduced to the West Indian material in which she has recently become so successful.

My next four ballets were all created in collaboration with my gifted partner, Bentley Stone, who is an innately musical dancer and choreographer. Aaron Copland, one of America's foremost composers, wrote Hear Ye, Hear Ye for us. This is a satire on the American law courts, and Copland's dry, harsh and, at that time, jazzy music made a great ballet score. However, the music as well as the stage action is so difficult that we have not been able to perform this ballet many times.

Our next three ballets were prepared in close collaboration with Jerome Moross, who is a talented theatre composer. The first, An American Pattern, had such a complex social idea that we turned with pleasure to the simple-hearted story of Frankie and Johnny for our next ballet. Here music, dance and drama were happily blended in an extremely successful bit of Americana. Our last ballet was a dance version of the opera Carmen. To me the Bizet score is superb dance music, and Moross made a clever arrangement of it, interpolating songs of his own with words by the Spanish poet, Garcia Lorca. We have used singing whenever possible with our dances, as the human voice has proved since music first began the success of this primitive combination. How and why the two ever became separated has always been a mystery to me.

It will thus be seen that we have used American composers (with the exception of the Delannoy Cinderella) for all of our especially composed ballets; and I think on the whole we have succeeded in getting music of which most musicians would approve. The musical background of the dance has always been extremely important to me, in fact equally as important as the visual element, and I do not see why now the dancer has to fear any longer to use music as a most important inspiration. The days of "interpreting" music are certainly over, but also the days of the renunciation of good music and good composers are over. We dancers must realize that a first-class musical score is indispensable in attaining our individual dance ideals, no matter how diversified those ideals may be.

A Few Words On Conducting

By JOHN BARBIROLLI

A GOOD many years ago now, a young man who has since won great distinction in his own country, W. H. Reed by name, was so moved on hearing one of Elgar's works for the first time that he waylaid him outside the artist's room of the Queen's Hall in London and begged Elgar for some lessons in composition. Elgar, ever modest and truthful, replied, "Well, I don't know much about that sort of thing, my boy, but come along and we'll have a little chat." In discussing conducting I feel rather like that, because some of the greater and more vital aspects of the conductor's art are so intangible and elusive, and it would need a far more practised phrase-maker than I to put them into intelligible form. The functions of the conductor, and in some cases I might add, the abuse of those functions, have increased so much since their inception that it might not be without interest to make a brief historical survey of them.

The history of conducting can be traced back at least to the 15th century, by which time it had become customary to beat time at the "Sistine Choir" in Rome with a roll of paper called a "Sol-Fa." In 1516 we find writings describing performances of concerted vocal music at which "a certain motion made by the hand of the chief singer according to the nature of the marks which motion directs a song according to measure." This rather tends to prove that by the beginning of the 16th century the practice was universal; as does also a passage from Galilei's Dialogo (1583) where he mentions that the ancient Greeks did not beat time "as is customary now."

With the decline of polyphonic music and its attendant rhythmic subtleties the time-beater must have become less necessary, and as the idea of the conductor as an interpreter as well as a time-keeper was not yet born, the practice of directing music with the conducting stick seems to have fallen into disuse.

How and when the change came about I am not certain, but by 1740 or so it was customary to direct opera performances sitting at the harpsichord, at least in Italy and Germany, and we have also of course, descriptions of Bach to prove that he in any case was in the habit of directing the music while he himself played the organ. In France, though, the practice of using the stick seems to have continued, for someone (I am afraid I cannot at the moment give the authority) writing in England in 1709 has rather an amusing account of the art as he saw it practiced in Paris and apparently copied with assiduous indiscrimination in London. I do not think I can do better than quote the pasage as it stands:

"The Master of Musick in the Opera at Paris had an Elboe Chair and Desk placed on the Stage where, with the Score in one hand and a stick in the other, he beat time on a table put there for that purpose, so loud, that he made a greater Noise than the whole Band, on purpose to be heard by the Performer. By degrees they removed this Abuse from the Stage to the Musick Room (which must mean what we now term the orchestra pit) where the Composer beats the time in the same manner and as loud as ever, but since the Italian Masters (this must refer to the Italian Opera composers who enjoyed great popularity in the town at that time) have come among us, they have put a stop to that ridiculous custom, because the Eye was too much distracted, being obliged to mind the beating of the measure and the score at the same time; besides, (and this will please some of my Metropolitan Opera friends, if not my colleagues there) it kept the singer in too much subjection, and Fear of Errors."

By the beginning of the 19th century, however, the practice of beating time seems to have been firmly established in Germany, though it was not until 1820 that conducting with a stick at Orchestral Concerts was tried and became an institution in London, when it was introduced by Spohr at a Philharmonic Concert. At the rehearsal this daring innovation (until then the orchestra was guided, or we hope it was, by the joint efforts of the principal violin or leader, and a gentleman at the harpsichord who came to the rescue with a few chords if things got a bit shaky) was received, as I suppose all innovations are fated to be, with profound distrust by the directors, but in Spohr's own words, "The triumph of the baton was complete."

His account of this historic occasion is very interesting, and I think worth quoting: "I took my stand in front of the orchestra, drew my directing baton from my pocket, and gave the signal to begin. Quite alarmed at such a novel proceeding, some of the directors protested against it, but the triumph of the baton as a time-giver was decisive, and no one was seen any more seated at the piano during the performance of symphonies and overtures."

The most famous practitioner of the art at this period was probably Mendelssohn, who presided over the Gewandhaus Concerts in Leipzig from 1835-43. As inspirer and founder of the modern school of conducting, I think we can safely point to Wagner, and a survey of his chief disciples, such as Bulow, Richter, Levi, and Mottl, quickly brings us to our own times.

Now perhaps I would just say a little as to the practical application of the conductor's art as a means of making orchestral or concerted music more easily intelligible by clarity and eloquence of presentation. This practical application of the art I divide into two sections: The physical (with which I incorporate the psychological) and the pure musical mathematics of the job. The possession of gifts of the first-named I regard as essential to the fulfillment of the other; for have we not often had the spectacle of a great musician unable to secure even a mediocre interpretation of a work of his own. Wagner's two fundamental principles underlying the art were: (1) Giving the true tempo to the orchestra; (2) Finding the "melos," by which he means the unifying thread of line which gives a work its form and shape. Given these two qualities, of course, we have the conductor in excelsis and most of our lives must be spent in the pursuance of these qualities, more especially the first.

Having stressed the importance of tempo to this extent, I have sometimes advised students as a guiding principle that, "No tempo should be so slow as to make it difficult for a melody to be recognizable, and no tempo so fast as to make a melody unrecognizable," and that composers' metronome marks, though sometimes inaccurate, can be at any rate a guide which it would be dangerous to ignore. This is not to suggest that accuracy of this kind alone can make a perfect performance, for accuracy without imagination is useless and some small modifications of tempo will ever be necessary to a living rendering of any music. From the foregoing, it will be realized that the possession and understanding of these fundamental principles laid down by Wagner can only be claimed by minds of a musically very sensitive nature and endowed with the will, energy, and patience to probe them to the full in the interests of their art.

Now I would say a word on the physical-psychological aspect which is so wholly important because, however splendid or magnificent a man's musical ideas may be, they will be nullified if these qualities are not present. By physical aspect I mean a natural gift of gesture which should be at once clear and eloquent, and in the term "gesture" is included the beat. I do not believe in any standardization in this respect, but would always ask that every gesture have a definite meaning, and only be inspired by the most complete sincerity toward one's work, oneself, and the public. The psychological aspect is the early divination of the types of players with whom you have to deal and your power of making them do their best for you and the music.

This brings us to a very delicate and important problem—the latitude one can allow to players regarding expression in the rendering of their solos. No hard and fast rules can be laid down here as some players need more guidance than others, and the conductor must be quick to realize these points. It is dangerous to worry a very sensitive player too much; on the contrary, during an important and difficult solo the conductor should provide him with a background of sympathy, trust, and help. I have sometimes been approached to explain various interpretations of the same piece due supposedly to "moods" of mine. But the explanation is quite other. This freedom, however, must not extend so as to permit, if any, anachronisms in phrasing, and no "selfish" player, however good, should ever be tolerated in any first-class orchestra.

I think it could hardly be called a digression from my subject, A Few Words on Conducting, if something is mentioned of the general duties and problems of conducting which more or less brings this topic up to the present time. I wonder if it is realized that the work the public sees the conductor do is the least of his job. I am not even referring to the continual rehearsals during the season, but to all the work of annotating parts, editing, the one hundred and one points of technical elucidation of scores.

Of course one of the most formidable tasks that faces the conductor of a symphony orchestra is to make programs, programs that must have as a basis the great classical masterpieces, what we might call a representative selection of modern classics, and such contemporary music as might interest the public to hear—not forgetting the encouragement which such organizations must extend to native composers of worth. I myself have sometimes spent weeks reading scores of which more than 90 percent must finally be rejected, not because they are all unworthy of performance, but because I have never believed, nor will I ever believe, that the Philharmonic-Symphony concerts, for example, should become an experimental forum. When the program material is all gathered together, I must try to obviate any duplication for the odd and even series, and to insure the retention of some degree of sanity to myself, no attempt must be made to please everybody. The general public does not realize that one can assemble four of the best pieces of music, and still make an abominable program. Also, in a well balanced program the substitution of one piece can completely ruin it. I can say without any exaggeration that it has taken me five months to compile programs for one season, and obviously with the compilation of these programs there must be constant study.

Questions which are often asked, and which I might take the opportunity of referring to here, concern the seating of the orchestra, and whether it is best to conduct with or without a score. These things are so personal that I can but give my own reactions, though of course we all think we have the best reason for doing what we do. Take firstly the question of seating. The main difference is that of the disposition of the strings. It has become usual of late years both here and abroad to mass the deeper-toned string families on the outside of the orchestra to the right of the conductor in the place for so long traditionally occupied by the second violins. Sometimes the violas are placed immediately on the right of the conductor or sometimes even the cellos, and the first and second violins have been massed together on the conductor's left. This perhaps creates an extra brilliancy of violin tone, while the proximity of the lower strings to the outside of the orchestra makes for a deep and somber-hued sonority.

This, however, can have its drawbacks. The main one, I think, is that it tends to a preponderance of the bass parts. An even more vital one, especially in the performance of older classic works where there is so often fugal and melodic interplay between the first and second violins, is that when they are massed together it is not so easy to distinguish between the two, and I do not think we can deny the fact that this, what we might call visual, interplay that takes place, aids the aural interplay when each section is on either side of the conductor. I personally seat the orchestra in the more conservative way of having the violins on either side which is much in the manner of the Joachim Quartet, because after all the string choir of an orchestra is but an enlarged quartet, although I am by no means averse to an occasional change of seating for special (or certain) works. I was very interested to find a short while ago when visiting some friends who have a collection of Wagneriana to find a sketch for the seating of an orchestra for a concert in Wagner's own handwriting, with the strings disposed of in very much the same manner as the strings in the Philharmonic-Symphony are today. Obviously, as I said earlier, there can be no hard and fast rule laid down, and the conductor in the end seats his orchestra in the way in which he himself feels most comfortable and will satisfy his musical consciousness, which must always be his guide.

A still more controversial topic of conducting is the use or not of scores. I would immediately like to say that it is foolish to imagine that a man knows less about his scores because he uses them. On the other hand, it is just as foolish to accuse those who dispose of them of being bluffers and charlatans. The prime duty of any conductor is to secure the best possible performance of any work with which he is entrusted and to use to this end such means as he conscientiously believes will insure the best possible results. To some a score may be an impediment, to others, even though they refer to it very seldom, it is a release from any anxiety which enables them to give a much freer bent to their imagination. At the outset of my career I did a considerable amount of memory conducting, but I placed on myself the extremely arduous demand that what I conducted from memory, I should also be able to write down from memory. As I could not continue to discharge faithfully this onerous conscientiousness, I reverted to scores. On the last occasion when I conducted Meistersinger three or four years ago in London, I amused myself by conducting the dress rehearsal without a score, but for the performance something in me said it was more respectful to have the music before me.

In conclusion I would like to say to any young musician who contemplates this most arduous and responsible of careers to make his watchwords, "Integrity and sincerity to yourself and loyalty to the man whose music you are seeking to interpret." Never think, "What can I make of this piece?" but try to discover what the composer meant to say. We must bear in mind that the conductor has become one of the most important and responsible personalities in the musical world, and by fine stylistic performances can do much towards a purification of musical perception amongst the general public. On the other hand performances that are merely the vehicle to indulge the vanity of a personality, however talented, can only tend to lead us further from that which should be the goal of all true musicians: Service to that great art which it is our privilege to practice.

An Institute of Critics

By RALPH LEWANDO

IN OBSERVING the extensive music activity in this country as exemplified by ever-widening interest in music study in general and especially performance, and considering the detailed attention given these by chronicling, it seems an opportune time to form some sort of organization, national in scope, comprising men and women whose duty it is to assume the responsibility of evaluating and reporting music events in the daily press, music journals, magazines and other publications that carry musical news.

The aims of an association of this type might include among the tenets of its credo (1) elevating and maintaining the standard of music criticism; (2) establishing reasonable requisites of knowledge, aptitude, training and experience for those who may be desirous of entering this field; (3) devising a code of ethics and procedure for writers and stressing their responsibility to the public, to their newspapers, to those whom they write about, and to themselves; and (4) inviting executives of various publications to discuss the significance and relation of music departments to these publications, suggest ways and means of improving these departments, recognizing the growing need of maintaining sufficient and capable staffs, and promoting closer cooperation.

A national institute of music critics meeting annually to exchange ideas and to take stock of themselves, their attitudes and their work should help everyone concerned, add much to the cause of music criticism in general through opportunity to air views freely and eradicate recognized shortcomings in this highly specialized and much misunderstood field of writing. Certainly, the results obtained from such a parley would prove a boon to the laity.

That there are many shortcomings to be corrected goes without saying. Among these might be cited a growing tendency on the part of some reviewers to indulge in the gentle art of wisecracking and undue facetiousness in evolving their reports. This habit has no place in serious musical criticism and it contributes not a whit either to advancing the cause of music or to a reader's enlightenment. In fact, the knowing reader is annoyed when confronted by a review that offends good taste. Writing tactics that permit such levity detracts from the value of comment. Such inconsiderate procedure not only is unfair to the subject of such a review but it is bound to affect a newspaper and periodical to the extent of reducing the number of its discriminating subscribers.

Occasional performances may offer sufficient reason for adverse critical comment; but there is no excuse for undignified expression on the part of any writer.

More than they ever admit, performers are devout readers of reviews of their concerts; and although on occasion their playing or singing may be valid grounds for adverse criticism, if it is constructive and without the element of unkindness it is bound to be acceptable by those to whom it refers. Only when a writer takes pride in his or her endeavors, disdains "showing off" in print and eschews comic quips and "smart aleck" remarks does his writing take on full flavor of expression and reflect the sincerity that arouses interest, compels respect and wins confidence.

In the past America has had writers on music and musicians whose articles and reports were a fount of information to readers and a credit to their respective publications. Personalities like Aldrich, Finck, Henderson, Gilman, Moore and Parker, among others, were impelling figures of the fourth estate. Their universal knowledge given pungent expression in superb style, contributed notable chapters to this country's musical advance and raised music criticism to a lofty plane. Their readers were legion, their record of achievement treasurable and exemplary.

Today there are brilliant capable men and women in the field of music journalism who are similarly animated by the spirit of progress and are carrying forward the admirable efforts of their pioneering predecessors. But their ranks must be greatly augmented to meet the need of the increasing number of music minded persons who, believe it or not, seek guidance to some degree in the columns of newspapers and periodicals that can afford music departments.

On the publishing end there is opportunity for yeoman activity, for so far as many newspapers are concerned, music has yet to sell itself to their executives. Many of the latter seem disinterested in music as a news feature, or merely tolerate the carrying of meager reports only because some rival sheet prints music comment.

Reason for this attitude of intelligent newspapermen might be attributed to the belief that the percentage of persons interested in music accounts is negligible. Figures are of course unavailable. Yet one might venture to assume that a far greater proportion of the public is interested more than casually in reading music news than may be generally realized. A survey along this line by newspapers might prove salutary and perhaps prove that a large number of music lovers constitute a significant reader group that justifies the establishment and maintenance of music departments by progressive executives at the helm of publication of newspapers and magazines. Naturally, in the case of newspapers of certain communities such music departments would have to be gauged to the needs of their public.

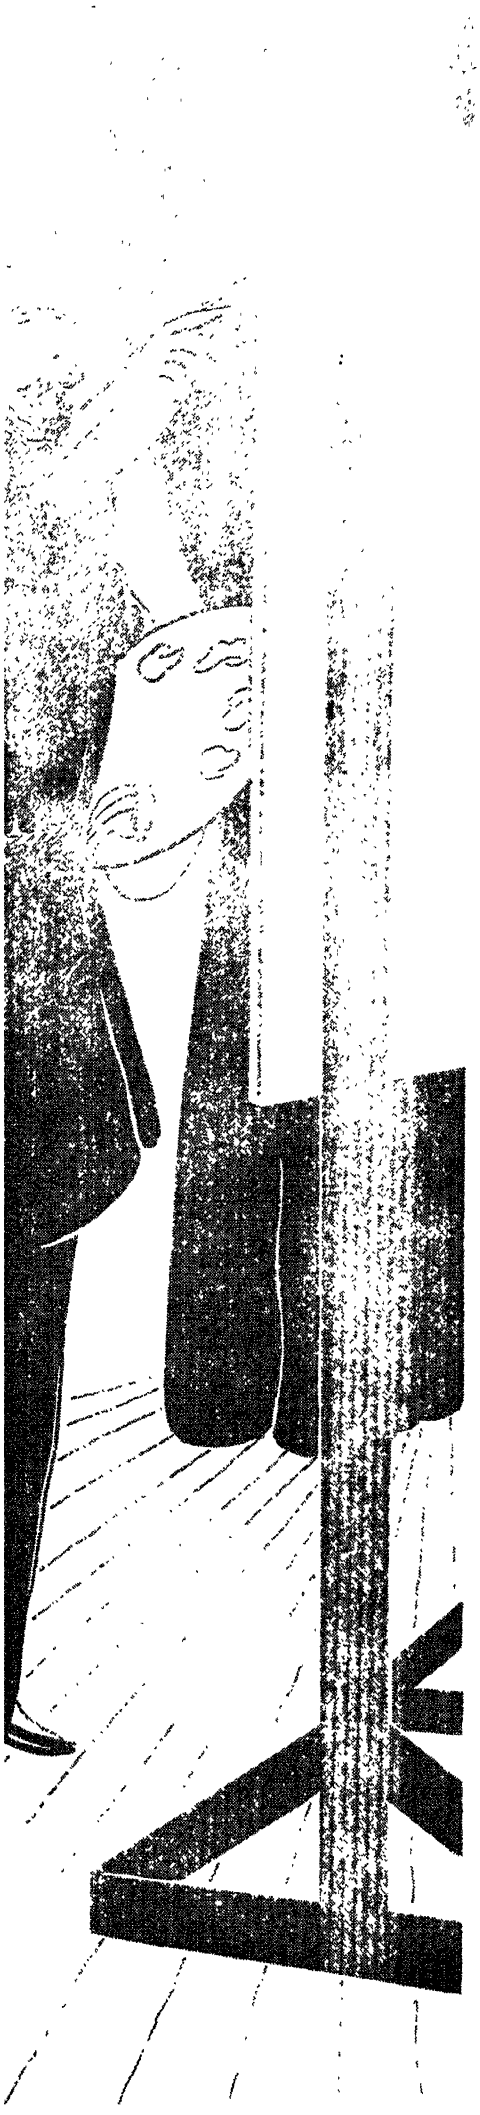
Considering that music is the most universal of the arts and has considerable following, it is amazing how disproportionate is the attention given to it by the press in certain parts of the country.

The foregoing instances dealing with the press end of music activity are cited in the hope that they may offer a point of departure for the founding of an organization that may be able to deal intelligently, effectively and consistently with these and other related problems, the solving of which should, undoubtedly, speed a brighter era for music and its chronicling.

Is There A Revolution in Music?

By WALTER DAMROSCH

A REVOLUTION in music? As far as I can see, none exists. There have been efforts to break down the very foundations on which our music has existed for hundreds of years by a regular process of evolution, but, as far as I can see, the results have not been as yet very important.



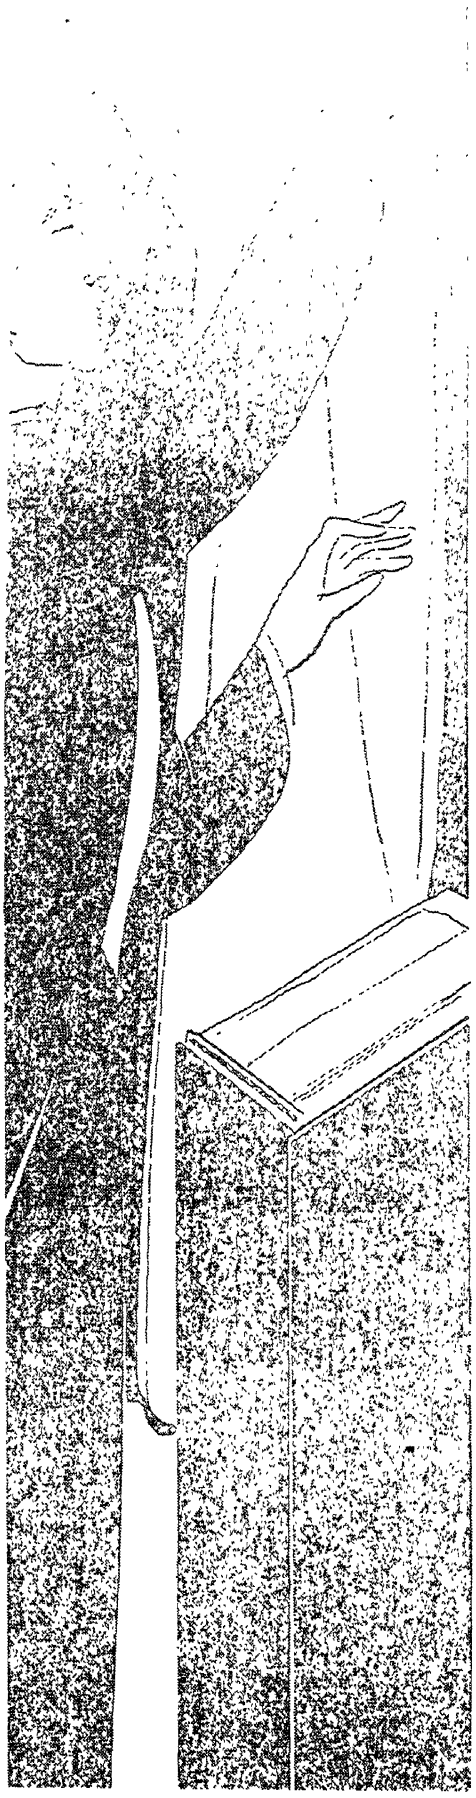
An exposition as to why I still love and adore classical music on the foundations laid down by Johann Sebastian Bach, in spite of the efforts of the ultra-modernists to wreck this structure by atonalism, polytonalities, twelvetone techniques, etc., cannot possibly be done in a few words, but I will do what I can. We all recognize that art has always been in a state of flux, but it has been an evolution and not a revolution.

Permit me to say that the glorious beginnings of our modern music were 'way back in the sixteenth century, and that it was Palestrina and his colleagues who first established a key in their compositions and evolved a polyphonic system which today is still glorious to hear, wonderful to the ear and perfection in form; and then, of course, it was Johann Sebastian Bach who laid the massive and magnificent foundations for the present tonal system and developed the polyphonic treatment of themes to such an extent that none of the evolutionary currents which succeeded him have ever been able to surpass him. He is still supreme. Nevertheless it is easy to perceive, first of all, how new forms were built upon this foundation. From the Bach suite and the sonata, first it was Haydn who (with a larger and more supple orchestra under his command) developed the symphony; then Mozart, the contemporary of his later years, who enriched this form by a greater emotional content; and then Beethoven who added to it a new dramatic intensity which, in his Fifth and Ninth symphonies, reached a climax never before attained. Into this form he injected a musical expression of the very drama of the life of man, his aspirations, his struggles, his defeats, and his victories. In this respect, the succeeding great symphonists have never been able to surpass him. But still further development followed, for out of the symphony Liszt fashioned the symphonic poem, which carried on the drama underlying the music but compressed it into a shorter and more concise form. The later great symphonists —Berlioz, Brahms, Sibelius, etc.—have adhered to the symphonic pattern of Beethoven but have impressed it with their own individuality and genius. Richard Strauss, however, adhered to the Liszt form of symphonic poem, but enriched it further still. Similar developments took place in the operatic forms. Frequently, visits to the Metropolitan Opera House during the winter season will enable you to understand such evolutions, by listening, let us say, to Gluck's Orpheus, Mozart's Figaro and Don Giovanni, Wagner's earlier operas and then the Ring of the Nibelung and then to Tristan and Isolde. Please note that while the harmonization, the orchestration, the modulations in all this music become more and more complex and thereby more and more beautiful to our modern ears, the Bach foundation of tonality continued — that means the fixed key. And while Wagner in his Tristan developed a music based more and more on chromatic themes, in order to intensify the seething passion, the intense longing, the anguish of the two lovers whom honor holds apart, I need but point to Bach's Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue, written 200-odd years earlier, to show that even this chromatic scale was used with marvelous power over 200 years ago. We can therefore safely assume that while music developed and flourished in constant development during the last 200 years, this was decidedly an evolution and not a revolution.

I have no prejudice against any composer of our day who has genius sufficient to demonstrate to me that an absolutely new system of composing is necessary because the older forms have been exhausted and that nothing new can be invented under the old tonal system. Permits me to claim, however, that the old system of a fixed tonality is capable of infinite further development and enrichment under the hands of a true genius. I claim that so far the creators of the atonal system have as yet not been able to touch the hearts of their listeners, although some of them have amused us by their more or less parodistic treatment of their themes. With due respect for the sincerity of some of them, when I listen to an atonal composition (which means a work deliberately written without the acknowledgement of any fixed tonality) I seem to see a ship floundering about in the middle of the ocean. There is a terrible storm, the machinery has been disabled, the rudder is broken, the sails are hanging in shreds, the passengers are of course all seasick, and even the captain says "I don't know where we are going. The storm keeps us in motion, but it looks now as if we shall never, never see land again." I would like to say to our talented young American composers, "Come home, come home, all is forgiven."

The man that hath no music in himself,
Nor is not mov'd with concord of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils;
The motions of his spirit are dull as night,
And his affections dark as Erebus;
Let no such man be trusted.

—Shakespeare



PICTORIAL SECTION

PREFACE

THIS SECTION IS A VIVID PICTORIAL PRESENTATION OF MANY OF THE OUTSTANDING LEADERS IN ALL PHASES OF MUSICAL ACTIVITY. HERE ARE CROSS-SECTIONS OF THOSE PERSONALITIES WHO HAVE MADE THIS NATION THE MUSIC CENTER OF THE WORLD.

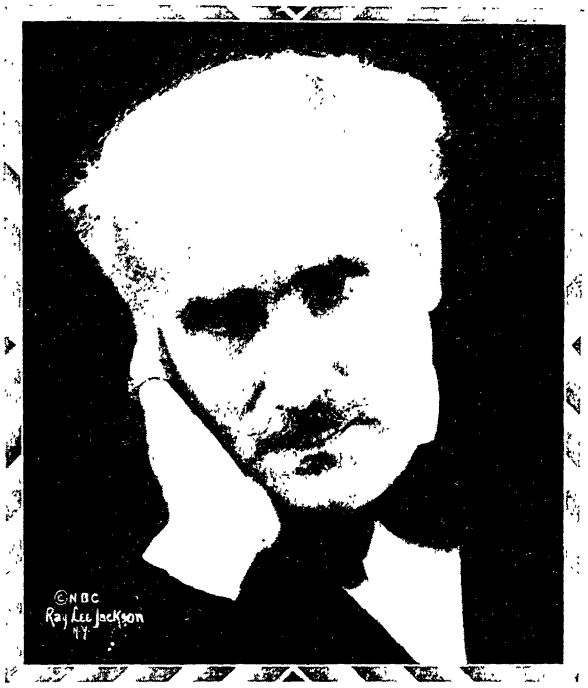
THE PATTERN OF THEIR ACTIVITIES IS A MAZE WHICH DEFIES DETAILED CLASSIFICATION, BUT IT IS INDISPUTABLE EVIDENCE OF THE TREMENDOUS VITALITY OF OUR MUSICAL LIFE.

THE PICTORIAL SECTION HAS BEEN DIVIDED INTO TWO MAIN SUBDIVISIONS—CLASSICAL MUSIC AND POPULAR MUSIC. ACCOMPANYING EACH PICTURE IS A BRIEF DESCRIPTION, BUT ADDITIONAL INFORMATION MAY BE SECURED BY REFERENCE TO THE BIOGRAPHICAL SECTION OR OTHER PARTS OF THIS VOLUME. AN ALPHABETICAL INDEX OF THOSE PICTORIALLY REPRESENTED MAY BE FOUND AT THE END OF THIS SECTION.

CLASSICAL MUSIC

FREDERICK STOCK
Conductor and Composer

VLADIMIR GOLSCHMANN
Conductor



LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI
Conductor

EUGENE ORMANDY
Conductor

ARTURO TOSCANINI
Conductor

JOHN BARBIROLLI
Conductor

ARTUR RODZINSKI
Conductor

SERGE KOUSSEVITZKY
Conductor and Composer

EDITH W. GAUDENZI
Contralto and Teacher

GRACE MOORE
Soprano

ADOLPH HELLER
Conductor

MILDRED GREY HELLER
Soprano

MICHEL SCIAPIRO
Conductor, Violinist, Composer and Author

RUSSELL A. WOOD
Composer, Teacher of Voice and Arranger

HELEN BROWNE FREUND
Teacher of Piano and Accompanist

HENRY VELD
Choral Conductor, Basso and Organist

CLEVELAND BOHNET
Pianist, Lecturer and Educator

RONALD MURAT
Violinist and Teacher

EDWARD DUDLEY
Tenor

NENA BOLMAR
Soprano and Teacher

BESSIE WILLIAMS SHERMAN
Pianist, Organist, Teacher and Author

WALTER GRIGAITIS
Violinist and Conductor

ANN LEAF
Organist, Pianist and Composer

AURORA MAURO-COTTONE
Pianist and Teacher

ELIZABETH WYSOR
Contralto and Composer

GARDNER READ
Composer

WALTER JOHANNES DAMROSCH
Conductor, Composer and Educator

BEVERIDGE WEBSTER
Pianist

HENRIETTA SCHUMANN
Pianist

JOHN BROWNLEE
Baritone

RUDOLPH GANZ
Pianist, Conductor, Composer and Teacher

ANNA KASKAS
Contralto

EMMA LAZAROFF SCHAVER
Soprano

GEORGE CZAPLICKI
Baritone

CAESAR PETRILLO
Music Director and Conductor

VIRGINIA MAC WATTERS
Soprano

JOHN NEHER
Bass-Baritone

BEAL HOBER
Soprano

ARIADNA MIKESHINA
Composer and Pianist

LOWELL PATTON
Organist, Composer and Choral Conductor

LILLIAN C. MARSHALL
Teacher of Voice

ALICE EHLERS
Harpsichordist and Lecturer

ANDRE KOSTELANETZ
Conductor

GRAZIELLA PARRAGA
Singer, Guitarist and Composer

SARA LEVEE
Pianist and Teacher

JOHN M. O'DONNELL
Teacher of Brass Instruments and Author

JOSEPH ROBOTTI
Accordionist and Teacher

COUNTESS ANNE LA BARRE
Soprano

WILLIAM F. PHILIP
Educator, Conductor, Pianist, Organist and Tenor

ESTELLE A. LUTZ
Concert Manager and Author

M. JENNETTE LOUDON
Pianist and Teacher

TERESA FERRIO
Soprano, Teacher and Choir Director

JOSEF HOFMANN
Pianist, Teacher and Composer

THEODORE ARNHEITER
Teacher of Voice

ETTA MOTEN
Contralto

FABIAN SEVITZKY
Conductor and String Bass Player

HELEN LANIER
Soprano

CHARLES NORMAN GRANVILLE Baritone, Teacher and Author

JAMES A. BROWN TUTHILL
Organist, Tenor, Educator,
Composer and Choral
Conductor

JOHN GART
Conductor, Organist, Pianist and Accordionist

MARIA CARRERAS
Pianist and Teacher

JOHN DWIGHT SAMPLE
Tenor and Teacher

JEANNE BEHREND
Pianist and Composer

HARRIET CASE
Soprano and Teacher of Voice

MICHAEL STEWART
Basso

LILY PONS
Soprano

EBBA SUNDSTROM
Conductor and Violinist

PAUL ROBESON
Baritone

NATHANIEL SHILKRET
Conductor, Composer and Instrumentalist

JEAN DICKENSON
Soprano

HAZEL FERN HEITMAN
Soprano and Teacher

H. MAURICE JACQUET
Conductor, Composer, Vocal Coach and Accompanist

JULIA FUQUA OBER
Patroness

MISHEL PIASTRO
Violinist and Conductor

DOROTHY JEANNETTE WALDMAN
Pianist

JOSEPH VICTOR LADEROUTE
Tenor

FRANCIA WHITE
Soprano

ARTUR RUBINSTEIN
Pianist

ROY C. KNAPP
Percussionist, Teacher of Percussion Instruments and Coach

LETRITIA KANDLE
Guitarist, Banjoist, Arranger and Teacher

VINCENT SOREY
Conductor, Composer and Violinist

SELMA KRAMER
Pianist and Teacher

GLORIA PERKINS
Violinist

GRETA STAUBER
Teacher of Voice

C. WALDEMAR ALVES
Teacher of Voice

JAMES MAXWELL ROCHE
Tenor, Choral Conductor and Teacher

PAUL ALTHOUSE
Tenor and Teacher

JANE OGDEN HUNTER
Soprano, Choral Conductor, Arranger and Teacher of Voice

NEVILLE MILLER
Music Publisher

VIVIAN DELLA CHIESA
Soprano

SAUL DORFMAN
Pianist and Teacher

EARL VINCENT MOORE
Educator and Choral Conductor

EDWIN MC ARTHUR
Conductor, Pianist and Accompanist

RACHELLE SHUBOW
Pianist

HARRY S. WALSH
Choral Conductor and Baritone

MACK HARRELL
Baritone

JEANNETTE
MAC DONALD Soprano

GEORG SZELL
Conductor, Pianist, Composer and Teacher

LILLIAN BOGUSLAWSKI
Pianist, Composer and Teacher

ANDY RIZZO Teacher, Piano-Accordionist, Arranger and Composer

SIGURD RASCHER
Saxophonist, Composer and Teacher

ANASTASIA RABINOFF
Soprano

FEDERICO LONGAS
Pianist, Composer and Accompanist

MARGARITA SALVI
Soprano

KIRSTEN MARIE FLAGSTAD
Soprano

B. FRED WISE
Tenor and Teacher of Voice

ANNAMARY DICKEY
Soprano

HANS SPIALEK
Composer and Arranger

MICHAEL SHEYNE
Pianist

VIOLET MARTENS
Pianist, Coach and Accompanist

JAROSLAV CIMERA
Trombone Player and Teacher

BARRE HILL
Baritone and Teacher

ROBERT SPEAKER Baritone and Teacher

BESSIE RYAN
Teacher, Pianist, Organist, Soprano and Choral
Conductor

NOAH TARANTINO Trumpet Player and Teacher of Brass Instruments

GEORGE H. NEITZERT
Flutist and Teacher

E. CLIFFORD TOREN
Educator, Choral Conductor and Baritone

JAMES QUILLIAN
Coach and Accompanist

RICO MARCELLI
Conductor, Composer, Teacher of Composition and Violinist

EMILIO A. ROXAS
Conductor, Composer,
Pianist and Teacher

POVLA FRIJSH
Soprano

ROGER BOARDMAN
Pianist

CYBELLE ABT
Soprano and Pianist

ELAINE DE SELLEM
Mezzo-Soprano, Conductor and Teacher

CLAUDE LAPHAM
Conductor, Composer, Arranger and Musicologist

BENJAMIN KOHON Bassoonist

KATHLEEN MC KITRICK
Pianist, Theorist, Lecturer and Teacher

HAROLD HENRY
Pianist, Composer and Teacher

MARGARET ELLEN MAC CONACHIE
Teacher of Voice and Lecturer

FIRST PIANO QUARTETTE:
Leopold Mittmann Adam Gelbtrunk
Alexander Zakin Hans Horwitz

ROSE LYON DU MOULIN
Pianist, Teacher and Accompanist

GINA VANNA
Soprano

LAURITZ MELCHIOR
Tenor

RICHARD CROOKS
Tenor

VICTOR J. ANDOGA
Baritone and Stage Director

RUGGIERO RICCI
Violinist

J. ALDEN EDKINS
Bass-Baritone

LOUISA HOE
Soprano

A Few Of The Concert

1. ARTHUR JUDSON
2. GEORGE ENGLES
3. JACK SALTER
4. LAWRENCE EVANS
5. S. HUROK
6. CHARLES L. WAGNER
7. F. C. COPPICUS

And Publicity Managers

1. BERNARD R. LA BERGE 2. PAUL H. STOES 3. CONSTANCE HOPE 4. GEORGE LEYDEN COLLEDGE
5. J. J. VINCENT 6. FORTUNE GALLO 7. WILLARD MATTHEWS

ROSARIO BOURDON
Conductor and Violoncellist

LEONARD WARREN
Baritone

MRS. JOHN DENNIS MEHAN
Contralto, Coach and Teacher

JOSEPH OSBORNE
Violinist and Teacher

JESSIE KING
Contralto

MORIZ ROSENTHAL
Pianist, Teacher and Composer

SALVATORE MARIO DE STEFANO
Harpist, Composer and Teacher

KATHRYN WITWER
Soprano

FELIX ROBERT MENDELSSOHN
Violoncellist, Conductor
and Teacher

TODD DUNCAN Baritone and Teacher

ALEXANDER SAVINE
Composer, Conductor and Teacher of Voice

ANTHONY ANTONE
Player of Fretted Instruments, Composer and Teacher

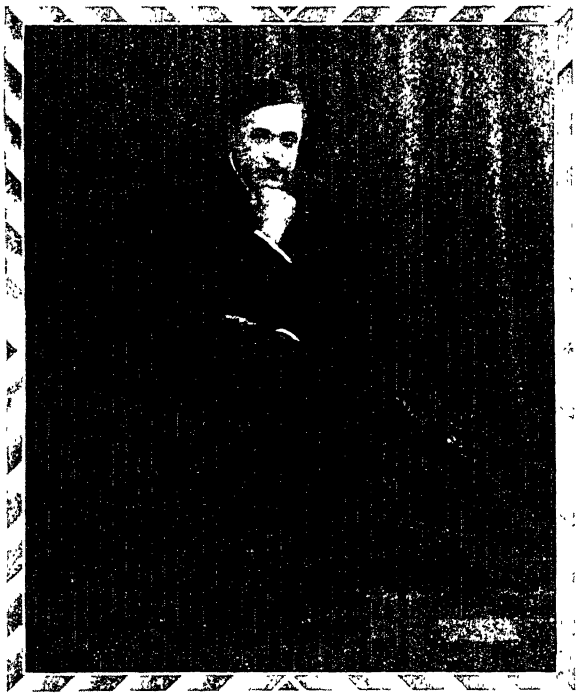
CARLO MORELLI
Baritone

JEANNETTE JOHNSON
Mezzo-Soprano

BRUNA CASTAGNA
Contralto



EGON PETRI
Pianist and Composer

VICTORIA DIKE
Soprano

RUTH PAGE
Dancer and Choreographer

NICOLAS ZADRI
Violinist and Teacher

JOSEF CHERNIAVSKY
Conductor, Composer and Radio Executive

RUTH DANIELS NELSON
Pianist, Teacher of Piano and Contralto

WALTER GROSS
Pianist, Composer and Arranger

JOHN WARREN ERB
Conductor, Composer, Coach and Teacher

AGATA BORZI
Soprano

ALFRED MIROVITCH
Pianist, Teacher and Lecturer

JOHN CORIGLIANO
Violinist

ELEANOR MACKINLAY
Soprano

REX ELTON FAIR
Flutist, Teacher, Composer and Lecturer

ORRIN CLAYTON SUTHERN II
Organist, Choral Conductor and Editor

CHARLES LE ROY SEARS Tenor

SIDNEY M.
KAYE
Music Publisher

ERICA MORINI
Violinist

MARIA MARCA
Soprano and Teacher

ERNST WOLFF
Baritone and Teacher

ROBERT
PAYSON HILL
Pianist, Accompanist and Teacher

GENEVIEVE
ROWE
Soprano

MAE GRAVES ATKINS
Soprano and Teacher of Voice

ETHEL REID
Soprano and Teacher

FREDERIC FRANKLIN
Ballet Dancer

MARC PLATOFF Dancer and Choreographer

ERVIN E. HARDER
Clarinetist, Composer and Teacher

FRITZ MAHLER
Conductor, Composer, Coach and Teacher of Conducting

MARY AND VIRGINIA DRANE
Duo-Violinists

MARY CRAIG
Soprano

VIRGINIA NOLTE
Violoncellist and Teacher

KATE FOWLER CHASE
Choral Conductor, Teacher of Voice and Accompanist

GEORGE NELIDOFF
Baritone

SCOTT A. WILLITS
Violinist and Teacher

AMANDA MAC DONALD Pianist, Accompanist and Coach

GEORGE WILLIAM KEMMER
Organist, Choral Conductor, Composer and Teacher

DOROTHY MAYNOR
Soprano

SERGEI RACHMANINOFF
Pianist, Composer and Conductor

EDA GLICKMAN
Pianist and Teacher

REINHOLD SCHMIDT
Bass-Baritone and Teacher

EARL WILLIAM MORSE
Violinist and Teacher

GLADYS WELGE
Conductor, Violinist and Violist

M. GRUPP
Instructor of Wind Instruments and Author

MABEL WREDE HUNTER
Pianist and Teacher

VICTOR CHESNAIS
Baritone, Organist, Pianist, Choral
Conductor and Teacher

ALICE GIDEON WHITMIRE Educator

HANS LANGE
Conductor

EUGENIE LOUISE LIMBERG
Violinist and Violist

MATHILDE BILBRO
Pianist, Teacher and Composer

NELSON EDDY
Baritone

EMILIA DEL TERZO
Teacher, Pianist, Organist,
Accompanist and Vocal Coach

ERIC SORANTIN
Violinist, Conductor, Composer and Author

GENIA NEMENOFF and PIERRE LUBOSHUTZ
Duo-Pianists

MARIA GREVER
Composer and Coach

HAZEL HAYES
Soprano

VITTORIO GIANNINI
Composer, Violinist, Conductor and Teacher

HANS ROSENWALD
Musicologist, Lecturer, Author, Composer and Teacher

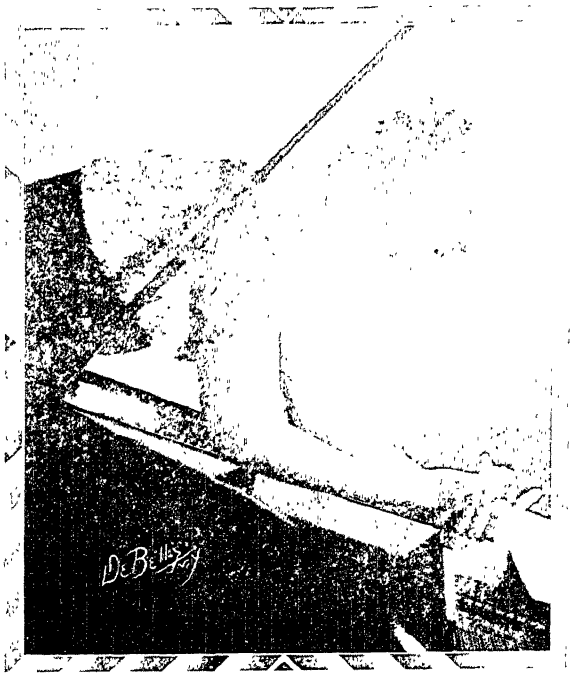
GEORGE PERLMAN
Violinist, Teacher and Composer

ADELA LAUE
Pianist and Teacher



T. BATH GLASSON
Teacher of Piano, Organist, Composer and Conductor

MARYA MC AULIFF
Pianist

P. MARINUS PAULSEN
Composer, Conductor and Teacher

HELEN SCHAFMEISTER
Pianist

SUZANNE STEN
Mezzo-Soprano

RAYMOND ALLYN SMITH
Organist, Composer and Teacher

DAVIDSON TAYLOR
Radio Producer

ADELAIDE VAN WEY
Contralto

WILLIAM COSTELLO Cornetist

WILFRIED KLAMROTH
Baritone and Teacher of Voice

WINIFRED GLASS
Teacher of Piano and Theory

GEORGE DRUMMI
Arranger, Composer and Violinist

L. ARTHUR TURKISHER
Violoncellist, Arranger and Composer

HELEN JEPSON
Soprano

VIOLA HILDUR SPONGBERG
Soprano, Violinist, Pianist, Organist and Composer

CAMILLE LUCIE NICKERSON
Pianist, Teacher and Lecturer

ELIZABETH BROWN
Contralto

JACK LUNDIN
Guitarist, Banjoist, Arranger and Teacher of Plectrum Instruments

HOWARD BARLOW
Conductor and Composer

RICHARD DE YOUNG
Teacher of Voice

ANTHONY PAGANUCCI
Conductor, Composer and Arranger

PETER A.
LUISETTI
Teacher of Clarinet and Saxophone

MARION MEYER
Pianist and Teacher

NINO MARTINI
Tenor

JOHN DI CANIO
Conductor, Baritone Horn and Trombone Player

CARA VERSON
Pianist and Coach

ERICH LEINSDORF
Conductor

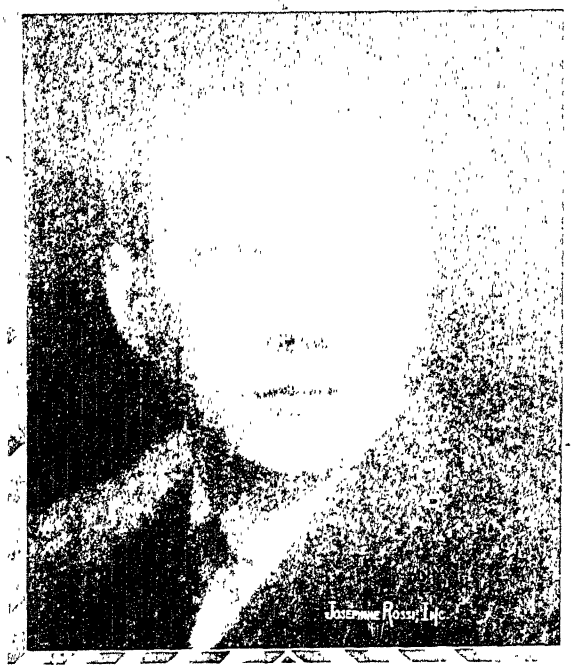
RUTH HARSHA
Organist, Pianist and Choral Conductor

CLAIR OMAR MUSSER
Conductor, Composer and Marimbist

SIR ERNEST MAC MILLAN
Conductor and Educator

MARY LOUISE BELTZ
Contralto and Teacher

DEEMS TAYLOR
Composer, Critic, Author and Musicologist



VIRGINIA PEMBERTON
Soprano

GEORGIA KOBER
Pianist and Teacher

CARLOS SALZEDO
Harpist, Teacher and Composer

STEVEN KENNEDY
Baritone

ELEANOR SEARLE
Soprano

MILDRED DAVIS
Accompanist and Coach

ARTUR WOLF
Teacher of Voice

DOROTHY MINTY
Violinist and Teacher

LAMAR STRINGFIELD
Composer, Conductor and Flutist

NICOLAS SLONIMSKY
Musicologist, Conductor, Composer, Editor and Author

ANNE BROWN
Soprano

RAOUL NADEAU
Baritone and Composer

WILLIAM CARTER WHITE
Conductor, Composer, Arranger and Author

LEO TAUBMAN
Pianist, Conductor, Accompanist and Coach

FLORENCE WICKHAM
Contralto

HANS HESS
Violoncellist and Teacher

SIDOR BELARSKY
Basso and Teacher

OTTALIE MARK
Copyright Counsel

ALBA CLAWSON
Singer

BURTON LYNN JACKSON
Marimbist, Vibraharpist and Teacher

ELECTRA BALLOU
Soprano

FLORENCE B.
PRICE
Composer, Pianist and Organist

CLELLA LESTER
PERKINS Teacher and Author

MARION SCHROEDER
Soprano and Teacher of Voice

MERRITT E. TOMPKINS
Music Publisher

MINAS BOORAS
Baritone, Teacher and Choirmaster

EMMA OLSSON
Pianist and Lecturer

ALBERTO V. SCIARRETTI
Pianist, Conductor and Vocal Coach

M. WOOD HILL
Composer

NICHOLAS VASICH
Violin Maker

WILL A. HARDING
Composer, Author and Educator

EUGENE EDWARD (GENE) BUCK Producer, Lyric Writer and Composer

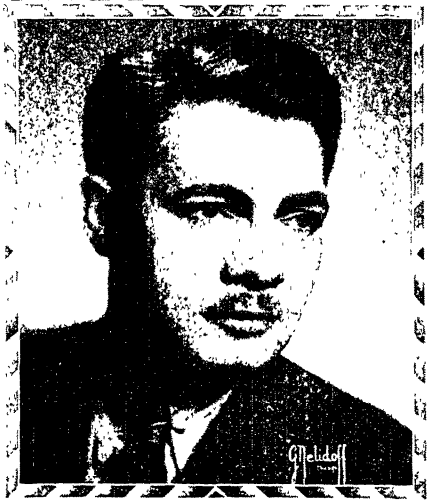
EDWIN CLAUDE MILLS

MARCY
WESTCOTT
Soprano



JOHN G.
PAINE

MARIE A. ENDRES
Violinist, Violist,
Conductor and Teacher

ARTHUR C. BECKER
Organist, Teacher and Choral Director

MILES SPENCER
Baritone

J. WESLEY JONES
Baritone and Choral Conductor

GRANT HADLEY
Baritone and Teacher

J. M. LA PORTE
Violinist and Conductor

VERAN
FREDERIC FLORENT
Teacher of Brass Instruments,
Cornet and Trumpet Player

GEORGE GRIFFIN
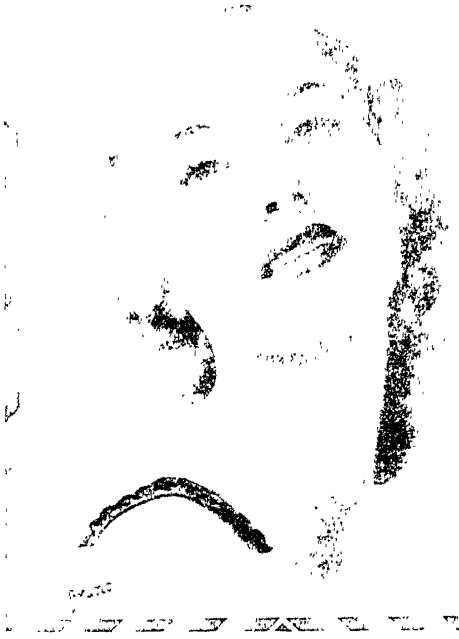
Baritone

LUCILLE MEUSEL
Soprano



ANNABELLE WOOD
Teacher of Piano

JOSEPH E.
CHAPEK
Violinist and Teacher

BENJAMIN DE LOACHE
Baritone

VERA WEBSTER
Pianist

CARMELA PONSELLE
Mezzo-Soprano

SIMEON BELLISON
Clarinetist

BELLE VRETA
Soprano

ERNEST LA PRADE
Violinist, Composer, Conductor, Author and Teacher

CHARLOTTE SYMONS
Soprano

EUGENIA BUXTON
Pianist

LE ROY WILLIAM WEIL
Baritone, Teacher and Choral Conductor

ARNOLD SCHULTZ
Pianist and Teacher

DAVID RYAN AUSTIN
Basso and Teacher

SILVIO INSANA
Conductor, Composer, Pianist and Teacher

GRACE HOFHEIMER
Pianist and Teacher

VICTOR E. MANUSSEVITCH
Violinist and Teacher

EVA BOWLER
Soprano

PETER BUYS
Bandmaster, Composer and Educator

CARL GEYER
Manufacturer of French Horns

EMILIA VERGERI ODIERNO
Soprano, Teacher and Operatic Coach

ELIZABETH DICKS
Teacher of Voice

MAY BARRON
Mezzo-Soprano

HARRY M. BERNING
Pianist and Teacher

EDWIN FRANKO GOLDMAN
Bandmaster, Composer and Author

MAE ELEANOR KIMBERLY
Teacher of Voice and Accompanist

BEN ZIMBEROFF
Violinist

REV. O. A. RAUSCHELBACH
Organist and Choral Director

PATRICIA BOWMAN Ballerina

EUGENE LORING
Dancer, Choreographer and Teacher

LEON FOKINE Dancer and Teacher

VIOLA ESSEN
Ballerina

MARY BOTHWELL
Soprano

CHARLES HAUBIEL
Composer, Pianist and Lecturer

LEOPOLD PRINCE
Conductor and Violinist

UNKALUNT, PRINCESS ATALIE
(SUNSHINE RIDER)
Soprano, Author and Lecturer

MARJORIE MONTELL
Soprano and Teacher

PIETRO YON
Organist and Composer

ANNA KRUETGEN
Mezzo-Soprano

VEOLA WASTERLAIN
Violinist

MAYNARD WORTH
Baritone

LEOPOLD MITTMAN
Pianist

FRANK BENNETT SINGERS
Under the personal direction of Frank Bennett

T. M. JUSTUS
Conductor, Composer, Lecturer and Teacher of Instrumental Music

ARVIDA VALDANE
Soprano and Teacher

LUCIA CHASE
Ballerina

JAY MURIO
Soprano

CAPT. EUGENE LA BARRE
Bandmaster, Composer and Arranger

OLE WINDINGSTAD
Conductor

VLADIMIR HOROWITZ
Pianist

MARIAN ANDERSON
Contralto

FLORIAN MUELLER
Oboist

MARCELLA GEON
Lecture-Recitalist, Choral Conductor and Accompanist

DAVID EUGENE CLAYMAN Music Critic

MAGDALEN MASSMANN
Pianist, Accompanist and Teacher

JOHN HARMS
Choral Conductor and Organist

ADOLFO BETTI
Violinist and Teacher

JOHN T. READ
Basso and Teacher

PRICE BOONE
Tenor and Teacher

ESTHER FRIEND ARNOLD
Soprano, Choral Conductor and Teacher of Voice

GAYLORD HAMILTON BROWNE
Violinist, Violist and Conductor

ALICE HOLMEN GIAUQUE
Soprano and Teacher

GEORGE HULTGREN
Choral Conductor, Tenor, Organist and Teacher

EDITH HEFFNER DOBSON
Contralto, Choral Director and Accompanist

FRANKLYN CARNAHAN
Pianist and Teacher

ANA DRITTELL Violoncellist

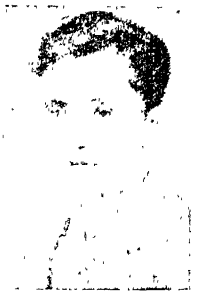
LEO LOW
Composer, Conductor, Choral Director and Teacher of Voice

PAULUS PILAT

Maker of Violins, Violas, Violoncellos, etc.

MAY ROBBINS

Pianist and Accompanist



DIEZ WEISMANN

Violinist, Violist and Teacher

MAY HOPE CORYELL

Pianist and Teacher

ELMER L. MATHIAS

Bass-Baritone, Organist and Teacher of Voice

BOB BURNS

Pianist, Violinist, Accordionist and Composer

EVELYN WIENKE

Soprano and Teacher

OSCAR H. LEHMANN

Tenor, Teacher and Composer

AIDA SALVI

Harpist, Teacher and Composer

MORTIMER LOUIS SCHEFF

Pianist and Teacher

SOLON ALBERTI

Conductor

ELIZABETH TILLMAN

Pianist, Violinist, Teacher of Piano and Accompanist

EARLE CHESTER SMITH

Pianist, Teacher and Author

ERMA ROUNDS

Pianist and Teacher

ROLAND EDWARD PARTRIDGE

Tenor, Musicologist and Lecturer

YOURY BILSTIN

Violoncellist

DELLA HAGERTY

Violinist, Pianist and Teacher

EDWIN J.GEMMER

Pianist and Teacher

ZINKA MILANOV

Soprano

DONALD STROUP

Pianist and Teacher

MME. LUCIE LENOX

Soprano and Vocal Coach

FELIX MARIA GATZ

Conductor, Musicologist and Author

JULIAN DE GRAY

Pianist

HELEN EARLY BOFFO

Violinist and Teacher

CLARENCE DICKINSON

Organist, Choirmaster and Composer

ESTHER B. HAWKINS

Pianist, Vocal Coach and Choral Conductor

RALPH LEOPOLD

Pianist, Teacher and Accompanist

SHOLOM SECUNDA

Composer, Lecturer and Director

MAX DUETZMANN

Tenor and Teacher

LENA MILAM

Violinist, Violist, Educator and Author

RUSSELL DANBURG

Pianist, Composer and Teacher

ALBERTA CARROLL SUMMER

Soprano and Teacher of Voice

PAUL BILLOTTI

Conductor, Accordionist and Teacher

KATHLEEN MARCH STRAIN

Contralto

MRS. CLARENCE STUMPF

Pianist, Teacher, Choral Conductor and Accompanist

WILLIAM J. BENNETT

Organist

MARY AGNES V. FARRELL

Organist, Choral Director and Teacher

SHERWOOD KAINS

Baritone and Choral Conductor

MAUD MULLER

Contralto

POPULAR MUSIC

Among The Popular

HAL KEMP
JIMMIE LUNCEFORD
GENE KRUPA
DUKE ELLINGTON

BENNY GOODMAN
TOMMY DORSEY
JIMMY DORSEY
CHARLIE BARNET

KAY KYSER
RUDY VALLEE
BOB CROSBY
DICK JURGENS

PHIL HARRIS
GLENN MILLER
BEN BERNIE
FRED WARING

Orchestra Conductors

ORRIN TUCKER
GUY LOMBARDO
RICHARD HIMBER
WOODY HERMAN

RAYMOND SCOTT
XAVIER CUGAT
DICK STABILE
EDDY DUCHIN

ARTIE SHAW
HARRY JAMES CAB CALLOWAY
AL DONAHUE

ABE LYMAN GRIFF WILLIAMS
FREDDIE MARTIN
OZZIE NELSON

KATE SMITH
Contralto

HAL KEMP
Conductor

WAYNE VAN DYNE
Tenor and Coach

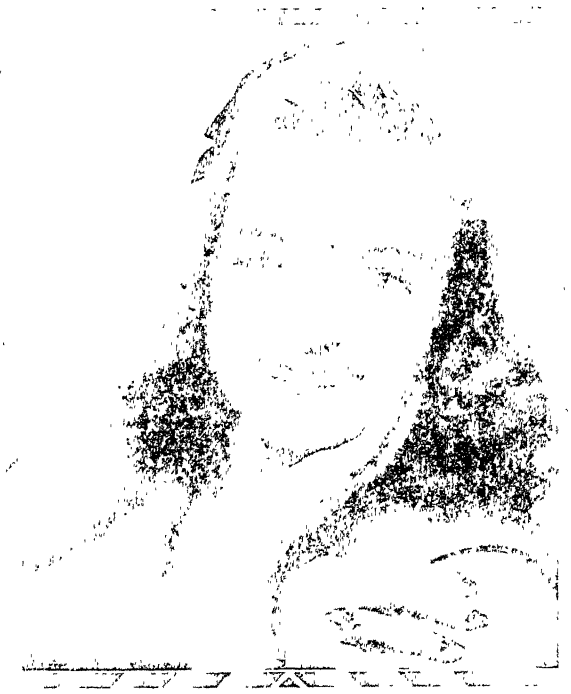
WES CROXEN
Conductor and Trumpet Player

ROBERT TRENDLER
Conductor, Arranger and Coach

WILLIAM C. HANDY
Composer and Music Publisher

BELLE BAKER
Singer

MARJORIE GAINSWORTH
Soprano



KATHLEEN CARNES
Soprano and Vocal Arranger

DON PEDRO
Tenor, Violinist, Marimbist and Conductor

TOM TIMOTHY
Teacher of Harmony and Arranger

DALE EVANS
Vocalist

ARTHUR GODFREY
Pianist, Banjoist and Vocalist

BING CROSBY
Vocalist

GLENN MILLER
Conductor

JIMMIE LUNCEFORD
Conductor

EVELYN LYNNE Vocalist

PATRICIA NORMAN Vocalist

GEORGE BARNES
Guitarist and Arranger

DICK SHELTON
Conductor

DON MC GRANE
Conductor

JACK MEAKIN
Conductor and Composer

MEL MARVIN
Conductor and Pianist

ARLYNE CHANLER
Vocalist

GENE BAKER
Bass-Baritone

VIOLA SMITH Percussionist

JERRY BLAINE
Conductor

VICTOR A. TALLARICO
Pianist and Teacher

JERRY LIVINGSTON
Conductor and Composer

RAY CHARLES Tenor and Arranger

MC FARLAND TWINS (GEORGE AND ARTHUR) Conductors, Saxophonists and Vocalists

ABE LYMAN
Conductor

Index to Pictorial Section

First Page Number Refers to Pictorial Section; Second Page Number, Biographical Section

—A—

ABT, CYBELLE ..... 295— 31
ALBERTI, SOLON ..... 355— 32
ALTHOUSE, PAUL ..... 290— 34
ALVES, C. WALDEMAR ..... 289— 34
ANDERSON, MARIAN ..... 354— 35
ANDOGA, VICTOR J. ..... 298— 35
ANTONE, ANTHONY ..... 305— 35
ARNHEITER, THEODORE 279— 36
ARNOLD, ESTHER F. ..... 354— 37
ATKINS, MAE GRAVES ..... 313— 37
AUSTIN, DAVID R. ..... 342— 38

—B—

BAKER, BELLE ..... 364— 39
BAKER, GENE ..... 369— 39
BALLOU, ELECTRA ..... 336— 40
BARBIROLLI, JOHN ..... 267— 41
BARLOW, HOWARD ..... 328— 41
BARNES, GEORGE ..... 368— 42
BARNET, CHARLIE ..... 358— 42
BARONE, JOSEPH ..... 18— 42
BARRON, MAY ..... 343— 42
BARRY, EDWARD ..... 16— 43
BECKER, ARTHUR C. ..... 338— 45
BEHREND, JEANNE ..... 282— 45
BELARSKY, SIDOR ..... 336— 45
BELLISON, SIMEON ..... 340— 46
BELTZ, MARY LOUISE ..... 330— 46
BENNETT, WILLIAM J. ..... 356— 46
BERNIE, BEN ..... 358— 47
BERNING, HARRY M. ..... 343— 47
BETTI, ADOLFO ..... 354— 48
BILBRO, MATHILDE ..... 317— 49
BILLOTTI, PAUL ..... 356— 49
BILSTIN, YOURY ..... 355— 49
BLAINE, JERRY ..... 369— 50
BOARDMAN, ROGER ..... 295— 51
BOFFO, HELEN E. ..... 356— 51
BOGUSLAWSKI, LILLIAN 291— 51
BOHNET, CLEVELAND ..... 269— 52
BOLMAR, NENA ..... 269— 52
BOONE, PRICE ..... 354— 52
BOORAS, MINAS ..... 337— 53
BORZI, AGATA ..... 311— 53
BOTHWELL, MARY ..... 345— 53
BOURDON, ROSARIO ..... 302— 53
BOWLER, EVA ..... 342— 54
BOWMAN, PATRICIA ..... 344— 54
BROWN, ANNE ..... 333— 56
BROWN, ELIZABETH ..... 328— 57
BROWNE, GAYLORD H. ..... 354— 57
BROWNLEE, JOHN ..... 273— 57
BUCK, GENE ..... 338— 58
BURNS, BOB ..... 355— 59
BUXTON, EUGENIA ..... 341— 60
BUYS, PETER ..... 342— 60

—C—

CAIN, NOBLE ..... 15— 61
CALLOWAY, CAB ..... 359—
CARNAHAN, FRANKLYN ..... 354— 62
CARNES, KATHLEEN ..... 364— 62
CARRERAS, MARIA ..... 282— 62
CASE, HARRIET ..... 282— 63
CASTAGNA, BRUNA ..... 308— 63
CAVALLARO, CARMEN ..... 368— 64
CHANLER, ARLYNE ..... 369— 64
CHAPEK, JOSEPH ..... 339— 64
CHARLES, RAY ..... 369— 64
CHASE, KATE F. ..... 314— 65
CHASE, LUCIA ..... 350— 65
CHERNIAVSKY, JOSEF ..... 310— 65
CHESNAIS, VICTOR ..... 316— 66
CIMERA, JAROSLAV ..... 294— 66
CLAWSON, ALBA ..... 336— 67
CLAYMAN, DAVID E. ..... 354— 67
COLLEDGE, GEORGE L. ..... 301— 69
COPPICUS, F. C. ..... 300— 70
CORIGLIANO, JOHN ..... 312— 70
CORYELL, MAY H. ..... 355— 71
COSTELLO, WILLIAM ..... 327— 71
CRAIG, MARY ..... 314— 71
CROOKS, RICHARD ..... 297— 72
CROSBY, BING ..... 365— 72
CROSBY, BOB ..... 358— 72
CROXEN, WES ..... 362— 73
CUGAT, XAVIER ..... 359— 73
CZAPLICKI, GEORGE ..... 276— 73

—D—

DAMROSCH, WALTER J. ..... 271— 74
DANBURG, RUSSELL ..... 356— 74
DAVIS, MILDRED ..... 332— 75
DE GRAY, JULIAN ..... 356— 76
DELLA CHIESA, VIVIAN ..... 290— 77
DE LOACHE, BENJAMIN ..... 339— 77
DEL TERZO, EMILIA ..... 318— 77
DE SELLEM, ELAINE ..... 295— 78
DE STEFANO, S. M. ..... 303— 78
DE YOUNG, RICHARD ..... 329— 79
DI CANIO, JOHN ..... 329— 79
DICKENSON, JEAN ..... 284— 79
DICKEY, ANNAMARY ..... 293— 79
DICKINSON, CLARENCE ..... 356— 79
DICKS, ELIZABETH ..... 343— 79
DIKE, VICTORIA ..... 310— 80
DOBSON, EDITH H. ..... 354— 80
DONAHUE, AL ..... 359— 80
DORFMAN, SAUL ..... 290— 81
DORSEY, JIMMY ..... 358— 81
DORSEY, TOMMY ..... 358— 81
DRANE, MARY ..... 314— 82
DRANE, VIRGINIA ..... 314— 82
DRITTELL, ANA ..... 354— 83
DRUMM, GEORGE ..... 328— 83
DUCHIN, EDDY ..... 359— 83
DUDLEY, EDWARD ..... 269— 83
DUETZMANN, MAX ..... 356— 83
DU MOULIN, ROSE LYON ..... 297— 84
DUNCAN, TODD ..... 304— 84

—E—

EDDY, NELSON ..... 317— 86
EDKINS, J. ALDEN ..... 299— 86
EHLERS, ALICE ..... 278— 86
ELLINGTON, DUKE ..... 358—
ENDRES, MARIE A. ..... 338— 88
ENGLES, GEORGE ..... 300— 88
ERB, JOHN W. ..... 311— 89
ESSEN, VIOLA ..... 344— 89
EVANS, DALE ..... 365— 89
EVANS, LAWRENCE ..... 300— 90
EWEN, DAVID ..... 16— 90

—F—

FAIR, REX ELTON ..... 312— 90
FARRELL, MARY A. V. ..... 356— 91
FERRIO, TERESA ..... 279— 92
FIRST PIANO QUARTET ..... 296—
FLAGSTAD, KIRSTEN ..... 292— 49
FLORENT, VERAN F. ..... 339— 94
FOKINE, LEON ..... 344— 94
FRANK BENNETT SINGERS ..... 348—658
FRANKLIN, FREDERIC ..... 313— 96
FREUND, HELEN B. ..... 268— 96
FRIJSH, POVLA ..... 295— 97

—G—

GAINSWORTH, MARJORIE 364— 98
GALLO, FORTUNE ..... 301— 99
GANZ, RUDOLPH ..... 12— 99
GANZ, RUDOLPH ..... 274—
GART, JOHN ..... 281—100
GATZ, FELIX M. ..... 356—100
GAUDENZI, EDITH W. ..... 268—100
GELBTRUNK, ADAM ..... 296—101
GEMMER, EDWIN J. ..... 355—102
GEON, MARCELLA ..... 354—102
GEYER, CARL ..... 342—102
GIANNINI, VITTORIO ..... 321—103
GIAUQUE, ALICE H. ..... 354—103
GLASS, WINIFRED ..... 327—104
GLASSON, T. BATH ..... 324—104
GLICKMAN, EDA ..... 315—105
GODFREY, ARTHUR ..... 365—105
GOLDMAN, E. F. ..... 343—105
GOLSCHMANN, V. ..... 266—106
GOODMAN, BENNY ..... 358—106
GRANVILLE, CHARLES N. 280—108
GREVER, MARIA ..... 319—109
GRIFFIN, GEORGE ..... 339—109
GRIGAITIS, WALTER ..... 269—109
GROSS, WALTER ..... 311—110
GRUPP, M. ..... 361—111

—H—

HADLEY, GRANT ..... 339—112
HAGERTY, DELLA ..... 355—113
HANDY, W. C. ..... 363—114
HARDER, ERWIN E. ..... 314—114
HARDING, WILL A. ..... 337—114
HARMS, JOHN ..... 354—115
HARRELL, MACK ..... 291—115
HARRIS, PHIL ..... 358—115
HARSHA, RUTH ..... 330—116
HARTMANN, ARTHUR ..... 17—116
HAUBIEL, CHARLES ..... 345—116
HAWKINS, ESTHER B. ..... 356—117
HAYES, HAZEL ..... 320—117
HEITMAN, HAZEL FERN ..... 284—118
HELLER, ADOLPH ..... 268—118
HELLER, MILDRED G. ..... 268—119
HENRY, HAROLD ..... 296—119
HERMAN, WOODY ..... 359—
HESS, HANS ..... 336—120
HILL, BARRE ..... 294—121
HILL, M. WOOD ..... 337—121
HILL, ROBERT P. ..... 313—121

HIMBER, RICHARD .....359—121
HOBER, BEAL .....277—122
HOE, LOUISA .....299—122
HOFHEIMER, GRACE .....342—123
HOFMANN, JOSEF .....279—123
HOPE, CONSTANCE .....301—
HOROWITZ, VLADIMIR ....354—124
HORWITZ, HANS .....296—124
HULTGREN, GEORGE .....354—126
HUNTER, JANE OGDEN .....290—126
HUNTER, MABEL WREDE 316—126
HUROK, S. .....300—127

—I—

INSANA, SILVIO .....342—127

—J—

JACKSON, BURTON L. .....336—128
JACQUET, H. MAURICE .....284—128
JAMES, HARRY .....359—
JEPSON, HELEN .....328—130
JOHNSON, JEANNETTE ....307—131
JONES, J. WESLEY .....338—132
JUDSON, ARTHUR .....300—132
JURGENS, DICK .....358—132
JUSTUS, T. M. .....349—132

—K—

KAINS, SHERWOOD .....356—133
KANDLE, LETRITIA .....288—133
KASKAS, ANNA .....275—133
KAYE, SIDNEY M. .....312—134
KEMMER, GEORGE W. .....315—134
KEMP, HAL .....358—134
KEMP, HAL .....361—
KENNEDY, STEVEN .....332—135
KIMBERLY, MAE E. .....343—136
KING, JESSIE .....303—136
KLAMROTH, WILFRIED ....327—137
KNAPP, ROY C. .....288—137
KOBER, GEORGIA .....331—138
KOHON, BENJAMIN .....295—138
KOSTELANETZ, ANDRE.....278—139
KOUSSEVITZKY, SERGE....267—139
KRAMER, SELMA .....288—140
KRUETGEN, ANNA .....347—141
KRUPA, GENE .....358—141
KYSER, KAY .....358—142

—L—

LA BARRE, COUNTESS A..278—142
LA BARRE, EUGENE .....352—142
LA BERGE, BERNARD R.....301—142
LADEROUTE, JOSEPH V.....285—142
LANGE, HANS .....317—143
LANIER, HELEN .....280—144
LAPHAM, CLAUDE .....295—144
LA PORTE, JOSEPH M.....339—144
LA PRADE, ERNEST .....341—144
LAUE, ADELA .....324—144
LEAF, ANN .....269—145
LEHMANN, OSCAR H. .....355—146
LEINSDORF, ERICH .....329—147
LENOX, LUCIE .....356—147
LEOPOLD, RALPH .....356—147
LEVEE, SARA .....278—148
LEWANDO, RALPH ..... 18—148
LIEBLING, LEONARD ..... 12—149
LIMBERG, EUGENIE L. .....317—149
LIVINGSTON, JERRY .....369—150
LOMBARDO, GUY .....359—151
LONGAS, FEDERICO .....292—151
LORING, EUGENE .....344—151
LOUDON, M. JENNETTE ... 279—152
LOW, LEO .....354—152
LUBOSHUTZ, PIERRE .....319—152
LUISETTI, P. A. .....329—152
LUNCEFORD, JIMMIE .....358—152
LUNCEFORD, JIMMIE .....367—
LUNDIN, JACK .....328—153
LUTZ, ESTELLE .....279—153
LYMAN, ABE .....359—153
LYMAN, ABE .....370—
LYNNE, EVELYN .....368—153

—M—

MAC CONACHIE, M. E. .....295—154
MAC DONALD, AMANDA ....315—154
MAC DONALD, J. .....291—154
MAC KINLAY, ELEANOR ..312—154
MAC MILLAN, SIR E. C.....330—154
MAC WATTERS, V. .....276—155
MADDY, JOSEPH E. ..... 11—155
MAHLER, FRITZ .....314—155
MANUSSEVITCH, VICTOR 342—157
MARCA, MARIA .....313—157
MARCELLI, RICO .....295—157
MARCUS, D. FRANK ..... 15—157
MARK, OTTALIE .....336—158
MARSHALL, LILLIAN C. ....278—158
MARTENS, VIOLET .....293—158
MARTIN, FREDDIE .....359—158
MARTIN, LINTON ..... 14—158
MARTINI, NINO .....329—159
MARVIN, MEL .....368—159
MASSMANN, MAGDALEN ..354—159
MATHIAS, ELMER L. .....355—160
MATTHEWS, WILLARD ....301—160
MAURO-COTTONE, A. .....269—160
MAYNOR, DOROTHY .....315—161
MC ARTHUR, EDWIN .....290—161
MC AULIFF, MARYA .....325—161
MC FARLAND, ARTHUR ....369—162
MC FARLAND, GEORGE ....369—162
MC GRANE, DON .....368—
MC KITRICK, KATHLEEN 296—163
MEAKIN, JACK .....368—163
MEHAN, MRS. JOHN D. .....302—164
MELCHIOR, LAURITZ .....297—164
MENDELSSOHN, FELIX R. 304—164
MEUSEL, LUCILLE .....339—165
MEYER, MARION .....329—165
MIKESHINA, ARIADNA .....277—165
MILAM, LENA .....356—165
MILANOV, ZINKA .....355—165
MILLER, GLENN .....358—166
MILLER, GLENN .....366—
MILLER, NEVILLE .....290—166
MILLS, E. C. .....338—166
MINTY, DOROTHY .....333—167
MIROVITCH, ALFRED .....312—167
MITTMANN, LEOPOLD .....296—167
MITTMANN, LEOPOLD .....348—
MONTELL, MARJORIE .....346—168
MOORE, E. V. .....290—168
MOORE, GRACE .....268—168
MORELLI, CARLO .....306—169
MORINI, ERICA .....312—169
MORSE, EARL W. .....315—169
MOTEN, ETTA .....279—170
MUELLER, FLORIAN .....354—170
MULLER, MAUD .....356—170
MURAT, RONALD .....269—171
MURIO, JAY .....351—171
MUSSER, CLAIR OMAR .....330—171

—N—

NADEAU, RAOUL .....334—171
NEHER, JOHN .....277—172
NEITZERT, GEORGE H. ....294—172
NELIDOFF, GEORGE .....314—172
NELSON, OZZIE .....359—172
NELSON, RUTH DANIELS 311—172
NEMENOFF, GENIA .....319—172
NICKERSON, CAMILLE L. 328—173
NOLTE, VIRGINIA .....314—174
NORMAN, PATRICIA .....368—174

—O—

OBER, JULIA FUQUA .....285—175
ODIERNO, EMILIA V. .....343—175
O'DONNELL, JOHN M. .....278—175
OLSSON, EMMA .....337—176
ORMANDY, EUGENE .....266—176
OSBORNE, JOSEPH .....302—177

—P—

PAGANUCCI, ANTHONY ....329—178
PAGE, RUTH .....310—178
PAINE, JOHN G. .....338—
PARRAGA, GRAZIELLA .....278—179
PARTRIDGE, ROLAND E. ..355—179
PATTON, LOWELL .....277—180
PAULSEN, P. MARINUS .....325—180
PEDRO, DON .....364—181
PEMBERTON, VIRGINIA ..331—181
PERKINS, CLELLA L. .....336—182
PERKINS, GLORIA .....289—182
PERLMAN, GEORGE .....323—182
PETRI, EGON .....309—183
PETRILLO, CAESAR .....276—183
PHILIP, WM. F. .....279—183
PIASTRO, MISHEL .....285—184
PILAT, PAULUS .....355—184
PLATOFF, MARC .....313—185
PONS, LILY .....283—185
PONSELLE, CARMELA .....340—185
PRICE, FLORENCE B. .....336—187
PRINCE, LEOPOLD .....345—188

—Q—

QUILLIAN, JAMES .....294—188

—R—

RABINOFF, ANASTASIA ....291—188
RACHMANINOFF, SERGEI 315—189
RASCHER, SIGURD .....291—189
RAUSCHELBACH,
REV. O. A. .....343—190
READ, GARDNER .....270—190
READ, JOHN T. .....354—190
REID, ETHEL .....313—191
RICCI, RUGGIERO .....298—192
RIZZO, ANDY .....291—193
ROBBINS, MAY .....355—194
ROBESON, PAUL .....283—194
ROBOTTI, JOSEPH .....278—194
ROCHE, JAMES M. .....289—194
RODZINSKI, ARTUR .....267—195
ROSENTHAL, MORIZ .....303—196
ROSENWALD, HANS ..... 11—196
ROSENWALD, HANS .....322—
ROSS, HUGH ..... 13—196
ROUNDS, ERMA .....355—197

ROWE, GENEVIEVE .....313—197
ROXAS, EMILIO A. .....295—197
RUBINSTEIN, ARTUR .....287—198
RYAN, BESSIE .....294—199

— S —

SALTER, JACK .....300—200
SALVI, AIDA .....355—200
SALVI, MARGARITA .....292—200
SALZEDO, CARLOS .....331—200
SAMPLE, JOHN DWIGHT 282—200
SANBORN, PITTS ..... 14—200
SAVINE, ALEXANDER .....305—201
SCHAFMEISTER, HELEN ..326—202
SCHAVER, EMMA L. .....276—202
SCHEFF, MORTIMER L. ....355—202
SCHMIDT, REINHOLD .....315—203
SCHROEDER, MARION .....337—204
SCHULTZ, ARNOLD .....342—204
SCHUMANN, HENRIETTA 272—204
SCIAPIRO, MICHEL .....268—205
SCIARRETTI, A. V. .....337—205
SCOTT, RAYMOND .....359—205
SEARLE, ELEANOR .....332—205
SEARS, CHARLES L. .....312—205
SECUNDA, SHOLOM .....356—206
SEVITZKY, FABIAN .....279—206
SHAW, ARTIE .....359—207
SHELTON, DICK .....368—207
SHERMAN, BESSIE W. .....269—207
SHEYNE, MICHAEL .....293—208
SHILKRET, NATHANIEL ..284—208
SHUBOW, RACHELLE .....290—208
SLONIMSKY, NICOLAS .....333—210
SMITH, EARLE C. .....355—211
SMITH, KATE .....360—211
SMITH, RAYMOND A. .....326—212
SMITH, VIOLA .....369—
SORANTIN, ERIC .....318—212
SOREY, VINCENT .....288—213
SPAIN, H. KNOX ..... 17—213
SPEAKER, ROBERT .....294—213
SPENCER, MILES .....338—214
SPIALEK, HANS .....293—214
SPONGBERG, VIOLA H. .....328—214
STABILE, DICK .....359—
STAUBER, GRETA .....289—215
STEN, SUZANNE .....326—216
STEWART, MICHAEL .....283—217
STOCK, FREDERICK ..... 266—218
STOES, PAUL H. ..... 301—218
STOKOWSKI, LEOPOLD ....266—218
STRAIN, KATHLEEN M. ....356—219
STRINGFIELD, LAMAR .....333—219
STROUP, DONALD .....355—220
STUMPF, MRS. CLARENCE 356—220
SUMMER, ALBERTA C. .....356—221
SUNDSTROM, EBBA .....283—221
SUTHERN, ORRIN C., II ....312—221
SYMONS, CHARLOTTE .....341—222
SZELL, GEORG .....291—222

— T —

TALLARICO, VICTOR A. ....369—222
TARANTINO, NOAH .....294—223
TAUBMAN, LEO .....335—223
TAYLOR, DAVIDSON .....326—
TAYLOR, DEEMS .....331—223
TILLMAN, ELIZABETH .....355—225
TIMOTHY, TOM .....365—226
TOMPKINS, MERRITT .....337—226
TOREN, E. CLIFFORD .....294—226
TOSCANINI, ARTURO .....267—226
TRENDLER, ROBERT .....363—227
TUCKER, ORRIN .....359—228
TURKISHER, L. ARTHUR....328—228
TUTHILL, JAMES A. B. .....281—228

— U —

UNKALUNT, PRINCESS A. 345—228
USSHER, BRUNO DAVID .... 13—229

— V —

VALDANE, ARVIDA .....349—229
VALLEE, RUDY .....358—229
VAN DYNE, WAYNE .....362—229
VANNA, GINA .....297—230
VAN WEY, ADELAIDE .....327—230
VASICH, NICHOLAS .....337—230
VELD, HENRY .....268—231
VERSON, CARA .....329—231
VINCENT, J. J. .....301—231
VRETA, BELLE .....340—233

— W —

WAGNER, CHARLES L. .....300—233
WALDMAN, DOROTHY J.....285—233
WALSH, HARRY S. .....291—234
WARING, FRED .....358—235
WARREN, LEONARD .....302—235
WASTERLAIN, VEOLA .....348—235
WEBSTER, BEVERIDGE ..271—236
WEBSTER, VERA .....340—236
WEIL, LE ROY W. .....341—237
WEISMANN, DIEZ .....355—237
WELGE, GLADYS .....315—238
WESCOTT, MARCY .....338—239
WHITE, FRANCIA .....286—239
WHITE, WILLIAM C. .....334—240
WHITMIRE, ALICE G. .....316—240
WICKHAM, FLORENCE ....335—240
WIENKE, EVELYN .....355—241
WILLIAMS, GRIFF .....359—
WILLITS, SCOTT A. .....314—242
WINDINGSTAD, OLE .....353—242
WISE, B. FRED .....292—243
WITWER, KATHRYN .....303—243
WOLF, ARTUR .....332—243
WOLFF, ERNST .....313—243
WOOD, ANNABELLE .....339—244
WOOD, RUSSELL A. .....268—244
WORTH, MAYNARD .....348—244
WYSOR, ELIZABETH .....270—245

— Y —

YON, PIETRO .....347—245

— Z —

ZADRI, NICOLAS .....310—246
ZAKIN, ALEXANDER .....296—246
ZIMBEROFF, BEN .....343—

THE GRANT PARK

BY EDWARD BARRY

CHICAGO'S Grant park concerts, which constitute what is probably the most ambitious and the best attended outdoor concert series in the world, offer interesting material for a study of summer music in transition. They represent faithfully the trend toward better music and more alert audiences, but at the same time they retain many of the more likable features of old time outdoor music-making.

That summer music is rapidly coming of age will be recognized by anyone who will give the matter a moment's thought. Not long ago the vast majority of summer concerts—even in large cities—were given by band men who made up in lung power what they lacked in musicianship and whose repertoire consisted of the "Light Cavalry" overture, "The Stars and Stripes Forever," and similar pieces. Not long ago summer concert audiences were made up almost entirely of inattentive casuals who thought of the art of music—when they thought of it at all—simply as an agreeable background for popcorn-eating and hand-holding.

Things are spectacularly different now. The most expensive conductors and soloists and the most renowned orchestras have so far conquered their distrust of the open air as to be found in profusion on the summer concert schedules of many of our large and some of our small cities. The music they offer does not differ radically from that which they are accustomed to perform in concert halls during the winter season. And summer audiences hold an increasing number of persons who are genuinely anxious to broaden their musical horizons.

The end is not yet in sight. It may be that before long the chamber music of Berg and Schönberg will be played in public parks, and dazzlingly gowned dowagers be able to carry on their conversations about the trend toward atonality out where the night will drip dew upon their tiaras. Before things come to such a pass it should be interesting to consider summer music—specifically, Grant park music—as it exists today.

* * * *

Out there on Chicago's windy lake front, on any summer evening, one is likely to encounter not the Firemen's band but such an organization as the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Chicago Opera orchestra, or the Woman's Symphony orchestra. At the conductor's stand will be no neighborhood storekeeper incongruously stuffed into a bandmaster's uniform but a man of the musical standing of Frederick Stock, Hans Lange, Henry Weber, or Izler Solomon. Instead of an ambitious young cornet virtuoso the soloist may quite possibly be Lily Pons, Richard Bonelli, or Efrem Zimbalist. (All of the above have appeared at Grant park. So have Kirsten Flagstad, Helen Jepson, Edith Mason, Maria Kurenko, Grace Moore, Marion Claire, Gladys Swarthout, Giovanni Martinelli, Tito Schipa, Richard Crooks, James Melton, John Carter, John Charles Thomas, Paul Robeson, Lawrence Tibbett, Julius Huehn, Albert Spalding, Jascha Heifetz, Mischa Elman, Moriz Rosenthal, Maurice Abravanel and Andre Kostelanetz.)

James C. Petrillo

GRANT PARK CONCERT OF JULY 24, 1939,

SUMMER CONCERTS

The program a chance attendant at Grant park is likely to hear will not be composed entirely of the "Poet and Peasant" overture and similar pieces. Indeed, the name of Beethoven occurs far more frequently on the programs than that of Suppé, and all of his symphonies except the ninth have received Grant park performances.

Every standard composer from Bach to Sibelius is represented more or less regularly. The basic Grant park orchestral repertoire consists of such things as the Franck symphony and the three last of Tschaikowsky, Dvorak's "From the New World," the more popular overtures of Weber and Wagner, Liszt's "Les Préludes," Smetana's "The Moldau," and the waltzes of Johann Strauss. However, frequent excursions are made into the works of Debussy, Glazunoff, Richard Strauss, and other modern and near modern composers. Even American contemporaries, despite what is considered the difficulty of their idiom, receive occasional representation. Harl McDonald, David Van Vactor, and Robert Sanders have all had works of theirs played at Grant park. Vocalists are apt to do a large number of operatic arias, and occasionally they leave the safe shelter of "La Traviata" and "Tannhäuser" for a foray into less familiar territory. Instrumental soloists do not invariably confine themselves to the standard nineteenth century concertos. Twice in one summer violinists played the Glazunoff in Grant park. In short, these lake front programs offer a good grounding in the standard repertoire and at the same time do not conceal the fact that other music does exist.

A large part of the audience comes not to eat popcorn nor to hold hands but to experience the heady delight which it is in the power of music to produce; also to improve their taste and increase their knowledge of the art. The people prove by their close attention to the performance and by the volume and spontaneity of their applause that they do derive intense delight from the music. The writer of this article once saw something which dramatized for him more powerfully than any recital of details ever could the reaction of Grant park audiences to music. During the playing of a certain piece he happened to notice an intently listening young woman, and the memory of that face—actually transfigured with an ecstasy on which it seemed almost indecent to look—will remain with him when most other Grant park facts are merely a confused memory. Would that he could report that the music being played was the slow movement of Beethoven's fourth symphony! Truth compels the admission that it was the "Danse Macabre."

The Grant Park Shell

IN WHICH LILY PONS APPEARED AS SOLOIST

The taste and knowledge of Grant park audiences are often something to confound the cynical. If the writer may be permitted one more illustrative example from his own memory, he once heard a Grant park crowd give a collective gasp of delight when the announcer said that So-and-so would next sing "Ave Maria"—then transform this gasp of delight into a disappointed "aw-w-w" when the announcer went on to explain that this "Ave Maria" was an arrangement of the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana."

* * * *

What has been said up to this point has tended to support the claim that Grant park performers, repertoire, and audiences represent the newer trends in summer music-making. It will now be our task to demonstrate the fact that not all of the characteristics of old time summer music have disappeared, and that many Grant park features are definitely reminiscent of other days.

For one thing, bands have by no means disappeared. True, they are better bands—bands that play with a sureness of intonation which would have been startling twenty years ago, bands that are able to deal competently with many pieces taken over from the symphonic repertoire—but they are bands nevertheless. Two or three nights a week the lake front is bright with the great golden music of their brass choirs. Even the cornet soloist is still with us, but now he is a very good cornet soloist. He can make his instrument sing big brazen melodies and execute fantastically florid passage work with a minimum of difficulty.

And something of the popular character of the old time summer programs has been retained. The list of soloists printed above far from exhausts Grant park's roster of big personalities. Names excluded from that list and saved for this include Dave Rubinoff, Helen Morgan, Bobby Breen, Rudy Vallee, and Jackie Heller. The popular character of some of the concerts is apparent in the choice of music, too. For one thing it is obvious that neither the bands on the one hand nor the Messrs. Rubinoff, Vallee, Heller, et. al. on the other can be expected to confine themselves to the standard composers. For another, the symphony orchestras and the concert and operatic soloists are not above making a dip, now and then, into a type of music which might astound or even horrify their winter audiences. The Chicago Symphony orchestra has played Victor Herbert on the lake front, Helen Jepson has sung Noel Coward. Such instances can be multiplied by anyone who will comb Grant park records. Even out and out popular music has received a fair amount of representation on these programs.

The neighborly quality of the summer music-making of other days has not disappeared from Grant park. Young local artists are often allowed to appear as soloists at the concerts, thus supplementing the roster of nationally known figures. More important still, the city's high school bands and orchestras were presented daily during June of 1940, as an additional feature. They each played a one hour concert preceding or following one of similar length by a professional organization.

Speaking of young local artists, the system by which they are chosen has not yet been perfected. The results which may be expected when and if it is perfected (through the establishment of a regular audition system) quite stagger the imagination. Surprisingly good material has already been found and there is without doubt a much larger amount still to be discovered. From the standpoint of the prestige of the sponsors, the pleasure of the audiences, and the benefits which will accrue to the young artists themselves, the value of a regular series and a carefully set up audition system can hardly be overestimated.

In the informal character of much of its audience Grant park finds still another link with older days. The people who come night after night to the concerts develop an off-hand manner in keeping with the traditions of summer music. They wear anything from formal dress to sweaters and overalls. If they do not care to sit down they can walk about on the silent grass. Those who find that the strain of keeping erect distracts them from the music may hear the concert in a reclining position. People lying on the ground a full block or more from the band shell are common sights in Grant park. A greatly improved amplification system guarantees that they will not miss a nuance.

The statement made earlier in this article that a great many summer concert patrons are now intent on broadening their musical horizons does not mean that popcorn-eating and hand-holding have disappeared from the scene. On the contrary, the former occupation ranks very high in importance, for the chill of evening in the great wind-swept audience area beside the lake arouses a desire for nourishment which it takes dozens of popcorn vendors to satisfy. And as for hand-holding, this practice is no more incompatible with Tschaikowsky than with Sousa. A great deal less, one might say. Besides eating and mild love making, these informal Grant park audiences sometimes knit and talk, too, although public opinion frowns so dourly on the last named occupation that it is not indulged in to any great extent except on the outermost fringes of the field.

These audiences worship celebrities in a way which patrons of more formal winter concerts would never countenance. There are great, uninhibited, open-mouthed shouts at the appearance on the stage of a Pons or a Vallee. Applause at the end of a number often consists not merely of hand clapping but of yells and shrill whistles as well. Autograph hunters and those desiring to kiss the soloist rush the police lines or try to sneak up the steps onto the stage.

The audience does not provide all the informality in Grant park. Announcements from the stage are full of a cheery hyperbole. Everyone is introduced at length as a person "who needs no introduction." The humblest baton wielder is described as a maestro, and the impression is strong that the concert audiences of half the known world are counting the days until his next appearance in their midst. Even the insects who swarm around the lights on hot still nights would doubtless, if the occasion to refer to them arose, be characterized as the finest insects obtainable.

More evidences of informality: The musicians sometimes come down from the stage to gossip with the audience during the intermission. Photographers lurk everywhere, and think nothing of descending in blinding, flashing force on a singer even when he is straining every muscle to compass his highest note. Lost children, a regular Grant park feature, wander about the audience area and eventually find their way to the band shell, where they are held in an enclosure while announcements concerning them are loud-speakered out over the field. An occasional dog or cat patters through the open space before the stage, stops for a moment to listen critically to some world famous soprano, then continues on his way without comment.

Something which the Grant park concerts have in common with outdoor concerts both of the past and of the future—something which no amount of progress can ever take away—is the outdoors itself. Regular patrons come to feel intensely the rhythm of daylight and twilight and dark, always the same yet changing subtly with weather conditions and with the advance of the season. In early summer the sun waits above the Michigan avenue buildings until the concert starts, and there are sometimes cloud displays so spectacular as to divert attention from the music. In August an occasional night comes along with the feel of fall in it—rusting wind and the smell of dank earth. There are hot windless nights when Lake Michigan might be a thousand miles instead of a few hundred feet away. Audiences stay through thick and thin, using newspapers to manufacture impromptu costumes for themselves when rain sweeps across Grant park's unprotected acres.

* * * *

The Grant park concerts are largely the result of the persistence of one man —James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians and the Chicago Federation of Musicians and a commissioner of the Chicago park district. In 1935, the year after the Chicago Symphony orchestra and the Detroit Symphony orchestra, playing at the Chicago World's Fair, had demonstrated the fact that a large public appetite for good summer music exists, Mr. Petrillo decided to present a series of free concerts in Grant park and to pay the musicians out of the union treasury. The following year the Chicago Park district began bearing most of the financial burden, although the union continued to provide a budget for soloists. In 1940 Mr. Petrillo added an extra month of concerts to the regular July-August schedule, so that Grant park activities now extend from June 1 to Labor Day. The June concerts of 1940 were paid for by the union. On July 1 the Chicago Park district took over.

During the years 1935 to 1940 inclusive the union disbursed $187,365 for Grant park concerts and the Park district about $680,000. Concerts were given nightly by bands and orchestras of 74 pieces, and some 33,000 musicians received fees. (Not 33,000 separate individuals, of course. There are numerous "repeaters" in these Grant park orchestras.) The most important of Grant park statistics—those relating to attendance—cannot be given for the simple reason that no one knows how many came. People streamed onto the gateless field from all directions. They listened from the base of the Columbus monument, from the steps of the Field museum, from their own cars parked on the drives. One can only say vaguely that Grant park's total attendance to date runs well into the millions, and that what was probably its greatest single assemblage (on July 24, 1939, when Lily Pons sang and Andre Kostelanetz conducted) topped even the vast throngs which fill the country's largest football stadia on gala autumn Saturdays. It is encouraging to note the fact that attendance has increased steadily with the raising of musical standards, and that the Grant park record is held not by Dave Rubinoff or Jackie Heller but very probably by Lily Pons. However, so many other factors besides musical standards have entered into the increase in Grant park attendance that only the boldest analyst would dare claim that there is a direct and stable connection. Grant park has been well advertised (principally through a very large amount of network and local broadcasting from the field and through the regular coverage which most Chicago newspapers give to the concerts) and this fact is undoubtedly one of those which must be considered in trying to understand the significance of the mammoth attendance.

Mr. Petrillo has further plans for the Grant park concerts. He hopes to see the three month season become permanent. And he hopes that the city, possibly with government aid, will eventually build what he calls a "natural amphitheater" in Grant park. Those pictures of Hollywood bowl look very attractive, and Grant park, despite its notorious lack of mountainous terrain, might somehow be whipped into similar shape if enough dollars and determination were forthcoming.

The Lewisohn Stadium Concerts

By DORLE JARMEL

1940 marked the 23rd anniversary of the Stadium Concerts. Begun during the World War as an experiment in light summer music, largely to help entertain the soldiers and sailors, it developed rapidly into a national institution which has been the model and inspiration for similar out-of-door series throughout the entire country.

The Stadium Concerts regularly presents the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra under distinguished conductors each summer, in programs based upon the solid foundations of the classic symphonic repertoire varied by new works, punctuated by opera and ballet presentations, heightened in interest by the appearances of eminent soloists in the standard concerti or special works requiring solo voices and chorus.

Years of experience have proved that Stadium audiences are interested in music for music's sake and aggressively support by their continued attendance the program policy of the Stadium management, which calls for music of the highest order with concessions to nothing but the specific problems of the amphitheatre itself. For many seasons, popular music at the Stadium has meant good music. The better the music, the bigger the crowd. Welded by the persuasion of instrumental and vocal art, liberals and reactionaries, New Dealers and Republicans, young and old, sink their politics and their differences, forget their problems and their troubles, in the solace and joy of Bach and Beethoven and Brahms.

Generous, public-spirited citizens help underwrite the Stadium's inevitable summer deficit. Under the enthusiastic, indefatigable guidance of the Chairman of the Stadium Concerts Committee, Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer, and with the support of Honorary Chairmen Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia and Mr. Sam A. Lewisohn, the money is raised each year to help assure the musical well-being of New York in the summertime.

Important occasions draw imposing audiences. On August 16, 1932, George Gershwin's appearance drew 17,835 persons and this figure was capped each season after this until the composer's death. Programs devoted to his music are now equally popular. Soloists such as Heifetz and Hofmann, Anderson and Flagstad, Spalding, Elman and Zimbalist are the signal for enormous crowds. Heifetz, as an example, drew 19,941 people one night in 1939. The ballet has a large following, too. On three successive nights in 1934 the Fokine Ballet drew almost 50,000 balletomanes. Last summer the Ballet Theatre was one of the most popular attractions.

It seems strange, in view of its present status, that the Stadium Concerts was organized in 1918, as a wartime act, to provide diversion for the soldiers and sailors stationed in the vicinity of New York and to sustain the morale of the public. On June 23, 1918, Arnold Volpe—the Stadium's first conductor—rapped his baton on the music stand, lifted orchestra and audience to their feet with the proud strains of "The Star Spangled Banner." Since then there has been no summer without Stadium Concerts and each year has brought the concerts into greater importance in the civic and cultural life of the city and—through its broadcasts and reputation—into the musical fibre of the country at large. In fact, the Stadium has been the prototype for such al fresco musical institutions as the Hollywood Bowl, the Robin Hood Dell concerts of the Philadelphia Orchestra, the "Sunset Symphony" concerts at the Potomac Gate in Washington, D. C., and many others.

It was wartime in 1918 and during that entire first season no German or Austrian music was played. The opening program is interesting and curious, in comparison with today. It included Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," Dvorak's "New World" Symphony, Rossini's "William Tell" Overture, Anna Fitziu singing the "Ritorna Vincitor" from "Aida," Miss Fitziu and the Metropolitan Opera Chorus in the Easter Song from "Cavalleria Rusticana," and an American Reveille, a "patriotic fantasy for orchestra and chorus" written by the conductor. That first season was sponsored by Mrs. Guggenheimer and Adolph Lewisohn.

Mr. Volpe conducted again the following year. In 1920 the National Symphony played under the late Walter Henry Rothwell. In 1921 Victor Herbert and Henry Hadley divided a five week season. Mr. Hadley returned in 1922 for three weeks with William van Hoogstraten as guest conductor for the remaining three weeks.

In 1923 van Hoogstraten became a permanent conductor at the Stadium, a position he held through the summer of 1938. That summer (1923) was one of six weeks, directed by van Hoogstraten alone. It was a season which will be remembered for the decision to engage the Philharmonic Orchestra (the present Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra) as the performing organization of the Stadium Concerts.

The 1924 season was increased one week with Fritz Reiner—then head of the Cincinnati Symphony—wielding the baton for a fortnight. In 1925 growing attendance and interest justified augmenting the concerts to eight weeks, the length the season remained through 1938; the 1939 season scheduled ten weeks. That summer of 1925 found Reiner again in charge for a week with another fortnight divided between Rudolph Ganz—then with the St. Louis Symphony, and Nikolai Sokoloff—then with the Cleveland Orchestra.

In 1926 van Hoogstraten's three "off" weeks were divided equally between Sokoloff, the late Henry Hadley and Frederick Stock, the conductor of the Chicago Symphony. In 1927 Stock returned for two weeks with Pierre Monteux—one time conductor of the Boston Symphony and present conductor of the San Francisco Symphony—in control for one week and Arnold Volpe back for three nights.

The year 1928 found Bernardino Molinari of the Rome Augusteum at the Stadium for two weeks, and Albert Coates, Anglo-Russian conductor, then head of the London Symphony, in charge for a week. In 1929 and 1930 van Hoogstraten conducted five weeks and Albert Coates three. Coates continued his ministrations throughout 1932.

The year 1933 gave the Stadium two new guest conductors: Hans Kindler, head of the Washington National Symphony Orchestra; and Leon Barzin, the American conductor of the National Orchestral Association. That was the year Jose Iturbi conducted two nights, his first appearances on the podium in the United States, the prelude to a famous duo-career as conductor-pianist. Iturbi returned to the Stadium every season thereafter through 1938.

Since 1935 Alexander Smallens has had charge every season of the opera and ballet productions at the Stadium, as well as symphonic concerts. During 1936 and 1937 the young British conductor Paul Kerby was given a chance to prove his worth. Kerby was one in a line of younger men who every season are given opportunities denied during the more rigid and conservative winter musical seasons of New York. Eugene Ormandy, for instance, appeared at the Stadium conducting a dance program for Anna Duncan when he was unknown except to radio audiences. He was to return later in 1934 as regular conductor, when he had already won fame as director of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

1937—the 20th season of the Stadium—opened with Vladimir Golschmann of the St. Louis Symphony. The American conductor, George King Raudenbush of the Harrisburg Symphony, was introduced to Stadium audiences that summer. Others who conducted were van Hoogstraten and Smallens. Of particular importance that summer was the production of Strauss' "Salome" under Smallens, and a Wagner Festival in concert form under the baton of Fritz Reiner, which comprised the four operas of the Ring and "Tristan and Isolde." August 9 1937, was dedicated to Gershwin Memorial Night, a tribute to the American composer whose work and name had been associated for many years with the Stadium. Gershwin himself had appeared as soloist at the Stadium in 1929, 1930, and 1934. Smallens, Ferde Grofe, Ethel Merman, Harry Kaufman and members of the original cast of "Porgy and Bess" participated.

During 1938 the major conductors were as follows: Jose Iturbi, seven performances; Alexander Smallens, twenty; Willem van Hoogstraten, twelve; Massimo Freccia, young Florentine conductor making his American debut, seven; Macklin Marrow, young American conductor making his Stadium debut, four. One concert each was directed by the following: Paul Whiteman, conducting a Gershwin Memorial Concert; Antonia Brico, the first woman ever to appear on the Stadium podium; Alexander Hilsberg, conducting the concert at which Josef Hofmann was soloist; Theodore Cella, the solo harpist of the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, who conducted a concert in the Great Hall one night when rain cancelled a special event; and a group of conductors on an American Composers Night Program.

Conductors for 1939 were Walter Damrosch, the dean of American conductors, who opened the season; Massimo Freccia; Efrem Kurtz, Russian Musical Director of the Monte Carlo Ballet; Charles O' Connell, American conductor who conducted the Philadelphia Orchestra during its summer concerts and on tour; Fritz Reiner, head of the Pittsburgh Symphony; Alexander Smallens, who conducted the operas "Carmen" and "Aida," the Fokine Ballet in two pairs of performances featuring Paul Haakon and Patricia Bowman, and symphonic concerts; Frieder Weissmann, former head of the Berlin Symphony; Erich Leinsdorf, conductor of Wagnerian repertoire at the Metropolitan, and Carl Bamberger, Viennese conductor. Stadium soloists during 1939 included Spaulding, Hofmann, Virovai, Lily Pons, Heifetz, Florence Easton and Jan Peerce.

Approximately 300,000 people attended the Stadium Concerts this past season (1940). A number of special features and soloists, the opera, "Carmen" and an extended Ballet season were presented under eight conductors. As always the orchestra was the Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York.

Artur Rodzinski, Musical Director of the Cleveland Orchestra, conducted at the Stadium for the first time this summer. He opened the season on June 20th with Rudolf Serkin as soloist in the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 and conducted nine other concerts during the first fortnight. His programs featured a Brahms cycle which included the Violin Concerto played by Albert Spalding on June 22nd, the four symphonies, and the "Academic" and "Tragic" Overtures.

Other conductors were Alexander Smallens, Efrem Kurtz, Massimo Freccia, Frieder Weissmann, Hans Wilhelm Steinberg, the American, Edwin McArthur and Andre Kostelanetz.

Kirsten Flagstad and Marian Anderson were among the important Stadium soloists and appeared respectively on July 8th and 20th. Paul Robeson was soloist in "Ballad for Americans" on June 24th. The same program featured the premiere of Still's "And They Lynched Him on a Tree," for negro and white chorus and orchestra, set to a poem of Katherine Garrison Chapin. Another special program was that of July 13th, the annual Gershwin concert, with Oscar Levant as soloist. Elsie Houston, Brazilian singer from South America, appeared June 14th. Josef Lhevinne and Mischa Elman were featured on July 27th and August 8th in Tschaikowsky concerti. Alec Templeton performed the Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto No. 2 on August 12 together with some of his own compositions, and Efrem Zimbalist closed the season playing the Violin Concerto on an all-Sibelius program.

Ballet played a more important part than ever before at the Stadium in the 1940 season. The Ballet Theatre appeared six times at the Stadium.

One opera was given, Bizet's "Carmen," on July 29 and 30 with Rose Pauly and Armand Tokatyan heading a cast under the direction of Mr. Smallens, who also directed the Ballet Theatre.

1940 was the most successful Stadium season for many years, a fact which is encouraging Mrs. Guggenheimer to plan the summer of 1941 on an even larger and more brilliant scale.

Robin Hood Dell Concerts

ROBIN HOOD DELL, one of the most beautiful, natural, outdoor amphitheaters, is one of the oldest of the al fresco concert centers in the country. The Dell was inaugurated in 1930 under the baton of Leopold Stokowski as a means to keep the members of the renowned Philadelphia Orchestra together.

For years sponsors of the orchestra were irked by vacancies in the ranks, as men left the organization after it had completed its winter schedule and were lured to other places. The Dell was therefore organized as a means to keep the renowned ensemble intact, and it virtually has.

It is situated in a glade in the middle of Fairmount Park—the nation's largest natural park situated within a municipality. It contains 4,300 acres.

The Dell seating capacity is 6,500, but 2,500 more music lovers generally sit precariously under the spreading trees on the steep slopes of the enclosure. Year after year, they flock to these favorite positions and are known as "the Dell Chamoix."

Although many of the greatest in music—conductors, singers, instrumentalists, and ballet artists, have graced the Dell in past years, the 1940 program was its most ambitious series. The original schedule called for four operas, Carmen, Aida, Madame Butterfly, and Rigoletto, and the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas The Mikado, Pinafore, and Trial by Jury, the latter three presented by the Daltry Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company.

Scheduled soloists included Lily Pons and her conductor-husband Andre Kostelanetz, Grace Moore, Oscar Levant, Alec Templeton, Marian Anderson, Kirsten Flagstad, Edmund Kurtz, Jose Iturbi, Vladimir Horowitz, and Mischa Elman. Despite substantial increases in attendance, during the early part of the season, the series had to be curtailed, and the final week of the schedule, which included Mischa Elman, was cancelled. This was necessitated by the mounting deficit brought on by the most inclement weather experienced in the Dell's 11 year history.

First came the blight of unusually cold weather in the last two weeks of June. In the first two weeks of July, threatening thunderheads piled up almost nightly over the Dell to keep attendance down, although the concerts were given. The last two weeks of July were marked by rain and a terrific heat wave which either forced cancellation of the concert or kept attendance to a minimum. On only three days were soloists favored with promising concert weather. These were for the appearances of Oscar Levant on July 1, Marian Anderson on July 18, and Alec Templeton, August 8. Levant drew more than 10,000 to break the all-time Dell attendance record established by Lily Pons in 1939, and his mark was in turn outshone by Marian Anderson, who drew 11,821 paid admissions to the Dell, nearly twice its seating capacity, while an estimated 20,000 were turned away and 15,000 remained packed outside the enclosure to hear the concert which filtered to them through the public address system.

The next best attraction at that time was Alec Templeton, who appeared July 11. Although severe showers occurred from 6 o'clock to 7:30, more than 8,000 were in the Dell when he opened his performance at 8:30. Another deluge occurred however, directly after intermission, and the balance of his concert was washed out. Templeton was returned by request on August 8—the only artist to receive a return invitation during the current season—and broke the Anderson record with 12,503 paid admissions.

An injury to his hand forced cancellation of the appearance of Vladimir Horowitz, famous pianist son-in-law of Auturo Toscanini. He was replaced by Paul Robeson, who drew more than capacity. This re-shuffling of the program also eliminated the presentation of the opera Rigoletto, scheduled for August 5 and 6. In its place symphony concerts conducted by Alexander Smallens and Hans Wilhelm Steinberg were substituted.

Artists featured in the operas included Metropolitan stars, Rose Pauly, Hilda Burke, Rosa Tentoni, Armand Tokatyan, Arthur Carron, and Julius Huehn. The conductors were Eugene Ormandy, who opened the season; George Sebastian, conductor of the Scranton, Pennsylvania Symphony Orchestra; Alexander Hilsberg, concert master of the Philadelphia Orchestra; Izler Solomon, of the Illinois Symphony Orchestra; Tauno Hannikainen, Finland's greatest conductor, who led an all-Sibelius concert; Sylvan Levin, music director of the Philadelphia Opera Company; Efrem Kurtz of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo; Edwin McArthur, special conductor for Mme. Flagstad; Joseph Daltry and Jose Iturbi; Steinberg, co-conductor of the N. B. C. Symphony; Smallens, and Kostelanetz.

In former years the Dell has operated with a deficit of $30,000 to $40,000. This was met by public subscription, but the management this year, realizing that those accustomed to contributing this, were faced with unusually heavy demands because of existing world conditions, — sought contributions of only $20,000, which was obtained. With a budget of $120,000 for the season, officials set a goal of $65,000 for the sale of coupon books, $35,000 for cash admissions, which, with the $20,000 contributions, was to have made up the total.

Weather conditions, however, were responsible for the loss of $15,700 for the presentations of Carmen, Aida, the concert by Mme. Flagstad, and Madame Butterfly, which, with a natural resultant substantial lag in cash sales was responsible for the deficit. However, for the 33 concerts presented, which ended the season August 9, there was an attendance of 132,000 compared to 138,000 for the 40 concerts in 1939. That the Dell is becoming increasingly popular is also viewed in the significant fact that $60,000 in coupon books were sold for the 33 concerts, compared with $39,000 for the entire 1939 season.

Regarding plans for next year, President Samuel R. Rosenbaum of the Dell said, "Those of us associated with the organization face the future without loss of encouragement, and the Dell is there if Philadelphia wants it."

Dell affairs this year were directed by board-chairman Wm. Fulton Kurtz, President of the Pennsylvania Company, one of the major financial institutions of the eastern seaboard; Mr. Rosenbaum, banker, attorney, real estate operator, and radio station president; vice-president Benjamin Ludlow, nationally known attorney; and general manager William K. Huff, long identified in national musical affairs as executive director of the Philadelphia Forum.

Hollywood Bowl Concerts

By JOHN ORLANDO NORTHCUTT

ON THE night of August 20, 1940, an audience of 24,015 established the record attendance for the season, at the performance of "Carmen," with Gladys Swarthout in the title role.

In 1936, an all-time record audience of 26,000 heard Lily Pons, and huge throngs, often exceeding the seating capacity of 20,000, have heard the world's greatest singers, and symphony music under the direction of oustanding conductors.

Richard Crooks, Vladimir Horowitz, Oscar Levant, Paul Robeson, Lauritz Melchior, Bartlett and Robinson, Lily Pons, Alec Templeton, John Charles Thomas, Grace Moore, Mischa Elman, Kirsten Flagstad, Jose Iturbi, Vronsky and Babin—these were the soloists who entertained the audiences this past summer of 1940.

Conductors who led the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra during the eight weeks' season from July 9 to Aug. 30 included Bruno Walter, John Barbirolli, Georg Szell, Albert Coates, Richard Lert, David Broekman, Henry Svedrofsky, Andre Kostelanetz, Anthony Collins, Richard Hageman, Pietro Cimini, Jose Iturbi, Edwin McArthur and Igor Stravinsky.

In addition, the season's schedule included a performance of the opera Carmen, featuring Gladys Swarthout, Armand Tokatyan, Laura Saunders and Perry Askam, and the Spanish dancers Jose Cansino and Antonita Morales. The Nijinski Ballet and the Bolm Ballet were other stellar attractions.

Nestling in the cup of hills a short distance from Hollywood, Cal., the Hollywood Bowl, the world's largest natural amphitheatre, has just had its 18th consecutive season (1940) of summer music, known as "Symphonies Under the Stars."

Each summer, 24 concerts are given in an eight-week season. More than 600 events have been presented in the Bowl—with but one postponement because of rain!

Occupying an area of 66 acres, Hollywood Bowl has a property value of $1,500,000. It is owned by the County of Los Angeles, and is leased at $1 a year to a civic non-profit organization.

For the past seven years, the summer concert seasons in the Bowl have been presented under the auspices of the Southern California Symphony Association, the civic group which sponsors the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. The Los Angeles Philharmonic has played at all Hollywood Bowl concerts.

Since the amphitheatre was established in 1922, 4,500,000 persons have attended Bowl programs; 125 major artists have appeared, of whom 115 were native-born Americans; 100 conductors from 15 countries have led the orchestra.

The 1940 season was 35 per cent ahead of 1939 in attendance, and well ahead of the previous four years. In the past six years, 19 grand operas and 21 ballets have been presented, in which some 1,450 resident choral singers and dancers have been employed.

Shut off from traffic noises by the natural formation of the hills, Hollywood Bowl has magnificent acoustics. Entrancing in its scenic loveliness, it is the perfect setting for "Symphonies Under the Stars."

Beating The Band

By EDWIN FRANKO GOLDMAN

BAND music is my prime interest, although figuratively, I am the offspring of an orchestra. The orchestra which "cradled" me was that of the Metropolitan Opera House, during the podium tenantry of such famous conductors as Damrosch, Mahler, Mottl and Toscanini. My last year with the Metropolitan was the great Toscanini's first.

The great need for development in bands and band music became most apparent to me when, to supplement my income from the Metropolitan's short seasons during the summer months, I played cornet with numerous bands in the public parks and elsewhere. I discovered that these bands, unfortunately, spent little time in rehearsal, were handicapped by limited literature, and not too well disciplined. They were handicapped and ineffectual in performance. Indeed, most of the so-called military bands of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries programmed, for the most part, nebulous marches, polkas and gallops. Unquestionably, they failed to make any real contribution to either the modern or classical music of their era. However, one cannot forget the leadership and organization of the finest of such earlier bands as those of Patrick Gilmore, Victor Herbert and John Philip Sousa.

During my connection with the Metropolitan Orchestra and for some years after, while serving my apprenticeship as a conductor and organizer of small wind instrument ensembles, it was my constant desire to raise band music to the artistic heights of the symphony orchestra. I saw no good reason why this could not be done. True, I knew that the concert band could not completely encompass the sweeping tonal values of the strings. Nevertheless, I felt that the woodwinds particularly, when a full reed choir was available—could not only become an effective substitute but a sweeping musical power on their own.

Close your eyes when listening to a performance of Rimsky-Korsakoff's Flight of the Bumble Bee or a perpetuum mobile, played by a fine concert band, and you may at once realize that the music of the woodwinds can be as emotionally satisfying as the virtuoso qualities of well-played strings.

Subconsciously, I must have had this thought in mind since adolescence. Perhaps that is why I had visions of something never before attempted: a band which would be truly symphonic in character. Somehow, I was convinced that wood instruments could be made to perform in a manner far above the standard set for them before I became of age.

Realizing the limitations of the types of military bands which I have mentioned heretofore in this article, it was my hope to organize the kind of band I envisioned and give regular concerts which might be enjoyed by all.

At that time I may have been an idealist, but I was practical-minded as well. I knew that financial backing was necessary. There is little of news in the fact that in 1917 I raised many thousands of dollars for the New York Military Band's initial seasons on the Columbia University Green. People insisted on calling the organization the Goldman Band and thus, at the instigation of its attendants, that became its name. In 1922 the seasonal concerts were transferred to the Mall in Central Park where they held sway until 1925. Today, from June to midsummer, they are shared by the Mall and Prospect Park, Brooklyn, New York.

The story of how the Daniel and Murray Guggenheims removed the financial burden of the band from my shoulders in 1924 is also more than a twice-told tale. Currently, the Daniel Guggenheim Memorial Concerts have, via the radio, become a gift to the entire nation. Statistics now prove that more people have heard the Goldman Band over the radio than any other permanent organization. These same statistics also reveal that the Goldman Band was one of the first major organizations to go on the air. In fact, the band appeared on November 15, 1926 on the first program ever broadcast by NBC. This was a notable event in which Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony Orchestra, Mary Garden, Harold Bauer, Tito Ruffo and Will Rogers were among the famous participants.

Although I have no connection with Wall Street and its "bulls" and "bears," I have, nevertheless, been frequently referred to as a "market cornerer." This, because of the fact that I have always looked for and engaged outstanding virtuoso soloists for the Goldman Band.

If I have been a "market cornerer," I have also been the subject of "raiders." That is why in the past and today, many musicians who have played with the Goldman Band either have been or still are with the New York Philharmonic Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra and other leading organizations.

Through the years with the Goldman Band, the original objects of bringing together the finest exponents of wind instruments have been attained and adhered to. It is gratifying to know that the Goldman Band has been an inspiration to the band movement throughout the country. New and improved seating arrangements, wider band literature, and a more general awakening of the public to the capacities of bands have been my aim; and the degree of success has been no small source of satisfaction.

In 1928 the American Bandmasters Association was formed by me, affording a powerful impetus to the development of band music. Among the immediate ideals of this organization was a demand for better editions from publishers, as well as a sweeping request to composers to write especially for the band. Among the composers who rallied to this request were the late Otorino Respighi and that eminent contemporary pianist-composer, Percy Grainger. Holst and Hadley were also persuaded to contribute to the enlargement of the band repertoire.

At this point, I would like to give a word or two of advice to anyone aspiring to organize a new concert band or improve one already under his direction. Tonal quality and tonal blending should never be sacrificed to a thoroughly unbalanced mass of sound. It is, therefore, advisable to keep each section of the band supplied with a proportionate allotment of instruments. If you live in a community where there are six to ten small professional, semi-professional or amateur military or concert bands, make an attempt to merge the better players from each band into one or two completely equipped ensembles. Should you succeed in so doing, you may find it far easier to secure support and recognition. Small bands cannot possibly give a good account of themselves unless they are made up of excellent players, and unless music is specially arranged for their particular combination of instruments. Remember, too, that satisfactory rehearsals are the clues and cues to satisfactory performances.

As I see it, "Beating the Band" not only means keeping an organization of first rate musicians in perfect tempo, but also constantly furthering it in every one of the manifold phases involved—from soloist to ensemble, repertoire and public acceptance.

MUSIC EDUCATION

Music Education In America

By RUDOLPH GANZ

AT THE beginning of this century there were few symphony orchestras of the first order in the United States: the prominent schools of music had faculties made up of a majority of foreigners; students were many; standards of requirements and examinations were not too demanding; little was done in the creative field; in brief, music education was in the first stages of its making. Today, music has ceased to be a profession only, it has become an outstanding force in the field of education and may prove to become not only its newest but its strongest factor. To quote Life Magazine, of Dec. 10th, 1938, "Today in America 10,000,000 people, most of them public school children, are studying music. Millions of Americans actually play instruments —with 156,000 school bands and orchestras, and in the 260 local symphony orchestras. Through education, America is at last satisfying its urge for music."

Cold, large figures may never mean much to one who is interested in quality instead of quantity. However quality is the outcome of the struggle for excellence and superiority of many quantities. If it takes a million talented singers to bring about a Caruso, a half million gifted pianists to produce a Paderewski, a quarter million creative urges to give us a Debussy, then let us look upon "Life's" large figures with a friendly eye. There are millions of churchgoers but how many good, honest, Christians? We have millions of voters but how many really democratic minds? So there are hundred thousands of music students, teachers, performers, but we may ask, how many real artists, be they performers or composers?

Two factors, outside of the musical profession, have, in my judgment, helped to make the present music life of the Nation the immensely rich one it is. The first is the National Federation of Music clubs with a membership of 5000 sub-clubs, large and small, all over the country. It holds well attended biannual conventions that last nearly a week during which numerous concerts featuring American artists and American compositions are given. Important national contests for performers have been arranged in a manner so as to give outstanding young talent from all parts of the land an opportunity to win national honors which lead in many cases to the beginning of professional careers. The encouragement of creative talent is also in evidence in the awarding of prizes and guarantees of performances. In addition to this great and powerful organization there are numerous local women's clubs sponsoring local talent and bringing together music-minded people for discussion of musical subjects. The other factor is the advent of orchestral and band activity in the high schools, colleges and universities. According to Patterson's Directory and the American Blue Book, there were in 1938, 321 music schools (conservatories, college and university music departments). Of these, 215 had orchestras and 24 claimed choral groups. There are over 600 colleges and universities in the United States of recognized standing of which one third allow credit for singing and playing (for entrance), and 452 grant credit in their curricula, a gain of 166 in 10 years.

The assurance of excellence of scholastic and academic standing in all these institutions of higher learning is guaranteed by several associations which accredit the courses taken toward bachelor and master degrees in applied music, music education and musicology. Credits earned in institutions under this strict control and supervision are accepted by the state department of all 48 States in the Union. Another organization, somewhat less powerful but of decided importance, is the National Association of Schools of Music with a membership of over 100 university music departments as well as private conservatories of music. This organization has been successful in bringing about standardized curricula for music study in all branches of the profession. Yearly meetings in cooperation with the Music Teachers' National Association, the American Society of Musicologists and with Sinfonia, a national fraternity, have produced a fine feeling of collaboration and understanding among the professionals from all parts of the country.

But to return to the young orchestras and bands, it is gratifying that the quality of published material for these minor and often incomplete organizations is constantly rising. Some artistically doubtful arrangements are still encountered from time to time. However a well-played doubtful arrangement or transcription is more pleasant than a bad performance of an original work. The classical repertory of these junior bands and orchestras includes parts of many well known symphonies, overtures and suites which means that the young participants are being introduced to the better music. The American publishers deserve great credit for encouraging native composers to write original works for these groups as well as for choral organizations of all types. Some ten years ago a thrilling experience was afforded me when, upon the impromptu request of that progressive and dynamic Dr. Joseph Maddy, outstanding Music Educator, I directed the Meistersinger Prelude with a super-high school orchestra of over 300 picked youngsters, assembled in rehearsal for a concert scheduled for the Music Educators' National Conference. Precision of execution, elasticity of tempo, excellence of tone quality, as well as technical competence were the astonishing qualities of their performance.

It is estimated that there are approximately 17,000 music teachers in class rooms. 85 per cent of the total membership in the Music Educators' National Conference is employed in public schools. Over 5 million boys and girls are enrolled in high-schools, 50 times as many as in 1880, and the proportion of those taking elective music courses is increasing annually.

The glorification of all these forward movements toward a final, ideal achievement was realized by that unique, relentless leader, Dr. Leopold Stokowski when he created the American Youth Orchestra. The members of this unusual, personally selected organization —no doubt the first of its kind in the world—has at this writing, just begun its goodwill tour through South-America. The audiences there will be amazed at the beautifully blended performances these privileged young North Americans are bound to give them. There is no more eloquent proof of the advancement of music in our land, of these heart warming results in our new music education, than the advent of this Youth Orchestra and its first appearances before our own public. What the growth of interest in symphonic expression means to the instrument-making industries should not be underestimated. I know of a Midwestern concern which, a short while ago, employed three shifts to satisfy the demand for orchestral instruments.

If the 1930 census lists 165,128 musicians and music teachers gainfully employed in these United States, what will the statistics of 1940 show? What enormous figures would a census of music students produce? And the music lovers at large? If 67% of all broadcasting is music, and if an estimated 60 million radio listeners are becoming acquainted with better music, what a triumph for all the efforts made in furthering the appreciation of music. Dr. Walter Damrosch's educational hours are said to command six to seven millions of young listeners. More and more educational programs begin to appear. The "air-doors" have been opened to young American talent and especially gifted singers and performers are constantly being discovered. Associations for adult education through music have sprung up everywhere. Mme. Olga Samaroff Stokowski's layman's courses are gaining wide recognition. Home study and correspondence courses are extensively encouraged. Settlement and community schools of music are increasing in number. More and more institutes and museums give concerts as special offerings. Music camps have been created and attract thousands of young musicians, mostly of high school age, during the summer months. Interlochen, Michigan, has become a real Mecca to which distinguished guest conductors pilgrimage to direct the orchestra made up of talented youths.

Summer festivals attract thousands of music lovers. Berkshire audiences reach the figure 8000 for every single concert. Bach festivals in Pennsylvania, Ohio and California command less attention, but must be cited and warmly praised for their finely chosen programs. Hollywood Bowl, the Lewisohn Stadium, the Chicago Grant Park, and Ravinia seasons, the Robin Hood Dell, the Cincinnati and St. Louis summer operas, and summer concert series in great many other cities have brought about off-season music activities that begin to rival, if not overshadow, the indoor-offerings during the winter months.

With a half dozen first class orchestras giving regular weekly performances over the air, free of charge, how can any American man, woman or child escape some contact with good music, be it in the home, the school, the concert hall or the out-door presentation!

As to the distinctly American institution, the young people's or children's concert, Emil Oberhoffer and Walter Damrosch were early pioneers in Minneapolis and New York respectively. Frederick Stock and Ernest Schelling introduced the use of lantern slides. The finest achievement in this line of music education for young people must be credited to Schelling, who, for 17 consecutive years, directed the series of the N. Y. Philharmonic Society and thus helped considerably to produce the quality and quantity of the present symphony audiences in that metropolis. At the present nearly every major symphony orchestra in the United States offers special series of children's concerts. With reference to children's concerts, I am able to cite from personal experience, for during my St. Louis Symphony conductorship of six years two series of such concerts were presented—one for public school children, financed with taxpayers' money, the other, underwritten by private and parochial schools. Over 20,000 St. Louis children became acquainted with symphonic music every year. In addition the orchestra went on tour and introduced the idea of young people's concerts in more than 60 cities. The young audiences in Kansas City numbered never less than 10,000 and had been well prepared for each program by the teachers in the public schools. Since having succeeded my late friend Ernest Schelling in the direction of concerts for the young both in New York and San Francisco, I feel more than ever that this singularly American institution represents the most powerful medium of inculcating an appreciation of serious music. To hear an orchestra over the air is one thing, to listen to it in actual performance is quite another, a better one. The happy faces that I have seen are its confirmation.

The activities of the Federal Music Project of the W. P. A. have been shared by some 90 millions (1935-1937) of Americans. Over 125,000 children have been taught in classes, mostly in the rural districts, by approximately 1000 teachers. 127 orchestras, enrolling 4,600; 59 bands, enrolling 2100; opera and choral units employing another 1000; dance bands, and chamber music groups have given innumerable concerts with no or nominal admission charges. Composers' laboratories and forums have been created where young writers can hear their works performed. What the Federal Music Project has accomplished in presenting the American composers to the Nation can scarcely be estimated. Its contribution to music education has been a very distinct one.

The rich harvest of new musical literature could be discussed in detail. It suffices to state that every stage or degree of performing ability has been favored with new material. There can be no complaint that the task of the teaching guild has been neglected by the creative spirits of this country. On the contrary, teachers should continue to study and endeavor to absorb new ideas so as to keep pace with the general seven-league-boot progress of music education. The cultural growth of our country will continue until every living being within our borders has been touched by the divine spark of music!

The Community Music School

By JANET D. SCHENCK

THE National Guild of Community Music Schools numbers as its present membership thirteen schools in eleven different cities. What are these community music schools? How do they differ from other schools, and what is their contribution toward music education in American life?

In 1914 on the upper East Side of New York City there was no opportunity for music or music study. There were, according to the 1910 census, 222,-899 people living in that small district between 96th Street and 116th Street, and from Fifth Avenue to the East River. More than half of this number were foreign born and 94.1 per cent were of foreign origin. Russians, Poles, and Italians were taking the place of Irish and Germans in that dramatic and kaleidoscopic shifting of national groups which has always made the East Side of New York so full of interest.

The tenements were of the worst possible type, gang fights were frequent, junior delinquency abounded and the district was then believed to be one of the worst sections for heavy crime in the city.

There were outlets for children and young people and they consisted of the following: 311 saloons, 23 motion picture, shows, 15 dance halls, 14 pool rooms, 27 churches, 2 playgrounds, 1 public library, 1 public bath and 4 settlements. But in all that district there happened to be no place where a musically artistic child was able to secure really good instruction and through music realize a more complete development. There were no radios; there were no concerts to which they could gain admission.

The conviction grew that there must be in these cities of modern America, schools of music for students who could not afford expensive conservatories or teachers; schools where people of all ages could come with their burdens and desires and regain, through their contact with music, a reappraisal of values in living... The conviction was so strong that in 1917 the Manhattan School of Music was founded by Mrs. Janet D. Schenck, the present director, and with a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees.

In March, 1918, Harold Bauer and Pablo Casals became the first two members of the Artists Auxiliary Board. In 1926 Mrs. John Hubbard joined the Board of Trustees and in 1928 gave the school its present finely equipped building, and now in 1940 a new auditorium seating just under 500.

The growth of the school is shown as follows: In 1919 it enrolled approximately 100 students and had a faculty of 23. In 1940, 550 students are in attendance, with many more on the waiting list. The faculty of 56 numbers some of the most distinguished teachers in the city. Mrs. Schenck heads the piano department, and Harold Bauer teaches both privately and in classes through special arrangements Hugo Kortschak is head of the string department, Hugh Ross of the chorus, George Wedge is advisor to the theory department, Roger Sessions has the composition; the woodwind, brass and tympani are under such musicians as the first desk men of the Philharmonic Orchestra. The school has three orchestras and a fine collection of instruments. In addition to the activities within its walls, the Manhattan School of Music carries on an extended District Music Service, serving as the chief musical center for its district.

This, then, is a brief summary of how a typical community music school took shape and how it developed.

The Community Music Schools grew out of the music school settlement movement, but they must not be confused with it. They are separately incorporated schools of music, not affiliated with any social settlement.

Schools of this type are intended to care for students who would not otherwise be able to afford a complete musical education. Their fundamental principle is the co-relation of music and life, and the extension of the influence of music through the individual into the life of the community. In order to accomplish this end, a carefully planned program is arranged which brings the student into much closer relationship with the administrative staff and faculty than is usually considered necessary in a school of music.

The curriculum is a rounded one, and students who are graduated from these schools are accomplished and thorough musicians. Because these schools are convinced of the importance of the relationship between music and the individual, the curriculum allows for considerable elasticity and experimentation especially calculated to stimulate this relationship.

At the Manhattan School of Music, for example, special studies are undertaken, each of which endeavors to ascertain how the curriculum might be made more vital to the student, more adapted to his changing needs and, at the same time, maintain that thoroughness and discipline necessary in the development of art.

All ages are included in the school, from the pre-school group of four to six years up to the adults. During one year, a special study was made of forty especially gifted children. Among the younger students, again, studies were made with pre-school groups and with junior theory classes. An especially fine result of certain of these experiments has been the development of the "fingerboard theory" for string students.

Among the older students, studies have been made in sight-reading; in the presentation of music appreciation and history. A special contribution has been made in adult education which has been considered of great value by experts in that field.

Constant check-up studies are kept on the economic situation of the students and on employment. When a student enters the school, studies are made, with his cooperation, showing his economic background, his special problems, why he is coming to the school, and what he expects to gain as a result of his contact with music. This background is kept in mind in dealing with the student's development and through this understanding of his difficulties, a better conclusion is ascertained as to what the possibilities of his contribution to society may be.

The school becomes the central point of interest for young people of this generation who have been deprived not only of the necessities of life, but also of that enlargement of vision which constitutes the esesntial of real living. The child or young person who shows a preference for music, whether or not he may be gifted with marked talent, must through music find an enlarged contact with the world about him. Music must become part of his everyday life, a natural outlet for him, and, as he matures, furnish a means for artistic adventure.

Out of this intimate contact began, as far back as 1919, the District Music Service of the Manhattan School of Music. Students of the school carried their music to the shell-shocked and wounded crowding our hospitals. This grew into a wide plan whereby at the present moment the school acts as a clearing house and a music center for the educational, health, social, welfare and religious agencies lying within its district. Senior students are expected to feel a responsibility for this District Music Service and present programs regularly at the Museum of the City of New York, the libraries and at any other organization which requests them.

The Community Concerts for Children held at the school, are designed for children of the district not enrolled in the school. Last season 53 social, health, educational, welfare, and religious agencies distributed tickets to the children of their organizations for these concerts.

The National Guild of Community Music Schools was organized as a research group to keep in touch with changing trends and policies as they develop throughout the country; to report these findings to the organization members and to stimulate new leadership to meet the changing demands, thus further consolidating and promoting their contribution to the musical and social life of their respective communities.

An impressive picture of the scope of the movement as a cooperative national influence is presented in the following total figures compiled from questionnaire returns:

Schools	13
Board Members	327
Advisory Council Members of Artists and Educators	79
Faculty	385
Students	4,848
Students on Waiting List	1,349
Total School budgets	$286,494.44
*Aggregate Attendance for year	219,054

The financing of the schools has always been interesting, and has a wide base of support—making one of the most cooperative and reliable musical enterprises in the country. An average of one-third of their total budget is received from tuition. The additional two-thirds is raised each year from sources which include: individual contributions, community chest and endowment funds, benefits, scholarships, parent and student money-raising activities, bequests and special gifts.

The Community Music Schools offer a unique contribution to the musical life of our country, both because of their point of view and because they fill that tremendous gap between public school music and the high-priced conservatories. These schools are workshops and laboratories in which new and important technics are constantly developing. Through these schools thousands of students of limited means, amateurs and professionals, receive a complete musical education which would otherwise be denied them.

*(Incomplete data makes this a minimum figure).

A Study In Music Appreciation

By ERIC SORANTIN

MUSIC appreciation is without doubt the most important and basic factor in the field of musical activity. It is conditioned by the understanding of music itself, its nature or essence. Complete enjoyment will not reveal itself to the listener unless he has an understanding of the music in question.

Music appreciation may be two-fold: We may appreciate a composition, if it conforms to our general rules of musical writing, which is more or less a matter of appreciation of form, or, secondly, our appreciation may fall on deeper grounds insofar as the music presented may reveal to us a certain meaning, intimately connected with feelings and emotions. And in fact, it is this kind of appreciation, which takes the foreground. But, if we ask the question with respect to the meaning or content of music, we are confronted with a most intrinsic problem, which reaches into the field of psychology of music.

It is this very question which becomes important, there being so many conflicting opinions and theories advanced by well-known musicians and theorists. Speaking from the point of view of Koehler's Gestalt psychology, the question arises: Is it possible to find in the compositions of different composers of various styles and schools conspicuous figures or configurations, which can be understood as the embodiment of definite feelings and will-manifestations, or will the result of such an investigation reveal that there is no positive evidence of such expression, as is often maintained?

There can be no doubt that the three categories of music, namely melody, harmony and rhythm, which make the creation of music possible, furnish material for investigation; not to forget dynamics and tempo which Dr. Melvin Gillison Rigg in the re-investigation of my theories in the Journal of Experimental Psychology (October, 1937) emphasized with great importance.

To approach this research systematically, it seems justified to take such thematic material as starting point for our investigation as composers themselves have regarded as embodying specific content, for example, in song and opera.

Without going further into details which cannot be the aim of this essay, we shall quote the results of this investigation in a more or less general way, referring the reader to some of the typical musical passages.

It will be of interest to know that certain musical compositions, designated by the author as expressive of certain psychic states, actually reveal on analysis a very striking similarity of musical structure. We have then proceeded to the examination of certain works of so-called absolute or pure music with a similar end in view, selecting intentionally those composers whose works of art are usually believed to be so abstract that in them expression with respect to emotion in concrete, comprehensive form is excluded. Yet, as the reader will observe later on, we believe we have established the very opposite. Even in the case of J. S. Bach, whose compositions are, as we have seen, influenced by the musical intellectualism of his time and generally believed to be devoid of emotional aspects, we have found many cases of willful, emotionally tinted expression.

We desire, however, to emphasize in this connection the fact that the general tendency of art as Hegel and others have maintained, is to develop continually in the direction of more distinct expressiveness of emotional content. It may be for this reason that we have found in Beethoven and Wagner musical figures or configurations, characterized by greater clarity of expression than is the case of earlier composers. It should, however, not be overlooked that the style of music is conditioned not merely by the current laws of tonal writing, but also by the personality of the composer in question.

We stated above that the chief reason for undertaking this research work was to find out whether there really exists in music such a nonentity as "has no other content than itself" (Hanslick); and we seem to have found in typical musical compositions certain symbolic complexes which we called figures or configurations, arriving at the somewhat surprising fact that music portrays not only motion of various kinds, such as pendular, curvi-linear, circular motion and its opposite persistency, but moreover certain fundamental psychic states, such as pleasant and unpleasant feelings, clearly and distinctly.

Our research yielded good many various musical figures we classified in the main as rhythmical and melodic figures.

Let us turn to the rhythmical figures which combined with the melodic figures, explained later, give us complete musical expression.

On account of the analogy between motion and a given succession of tones, it becomes possible to portray rhythmical motion of various kinds in musical composition. It is plain that rhythm can find its actualization only through the tonal element which constitutes the melody and harmony. Yet, in order to satisfy the demand for an emphasis of rhythm, the tonal aspect is more or less subordinated to the rhythm that is the accentuation introduced into a continuous series of tones is actualized either by intensification, prolongation of tones or by regular lowering or raising of pitch. We shall see, furthermore, that in the portrayal of the opposite characteristic of motion, namely persistency, the same tonal pitch is maintained in a sustained way.

Under the classification of figures of pendular motion we have mentioned compositions containing rhythmical figures which represent a swinging bell or a swinging cradle. We may refer the reader to Wagner's Tannhäuser, Act I, Scene 2, ("in Traum war mir's . . . als hörte ich der Glocken frohes Geläute . . ."), or M. Bruch's song op. 45, Die Glocke; Schubert, op. 98, No. 2, Wiegenlied, etc. Here a periodic repetition of a two-tone motive or figure, aided by the systematic difference of tonal pitch, may suggest quite well a pendular movement. We mention here also the rush of the waves, the gurgling of the spring, the rustling of the trees etc. and refer to Schubert, To Be Sung on the Waters, Wagner, Siegfried (Waldweben), Beethoven, Pastorale Symphony (By the Brook) etc.

The musical representation of circular motion is mostly rendered by means of a tonal figure in semi-circular form which may be repeated several times in the original position. Such is the case in slumber songs, more obviously in miller and spinning songs, etc. Compare R. Franz, op. 1, No. 10, Slumber Song; or J. Raff, op. 98, No. 2, Miller Song; Haydn, Die Jahreszeiten (Spinning Song); Saint-Saens, op. 31, Le Rouet d' Omphale etc.

In the following examples we find tones of the same pitch and of rather long duration which may symbolize persistency. Compare Händel, Israel, chorale Das hören die Volker, orch. sc., p. 241; R. Strauss, Die Nacht; Schubert, The Death and the Maiden; Bach, Cantata No. 127 ("Ach ruft mich bald ihr Sterbeglocken") etc.

We presented some of the rhythmical figures, bearing in mind, however, that musical composition is not merely any attempted imitation of movement or persistency, since musical expression implies more than imitation in the usual meaning of the word—but also an expression of emotional content.

An analysis with respect to the feeling-content of conspicuous themes and musical passages yielded the melodic figures, of which we present at first the figures of lamentation.

We may quote here the "Unheil"-motive in Wagner's Rheingold, orch. sc. (Eulenburg) p. 83, 84; Mozart, The Magic Flute, Act I, No. 4, piano sc. p. 31, ("with grief my soul is hourly wasting"); Bach, Matthaeus Passion, ("Erbarme Dich, mein Gott"), orch, sc. (Eulenburg) p. 186; Rachmaninoff, Prelude, op. 3, No. 2; Liszt, Faust Symphony, first movement, theme marked dolente; or his Heroide Funèbre etc.

If we sum up the musical characteristics which we found here in the portrayal of lamentation as the overt expression of the unpleasant feeling of grief, we may state the introductory ascending interval of iambic (rhythmic) character (symbolization of complaint), connected by iterative structure with the following descending minor second mainly in the form of a suspension or appogiatura; this was taken as symbolizing the figure of grief with restriction to cessation. Similarly the minor tonality with strong dissonances on the important beats of the measure (thesis), characterizing the psychic conflict, was noticed. Crescendo-diminuendo as typical dynamic figure, legato phrasing and slow tempos were other symbolic factors, although in some cases corresponding to the timing of psychic action, the tempo has been found accelerated.

Furthermore, we observed that the instrumental music, "accompanying" the vocal part, shows in many cases a far more detailed expressiveness and illustration of psychic stages involved. In this respect we find a certain verification of Wagner's theory, according to which it is the task of the orchestra (instrumental music) to portray the emotions of a given character in a detailed way.

We may now proceed with the analysis of themes and musical passages which embody pleasant or joyful feelings and which we present as figures of joy.

We may give here a few typical motives for reference: Wagner, Siegfried, Act III, Scene 2, Wotan's motive of paternal joy; ibd., Liebesgruss motive, piano sc. (ed. Schott) p. 107; Mozart, Don Giovanni, Act I, Scene 17, piano sc. (ed. Peters) p. 118 ("lustig liebe Leute"); ibd., Act I, Aria No. 12, piano sc. (ed. Peters) p. 106; Bach, Cantata XXXI, No. 3, piano sc. (Whittaker) p. 21, ("O longed for day, come spirit sing with joy"); Beethoven, Fidelio, Act II, No. 15, duet "O namenlose Freude"; G. Mahler, Das Lied von der Erde, orch. sc. (Universal) p. 85; Haydn, Symphony VI, in G major, Andante, orch. sc. (Philharmonia) p. 23; Sorantin, Rondo in G, for viol. and piano (Fischer); ibd., Sonatina in G (Fischer); Mendelssohn, Violin Concerto, last movement (coda), etc.

These figures of joy are characterized by the frequent and conspicuous use of the interval of the Fourth in connection with the distinct appearance of the purposive melodic line, that is, the intentional striving toward a certain musically emphasized note which is apparently significant of volitional efficacy. Major tonality, forte dynamics, staccato phrasing and accelerated tempo were also found to be of importance. Yet, the frequent occurrence of figures of circular movement as found in round dances, symbolizing the motor activity, seems also to be characteristic of the portrayal of this emotion. The trill appeared as an additional symbol of great intensification, that is, when joy is overwhelming, or in a more or less ecstatic state.

We still may mention that musical figures, representing the "longing" attitude, have been found, but insofar as they reveal with the exception of the conspicuous use of large intervals in the melodic line, in particular the Seventh, a striking resemblance to the figures already presented, we shall omit them here.

With this brief review of the main characteristics of musical symbolization we have shown that music is not only expressive of feeling and will, but also portrays these factors more distinctly than the allied art of poetry insofar as tonal art is capable of symbolizing the feeling-tone which is in poetry less immediately presented. Thus we have found that even so-called absolute music is able to portray the different psychic expressions in a distinct and complete way.

Many conflicting opinions have been advanced and the familiar Wagner-Hanslick debate is still a live issue among musicians and music lovers, although the question involved is not always clearly understood. May it be that one agrees with Hanslick that music presents nothing more than mere "tonal forms in motion," or take side with Wagner that music is the "most spontaneous expression of feeling." Attention must be paid to the fact that music is a product of personality and in turn bears beside form a certain content of feeling. It is for this reason that the question, namely, how music symbolizes the psychic experience, is to be given serious consideration in the field of appreciation.

We thus find that in order to understand and appreciate music completely, it is not only necessary to study its different technical forms (as is done in harmony, counterpoint, composition etc.), but also to know what these different forms may stand for, that is, to be sure to comprehend whatever content they may possess. Thus only can we do justice to the great works of tonal art, which imply always something more than mere form.

In conclusion, therefore, it may be observed that composers, whether it be consciously or subconsciously, will follow certain rhythmic and melodic patterns to express or characterize the embodiment of certain particular emotional meanings, and that these meanings may be found in all types of music (the advocates of the school of abstract art notwithstanding). The recognition of these patterns will aid in the complete understanding and appreciation of music.

Every well trained youth and girl ought to be taught the elements of music early and accurately.—Ruskin.

The School Orchestra and Band Movement In America

By JOSEPH E. MADDY

PROBABLY the most significantly American educational development of the century is the school orchestra and band movement which today embraces nearly three million youth. Unlike other school activities this movement originated with the students themselves and was forced by them into our educational system despite pedagogical opposition and academic precedent.

Its beginnings probably date back to civil war times, when small groups of musically inclined children discovered the joys of instrumental ensemble participation and spread the news to their neighbors. The late Walter Aiken, who was for many years supervisor of music in the Cincinnati schools, reported that he was a member of a high school orchestra in Middletown, Ohio, in the year 1867, and that this orchestra rehearsed in the Aiken home under the leadership of his father, Charles Aiken, who was himself a prominent music educator and singing school leader in his day.

Both Winfield, Kansas, and Richmond, Indiana, had thriving high school orchestras before the turn of the century, when children's orchestras and bands were springing up everywhere in the country, especially in the middle west. A girls' band of 60 members from Wellington, Kansas, made a tour of the western states in 1912. Boys' bands were organized as feeders for the traditional town band which flourished in practically every village at that time. Children were drawn into these activities by their love of music, their desire for self-expression and the sociability of the group.

The town band director assumed the leadership in the early stages of the movement. Town band leaders were paid from municipal funds, from subscriptions by local merchants, or fees from students.

It was logical that the public schools should call upon these community music groups for assistance at commencements and other school functions although it did not then occur to school authorities that instrumental music could possibly be classified as education and be taken into the schools. The relationship grew closer, however, as the school house eventually became the rehearsal place of the young music groups and they came to be called school bands and orchestras largely because they were composed of school pupils and rehearsed in school buildings. Frequently they were led by school teachers who had a flare for music plus experience in handling youngsters.

A demand was created for high school teachers who could lead and teach the increasing horde of young musical enthusiasts. By 1920 so-called school orchestras and bands abounded in all parts of the country, but they were school organizations only in name for they rehearsed after school or evenings and the members received no school credit for their efforts. Directors were frequently paid from school funds but little, if any, provision was made for supplying instruments or other equipment.

School boards were accustomed to providing manual training equipment, typewriters, sewing machines and all sorts of tools and machinery for use of students, but music was different. The Oakland, California, Board of Education was the first to recognize the value of instrumental music to the extent of providing instruments and music.

About 1916 this board approved the superintendent's recommendation for the purchase of several thousand dollars worth of musical instruments. This action brought much adverse criticism and the superintendent was forced to resign soon afterward.

In 1919 the late George Eastman contributed $15,000 for the purchase of band and orchestra instruments for use by the pupils of the Rochester public schools. He was so well pleased with the results of this gift that his interest led to the establishment of the Eastman School of Music and the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra. Rochester was the first city to provide class instruction in all orchestral instruments at public expense.

It remained for the little town of Parsons, Kansas, to point the way that made the present development possible. Parsons sent a 40 piece high school orchestra to play for the Music Supervisors National Conference at St. Joseph in 1921. This orchestra played with such precision as to astonish the music supervisors in attendance, — until they were told that this orchestra rehearsed for one hour daily during school hours and that the members received school credit equal to that given for English or Algebra. And why not? Probably because none of us — and the writer was one of those present — had even thought of demanding such conditions.

Needless to state, we all went back home determined to have school time rehearsals and school credits for our orchestras and bands. Most of us succeeded, and the following year brought a completely balanced high school symphony orchestra from Richmond, Indiana, to the music supervisors convention at Nashville, Tenn.

This group played masterworks of symphonic music like a professional symphony orchestra, and once more the supervisors of the nation went home with a new determination — to develop complete symphony orchestras in their high schools.

The movement was out of control now. No superintendent or school board could stem the tide of musical youth. Bigger and better became the slogan and each year witnessed developments that were almost beyond comprehension.

Ninteen hundred and twenty three saw the beginning of the school band and orchestra contests which, guided by a committee from the Music Supervisors National Conference in cooperation with the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, rapidly gained such momentum that it soon dwarfed all other types of school music activities. Balanced instrumentation, sight-reading and ensemble training were stressed in the competitions which brought astounding results with lightning speed. Soon every state had well organized competitions in all types of school music; bands, orchestras, choruses, soloists on all instruments, and all types of small ensembles. The national contest became so unwieldy that it was divided into ten regional competitions in 1936, each region comprising several states. In 1940 there were 50,000 participants in the regionals, each of whom had qualified through state competitions held previously.

Nineteen hundred and twenty three also witnessed the first attempt to form an all-state high school orchestra, when a blanket invitation was extended to all high school musicians in Indiana to participate in a mass performance for the Indiana State Teachers' Association. The response overtaxed available stage-space but the idea survived, and the following year found an all-state orchestra of selected players who came prepared for a performance which established that type of activity as one of the most inspirational of all school music activities.

More than 40 states have followed Indiana's example and all-state high school orchestras, bands and choruses, performing for teachers' associations, have played an important part in demonstrating the educational values of school music to the general educator and to the public.

What could be bigger and better than an all-state high school orchestra? An all-American orchestra, of course. Yes, that came next, in 1926, at Detroit for the Music Supervisors' National Conference. Here some 230 excellent high school musicians from 30 states assembled for several days of intensive rehearsal, after three months of practice on the music individually, culminating in a concert that stirred musical America.

The following year the National High School Orchestra was assembled to play for the national convention of school superintendents at Dallas, with far reaching effect, for the superintendents passed a resolution urging all American schools to place music on a par with the three R's as one of the fundamentals of education in this country. Thereafter the road was comparatively easy, for music was no longer considered a fad or frill.

Out of the Dallas meeting grew another highly important factor in the life of American music, the National Music Camp. The thrill of playing symphonic music in a 250 piece orchestra was an experience never to be forgotten, but why must such a magnificent orchestra be dissolved after only five days? These youthful musicians demanded a longer period of such glorious experience.

When and where? Summer, of course, at some cool place, centrally located. Who should start it? Those who were responsible for starting the National High School Orchestra. So the National High School Orchestra Camp was founded as a non-profit corporation at Interlochen, Michigan, in 1928 — in answer to the demands of American musical youth. Its purpose was to provide eight weeks of symphonic training under master musicians for the most talented and ambitious high school musicians of the nation.

By 1930 the camp had became a well-rounded summer school of music with courses in all branches of music for high school and college students and for music supervisors and musical directors. So the name was changed to National Music Camp. Broadcasting was inaugurated in 1930 with a series of nation-wide programs which have become increasingly popular each successive summer. The faculty now numbers nearly forty and includes a leading symphony artist for each section of the band and orchestra.

Other music camps have sprung up in nearly every state, while a number of state universities have introduced summer courses for high school music students, for the dual purpose of attracting talented musicians to the campus and to provide laboratory facilities for college students taking courses in conducting and teaching methods.

Until recent years very few colleges accepted music credits toward college entrance or offered music courses for college credit. By 1940 most colleges were offering special inducements to high school students who were proficient in music, and the college that did not have a good band and a good orchestra was becoming a rarity. Courses in music education for the training of school music directors are among the most popular professional courses in a great many colleges and universities, — courses which were unheard of in 1920.

It is only natural that a movement of such magnitude should get out of balance at some stages, and the present over-emphasis on bands may be considered as a temporary phase. Due in part to extremely active promotion by band instrument manufacturers; in part to the aggressiveness which is a natural trait of band directors; and in part to the public's readiness to rally behind the school band because of its glamour and serviceability, the band has smothered the school orchestra in many communities. It is safe to predict, however, that the school orchestra will survive as the highest and most artistic musical expression of the school of the future.

This instrumental music movement has already made America the leading musical nation of the world, and it has only started. In due time these young musicians, trained in the American tradition, will take over our symphony orchestras and opera companies, now almost completely dominated by foreigners or those foreign-trained, and American music will at long last have a chance in our own country. Our future composers, conductors, managers and performers are in the public schools of the United States today. But what is of even greater importance is the fact that our future politicians, educators, scientists, and leaders in all walks of life will emerge from an educational process permeated with music and their natural course will be to support music in America to an extent never before contemplated.

Every child in our country should learn how to sing, and how to play upon at least one musical instrument. Among these the piano is perhaps the most practical for musical cultural purposes. Nothing should crowd out the opportunity for self-expression which can come to those who play the piano with some degree of mastery.—Walter Damrosch.

The WPA Music Program

By EARL V. MOORE

THE Federal Music Project was, and its successor, the WPA Music Program is, an agency for the emergency relief of musicians. If it were a Government program for a subsidy of music as an art, the approach would be different, both as to statement of objectives and administration and selection of personnel. However, the facts are that the present program must be conceived as a Work Relief Program, administered within the limitations of the Relief Act. It is hoped, however, that such a program shall show evidence of making a valuable and useful contribution to the cultural life of the communities where WPA music activities are prosecuted. The vitally challenging nature of the problems posed by these opportunities and limitations should be kept in mind in the discussion which follows.

The Relief Act of 1939 provided for changes in administration and orientation of the Arts Programs that promise to be of as signal importance to their future activities as was their bold initiation a few years ago, in the previously unexplored field of the work relief program. Four of the original five Federal Arts Projects remain; Congress unequivocally legislated the Theatre Project out of existence. One implication of that action may be that the other Arts Programs must justify the value of their services or be subject to a similar fate. However, the Congressional provision for a change in the source of sponsorship may give to the Arts Projects a new type of community support that was not necessary previously. The Act provides that in administering the funds appropriated in this section, not less than one-fourth the total cost shall be borne by the State and its political subdivisions.

This requirement of partial local sponsorship for all WPA Projects presented problems non-existent for the Music Project when it was 100 percent sponsored by Federal funds. There has to be a wider understanding of the Music Project's objectives and its services, coupled with a closer cooperation of local musical forces and interests with those who are responsible for the administration of the Projects in a particular state.

The division of responsibility for sponsorship between State and Nation is resulting in a greater consciousness on the part of individuals as to the quality and scope of the activities being prosecuted in the Relief Program in a community. We of the WPA Music Program hope that at least one result will be the willingness of musicians and music lovers to share in the development of a program of activities appropriate to the needs of the area, and practicable of realization by the personnel available from the labor pool. No activity so broad in scope, so extensive in organization, or so abundant in latent and inherent power as this program can hope to live without close and vital contact with the people it serves. The sponsorship provisions of the Relief Act therefore may serve to bring to the Music Program a local interest in its services and a sense of responsibility for their continuance, which did not previously exist. It presents a challenge to explore interrelationships in order that full advantage may be taken of the investment of public funds in a program which should serve the cultural interests of the entire community.

The second change effected by the Relief Act of 1939 is the shift of responsibility for administration and operation of the former Federal Arts Projects from a national to a state basis. The Music Project in any state is now one of many projects under the general operation of the State WPA Administration. The implications of this alteration of administrative authority are equally as far reaching as those growing out of the requirement of partial local sponsorship. The opportunity is now presented for each state to prepare a plan of utilizing the resources of the skilled musicians on the relief rolls in ways which shall be deemed most appropriate to the needs of that state. It is a truly democratic principle of decentralization of authority, and of giving to the people of the areas served a voice in the determination of the policies and the objectives of the Music Program.

With these two new perspectives of sponsorship and administration in mind, we may explore the new relationships which a project may have to the area in which it is operating. Music has taken its place among the WPA professional and service projects, administered nationally by WPA assistant commissioner Florence Kerr, along with Art, Writers, Recreation, Education, Workers' Service, etc., in the Division of Community Service Projects. So, instead of considering its problems "perpendicularly," solely in the field of music on a national basis, it must also view horizontally its responsibilities to the local area immediately served by the specific units operating therein. Its services should be gauged to be of value to a community from the educational and recreational point of view.

One way, at least, in which such an integrated plan of community appeal may be developed is through the formation of advisory committees of local musicians and community-conscious citizens to assist the supervisor of the music project in determining what the resources of the area are; what gaps, if any, exist; what activities now supported by private funds could be supplemented by the services of the project, and what new activities can be initiated and carried on by the project without causing competition with existing services. The preparation of a valid survey of local musical resources should be the responsibility of an advisory committee rather than an individual; the support of activities initiated by the project as a result of recommendations growing out of such a survey should also be the responsibility of this committee in order that the potentialities of the community approach to the utilization of the services of the music project personnel shall be maintained. Such a committee should represent the best professional and artistic judgment in the community.

The localization of responsibility for the services which the WPA Music Program can and should render to a given community gives every one an opportunity to take an active part in the evolution of this cultural activity in his city or town. Surely this problem of the unemployed musician can be attacked with better chances of successful solution if we recognize that more can be gained by cooperation and coordination with existing agencies and organizations than by duplications of services or by competition. Activities of the music project should be supplementary to, not in lieu of, present community or private services.

The following is a statement of the general policies of the Music Program as envisaged under the provisions of the 1939 Relief Act:

"It is the aim of the Music Program of the Work Projects Administration, through the employment of creative and recreative musicians in the allied music fields, to secure and to present for public use outstanding examples of contemporary American music as well as the significant examples of music literature of other countries and periods; through the teaching of the music in community centers and recreational music activities to create a broader national music consciousness and to work out constructive ways of using leisure time; through music services to aid various community campaigns of social value; and through research projects to clarify the background in the arts. The WPA Music Program is designed to work toward an integration of the arts with the daily life of the community.

"The Music Program is designed to preserve socially valuable skills of unemployed musicians; to benefit the public through exercise of these skills of unemployed musicians under their competent direction; to restrain and reorient skills so that their possessors may find permanent reemployment off the Government rolls; to provided needed services for both Government and non-Government use in the development of an efficient, coordinated community program."

It is to be hoped that in this statement of aims, evidence will be found of sufficient latitude for the prosecution of needed services in a given community, and that they contain a challenge to the professional musician now employed by private industry to join in the evolution of a program of music activities which will aid his less fortunate fellow musicians to maintain their self-respect in performing a service recognized by all as of artistic quality and of value to the community. The qualified musician does not wish to loaf on a dole.

In spite of all of the marvelous resources this country now has, orchestras, choral societies, opera companies, schools, and colleges of music, there has never been presented on so gigantic a scale an opportunity to increase the potential future audience for all forms of music performed by "live" musicians, as is offered by the WPA Music Program to the great masses of our underprivileged population today. My greatest fear is that we may not realize to the full its tremendous obligations as well as its opportunities, and that through lack of vision, initiative and creative imagination we may not secure the richest possible yield from this great investment.

One type of community service that can be rendered by performance units of the WPA Music Project lies in the development of policies of cooperation with existing organizations engaged in the same activity. In accordance with the basic philosophy of the "community approach," it is to be hoped that civic or community orchestras of adequate symphonic proportions may be developed, or that struggling civic symphony orchestras may be assisted in carrying out their responsibilities by coordination and cooperation with WPA orchestral resources. Procedures have been developed whereby under the provisions of the Relief Act such coordination of services may be effected by means of the principle of sponsorship set forth above.

As an example of the effectiveness of this type of cooperation, the case of the Buffalo Symphony Orchestra may be cited. For three years a cooperative arrangement was in effect, whereby some of the personnel were paid from private funds to augment the resources available from the relief rolls for purposes of maintaining for public performances a group of symphonic calibre and suitable balance. Last summer the Orchestral Association assumed the financial responsibility for the complete orchestra by taking on its pay roll those who had previously been on the WPA rolls. The cooperation of the Musicians' Union was an important factor in effecting this transfer of musicians into private employment. The WPA Buffalo Orchestra went out of existence, but in the realization of a Buffalo Symphony Orchestra supported by private funds one of the purposes of the Relief Act had been carried out.

WPA activities in the field of music education are of especial interest to those who represent the music teaching profession, and it is the sincere hope of all those concerned with the administration of the WPA Music Program that this interest will continue and be intensified. Unless the total resources of the musicians on the projects are utilized in the development of a long range program of education in music in its broadest sense, there is little hope that there will be in the near future a larger and more intelligent interest in the art and a consequent increase in the ability of private industry to absorb the already available skilled musicians who must of necessity compete for positions with the younger generation of teachers and performers who are being trained in the private studios, colleges and conservatories.

If, because of economic necessity, young people are unable to acquire the skill necessary to make music for social or for recreational purposes sometimes described as "avocational music" — it stands to reason that there cannot be among the next generation as broad a base of knowledge of the inner values of music, as there would be under normal conditions. Nearly every community has groups in its social structure for whom this service is appropriate and who would benefit by contact with this type of construction.

It is obvious to anyone who has visited the WPA Teaching Centers that, due to the clientele and to the conditions of instruction, the program is not and should not be working toward the same objective as that of teachers in private studios. There may have been mistakes of judgment in the past in the evolution of this program; too great emphasis may have been placed on the numbers of students enrolled as a yardstick by which the success of a Work Relief Program should be measured; too little emphasis may have been given to the necessity of re-evaluating the processes of individual instruction as they were being adapted, in the rush and press of new conditions, to the needs of a totally different type of student interest. However, I am impressed as an educator with the seriousness of purpose, the devotion to a search for new methods of meeting the needs of the students drawn from the underprivileged and low income groups, and the integrity of the administrative officers to the ideal of reaching as high a standard of teaching as is possible under the conditions.

Now that a fund of data and experience, gained in the last few years of operations is factually available for critical and analytical study, it is appropriate that we approach the evaluation of this phase of the WPA Program in a rational manner, and bring to the conference table the best counsel and critical acumen available. It is too new and important an experiment in mass education in the arts to be treated in any but the most serious manner.

The activities of the Music Education Program may include the following:

1. Classes for development of musicianship and music understanding;
2. Classes for retraining teachers;
3. Classes for development of elementary skills and techniques in applied music;
4. Classes for development of leadership for choruses, bands and other community or recreational activities.

Restrictions on admission to these classes are as follows: "Coincident with initiation of classes in music education there shall be posted publicly a notice stating the "Requirements for Admission to Classes in Music Education." This statement shall have the signatures of the State Supervisor of the Music Project, the local advisory committee (on which the professional music teachers should be represented) and shall set forth the national and local requirements for admission and enrollment. It shall have for its objective the determination of standards according to local conditions, but in no case to be lower than the minimum national requirements; it shall also have as its objective the avoidance of competition between Music Project classes and private teachers."

In some states only students whose families are on the State welfare rolls are accepted. Elsewhere the requirement is that of evidence of family or individual income at approximately the level of the security wage; in other localities, certification of status by the local welfare agency is necessary. The point to be borne in mind is that as educational institutions frequently differ in requirements for admission, so may local teaching centers have enrollment standards appropriate to the conditions obtaining in that locality. The music teaching profession should assist the project supervisor in the determination of such standards.

In general, most of the teachers available on the music project would not have a certificate to teach courses for credit in the public schools. It is not the intent of this program to replace previous teaching services, but rather to be of service in those districts where no instruction has been given or where no appropriations for music teaching have been made since prior to the formation of WPA projects. It is a matter of record that in many districts where this form of elementary instruction has been initiated by the Music Project, the teachers so rehabilitated — by attendance at institutes and clinics — have been engaged by the school authorities to continue these activities with salaries paid from school funds.

Space does not permit more than mention of some of the other activities that may be carried on by music projects, such as:

(1) Creative Music Activities. Projects for American musicians to create musical compositions, and to arrange and prepare materials and syllabi for use in classes in music education. The initiation and development of Composers' Forum Laboratories is one of the outstanding services rendered in a number of cities.

(2) Survey, Research and Preparation. Compilation of the Index of American Compositions performed on WPA Programs: Index of American Folk Songs. Collection and Annotation of vernacular, indigenous and primitive music. Studies in music therapy, collection and preparation for publication of historical and technical music materials, etc.

In the field of public performances, the objective is the presentation of music as a living art to audiences in areas where this type of cultural service is not available, to persons in the lower income brackets. In educational activities, the services should make available to the underprivileged opportunities for developing social or recreational uses of music. In survey and research, the objective is to develop a permanent collection of materials necessary to a balanced public music program. Within the limits of available personnel, one or more of the above activities may be provided on request to assist other federal agencies and divisions of state and local government as well as other WPA projects such as Education and Recreation, in the interest of the development of a coordinated program for a given community.

Musicologists and "Musicologists"

By HANS ROSENWALD

ONLY in recent years has the musical world at large become conscious of musicology. An indication of this consciousness may be sensed from the large number of writings on the subject. Even a very small Southern periodical recently published an article on the scientific, historic and aesthetic aspects of music. Performers, public school teachers, composers, the music chairmen of women's clubs have taken courses in musicology in colleges and conservatories, many of them with excellent results. Yet, on the whole, one is inclined to wonder whether such rapid growth is advantageous to musicology and its legitimate standards. I am tempted to believe that it would be far better for the future of our American music culture if musicology would adjust itself more gradually to the scheme of musical education. If we are not attentive it may easily become a field which hardly deserves the name "science" of music. It may become a field in which performers, unable to perform, seek refuge from the true purpose of music—performance, and one in which charlatan meets charlatan to debate the philosophical or pseudo-philosophical aspects of tonal art without sufficient background (it seems fashionable to replace the latter with a cup of tea thereby making at least the atmosphere "aesthetic").

Some younger composers, whose creative abilities are highly promising though by no means mature, have already abandoned composition and, instead, theorize and philosophize about music to no determined end since their ideas lack basis. Obviously a serious discussion of musical aesthetics and theory must be grounded upon solid familiarity with the older theories and aesthetic investigations as long as such a discussion claims to be musicological. In other words, it prerequires many years of reading prior to theorizing or we come to the point where "discoveries" are such merely because the "discoverer" does not know that they have been unearthed years or centuries ago. A young composer recently developed his "theory of a new conception of music" for me. Long had he labored formulating the idea that music does not express "definite joys or sorrows, but joy or sorrow itself." What a shock for him to learn that his entire psychological theory had been set forth long ago by Schopenhauer and that "The World as Will and Idea" had met with considerable criticism and refutal—by no means unjustified.

At this time we have too few musicologists and too many "musicologists." In contrast, in the sphere of applied music—both creation and re-creation—one insists upon certain professional levels. Mr. Smith of Main Street, an ingenious composer, is not considered on Beethoven's level simply because his community has no Beethoven with which to compare him. Nor does the conservatory piano student who has been contest winner three times in one season rival Rachmaninoff due to this feat. The discrimination evident in applied music is still somewhat lacking in regard to musicology. In this case of a science establishing itself there are naturally many who try to take advantage of the transitional phase. As musical America increases its interest in scholarship and research, they hurry to surround themselves with the "halo" of the solitary scholar who retiringly works on the discovery of the "truth of music." It is regrettable that the public, uncertain as to criteria in the new field, frequently falls for these "heroes." On the other hand, musicians who formerly modestly and adequately called themselves teachers of musical theory and history, performers who played the piano humbly but devotedly, even amateurs who once enjoyed music for what it is, have turned into "musicologists." (The professional card of a charming young woman from one of the eastern states, to my surprise, displayed the word musicologist. "Yes," said she, "I once took a course in it—for credit.")

The word musicologist has met with satire and with favor. Two years ago, a delightful young woman whose husband was a teacher of music history and form at one of the greater universities, asked me at a luncheon to explain the significance of the term musicologist. Having received some data as to the meaning of term and profession, she evidently had an "important conversation" with her husband. The result was that he subsequently was listed as "Professor of Musicology." On one of the major radio stations a quiz program dealing with music was inaugurated. It consisted of two competing teams answering questions on music contributed by the audiences. One team was made up of professional musicians and entitled "musicologists," the other of businessmen and called "amateur musicologists." A few weeks after I had participated on one of these programs, a banker who had been on the same show said: "The programs have brought home one point to me: the professional musicologists are freqently just as lacking in musical information as the amateurs." I agreed with him but I had a hard time convincing him that he had heard only a few "genuine" musicologists, and that he should not form his opinion on the basis of all who were presented to him under that name. Such mushroom-like growth of "musicology" can scarcely avoid having serious effect upon the growth of legitimate musicology and the scholars and teachers who stand for serious principles and ideas. A very well known musician with his often acknowledged humor and pointed irony promulgates the definition that a musicologist is a person who knows everything about music except the music itself. Another surpasses that statement with his remark: "Musicologists are those who can neither play nor compose and therefore invented a new term—it's really discussion of music."

To those who are musicologists in their background as well as in their true interest in musical research and discovery—may they or may they not be members of the American Musicological Society—there is the obligation to keep the field of musicology clean and the profession one of honor. Just as Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and the other great of musical composition determine musical standards, the musicological level is characterized by those who have devoted their lives to scholarly ascetism and high-minded teaching of the science. Spitta and Schweitzer, who revealed to us the portrait of Bach; Chrysander and Jahn, the analysts of Handel and Mozart; Dent and Riemann, Pirro and Prunières, Adler and Coussemaker and our own Americans, Pratt, Sonneck and Kinkeldey must and will be our models. In all countries, there are important and earnest seekers of musical truth, experimenters and pedagogues who determine the level of the musicological science. One can easily disprove the disparaging words of the head of an agency for music teachers: "Musicology does not exist, it is a branch invented by emigrés from Europe who, by that name, try to get positions in American music schools." A sad state of ignorance, indeed. This individual is evidently quite uninformed about the state of musical research in our own country or he would surely know of the many institutions which have been offering musicology in their curricula for quite some time. One of the most notable of this group which would serve as an excellent illustration would be the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York, which now has, and has had for some years, a thriving Department of Musicology—not to mention Cornell or Columbia Universities and several others of similar rank.

There will be more of both blind enthusiasm for and discredit of musicology before it takes a still more firm stand in our system of musical education. There will be more endeavor to study music in connection with the spiritual and material world, as part of culture, to see it in its evolution against the background of political and social conditions. There will be realization that a musicologist must have, in addition to a sensitive ear and genuine musicality, not only thirst for knowledge but background of knowledge. Latin is needed and even Greek for the study of medieval music, German and Italian, French and English. Political history and the evolution of culture, geography and literature are important auxiliary sciences for the musicologist. The study of music, as one of the arts, calls for correlation of its phenomena with those of its sister arts. The fundamentals of musical theory, counterpoint, harmony, ear training, are not contained in musicology, they are prerequisites for its study. The study of notation, however, may well be made a major endeavor by scholars: for this branch a knowledge of medieval notation, tablature and figured bass from 1600 to the time of Beethoven is essential. From these few hints, the wide scope of the field no less than the impossibility of becoming a genuine musicologist by a four years curriculum may be realized—therefore our initial statement concerning musicologists and "musicologists."

Instead of incompetent "musicologists" we need more performing musicians who realize the need for study of musicology as a side line, who see in it the stimulus for that growth which is the sign of all artistry. For the benefit of the musicians let us keep the profession high.

I believe that musicology can only be effective to the highest degree on the development of American music culture if scholars do not specialize in problems too far removed from present music life (such as the notation of thirteenth-century music which an ambitious young professor offered as his first course in an institution where there were almost no students majoring in music). They who are equipped for scholarly work must remain in contact with the demands of the day. We need further enlightenment on the performance of Bach and Handel, on the interpretation of madrigal and motet music, on the rendition of baroque works. We need other authoritative English books on the great masters, their works, their styles, on the aesthetics and history of music. It is particularly in regard to the necessity for good literature and editions that I visualize the enormous tasks which the musicologists of the future will have to perform for the American music-lover. For this music-lover, even more than the professional musician, must and will, benefit from the growth of the legitimate science of musicology.

The study of musicology as major endeavor should be undertaken by those who are certain of two strong factors in their talent: genuine musicality and keen understanding of both historical and musical-philological problems. It is almost unnecessary to point out that it is no study for those who want to make an income as fast and as easily as possible. Success will be decisively influenced by skill and adaptability.

With more and more universities and colleges establishing courses in musicology or offering seminars in specialized problems of music history and literature, the majority of those who earnestly strive toward accomplishments in the field are inclined to go into the teaching division. In the conservatories as well musicology is beginning to assume an important place in the curriculum, as the standards of teaching music literature and the history of music, not to mention appreciation courses, are improving conspicuously. At this level, the teacher of singing, theory or an instrument who offers (as a nice additional source of income) a "textbook" course in history or literature is becoming a somewhat antiquated figure.

The role of the musicologist in adult education cannot be too highly estimated. In the music-lover courses there lies a great task for musicologists, namely that of helping those who play and sing little—but have the desire and ability to be led to music as intelligent listeners—to become receptive to tones and acquainted with music of various epochs. Who can better awaken the response to vocal and instrumental music, old or new; who can better stimulate understanding of artistic master works than the sincere musicologist?

Musicologists will, as they have done in Europe, enter the field of librarians and museum curators. With growing interest in autographs, instruments and organized collections of musical scores, the libraries of our country will avail themselves of experts in these fields. No longer will they trust the cataloging and administrative responsibilities to those mainly interested in Fine Arts, Religion or other fields—taking care of the musical monuments as an after-thought. Washington, New York Public Library, Sibley Library of Eastman School and Newberry of Chicago (plus a few others) show the trend toward musicologically administered institutions which are of estimable service to the performer, the music student and the amateur.

There is also a future for the musicologist in the publishing and journalistic branches. Granted that few music critics of today hold their positions due to thorough training in criticism and other musicological subjects, a training which would be superior to that of the average musician, the public, at least that of metropolitan areas, is coming to demand authorities in the field of music reviews. It is growing weary of dilettanti who, engaged in other occupations during the day, become severe critics at sunset. The type of critic who reviews music, movie and sports is, God be praised, fast disappearing. Naturally a musicologist who desires journalistic occupation requires faculties other than a firm musical background: rapid comprehension, facility in expression and familiarity with the often strange customs of newspaper writing. As to the publishing business, numerous published books on music testify that many publishing companies would do well to seek advice from musicological consultants.

Finally, I envision the musicologist at work in programming the community's concert activities as worker in the opera to be staged in the authentic style. I can see him as performer with new perception, working not for the vanity of the old virtuosity, but with didactic purpose. I can see him in important administrative positions as Dean or Director of Schools or Conservatories for, similar to the European development, here also is the trend toward giving the responsibility of school administration to those whose outlook upon and knowledge of music is encyclopedic rather than confined, broad rather than specialized and who view music not as a separate domain but in connection with philosophy and political history, philology and fine arts, the theater and the dance. Thus I see the musicologist separating himself more and more from the "minor gods," the "musicologists," and contributing by means of research, pedagogy and personality to a richer American music culture and a more refined status of performance and appreciation.

Alas for those who never sing, but die with all their music in them.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes

National Music Week

By C. M. TREMAINE

THE first mention of the idea of a "National Music Week" was in an article in the Music Trade Review in February of 1917. It stated that the National Bureau For The Advancement Of Music was planning to inaugurate a "National Music Week."

The source of the "National Music Week" idea was the series of wartime "drives" of the Red Cross, Y.M.C.A., Knights of Columbus, and other groups for funds with which to carry on their work. It appeared that similar concerted action could be used for different, although likewise beneficial, purposes. As Director of the National Bureau at that time, I had in mind, however, one important distinction—namely, the absence of any appeal for money.

At that time I was in receipt of much interesting information as to the value of music in maintaining the morale of soldiers on "the other side" and the spirit of men over here in factories rushed with war work. There was eloquent testimony to its relaxing effects in shell shock cases and to its calming and normalizing influences on people worried by the tension of those times and the threat of the United States being drawn into the world conflict. The inevitable conclusion from such testimony was that music was far more than an art for the enjoyment of musically cultured persons, but that its reaction on human mechanism—pleasure and inspiring, quieting and stimulating, as the need might be—was such as to make it an asset of far greater importance to the general public than was commonly appreciated.

The application of this conclusion was the realization of the great benefits that would be derived, if all the friends of music, whose own lives had been enriched by music, should simultaneously engage in a drive to spread its enjoyment more widely among the people as a whole—unique, in that it would be a campaign without a material objective, motivated by the cumulative power of a common interest and the desire to advance a great art. The purpose of the "Music Week" as it was designed was for that art to be given the center of the stage in public consciousness for a seven-day period each year, demonstrating widely diversified individual and group enjoyment through listening and through personal participation, with the aim of broadening the contribution of music to the public welfare.

In September, 1919, I read in a music paper of a "Music Day" held that month in Dallas, Texas, and a few weeks later of a "Music Week" in St. Louis. These two events gave me the idea that the most practical way to launch a "National Music Week" might be through first inaugurating local "Music Weeks." In consequence, I undertook the promotion of a New York City Music Week in February of 1920. The success and comprehensive character of this event is fairly well known, and its details are recorded in a book entitled, "New York's First Music Week." The National Bureau For The Advancement Of Music carried the administrative expense, and subsequently the New York Music Weeks were financed by popular subscription.

Because the ultimate purpose was a national observance, letters were written to governors and mayors of different states and cities telling them of New York's "Music Week." The book, above-mentioned, was published and copies were sent throughout the country. In addition, various pamphlets on how to organize a Music Week were sent to a great many cities. Within four years, 150 different cities and towns had organized local "Music Weeks" which were observed at different times of the year as best suited local conditions. Among them was Boise, Idaho, which proved its claim to having had a Musical Week nine months before the first New York observance. There was a wide variation in time, and in order to synchronize the individual efforts into a national scope, through letters and inquiries, it was determined that the first week in May most nearly reflected the popular choice. The 150 scattered observances jumped to 840 in 1924, and has more than tripled in number since then.

The Central Committee is composed of the presidents of the leading musical, educational, religious, civic and service organizations. The Honorary Committee, headed by the President of the United States, includes the governor of every state and territory in the Union. Forty-five of the governors issued formal Music Week proclamations in 1939, or gave out public statements to the press, urging their citizens to participate. In line with the flexible nature of the observances and the voluntary cooperation on which it is based, no fixed or formal program is ever prescribed or even recommended by the National Committee, yet it is highly desirable to give prominence to one or two stimulating ideas to be woven into the local observances wherever possible, so that these and the country at large may obtain the benefit of the aggregate effort. Therefore, the National Committee selects each year a different keynote designed to crystallize public interest in some specified activity or development. One year it may be "Foster Local Music Talent"; another, "Organize Group Opportunity in Music for Young People"; still another, "Better Support for School Music." It is, of course, preferable for the local communities to adopt the national keynote, but they are free to select others of their own choice.

Each organization of the 34 or more national organizations represented on the National Committee appoints a state chairman for its constituency, and adopts "Music Week" as an activity of its own, to be promoted in proportion to its interest in music, and in ways that appear most helpful to its own particular purpose. The result of this arrangement, in practice, has been that each organization and its local units are assured freedom of choice as to how much they will do and how they will do it. Thus, "Music Week" is a cooperative project in the fullest sense of the word—one of the explanations of its appeal and sustained power. The National Committee, from its New York headquarters, keeps in touch with these various state chairmen for the purpose of disseminating information, making suggestions, and receiving reports. In some instances, a central State Committee is formed, composed of representatives of the interested organizations.

Although emphasis has been laid on the free performances to increase opportunity for all, it has been the policy to avoid harming paid musical entertainment, which also should be encouraged in National Music Week, for Music Week should be helpful to the professional musicians as well as to the amateur.

Thus it may be seen that National Music Week is the expression of a definite public desire and has its roots in the premises of Democracy—of the people, for the people, and by the people. As such, it is destined to continue and to grow, unless enthusiasts should unwisely apply pressure to its promotion and cause reaction, or selfish interests should gain control and subvert its purpose. Because the observance rests on such a broad foundation of public interest and has so universally received the local support of musicians, educators and public leaders, this danger is remote.

Although Music Week comes but once a year and is of short duration, its passing should leave the community the richer in musical resources for its having been. The writer is now contemplating the inauguration of a Pan-American Music Week to which all South and North American countries are to be invited. An International Music Week, encompassing the entire world, must await a return to peace and normalcy.

Music unites mankind by an ideal bond.—Richard Wagner.

Musical Interpretation

By SERGE KOUSSEVITZKY

THE realm of interpretation in music, and especially the realm of conducting, is still very young, when we think that Berlioz, Mendelssohn, and Wagner, who appeared about the same time as the leading conductors of their epoch, were, indeed, the first conductor-interpreters. In fact, they founded a new school. I believe that Wagner was the very first conductor who turned his back to the audience when leading an orchestra. Before him, the conductors stood a trois quart facing the public. You may well imagine what little influence a conductor could have on the orchestra, standing with his back to the musicians. But, at that time the art of interpretation in conducting was not known. The conductors were mostly "time-beaters" who did not even trouble to rehearse, letting the concert-master rehearse in their stead. Hence, originated the word "concert-master." The performance consisted in playing in time, without any consideration to details or perfection. If there was in the orchestra a virtuoso player, and if he had a solo passage to play, he performed his musical phrase with the utmost individuality, disregarding the whole conception of the work, its general meaning or line.

Wagner and Mendelssohn created a real revolution in the sphere of conducting. They no longer "beat time"; they built up the musical phrase. Yet this, of course, was far from the modern art of conducting.

Here we actually come to the problems of interpretation. Before the World War, interpretative art was strongly influenced by the romantic school. That is, the interpreter regarded a musical composition as an artist-painter would regard a landscape: to him it is an "aspect of nature." He takes that "aspect of nature" and reflects it as he sees, feels, and understands it. Therefore, one and the same landscape in the hands of two artists will have a different reflection. Also the form of one and the same object will be given different lights and shadings.

In all ages, artists were prophets of either the rise or downfall of a culture. In the pre-war period, leading artists introduced decadence into art before it manifested itself in the social and political life of the post-war period. Decadence in musical interpretation in some countries grew to such proportions that not only were the lights and shadings distorted, but the form itself was lost. At the same time, artists in other countries, also instinctively foreseeing that decline, attempted to straighten the distorted line of classical art.

We have a great deal of evidence, however, that musical performers have a right to interpret compositions freely. They hold that right from the composer. Take Bach, for example. In his works we very often find no nuances. Does it mean that Bach intended to have his compositions played without nuances? Positively no. The great Bach leaves that freedom to the performer. Take the classical concertos by Mozart and Beethoven: we find that cadenzas are very rarely written by the composer, who leaves the freedom of improvisation to the performer. In Wagner's scores, after "Tannhauser" and "Lohengrin," we find no exact indication of tempi. Wagner omitted it intentionally, and says in his book on the art of conducting that it is unnecessary to mark the exact tempo, because a talented conductor will find the right tempo anyway; and the untalented conductor will never grasp the tempo even if it is printed in the score. For that reason, Wagner marks his tempi in a general way, such as: "Bewegt," "Massig bewegt," slower, faster, and so on.

I recall a personal experience with the most outstanding contemporary composer, Jean Sibelius. When I studied his Fourth Symphony for a performance here, I found that the tempo of the last 98 bars of the scherzo was marked twice as slow as the preceding tempo,—and that I could neither feel nor understand. I wrote to Sibelius asking for an explanation, thinking that it was a possible misprint and saying I did not feel that tempo. And Sibelius answered: "The right tempo is the one that the artist feels." Where is, after all, the truth of interpretation, and how can an artist justify that truth?

Personally, I believe that a composer, when creating a work, transfuses it not only with his musical power, but also with the entire meaning of his life—the essence of his being. That is why we can and we must find a "central line" in the creation of every composer. What is the central line of a composer? It is the meaning of his life and ideals, which he brings to us through the medium of his music.

With Bach, the central line is religion. Bach came to glorify God. And we find in his entire life his praise of God, exaltation of heaven and divinity. Haydn's line is joyfulness, humor, which he wants to share with others. We feel it in every symphony, in every menuetto and allegro. Mozart gives us pure tonal harmony; absolute purity of musical form. If we analyse his creative work, we will find how free Mozart was of any outward influences: he believed in music for the sake of music, sound for sound, beauty for beauty. Let us take Beethoven. His central line is transcendentality: he reflects universal emotion in music. When Beethoven grieves, he grieves with the world; when Beethoven is joyful, it is universal joy; when he feels a tragedy, it is a world tragedy. We can well say that the central line of Beethoven's art is the unifying element of universality. I shall not overburden you by enumerating other composers. But I cannot go by an outstanding figure in musical art—Wagner. The central line of Wagner's art is love and devotion, which we can trace in all his creative work: Love and devotion of Senta in the "Flying Dutchman"; of Elizabeth in "Tannhauser"; of King Mark to Isolda; of Isolda and Kurwenall to Tristan. And so, we can find in the work of each master a central line expressed in sound.

Here emerges the truth of interpretative art. When the artist-interpreter is able to perceive the inner meaning, the central line, of a composition, he will find in himself the right and illuminating emotion to perform it. It may not be difficult to trace externally the central line, because there exists a vast literature of the life and activity of every composer, especially those belonging to history. It is not difficult for a musician to analyse a score externally, to determine its form, its melodic and harmonic plan, and entire structure. But this only takes us half way; this is only the surface part of the central line, which will give us no true understanding of the depth and emotion of this or the other work or composer. The most important part is that which can neither be read nor learned; it rests in the interpreter himself, in his own emotions, depth, and feeling.

Today, we often hear "musical authorities" declare, when discussing a performance: "Let music speak for itself." That up-to-date motto is dangerous, because it paves the way for mediocre performers to come and accurately play over a composition from beginning to end, claiming that they "let the music speak for itself." That argument is also not correct because a talented artist, no matter how accurately he follows the markings in the score, renders the composition through his own prism, his own perception of the score, his own temperament and emotion. And the deeper the emotion of the interpreter, the greater and more vivid the performance.

A perfect interpretation may have two different aspects, equally faithful to the score of the composer. One may be called mechanically perfect; the other organically perfect. The first gives the beauty of mathematical balance, symmetry, and clarity; the second is the indivisible, living, pulsating elan vital of the composition. One aims to present a beautified surface or reflection of the composition. In the other, the composition—its central idea—lives as a reality. One may be compared to a perfectly symmetrical building; the other to a great Gothic cathedral, with its partly asymmetrical, yet organic order of unity. One is always enjoyable, pleasant and delightful, but remains, like a beautiful scene, external to the listener. The other takes and carries him with the elan vital of the work, merges him with the reality of the central meaning, makes him co-live and co-experience the elan vital of the composition. Like a mystic experience, the organic interpretation puts the listener in direct touch with the absolute reality hidden in the great work.

(Note: The above subject was included in an address by Serge Koussevitzky before the American Academy of Arts and Sciences).

The Home-Grown Musical Crop

By EDWIN McARTHUR

NO SINCERE or true person has any patience with chauvinism in art. Music is the universal language, and everyone should have his place and right to speak that language. At the same time, however, we must be practical. If the domination of American music by foreign-born and foreign-trained musicians meant merely the unemployment of a group of Americans in favor of artists from other shores, it would be mere misguided provincialism to raise the issue at all. There is more to it than that — inadequate attention for American music at present and a danger in the future to our entire musical culture.

In the first place, we know it to be a fact that indigenous composition does not seem to have the appeal for foreign interpreters, and I include solo artists and chamber players in this category along with conductors, that European music has. The evidence for this statement lies in the black and white of printed concert programs. It is undeniable that the representation of native works is certainly scant for a time when our musical expression here has shown unmistakable signs of arrival at maturity, and when we rank in literature and the other arts as high as any nation in the world.

Secondly, if we continue to neglect American sources of musical supply, some day we may have not only a dearth of interpreters sympathetic to American music, but also of artists competent to handle serious music at all. Up to now, the majority of our musicians — and particularly our conductors—have been developed by long-established and well-formalized European training channels. The storm of war and dictatorship that has swept over the Continent has crashed these institutions to the ground. Since we cannot hope to count on the nations abroad to produce the men who will guide our musical life in the future, we must cast an inward eye on our own resources.

Already, first steps in our musical self-development have been taken. For singers and instrumentalists, the possibilities of being born to blush unheard began to be diminished a good while ago — radio auditions, scholarships, and competitions have been means of uncovering their talent. Composers have not fared quite so well. There have been many worthwhile competitions and commissions established, but the actual representation of native works on orchestral and other programs has been slight. The fate of our composers is, it seems quite apparent, inescapably bound up with that of our interpretive musicians, and as their number in established professional ranks increases, the situation of the men who write our music will inevitably alter for the better.

As for native conductors, their plight has been the most conspicuous of all. Because of the unique necessity a batonist has of requiring an orchestra in order for him both to effect his training and to prove his mettle, our podium aspirants have had a particularly rocky road. At last, however, we have come to the realization that something must be done to secure adequate training facilities. A good sign in this direction is made apparent in the decision of several leading musical schools to schedule conducting courses. There has been discussion of systems being put into effect to give fledgling conductors actual experience after their period of preparation. Since radio is not so dependent on the box-office as concerts are, it can afford to experiment with musicians whose names have not the magical quality of "drawing power," and it is suggested that studio symphonic ensembles be periodically directed by young guest artists rather than the regular established maestro. Then we have heard the proposal that our great symphony orchestras could co-operate in the plans for recruiting native conductors, without entirely casting their proverbial caution to the winds. The compromise might take the form of an "apprentice" system on the one hand, whereby talented scholarship students might understudy Toscanini, Stokowski, and other conductors of note, and on the other hand the scheduling of supplementary post-season or pre-season concerts in which the permanent leaders would step aside in favor of relatively unknown batonists.

These plans, while commendable, could not rectify the situation of themselves. They simply do not allow of musical assistance to numerically significant groups of artists — while they might uncover a handful of new talents, their effects would be anything but universal and far-reaching. In addition to the functioning of radio ensembles and orchestras in large cities, we should establish "scrub" opera houses and small orchestras in other places than our great metropolises, in the way Europe has managed to do for many years, and thus bring the great names of present-day music into prominence.

After all, our small cities now patronize to a large extent concert programs which are imported; they would certainly get behind a movement to support their own musical organizations. Financial difficulties would arise, of course, but a country with our resources should not be deficient in culture for want of private, or if need be, public patronage. None of us likes to see unknowing politics mixed up with art, but we must realize that after all a temple is not to be built overnight. What government sponsorship of the arts there has been to date has been, for the most part, of a beneficial kind. I know so from the outside as an observer and from the inside from my work with the National Youth Administration's New York Radio Workshop. I have heard WPA music in every part of America. It is not bad—it is oftimes very good — it could be better. The fault with the music project is not within the project itself, but with those sections of the public who have wanted to relegate WPA music to the back room as inartistic, and place the government-assisted musician on the breadline in the artistic world.

Through organizations such as WPA and NYA, further training opportunities as well as chances to display artistic merit can be provided. In the Radio Workshop, for instance, it is an inspiring experience to come into contact with these enthusiastic boys and girls—all of them under twenty-five—who have clearly demonstrated talents and are given a chance to learn the rudiments of perfecting their potentialities and properly exhibiting them.

After all, we who have won some measure of fortune and fame must admit, if we are to be perfectly frank, that we were lucky — we had the "breaks." There are thousands of youngsters, however, eager and capable, who are not as lucky. It is up to those who are in secure places to share what they possess in such large portion, yet no "cuddling" act need be entailed in doing this. Public agencies such as NYA and private enterprise can get together and work out a program which will eliminate the possibility of encroachment on established institutions, all in the interest of the common good and a more abundant life for all.

Extending opportunities in music and in other fields is, when you look below the surface, a means of providing cultural re-armament, which is just as vital to the future of our nation as military re-armament. The youth of the world is like fertile soil, and the crop to be reaped from the soil depends on the seed that is sown and the way it is nourished. If democracy is to mean anything to the young people who must defend it, it must give them their rightful place and proper opportunities.

The surface has merely been scratched so far, in regard not only to native conductors, but to musical artists of every other genre. We have only begun to provide cultural opportunities for the girls and boys in towns, farms, mining districts, from one end of the country to the other, and we must go on doing so, not merely trust to chance to do the job for us. If we have faith in our young people, and translate that faith into action, the returns we garner will be disproportionately great. The amount of latent musical talent in this country is actually amazing. But it is up to us to bring it into the light.

A New Musical Life For America

By JULIA FUQUA OBER

IF THE majority of my readers were brought up, as I was, among music loving friends, there was probably fixed in their minds in early youth, as in mine, the solemn conviction that America had no distinctive musical life of its own.

I cannot recall that my own parents were responsible for inculcating this viewpoint. Rather, one breathed it in the very atmosphere. Talk of music, wherever it originated, was largely about the achievements of foreign-born stars and the compositions of foreign composers. A few great American musical figures are identified with my childhood memories. People were still talking of Eames and Nordica. But the names one could conjure with, for the most part, had a foreign sound. Tetrazzini, Caruso, Sembrich, Gadski, Schumann-Heink were among them. Even American stars used foreign pseudonyms then, because they felt that a commonplace American name was a handicap.

As for community musical activities, they were few. The country singing school had vanished before my childhood, and the great impetus toward community singing which came with the entry of the United States into the World War had not quite begun. There were musical groups here and there, linked together in a National Federation of Music Clubs, but that this organization would ever grow to more than 5,000 units in an almost equal number of communities was not even the fabric of a dream. Indeed at that time, in many small communities, the church choir furnished practically the only focus of musical life.

Meanwhile there persisted in every American mind the picture of a Europe where music was in the very air—orchestras or bands in the restaurants and the beer gardens; an opera comique and a grand opera house in nearly every large city; concerts galore in all cities large and small, and everywhere a populace that hummed and sang and recognized the strains of truly great music almost by instinct.

Contrast that picture with the Europe of today, where the only instrumental music is the blare of trumpets and the roll of drums; where the only songs are the martial airs of the soldiers, and you will realize how Europe and America have reversed their roles. Yesterday it was a singing Europe. Today it is a fighting Europe and a singing America.

Yet it did not take a second great war to bring about this transformation. Long before the present hostilities had wrecked European culture and plunged the continent anew into the dark ages, America had begun to find herself musically. It is true that there was not an opera house in every large city, but the radio had carried knowledge of and love for opera into the farthest reaches of this great country. A number of fine symphony orchestras had been developed, with the inevitable stimulus to musical life which comes in their wake. The best artists of all countries continued to appear in concert and opera here, but great American names were coming in increasing numbers to the fore. And we had developed what many European artists have told me were the most appreciative audiences in the world.

None of these evolutions, however, quite summarizes what I think was America's unique musical achievement in this period — the phenomenal growth of the National Federation of Music Clubs. Needless to say I do not claim that this is America's greatest musical achievement; it would be hard to apply such a superlative term to any single phase of musical progress. But I do consider it unique because of its dissimilarity to any aspect of musical life abroad.

Europe has had for many years its great festivals at Salzburg and Bayreuth, which are famous the world over, and minor festivals in other large centers. But 48 different music festivals each spring season, such as characterize the spring conventions of state federations of the National Federation of Music Clubs are not only unknown but inconceivable abroad. Nor has Europe, to my knowledge, any counterpart of the great summer concert series in Grant Park, Chicago, which attracts annually an audience of three and a half millions.

Noteworthy about these American musical events — and particularly those which are under Federation sponsorship — is that they are not concerts only for the musical elite. A great middle class audience, composed of Mr. Average American Man, Mrs. Average American Woman and the members of the average American family attend. And because organizations like the National Federation of Music Clubs exist, sponsorship of these musical projects is not confined to people of large means or to those who have had a professional musical education. Any man or woman who loves music enough to contribute in work or words or money to the community's musical welfare possesses the open sesame to a federated music club.

Perhaps I would not have so much faith in the vitality and potentiality of this organization were it not that I have frequently seen it through European eyes. Travelling about the country as I do, I am often present at concerts under music clubs auspices at which noted foreign artists are presented. I sat one day last year in a concert hall beside Artur Rubinstein, distinguished pianist, who is of Polish birth but now a citizen of France. Having seen a state federation in action and asked innumerable questions about it and about the National Federation of which each state federation is a part, he said to me, "It is all wonderful. Europe is so far behind the times musically. I think I will go home and tell them how to organize a Federation of Music Clubs."

Musical education — at least that kind of musical education which develops a real musical consciousness — begins almost in the cradle. Logically, therefore, the program of the National Federation of Music Clubs starts with very youthful groups. Those 5,000 units to which I have referred include clubs the majority of whose members are younger than 'teen age. Other clubs embrace grandmothers in their ranks. We run the complete age gamut.

To the younger groups we offer wholesome association with other young people of musical tastes and interests; opportunity for participation in musical activities; fundamental knowledge of the composers and the compositions about which they will have to know in later years if they are to be regarded as musically well-informed. Through competitive festivals where the only award is in standard of excellence, we teach them wholesome rivalry without bitterness; achievement without conceit. Because we do not wish the privilege of sound musical instruction to be confined solely to the boys and girls within our own ranks, we have exerted our influence in all sections of the country to have the standards of musical instruction raised through special training of those upon whose shoulders falls the burden of teaching public school music.

We have had a thought, too, for the children of genuine talent, but inadequate means, whose parents cannot finance a musical education. Last fall we conducted a nationwide instrument hunt, delving into attics and basements for instruments once played by members of our families and now unused, which might be repaired and adapted to the needs of these boys and girls. In many communities we also set aside special funds to be used for the advanced education of young people of exceptional talent.

Only recently we have launched an Edgar Stillman-Kelley scholarship fund, honoring the beloved dean of American composers. When this reaches sufficient proportions it will be used to finance musical study for a limited few pupils, selected for outstanding excellence, and perhaps — who knows — new stars of the first magnitude may be discovered.

Why we concentrate so much effort on the younger generation is obvious. The children of today are not only the performers, but the musical audiences of the America of the future.

This does not mean however, that the National Federation of Music Clubs lacks a strong and vital program for its adult membership. Certain phases of this program are too well known to need recapitulation. Our biennial Young Artists' contests, from which an outstanding vocalist and an outstanding instrumentalist derive not only $1,000 awards, but also an auspicious start towards a concert career, are familiar to every newspaper and magazine reader in the United States. Our steady and persistent sponsorship of American artists and composers is also recognized wherever the name of the National Federation of Music Clubs is known. Since its organization the Federation has given $50,000 in prizes to American composers and a composition contest now in progress is expected to disclose additional noteworthy talent. For many years past, our clubs have expended a total of $3,000,000 annually on concerts, study programs, and other activities designed to stimulate the musical life of the American people. And each year these clubs offer paid engagements to between 2,500 and 3,000 concert artists and sponsor more than 100,000 performances of American compositions.

Long before the current war started we had inaugurated a well-concerted effort to develop international understanding through spreading knowledge of American music abroad, and bringing the best of foreign music to America. American music has already been heard in 47 countries as a result. How much the spread of the war will interrupt the program, it is hard to foresee, but we shall not cease the attempt, for when the smoke of battle has cleared away, and the bruised nations of Europe are beginning the dreary task of rehabilitation, it will be necessary for us to understand the spiritual forces which were their longtime motivation before martial spirit gained ascendency, so that we may help them again to assume their rightful place in a peaceful world.

In the limited metier of 2,000 words it is, of course, impossible to touch upon all the ramifications of a program that is endorsed and carried forward by a half million people. A word, only, then, as to some of the vital new projects or augmented projects which have enlisted Federation support in the past two years.

Among these is a campaign to raise the standards of musical culture in rural communities. This is to be achieved by the simple process of having every urban music club in a territory adjacent to a rural area undertake a field project designed to meet the musical needs of that area. A thorough survey of the community's musical needs and resources will constitute the preliminary. Then the city club will try to give the rural community what it wants—whether that be better standards of musical instruction in the schools, a lending library of fine records, or music appreciation classes to study the stories and scores of the operas and symphonies which will come to the community over the air.

A second effort is being directed towards a revival of interest in religious music. Many church choirs are affiliated with our organization. We have suggested for their use a fine choir repertoire made up of the great religious music of the past and present. Their employment of this repertoire will inevitably set a standard to which other local choirs will endeavor to measure up. Our federated choirs will sponsor choir festivals which will enlist a large attendance and will have a tendency to deepen the spiritual life of the community. We are also emphasizing the value of Biblical music drama and pageantry, and are making available to local clubs scripts and directions for the presentation of impressive religious spectacles.

Festivals of semi-religious character which will feature the presentation of cantatas and oratorios by distinguished composers of the past and present are becoming more frequent. In rural communities these center about the church choir. In municipalities all musical organizations participate. "A festival association in every large city, a countywide festival in every rural area" is our slogan.

Recognizing the art value of background as well as interpolated music in motion pictures, we have organized previewing committees on both the East and West coasts which see pictures before their release and evaluate their musical content. As a result of this activity has come the project of a Federation survey of the entire field of "music in motion pictures," and the biennial presentation of awards to those composers, directors and artists who make the most distinctive musical contributions to this new and I might almost say distinctively American art.

I have enumerated a few of the many means by which the National Federation of Music Clubs is endeavoring to acquaint the American people with the rich musical resources of this country and to eradicate the last, lingering traces of that long-ago exploded theory that music is for the Europeans, and that America has no musical life of its own. Needless to say, in these days of a European blackout of all that is cultural, and much that is spiritual, America faces a real challenge. To her own musical heritage there is being added the great musical heritage and tradition of lands overseas, who no longer have time for the music of symphonies but heed only the music of the guns. Many nations are pouring their musical treasure into the lap of America. Is it too daring to predict that with these accumulated riches at our command we may ultimately develop a musical culture greater than the world has ever known?

What a divine calling is music! Though everything else may appear shallow and repulsive, even the smallest task in music is so absorbing, and carries us so far away from town, country, earth and all worldly things, that it is truly a blessed gift of God.—Mendelssohn.

DIRECTORY
Music Schools, Teachers and Educators

MUSIC SCHOOLS

ALABAMA

Athens College
Athens, Ala.
E. R. Naylor, Pres.

Birmingham Conservatory of Music
2323 7th Ave. N.
Birmingham, Ala.
Dorsey Whittington, Mus.D., Director

State Teachers College, Dept. of Music
Florence, Ala.
Mrs. Ruby Henderson Porter, Professor

Judson College
Marion, Ala.
William Naylor, B.M., Head of Music Dept.

Albama College
Montevallo, Ala.
H. D. LeBaron, B.A., M.A., F.A.G.O., Director

Huntingdon College, Dept. of Music
Montgomery, Ala.
Erle Danley, Director

Normal College Normal, Ala.
J. F. Drake, Pres.

Spring Hill College Music Dept.
Spring Hill, Ala.
Edward V. Cupero, Professor

Talladega College, Dept. of Music
Talladega, Ala.
Tourgee DeBose, Director

ARKANSAS

Henderson State Teachers College, School of Fine Arts
Arkadelphia, Ark.
Frederick Harwood, Director

Ouachita College Conservatory
Arkadelphia, Ark.
Livingston H. Mitchell, Director

College of the Ozarks
Clarkesville, Ark.
Wiley Lin Hurie, Pres.

John Brown University
Siloam Springs, Ark.
John E. Brown, Pres.

ARIZONA

University of Arizona School of Fine Arts
Tucson, Ariz.
Arthur Olaf Andersen, Mus.D., Dean

CALIFORNIA

Pomona College Dept. of Music
Claremont, California
Ralph H. Lyman, Head of Dept.

University of Southern California, College of Music
Los Angeles, California
Max van Lewen Swarthout, Director

University of Redlands, Dept. of Music
Redlands, California
W. B. Olds, Director

Arrillaga Musical College
San Francisco, Cal.
V. de Arrillaga, Director

College of the Pacific Conservatory of Music
Stockton, Cal.
John Gilchrist Elliott, B.M., Director

Whittier College Music Dept.
Whittier, Cal.
Margaretha Lohmann, Director

COLORADO

San Luis Conservatory of Music
Alamosa, Colo.
J. Leslie Kittle, Director

University of Colorado College of Music
Boulder, Colo.
Howland W. Dunham, Dean

Colorado Women's College
Denver, Colo.
James E. Hutchingson, Pres.

Lamont School of Music
1170 Sherman Ave.
Denver, Colo.

Loretto Heights College
Denver, Colo.
Paul E. Ketrick, Pres.

Colorado State College, Dept. of Music
Fort Collins, Colo.
Gregory Buesche, Professor

Colorado State College of Education, Div. of Music
Greeley, Colo.
J. DeForest Cline, Head

CONNECTICUT

Danbury Music School
Danbury, Conn.
Ella A. Curtis, Director

New Haven School of Music
New Haven, Conn.
Harold Hunt, Director

Yale University School of Music
New Haven, Conn.
David Stanley Smith, M.A., Mus.D., Dean

FLORIDA

University of Miami School of Music
Coral Gables, Fla.
Bertha Foster, Dean

John B. Stetson University
DeLand, Fla.
William E. Duckwitz, Mus.D., Director

Florida Southern College
Lakeland, Fla.
Ludd M. Spivey, Pres.

Rollins College Conservatory of Music
Winter Park, Fla.
Christopher O. Honaas, Director

Florida State College for Women
Tallahassee, Fla.
Miss Ella Scoble Opperman, A.B., M.M., Dean

GEORGIA

Atlanta Conservatory of Music
Peachtree and Broad Sts.
Atlanta, Ga.
Hugh Hodgson, Director
George Lindnew, Dean

Morris Brown College
Atlanta, Ga.
William A. Fountain, Pres.

Bessie Tift College, Dept. of Music
Forsyth, Ga.
Dora Brinson, Director

Wesleyan College Conservatory
Macon, Ga.
Joseph Maerz, Director

Georgia State College for Women, Dept. of Music
Milledgeville, Ga.
Max Noah, Director

Shorter College
Rome, Ga.
W. H. Rowand, B.M., F.A.G.O., Director of Music

IDAHO

College of Idaho, Dept. of Music
Caldwell, Idaho
Frederic F. Beale, Head

State Normal School of Music
Lewiston, Idaho
Mary Granger, Public School of Music

University of Idaho Dept. of Music
Moscow, Idaho
Archie N. Jones, Head of Dept.

ILLINOIS

Shurtleff College
Alton, Ill.
William H. Coleman, Pres.

Aurora College, Music Dept.
Aurora, Ill.
Maude Bouslough, Director

Illinois Wesleyan University
Bloomington, Ill.
Frank B. Jordan, B.M., M.M., Dean

Carthage College Conservatory
Carthage, Ill.
Elmer Hanke, Director

American Conservatory of Music
300-310 S. Wabash Ave.
Chicago, Ill.
John R. Hattstaedt, Pres.

Balatka Musical College
Chicago, Ill.
Chr. F. Balatka, Director

Berning Music School
4747 N. Milwaukee Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Harry M. Berning, Pres.

Boguslawski College of Music
323 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Burns School of Music
Chicago, Ill.
M. Rose Burns, Director

Calumet Conservatory of Music and Dramatic Art
11331 S. Michigan Ave.
Chicago, Ill.
Edwin L. Stephen, Pres.

Chicago Christian College
Chicago, Ill.
Frederick Wenzeman, Pres.

Chicago Conservatory of Music
Kimball Hall
Chicago, Ill.
Edgar A. Brazelton, B.S., M.M., Dean

Chicago Fine Arts Conservatory
Chicago, Ill.
H. R. Hoare, Director

Chicago Musical College
64 E. Van Buren St.
Chicago, Ill.
Rudolph Ganz, Mus.D., Pres.

Chicago Musical Seminary
3905 W. Madison St.
Chicago, Ill.
Marie Greer MacDonald, Pres.

Chicago Piano College
304 S. Wabash Ave.
Chicago, Ill.
Harmon H. Watt, Director

Chicago Teachers College Dept. of Music
Chicago, Ill.
David Nyvall, Jr., Director
Christensen School of Popular Music
20 E. Jackson
Chicago, Ill.
Axel Christensen, Director
Cosmopolitan School of Music
306 S. Wabash Ave.
Chicago, Ill.
Rossetter G. Cole, Ph.B., M.A., Mus.D., Dean
Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
Chicago, Ill.
Shirley Gandell, Pres.
Edwin L. Stephen Manager, Kimball Bldg.
DePaul University School of Music
64 E. Lake St.
Chicago, Ill.
Arthur C. Becker, M.M., A.A.G.O., Dean Englewood Conservatory
Chicago, Ill.
Albert H. McConnell, Director
Glickman College of Fine Arts
228 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Illinois College of Music
Chicago, Ill.
Marie Edwards VonRitter, Director
MacLean College of Music
921 Kimball Hall
Chicago, Ill.
Juan C. MacLean, Director
Mendelssohn Conservatory of Music
Chicago, Ill.
Carrie Scott, Director
Sherwood Music School
410 S. Michigan Ave.
Chicago, Ill.
Walter Keller, Mus.D., F.A.G.O., Musical Director
Wilson School of Music
Alma Wilson McMahill
Chicago, Ill.
Millikin Conservatory of Music
Decatur, Ill.
Miss W. St. Clare Minturn, Director
Northern Illinois State Teachers College, Music Dept.
Dekalb, Ill.
A. Neil Annas, Head of Dept.
Eureka College Conservatory
Eureka, Ill.
G. L. Lathrop, Director
Northwestern University School of Music
Evanston, Ill.
John Walter Beattie, M.A., Mus.D., Dean
Knox College, Dept. of Music
Galesburg, Ill.
James MacConnell, Weddell, Director
Illinois Conservatory of Music
Jacksonville, Ill.
Joseph C. Cleeland, B.M., M.M., Director
MacMurray College Conservatory of Music
Jacksonville, Ill.
Joseph C. Cleeland, Director
College of St. Francis Joliet, Ill.
Sister M. Aniceta, Pres.
Barat College
Lake Forest, Ill.
Mother R. Gibney, Pres.
Monmouth College
Monmouth, Ill.
James H. Grier, Pres.
North-Central College, School of Music
Naperville, Ill.
C. C. Pinney, Director
Bradley Polytechnic Institute, College of Music
Peoria, Ill.
William E. Donovan, Director
Rockford College, Dept. of Music
Rockford, Ill.
Andreas Fugmann, Director
Augustana College School of Music
Rock Island, Ill.
Wilbur Swanson, Dean
Rosary College
River Forest, Ill.
Sister M. Bertranda, B.M., M.M., Director
Quincy Conservatory of Music
Quincy, Ill.
William Spencer Johnson, Director
Sacred Heart Academy
Springfield, Ill.
University of Illinois
Urbana, Ill.
F. B. Stiven, B.M., A.A.G.O., Mus.D.
Director of the School of Music
Wheaton College Conservatory of Music
Wheaton, Ill.
Peter Stam, Jr., A.B., Exec. Director

INDIANA

Indiana University School of Music
Bloomington, Ind.
Robert L. Sanders, Dean
Evansville College
Evansville, Ind.
F. Marion Smith, Pres.
Goshen College
Goshen, Ind.
Sanford Calvin Yoder, Pres.
DePauw University
Greencastle, Ind.
Van Denman Thompson, B.M., Mus.D., F.A.G.O., Acting Director
Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music
1204 N. Delaware St.
Indianapolis, Ind.
Miss Ada Bicking, B.Ped., Director
Indiana Centrall College, Dept. of Music
Indianapolis, Ind.
Ethel Gilliatt, Director
Turechek School of Music
Kokomo, Ind.
Edward Turechek, Director
Marion School of Music
Marion, Ind.
Edward Turechek, Director
Manchester College Music Dept.
North Manchester, Ind.
Paul Halladay, Head
Earlham College, Dept. of Music
Richmond, Ind.
Dail W. Cox, Director
South Bend Conservatory of Music
South Bend, Ind.
Frederick Ingersoll, Director
St. Joseph's Academy
Tipton, Ind.
Mother Agatha, Mgr.
Vincennes University School of Music
Vincennes, Ind.
Paul Sebring, Director

IOWA

Iowa State College School of Music
Ames, Ia.
Tolbert Mar Rae, Professor
Coe College Music Dept.
Cedar Rapids, Ia.
Paul Shumann Ray, Director
Luther College School of Music Dept.
Decorah, Ia.
Theodore Nickel, Director
Drake University College of Fine Arts
Des Moines, Ia.
Herbert Gould, Mus.D., Dean
Clarke College
Dubuque, Ia.
Sister Mary Antonia Durkin, Pres.
Parsons College School of Music
Fairfield, Ia.
Donald Dean Dawson, Director
Upper Iowa University School of Music
Fayette, Ia.
Norman D. Marshall, Director
Grinnell College, Dept. of Music
Grinnell, Ia.
David E. Peck, Chairman
State University of Iowa School of Fine Arts
Iowa City, Ia.
Earl E. Harper, Director
Simpson College Conservatory
Indianola, Ia.
Herbert A. Harvey, Director
University of Iowa, School of Music
Iowa City, Ia.
Philip Greeley Clapp, A.B., A.M., Ph.D.,
Head of Department of Music
Graceland College School of Music
Lamoul, Ia.
Mabel Carlili, Director
Western Union College Dept. of Music
Le Mars, Ia.
J. Frank Jewett, Director
Iowa Wesleyan College, Dept. of Music
Mt. Pleasant, Ia.
Samuel C. Han, Director
Cornell College Conservatory
Mt. Vernon, Ia.
Harold Baltz, Director
William Penn College School of Music
Oskaloosa, Ia.
Marion Naglor, Director, Vocal
Murray Baylor, Director, Instrumental Central College
Pella, Ia.
Morningside College Conservatory of Music
Sioux City, Ia.
Paul MacCollin, A.B., Director
Fletcher College School of Music
University Park, Ia.
Maylou Johnston, Dean

KANSAS

Baker University Conservatory
Baldwin, Kan.
Evelyn B. Butler, Dean
College of Emporia School of Music
Emporia, Kan.
Daniel A. Hirschler, Dean
Kansas State Teachers College, Dept. of Music
Emporia, Kan.
O. J. Borchers, Director
University of Kansas, School of Fine Arts
Lawrence, Kan.
Donald M. Swarthout, Grad. Leipzig Conservatory
Mus.D., Dean
Bethany College
Lindsborg, Kan.
Oscar A. Lofgren, B.M., Dean
Kansas State College, Dept. of Music
Manhatten, Kan.
William Lindquist, Director
Kansas State Teachers, Music Dept.
Pittsburg, Kan.
Walter McCray, Director
Kansas Wesleyan University College of Music
Salina, Kan.
Leon A. Willgus, Dean
Sterling College Music Dept.
Sterling, Kan.
H. H. Root, Director
Washburn College, School of Music
Topeka, Kan.
Ira Pratt, Dean
Friends University School of Fine Arts
Wichita, Kan.
Alan Irwin, Director
Power-Meyers Conservatory of Music
Wichita, Kan.
Reno B. Myers, Director
Municipal University of Wichita, College of Fine Arts
Wichita, Kan.
Thurlow Lieurance, Mus.D., Dean

Southwestern College
Winfield, Kan.
Luther O. Leavengood, B.M., M.M., Dean

KENTUCKY

Berea College Dept. of Music
Berea, Ky.
Ralph Rigby, Director
Georgetown College, Dept. of Music
Georgetown, Ky.
C. Frederick Bonawitz, Director
University of Louisville, School of Music
Louisville, Ky.
Dwight Anderson, Dean
Simmons University
Louisville, Ky.
M. B. Lanier, Pres.
Murray State Teachers' College
Murray, Ky.
Price Doyle, B.S., M.A., Head of Dept. of Music
University of Kentucky, Dept. of Music
Lexington, Ky.
Carl A. Lampert, Head

LOUISIANA

Louisiana State University
Baton Rouge, La.
H. W. Stopher, Mus., Director of School of Music
Loyola College of Music
New Orleans, La.
E. E. Schuyten, Mus.D., Dean
Loyola University
New Orleans, La.
Newcomb College, Tulane University
New Orleans, La.
Leon R. Maxwell, A.B., A.M., Director of School of Music
Points Musical Institute 930 Elysian Fields Ave.
New Orleans, La.
Miss Delphine Points, Principal
Xavier University
New Orleans, La.
Mother M. Agatha, Pres.
Tulane University School of Music of Newcomb
Memorial College
New Orleans, La.
Leon Ryder Maxwell, Director
Louisiana College, Dept. of Music
Pineville, La.
Pierre Valmont Blanchard, Director
Centenary College of Louisiana
Shreveport, La.
Ernest Rolston, A.B., B.M., Director
Dodd College, Dept. of Music
Shreveport, La.
Mrs. L. L. Davidge, Director

MAINE

Clark Piano School
Portland, Me.
Howard Clark, Director

MARYLAND

Peabody Conservatory of Music
Baltimore, Md.
Otto Ortmann, Director
Mt. Vernon Pl. and Charles St.
Hood College, Dept. of Music
Frederick, Md.
Paul Beckhelm, Dept. Head
Maryland College for Women School of Music
Lutherville, Md.
Gustav Marius Illmew, Director
Blue Ridge College, Music Dept.
New Windsor, Md.
Elizabeth A. Adams, Director

MASSACHUSETTS

Abbot Academy
Andover, Mass.
Boston University College of Music
Boston, Mass.
John P. Marshall, Dean
Albert C. Sherman, Registrar
Faelten Pianoforte School
30 Huntington Ave.
Boston, Mass.
Reinhold Faelten, Director
International School for Vocalists and Pianists
Boston, Mass.
William L. Whitney, Director
New England Conservatory of Music
Huntington Ave.
Boston, Mass.
Wallace Goodrich, Mus.D., Director
Melrose School of Music
39 W. Emerson St.
Melrose, Mass.
Susan A. Wells, Principal
Smith College
Northampton, Mass.
Miss Doris Silbert, A.M., Chairman of Music Dept.
Mount Holyoke College, Music Dept.
South Hadley, Mass.
Charles Denoe Leedy, Director
Koussevitzky Music School
Stockbridge, Mass.
Dr. Serge Koussevitzky
Chapel Hill School
Waltham, Mass.

MICHIGAN

Adrian College, Dept. of Music
Adrian, Mich.
James H. Spencer, Director
Albion College Music Dept.
Albion, Mich.
Louis Upton Rowland, Director
University of Michigan School of Music
Ann Arbor, Mich.
Earl V. Moore, A.B., A.M., Mus.D., Musical Director
Art Center Music School
5300 John St. R.
Detroit, Mich.
Edward Bredshall, Director
Detroit Conservatory of Music
Detroit, Mich.
J. Bertram Bell, Director
Detroit Institute of Musical Art
52 Putnam Ave.
Detroit, Mich.
Francis L. York, M.A., Mus.D., Chairman of the Board
Michigan State College
East Lansing, Mich.
Suomi College
Hancock, Mich.
Hillsdale College, Dept. of Music
Hillsdale, Mich.
Edwyn Hames, Director
Hope College School of Music
Holland, Mich.
Kenneth Osborne, Sec.
Weltman Conservatory of Music
Malden, Mass.
Leon Weltman, Director
Edward I. Adelman, Business Manager
Olivet College Dept. of Music
Olivet, Mich.
Avis H. Thomas, Director

MINNESOTA

Augsburg College Dept. of Music
Minneapolis, Minn.
Henry P. Opseth, Director
MacPhail School of Music
LaSalle at 12th St.
Minneapolis, Minn.
William MacPhail, Pres.
Minneapolis College of Music
LaSalle at Eleventh
Minneapolis, Minn.
Mrs. Marie Holland Smith, B.M., Director
St. Olaf College School of Music
Northfield, Minn.
F. Melius Christiansen, Dir.
Hamline University, Dept. of Music
St. Paul, Minn.
John M. Kuypers, Director
Macalester College Conservatory
St. Paul, Minn.
Carl A. Jensen, Director

MISSISSIPPI

Mississippi College Dept. of Music
Clinton, Miss.
George H. Mackie, Band and Orchestra
Frank Slater, Glee Club
Mississippi State College for Women
Columbus, Miss.
Theodore Russell, B.A., M.A., Ph.D., Director Rust College, Music Dept.
Holly Springs, Miss.
Nathalie Doxey, Voice Dept.
Frances Eaton, Piano Dept.
Meridian School of Music
815 28th Ave.
Meridian, Miss.
Mrs. E. H. Hart, Director
Mississippi State College Music Dept.
State College, Miss.
Henry E. Wamsley, Director

MISSOURI

Christian College Conservatory
Columbia, Mo.
Franklin B. Launer, Director
University of Missouri
Columbia, Mo.
Rogers Whitmore, B.M., Chairman of Dept. of Music
Central College
Fayette, Mo.
Robert Ruff, Pres.
Hannibal-LaGrange College Conservatory
Hannibal, Mo.
Dorothy Dudley Seibel, Voice
Isabelle Rich Schroder, Piano
Missouri Valley College, School of Music
Marshall, Mo.
Claude L. Fichthorn, Dean
Missouri State University School of Music
Missoula, Mo.
De Loss Smith, Dean
Conservatory of Music of Kansas City
Armour at Walnut
Kansas City, Mo.
Harold Van Duzee, Director
Conservatory of Music of Kansas City
Kansas City, Mo.
W. T. Grant, Pres.
Lillian M. Seller, Act'g Managing Director
St. Teresa College
57th & Main Sts.
Kansas City, Mo.
Sister M. Marcella, Pres.
Lindenwood College
St. Charles, Mo.
John Thomas, B.M., M.M., Dean
Beethoven Conservatory of Music
St. Louis, Mo.
M. I. Epstein, Pres.
Kroeger School of Music
Boyle & Olive
St. Louis, Mo.
Mrs. Ernest R. Kroeger, Dir.,
Boeddecker's Conservatory of Music
St. Louis, Mo.
Miss Emily Boeddecker, Principal
St. Louis Institute of Music
Bonhomme and Bemiston Aves.
St. Louis, Mo.
R. E. Stuart, Educational Director
Drury College Conservatory
Springfield, Mo.
T. Stanley Skinner, Dean
Tarkio College Music Depts.
Tarkio, Mo.
Poland H. Miller, Director
Central Wesleyan Conservatory
Warrentown, Mo.
Kathleen Halter, Director

NEBRASKA

Doane College Dept. of Music
Crete, Neb.
Arthur Byler, Chairman

Midland College, School of Music
Fremont, Neb.
Oscar Lyder, Director

Grand Island Conservatory of Music
Grand Island, Neb.
Jane Pinder, Director

Hastings College, Dept. of Music
Hastings, Neb.
H. M. Fuhr, Director

University of Nebraska School of Music
Lincoln, Neb.
Arthur E. Westbrook, A.B., B.M., Mus.D., Director

Nebraska Wesleyan University School of Fine Arts
Lincoln, Neb.
Oscar P. Bennett, Director

York College Conservatory York, Neb.
C. H. Amadon, Dean

NEW JERSEY

New Jersey School of Music and Fine Arts
Orange, N. J.
Clarence Wells, Director

Nunzio Accordion School
643 Broad St.,
Newark, N. J.
Charles Nunzio, Director

Upsala College, School of Music
East Orange, N. J.
Gladys Grindeland, Exec. Sec.

New Jersey School of Music and Fine Arts
Orange, N. J.
Clarence Wells, Director

NEW MEXICO

New Mexico A. and M. College, Dept. of Music
State College, N. M.
Carl Jacobs, Head

University of New Mexico, Music Dept.
Albuquerque, N. M.
Mrs. Grace Thompson, Head

NEW YORK

Wells College, Dept. of Music
Aurora, New York
Nicolas Nabokoff, Director

Brooklyn Conservatory of Music
Brooklyn, N. Y.
E. Adolf Whitelaw, Director

Hager's School of Music
51 Harmon St.
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Henry Hager, Director

Mehlmann School of Music
4913 Church Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
M. Mehlmann, Director

Cortland Conservatory of Music
Cortland, N. Y.
Burt L. Bentley, Director

Elmira College Dept. of Music
Elmira, N. Y.
Gwynn S. Bement, Head

Ithaca College
Ithaca, N. Y.
Leonard B. Job, Pres.

Academy of Allied Arts
New York City
Leo & Valentine Nadon, Directors

Niagara University Music Depts.
Niagara Falls, N. Y.
John J. Liney, Director

Fontainebleau School of Music
New York City
Camille Decreus, Director

Grace Church Choristers' School
88 4th Ave.
New York City
Frank D. Ford, Headmaster

Juilliard School of Music
120 Claremont Ave.
New York City
Ernest Hutcheson, Pres.
Oscar Wagner, Dean

Manhattan School of Music
238 E. 105th Street
New York City
Janet D. Schenck, Director

Martin-Smith Music School
139 W. 136th St.
New York City
David I. Martin, Director

New York College of Music
114 E. 85th St.
New York City
Carl Hein, Director

New York School of Music and Arts
New York City
Ralfe Leech Sterner, Director

Vassar College Dept. of Music
Poughkeepsie, New York
George Sherman Dickinson, Chairman

Virgil School of Music
317 W. 93rd St.
New York City
Mrs. A. K. Virgil, Director

State Normal School, Dept. of Music
Potsdam, N. Y.
Helen M. Hosmer, Director

Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester
Rochester, N. Y.
Howard Hanson, Mus.S., F.A.A.R., Director

Nazareth College
Rochester, N. Y.
Sister Mary Teresa, Dean
402 Augustine St.

Syracuse University, College of Fine Arts
Syracuse, New York
Harold L. Butler, A.B., LL.B., Dean

Troy Conservatory of Music
Proctor Bldg.
Troy, New York
H. Townsend Heister, Director,

Utica Conservatory of Music
Utica, New York
Johannes Magendanz, Director

NORTH CAROLINA

University of North Carolina, Dept. of Music
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Glen Haydon, Ph.D., Head of Dept.

Southern Conservatory of Music
Durham, N. C.
Gilmore Ward Bryant, Director

Greensboro College
Greensboro, N. C.
Mark Hoffman, B.M., M.A., Director of Music

Women's College of the University of North Carolina School of Music
Greensboro, N. C.
H. Hugh Altvater, Dean

Elon College Music Dept.
Elon College, N. C.
Stuart Pratt, Dean

Meredith College School of Music
Raleigh, N. C.
Harry E. Cooper, Director

Shaw University
Raleigh, N. C.

Flora Macdonald College Music Dept.
Red Springs, N. C.
J. Wilgus Eberly, Dean

Catawba College
Salisbury, N. C.

Atlantic Christian College School of Music
Wilson, N. C.
John W. Fontaine, Director

Salem College
Winston-Salem, N. C.
Charles G. Vardell, Jr., A.B., M.A., A.A.G.O., Dean

NORTH DAKOTA

University of North Dakota, Dept. of Music
Grand Forks, N. D.
Hywel Rowland, Director

North Dakota Agri. College, Dept. of Music
Fargo, N. D.
Clarence S. Putnam, Director

Concordia Conservatory of Music
Fargo, N. D.
Paul J. Christiansen, Director

Jamestown College School of Music
Jamestown, N. D.
Joseph S. Black, Director

OHIO

Ohio Northern University School of Music
Ada, Ohio
Hadyn Owens, Director

Mount Union College Conservatory of Music
Alliance, Ohio
W. H. Hodgson, B.A., M.A., Ph.D., Director

Ohio University School of Music
Athens, Ohio
Glenn Grant Grabill, Director

Baldwin Wallace Conservatory of Music
Berea, Ohio
Albert Riemenschneider, A.B., Director

Bluffton College, Div. of Music
Bluffton, Ohio
Russell A. Lantz, Director

Cedarville College Conservatory of Music
Cedarville, Ohio
Mildred Bickett Creswell, Director

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music
Highland and Oak Sts.
Cincinnati, Ohio
John A. Hoffman, Ped.D., Dean

College of Music of Cincinnati
1228 Central Parkway
Cincinnati, Ohio
J. H. Thuman, LL.D., Director

Metropolitan College of Music
Cincinnati, Ohio
W. S. Sterling, Dean

Cleveland Institute of Music
2605 Euclid Ave.
Cleveland, Ohio
Beryl Rubinstein, Mus.D., Director

West Side Musical College
1900 W. 25th St.
Cleveland, Ohio
Stephen Comery, Director

Ursiline College for Women Overlook & Cedar Rds.
Cleveland, Ohio

Capital University Conservatory of Music
Columbus, Ohio
Frederick C. Mayer, A.A.G.O., Dean

Miami Valley Conservatory of Music
Dayton, Ohio
Vernon E. Fries, Director

Defiance College
Defiance, Ohio
John W. Claxton, Pres.

Findlay College Conservatory
Findlay, Ohio
Oliver Schumacher, Director

Denison University
Granville, Ohio
Avery Shaw, Pres.

Hiram College, Dept. of Music
Hiram, Ohio
George R. Howerton, Director

Muskingum College Conservatory of Music
New Concord, Ohio
Milton F. Rehg, B.A., Director

Oberlin Conservatory of Music
Oberlin, Ohio
Frank H. Shaw, B.M., Mus.D., Director
Miami University, School of Fine Arts
Oxford, Ohio
Joseph W. Clokey, Mus.D., Dean
Western College
Oxford, Ohio
Miss Ruth Bracher, A.B., B.M., M.M.
Head of Dept. of Music
Lake Erie College Dept. of Music
Painesville, Ohio
Edwin Arthur Kraft, Professor Wittenberg College
Springfield, Ohio
A. H. Beecher, B.M., Director
Heidelberg College Conservatory of Music
Tiffin, Ohio
Amos S. Ebersole, Voice and Chorus
Toledo Conservatory of Music
Toledo, Ohio
Otto Sturmer, Director
Toledo Musical College
Toledo, Ohio
Dana's Musical Institute
Warren, Ohio
Lynn B. Dana, Director
Otterbein College Conservatory
Westerville, Ohio
Glenn Grant Grabill, Director
Wilmington College Music Dept.
Wilmington, Ohio
Raymond Rose, Director
Wooster, The College of, Conservatory
Wooster, Ohio
Neill O. Rowe, Director

OKLAHOMA

Phillips University, College of Fine Arts
Enid, Okla.
Henry Hobart, Dean
University of Oklahoma
Norman, Okla.
Lewis Salter, B.M., A.B., A.M., Director of School of Music
Oklahoma City University College of Fine Arts
Oklahoma City, Okla.
Clarence Burg, Dean
Oklahoma Baptist University College of Fine Arts
Shawnee, Okla.
Warren M. Angell, Dean
Oklahoma A. and M. College, Dept. of Music Stillwater, Okla.
Bohumil Makovsky, Director

OREGON

University of Oregon School of Music
Eugene, Ore.
Theodore Kratt, Mus.D., Dean
Pacific University Conservatory
Forest Grove, Ore.
Edward G. Hargreaves, Bus. Mgr.
Willamette University, School of Music
Salem, Ore.
Cameron Marshall, Director

PENNSYLVANIA

Muhlenburg College, Dept. of Music
Allentown, Pa.
Harold K. Marks, Head
Geneva College Music Dept.
Beaver Falls, Pa.
Karl V. Gilbert, Director
Wilson College Dept. of Music
Chambersburg, Pa.
Walter Golz, Director
Harrisburg Conservatory of Music
Harrisburg, Pa.
Mrs. E. J. Decevee, Directress
State Teachers College Music Dept.
Indiana, Pa.
Irving Cheyette, Director
Wolf Institute of Music
William A. Wolf, Director
Lancaster, Pa.
Mansfield State Teachers College, Music Dept.
Mansfield, Pa.
Mrs. Grace Steadman, Director
Pennsylvania College of Music
Meadville, Pa.
Mary Thorpe Graham, Director
Westminster College Music Dept.
New Wilmington, Pa.
Alan B. Davis, Director
Columbia College of Music
Philadelphia, Pa.
Oscar Streland, Director
Combs College of Music
Philadelphia, Pa.
Joseph W. Gardiner, Pres.
Curtis Institute of Music
18th & Locust Sts.
Philadelphia, Pa.
Josef Hofmann, Director
Hyperion School of Music
Philadelphia, Pa.
Franklin E. Cresson, Director
Leefson Conservatory
1924 Chestnut
Philadelphia, Pa.
Julius Leefson, Director
Temple University School of Music
Philadelphia, Pa.
Thaddeus Rich, Dean
Zeckwer-Hahn Philadelphia Academy of Music
Philadelphia, Pa.
Frederick E. Hahn, Pres.
Brosky School of Music
5930 Kentucky Ave.
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Frank J. Brosky, Dir.
Duquesne University School of Music
Pittsburgh, Pa.
John J. Manning, Dean
Pittsburg Musical Institute
131 Bellefield Ave.
Pittsburgh, Pa.
William H. Oetting, Pres.
Scranton Conservatory of Music
Scranton, Pa.
Luella M. Pennington, Director
Susquehanna University Conservatory
Selinsgrove, Pa.
E. E. Sheldon, Director
Pennsylvania State College, Dept. of Music
State College, Pa.
R. W. Grant, Director
Warren Conservatory of Music
Warren, Pa.
LeRoy B. Campbell, Director
State Teachers College School of Music
West Chester, Pa.
C. Edward Hausknecht, Head of Dept.
Leschetizky Piano School
Williamsport, Pa.
Mary B. Lundy, Director

SOUTH CAROLINA

Benedict College Music Dept.
Columbia, S. C.
S. L. Finley, Jr., Director
Furman University
Greenville, S. C.
Wendell Keeney, Director of Music Dept.
Converse College School of Music
Spartanburg, S. C.
Ernst Bacon, M.A., Dean

SOUTH DAKOTA

Northern State Teachers College, Music Dept.
Aberdeen, S. D.
John Lukken, Director
South Dakota State College, Dept. of Music
Brookings, S. D.
Carl Christensen, Professor Freeman College Music Dept.
Freeman, S. D.
Gerhard J. Toews, Director
Huron College School of Music
Huron, S. D.
Loftus H. Ward, Director
Dakota Wesleyan School of Music
Mitchell, S. D.
Augustana College, Music Dept.
Sioux Falls, S. D.
Carl R. Youngdahl, Dean
Sioux Falls College Conservatory of Music
Sioux Falls, S. D.
Lee Bright, Director
University of South Dakota College of fine Arts
Vermillion, S. D.
Winfred R. Colton, Dean
Yankton College Conservatory of Music
Yankton, S. D.
Lee N. Dailey, Director

TENNESSEE

Cadek Conservatory of the University of Chattanooga
421 Walnut St.
Chattanooga, Tenn.
Ottokar Cadek, Director
University of Chattanooga
Chattanooga, Tenn.
Archie Palmer, Pres.
Carson-Newman College Conservatory of Music
Jefferson City, Tenn.
Ersa Davis, Director
Milligan College, Dept. of Music
Johnson City, Tenn.
Frances L. Yearley, Head of Dept.
Knoxville College Conservatory
Knoxville, Tenn.
Newell C. Fitzpatrick, Director
Cumberland University, Dept. of Music
Lebanon, Tenn.
Eunice Cutler, Director
Maryville College, Music Dept.
Maryville, Tenn.
Katherine C. Davies, Head
Fisk University, Dept. of Music
Nashville, Tenn.
Harold C. Schmidt, Chairman of Faculty

TEXAS

Hardin-Simmons University
Abilene, Tex.
E. Edwin Young, M.M., Dean
McMurry College
Frank L. Turner, Pres.
Abilene, Texas
Academy of Music and Art
Amarillo, Tex.
Ellis B. Hall, Director
Mary Hardin-Baylor College
Belton, Tex.
Walter Gilewicz, Mus.D., Director
Southern Methodist University
Dallas, Tex.
Paul van Katwijk, Mus.D., Dean
Fort Worth Conservatory of Music
1100 W. Cannon
Fort Worth, Tex.
Jeanette Tillett, Pres.
Texas Christian University Conservatory
Fort Worth, Tex.
Claude Sammis, Director
Southern University, Dept. of Music
Georgetown, Tex.
Henry E. Meyer, Dean
Incarnate Word College
San Antonio, Tex.
Sister Mary Laurence, B.M., M.M., Chairman of Music Dept.
Our Lady of the Lake College
San Antonio, Tex.
Sister Amabilis, A.B., A.M., M.M., Director of Dept. of Music
Westminster College
Tehuacana, Tex.
Clarence A. Sutton, Pres.
Amarillo College of Music
Waco, Tex.
Roxy Grove, Director

Baylor University
Waco, Tex.
Miss Roxy Grove, A.B., B.M., M.A., Chairman of School of Music

UTAH

McCune School of Music and Art
200 N. Main St.
Salt Lake City, Utah
Tracy Y. Cannon, M.M., Director

VIRGINIA

Stanford College for Women
Averett, Va.
Bridgewater College, Music Dept.
Bridgewater, Va.
Nelson T. Huffman, Director
Averett Junior College for Young Women Danville, Va.
Mary Washington College
Fredericksburg, Va.
M. L. Combs, Pres.
Hollins College
Hollins, Va.
Arthur S. Talmadge, B.M., A.B., Head of Dept. of Music
Shenandoah Conservatory of Music
Dayton, Va.
Wade S. Miller, Pres.
J. Edgar Anderson, Dean

WASHINGTON

Western Washington, College of Education, Dept. of Music and Fine Arts
Bellingham, Wash.
Nils Boson, Chairman
Central Washington College of Education, Dept. of Music
Ellensburg, Wash.
Wayne S. Hertz, Chairman
State College of Washington, School of Music and Fine Arts
Pullman, Wash.
Herbert Kimbrough, Dean
Cornish College
710 E. Roy St.
Seattle, Wash.
Nellie C. Cornish, Director
Seattle College of the Pacific
Seattle, Wash.
C. H. Watson, Pres.
University of Washington School of Music
Seattle, Wash.
Frances Dickey, Acting Director
College of Puget Sound Conservatory of Music
Tacoma, Wash.
John Paul Bennett, Director
Whitman Conservatory of Music
Walla Walla, Wash.
Esther Bienfang, Director

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Arlington Hall
Washington, D.C.
Carrie Sutherlin, Pres.
Howard University School of Music
Washington, D.C.
Lulu Vere Childers, Mus.B., Director
King-Smith Studio of Music
Washington, D.C.
August King-Smith, Director
Washington College of Music
Washington, D. C.
F. A. Roberts, Pres., 1810 Conn. Ave.

WEST VIRGINIA

Mason College of Music
Charleston, W. Va.
W. S. Mason, Mgr.
Matilda R. Mason, Pres., & Director
West Virginia University School of Music
Morgantown, W. Va.
Frank Cuthbert, Director
West Virginia Wesleyan College, School of Music
Buckhannon, W. Va.
Paul H. Wonnberger, Piano & Organ Dept.

WISCONSIN

Lawrence College Conservatory
Appleton, Wis.
Carl J. Waterman, Dean
Marshall Hulbert, Sec.
University of Wisconsin, School of Music
Madison, Wis.
Carl E. Bricken, Director
Wisconsin School of Music
Madison, Wis.
Elizabeth Buehler, Director
Milwaukee Downer College Dept. of Music
Milwaukee, Wis.
Claudia McPheeters, Director
State Teachers College, Div. of Public Schools Music
Milwaukee, Wis.
Carle Oltz, Director
Wisconsin College of Music
Milwaukee, Wis.
Hans Bruening, Director
Wisconsin Conservatory
Milwaukee, Wis.
Theodore Dammann, Pres.
Emil H. Koepke, Vice-Pres. & Mgr.
Wisconsin Conservatory of Music
Milwaukee, Wis.
Edwin G. Kappelmann, B.M., Director
Milton College School of Music
Milton, Wis.
Alberta Crandall, Director
Ripon College, Dept. of Music
Ripon, Wis.
Harold Chamberlain, Director
Carroll College School of Music
Waukesha, Wis.
Clarence E. Shepard, Director

WYOMING

University of Wyoming, Div. of Music
Laramie, Wyoming
David Eisenberg, Chairman

MUSIC TEACHERS

Piano

Adams, Mrs. Crosby
Montreat, N. C.
Tel: Number 8
Addonizio, Philomena
7014 Fort Hamilton Parkway,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Shore Road 8-5110
Adler, Clarence
336 Central Park West,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-4922
Ahearn, Ella Mason
861 Hillside Ave.,
Westfield, N. J.
Tel: Westfield 2-3281W
Alden, John Carver
Alexander, Birdie
1837 Grandview Ave.,
El Paso, Tex.
Alexander, Elsie
4757 Sheridan Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Long Beach 0132
Allen, Guy
2300 Highland Ave.,
Birmington, Ala.
Tel: 3-2619
Allen, William
International House,
Riverside Drive,
New York City
Allison, Irl
640 Riverside Drive,
New York City
Tel: Audubon 3-1539
Althouse, Lillian
233 S. Figueroa St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Va. 4832
Amstutz, Magdalene
Bob Jones College,
Cleveland, Tenn.
Anderson, Bob 83 Union,
Memphis, Tenn.
Tel: 8-6990
Anderson, Orlan P.
Andover, Ill.
Tel: 50
Antonini, Alfredo
166 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-0888
Ascher, Leo
617 W. 113th St.,
New York City
Tel: University 4-8936
Atwood, Birdie
534 S. Jefferson Ave.,
Springfield, Mo.
Tel: 2188
Aulbach, Francis Edward
911 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4282
Bacon, Allan
College of the Pacific,
Stockton, Cal.
Bacon, Madi
Roycemore School,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 5790
Baerwald, Hellmut
173 E. 74th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-1239
Baker, Addie Belle
1568 Gordon St.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: GI. 4407
Balas, Clarice
3057 W. 14th St.,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Prospect 0439
BALLANTINE, SAIDA A.
29 W. Quincy St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 8538
Bard, Vivien
608 S. Center St.,
Terre Haute, Ind.
Tel: Harrison 1166
Barnes, Esther Wilburn
Georgia Teachers College,
Statesboro, Georgia
Tel: 53 M
Barris, Chester
College of Wooster,
Wooster, Ohio
Tel: 113
Bates, Mona
519 Jarvis St.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Midway 9674
Beaton, Isabella
Beck, John Jacob
MacPhail School of Music,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424
Becker, Gustave L.

Beebe, Carolyn
BEHREND, JEANNE
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525
BERNING, HARRY M.
4747 Milwaukee Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 5000
Berryman, Cecil Wells
214 Baldridge Bldg.,
20th and Farnam,
Omaha, Neb.
Bert, Berthe
170 E. 78th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-1735
Bilbro, Mathilde
Birmingham, Ala.
P. O. Box 1344
Bitter, Marguerite
2823 Ellendale Place,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Republic 9743
BOARDMAN, ROGER
451 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 4-7861
Boguslawski, Lillian
323 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 6900
Boguslawski, Moissaye
323 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 6900
Bolet, Jorge
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525
Bollinger, Samuel
Boltenstern, Russell E.
402 W. Center St.,
Cambridge, Ill.
Tel: Black 100
Bonime, Gertrude
26 E. 81st St.,
New York City
Tel. Butterfield 8-5882
Borglum, August M.
2661 Douglas St.,
Omaha, Neb.
Boyd, Anna Tomlinson
6937 34th St.,
Berwyn, Ill.
Tel: Berwyn 675
Boyd, Jeanne
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Boyle, George Frederick
Boyle Piano Studios,
1909 Walnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Locust 4493
Brazelton, Edgar A.
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
Brewbaker, Lotta
813 The Arcade,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Ma. 0925
Bristol, Frederick
120 E. 39th St.,
New York City
Tel: Caledonia 5-5161
Britton, Elizabeth
15 Johnson Ave.,
Binghamton, N. Y.
Tel: 2-2273
Browda, Morris
1808 N. Kenmore Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: No. 21783
Brown, Grace V.
53 Main St.,
Woodbridge, N. J.
Bryan, Isabel Mawha
1235 Emory Dr., N. E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Buhlig, Richard
Burnham, Thuel
Burrows, Raymond Murdock
Teachers College,
Columbia University,
New York City
Tel: University 4-7000
Calzin, Alfred
121 W. 80th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-7394
Carlisle, Ellen Lytch
Bennettsville, S. C.
CARNAHAN, FRANKLYN
612 Carnegie Hall,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Main 0665
Carre, John
219 Sixth St.,
Racine, Wis.
Tel: Jackson 148
CARRERAS, MARIA
c/o Ruth B. Mitchell,
169 E. 78th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-0311
Carroll, Grace Potter
19 Zillicoa St.,
Homewood, Asheville, N. C.
Tel: Del. 3555
Chalmers, Ruby
839 Penn Ave., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 1569
Chaloff, Julius L.
30 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 2768
Charmbury, Walter
Rollins College,
Winter Park, Fla.
Chittenden, Kate S.
853 7th Ave.,
New York City
Clark, Eugene Walter
Box 223,
Ulster Park, N. Y.
Cooley, Doris Allen
1146 Oak Grove Dr.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Albany 0509
Cortot, Alfred
CORYELL, MAY HOPE
1512 24th St.,
Sacramento, Cal.
Crost, Dorothy
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830
Dana, Lynn Boardman
Dayer, Ruth
5103 Cass,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Terrace 8550
Dayer, Walter
5103 Cass,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Terrace 8550
Deering, Henri
DE GRAY, JULIAN
Bennington College,
Bennington, Vt.
De Horvath, Cecile
418 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4989
DEL TERZO, EMILIA
816 Carnegie Hall,
7th Ave. & 57th St.,
New York City
Dennee, Charles Frederick
Dodds, Maybelle Crockett
1027 Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Doolittle, Maude Tucker
3434 83rd St.,
Jackson Heights, N. Y.
Tel: Ha. 4-2477
DORFMAN, SAUL
1234 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7529
Dormagen, Amy
Dormagen Conservatory of Music,
33 Waltham St.,
Hammond, Ind.
Downs, Ocy L.
10 Congress Square,
Portland, Me.
Tel: 3-3181
Drittler, Max Wolfgang
307 Church St.,
Boonton, N. J.
Tel: Boonton 8-0019
DU MOULIN, ROSE LYON
607 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Durham, Alice S.
130 Pine Ave.,
Long Beach, Cal.
Tel: 667-71
Eberly, J. Wilgus
Flora Macdonald College,
Red Springs, N. C.
Echaniz, Jose
Millikin Conservatory of Music,
Decatur, Ill.
Elfenbein, Ethel
1466 48th St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Erickson, Thelma Holm
11638 Otsego,
North Hollywood, Cal.
Ernst, Kenneth Gilbert
Butterfield Bldg.,
Queen Anne and Boston Sts.,
Seattle, Wash.
Eschman, Karl Henry
Denison University,
Granville, Ohio
Everhart, Powell
Limestone College,
Gaffney, S. C.
Farquhar, Pauline
624 Loma Ave.,
Long Beach, Cal.
Tel: 806-13
Feldmann, Eliza Holmes
Brenau College,
Gainesville, Ga.
Tel: 350
Fergus, Phyllis
1406 N. State Parkway,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 1009
Ferrahian, Eunice
665 E. Adams Blvd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Richmond 7986
Fickenscher, Arthur
Ford, Edna Cornell
1051 Walker Ave.,
Oakland, Cal.
Fox, Felix
FREUND, HELEN BROWNE
1018 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3480
Friedberg, Carl
Juilliard School of Music,
130 Claremont St.,
New York City
Furcron, Elizabeth
Henry Street Settlement Music
School,
New York City
Gallico, Paolo
Ganapol, Mrs. Boris
5103 Cass,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Terrace 2-8550

Ganci, Ralph
1916 Boulevard,
Jersey City, N. J.
Tel: Be-3-0505

Gannon, Helen C.

Ganz, Rudolph
Chicago Musical College
64 E. Van Buren St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gardiner, Bertha Mae
115 E. Bernard St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 629 W.

Gebhard, Heinrich

GEMMER, EDWIN J.
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Genhart, Cecile

Gentsch, Augusta
405 Norfolk Bldg.,
Spokane, Wash.
Tel: M 3051

Gerschefski, Edwin
516 E. 89th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-5813

Gest, Elizabeth A.
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Gilbert, Ella Lord
530 Wilson St.,
Manchester, N. H.

GLASSON, T. BATH
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2634

Goodman, Lawrence

Green, William Hatton
105 Gay St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: West Chester 800

Greim, Helen A.
State Teachers College,
St. Cloud, Minn.
Tel: 601

Griggs, Hazel
Steinway Hall,
New York City

Grovlez, Gabriel

Gruen, Herta
215 W. 75th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 4-2362

Gruen, Rudolph
c/o Vera Bull Hull,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Grunwald, Hugo

Gruss, Hermann
32 E. Boston Ave.,
Youngstown, O.
Tel: 23154

Gunzbourg, Mark
449 W. Ferry,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Temple 1-7145

Haake, Gail Martin
American Conservatory,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Haigh, Andrew Comstock
Cornell University,
Ithaca, N. Y.

Hall, Ruth Julia
159 E. 56th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-7118

Hanks, Howard
American Conservatory,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Hanson, Betty Runyon
963 Cuyler Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Bittersweet 7069

Harms, William
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Haufreucht, Herbert

Havens, Raymond Lester
12 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 8796

Hawkins, Warner M.
147 W. 87th St.,
New York City
Tel: Schuyler 4-3391

HENRY, HAROLD
853 Seventh Ave,.
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-7826

Henslee, Rebecca Field
State Teachers College,
West Chester, Pa.

HILL, ROBERT PAYSON
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6700

Hilsberg, Ignace
740 Orange Grove Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Hodgson, Leslie
Hotel Wellington,
New York City

Hoffman, Wilhelmina Dorothea
Parma, Ida.
Tel: 120W

HOFHEIMER, GRACE
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8178

Hofmann, Josef
Curtis Institute,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Horowitz, Linnea
59 W. 83rd St.,
New York City

Howe, Esther Louise
Shorter College,
Rome, Ga.
Tel: 1910

Huber, Frederick R.

Hughes, Edwin
338 W. 89th St.,
New York City

Hulman, Anna Elizabeth
824 Sixth St.,
Terre Haute, Ind.
Tel: Crawford 4444

HUNTER, MABEL WREDE
American Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Hutcheson, Ernest

Iacapraro, Ida
1941 Hone Ave.,
New York City
Tel: University 3-0049

Ingham, Clara
138 Highland Place,
Monrovia, Cal.

INSANA, SILVIO
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2833

Jack, Eva
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 5251

Jewett, Albert Dewey
520 Meridan Ter.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Cleveland 63686

Johnson, Frances Dwight
1122 Avery St.,
Parkersburg, W. Va.
Tel: 860

Johnson, Wilbur P.
Community School of Music,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Jonas, Alberto

Kagen, Sergius
Juilliard Graduate School,
130 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3302

Kappelmann, Edwin G.
840 N. 3rd St.,
Milwaukee, Wis.
Tel: Da. 1104

Kaufman, Harry
Curtis Institute of Music,
Rittenhouse Square,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Keeney, Wendell
Furman University,
Greenville, S. C.
Tel: 115

Kelso, Hugh Alexander

Keyser, Francis
Sherwood Music School,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

Keyser, Irene Lamb
Sherwood Music School,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

KIMBERLY, MAE ELEANOR
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7579

King, Charles
4 Lincoln Terrace,
Meriden, Conn.
Tel: 4063 W

Kisch, Harriette
1822 Sherman Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 5315

Knupfer, Walter
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.

KOBER, GEORGIA
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Kolling, Henry Benson
De Pauw University,
Greencastle, Ind.
Tel: 148

Korn, Clara

KRAMER, SELMA
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-5189

Lambuth, Archer
1578 Oak Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 6559

Landrum, Miriam Gordon
2010 Wichita St.,
Austin, Tex.
Tel: 9935

Law, Eva Lorena
117 S. Lafayette Park Pl.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Exposition 2567

Lawton, Ralph
Centerville, Mass.

Lee, J. Earl
Augustana College,
Sioux Falls, S. Dak.
Tel: 851

LEOPOLD, RALPH
c/o Arthur Culbertson,
33 W. 42nd St.,
New York City

LEVEE, SARA
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Lhevinne, Josef

Lichtman, Sina
1114 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-5377

Lipsky, Morris
1542 E. 67th Place,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Fairfax 8795

Locke, Arthur Ware

Lonegren, Opal Church
1128 La Salle Ave,.
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424

Long, Kathleen

LOUDON, M. JENNETTE
726 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2342

Love, Gene
2015 E. 10th St.,
Austin, Texas
Tel: 84597

Luckstone, Isidore

MacDonald, Robert Neilson
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Malkin, Manfred
Hotel Ansonia,
Broadway at 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300

Malloy, Herbert
706 Paramount Theatre Bldg.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: El. 7175

Manker, Lucille
7050 Oglesby Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mannes, Clara

Mannheimer, Frank
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Maren, Ilse
5816 Glenwood Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Sunnyside 0911

Margolies, Mollie
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.

Markley, Gertrude
403 S. Hobart Blvd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Marks, Eugene Franklin
122 Eighth St.,
Augustana, Ga.
Tel: 28182

Martucci, Paolo

MASSMANN, MAGDALEN
De Paul University,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 8194

Matthay, Tobias

Mattingly, Mrs. Jane McFarlin
North Avenue Presbyterian School,
341 Ponce de Leon Ave.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Vernon 7233

MAURO-COTTONE, AURORA
150 Lexington Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 5-0680

Maxon, Margaret Mary
219 Sixth St.,
Racine, Wis.
Tel: Jackson 148

McCracken, Glenn
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8362

McDonald, Elinore Whiting
318 E. Third St.,
Pendleton, Ore.

McHose, Grace B.
616 10th Ave., S.,
Nampa, Idaho
Tel: 1133W

McKee, Samuel B.
6842 Sunset Blvd.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 1410

McKorell, Bessie King
903 Caroline Ave.,
Hartsville, S. C.
Tel: 223

McNeely, Paul Pierre
907 Pine St.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Ma. 8639

Mervynne, Rev. Duncan Salisbury
1875 San Pasqual St.,
Pasadena, Cal.
Tel: Sycamore 3-9622

Metz, Robert Roy
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3700

MEYER, MARION
951 Chicago Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.

Mikova, Marie
119 S. Madison Ave,.
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Federal 5508

Milinowski, Marta
126 Raymond Ave.,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Miller, Leo C.
393 N. Euclid,
St. Louis, Mo.

MIROVITCH, ALFRED
117 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-5590

MITTMANN, LEOPOLD
712 Steinway Bldg.,
New York City

Morris, Zollie D.
4747 N .Milwaukee Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 5000

Morsztyn, Helena
58 W. 68th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-5826

Munson, Ellen
Chicago Conservatory,
25 East Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Munz, Mieczyslaw
c/o Haensel & Jones
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

NELSON, RUTH DANIELS-
1302 Jackson St.,
La Porte, Ind.
Tel: 399

Newton, Mary W.
110 S. Everett St.,
Bennetsville, S. C.

NICKERSON, CAMILLE LUCIE
Howard University,
Washington, D. C.

Nolte-Davidson, Fern
233 19th Ave., S.,
Nampa, Idaho
Tel: 1037

Noyes, Edith Rowena

Oberg, Paul Matthews
University of Wichita,
Wichita, Kan.
Tel: 4-5331

Oles, Helen Louise
1104 17th Ave., N.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: East 3684

Ondricek, Gladys Posselt
250 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Commonwealth 5592

Ornstein, Leo
251 S. 18th St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2777

Perfield, Effa Ellis
103 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Sacramento 2-4859

Perkins, Ivy Berry
American Conservatory of Music,
7227 Bennett Ave. (So. Shore Br.),
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dorchester 4615

Perry, Adelaide Trowbridge
Univeristy of Southern Cal.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Richmond 4111

Pfleger, Edward
105 W. 74th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-8016

Philipp, Isidor

Podolsky, Leo
Sherwood Music School,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Poynor, Virgia
College of the Ozarks,
Clarksville, Ark.
Tel: 14

Raab, Alexander

Randegger, G. Aldo
c/o E. Richards,
13 W. 88th St.,
New York City
Tel: Schuyler 4-7119

Reever, Harold
3225 Foster Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Reisenberg, Nadia
317 W. 83rd St.,
New York City

Remley, Lucy Friend
2547 Gaylord St.,
Denver, Colo.

Reuter, Rudolph
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Risler, Jeanette May
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Robinson, Carol
405 E. 54th St,.
New York City
Tel: Wickersham 2-5123

Roeder, Carl M.
607-8 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-9244

Rogers, Mrs. June
128 S. 8th St.,
Gadsden, Ala.
Tel: 1396

Rosenthal, Hedwig Kanner-
c/o Alix B. Williamson,
67 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Tel: Vanderbilt 6-1466

Rosenthal, Moriz
c/o Paul H. Stoes,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Rothermel, Rita
1400 Lake Shore Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 4180

Rubstein, Ariel
1539 N.E. 10th,
Portland, Ore.
Tel: Tr. 1218

RYAN, BESSIE
c/o Austin College of Mussic,
3334 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kedzie 3350

Samaroff, Olga

Saperton, David
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525

Savler, Roberta
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

SCHEFF, MORTIMER LOUIS
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4425

Schnabel, Artur

Schnee, Vitaly
728 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

SCHULTZ, ARNOLD
622 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8362

Schwartz, Leo C.
45 Astor Place,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 3-2407

Schwarz, Joseph
Settlement Music School,
416 Queen St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Scionti, Silvo
c/o Paul H. Stoes,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Scott, Carrie
910 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7586

Semmann, Liborius
757 N. Broadway
Milwaukee, Wis.
Tel: Daily 2770

Sheridan, Frank

SHERMAN, BESSIE WILLIAMS
619 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

SHEYNE, MICHAEL B.
50 W. 67th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 9-4950

Silber, Sidney
Sherwood Music School,
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

Siloti, Alexander

Simpson, Lylian Niquette
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Singer, Richard
c/o Spencer B. Driggs,
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Sittig, Frederick V.
R. D. No. 3,
Stroudsburg, Pa.
Tel: Saylorsburg 22-2

Skalski, Andre
The University of Music,
59 E. Van Buren St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Sladon, Eugenie
336 W. 89th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 4-7753

SMITH, EARLE CHESTER
716 Loew's Grand Theatre Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Walnut 7488

Spencer, Allen
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8763

Spencer, Vernon

Sprv, Walter

Stanley, Jane
205 Chestnut Ave.,
Long Beach, Cal.

Stanziola, Ernest
8 W. King St.,
Lancaster, Pa.
Tel: 5252

Stead, Franklin
1142 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.

Stead, Mabel Riggs
1142 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.

Stein, Simon R.
Boguslawski College of Music,
323 S. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7815

Sternsdorff, Else
117 S. Washington St.,
Butler, Pa.

Stojowski, Sigismond

Stokowski, Olga Samaroff
Juilliard Graduate School,
130 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3302

Stoye, Paul
Drake University,
Des Moines, Ia.

Strahm, Franz J.
Teachers College,
Box 275,
Bowling Green, Ky.
Tel: 1700

STROUP, DONALD
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Tel: Harrison 0500

STUMPF, MRS. CLARENCE
403 W. 30th,
Austin, Tex.
Tel: 22856

Sturkow-Ryder, Theodora
Bradley Griffin Studios,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Swarthout, Donald Malcolm
University of Kansas,
Lawrence, Kan.
Tel: 1637

Szanto, Gizi
5035 Woodward,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2810

Tallarico, Constance N.
557 W. 124th St.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-4350

TALLARICO, VICTOR A.
557 W. 124th St,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-4350

Talley, Howard
Dept. of Music,
University of Chicago,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Midway 0800

Tarnowsky, Sergei
De Paul University,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 8194

Thalman, J. William
605 Stevens St.,
Iowa Falls, Iowa
Tel: 98-M

Thoraldson, Clair B.
Macalester College,
St. Paul, Minn.

Tillotson, Frederic Elre Thornlay
181 Park Row,
Brunswick, Me.
Tel: 155W

Titus, Maxine Elaine
8606 Rugby Dr.,
Hollywood, Cal.

Townsley, Lois
16 Serpentine Dr.,
New Rochelle, N. Y.
Tel: New Rochelle 62

Treshansky, Milton
719 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 9558

Treumann, Edward E.
837 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-4357

Tupper, Virginia Gatewood
243 King St.,
Charleston, S. C.

Turner, Robert
Hotel Ansonia,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300

Upton, William Treat

Vail, Mary Louise
2300 Highland Ave.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Tel: 3-2619

Van Cleave, John Smith

Von Unschuld, Marie

Wagner, Oscar
130 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3302

Warren, Gladys Ethelwyn
Georgia State Woman's College,
Valdosta, Ga.

Warwick, Arthur
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4780

Waters, George Maro
20 Collier Rd.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Vernon 9878

Watson, Mabel Madison
Dorset Rd.,
Devon, Pa.
Tel: Wayne 618

Watts, Harry William
Eastman School of Music,
Rochester, N. Y.

Wedertz, C. Gordon
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830

Wells, Howard
603 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 5572

Welsman, Frank S.

Werle, Frederick Charles
405 Presser Bldg.,
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 9934

Weschler, Angela E.
New York College of Music,
114 E. 85th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-9377

West, Edith Adair
94 Inman Circle, N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 5549

Wildermann, Maria Bernadette
Steinway Hall,
New York City

Wilks, Norman
Toronto Conservatory of Music,
135 College St.,
Toronto, Canada

Willard, Carolyn
140 Capital Ave., N.E.,
Battle Creek, Mich.
Tel: 5325

Williams, Frederic Arthur

Wilson, Mrs. R. Wayne
1040 Peachtree St., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 3606

Windsor, Helen
66 E. 93rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Sacramento 2-5662

Winkler, Emil
520 North Ave. 54,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Cleveland 62415

WISE, B. FRED
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

WOLFE, LILLIAN REZNIKOFF
1379 Union St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: President 4-1270

WOOD, ANNABELLE
201 W. 54th St,.
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1988

Wycoff, Eva Emmet
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Wyckoff, Leah Ehrich
45 E. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-6800

York, Francis L.
52 Putnam,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Co. 2870

Yost, Dixie
1338 W. Roosevelt,
Phoenix, Ariz.
Tel. 3-3462

Young, Mozelle Horton
712 Loew's Grand Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Violin

Abel, May Leggett
Detroit Conservatory of Music,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Co 2810

Applebaum, Samuel 45 Ingraham Place,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Bigelow 8-2810

Aranyi, Francis
144 N. Dithridge St.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Schenley 5993

Baecht, Arthur Edward 1 Scotland Rd.,
South Orange, N. J.

Barre, Elizabeth Freeman
1202½ Main St.,
Columbia, S. C.

Bergh, Arthur
159 N. Almont Dr.,
Beverly Hills, Cal.

BETTI, ADOLFO
Hotel Ansonia,
New York City

Brand, Guido
610 W. 174th St.,
New York City
Tel: Wadsworth 3-4585

Brown, Robert Melville
Dakota Wesleyan University,
Mitchell, S. D.

Burleigh, Cecil
University of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wis.

Cain, Betty
2676 Orrington Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: Greenleaf 5588

CHAPEK, JOSEPH E.
3350 Broadway,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 2621

Cheslock, Louis
Peabody Conservatory of Music,
Mt. Vernon Place,
Baltimore, Md.

Chuhaldin-Lind, Alexander
Toronto Conservatory of Music,
Toronto, Canada

Corduan Herbert Charles
32-16 159th St.,
Flushing, N. Y.
Tel: Flushing 9-2734

Crean, Roland
140 Noble St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

De Reszke, Simeon
151 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2166

De Sayn, Elena
1025 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Me 5552

Dounis, D. C.

Durrell, Josephine Thorpe
53 Porter St.,
Melrose, Mass.
Tel: Melrose 3177W

Eaton, Louis

Foti, Frank
33 Brookfield Ave.,
Bridgeport, Conn.

Gaedcke, Anita Storrs
2010 Wichita St.,
Austin, Texas
Tel: 9935

Galamian, Ivan
144 W. 16th St.,
New York City

Gardner, Samuel
Juilliard School of Music,
120 Claremont Ave.,
New York City

Gaudio, Gina
Sherwood Music School,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 7267

Gellert, Max
619 Alta Vista Blvd.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: York 7724

GIAUQUE, ALICE HOLMEN
211 W. Pine St.,
Selinsgrove, Pa.
Tel: 1092

Gittelson, Frank

Glass, David A.
4804 N. Kedzie Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Keystone 5320

Goldblatt, Maurice Henry

Gomberg, Maurice
De Paul University,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 8194

Gordon, Jacques

Grieves, Wallace
520 S. Second St.,
Springfield, Ill.
Tel: 2-8641

Grolle, John

Gross, Robert
Music Department,
Colorado College,
Colorado Springs, Colo.
Tel: Main 5951-W

Grossman, F. Karl
Western Reserve University,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: 50161
R. Conservatorio Luigi Cherubini,
Florence, Italy

Gruenberg, Eugene

Guidi, Scipione

Habenicht, Walter Friedrich
156 Main St.,
Bangor, Maine
Tel: 7374

Hahn, Frederick

Hayza, Henri Karol
907 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4980

Heckman, George Jacobs
10403 Euclid Ave.,
Ceveland, Ohio
Tel: Cedar 0581

Heyman, Henry

Horn, Dorothy Duerson
Maryville College,
Maryville, Tenn.

Kelbe, Theodore

Kneisel, Frank
430 W. 118th St.,
New York City

Kortschak, Hugo
155 E. 91st St.,
New York City
Tel: Atwater 9-7579

Koutzen, Boris
162 W. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-1745

Kvelve, Rudolph
Postal Telegraph Bldg.,
La Crosse, Wis.
Tel: 2720M

Lehmann, Alexander
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Leonard, Clair

Luboshutz, Lea

Malkin, Jacques
532 W. 111th St.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-5545

MANUSSEVITCH, VICTOR E.
132 E. 96th St.,
New York City
Tel: Atwater 9-0509

Martin, Max
Music Department
Kansas State College,
Manhattan, Kan.

Martini, Albert
Centenary College of Louisiana,
Shreveport, La.

Matesky, Ralph
122½ S. Third St.,
Grand Forks, N. D.
Tel: 338

McDonald, Bert Allan
318 E. Third St.,
Pendleton, Ore.

MINTY, DOROTHY
205 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-5484

MORSE, EARL WILLIAM 113 Tuller Hotel,
Detroit, Mich.

Morse, Wort Stephen
Jenkins Bldg.,
Kansas City, Mo.
Tel: Victor 5868

MURAT, RONALD
404 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Cathedral 8-8852

Myerovich, Alvin
Youngstown College,
Youngstown, Ohio
Tel: 2-4777

Nickels, Betty Biesemeier
804 Central Ave.,
Wilmette, Ill.
Tel: Wilmette 1940

Noble, Samson
1217 S. Bronson Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Republic 6079

Ondricek, Emanuel
14 E. 73rd St.,
New York City

Ortmann, Frederick William

OSBORNE, JOSEPH
Hotel Ansonia,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300

Pascal, Andre

Pashkus, Theodore
67 Riverside Dr.,
New York City

Peacock, Edith Jeannette
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harirson 4868

Peacock, Grace E.
120 Myrtle Ave.,
Elmhurst, Ill.
Tel: Elmhurst 2140R

PERLMAN, GEORGE
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7215

Persinger, Louis
c/o Juilliard School of Music,
New York City

Pinder, Jane L.
Conservatory of Music,
Grand Island, Neb.
Tel: 187

Polah, Andre
Syracuse University,
Syracuse, New York
Tel: 2-1251

Rasmussen, Mary Hansen
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Ray, Ruth 5427 University Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Midway 2356

Robinson, Charlotte
6 S. 10th St.,
Richmond, Ind.
Tel: 5014

Russell, Catherine Crosley
1115 Cimarron,
La Junta, Colo.
Tel: 565 J

Rychlik, Charles V.
5611 Fleet Ave.,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Mi 0674

Sametini, Leon
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830

Schkolnik, Ilya
Detroit Symphony,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 4870

Schwartzenstein, Sigmund
c/o Benson Conservatory of Music,
8215 20th Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Beachview 2-6080

Schwarz, Boris
200 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-5041

Seiling, Oskar
131 S. Rampart,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Fitz 3651

Severn, Edmund

Small, Arnold M.
Music Department,
University of Iowa,
Iowa City, Ia.
Tel: Ext. 577

Smith, Eston Jessie David 228 Flatiron Bldg.,
Knoxville, Tenn.
Tel: 3-0341

Smith, Nesta
Cosmopolitan School of Music,
306 S. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Smith, Ruth Dabney
714 Grand Theatre Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Sobelman, Louis
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Spivak, Elie
Toronto Conservatory of Music,
College St.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Wa. 2655

Stassevitch, Paul

Stein, Leon
De Paul University School of Music,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 1970

STEPHENS, CHARLES
American Conservatory,
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Tollefsen, Carl Henry

Towbin, Cyril
c/o Cornish School,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Ca-1400

Toy, Ernest
10144 S. Wood St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Cedarcrest 1275

Troemel, Alfred
336 E. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-5214

Von Ende, Herwegh

Von Reuter, Florizel

Wallace, Robert
357 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4761

Watson, Mabel Madison
Dorset Rd.,
Devon, Pa.
Tel: Wayne 618

WIESMANN, DIEZ
456 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3726

Wendelin, Andrew
6546 S. Peoria St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Englewood 3336

Whitmore, Rogers
Department of Music,
University of Missouri,
Columbia, Mo.
Tel: 5218

WILLITS, SCOTT ALLISON
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Woessner, Julius
263 E. Merrimack St.,
Lowell, Mass.
Tel: 2-3952

Woodbury, Frances Marion
24 Tremont St.,
Portland, Maine
Tel: 3-2372

ZADRI, NICOLAS
335 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-9608

Zander, Louis
522 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2738

Zoellner, Joseph

Voice

Adler-Selva, Johannes
301 E. 90th St.,
New York City

Altglass, Max
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-1200

Althouse, Paul
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

ALVES, C. WALDEMAR
50 W. 67th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-7739

Amaresco, Leonardo
37 E. Elm St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 0100

Amato, Pasquale

Anderson, Hazel Pearl
5752 W. Chicago Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

ANDOGA, VICTOR
Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-5377

Arendt, Elsa Harthan
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

ARNHEITER, THEODORE
48 E. 89th St.,
New York City
Tel: Sacramento 2-4537

ARNOLD, ESTHER FRIEND
456 Glendenning Place,
Waukegan, Ill.
Tel: Ontario 6640

ATKINS, MAE GRAVES
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Atkinson, Lucy
800 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

AUSTIN, DAVID RYAN
American Conservatory of Music,
310 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Bachner, Louis
Hotel Ansonia,
New York City

Bailey, Charles Ezra
50 W. 67th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-4950

Barker, O. Stuart
Chicago Conservatory,
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

BARRON, MAY
4718 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

Bassian, Alexia
1803 N. Western Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Ho. 2366

Bayer-Lee, Johanna L.
526 W. 113th St.,
New York City
Tel: Cathedral 8-1096

BELARSKY, SIDOR
c/o S. Hurok,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City

BELTZ, MARY LOUISE
506 W. 169th St,.
New York City

BENNETT, CATHRYN
c/o Columbia School of Music,
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Berentsen, Robert J.
Central Presbyterian Church,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Main 730

Bibb Frank
Peabody Conservatory
Baltimore, Md.

Bickerton, Helen
Sherwood Music School,
300 Fine Arts, Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

BOLMAR, NENA
410 S. Michgan
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4285

Bonanno, Raoul Spoleti
2827 Euclid Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio

BOONE, PRICE
1425 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 2634

BOORAS, MINAS
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6167

Bradish, Elizabeth Burritt
85 Prospect St.,
Burlington, Vt.
Tel: 4587

Bretz, William E.
Reymer Bldg.,
237 Fifth Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: At. 9135

Brocks, Hanna
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-6625

Bryant, Chauncey E.
218 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Buck, Dudley
401 Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.

Burnham, Ruth Thayer
Huntington Chambers,
Boston, Mass.

Burton, Arthur
618 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Busch, Berthold
60 S. 11th St.,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Atlantic 6489

Caldwell-Riggs, Katharine
420 Yosemite Ave.,
Fresno, Cal.
Tel: 25864

Carboni, Mario Pietro
Carboni School of Vocal Art,
431 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Carreiro, Theo S.
12 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 2728

Carylna, Kathryn
Kew Hall,
Kew Gardens, N. Y.
Tel: Richmond Hill 2-9326

Case, Harriet
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Chase, Helen
316 W. 84th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-5644

CHASE, KATE FOWLER
600 W. 116th St.,
New York City
Tel: Mo. 2-6929

CHESNAIS, VICTOR
420 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2584

Coe, Lydia Pearl
3830 Waldo Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Kingsbridge 3-1177

Cook, John Loring
25 E. Jackson,
Chicago, Ill.

Cooke, Edgar Milton Academy of Vocal Arts,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Cox, Ralph
10 Sheridan Square,
New York City
Tel: CH. 3-8560

Craven, Carl
523-25 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3632

Crawford, Hadley R.
6701 Easton Ave.,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Mulberry 1630

Crawford, Robert
c/o Vera Bull Hull,
101 W. 55th St,.
New York City

Davis, Veronica
John B. Stetson University,
Deland, Fla.
Tel: 780 extension 10

De Bouzon, Marcel R.
622 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8362

De Gogorza, Emilio Edoardo

DEL TERZO, EMILIA
816 Carnegie Hall,
7th Ave. & 57th St.,
New York City

DE SELLEM, ELAINE
American Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Devries, Herman
The Congress Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.

DE YOUNG, RICHARD
721 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 2338

DICKS, ELIZABETH
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

DIKE, VICTORIA
Victoria Dike School of Music,
Carnegie Hall,
7th Ave. & 57th St.,
New York City

Diskay, Joseph
6683 Sunset Blvd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Gl. 3614

Doane, John

Dreier, Marie
608 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3551

DUETZMANN, MAX
Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-7739

DUNCAN, TODD
Howard University,
Washington, D. C.

Ellerman, Amy
260 W. 72nd St.,
New York City

Elwyn, Robert

Ender, Edmund Sereno
4502 Carleview Rd.,
Baltimore, Md.

Englander, Lester
1222 Spruce St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Fabri, Ludwig S.
1425 Broadway,
New York City

FERRIO, TERESA
431 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Iil.
Tel: Wabash 7055

Fitzu, Anna
Congress Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.

Foster, Fay

Fox, J. Bertram
853 7th Ave.,
New York City

Fry, Caroline Beeson
2 Orchard Parkway,
White Plains, N. Y.

Gandell, Shirley
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gardini, Berta Gerster
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-9131

Gardini, Nelli
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830

Garlinghouse, Burton
101 Mt. View Ave.,
Akron, O.
Tel: Bl 5438

Garrett, A. Howard

Garrison, Mabel

GAUDENZI, EDITH W.
129 W. 78th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-3646

Gaudenzi, Giuseppe
Hotel Ansonia,
Broadway at 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-0138

Gay, Maria

Gelling, Hilda Grace
171 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-3065

Gerry, Arthur
269 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-2950

Gilbert, Elizabeth Hallenbeck
La Grange College,
La Grange, Ga.
Tel: 41

Gilbert, Ella Lord
530 Wilson St.,
Manchester, N. H.

Gilbert, Louise
1531 Kimball Hall,
Chicago, 1Il.

Gilly Dinh

Golde, Walter

Graham, George
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830

Grant-Schaeffer, George Alfred

Graveure, Louis

Greve, Senia Arnold
Sherwood Music School,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Griffith, Chauncey Laurie
330 Webster Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lincoln 0172

Griffith, Yeatman

Grob, Linda
7431 Lafayette,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Aberdeen 3920

Hackett, Arthur

HADLEY, GRANT
Millikin Conservatory of Music,
Decatur, Ill.

Hardy, E. B. L.
Northwestern State College,

Alva, Okla.
Tel: 44

Harrison, Theodore
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Haywood, Frederick H.

Hecht, Margaret Maria
Loew's Grand Theatre Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Walnut 5065

Hein, Carl

HEITMAN, HAZEL FERN
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Henke, Margaret
610 Riverside Dr.,
New York City

HILL, BARRE
University of Oklahoma,
Norman, Okla.
Tel: 900

Hinman, Florence Lamont
Lamont School of Music,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Ta-6269

Hoffmeister, Leon Abbott

Howland, William Arthur
52 Putnam,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2870

HUNTER, JANE OGDEN
64 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4687

Hunter, Raymond Otis
812 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-0924

Jackson, Archibald C.
52 Putnam Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.

Jacobi, Louis
139 N. Clark St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Franklin 3815

Jacobs, Carl Frederick
115 S. Alameda,
Las Cruces, N. M.

Johnson, Edna Evans
1339 Normandie Circle,
Salt Lake City, Utah

Johnson, Wilbur P.
Community School of Music,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kellerman, Marcus
5155 Second Blvd.,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Temple 1-3350

Keutzer, Clyde Halm
Dalton Schools, Inc.,
108 E. 89th St.,
New York City
Tel: Sacramento 2-5160

Killeen, Fred
Michigan State College,
East Lansing, Mich.

KLAMROTH, WILFRIED
1047 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-4259

Klink, Frieda
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-6625

Koch, Raymund
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

Koessler, Elizabeth
410 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: University 4-7912

Kullman, Charles
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Kurenko, Maria
c/o Paul H. Stoes, Inc.,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Kurtz, Gail M.
610 S. Van Ness Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

La Berge, Charles L.
500 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Lagerstrom, Maxine A. E.
Sherwood Music School,
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.

Lagourgue, Charles
35 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-2367

Lanham, McCall
110 W. 96th St.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-4454

Larson, Herman
NBC,
Chicago, Ill.

Lazelle, Rena M.
3437 Sacramento St.,
San Francisco, Cal.
Tel: Walnut 3307

Lehmann, Fritz
Hotel Ansonia,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300

LEHMANN, OSCAR H.
327 N. Charles St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Tel: Saratoga 3765

LENOX, LUCIE
475 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-8450

Lewyn, Helena
6683 Sunset Blvd.,
Hollywood, Cal.

Liebling, Estelle

Ljubljana
818 Steinway Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-6279

Ljungberg, Goeta
c/o Columbia Artists
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Lulek, Ferry
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.

Lund, Charlotte
45 E. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-6800

Mabee, Grace Widney

MacBourney, Thomas Noble
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

MacCollin, Paul

MacCONACHIE, MARGARET E.
L. B. 944,
Brownsville, Tex.

MacCue, Beatrice
135 E. 50th St.,
New York City

MacDonald, Florence
49 S. Mulberry St.,
Mansfield, O.
Tel: Canal 3339

Madison, Grace K.
728 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3700

Magnus, Rudolph
716 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mann, Ellen Kinsman
508 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 2303

MARCA, MARIA
353 W. 85th St.
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-9683

Mario, Queena

MARSHALL, LILLIAN C.
50 Edison Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Townsend 8-7372

MATHIAS, ELMER L.
238 Fair Ave., N.W.,
New Philadelphia, Ohio
Tel: 29622

Maxwell, Leon Ryder

McMillan, Mrs. Flora B.
329 W. Main St.,
Laurens, S. C.
Tel: 835

MEHAN, MRS. JOHN DENNIS
817 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-1472

Metzger, Zerline Muhlmann
410 S. Michigan
Chicago, Ill.

Miller, Ruth
8118 Hollywood Blvd.
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Hemstead 0951

Morati, Charles
c/o William Neill, Inc.,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-7887

Morrisey, Marie
180 E. Delaware Pl.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mowe, Homer G.
166 W. 72nd St.,
New York City

Mueller, Mrs. Kurt
708 Loew's Grand Theatre Bldg.
Atlanta, Ga.

Murray, Ethel
c/o Charles Lagourgue Studios,
35 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Muschamp, Stanley
47 S. 17th St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 6833

Nadon, Leo
349 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Schuyler 4-1216

Neil, Ronald J.
Georgia Teachers College,
Collegeboro, Ga.

Nichols, John Wiley
605 Steinway Hall,
New York City

O'Callaghan, Anne Grace
625 Sherwood Rd.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hem. 4717

ODIERNO, EMILIA VERGERI
2646 Broadway
New York City

Oettinger, Carolyn G.
2243 E. Lake Rd., N.E.,
Altanta, Ga.
Tel: Dearborn 3203

Olson, Clifford Julius
Augustana College,
Sioux Falls, S. Dak.
Tel: 851

Ortmann, Carolyn
New York City

Otis, Florence
155 E. 47th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-1236

Paggi, Ada
616 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 2685

Palmquist, Alvina
Sioux Falls College,
Sioux Falls, S. Dak.
Tel: 1400

Patton, Fred
Michigan State College,
East Lansing, Mich.
Tel: 4-2829

Patty, Risser
6665 Emmett Terrace
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Granite 6665

Pease, Marshall
1204-05 Wurlitzer Blvd.,
Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Peck, Mary Emma Pearson
Athens College,
Athens, Ala.
Tel: 220W

Peppard, Vernelle
5035 Woodward,
Detroit, Mich.

Peters, Errol Kunkel
535 Hamilton St.,
Allentown, Pa.
Tel: 2-8222

Peterson, Lucille
Metropolitan Opera House Studios,
New York City

Phillips, Alice
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Phillips, Helen
127 So. Ave. 58,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Albany 9848

Phillips, William
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
306 So. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Picco, Millo

Plock, Walter W.
Metropolitan Opera Studios,
New York City

PONSELLE, CARMELA
230 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-5232

Portanova, Vincenzo
58 W. 70th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-8955

Post, Augustus
58 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-5645

Post, Dorothy Belyea
707 Sierra St.,
Reno, Nev.
Tel: 8696

Powell, Alma Webster

Prahl, Victor
58 Belmont Ave.,
Northampton, Mass.

Probert, Grace
619 The Arcade,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Main 3778

Pyne, Ethel
6351 Utah Ave., N.W.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Woodley 7473

Quirke, Conal O'C.
303 N. Allen Ave.,
Richmond, Va.

Raisa, Rosa
Congress Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.

Rankel, John Robert
910 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7586

READ, JOHN T.
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Reed, Graham
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.

Regneas, Joseph
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-6092

Reimers, Paul
57 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Remley, Ernest J.
2547 Gaylord St.,
Denver, Colo.

Richman, Paul George
303 S. Independence St.,
Tipton, Ind.
Tel: Tipton 4109

Richmond, Eve Roine
Conservatory of Music,
Wooster, O.
Tel: 113

Rickman, Bernice Mae
619 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3551

Rile, Edna Steinmetz
Jay Cooke Junior High,
13th & Louden Sts.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Ringo, Marguerite
Brenau College,
Gainesville, Ga.

Rio, Anita
360 W. 22nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 3-6911

Roberts, Llewellyn
50 W. 67th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6699

Roberts, Walter Buchanan
Winthrop College,
Rock Hill, S. C.
Tel: 125

ROCHE, JAMES MAXWELL
58 W. 68th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-7443

Rogers, Francis

Romar, Jane
2340 Maine St.,
Quincy, Ill.
Tel: 3064

Rose, Dora
240 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-9072

ROUNDS, ERMA
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Rousseau, Louis
605 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

ROXAS, EMILIO A.
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-3995

Royak, Annette
410 W. E Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-6751

Ruff, Albert Edward 893 S. Norton Ave.,
New York City

RYAN BESSIE
c/o Austin College of Music,
3334 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kedzie 3350

Sackett, Lynn
323 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7815

Sammond, Herbert Stavely
725 Argyle Rd.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Mansfield 6-5268

Samoiloff, Lazar S.
610 S. Van Ness Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Fe. 8294

SAMPLE, JOHN DWIGHT
Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3614

Samuel, John Owen
606 Carnegie Hall
Cleveland, O.

SAVINE, ALEXANDER
901 Auditorium Bldg.,
431 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Schirmer, Allan Faber
Baldwin-Wallace Conservatory of Music,
Berea, O.

SCHMIDT, REINHOLD
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.

Schoen-Rene, Anna E.

Schroeder, Hans
3226 E. Fifth Ave.,
Knoxville, Tenn.
Tel: 3-6095

SCHROEDER, MARION
Sherwood Music School
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

Schulze, Estelle
124½ S. Grand St.,
Monroe, La.
Tel: 2248

Schumann, Elisabeth

Seagle, Oscar

Selfridge, Blanchard
c/o Marshall Field and Co.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: State 1000 Local 2698

Shain, Rose Wies
162 Babcock St.,
Brookline, Mass.
Tel: Asp. 7717

Shawe, Loyal Phillips
Northwestern University,
Evanston, Ill.

Signorelli, Michael
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830

Silvera, Leo
Cosmopolitan Hotel,
Denver, Colo.

Simmions, Louis
210 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Ashland 4-7157

Skrobisch, Jean

Slaughter, Bessie
Metropolitan Opera House Studios,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2634

Smith, Florence Gullans
619 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8438

Smith, Martha Althaus
479 E. High Ave.,
New Philadelphia, O.
Tel: 23372

Sneed, Katharine Lanier
Valdes Hotel,
Valdosta, Ga.
Tel: 868

Snelling, Helen Crowe
Helen Crowe Snelling Music Studio,
Fischer Studio Bldg.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Seneca 9041

Snyder, Ina
Jenkins Music Co.,
Kansas City, Mo.
Tel: Victor 9430

Sovereign, Oliver
519 N. Sergeant,
Joplin, Mo.
Tel: 4429

SPEAKER, ROBERT
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Spizzy, Mabel Seeds
Junior College,
Reedley, Cal.
Tel: Reedley 451

Stahl, Ruby Smith
First Congregational Church,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Na. 4317

STAUBER, GRETA
166 W. 72nd St.,
New York City

Stein, Karl Buren
727-30 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3700

Stephens, Percy Rector

Stoll, Frieda
1337 N. Sierra Bonita,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: He. 2998

Stueckgold, Jacques
235 W. 76th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-7464

Stults, Walter Allen
1822 Sherman Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 1900

Sturani, Cesare
c/o Ansonia Hotel,
New York City

SUMMER, ALBERTA CARROLL
722 Loew's Grand Theatre Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Ma. 5997

Szekely, Rudolph R.,
672 S. Lafayette Park Pl.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Fe. 6625

Tallman, Harold Henry
Wayne University,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2020

Terrell, Mrs. William John
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.

Thompson, Edyth
Wilson College,
Chambersburg, Pa.

Thorner, William
152 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-9783

Thut, John
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

TOREN, E. CLIFFORD
North Park College,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Keystone 8200

Trevisan, Vittorio
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 2157

Tubbs, Frank Herbert

Van Broekhoven, John A.

Vicarino, Regina
Brenau College,
Gainesville, Ga.

Vidal, Antonio
2530 N. Beachwood Dr.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gl. 9215

Volpe, Rosina
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City

Von Steuben, Maude
c/o Willard Matthews
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City

Waalkes, Flora
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Wagner, Marie Louise
243 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-0700

Wakefield, Henriette
Norwalk, Conn.
Tel: 2057 Norwalk

Walker, Edyth

Waterman, Carl John
Lawrence Conservatory of Music,
Appleton, Wis.

Waters, Crystal
405 E. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Volunteer 5-1362

Weaver, Paul John
320 Wait Ave.,
Ithaca, N. Y.
Tel: 3331 Ext 1053

Weed, Marion

Weis, Ezra H. F.
Guilford College,
Guilford College P. O., N. C.

Welti, Walter
Utah State Agricultural College,
Logan, Utah
Tel: 100 Ext. 67

White, Phoebe Ara
808 S. Broadway
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Tu 7954

Whitezel, Lee Bond
310 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 5595

WHITMIRE, ALICE GIDEON
Seward School,
4600 S. Hermitage,
Chicago, Ill.

WIENKE, EVELYN
500 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Wilcox, John C.
American Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Williams, Jean Elizabeth
315 N.E. 41st Ave.,
Portland, Ore.
Tel: Ea 6582

Williamson, John Finley
Westminster Choir College,
Princeton, N. J.
Tel: 1890

Winston, Margaret Grover
Seneca Hotel,
200 E. Chestnut St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 2380

Wohlmuth, Hans
Philadelphia Opera Company,
Banker Security Bldg.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

WOLF, ARTUR
716 Steinway Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 4-3784

WOOD, RUSSELL A.
1234 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7529

Wright, Laura Mae
Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,
Cincinnati, O.
Tel: Avon 7800

Zeppilli, Alice
519 Steinway Bldg.,
New York City

Zerffi, William A. C.
31 W. 84th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-3285

Other Classifications

ACCORDION

BILLOTTI, PAUL
Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2839

BURNS, BOB
46 Auburn Ave.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Walnut 0419

Dawson, Sydney Boyce
783 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-4534

Galla-Rini, Anthony
783 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-4534

NUNZIO, CHARLES
643 Broad St.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Mitchell 2-0908

Post, Clee S.
723 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2826

RIZZO, ANDY
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2826

ROBOTTI, JOSEPH
1576 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-0020

BALLET

FOKINE, LEON
9 E. 59th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-7855

LORING, EUGENE
23 W. 53rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-5415

Novikoff, Laurent
64 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

CONDUCTING

Liegl, Leopold Joseph
De Pauw University,
Greencastle, Ind.
Tel: 365

Mahler, Fritz
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Malko, Nicolai Andreievitch
Music Department,
De Paul University,
Chicago, Ill.

Reiner, Fritz
913 Farmers Bank Bldg.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Schubert, Christian John
1259 W. 59th St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Th. 2188

Welke, Walter Carl
University of Washington,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Me. 6630

Wetzel, LeRoy
1127 N. Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 3133

WHITE, WILLIAM CARTER
Fort Jay,
New York City
Tel: Whitehall 4-8010

Wood, Sir Henry Joseph Teacher of Conducting
Youngdahl, Carl R.
Augustana College,
Sioux Falls, S. D.

FLUTE

Callimahos, Lambros D.
FAIR, REX ELTON
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 9544
Giroux, Paul Henri
Station KTAR,
Phoenix, Ari.
Tel: 4-4161
NEITZERT, GEORGE H.
601 W. 135th St.,
New York City
Tel: Audubon 3-3845
Wittgenstein, Milton
875 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-2032
Wren, Lorna
536 W. 113th St.,
New York City
Tel: Cathedral 8-2235

FRETTED INSTRUMENTS

Alcaro, Alfred 2339 Arthur Ave., Bronx,
New York City
Alongi, Michael
1302 Cleveland Ave.,
Chicago, Illinois
Tel: Diversey 7986
ANTONE, ANTHONY
1576 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2684
LUNDIN, JACK
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 5717

HARP

DE STEFANO, SALVATORE M.
180 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Dilling, Mildred
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Paret, Betty
140 E. 40th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lexington 2-9544
SALVI, AIDA
3430 N. Kildare,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 1998
Salzedo, Carlos
270 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-0775
Schuecker, Joseph E.
Weymer, Grace
c/o Willard Matthews
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 4-0754

HARPSICHORD

Kirkpatrick, Ralph
c/o Richard Copley,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Pelton-Jones, Frances
101 W. 81st St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6400

ORGAN

Ambrose, Paul
Arnold, Heinz
790 Seneca Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Hezeman 3-5836
Beard, Ramona Cruikshank
Ferry Hall,
Lake Forest, Ill.
Tel: Lake Forest 3
Beatty, Erl
7038-40 W. Garrett Rd.,
Upper Darby, Pa.
Biggs, E. Power
c/o Barnard R. Laberge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Bingham, Seth
Department of Music,
Columbia University,
New York City
Tel: University 4-3200, Ext. 363
Blauvelt, Bula Caswell
57 Gardner Ave.,
Jersey City, N. J.
Tel: Delaware 3-1034
Broadhead, Edward Hall
Duke University,
Durham, N. C.
Tel: F-131
Buehrer, Geoffrey Carl
Cannon, Tracy Y.
Salt Lake City, Utah
Carbone, Anna
183 Bleecker St.,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-7998
D'Antalffy, Desider
Dethier, Gaston Marie
Dickinson, Edward Oberlin, Ohio
Dow, Margaret Whitney
Florida State College for Women,
Tallahassee, Fla.
Dyson, George
Ensrud, Paul
Newberry College,
Newberry, S. C.
Estes, Charles E.
Robert College,
P. O. Box 1392,
Istanbul, Turkey
Fairchild, Helen
52 Putnam Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.
Farnsworth, Charles Hubert
Thetford, Vt.
FARRELL, MARY AGNES V.
209 W. Chestnut St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 1322
Ferris, Isabel Dungan
Wilsgon College,
Chambersburg, Pa.
Fitch, Dudley Warner
615 S. Gigueroa St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Foster, Bertha
University of Miami,
Coral Gables, Fla.
Gale, Walter C.
Gee, Russell Lowell
Grabill, Glenn Grant
Ottebrein College,
Westerville, O.
Tel: 125
Grimm, Carl Hugo
Groom, Lester W.
Wheaton College,
Wheaton, Ill.
Tel: Wheaton 698
Haage, George D.
226 S. Fifth St.,
Reading, Pa.
Heinroth, Charles
Kern, Carl Wilhelm
511 N. Taylor,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Forest 6115
KIMBERLY, MAE ELEANOR
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7579
Kleinschmidt, Oliver Henry
Lebanon, Ill.
Tel: 20L
Koch, Casper Petrus
Carnegie Hall,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Fa. 0389
Kraft, William Jacob
Lockwood, Charlotte
c/o Bernard La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Losh, Sam S.
Losh Institute of Music,
Mutual Home Bldg.,
Fort Worth, Texas
Lovewell, Samuel Harrison
MacElree, Mary Eyre
609 S. High St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 905W
Maesch, LaVahn K.
Lawrence College,
Appleton, Wis.
Tel: 1659
Martin, Vivian Louise
1120 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harirson 6829
McCurdy, Alexander
c/o Bernard R. LaBerge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Middelschulte, Wilhelm
Redlund, Alice
MacPhail School of Music,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Ma. 4424
Salter, Sumner
Siewert, Herman Fredrick
Rollins College,
Winter Park, Fla.
Sleeper, Henry Dike
Speissegger, Arthur
125 E. 34th St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 6-8949
Spelman, Leslie P.
421 Cajon St.,
Redlands, Cal.
Tel: 6757
Stamm, E. Prang
Beaumont High School,
St. Louis, Mo.
Sterling, Wintrop Smith
SUTHERN, ORRIN CLAYTON, II
Florida A. and M. College,
Tallahassee, Fla.
Thayer, William Armour
Thomas, Virginia Carrigton
Hammond Organ Co.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2290
Thompson, John Winter
Tilton, George Irvin
3rd Presbyterian Church,
Trenton, N. J.
Tel: 3-6938
Tower, Celia Warne
2050 Watson Ave.,
Alliance, Ohio
Tel: 7782
Trondson, G. Orville
c/o MacPhail School of Music,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424
Van Dusen, Frank
306 S. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Vardell, Charles Gildersleeve
Salem College,
Winston-Salem, N. C.
Tel: 9526

Von Antalffy-Zsiross, Desider
Weinrich
c/o Bernard R. LaBerge, Inc.,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Wilson, M. Emett
Ohio State University,
Columbus, O.
Wright, Norman S.
First Methodist Church,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Granite 2104

PERCUSSION INSTRUMENTS

Buggert, Robert William
1012 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3369
Gilmore, William J.
441 S. 11th St.,
Richmond, Ind.
JACKSON, BURTON LYNN
225 N. Grant St.,
Hinsdale, Ill.
Tel: Hinsdale 299
KNAPP, ROY C.
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3369
Schreyer, Ernest G.
4062 Milwaukee Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Palisade 4363
Stone, George Lawrence
61 Hanover St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Capitol 7454

REED INSTRUMENTS

Andelman, Arnold Leonard
477 Central Park W.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 4-7200
BELLISON, SIMEON
751 Walton Ave.,
New York City
Bonade, Daniel
205 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Christmann, Arthur Henry
Juilliard School of Music,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3302
Gillette, Mickey
1735½ N. Vine St.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 0159
Gornston, David
117 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 3-5916
HARDER, ERWIN E.
2115 Dayton St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lincoln 3287
Johns, Clayton
1521 E. 86th St.,
Cleveland, Ohio
LUISETTI, PETER A.
1585 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-9866
MEHLMANN, MAXIMILLIAN
4913 Church Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Di 2-4425
Micus, Stanley James
64 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 8671
Poenisch, Lillian Juanita
926 Belden Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Mohawk 0345
Rosenberg, Harry 1904 Sunnyside Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Ardmore 3914
Schad, Walter C.
Grant Ave.,
Brentwood, N. Y.
Wigent, John
North Park College,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Keystone 8200

VIOLA

Aronoff, Max
Curtis Institute,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525

VIOLONCELLO

Baker, Rita May Peabody Conservatory,
Baltimore, Md.
De'ak, Stephen
717 St. John Ave.,
Pasadena, Cal.
Tel: Sycamore 9-4552
Doebereiner, Christian
Ebann, William
175 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Feuermann, Emanuel 7 Chedworth Rd.,
Scarsdale, N. Y.
Gronowetter, Freda
541 E. 78th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-6490
HESS, HANS
Chicago Musical College,
Tel: Harrison 6830
Krane, Charles
150 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Leek, Eleanor Sara
Mississippi Southern College,
Hattiesburg, Miss.
Tel: 9174
Leide, Enrico
Brenau College,
Gainesville, Ga.
NOLTE, VIRGINIA
46 Barrow St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 2-4770
Scholz, Janos
35 W. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-2570
Schuster, Alexander
Music Department,
Michigan State College,
East Lansing, Mich.
Strasen, Marie
Wisconsin Conservatory,
Milwaukee, Wis.
Tel: Daly 1104
Sykora, Frank
2475 E. 74th Place,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Saginaw 5206
Van Vliet, Cornelius
Versteeg, Willem Hendrik
Eastman School of Music,
Rochester, N. Y.
Willeke, Willem

WIND INSTRUMENTS

CIMERA, JAROSLAV
Lyon & Healy Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 7900
Clarke, Ernest
167 E. 89th St.,
New York City
FLORENT, VERAN FREDERIC
School of Music,
Northwestern University,
Evanston, Ill.
Frantz, Elmer Joseph
609 Clinton St.,
Arkadelphia, Ark.
Tel: 19
GRUPP, M.
172 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Bryant 9-9256
Heney, Edward J.
Orlando Senior High School,
Orlando, Fla.
Jaquish, John H .
2 South Dorset Ave.,
Atlantic City, N. J.
Nicola, Forrest
228 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7635
O'Donnell, John M.
705-06, Lyon & Healy Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel; Webster 3218
Redwood, Fred C.
431 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 8671
Ross, Robert Wallace
Illinois Wesleyan University,
Bloomington, Ill.
Tel: 146
Runyon, Santy
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dearborn 8964
TARANTINO, NOAH
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Timm, Everett Le Roy
Morningside College,
Sioux City, Ia.
Vail, Ira Francis
205 N. Milwaukee St.,
Canton, S. Dak.
Tel: 122J
Verran, William Thomas
Thomasville High School,
Thomasville, Ga.
Tel: 77
Vocelka, Ernest Charles
Evanston High School,
Evanston, Wyo.
Tel: 111
Wehrend, William R.
University of Oklahoma,
Norman, Okla.
Tel: 145
Woodbury, Max St. Clair
Murat Theatre,
Indianapolis, Ind.

THEORY, COMPOSITION, HARMONY, HISTORY, SOLFEGE, COUNTERPOINT

Ashton, Joseph Nickerson
Balling, Maria L.
231 E. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-7315
Bleecker, James W.
27 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-4200
Boepple, Paul
Dalcroze School of Music,
9 E. 59th St.,
New York City
Borowski, Felix
36 Bellevue Pl.,
Chicago, Ill.
Boulanger, Nadia
Bricken, Carl Ernest
University of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wis.
Brockway, Howard
424 E. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Wi 2-8737

Browning, Mortimer
425 E. 86th St.,
New York City
Citkowitz, Israel
DANBURG, RUSSELL
Washington State College,
Pullman, Wash.
Tel: 8011
Daniel, Cyrus Chisley
Lawrence Conservatory,
Appleton, Wis.
Tel: 1659
Delaney, Robert Mills
Diller, Angela
Diller-Quaile School of Music,
New York City
Donnelly, Mary Elizabeth
1650 Selby,
West Los Angeles, Cal.
Dresden, Sem
Dunkelberger, Gustav
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Finke, Fidelio F.
Gamauf, Ladislaus C.
1956 N. Highland Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Hillside 6151
Glass, Winifred
5344 Greenwood Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Hyde Park 8395
Goetschius, Percy
GLICKMAN, EDA
Glickman College of Fine Arts,
228 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4679
Grimm, Carl William
Gruenberg, Louis
Happich, William F.
1726 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rit. 0975
HARDING, WILL A.
Sherwood Music School,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
Ide, Chester Edward
Imparto, Giovanni Hotel Great Northern,
New York City
Inch, Herbert Reynolds
Ireland, John
Johnson, Hunter
Johnstone, Arthur Edward
Kane, Helen Birmingham
1319 Chicago Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: Davis 2619
Kolb, Dorothy Marygrove College,
Detroit, Mich.
Kurtz, Edward Frampton
Department of Music,
Iowa State Teachers College,
Cedar Falls, Ia.
La Violette, Wesley
Lieberson, Samuel A.
De Paul University,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 1970
Lockwood, Normand
Oberlin Conservatory of Music,
Oberlin, O.
Tel: 58
Lustgarten, Egon
25 W. 76th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-2050

Maguire, Alice Carl
Columbia College,
Columbia, S. C.
Tel: 9275
Malipiero, Francesco
Martinu, Bohuslav
McBride, Robert Guyn
McKinley, Carl
MCKITRICK, KATHLEEN
156 E. Superior St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 9013
Meltzer, Edward
64 E. Jackson,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4687
Meyer, Alfred Henry
25 Blagden St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Commonwealth 6230
Nordoff, Paul
Philadelphia Conservatory of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Plettner, Arthur
University of Chattanooga,
Chattanooga, Tenn.
Quinn, Alfred Price
213⅞ N. Alvarado,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Reed, H. Owen
Department of Music,
Michigan State College,
East Lansing, Mich.
Tel: 5-9113
Rogers, Bernard
Rowe, Gertrude M.
615 Beall Ave.,
Wooster, O.
Tel: 113
Royce, Edward
Eastman School of Music,
University of Rochester,
Rochester, N. Y.
Rubsamen, Walter H.
Ruegnitz, Lena
Iowa State Teachers College,
Cedar Falls, Ia.
Sanders, Robert L.
University of Indiana,
Bloomington, Ind.
Schoenberg, Arnold
University of California at L. A.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: W.L.A. 35077
Schreiber, Fritz
140 W. 70th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-7921
Schuman, William Howard
Schuster, Hilda M.
Oberlin Conservatory,
Oberlin, O.
Tel: 58
Sessions, Roger Shepherd, Arthur
Western Reserve University,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Cedar 8780
Shortall, Harrington
339 Barry Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 2423
Skilton, Charles Sanford
University of Kansas,
St. Lawrence, Kan.
Tel: K.U. 135
Smith, Melville
Western Reserve University,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Cedar 8780

SMITH, RAYMOND ALLYN
1229 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7529
Smith, Warren Storey 122 Bowdoin St.,
Boston, Mass.
Sowerby, Leo
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Spalding, Walter Raymond
Spencer, S. Reid
Sprague, Adelbert Wells
University of Maine,
Orono, Me.
Tel: Bangor 5684
Squeo, Alfredo
6 Madison St.,
Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Stevens, Halsey
Dakota Wesleyan University,
Mitchell, S. Dak.
Tel: 3743
Stoehr, Richard
Curtis Institute,
Rittenhouse Square,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525
Straus, Noel
Stringer, Edward A.
7027 Torresdale Ave.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Strong, George Templeton
Sumsion, Herbert Whitton
Surette, Thomas Whitney
Taylor, William H.
400 W. 150th St.,
New York City
Tel: Edgecombe 4-3938
TIMOTHY, TOM
117 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 5-0655
Wahlberg, Arthur Gustave
Fresno State College,
Fresno, Cal.
Tel: 2-7187
Wald, Max
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Wallace, James Brevard
Belhaven College,
Jackson, Miss.
Ward, Frank Edwin
924 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-8949
Wedge, George Anson
120 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-9336
Weigl, Karl Wessel, Mark
Wolf, Hans
John Fletcher College,
Oskaloosa, Ia.
Tel: 1607
Wolf-Ferrari, Ermanno
Wood, Carl Paige
University of Washington,
Seattle, Wash.
Work, John Wesley
Fisk University,
Nashville, Tenn.
Youngfelt, Frederic Seward
Sherwood Music School,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

MUSIC EDUCATORS

*NOTE: * Member, Music Teachers Nat'l. Assoc;  Member, Music Educators National Conference;  Member American Musicological Society.*

Aas, Selma G., 619 E. Second St., Ottumwa. Iowa.*
Abbott, Geo. J., City Hall, Elmira, N. Y.*
Abbott, Mrs. Irene, 139 Vassar, Rochester, N. Y.*
Achron, Joseph
Acker, Emma P., 607 Cottonwood Ave., Deer Lodge, Montana*
Acker, Warren F., 2120 Allen St. Allentown, Pa.*
Ackerman, Minnie M., Jr. Sr. H. S., Easton, Pa.*
Acorn, Jean Elizabeth, 2512 N. E. Gilsan, Portland, Oregon*
Acorn, Lillian I., 2512 N. E. Gilsan, Portland, Oregon*
Adams, Mrs. Alvin, 1705 Ninth St., Woodward, Okla.
Adams, Catherine M., Miami University, Oxford, Ohio*
Adams, Mrs. Crosby, Montreat, N. C.
Adams, Ed. K., Jenkins Music Co., Kansas City.
Adams, Mrs. Frances, 642 Bon Ton, St. Joseph, Mo.*
Adams, Helen M., 4201 Locust St., Kansas City, Mo.
Adams, Mrs. G. T., Sanford, N. C.*
Adams, Harold A., 327 E. 2nd St., Moscow, Idaho*
Adams, Janet A., No. 9 Hadley Apts., Wenatchee, Washington*
Adams, John, 1720 Arch St., Little Rock, Ark.*
Adams, Lillian E., 3009 Forest Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Adams, Marion, Box 126, Chelmsford, Mass.*
Adams, Robert D. W., 4201 Locust St., Kansas City, Mo.
Adams, Rosalia N., 1309 Bennington, Kansas City, Mo.
Adamson, Nina, 707 Hiawatha Ave., Hiawatha, Kans.
Addy, Clyde J., 1201 College Ave., Tarkio, Mo.
Adler, Guido
Adler, Lois, 720 West End Ave., New York City
Adler, Myra, 409 Elm, Ottawa, Kans.
Agnew, Jessie Mae, 842 S. Durbin St., Casper, Wyo.*
Ahern, Ernest E., 97 Aberdeen St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Ahles, Katherine M., 48 Elm St., Potsdam, N. Y.*
Aid, Hazel M. Yoho, 1611 S. Victoria, Los Angeles.*
Airy, G. Josephine, RCA Manufacturing Co., Inc., Camden, N. J.*
Albert, Forrest E., Box 162, Praise, Ky.*
Albertson, C. W., Parma, Idaho*
Albertson, Oleta R., R. R. 5, Box 460, Akron, Ohio*
Albrecht, Grace Ethel, 662 Vassar Ave., University City, Mo.*
Albrecht, Otto E.
Aldis, Edith, 221 East Thirteenth, Hutchinson, Kans.
Aldrich, Putnam
Aleshire, Willis Oxley, Pomeroy, Ohio*
Alexander, Birdie, 1837 Grandview, El Paso, Texas* **
Alexander, Elroy, Route No. 2, High Point, N. C.*
Alexander, J. T., Smith Cotton H. S., Sedalia, Mo.*
Allan-Allen, Mrs. Frances B., Old Army Rd., Bernardsville, N. J.*
Allard, Maurine, 65 Tonnele Ave., Jersey City, N. J.*
Allen, Arden, 1242 Taylor St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Allen, F. Curtis, 1328 Ohio, Lawrence, Kans.
Allen, Frances L., 841 S. Second, Louisville, Ky.*
Allen, James F., Stover, Mo.*
Allen, Leroy W., 405 Hilgard Ave., Los Angeles.*
Allen, Mrs. March C., 1707 Beverly Pl., Berkeley, California*
Allen, Una L., 51 Hancock St., Boston, Mass.
Allen, Warren D., Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.* ** ***
Allison, Charles B., Morris Rd., Ft. Washington, Pa.*
Alm, Bertha, 232 Phelp St., Silverton, Oregon*
Altimari, William G., General Delivery, Atchison, Kansas*
Altman, Adaline, 6949 McPherson Blvd., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania*
Alton, Kathryn, 1403 West 50th, Kansas City, Mo.
Altschuler, Ira M., 2454 W. Euclid, Detroit, Mich.
Ambrits, Stevan G., 832 Broadway, McKees Rocks, Pennsylvania*
Amdahl, L. H., Red Lake Falls, Minn.*
Amidon, Fanny C., Box 233, Valley City, N. D.*
Ammon, Fern M., Lincoln Hotel, Lincoln, Nebr.*
Anderberg, N. W., 3508 S. 13th, Tacoma, Wash.*
Andersen, Arthur Olaf, University of Arizona, Tucson* **
Andersen, C. Wesley, 3817 E. 34th St., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Anderson, Dwight, Valetta Lane, Louisville, Ky.
Anderson, Einar W., Morrisonville, Ill.*
Anderson, Emma B., 111 Fourth, Rochester, Mich.*
Anderson, Francis, New Trier H. S., Winnetka, Ill.*
Anderson, G. Edgar, Box 119, Dayton, Va.
Anderson, Hazel P., 5752 W. Chicago Ave., Chicago*
Anderson, Hildure, 2604 North 12th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Anderson, J. Edgar, Shenandoah Col., Dayton, Va.*
Anderson, John H., 2920 East 30th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Anderson, Katherine M., G. Schirmer, Inc., 3 E. 43rd St., New York City* **
Anderson, Laurel E., 1629 Alabama St., Lawrence, Kans.
Anderson, Lois R., 204 N. Longwood, Rockford, Ill.*
Anderson, Maud, Box 4, Collinsville, Ill.*
Anderson, Maurice R., Jenkins Music Company, Kansas City, Mo.
Anderson, Mrs. Mervyn A., 1629 Alabama St., Lawrence, Kans.
Anderson, O. Clifford, Box 113, Altamont, Kansas.*
Anderson, Oscar W., 4414 N. Paulina St., Chicago*
Anderson, Paul, 1504 N. 68th St., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Anderson, Pearl, 711 S. Walnut, Springfield, Ill.*
Anderson, R. Cedric, 1318 W. 3rd, North Platte, Nebraska*
Anderson, Raymond F., 8106 9th Ave., So., Birmingham, Ala.*
Anderson, Russel, 114 W. 9th St., Wayne, Nebr.*
Andree, Armida, 73 Poplar St., Manistee, Mich.*
Andrews, Dorothy A., 49 Buckingham Rd., Yonkers, New York*
Andrews, Lilly M., 1323 Chandler, Madison, Wis.*
Andrews, Mildred M., Faculty Exchange, Norman, Okla.
Andrews, Miriam E., S. N. S., Gorham, Maine*

Andrews, Ruth, Box 655, T. S. C. W., Denton, Texas.*
Andrist, Karl, Mount Vernon, Ia.
Angelico, Bernice R., Wilson T. C., Washington, District of Columbia*
Angell, Richard S.
Anhalt, Hugo O., S. T. C., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Annett, Thomas, S. T. C., La Crosse, Wis.*
Anthony, Mrs. George J., 8015 Pasco, Kansas City, Mo.
Anthony, Paul, McKinley H. S., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Apel, Willi
Applegate, Edith, 112 N. Ohio St., Hobart, Ind.*
Applegate, F. Alexander, 4166 Franklin, Bellaire, Ohio*
Archer, Wilhelmina E., 1445-47 Belleview Ave., Camden, N. J.*
Argy, Florence E., 15 High St., Turners Falls, Mass.*
Arlt, Gustave Otto
Armistead, Mrs. T. M., 122 Quinlan St., Lynchburg, Virginia*
Armstrong, D. D., 710 Warburton, Yonkers, N. Y.*
Armstrong, Donald, 445 Mulford Dr., S. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Armstrong, Frances, 33 Cassilis, Bronxville, N. Y.*
Armstrong, Frank L., Duncan Ave., Allison Park, Pa.*
Armstrong, Leslie H., 1418 Jefferson, Olympia, Wash.*
Armstrong, Theodore, 5945 Fisher Ave., Detroit*
Arnett, Ila M., 1100 South Maple St., McPherson, Kans.
Arnold, Beulah S., H. S., Glen Ridge, N. J.*
Arnold, Mrs. Gladys Henry, S. T. C., Slippery Rock, Pa.*
Arnold, Myrtle L., Alexis, Ill.*
Arterburn, Janette, Winthrop Col., Rock Hill, S. C.*
Arthur, Jordon, Conservatory of Music 1204 North Delaware St., Indianapolis, Ind.
Arthur, Robert L., 67 Harwood, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Asbury, Eugene K., Box 225, Charleston, Ill.*
Ashby, Lillian, Mich. S. N. C., Ypsilanti, Mich.*
Ashenfelter, Virginia, 1332 N. Warren, Decatur, Ill.*
Atwood, Martha, Box 312, Wellfleet, Mass.*
Aufderheide, Elizabeth, 504 Gladstone Building, Kansas City, Mo.
Austin, Charles C., Holland C. S., Holland, N. Y.*
Austin, Ruth C., 310 East 34th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Austin, L. C., S. T. C., Memphis, Tenn.*
Austin, Madge, 600 Turtle St., Syracuse, N. Y.*
Averill, Harriet R., 43½ E. Elm, Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin*
Avery, Stanley R., 432 Ridgewood Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.
Avlon, Don, 414 W. 57th St., New York City*
Ayars, Christine M., 51 Summit, Brookline, Mass.*
Ayres, Frances, 1201 Mich., East Lansing, Mich.*
Baar, James, 7125 Indiana Ave., Chicago*
Babcock, Warren Perry, Dept of Music, Davidson College, Davidson, N. C.*
Bach, Helen L., 2305 Portland Ave., Minneapolis*
Bach, Ida Eleanor, 1246 S. Hope St., Los Angeles*
Bachman, Harold, Educational Music Bureau, 30 E. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.*
Bachtell, Chrystal H., 603 Simpson, Greensboro, North Carolina*
Bacon, Mrs. Elizabeth, Woods Edge, Claymont, Del. *
Bacon, Helen, Chamberlain, S. D.*
Bacon, Madi H., 653 Elm St., Winnetka, Ill.*
Badorf, Mrs. Dorothy, Beeber Jr. H. S., 59th and Malvern Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Baer, Elfrieda, 4515 Pacific St., Omaha, Nebr.
Baer, Gladys S., 555 W. Newton St., Greensburg, Pa.*
Baggs, Mrs. Genevieve, 1027 E. High, Davenport, Iowa.*
Bagwell, Christine, 812 E. Main St., Kilgore, Texas*
Bahn, Walter J., 1979 S. 79th St., West Allis, Wis.*
Bailey, Don R., 127 N. First St., Lindsborg, Kansas.*
Bailey, Mabel F., 5 Cedar St., R. R. 2, Middletown, Connecticut*
Bailey, Mildred L., 25 Prospect St., South Dartmouth, Mass.*
Bailey, Mrs. Nina Babcock, 99½ College St., Montpelier, Vt.*
Bailhe, Gaston, 1325 Sunset Dr., Ft. Wayne, Ind.*
Bain, Wilfred C., T. C. Station, Denton, Tex.
Bainton, Cecelia M., 25 Littall Rd., Brookline, Mass.*
Bainum, Glenn C., Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois*
Baird, Forrest, Marysville Union H. S., Marysville, California*
Bake, Arnold A.
Baker, Bertha, 1014 California Ave., Avalon P. O., Bellevue, Pa.*
Baker, C. A., Collegio Baptista, Rua Conde de Bomfim, 743, Rio de Janiero, Brazil, S. A.*
Baker, Christine, Alger, Ohio*
Baker, Clarence B., 629 N. Cheyenne, Tulsa, Okla.*
Baker, Mrs. Helen C., Box 6, Balboa, Canal Zone*
Baker, Henrietta, 3423 Guilford Terrace, Baltimore, Maryland*
Baker, Herman, 4315 S. Landess St., Marion, Ind.*
Baker, Mrs. J. F., 25 Riverside, Oceanside, N. Y.*
Baker, Mrs. Lillian G., 1500 Hollins, Baltimore, Md.*
Baker, Mrs. Nelle Baer, 9 Parkway, Chester, Pa.*
Baker, Nelson I., 3014 Wayne Ave., Baltimore, Md.*
Baker, Sybil D., 170 W. 9th St., Claremont, Calif.*
Balcom, Irene E., 1428 Alice St., Oakland, Calif.*
Baldwin, Lillian L., 11432 Mayfield Rd., Cleveland*
Baldwin, Ralph L., 8 Forest Rd., W. Hartford, Conn.*
Ball, Albert C., 109 Main St., Matawan, N. J.*
Ball, Cora A., 201 E. Kirkwood St., Fairfield, Iowa.*
Ball, Kenneth L., 2523 Pacific, San Francisco, Calif.*
Ballengee, Veva, Tarkio, Mo.
Balliett, Melvin L., 1755 Wymote, Cleveland, Ohio.*
Bampton, Ruth, Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa.* ***
Bange, Ruth Phillips, 1623 N. Mariposa, Los Angeles*
Banks, Sadie E., 601 Deming Pl., Chicago, Ill.*
Barabash, John H., 2208 S. Millard Ave., Chicago*
Baraw, Shirley R., 31 N. Main St., Waterbury, Vt.*
Barbakoff, Sam, Public Schools, Fort Scott, Kansas.*
Barbour, J. Murray
Barbour, Mrs. William Carlyle, 3010 Carter Ave., Detroit, Mich.
Barlow, Carl Leland, Dakota Wesleyan University, Mitchell, S. D.
Barlow, O. Maxine, Phillips Hall, Mitchell, S. D.
Barnard, Berenice, Eastern Tennessee S. T. C., Johnson City, Tenn.*
Barnard, Eleanor A., S. T. C., 20 Elveira St., Mansfield, Pa.*
Barnard, Floyd P., 2820 Girard, So., Minneapolis*
Barnes, Edwin N. C., Park View School, Warder and Otis Sts., Washington, D. C.*
Barnett, Harold R., 927 Main St., Boonville, Mo.*
Barnett, Helen M., S. T. C., Santa Barbara, Calif.*
Barnett, Mrs. Latonia, 1252 West 61st Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Barnhart, Mabel, 2204 Tenn. St., Lawrence, Kansas.*
Barnthouse, Mrs. Ethel Angell, 4210 Brooklyn, Seattle, Wash.*
Barnum, Lucille, 2341 N. 55th St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Baron, Lona E., 1201 Washington, Kansas City, Mo.
Baron, Sidney, Box 97, Farmingdale, N. Y.*
Barone, Charles R., 58 Beverly Ave., Lockport, N. Y.*
Barr, Fannie, H. S., Burnside, Ill.*
Barr, George F., Eastern Washington College of Ed., Cheney, Wash.*
Barr, Grace, 409 Gage St., Bennington, Vt.*
Barr, Helen Frances, 715 Euclaire, Columbus, Ohio*
Barr, Irvin J., Central H. S., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Barrett, Joan Howard, 502 E. Seventh, Tucson, Ariz.*
Barrett, Vernon J., 5514 Pershing, St. Louis, Mo.*
Barry, Gertrude, 2 Kensington St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Barry, Isabella, 610 S. Elmwood Ave., Oak Park, Ill.*
Barshinger, Mrs. Vivian, R. 1, Box O, Gilroy, Calif.*
Bartel, Verna, 1819 Marshall Ave., St. Paul, Minn.*
Bartges, P. F., Aaronsburg, Pa.*
Barth, George, Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette, La.*
Bartholomew, Mrs. Lois West, Hollyhock House, Pike County, Barry, Ill.*
Bartholomew, Wilmer T.
Bartle, Mildred, 118 Wabash Ave., Belleville, Ill.*
Bartley, Irving D., Baldwin, Kans.
Bartling, Mildred, 145 North Garfield Ave., DeLand, Fla.
Barton, Joye A., Jamestown, Kans.
Barylett, Mrs. Emma M., 641 W. Palmer, Compton, California.*
Bartlett, Harold H., 645 E Inyo, Tulare, Calif.*
Barton, Harry E., Box 836, Clovis School, Clovis, New Mexico.*
Barton, Mrs. Isabel, Ridgeley Apts., Birmingham, Ala.*
Bash, Mrs. Wilma Bert, 570 Belvedere, San Francisco.*
Bass, Anna B., 243 Laurel Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Bastian, Charlotte M., 18½ Monroe, Tiffin, Ohio*
Bates, Margaret, Mt. Pleasant, Ohio*
Batey, Irma Lee, Alpine, Texas.*
Batman, Elizabeth, 108 W. Palm St., Roodhouse, Ill.*
Batson, Ronald E., Box 105, Clymer, N. Y.*
Bauder, Kathryn, 609 S. Meldrum, Ft. Collins, Colo.*
Bauer, Marion

Baugh, Raymond, 315 N. Maple St., Lewistown, Ill.*
Baum, Selma H., 35-59-154th St., Flushing, N. Y.*
Baumann, Margaretha, 245 N. Spring St., Wilmington, Ohio*
Baumann, Victor, Fort Hill H. S., Cumberland, Md.*
Baumert, Paul E., Jr. H. S., Easton, Pa.*
Baumgaertner, Clara, 843 Newport Ave., Chicago*
Baumle, Dorothy, 617 Harrison, Burlington, Iowa.*
Baxter, Katherine, 172 Foster St., Brighton, Mass.*
Bayless, A. Jerd, 219 E. 8th St., Wellston, Ohio.*
Bayless, Marion M., 4170½ Madison Ave., Culver City, Calif.*
Baylor, H. Murray, William Penn College, Oskaloosa, Ia.
Baynes, A., 517 University Ave., Rochester, N. Y.*
Baysinger, Carol, 1116 State St., Emporia, Kans.
Baysinger, Mrs. Ethel, 4748 Prospect Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Beach, Earl E., Bellaire H. S., Bellaire, Ohio.*
Beach, Elizabeth V., 613 Comstock, Syracuse, N. Y.*
Beam, James B., Public Schools, Easton, Pa.*
Beard, Harry L., Country Club Way, Corvallis, Oregon.*
Beatie, Dorothy P., 114 S. Pine, Ponca City, Okla.*
Beaton, Isabella, 1216 Main St., Grinnell, Ia.
Beattie, John W., 2914 Colfax, Evanston, Ill.*
Beauchamp, Mary, 35617 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich.*
Bechtel, Marion J., 735 West Lubbock St., Slaton, Tex.
Beck, Alice, 108 South 6th St., Council Bluffs, Ia.
Beck, Mrs. Anne Landsbury, Univ. of Oregon School of Music, Eugene, Oregon.*
Beck, Chester, Jr. H. S., Santa Rosa, Calif.*
Beck, Jean
Beck, Sidney
Beck, Mary Elizabeth, 510 S. Walnut, Springfield, Ill.*
Beck, Millie, 604-15th St., Rock Island, Ill.*
Beck, Pearl H., 206 E. Fifth, Clovis, N. M.*
Becker, Arthur C., 2403 Orchard St., Chicago, Ill.
Becker, Barbara S., 2403 Orchard St., Chicago, Ill.
Beckmeyer, Wilfred, El Paso, Ill.*
Beckwith, Ellen H., 34 S. Goodman, Rochester, N. Y.*
Beddoe, Lucy, 1127 W. 15th St., Bedford, Ind.*
Beebee, C. Scripps, Twsp. H. S., 225 S. Poplar, Centralia, Ill.*
Beebee, Ellen V. S., 309 Elm, Lawrenceburg, Ind.*
Beecher, Alvah A., Wittenberg School of Music, 611 N. Wittenberg Ave., Springfield, Ohio.* **
Beelar, Lola Agnes, 402 S. 11th, Indiana, Pa.*
Beery, Leon F., Virginia Jr. Col., Virginia, Minn.*
Begeman, Harriet R., 1119 Brighting Dr., St. Louis, Missouri*
Begg, Charles E., Gen Mgr., Charles Begg & Company, Ltd., Dunedin, New Zealand*
Beggs, Hugh H., MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill.
Behrens, F. W. Rudolf, 237 W. Homestead St., Medina, Ohio*
Behrens, Harry R., Box 302, Tiffin, O.
Beidelman, Fred, State Col., San Diego, Calif.*
Beilharz, William, 5651 Callowhill, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Belander, Raymond S., Bedford Hills H. S., Bedford Hills, N. Y.*
Belfour, C. Stanton, Extension Division, Univ. of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Bell, Jane Tweed, Strong, Kansas.* **
Bellaman, Henry H., 200 West 57th St., New York, N. Y.
Bellman, Mrs. Helen, 24 University Rd., Hyattsville, Maryland.*
Beloof, Elmer Raymond, 222½ N. Eighth St., Mt. Vernon, Ill.*
Belscher, A. M., c/o Whittle Music Co., Dallas, Texas.*
Belstrom, Chester E., 3142 Lincoln St., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Belstrom, Lavere Eloit, 3142 Lincoln St., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Bender, Helen Chrystal, 8 deForest Ave., Summit, N. J.
Benedict, Roger John, 638 S. Amos, Springfield, Ill.*
Benjamin, Mrs. David, 3620 Gilham Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Benner, Alvin N., 33014 Grand River, Farmington, Michigan.*
Benners, Mildred S., 116 E. Maple Ave., Moorestown, N. J.*
Bennett, Mrs. Aileen, Paw Paw P. S., Paw Paw, Michigan.*
Bennett, Beulah May, 2702 Olive St., St. Joseph, Mo.*
Bennett, Donald W., Virgil Jr. H. S., 152 N. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Bennett, Elizabeth Cathcart, State Division of Music Education, Dover, Del.*
Bennett, George T., 212 A Coolbaugh, Red Oak, Iowa.*
Bennett, Howard Gordon, University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt.
Bennett, Marjorie A., 19 Grand St., Oneonta, N. Y.*
Bennett, Minerva M., 435 Lawrence, Helena, Mont.*
Bennett, Odessa C., 502 Elizabeth St., South Charleston, W. Va.*
Bennett, Vernon C., 212 Lyric Building, Omaha, Nebr.
Bennick, Eleanore J., 3111 Van Alstyne Blvd., Wyandotte, Mich.*
Bennington, Ethel, Mason School, St. Louis, Mo. *
Benson, Minoma, Marietta, Ohio*
Benton, L. H., Y.M.C.A., Schoolfield, Va.*
Benton, William J., 319 Society Ave., Albany, Ga.*
Bentrup, Carl E., 1505 Market, Emporia, Kansas.*
Bentzen, Oddrun, 367 Dreier Blvd., Evansville, Ind.*
Benvenuti, Giacomo
Berchekas, G. A., 1858-23rd St., Rock Island, Ill.*
Berdahl, Arthur C., Fresno State College, Fresno, Calif.*
Berg, Herman C., DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind.
Berg, Mrs. Herman C., DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind.
Bergan, Paul E., Lapham Bldg., Glens Falls, N. Y.*
Bergen, Haldor A., Shenandoah, Iowa.*
Bergethon, Bjornar, Cole Apts. 4, Greencastle, Ind.*
Berggren, Thorsten N., 33 E. Ninth Ave., Spokane, Washington.*
Bergstedt, Carolyn L., 1836 14th St., Moline, Ill.*
Berk, Mrs. Grace T., 450 Mount, Richmond, Calif.*
Berlin, Irma, 1019 Broadway, East McKeesport, Pa.*
Berliner, Gertrude, Seward Park Sr. H. S., Hester & Essex Sts., New York City*
Berliner, Mrs. Henrietta M., 11302-103rd Ave., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.*
Berner, Jeanette C., 37 Euston, Garden City, N. Y.*
Bernreuter, Alfred L., Mt. Olive, Ill.*
Bernstein, Martin
Bernstein, Sylvain, 5726 Fair Ave., N. Hollywood, California.*
Berry, Frank, 11 Rock Ave., Pascoag, R. I.*
Berry, Linda, Blue Mountain Col., Blue Mountain, Mississippi.*
Berry, Margaret C., 720 Ohio Ave., Leavenworth, Kans.
Berry, Margaret E., 2145 Fifth Ave., Bay City, Michigan.*
Berto, Merlin E., Box 272, Prosser, Wash.*
Best, Clarence J., 7432 Bruno Ave., Richmond Heights, St. Louis, Mo.*
Bester, Virginia T., 4709 North 22nd St., Arlington, Va.
Beswick, Delbert M., 174 Seminary St., Berea, O.
Bethurum, Nellie, Hutchinson, Kans.
Betteridge, Richard B., 2708 Puesta Del Sol. Rd., Santa Barbara, Calif.*
Betwee, Marcus C., 2254-2nd, Wyandotte, Mich.*
Bicking, Ada, Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music, 1204 N. Delaware St., Indianapolis, Ind.*
Bicking, Norma, 747 E. Gum St., Evansville, Ind.*
Bicknell, Helen R. Wright, 1805 W. 12th Pl., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Biddle, Frank C., 3633 Zumstein, Cincinnati, Ohio*
Bienfang, Esther, Whitman Conservatory, Walla Walla, Wash.*
Bienstock, Sylvia F., 425 Riverside Dr., New York City*
Bierschenk, Walter, 1220 La Rue, Louisville, Ky.*
Bigelow, Fred R., 4 Anderson Blvd., Geneva, Ill.*
Biggar, Robert R., 2143 A Maury, St. Louis, Mo.*
Biggerstaff, J. L., 806 E. Normal Ave., Kirksville, Mo.
Bilhorn, Clarence P., 249 Roslyn, Rochester, N. Y.*
Billings, Mrs. Edna S., 4452 Penn St., Kansas City, Mo.
Binder, A. W.
Binkley, Florence Fender, 1120 North West 40th St., Oklahoma City, Okla.
Binns, Margaret A., 2528 Maryland, Baltimore, Md.*
Binz, Ralph E., 64 Sterling, R. D. 2, Trenton, N. J.*
Birchard, Clarence C., 221 Columbus, Boston.*
Birckhead, Mrs. G. E., 1021 Penn St., Kansas City, Mo.
Bird, Gordon W., 1902 Woodland, Des Moines, Ia.
Bird, Mrs. J. Bowdon, 5805 Rockhill Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Birge, Edward B., 828 E. 3rd, Bloomington, Ind.* **
Birney, Carolyn E., 213 South 5th St., Hannebal, Mo.
Bisbee, Rena I., 20 Parker St., Watertown, Mass.*
Bischoff, Rose, Hinds, Hayden & Eldredge, 5 Union Square, New York City*
Bishop, Franklin H., 84 Elm St., Potsdam, N. Y.*
Bishop, John Lynn, Editor, Kansas Music Review, 1025 N. Topeka, Topeka, Kansas.*
Bishop, Rowena, 464 Magnolia Ave., San Bernardino, Calif.
Black, Lona, 1176 Overlook Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio*
Black, Margaret H., S. T. C., Salisbury, Md.*

Black, Robert H., 829 W. Maumee, Adrian, Mich.*
Blackford, Vivian B., 4328 Genessee, Kansas City, Mo.
Blackman, Eva M., 6524 Linden Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Blacknell, Lawrence H., 1707-32nd, South, Seattle*
Blackwell, Myron, Creswell Union H. S., District 12, Creswell, Oregon*
Blaha, Viola, 906 E. John St., Apt. 506, Seattle*
Blair, Frances, 525 Knickerbocker, Kansas City, Mo.
Blair, Hazel E., 125 Michigan, Redlands, Calif.*
Blair, Ruth, 426 Peach Orchard Rd., Dayton, Ohio*
Blair, Virginia, 4438 Dexter St., Roxborough, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Blake, Jean Elizabeth, 405 W. Ninth, Columbus, Ohio*
Blakeley, A. Berneice, Montello, Nevada*
Blakely, Golden, 1408 S. Cincinnati, Tulsa, Okla.*
Blakely, Mrs. Harriet E., Wetumka, Okla.
Blakeslee, Florence, 214 E. 4th St., Ontario, Calif.*
Blakeslee, S. Earle, 214 E. Fourth, Ontario, Calif.*
Blanchard, Mrs. Marguerite S., 1145 Locust Ave., Long Beach, Calif.*
Blanchard, William G., Pomona Col., Bridge Hall, Claremont, Calif.*
Bland, H. L., 239 N. Market St., Galion, Ohio*
Blayney, Mary D., 19 Park Pl., Athens, Ohio*
Bleckschmidt, A. W., 1470 Ferguson, St. Louis, Mo.*
Blewett, Myrtle, 895 Kensington Rd., Los Angeles.*
Blim, Miles G., 236 West 62nd Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Blim, Mrs. Miles G., 236 West 62nd Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Blind, E. E., Romaine Apts. 5, 3421 Middleton, Cincinnati, Ohio*
Blish, Zirian A., 97 Forest Ave., Fond du Lac, Wis.*
Block, Mrs. Carl, 5236 Oak, Kansas City, Mo.
Bloom, Betty, 1512 Logan, Tyrone, Pa.
Bloom, John H., Drury College, Springfield, Mo.
Bloomfield, Mrs. Sylvia, 10815 Columbia, Cleveland*
Blowers, Wayne K., 1800 N. Water, Decatur, Ill.*
Blume, Florence G., 115 E. 21st St., Brooklyn. N. Y.*
Blundon, Mrs. Edith, 670 Highland, Salina, Kans.
Blundon, Maurine, 3932 McGee, Kansas City, Mo.
Bluthardt, George A., 4366 Maryland, St. Louis, Mo.*
Blythe, Verna C., 1924 W. 43rd St., Los Angeles*
Bockelheide. Viola, 810 S. 1st St., Aberdeen, S. D.*
Bodholdt, Arensa A., 1104 Colfax, Evanston, Ill.*
Bodley, J. Russell, Stockton Jr. Col., Stockton, Calif.*
Boehm, Alberta, 1014 Missouri, Lawrence, Kans.
Boette, Marie D., West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, W. Va.*
Boggs, Monica Mast, 8119 Euclid, Chicago, Ill.*
Boicourt, Blaine, Illinois S. N. Univ., Normal, Ill.*
Boisher, M. Rosina, Edon, Ohio*
Boling, Betty, 1824 W. Cumberland Ave., Knoxville, Tennessee.*
Boll, Madeline, Green Court Inn, Greenwich, Conn.
Bollinger, Katherine C., 1105 Laurel, Columbia, S. C.*
Boltwood, J. Belle, 31 Gifford, Jersey City, N. J.*
Bonge, Ruth Phillips, Dorsey H. S., Los Angeles.*
Bonner, Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J., Division Sup't of Schools, 1700 Summer St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Bonney, Alpha J., 953 Arlington, Berkeley, Calif.*
Bonney, Helen, 87 Garden St., New Britain, Conn.*
Booth, Mira E., Western Washington College of Education, Bellingham, Wash.*
Boothby, Mrs. Ethel H., Box 225, Gorham, Maine*
Boothby, Mrs. Lydia W., 38 N. State St., Salt Lake City, Utah*
Borchers, George C., 604 S. Second, Hamilton, Mont.*
Borchers, Orville J., The Kansas S. T. C., Emporia, Kansas.* **
Borgwald, Edna, Public School, Swarthmore, Pa.*
Bornor, J. E., Sr. High School Bldg., Rockford, Ill.*
Boson, Nils, Western Washington College of Education, Bellingham, Wash.*
Boswell, Helen, Administration Bldg., B. of Ed., Louisville, Ky.*
Boucher, Helen Coy, 3008 Harvard North, Seattle*
Boughton, Helen, 1063 Santa Anita, Burbank, Calif.*
Bouknight, Vernon A., 543 Glendalyn Ave., Spartanburg, S. Car.*
*Boulton, Laura C.
Bourquin, Jules, 120 S. Quapaw, Bartlesville, Okla.*
Bowen, Bill F., Weir, Kans.
Bowen, George Oscar, 211 E. 29th St., Tulsa, Okla.* **
Bowen, George W., 18963 Mitchell, Rocky River, O.*
Bowen, M. Emma, Sulgrave Manor, 5130 Connecticut Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Bowen, Maude, 2662 Elm St., Denver, Colo.*
Bowen, Minnie Louise, 211 E. Hunter, Logan, Ohio*
Bower, Edna L., 818 Ridgewood Ave., Ames, Iowa.*
Bower, Mrs. Floy H., 564 N. Beachwood Dr., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Bower, Lucile, 135 S. Sedgwick, Wichita, Kansas.*
Bowlsbey, Mrs. Blanche, 3132 Chesley Ave., Baltimore, Md.*
Bowman, Clarence, 1095 Confer, Johnstown, Pa.*
Bowman, Mildred, 3209 French St., Erie, Pa.*
Bowser, Townley S., 33 Cedar, Stoneham, Mass.*
Boyd, Adeline, 1804 Huff Ave., Wichita Falls, Texas.*
Boyd, Mrs. Florence, Dept. of Music Education, Glassboro S. N. S., Glassboro, N. J.*
Boyd, Margery Anna, 243 Dalzell Ave., Ben Avon, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Boyd, Silas, 1200 Fairmont Ave., E., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Boyden, Lillian E., Taconic Hall, North Adams, Mass.*
Boyer, Alma, 1909 Garrard St., Covington, Ky.*
Boyer, Ruth, 528 N. 6th St., Allentown, Pa.*
Boyer, Verna Brinkley, 630 West Meyer Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Boyington, Alfred, 1208 Maiden Lane, Pullman, Wash.
Boyle, Bertha O., 3417 Portola St., N. S., Pittsburgh.*
Boyle, Gratia, 1001 Woodrow, Wichita, Kans.*
Boyts, Marian, 3211 State, Kansas City, Mo.
Bradburn, Adelaide Jones, New Trier H. S., Winnetka, Ill.*
Bradford, Mrs. Leona, P. O. Box 1007, Merced, Calif.*
Bradford, W. W., 4127 Locust St., Kansas City, Mo.
Bradley, Burrell B., 218 N. Warren, Big Rapids, Mich.*
Bradley, Marguerite, 4910 Central, Kansas City, Mo.
Bradshaw, Elsa L., 1434 Dougall Ave., Windsor, Ontario, Canada.*
Brady, Clarence, Goodwill, Okla.
Braley, Mrs. Lucile, 25 Monterey Ave., Highland Park, Mich.*
Braman, Wallis D., Box 103, War, W. Va.*
Bramlet, Helen G., 914 Madison St., Eldorado, Ill.*
Brand, Anna R., New Duluth Station, Duluth, Minn.*
Brand, Virginia L., 39 Walnut, Wheeling, W. Va.*
Brandenburg, A. H., 1128 Coolidge, Elizabeth, N. J.*
Brandstetter, Ward, Box 497, Palestine, Texas.*
Brandt, Bert, 260 E. 14th St., Holland, Mich.*
Brandt, J. C., Southeast Mo. S. T. C., Cape Girardeau, Mo.*
Branyan, Mrs. Wilbur E., 616 Etna Ave., Huntington, Ind.*
Brase, Hagbard, 535 North 2nd, Lindsborg, Kans.
Bratton, Edith M., Cor. Market and Juniata Sts., Lewistown, Pa.*
Brauer, Robert E., Route 1, Box 292, Dinuba, Calif.*
Bray, Mabel E., 822 Riverside, Trenton, N. J.*
Breach, Wm., Room 804, City Hall, c/o Board of Education, Buffalo, N. Y.*
Bremer, Lloyd W., 1 Elmwood Park, Tonawanda, N. Y.*
Brenan, Mrs. O., 838 Nashville, New Orleans, La.*
Brennan, Cecelia R., 438 Centre, Bloomsburg, Pa.*
Brenneman, Elsa, 411 E. Wilson, Glendale, Calif.*
Bressler, Donald, Fowler Union H. S., Fowler, Calif.*
Breth, Ruth, 3 Young St., Fort Johnson, N. Y.*
Brewer, Leslie O., 1100 E. North St., Tucson, Ariz.*
Brewer, Mary, 1301 N. Clayton, Wilmington, Del.*
Brewster, Phebe, 69 Cliff St., Norwich, Conn.
Brick, Helen A., 23 Reedsdale Rd., Milton, Mass.*
Bricken, Carl
Bridenstine, Clarence A., 1217 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Bridgman, William C., 1820 Avenue K., Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Brietz, E. R., Jr., 1016 Carolina, Greensboro, N. C.*
Briggs, Lee, 19 Courtland Ave., Ashville, N. C.*
Briggs, Ralph C., 115 Massachusetts, Winfield, Kans.
Briggs, Willard, 68 Villa Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.*
Brindle, Dorothy, 163 Carlisle, Gettysburg, Pa.*
Brinker, Louis G., 1356 Covedale, Cincinnati, Ohio* **
Brintall, Genevieve, Biltmore Hotel, Dayton, Ohio.*
Briola, Harold D., R. D. 5, Warren, Ohio*
Britton, Elizabeth, 15 Johnson Ave., Binghamton, N. Y.
Britton, Leoti C., Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo, Mich.*

Brittson, Ann, 1831 W. 10th, Oklahoma City, Okla.*
Brix, Elsie, 4323 S. 38th St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Brobst, Melvin L., 925 N. 7th St., Allentown, Pa.*
Brockett, Evan B., Santa Monica Junior College, Santa Monica, Calif.*
Brodbeck, Esther Eloise, Gainesville, Mo.*
Broder, Nathan
Brodt, Cecil D., 108 W. Fifth, Charlotte, N. C.*
Brokaw, Deora Wolfe, 6115 16th, Detroit, Mich.*
Bronson, Mrs. Dillon, 500 S. Westmarland, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Brooks, Erlis L., State College, N. M.
Brooks, Flavel, Crocker, Mo.*
Brooks, L. Fern, 611 N. Burlington, Hastings, Nebr.*
Brooks, Marjorie, 170 S. Main St., Mansfield, Pa.* **
Brooks, V. Marguerite, Box 106, Colton, Calif.*
Brother Albert, Christian Brothers, Franklin, La.*
Brother Oliver, Catholic H. S., Baton Rouge, La.*
Brother Romuald, S. C., St. Stanislaus College, Bay St. Louis, Miss.*
Brougham, Mrs. Ella R., Vare High School, 24th & Jackson Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Broughton, Julia E., Department of Music Education, N. Y. University, New York City.*
Brower, G. Ackley, Birmingham Conservatory of Music, Birmingham, Ala.
Brower, Judson, 1008 Bedford St., Stamford, Conn.*
Brown, Beatrice M., E. Hopkins Jr. High School, Providence, R. I.*
Brown, Carol, Camp Point, Ill.*
Brown, Dwight L., 431 W. 3rd St., Greenville, Ohio.*
Brown, Eda I., 335 W. Lemon St., Lancaster, Pa.*
Brown, Elizabeth Strart
Brown, Evelyn, Widen, W. Va.*
Brown, Genevieve, Oregon State Normal, Monmouth, Oregon.*
Brown, H. I., 96 Euclid Ave., W., Stockton, Calif.*
Brown, Howard F., 1055 Archwood, Lorain, Ohio.*
Brown, Jessie, College Hill, McPherson, Kans.
Brown, Laura E., The Kamehameha School for Girls, Honolulu, T. H.*
Brown, Mrs. Lulu, Keene Valley, N. Y.*
Brown, Marion, Newfane, N. Y.*
Brown, Marjorie, 2012 Huntington Drive, South Pasadena, Calif.*
Brown, Mary-Rives, 237 West 12th, Tulsa, Okla.
Brown, Otto H., 346 West Saratoga, Ferndale, Mich.*
Brown, Rea William, 1008 Garden Ave., Middletown, Ohio.*
Brown, Robert H., 420 Humboldt St., Manhattan, Kans.
Brown, Samuel, 1333 E. 33rd St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Brown, W. Miller, 306 North 6th St., Longview, Tex.
Brown, Mrs. W. Miller, 306 North 6th St., Longview, Tex.
Brown, William G., 3211 Hartford, St. Louis, Mo.*
Browne, Sue Belle, P. O. Box 634, Fowler, Calif.*
Brucker, Margaret E., Pine Plains Central School, Pine Plains, N. Y.*
Brueser, Fannie M., 3324 Baltimore, Kansas City, Mo.
Bruggman, Frederic, Baker, Mont.*
Brumfeld, Howard, 209 S. E. Utah, Portales, N. Mex.*
Bruner, Kathryn, 211 W. 7th, Newton, Kans.*
Brusen, Bernice, 710 N. 10th St., Boise, Idaho.*
Bryan, George A., 317 E. Main St., Carnegie, Pa.*
Bryan, Janice W., Valley Center, Kans.
Bryant, Beatrice D., 320 Regent Court, Stockton, Calif.*
Bryant, Laura, 422 E. Buffalo St., Ithaca, N. Y.*
Bryant, Will H., 302 N. 6th St., Terre Haute, Ind.*
Bryden, Jack, Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky.*
Bryson, Patty, 519 Parrington Rd., Rochester, N. Y.*
Bryson, Roy G., Longview Public Schools, Longview, Wash.*
Buchanan, Gillian, Eastern New Mexico Junior College, Portales, N. Mex.*
Bucher, L. S., 103 Kells Ave., Newark, Del.*
Buck, Freda, 4174 Francis, Kansas City, Kans.
Buckalew, Elsie E., 1721 Highland, Allentown, Pa.*
Buckbee, Grace, 418 Loretta Place, Seattle, Wash.*
Budd, Vera H., 2327 28th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Buehler, Ida, 325 N. Summit, Decatur, Ill.*
Buell, Helen D., 14 Oakridge Ave., Warwick, N. Y.*
Buggie, Pauline C., 5412 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.*
Bukofzer, Manfred
Bulley, Stanley F., School Board Offices, City Hall, Victoria, B. C., Canada.*
Bullis, Carleton, Baldwin-Wallace Col., Bera, Ohio.* **
Bumgartner, Opal, 4545 Hayward Pl., Denver, Colo.*
Bunker, Flora Ann, 3500 Jefferson, Kansas City, Mo.
Bunnell, Edna M., 710 University, Muncie, Ind.*
Burbank, William, 59 Bay State Rd., Belmont, Mass.*
Burch, Mrs. A. F., Guymon, Okla.
Burchuk, Savid, Webster Springs High School, Webster Springs, W. Va.*
Burdette, S. Marie, 1103 7th Ave., Winfield, Kans.
Burdick, Catherine, 1303 W. Henley, Olean, N. Y.*
Burdock, Norma S., 4305 W. Buena Vista, Detroit, Mich.*
Burgan, Guida, Linwood H. S., Linwood, Kans.*
Burges, Tom King, 103 E. Second St., Tucson, Ariz.*
Burgess, Mrs. Eveline N., Ontario Apartments, Washington, D. C.*
Burgess, M. Selkirk, New Blackbyrne, Grove City, Pa.*
Burgstaller, Franz E., 252 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.*
Burk, Ida, 412 S. Blackhoof St., Wapakoneta, Ohio.*
Burkeholder, Nadeen, Box 33, Northeastern Teachers College, Tahlequah, Okla.*
Burkhard, J. Luella, 2125 Grand, Pueblo, Colo.*
Burkholder, Hazel, Fifth Ave. S. H. S., Pittsburgh*
Burkitt, Mrs. Lois Manning, Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.*
Burlingame, Emily, 145 Lake Ave., Rochester, N. Y.*
Burnette, Imogene, 1409 Boswell, Topeka, Kans.*
Burns, Amy Young, 15 Clifton Rd., Wellesley, Mass.*
Burns, Claudeane, American Book Co., 360 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Burns, Gilbert, Box 81, Lind, Wash.*
Burns, Joseph A., 3500 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
Burns, S. T., State Dept. of Education, Capitol Bldg., Baton Rouge, La.*
Burr, Lynette, Worden, Mont.*
Burrell, Frances L., 89 W. Boylston, Worcester, Mass.*
Burrough, Cecil, Plainville, Kans.*
Burroughs, Clara H., The Ontario, Washington, D. C.*
Burrowes, Katherine
Burrows, Raymond, Teachers College Columbia University, New York City*
Burt, Floyd V., 817 Broadway, Paducah, Ky.*
Burtness, Amanda, 1501 N. Mayfield Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Burton, Mrs. Martin, 1001 Chestnut, Emporia, Kans.
Burton, Martin, 1001 Chestnut, Emporia, Kans.
Burton, Miriam, 191 N. 4th St., St. Helens, Oregon*
Buschmann, Elizabeth M. L., 822 N. 76th St., East St. Louis, Ill.*
Bush, Mrs. Gladys B., 5406 Park Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Bush, Martin W., 2037 Farnam St., Omaha, Nebr.
Bushong, George E., 5807 Reiger Ave., Dallas, Texas.*
Buszin, Walter E., Concordia College, Fort Wayne, Ind. ***
Butchart, Maro, Box 182, Stanford, Mont.*
Butcher, F. G., 405 Stone Ave., Monroe, La.*
Butler, Evelyn B., Baker University, Baldwin, Kans.*
Butler, Harold L., College of Fine Arts, Syracuse, N. Y.
Butler, Joe Ella, 419 W. Houston St., Tyler, Texas.*
Butler, Mary Stuart, State Normal School, San Marco, Tex.
Butler, Oscar, 810 South Cedar, Ottawa, Kans.
Butler, Stephen, Del Norte County High School, Crescent City, Calif.*
Buttagole, Tutti, Overland Park, Kans.
Buttelman, C. V., 1129 Maple Ave., Evanston, Ill.*
Butterfield, Mondel E., State Teachers College, Johnson City, Tenn.*
Butterfield, Walter H., 20 Summer St., Administration Bldg., Providence, R. I.*
Buys, Peter, Hagerstown, Md.
Butterworth, Horace, 2201 15th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Byer, Mrs. Maude G., 23 Second St., Santa Cruz, Calif.*
Byerly, Edward F., Woodbury, N. J.*
Byler, Arthur W., Doane College, Crete, Nebr.
Byrd, Doris Lee, Flat River, Mo.*
Cadek, Ottokar T., 2716 Canterbury Rd., Birmingham, Ala.
Caghey, Ruth E., 106 E. North St., Morrison, Ill.*
Cain, Noble, 1331 Chase Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Caldwell, June E., 2844 Angelique, St., Joseph, Mo.
Caldwell, Kate M., 826 Kentucky, Lawrence, Kans.
Calhoun, Harriet, 607 Cottonwood, Deer Lodge, Mont.*
Caligiuri, Albert M., 3813 Percy St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Cambern, Carroll G., Carl Fischer, Inc., Park Central Bldg., Suite 1110 412 W. Sixth St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Cameron, Fawn, 1619 E. John St., Seattle, Wash.*
Cameron, Woodrow, 312 W. 1st St., Roswell, New Mex.*

Campbell, Alice V., 548 Blue Hill Ave., Dorchester, Mass.*
Campbell, Gabriella F., 1008 South Olive, Pittsburg, Kans.
Campbell, Jane F., Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, Richmond, Ky.*
Campbell, Kathleen, 524 Broadway, Vincennes, Ind.*
Campbell, Leroy B., Box 544, Warren, Pa.
Campbell, Lyle F., Box 262, Los Altos, Calif.*
Campbell, Marvene, 836 N. Edgemont, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Campbell, Nancy G., Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Campbell, W. Ethel, 115 W. North, Anaheim, Calif.*
Campbell, William Wilson, New Wilmington, Pa.
Canfield, Antoinette B., Ruskin Apts., Oakland Station, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Canfield, Susan T., Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Canterbury, Richard, 1014 Broadway St., Kansas City, Mo.
Canterbury, Thomas, 5910 East 9th, Kansas City, Mo.
Cantwell, Juanita R. L., 125 Martin, Newton, Ill.*
Carazo, Castro, 550 L. S. U. Ave., College Town, Baton Rouge, La.*
Carden, Byrna H., 529 Wyoming, Charleston, W. Va.*
Carey, Bruce, Girard College, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Carl, Raymond, Box 172, Sherwood, Oregon*
Carlile, Mabel A., Graceland College, Lamoni, Ia.
Carlson, Mrs. Margaret F., 2407 6th Ave., Moline, Ill.*
Carlyon, John M., 715 Lincoln, Watsonville, Calif.*
Carpenter, Estelle, Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco, Calif.*
Carpenter, Florence E., S. T. C., E. Stroudsburg, Pa.*
Carpenter, Mary, 410 E. 4th St., Maryville, Mo.*
Carpp, Donald, Everett Public Schools, S. Cedar St., Lansing, Mich.*
Carr, Flora B., 20 N. Washington St., Duquoin, Ill.*
Carr, Maurice F., Glenwood, Minn.*
Carr, Raymond N., Glenbard Township High School, Glen Ellyn, Ill.*
Carrington, Mrs. Irma M., Mart, Texas*
Carrington, Otis M., 800 Whipple Ave., Redwood City, Calif.*
Carroll, Mary T., 2305 Myrtle Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Carroll, Stephen L., 323 Milburn, Syracuse, N. Y.*
Carson, Cleva J., University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.*
Carson, Leon, 160 West 73rd St., New York, N. Y.
Carson, Mary Margaret, 317 W. St. Louis St., Lebanon, Ill.*
Carson, Paul E., 549 High St., Brownsville, Pa.*
Carson, Ruby B., 951 Washington, Miami Beach, Fla.*
Carson, Terry W., 117 Fairfield, New Castle, Pa.*
Carstens, Annafreddie, Georgia State College for Women, Melledgeville, Ga.*
Carter, Ardis M., 1332 Garden St., Santa Barbara, Calif.*
Carter, Earl W., Lyon & Healy, 1007 Huron Rd., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Carter, Franklin, 1626 Le Roy Ave., Berkeley, Calif.*
Carter, Mrs. Hazel E., Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa.* **
Carter, Jessie, 5559 Blackstone Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Carter, Lucille, 416 Jennings, Bartlesville, Okla.*
Carter, Russell, 301 State Education Bldg., Albany, N. Y.*
Cartlidge, Annette, 1120 Cedar, Redlands, Calif.*
Carver, Gladys R., 567 West Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.*
Casad, J. Alfred, 85 Devon Rd., Rochester, N. Y.*
Case, Glen M., 2195 Balsom Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Case, Harriet, 1625 Kimball Building, Chicago, Ill.
Casler, Helen, 1224 Linwood, Kansas City, Mo.
Caspers, Bertha, 5050 Drexel Blvd., Chicago, Ill.*
Cass, Jeannette L., 104 North Washington, Moscow, Idaho.
Casselberry, Henry R., B. S., Ed. M., 3261 N. 13th St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Castelloe, Dorothe, 1714 Avenue H., Ft. Madison, Iowa.*
Cater, Sarah, 1130 Quintard, Anniston, Ala.*
Cates, Violet G., Greenwood, Mo.
Cathcart, Madge, 221 E. Michigan St., Indianapolis, Ind.*
Catron, Mrs. Frances S., 304 North 6th St., Ponca City, Okla.*
Caulfield, Regina A., 232 Maple, Clarksburg, W. Va.*
Cazier, Ruth, 1004 E. 81st St., Chicago, Ill.*
Cease, Charles H., 3607 Wyandotte St., Kansas City, Mo.
Cedargreen, Elvera, S. T. C., Valley City, N. D.*
Ceo, Stefano, 140 Stone Church Place, Wheeling, W. Va.*
Cerny, Harold E., 927 West 28th, Kearney, Nebr.
Cervin, Louise, 3900 8th Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
Champlin, Doris, 15 W. 67th St., New York City*
Champlin, Doris M., 217 W. Lincoln Ave., Belvidere, Ill.*
Chaney, Agnes A., 515 S. Harvard Blvd., Apt. 8, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Chaney, Mrs. Charles R., 821 De Witt, Sanger, Calif.*
Channon, Chester N., S. T. C., Bowling Green, Ky.*
Chapman, Grace, 506 N. Lafayette, South Bend, Ind.*
Chapman, Louise G., 113 S. Madrona, Brea, Calif.*
Chappelear, Rose Monroe, 801 S. Gramercy Drive, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Charles, Cecilia, 244 E. Orange St., Lancaster, Pa.*
Charlton, Mildred L., 1217 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Charnow, Jack, Roosevelt School, Burlingame, Calif.*
Chase, Gilbert.
Chase, Helen E., 11 Highland St., Ware, Mass.*
Chase, James E., 808 Bush St., Jackson, Mich.*
Chase, K. M., Battle Creek, Iowa.*
Chatburn, Frances M., 500 S. 8th, Apt. 1, Springfield, Ill.*
Cheek, Mattie M., 708 Johnstone, Bartlesville, Okla.*
Cheek, Raymond, 295 'H' St., Parlier, Calif.*
Cheney, R. V., Basil, Ohio*
Cheries. Anne A., 25 Mechanic St., Monson, Mass.*
Cheslock, Louis
Chew, Georgia, 403 Cooper Ave., Camden, N. J.*
Cheyette, Irving, Davis H. S., Mt. Vernon, N. Y.*
Chiapusso, Jan, 1428 Ohio, Lawrence, Kans.
Chickanzeff, John, Hoover Hotel, Whittier, Calif.*
Chittenden, Kate, 212 West 59th St., New York, N. Y.
Chiumino, Katherine, 246 Massachusetts Ave., Highland Park, Mich.*
Chivington, Ginevra M., 306 E. Forrest Hill Ave., Peoria, Ill.*
Christaldi, Angeline, Kensington High School, Cumberland & Coral Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Christensen, Lorn E., 1701 Everett, Caldwell, Idaho.*
Christensen, Margaret E., 9628 Hawthorne Ave., Overland, Mo.
Christeson, Wayne, S. T. C., Springfield, Mo.* **
Christman, Ruth Naomi, 56 Elm, Wallaston, Mass.*
Christopher, Winifred C., Box 47, Westhampton Beach, L. I., N. Y.*
Christy, L. Eugene, 425 Shokert Building, Kansas City, Mo.
Christy, Van A., S. T. C. Indiana, Pa.*
Church, Charles F., Jr., State University, Bowling Green, Ohio.*
Church, Norval L., Teachers College, Columbus University, 323 W. 120th, New York City, N. Y.*
Civis, Mrs. Frances Jackman, 1929 E. 31st St., Baltimore, Md.*
Clancy, Bess, 516 Eskridge Way, Olympia, Wash.*
Clapp, Philip G., 430 South Summit, Iowa City, Ia. ***
Clapp, Mrs. Philip G., 430 South Summit, Iowa City, Ia.
Clark, Ada V., Box 465, Canyon, Tex.*
Clark, Amy B., Girls Training School, Geneva, Nebr.* **
Clark, Arthur C., 201 Parker Ave., Chaffee, Mo.*
Clark, Mrs. Arza J., 1264 Fillmore, Topeka, Kans.
Clark, Mrs. B. F., Lamar, Mo.
Clark, Emily, 2231 St. Paul St., Baltimore, Md.*
Clark, Mrs. Francis Elliott, Vernon House, 6445 Green St., Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Clark, Francis Elliott, R.C.A. Victor, Camden, N. J.
Clark, Kenneth S., 1637 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.*
Clark, Margaret, 2235 Roslyn Ave., Duluth, Minn.*
Clark, Maude A., 8003 Highland, Kansas City, Mo.
Clark, Welford D., 7520 Stewart Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Clarke, Bernice White, 80 Washington Square, New York City, N. Y.*
Clarke, Emily, Arbyd. Mo.*
Clarke, Ernest, 167 E. 89th St., New York City, N. Y.*
Clarke, Harry F., 1260 Elbur Ave., Lakewood, Ohio.*
Clarke, Helen R., 4936 Agnes, Kansas City, M.
Clarke, Henry
Clausen, Leslie F., 936 N. Edgemont, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Clavadetscher, J. E., 1143 N. 31st St., Billings, Mont.*
Cleary, Irma Lourtiloth, 600 Kaweah, Visalia, Calif.*
Cleino, Edward Henry, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.
Cleland, D. H., Roosevelt H. S., St. Louis, Mo.*
Cleland, Walter, 332 S. Governor, Iowa City, Iowa.*
Clement, Bertha Bishop, 17 Chelsea Pl., East Orange, New Jersey.*
Clemons, E. Rhudolphus, 736 S. Broad St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Clerkin, Mrs. Altha, 532 N. Broadway, Greensburg, Indiana.*
Clewell, Beulah S., Aurora St., Hudson, O.
Clewell, Ralph E., Western Reserve Academy, Hudson, O.

Clifford, Beatrice, 701 Fort St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Clifford, Sarah M., 5104 Montgall, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Cline, Sarah Yancey, Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Cincinnati, Ohio*
Cingman, Elmer, Dowling School for Crippled Children, Minneapolis, Minn.*
Clinton, Martina M., 399 Kenilworth Ave., Detroit, Michigan.*
Clokey, Joseph W., 15 South Main, Oxford, O.
Close, Emelyn H., Chesterville, Ohio*
Clough, Ruth H., 32 Lawn Ave., Edgewood Station, Providence, R. I.
Clute, Albert B., 229 E. Onota St., Munising, Michigan.*
Coarson, Gertrude, Marengo, Illinois.*
Coatsworth, Florence J., Janesville High School, Janesville, Wisconsin*
Cobb, Mrs. Violet S., 1925 9th Ave., Oakland, California.*
Cobbledick, Mildred, 4328 E. Bell Ave., Bell High School, Bell, California.*
Cockran, May, 4108 Lawn Ave., Edgewood Station, Providence, R. I.
Cochrane, Helen, P. O. Box 454, Santa Rosa, Calif*
Cockey, Nellie M., 804 E. Sherman St., Hutchinson, Kansas.*
Coe, Lydia P., 3900 Greystone Ave., New York City, N. Y.*
Coe, Rosalind O., Bushwick High School, 400 Irving Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Coffin, Mrs. Lenora, 2914 N. Delaware, Indianapolis, Indiana.*
Coffin, Louise, 119 Third St., Wynne, Arkansas.*
Coffin, R. Berton, John Tarleton College, Stephenville, Tex.
Coffin, Mrs. R. Berton, John Tarleton College, Stephenville, Tex.
Coghill, Elizabeth, Central College, Fayette, Mo.*
Cohen, Jack, 32 Eastford St., Hartford, Conn.*
Cohen, Sol, Box 94, Urbana, Ill.*
Coit, Lottie Ellsworth, Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y.
Colclasure, Martha A., 1425 30th St., Rock Island, Illinois.*
Cole, Elna R., Givens Hall, Fayette, Mo.
Cole, Rossetter G., 5714 Blackstone Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Coleman, Jesse J., 870 N. Towne, Pomona, Calif.*
Coleman, Mrs. Satis N., 448 Riverside Drive, New York City, N. Y.*
Colgan, Marion E., 16 Locust St., Pittsford, N. Y.*
Colglazier, Mrs. Nelle, 1039 Shawnee, Kansas City, Kans.
Collar, Helen. Oklahoma College for Women, Chickasha, Okla.
College of Fine Arts, Syracuse Univ., Syracuse, New York.*
Collicott, Wendell W., 12 Red Rd., Chatham, New Jersey*
Collier, Price L., 314 S. Camden, Richmond, Missouri*
Collins, Frank, Jr., 406 Louisiana Drive, Baton Rouge, La.
Collins, Irene M., 7536 Colfax Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Collins, Louise, 5250 First Avenue N., Birmingham, Alabama*
Collins, Roy N., Centennial High School, Dist. 1, Pueblo, Colo.*
Collins, Thomas C., 415 Kirkwood, Davenport, Iowa.*
Collins, Mrs. Zora L., Holmes Ave., Glenbrook, Connecticut.*
Colson, Hermine Wiecking, 107 Bonser Apts., Anderson, Ind.*
Colson, Leslie F., Kirkwood H. S., Kirkwood, Mo.*
Colt, Mrs. A. J., 5008 Virginia, Kansas City, Mo.
Colton, Beatrice Alda, 1717 Lee, Modesto, California.*
Colton, W. R., 402 S. University, Vermillion, S. D.*
Combe, Elizabeth M., 464 W. Clay Ave., Muskegon, Michigan.*
Combs, Mrs. Gladys G., Blue Springs, Mo.
Conklin, F. Colwell, 63 Hillcrest, Larchmont, N. Y.*
Conklin, James V., 116 Newton St., Meriden, Connecticut.*
Conley, Marie V., 2564 N. Murray, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.*
Conlon, Sara M., Paru Plaza Hotel, St. Louis, Missouri.*
Connell, Marian G., Georgian Court Apts., Kansas City, Mo.
Conner, Ethel M., Horace Mann Bldg., Virginia, Minnesota.*
Conner, Rex A., Glasco, Kans.
Conners, Anne Davidson, 5020 E. 5th Place, Tulsa, Oklahoma.*
Connor, Amy L., 114 Prichard St., Fitchburg, Massachusetts.*
Connor, Ethel K., 5209 Conduit Rd. N. W., Washington D. C.*
Constad, Martha, 8618 B. Virginia Ave., South Gate, California.*
Conway, Horace B., 1818-20 Alameda Blvd., Corpus Christi, Tex.
Conway, Julia G., 409 East Potomac St., Brunswick, Md.
Conway, Mary M., 703 Carondelet St., Office of School Board, New Orleans, La.*
Cook, Clifford A., 318 DeKalb St., Marion, Alabama. *
Cook, Marjorie D., 4 East Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Cook, Mildred Carol, Colorado Woman's College, Denver, Colo.
Cook, Parker E., 1305 E. 43rd St., Seattle, Washington.*
Cook, Ronald M., Opheim, Montana.*
Cook, Mrs. W. Lanphere, 1000 Arno Rd., Kansas City, Mo.*
Cooke, Cornelia, Hanson Teachers College, 4211 S. Miro St., New Orleans, La.*
Cooke, Frederick, 1508 Stewart, Kansas City, Kansas.*
Cooksey, G. Campbell, 1831 Jefferson, New Orleans, Louisiana.*
Cookson, Frank B., Educational Music Bureau, 30 E. Adams St., Chicago, Illinois.*
Cooledge, Ethel V., 423 W. 120th St., New York City, New York.*
Cooley, Maud, 5516 Woodmont St., Squirrel Hill, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.*
Coolidge, Arlan R., Department of Music, Brown University, Providence, R. I.*
Coombs, Cecile C., Board of Educational Bldg., East St. Louis, Illinois.*
Coon, Leland A., 2307 Rugby Row, Madison, Wis. ***
Cooper, Harry M., 2037 Fernam St., Omaha, Nebr.
Cooperrider, Karl K., 545 Barrett, Richmond, California.*
Coopersmith, Jacob Maurice
Copeland, Lewis A., Maple Hill, Kans.
Copeland, Doris, 126 Newbury St., Boston, Massachusetts.*
Copeland, Marion, Presidio Junior High School, San Francisco, Calif.*
Copenhaver, Mrs. Marvin, 218 S. Main, Box 548, Marion, Va.*
Copp, Herman J., 2309 Christel, Middletown, Ohio.*
Corbett, Helen, 810 South Ave., Rochester, New York.*
Cormany, Mrs. Marguerite, Stotesbury, W. Va.*
Cornell, Edith, 209 E. Washington St., Santa Ana, California.*
Cornell, Margaret S., 305 S. St. Clair, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.*
Corscaden, James Albert, 179 Hillside Avenue, Englewood, N. J.*
Corti, Gustavo, 3234 Brooklyn Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Cory, Olive L., Box 846, Livingston, Montana.*
Costa, Dominic L., Nokomis, Illinois.*
Costello Charles J., Horace Mann School, Tulsa, Okla.*
Costello, Mrs. Mary Shaw, 1161 W. Elm St., Stockton, Calif.*
Cotton, Edith M., 511 Kenwood, Minneapolis, Minnesota.*
Cotton, Mrs. Marian, 555 Hill Ter., Winnetka, Illinois.*
Cotton, Rachel E., 52 Maple St., Malden, Mass.*
Couch, Lucille E., Hartford, Ky.*
Couger, Allie M., 1300 Louisiana St., Lawrence Kans.
Coulson, Janet L., 428 Jefferson, St. Charles, Mo.
Coulter, Mrs. Ella, 14248 Greenview, Detroit, Michigan.*
Coulter, T. Frank, Box 137, Joplin, Mo.*
Courtney, Dorothy H., 109 East 69th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Cowell, Grace E., 1114 Luttrell, Knoxville, Tenn.*
Cowen, Alta C. Cowen, 446 California, Webster Groves, Missouri.*
Cowger, W. A., Mexico, Mo.*
Cowman, Twila, Monroe School, 51st & Bedford Ave., Omaha, Nebr.*
Cox, Grace, 626 E. Blackford Ave., Evansville, Indiana.*
Cox, Henry, 5665 Marcy St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Cox, Isabel L., 23 W. Main, Ephrata, Pa.*
Coye, Nina B., 543 Avalon Ter., S. E., Grand Rapids, Michigan.*
Craft, Elizabeth, 200 E. Main St., Clairsville, Ohio*
Crahan, Helen, 603 W. First St., Marysville, Mo.*
Craig, Lillie C., 230 N. Bright, Whittier, Calif.*
Craig, Mora Moreland, 4624 Mill Creek, Kansas City, Mo.
Craig, Pauline, 209 Union St., Uniontown, Pa.*
Cramer, Kathryn, Solomon, Kans.
Crampton, Mrs. Sarah K., 4015 Blaine, Detroit, Michigan.*
Crandall, Alberta, Milton, Wis.
Crandall, Dorothy, 418 B., East Tunnel St., Santa Maria, Calif.*
Crane, Everett B., Murray, Ky.*
Crane, William B., Van Ness Ave., Ferndale, Calif.*
Cranley, John J., The Boston Music Co., 116 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.*
Cranston, Ottley, 4525 Gillham Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Crawford, Hadley, 8820 Alva Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Crawford, Loren B., 624 South Jackson, Pratt, Kans.
Crawford, May, Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C.
Crawford, Mrs. Nancy, 6841 Oak Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Crawford, Ora L., 1075 3rd St., Des Moines, Iowa.*
Crawford, Ralph W., 1310 Bennington Ave., E. E. Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Crawford, Raymond A., 276 Park, West Roxbury, Massachusetts.*
Crawford, Ruth Elaine, Box 235, Parma, Mo.*
Crawford, Wilford, 18 W. Second, Washington, Mo.*
Creamer, Kenneth, Box 422, Novinger, Mo.

Cremaschi, Paul, 22 Spring, Tarpon Springs, Fla.*
Cressman, Mildred I., 321 State St., Ephrata, Pa.*
Crews, Mrs. Frank H., 718 Maple St., Spartanburg, South Carolina.*
Criswell, J. P., 316 South Blvd., Springfield, Mo.*
Croft, Marie, c/o Ginn & Co., 1510 Young St., Dallas, Tex.*
Cronk, Mrs. Dora W., 497 Delaware, Delmar, N. Y.*
Cronkhite, Eva Irene, 1537 N. Fairfax Ave., Hollywood, Calif.*
Cronstedt, Carl G. N., High Point City Schools, High Point, N. C.*
Cross, Evelyn S., 406 Euclid Ave., Upland, Calif.*
Cross, Henry P., 172 Cedar, Ridgefield Park, N. J.*
Cross, Mary G., Public Schools, Rockville, Md.*
Crowell, Mrs. Wilma, R. F. D. 1, Liverpool, New York.*
Crowl, Wayne C., Box 184 H., Perris, Calif.*
Crowley, Florence L., Thornton Academy, Saco, Me.*
Croze, Valerie G., Essling Apts., Eveleth, Minn.*
Culbertson, Nancy T., 1025 W. 58th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Cundiff, Irl T., 812 South Park St., Kalamazoo, Mich.
Cunicle, Frank, 1016 South 26th St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Cunning, Chas. H., High School, Ponca City, Okla.*
Cunningham, Teresa M., The Plains, Weatherly, Pa.*
Cupero, M., 1714 7th St., New Orleans, La.*
Curdy, Isabel, 15 East 56th St., Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Curry, Catherine, 720 E. Cook, Springfield, Ill.*
Curry, Helen G., High School, Gloucester, Mass.*
Curry, W. Lawrence, Beaver Col., Jenkintown, Pa.*
Curtis, Helen, Curtis Class Piano Course, 1010 Kimball Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Curtis, Irene A., 1011 N. 18th St., Superior, Wisconsin.*
Curtis, Louis Woodson, 1205 W. Pico St., Los Angeles, Calif.* **
Curtis, Marie J., 8045 E. Jefferson Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Curtis, Ruth Lambert, 32 Carter Rd., Lynn, Mass.*
Curtiss, Ada M., Box 334, Jacksonville, Ala.*
Cushman, Grace E., Teachers College of Conn., New Britain, Conn.*
Custer, Densyl, R. R. 2, Sardinia, Ohio.*
Cutts, Charles R., 39 Grand Ave., Billings, Mont.*
Cuyler, Louise E., 713 Dewey, Ann Arbor, Mich.*
Cyphers, Grace, 103 Hall Ave., Crafton, Pa.* **
Daab, Ernest W., Belleville, Illinois.*
Dabney, Richard S., 200 W. Armour, Kansas City.*
Dabney, Claude, 108 Parker St., Mobile, Ala.*
Daggit, George M., 721 Ohio St., Lawrence, Kans.
Dahneke, Marshall H., 1142 Glenn, San Jose, Calif.*
Dailey, L. N., 1012 Walnut, Yankton, S. D.
Dake, Mrs. Emeline O., 468 S. Glenn Ellyn Way, Rochester, N. Y.*
Dale, Alice F., 80 Washington Square, East, New York City, N. Y.*
Dale, Dorothy Lucille, Box 292, Fortuna, California.*
Dale, William H., 614 Jackson, Joplin, Mo.*
Daley, O. E., School of Music, Univ. of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin.*
Dalley, Orien E., 901 Neosho, Emporia, Kans.
Dalley, Mrs. Orien E., 901 Neosho, Emporia, Kans.
Dalton, Gertrude C., 2209 S. 61st Ct., Cicero, Illinois.*
Dalton, Mrs. Mildred Bunker, West 8th St., Lawrence, Kans.
Daltry, Joseph S., Weslayan University, Middletown, Conn.
Damberg, Rose O., 1095 Merrill St., Hubbard Woods, Ill.*
D'Amelio, Benj. A., 546 Midvale Rd., Beverly Hills, Upper Darby, Pa.*
Damrosch, Walter, National Broadcasting Co., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City, N. Y.*
Damsteegt, Walter G., 723 Hamilton Ave., Waukesha, Wis.
Dana, Richard H., 340 East 72nd St., New York, N. Y.
Dandridge, Ecrelle F., 937 Washington Blvd., Kansas City, Kans.
Daniel, Cyros C., 226 River Drive, Appleton, Wis.
Daniels, Mrs. W. A., 38 Spring St., Danbury, Conn.*
Danielson, Melvia L., College of Education, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.*
Dann, Arthur J., 27 Circuit Ave., Worcester, Massachusetts.*
Dann, Hollis, 19 Warwick Ave., Douglaston, L. I., N. Y.*
Darasch, John, 537 E. 20th St., Oakland, Calif.*
Darby, Lillie E., Fremont School, Klamath Falls, Oregon.*
Darnall, Mrs. Esther, 201 West Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Darrin, Josephine, Riverview Park, R. F. D. 3, Wausau, Wisc.*
Darwall, Esther, 200 W. Armour, Kansas City, Mo.*
Daubensack, Eloise, Columbia Broadcasting System, 485 Madison Ave., New York City, N. Y.*
David, Hans Theodore
Davids, Ina Margaret, 958 Grand View, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Davidson, Clyde O., Supt. of Schools, Columbus, Kansas.*
Davies, Esther C., 3818 Warnick, Kansas City, Mo.
Davies, Ethel R., Lakewood, Pa.*
Davies, Hilda, 506 Hazelwood Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.*
Davies, Katherine Currie, Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn.
Davies, N. B., C.M.S.T.C., Warrensburg, Mo.
Davis, Bessie Margaret, 3406 Iowa St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Davis, Betty K., 2510 Ave., J. Fort Madison, Iowa.*
Davis, Dorothy, Mt. Lassen Hotel, Susanville, Calif.*
Davis, Dwight, 648 Elmwood, Shreveport, La.*
Davis, Erma Maple, Haydock Apts., Grandview Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio*
Davis, Etta May, 670 N. 48th St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Davis, F. Edna, 4946 Greene St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Davis, Florence L., 208 N. 2nd St., St. Clair, Pa.*
Davis, Hobart S., Fort Hays Kansas State College, Hays, Kansas.*
Davis, Isabel T., 624 Roanoke, Riverhead, N. Y.*
Davis, Isla M., 1209 N. Topeka, Wichita, Kansas.*
Davis, John A., Eldorado Springs, Mo.*
Davis, Kathryn, Marie, Box 121, Eldred, Ky.*
Davis, Lavon, 1611 E. Okmulgee, Muskogee, Okla.*
Davis, Leo H., 2217 Tracy, Kansas City, Mo.
Davis, Lytton S., Director of Music Education, Board of Education, Omaha, Nebr.*
Davis, Margaret L., 1113 First St., West, Sanford, Fla.
Davis, Mark Allan, 110 S. Main St., West Hartford, Connecticut.*
Davis, Myrtle Gadd, 577 E. Pasadena, Pomona, Calif.*
Davis, Mrs. Ohee Ersken, Public Schools, Umatilla, Florida.*
Davis, R. T., Greenville, Illinois.*
Davis, Ruth E., 344 N. Garfield Ave., Scranton, Pa.*
Davis, Veronica, 144 W. Wisconsin, Deland, Fla.*
Davison, Archibald T.
Davison, Laura M., 98 Candee, Sayville, L. I., N. Y.*
Davison, Mona G., Lancaster, Mass.*
Dawes, W. R., Lovington, N. Mex.*
Dawson, Dorothy M., 1211 Third Ave., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Dawson, Mary 3015 Linwood Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Dawson, Paul C., Box 382, Council Bluffs, Iowa.*
Day, James R., Oceanside H. S., Oceanside, N. Y.*
Day, Virginia, 82 Poplar St., Wyandotte, Mich.*
Deacon, Stanley, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Deakyne, Maude H., 202 W. 18th St., Wilmington, Del.*
Dean, Mrs. Harlowe F., 420 Transylvania Park, Lexington, Ky.*
DeBats, Gertrude A., 72 Harriman, Bedford, Ohio.*
De Burgos, Francis, 116 Stratford Ct., San Antonio, Texas.* **
Decker, Harold A., 70 South Cedar, Oberlin, O.*
Decker, Harvey Lila, 3880 Clayton, Los Angeles, California.*
Decker, Hermann T., 1225 Garfield St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Defty, Dwight S., 60 Pomona, Long Beach, Calif.*
DeGroot, Mrs. Amy S., 2202 Allen, Allentown, Pa.*
Deilmann, Fern, 802 East 8th Ave., Winfield, Kans.
DeJarnette, Reven S., 601 N. Seventh St., Weatherford, Okla.*
Delaney, Vern D., Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Iowa.*
DeLapp, Derrell C., 421 West 3rd Apartment 6, Joplin, Mo.
Delbridge, Maude, 3306 Kenwood, Indianapolis, Indiana.*
Dellinger, Hal D., Box 115 Pleasanton, Kans.
De Maris, R. J., Phillips High School, Birmingham, Alabama.*
Demmler, Alfred L., 217 Dalzell Ave., Ben Avon, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Demmler, Oscar W., 217 Dalzell Ave., Ben Avon, Pittsburgh, Pa.* **
Dempsey, Teresa V., 17 Bouquet St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Dengler, Clyde R., 551 Netherwood Rd., Bywood, Upper Darby, Pa.*
Denker, Fred H., Kent State College, Kent, Ohio*
Denn, Annabel, 901 Yosemite Ave., West Madera, California.*
Dennis, Charles M., Board of Education, San Francisco, Calif.*
Densmore, Frances
Dent, Edward J.
Denues, John, 3 E. 25th, Baltimore, Md.*
Denzel, Arlys, 2127 Knapp, St. Paul, Minn.*

DeProspero, Tom, Warwood H. S., Wheeling, W. Va.*
Dering, Grace M., 1162-4th Ave., Los Angeles.*
DeRubertis, N., 3418 Chestunt, Kansas City, Mo.
DeSelm, Stella C., 75 Diana Rd., Columbus, Ohio*
DeStivers, Cobby, 1314 N. 15th St., Waco, Texas.*
Detering, Edmund L., 3444 A Arsenal St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Dethier, John V., 40 Pond St., Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.*
Detrich, Catherine, Chapman, Kans.
Detrich, Joan, Chapman, Kans.
Dett, R. Nathaniel, Bennett College, Greensboro, N. C.
Deutsch-Dorian Frederic.
Devendorf, Emma E., 164 Kingsboro Ave., Gloversville, N. Y.*
Devereaux, Eugene, 312 5th Ave., N., Mt. Vernon, Iowa.*
Deverell, Richard W., 237 S. Main St., Cambridge Springs, Pa.*
Devlin, W. Madison, 569-15th Ave., San Francisco.*
Dewey, Malcolm H., Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.
Dexter, Gertrude W., 20 Columbus, Beverly, Mass.*
Deye, Howard W., 613 N. Anderson St., Ellensburg, Washington.*
Dibert, Hazel A., 7921 Tacoma, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Dick, Pearl H., 210 Hillsboro, Edwardsville, Ill.*
Dickerman, C. Louise, 53 Lilley Rd., W. Hartford, Conn.*
Dickey, Dorothy M., 1129 N. Coronado Ter., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Dickey, Frances, Music Dept., University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.*
Dickieson, George W., Woman's College of North Carolina, Greensboro, N. C.*
Dickinson, Clarence, 99 Claremont Ave., New York, N. Y. ***
Dickinson, George Sherman
Diefenbronn, Vernall, 2203 A McCausland Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Dierker, Hilda, Ohio State Univ., Dept. of Music, Columbus, Ohio.*
Dierks, Freda L., 504 Gladstone Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.
Dierks, William T., 504 Gladstone Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.
Diers, Francis H., S. N. S., Fredonia, N. Y.*
Dieter, Bernard, 409 East Chicago Ave., Naperville, Ill.
Dietrich, Margaret, 910 West 33rd Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Diettrich, Karl C., Box 521, Sunnyside, Wash.*
Dietz, Johanna, 418 West 10th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Dietz, Katherine, 716 East Okmulgee Ave., Muskogee, Okla.
Dietz, Lilli Belle, 716 East Okmulgge Ave., Muskogee, Okla.
Dietz, Lou B., 1721 West Randolph, Enid, Okla.
Dietz, Roy F., 71 Craighead St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Diffin, James A., Superior H. S., Superior, Ariz.*
Dill, Mrs. Helen C., 304 N. La Peer Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif.*
Diller, Angela, 49 E. 91st St., New York City.*
Dillinger, J. M., 613 Grand Ave., Hannibal, Mo.*
Dillon, Lloyd, Northwood, Iowa.*
Dillon, Mary Agnes, 902 F. St., Belmar, N. J.
Dillon, Mildred J., 1820 Central Ave., Kansas City, Kans.
DiMarco, Vivian A., 93 Seward Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Dimmick, Ruth, 129 Anawan Ave., West Roxbury, Mass.
Dinkmeyer, Adah C., Washington, Evanston, Ill.*
Dinsmore, Clifford E., 14 Wood, Tarrytown, N. Y.*
D'Ippolito, Lewis, 827-21st St., Santa Monica, California*
Dirks, Margaret A., Box 562, Wheaton, Ill.*
Dissinger, C. F., 530 Stone Ave., S., La Grange, Ill.*
Dixon, Mrs. Ann, 1418 E. Superior St., Duluth, Minn.*
Dixon, Ethel M., 300 South 2nd, Chambersburg, Pa.
Dixon, Gordon, Mendocino Union H. S., Mendocino, California.*
Dixon, Ilah M., Pipkin Junior H. S., Springfield, Mo.*
Dixon, Lucile, Washington Public Schools, Washington, Mo.*
Dobyns, Lester, 501 Court House, Shreveport, La.*
Dockstader, Mrs. Louise W., 1002 N. Wahsatch, Colorado Springs, Colo.*
Dodge, J. B., Box 602, Clarksville, Tenn.*
Doelger, Eda L., 1111 North Ave., Rockford, Ill.*
Doersch, Lucile, 916 E. St., Centralia, Wash.*
Doll, Alice, Decatur H. S., Decatur, Ill.*
Doll, Mary Alice, Hamilton, Mo.
Dolven, Joel, 895 Park Ave., Albany, N. Y.*
Dominy, Betty, 49 Judson St., Canton, N. Y.*
Donahoe, Mrs. V. A., 4328 Wayne, Kansas City, Mo.
Donaldson, Janet G., 620 E. Mabel, Tucson, Ariz.*
Donmyer, Byron C., Baker Univ., Baldwin, Kans.*
Donna, Katherine, 19 Elm, Great Barrington, Mass.*
Donnelly, Elizabeth, 1650 Selby Ave., West Los Angeles, Calif.*
Donoghue, Anna E., 44 Cheltenham Rd., Rochester, New York.*
Donovan, Mary C., 268 Milbank, Greenwich, Conn.*
Dooley, Mary F., 1742 E. 68th St., Apt-1, Chicago, Ill.*
Dorey, Hazel B., 300 S. Broadway, Tarrytown, N. Y.*
Dorman, Geneva M., Junior H. S., Selma, Calif.*
Dorsey, Betty, 1008 South Olive, Pittsburg, Kans.
Dorsey, May E., 443 South 11th St., Newcastle, Ind.*
Dorward, E. Marion, W. S. N. S., Machias, Me.*
Doty, E. William, 1404 Woodlawn Blvd., Austin, Tex.
Doty, Mary P., W. S. T. C., Kalamazoo, Mich.*
Doubleday, Wallace, 110 Windemere Rd., Lockport, New York.*
Doughty, Eleanor B., 55 Grace Church, Rye, N. Y.*
Doughty, Wayne, Walker, Mo.*
Douglas, Ernest, 312 W. Westmoreland Ave., Los Angeles, Cal.
Douglass, Carl, 308 East 43rd St., Kansas City, Mo.
Douglass, Dean E., State Department of Education, Jefferson City, Mo.* **
Douglass, Mrs. Loren, 125½ N. Lake, Madera, Calif.*
Douglass, Mrs. May, 220 Elm St., Reno, Nev.*
Douglass, Winfred, 2588 Dexter, Denver, Colo.
Douthis, Edna Owen, 376 N. Ave., 57, Los Angeles, Cal.*
Dowd, Edmond J., 438 Winslow, Buffalo, N. Y.*
Dowdy, Dean, Box 326, Madisonville, Ky.*
Dowdy, Dosha, Belharch College, Jackson, Miss.
Dowling, Claude, 3142 Norwood, Birmingham, Ala.*
Dowling, Ruby H., 601 East Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Downes, Olin
Downey, Lyle, 1840 Anderson, Manhattan, Kans.
Downie, Mildred, 114 S. 20th Ave., E., Duluth, Minn.*
Doyle, Price, Murray S. T. C., Murray, Ky.*
Draa, Charles C., 233 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif.
Drain, John W., Theodore Presser Co., 1712-14 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.*/
Drake, Grant, 82 Dunster Rd., Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.*
Dreiske, Herman O., 28 N. Karlov Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Dresskel, Miles A., 511 W. 113th St., N. Y. C.*
Drew, Phillis N., 1009 Hudson, Peekskill, N. Y.*
Drexler, Dwight, Presser Hall, Bloomington, Ill.
Drexler, Georgia L., Hartland, Mich.*
Drinker, Henry S.
Drinker, Sophie H.
Drum, Mary M., Beall H. S., Frostburg, Md.*
Drury, S. Ethel, 1429 Comstock, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Dryer, Sarah, 1104 S. 23rd St., Birmingham, Ala.*
Dubois, Charlotte E., School Board Office, Shreveport, La.*
Duckwitz, William E., Box 6893, DeLand, Fla.
Dudley, Mrs. Minerva Hall, 1227 E. Ocean, Long Beach, Calif.*
Duerksen, Walter, 230 N. Green, Wichita, Kansas.*
Duffield, Paul Edison, 5129 Knox St., Greentown, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Duggar, Sina, Flat River, Mo.*
Duke, Josephine G., 774 Ave. A., Bayonne, N. J.*
Duke Lucie W., 517½ N. W. 29th St., Oklahoma City, Okla.*
Dull, Ray F., St. James H. S., St. James, Mo.*
Dunbar, Hattie Belle, Augusta, Ky.*
Duncan, Barbara
Duncan, Chester R., Administration Bldg., 631 N. E. Clackamas St., Portland, Ore.*
Duncan, Edith M., 251 Warren, Kenmore, N. Y.*
Duncan, Esther S., Mt. Sterling, Ill.*
Dunham, Franklin C., Nat'l Broadcasting Co., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N. Y.*
Dunham, Harry M., Enfield, Ill.*
Dunham, Mrs. Redman, Caruthersville, Mo.*
Dunkelberger, Gustav, 64 East Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill.
Dunlap, Ina M., Moline H. S., Moline, Ill.*
Dunlap, Mary Elizabeth, State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa.
Dunn, Beulah, 1811 Ninth St., Lubbock, Texas.* **
Dunn, Emma, 2515 W. Third St., Phoenix, Ariz.*
Dunn, Helene, Lena, Ill.*
Dunn, Mary, 1811 9th St., Lubbock, Tex.
Dunn, Myrtle A., 1811 9th St., Lubbock, Tex.
Dunning, Frances S., 128 Lincoln, Newark, N. J.*

Dunsmore, Frank H., 383 Palmer, Yonkers, N. Y.*
Dunton, Madge H., 418 West Laurel St., Independence, Kans.
DuPlan, Claribel, P. O. Box 903, Visalia, Calif.*
Durein, Florence E., 415 Quincy, Topeka, Kans.
Durham, Mrs. Alta S., 2619 Campbell, Kansas City, Mo.
Durheim, Ruth, 810 Dexter Ave., Seattle, Wash.*
Durkee, Abbie Marguerite, 1137 E. River St., El Paso, Texas
Durkee, Mrs. Eleanora R., Martville, N. Y.*
Durning, Katherine, Douglas, Alaska.*
Dustman, Bessie C. S., G. Schirmer, Inc., 3 E. 43rd St., New York City.*
Dvorak, Leo J., 202 W. Mulberry St., Normal, Ill.* **
Dvorak, Ray, University of Wisconsin, Dept. of Music, Madison, Wis.*
Dwight, Mary Ella, 1162 East 75th Street Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Dye, Dorothy, 1250 N. Bonnie Cove Ave., Charter Oak, Calif.*
Dyer, Nelle, 11 W. Sandusky, Fredericktown, Ohio.*
Dyer, Vernon E., Cambridge Springs, Pa.*
Dykema, Peter W., Teachers College, Columbia University, New York, N. Y.*
Eagle, Ellen, 1517 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kans.
Eagler, Granville Kean, 280 N. E. 2nd St., Carrollton, Ohio.*
Eagleson, J. Norman, 9844-92nd Ave., Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.*
Eaken, N. W., 310 East Washington St., Chambersburg, Pa.
Eakes, Mildred, Vernon Manor, Cincinnati, O.
Eames, Henry P., Scripps College, Claremont, Calif.
Earhart, Will, 215 Lothrop St., Pittsburgh, Pa. ***
Earhart, Mrs. Will, 215 Lothrop St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Easley, Joan, 418 S. 44th, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Easley, Mrs. Joseph W., 20 West 36th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Easter, Ethel Margaret, Barnegat, N. J.*
Easter, Gladys, Music Dept., Board of Education, 228 N. La Salle St., Rm. 252, Chicago, Ill.*
Eastman, Harriet T., 17 Western, Brattleboro, Vt.*
Eaton, Gladys E., Desloge, Mo.*
Eberly, J. Wilgus, Flora Macdonald College, Red Springs, N. C.
Eberly, Lawrence E., Indiana S. T. C., Terre Haute, Ind.*
Eberly, Margaret Baker, Red Springs, N. C.
Ebersole, Amos S., 30 Ohio Ave., Tiffin, Ohio.* **
Ebert, Emma, 18 W. McIntyre Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Ecker, James A., 50 Sturges, W. Roxbury, Boston, Mass.*
Eckman, Elsie M., 83 Thornton, Roxbury, Mass.*
Eckman, Helen Louise, Clatskame, Ore.*
Eddy, Elizabeth, P. O. Box 24, Candor, N. Y.*
Eden, Josephine, Educational Music Bureau, 30 E. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.*
Edgar, A. R., Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.* **
Edmonds, Mrs. Lucille B., 400 N. Adams, Festus, Missouri.*
Edmonds, Miriam, Wardlaw Jr. H. S., Columbia, South Carolina.*
Edmonds, Virgil V., 2534 Blair Blvd., Nashville, Tenn.
Edwards, Charles L., 401 Hillcrest, Wilmington, Del.*
Edwards, Helen L., 215 Poplar St., Towanda, Pa.*
Edwards, Loraine, 414 S. Main St., Ada, Ohio.*
Edwards, Mrs. Mary Stuart, 115 Humphrey Ave., San Antonio, Tex.
Edwards, Merle S., 5935 Ridge, St. Louis, Mo.*
Edwards, Ruth C., 735 Condit, Wood River, Ill.*
Edwards, Straucy M., 15 E. Kirby, Detroit, Mich.*
Egbert, Marion, Box 54, South Bend, Wash.*
Ege, E. Grast, J. W. Jenkins Sons Music Co., 1217-23 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.*
Egger, Helen K., 134 W. 45th St., Gary, Ind.*
Egling, Ethel L., 579 Home St., San Jose, Calif.*
Ehlers, Henry J., 1101 Davis Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Ehlert, Karl Jackson, Minnesota State College, Duluth, Minn.
Ehrenwerth, Marie C., 2818 W. 40th Pl., Chicago, Ill.*
Ehrman, Walter, 7 East 66th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Eichler, Opal, 3028 Forest, Kansas City, Mo.
Eidison, Alonzo D., 901 N. Gray, Indianapolis, Ind.*
Einstein, Alfred
Eischen, Gertrude, 5236 Cherry St., Kansas City, Mo.
Eitner, Olga, 1205 Oread, Lawrence, Kans.
Elder, Eunice L., 5 Knoll, Glen Cove., L. I., N. Y.*
Elder, Maurine, Box 105, Willow Hill, Ill.*
Eldridge, Miriam, S. T. C., Fitchburg, Mass.*
Elkam, Henri, Elkan-Vogel Co., 1716 Sansom St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Elkins, James H., Box 172, Clay, Ky.*
Elkus, Albert I., Department of Music, University of California, Berkeley, Cal.
Elledge, Clara E., 1349 College, Bowling Green, Ky.*
Ellerbusch, Carlene, 1607 Spring St., Quincy, Ill.*
Ellert, Laurence B., 6-14-159th St., Whitestone Landing, L. I., N. Y.*
Ellinwood, Leonard
Elliott, Genevieve H., 7141 Penn, Kansas City, Mo.
Elliott, John G., Conservatory of Music, College of Pacific, Stockton, Calif.*
Elliott, Ruth, 12 E. North St., Shawnee, Okla.*
Elliott, Walter R., 1235 Harrison, Noblesville, Ind.*
Ellis, Cecil M., 214 Sherman Ave., Denver, Colo.*
Ellis, Elizabeth D., 104 College Ave., Fayetteville, Ark.
Ellis, Paige C., Box 145, Sprague, Wash.*
Elmore, Frances, 101 Elm Ave., Mt. Vernon, N. Y.*
Elwell, E. Myrtle, 21 Second St., Presque Isle, Me.*
Emerick, Lucille Mae, Guilford College, Guilford College, N. C.
Elwell, John S., 918 Washington, Saginaw, Mich.*
Emerson, R. W., 211 S. Main St., Monticello, Ind.*
Emery, Edward L., 131 N. Grant, Indianapolis, Ind.*
Emlen, Mrs. Julian D., 1809 Walnut St., Murphysboro, Ill.*
Emmons, Anne F., 265 Waterman, Providence, R. I.*
Emslie, Frances E., R. R. No. 8, North Kansas City, Mo.
Enenbach, Francis H., 70 5th Ave., New York, N. Y.
Engberg, Mrs. Mary M., 2739 W. 42nd St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Engel, Carl, care G. Schirmer, Inc., 3 East 43rd St., New York, N. Y. ***
Engel, Frederick E., 1102 Davis, Des Moines, Iowa.*
Engel, Gabriel
Engel, Wm. H., 2130 Harding, Detroit, Mich.*
Engelhardt, Josephine C., 3300 E. 34th Ave., Denver, Colo.*
Engelhart, Eva D., Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.
England, M. Esther, 5420 Colorado Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Engle, Alice N., Chapman, Kans.
Enna, A., Nicolet H. S., West De Pere, Wis.*
Enochs, Louise, Box 1497, Benson, Ariz.*
Ensrud, Paul, 842 Maryland Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.
Epperson, Emery G., 1069 S. 7th E., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eppes, Eva Taylor, S. T. C. Fredericksburg, Va.*
Erb, J. Lawrence, 736 Williams St., New London, Conn.
Erb, John Warren, New York University, New York City
Erbe, Luella, Ripon High School, Ripon, Wis.*
Erickson, Earl J., 535 Page Ave., Mankato, Minn.*
Erickson, Ethel, 51 E. Main St., LeRoy, N. Y.*
Erickson, Forrest M., Offerle, Kans.*
Erlandson, Ray S., Rudolph Wurlitzer, Inc., 121 E. 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio*
Erlandson, Paul A., 73 Farnham St., Cazenovia, N. Y.*
Ernst, Grace, 517 Hill St., Sewickley, Pa.*
Ernst, Karl D., San Francisco State College, San Francisco, Calif.*
Erny, Laurence, Franklin, La.*
Erskine, Alice H., 14 Wastervelt Ave., New Brighton, N. Y.*
Erskine, John
Eschman, Karl, H., Denison Univ., Granville, Ohio.* **
Esping, Mrs. Paul M., 1149 Sandusky Ave., Kansas City, Kans.
Essers, Hendrick, 708-13th St., N. W., Washington, District of Columbia.*
Estabrook, D. Ferne, Central School, Kendall, N. Y.*
Estes, Mrs. H. B., High School, Rolla, Mo.*
Estes, Otis, Crane, Mo.*
Estill, Helen, W., 610 Fisk Ave., Moberly, Mo.
Etling, Fred, Milton, Ore.*
Euren, Signe, 311-10th St., N., Moorhead, Minn.*
Evans, Mrs. Blanche E. K., 180 Woolper Ave., Clifton, Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Evans, Mrs. Edith Collais, Box 26, College, Alaska.*
Evans, Etelka
Evans, Florence F., 248 Hardin, Arkadelphia, Ark.*
Evans, Gertrude, 614 E. Seneca St., Ithaca, N. Y.* **
Evans, Grace E., 500 W. Chelten, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Evans, Harry, 411 S. 11th St., Tacoma, Wash.*
Evans, Mrs. Jean E., 707 N. Madison, Rome, N. Y.*
Evans, Lola B., 129 Elm St., Hudson, O.
Evans, Louise, 1003 Exchange, Emporia, Kans.
Evans, Naomi R., 1111 N. 10th St., Milwaukee, Wis.* **

Evans, Mrs. Ralph, 275 Sagamore, Rochester, N. Y.*
Evans, Robert Y., 3626 Warwick, Kansas City, Mo.
Evans, Thelbert R., 1456 Warren, Lakewood, Ohio.*
Evanson, Jacob A., Board of Public Education, Bellefield Ave. at Forbes, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Everett, Alberta M., 4211 E. Cook, St. Louis, Mo.*
Everitt, Frank C., Jr., 5456 Cornell Ave., Hyde Park Sta., Chicago, Ill.*
Evers, Fritz R., Box 155, Adena, Ohio.*
Evers, Helen F., 429 Michigan, Winfield, Kans.
Everson, Ann, 2209 Strathmoor, Louisville, Ky.*
Evingson, Ethel I., Court House, Fargo, N. Dak.*
Ewing, Adelaide, Barrington H. S., Barington, Ill.*
Ewing, Vena C., State Teachers College, Flagstaff, Ariz.
Fackett, Dorothy M., 2 Harrison Ave., Bd. of Ed. Bldg., Jersey City, N. J.*
Fagan, Anne B., Hotel Michael, Laceyville, Pa.*
Faguy-cote, Arthur F., 1125 College, Fort Worth, Tex.
Fahan, Evelyn, 715 Clark, Ames, Iowa.*
Falkenhainer, N. H., 7119 Dartmouth, University City, Mo.*
Fanning, Helen A., 77 Rutgers St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Fansler, Mildred E., 409 South 16th, Independence, Kans.
Fanton, Grace M., 779 Homewood, Zanesville, Ohio*
Fanus, Jeannette, Seabreeze Sta., Daytona Beach, Fla.*
Fargo, Charles, Fontana Br. H. S., Fontana, Calif.*
Farley, Alan W., 2008 Elizabeth Ave., Kansas City, Kans.
Farley, Catherine W., 2008 Elizabeth Ave., Kansas City, Kans.
Farley, Floella P., Cottey College, Nevada, Mo.*
Farmer, Dan L., High School, Tiltonsville, Ohio.*
Farnsworth, Charles H., Thetford, Vt.*
Farnsworth, Paul R., 1840 Chadbourne, Madison, Wis. ***
Farr, Frank D., Silver Burdett & Co., 221 E. 20th St., Chicago, Ill.*
Farrah, Katherine, Alabama Col., Montevallo, Ala.*
Farrar, Horation M., S. T. C., Springfield, Mo.*
Farrar, John W., 15 Easterby, Santa Cruz, Calif.*
Farrell, Mary M., 4857 Washington Blvd,. Chicago.*
Fasig, Lois L., 50 Locust St., Gallipolis, Ohio.*
Fassett, James H., 166 East 56th St., New York, N. Y.
Faulhaber, Charles M., 416 N. 9th St., Sheboygan, Wisconsin.*
Faxon, Bertha, 135 Church St., Charleston, S. C.*
Feather, Bess, 131 E. Fifth Ave., Gary, Ind.*
Feder, Helen C., 5537 S. Paulina St., Chicago, Ill.*
Fedor, Margaret, 439 Throop St., Dunmore, Pa.*
Feger, Mabel, 411 Adelia St., Springfield, Ill.*
Fehner, Cornelia, 141 N. 41st St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Feil, Hans, 3010 East 6th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Felten, Lucille E., 91 South West 17th, Kays, Kans.
Felten, Otto, Jr., Suite 1938, 11 W. 42nd, N. Y. C.*
Felter, Mae, Kirkham, Iowa.*
Fentress, Alline, Northwest S. T. C., Maryville, Mo.*
Fenwick, G. Roy, 130 Mona Rd., Toronto, 12 Ontario, Canada.*
Ferand, Ernst T.
Fergerson, Esther H., 209 S. Main St., North Syracuse, N. Y.*
Ferguson, Donald N., Department of Music, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. ***
Ferguston, Eleanor D., Manual Arts Senior High School, 4131 S. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Ferguson, James A., Ozark, Mo.*
Ferguson, Marion W., 4224 Campbell, Kansas City, Kans.
Ferguson, Woodrow W., Smithton, Mo.*
Ferris, Mrs. Carl, 629 West 70th Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Ferron, Gertrude, 3718 Spring Garden, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Fetter, Everett S., Ottawa University, Ottawa, Kans.
Fetter, Thelma L., 819 South Glickory, Ottawa, Kans.
Fichthorn, Claude L., 513 East Arrow, Marshall, Mo.
Fiddick, C. J., 6640 Washington, St. Louis, Mo.*
Fidlar, Willfred, 2105 S. 7th St., Terre Haute, Ind.*
Field, Charlotte, 80 Seward Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Fields, Frances F., Greensboro College, Greensboro, North Carolina.*
Fields, Frances F., 1814 Central Ave., Nebraska City, Nebr.
Filbert, Marion L., 307 Plaza Hall, Lansdowne, Pa.*
Files, Ada B., 5500 Chadwick Rd., Kansas City, Kans.
Finch, Bernice H., Trumansburg Rd., Ithaca, N. Y.*
Findlay, Francis, 296 Huntington Ave., Boston, Mass.*
Fine, Alexander U., State Teachers College, Redford, Va.
Finkbinder, Lou, 218 Kutz Ave., York, Pa.*
Finley, Leigh V., Red Bud, Ill.*
Finn, M. Teresa, 5514 Cabanne Ave., St. Louis.*
Finney, Marie Jane, R.C.A. Victor Co., Educational Dept., Camden, N. J.*
Finney, Ross Lee
*Finney, Theodore M.**
Finney, Theodore M., University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Fire, Jean, Ingomar Rd., Ingomar, Pa.*
Fischer, James W., W.C.T.C., Cullowhee, N. C.
Fischer, Joseph A., 119 W. 40th St., New York City*
Fischer, Walter S., Carl Fischer Company, Inc., 62 Cooper Square, New York City.*
Fish, F. F., Charleston, Mo.*
Fish, Stella Elise, 100 Atlas, Akron, Ohio.*
Fishburn, Hummer, Music Dept., State College, Pa.*
Fisher, Mrs. Gertrude Johnston, 355 Molino Ave., Long Beach, Calif.*
Fisher, J. S., 1924 Olive St., Baton Rouge, La.*
Fisher, Marian, Woodstown, N. J.*
Fisher, Nevin W., 1514 Gordon, McPherson, Kans.
Fisher, Pauline, 219 South 8th, Sabetha, Kans.
Fisher, Virginia Gustafson, Western Carolina Teachers College, Cullowhee, N. C.
Fisher, William Arms
Fisher, Winifred Lucia, 3334 J St., Sacramento, Cal.
Fisk, Charles L., Jr., Butler, Mo.*
Fitzgerald, Bernard, Hendrix Col., Conway, Ark.*
Fitzgerald, Grace D., 425 N. Wahsatch Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo.*
Fitzpatrick, Bernadine M., 3925 Federal Blvd., Denver, Colo.*
FitzSimons, H. T., Finchley House, 23 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.*
Fitzwater, Paul E., Sabina, Ohio*
Flagg, Marion, Horace Mann School, 551 W. 120th St., New York City.*
Flaherty, Esther C., 1343 W. Wisconsin, Milwaukee, Wis.*
Flaitz, Gertrude, 126 E. 12th St., Holland, Mich.*
Flammer, Harold, Harold Flammer, Inc., 10 E. 43rd St., New York City.*
Flanagan, Florence A., 1111 N. Tenth, Milwaukee, Wis.*
Flanagan, Irene H., 1401 Campbell, Topeka, Kans.
Fletchner, Gustav G., 426-9 Ave., N., Buhl, Idaho.*
Fleischmann, George, 26 Locust St., Carteret, N. J.*
Fleischman, Dr. H. R., Neulinggasse 11, Vienna, Austria-Germany.
Fleming, Edith M., Everett J. H. S., 16th & Church Sts., San Francisco, Calif.*
Fleming, Gertrude, 89 W. Bethune Ave., Detroit.*
Fletcher, Grant, 618 N. 1st, Springfield, Ill.*
Flueckiger, Samuel L., 1112 Home Ave., North Manchester, Ind.* **
Follansbee, Freda, 426 State St., Conneaut, Ohio.*
Foltz, Donald, 5786 Wayburn, Detroit, Mich.*
Fontaine, Adelaide E., P. S., West Winfield, N. Y.*
Forbes, Kenneth V. A., 21 Leroy, Potsdam, N. Y.*
Ford, Glen J., 215 Bartleson St., Joliet, Ill.*
Ford, Marie H., Lincoln Univ., Jefferson City, Mo.*
Ford, Mildred, Antwerp, N. Y.*
Ford, Nelle H., Cathedral Mansions, Ellsworth Ave., E. E., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Foree, Yvonne L., 8401 Park, Kansas City, Mo.
Fornwald, Clarence, H. S., Pittsburgh, Calif.*
Forrest, Alice, 203 S. 6th, Ponca City, Okla.*
Forsell, Viola M., Drake Court Annex 423, Omaha.*
Forster, Thelma Allen, High School, Malta, Mont.*
Forsythe, Edna, 524 Knickerbocker Place, Kansas City, Mo.
Fortenberry, La Verne, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La.*
Fortner, Clarke, 316 Linden Pl., De Kalb, Ill.*
Foss, Lillian, 779 Lake View Blvd., Seattle, Wash.*
Foster, Albert H., Clayton F. Summy Co., 321 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.* ***
Foster, Bertha M., Univ. of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla.* ***
Foster, Bertha C., 5549 Monroe St., Chicago, Ill.
Foster, Jane F., 56 Garden St., Hartford, Conn.*
Foster, Maxine H., 7438 Jefferson St., Kansas City, Mo.
Foster, Opal B., 7438 Jefferson St., Kansas City, Mo.
Fournier, Mrs. Marie A., 404 Maple St., Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.
Foust, Florence G., 131 Bellefield Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Fowler, Edwina B., K.S.T.C., Pittsburg, Kans.
Fowler, Katharine Swann, 1534 Otis St., N. E., Washington, D. C.*

Fowler, Mary Alice, 69 Westminster Road, Rochester, N. Y.*
Fowler, Robert M., Flat River, Mo.*
Fowler, Wanda, 814 S. Normal, Carbondale, Ill.*
Fox, Charles E., Jr., 93 E. LaCrosse Ave., Lansdowne, Pa.*
Fox, Cleo G., 1504 Academy, Kalamazoo, Mich.*
Fox, Frederick, 2694 Hampshire Rd., Cleveland Heights, Ohio.*
Fox, Harry, Sam Fox Publishing Co., The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio.*
Fox, Lillian Mohr, 2374 E. Orange Grove Ave., Pasadena, Calif.*
Fox, William H., S. T. C., Murray, Ky.*
Foy, Clarence A., Theodore Presser Co., 1712 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Foz, Charles W.
France, Herbert A., Box 45, Storrs, Conn.* **
Francis, J. Henry, 1425 Lee, Charleston, W. Va.*
Francis, John, Shannee Mission H. S., Merriam, Kan.*
Frank, Eleanor, 2211 East 68th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Frank, Gerald M., 301 Elyria Block, Elyria, Ohio.*
Frank, Victor, 2211 East 68th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Franke, H. M., 3229 Jackson, Kansas City, Mo.
Franklin, Josephine, Wells Hall, Murray, Ky.*
Franks, Hetty L., 114 S. 12th St., Sac City, Iowa.*
Fraser, Edna, 808 Pine St., Port Huron, Mich.*
Fraser, John C., 42 Mynderse, Seneca Falls, N. Y.*
Fraser, Loraine E., South Side High School, Rockville Center, N. Y.*
Fravel, Vini, 5047 W. Huron St., Chicago, Ill.*
Frech, Andrew R., 405 Princeton Ave., Burholme, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Frederick, Walter Henry, 901 S. Windsor Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Free, Gertrude, 1107 Congress, Indianapolis, Ind.*
Freeburg, Roy E., San Francisco State College, San Francisco, Calif.*
Freed, Paul W., Box 512, Wildwood, N. J.*
Freeman, Mrs. Elizabeth, North H. S., Ames Ave., Omaha, Nebr.*
Freeman, Thelma, 1926 Lafromboise, Enumclaw, Washington.*
Freeman, Wyatt C., c/o Ada H. S., Ada, Okla.*
French, Mary Annette, Box 98, Knoxville, Pa.*
French, Ralph, Lucasville, Ohio.*
Freund, Helen D., 6637 Son Bonita, Clayton, Mo.*
Fricke, Frances B., 441 Anthwyn Rd., Narberth, Pa.*
Fricker, Arthur E., 2100 S. 85th St., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Friedley, Mrs. Esther, South Side Jr. H. S., Sheboygan, Wis.*
Frieswyk, Siebolt H., 315 Fourth Ave., N. Y. C.*
Frieswyk, S. W.
Frieze, Martha Whittenore, Warsaw, Mo.
Fristad, Millie J., S. T. C., Minot, N. D.*
Froh, Charles W., Box 123, Stephenville, Texas.*
Froman, Gilbert E., 717 Rock St., Hannibal, Mo.*
Fromme, Frances, 30 Jefferson Ave., Columbus, Ohio.*
Frösch, Bessie F., The Ruskin, Apt. 420, Ruskin Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Frossard, Clara G., 911 Summit Ave., Seattle, Wash.*
Fryer, Irene, 325 Post St., Petaluma, Calif.
Fulghum, Ralph T., 416 Elm St., Vermillion, S. D.*
Fuller, Dorothy, Killbuck, Ohio.*
Fullerton, Charles A., 2321 Franklin, Cedar Falls, Ia.*
Funchess, Lloyd V., State Dept. of Education, Capitol Bldg., Baton Rouge, La.*
Funk, Henry D., Box 432, Slidell, La.*
Fussell, R. C., 812 N. State St., Tacoma, Wash.*
Gabel, Ruth O., New Haven S. T. C., 2 Howe St., New Haven, Conn.*
Gable, Paul, 4616-15th St., N. W., Washington, District of Columbia.*
Gaertner, Henry Charles, 1118 Connie Brae, River Forest, Ill.
Gafney, Ray E., 1701 E. Capitol Dr., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Gaines, G. Gordon, 500 West 122nd St., New York, N. Y.
Gaiser, Norma E., 211 Independence, Waterloo, Ia.
Galbraith, Mary H. T., Univ. H. S., 11800 Texas Ave., West Los Angeles, Calif.*
Galinsky, Sylvia, 817 W. 9th St., Erie, Pa.*
Gall, Cornelius D., 39 Broad St., Hamilton, N. Y.*
Gallery, Mrs. Mary Scott, 3210 Monroe St., Wilmington, Del.*
Gallup, Alice, 3218 Linwood Blvd., Kansas City, Missouri.* **
Gambach, Lela L., Ky. Female Orphans School, Midway, Ky.*
Gamble, Eugene E., 228 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.*
Gannon, Jeane C., 281 Elm Ave., Glendale, Mo.*
Gannon, Mrs. Rose L., 5006 Washington, Chicago.*
Gantt, S. Grace, Technical H. S., 4351 Broadway, Oakland, Calif.*
Ganz, Rudolph, Chicago Musical College, 64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill.
Ganzenhuber, Gertrude, 2024 C St., Bakersfield, California.*
Garbett, Arthur S., 111 Sutter St., San Francisco.*
Garbett, Edward W., 914 Fawcett, McKeesport, Pa.*
Gard, Mrs. Spencer A., 5740 Cherry, Kansas City, Mo.
Gardiner, Helen L., 2112 Garnet St., Pacific Beach, San Diego, Calif.*
Gardner, Carl E., 51 Robin Hood Rd., Arlington, Massachusetts.*
Gardner, Clara E., 19 E. 38th St., Bayonne, N. J.*
Gardner, Georgia, 6559 Harvard Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Gardner, Samuel, 508 West 112th St., New York, N. Y.
Garland, Agnes G., 40 Perry St., Barre, Vt.*
Garlinghouse, Burton, 892 Delia Ave., Akron, O.
Garnett, Belva L., 429 East 72nd St., Kansas City, Mo.
Garnett, M., State Normal School, Oswego, N. Y.*
Garrett, Clyde J., N.T.A.C., Arlington, Texas.*
Garrison, Frances, R. F. D. 3, Maysville, Ky.*
Gartlan, George H., 142 Rugby Rd., Brooklyn, New York.*
Garvey, Agnes G., 24 Washburn, Worcester, Mass.*
Garvin, Helen M., Preston Pl., Arcata, Calif.*
Gaskill, Laura D., Lake Valhalla, Morris Co., Montville, N. J.*
Gaston, E. Thayer, 1042 Ohio, Lawrence, Kans.* **
Gately, Gertrude I., 59 Main St., W., Dover-Foxcroft, Me.*
Gates, Philip Paul, 634 W. Boone, Piqua, Ohio.*
Gatewood, E. J., 2309 Dixie Pl., Nashville, Tenn.*
Gatti, Guido Maria
Gatwood, Elden J., Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.
Gatton, Mrs. Harper, 341 S. Seminary, Madisonville, Ky.*
Gatz, Felix Maria
Gauch, Edna C., 50 Copperfield Rd., Worcester, Massachusetts.*
Gaugh, William R., 930 W. 3rd St., Maryville, Mo.*
Gaumond, Harry, 70 W. Boylston, Worcester, Mass.*
Gauntlett, Basil, Stephens College, Columbia, Mo.
Gaut, Elizabeth Jane, 1121 Mitchell, Clovis, N. M.*
Gaver, Ella F., 1313 Garfield Ave., Springfield, O.*
Gavert, Dagmar, Iowa Wesleyan Col., Mt. Pleasant, Iowa.*
Gavin, Edward T., 1114 Fairview Dr., Columbia, South Carolina.*
Gaylord, Phoebe L., 7 Hamilton, Hamilton, N. Y.*
Geaham, Mrs. Clara Lewis, 75th & Belinder Rd. R. D., Kansas City, Mo.
Gebhart, David R., Peabody Col., Nashville, Tenn.*
Gecks, M. C., Coronado Hotel, St. Louis, Mo.*
Gee, Russell L., Glenville H. S., Cleveland, Ohio*
Gehrkens, Karl W., Oberlin Col., Oberlin, Ohio.* **
Geiger, Martha E., 504 Walnut, Apt. B-3, Reading, Pennsylvania.*
Geist, Melvin H., 1755 Saginaw, Salem, Ore.
Geist, Miriam E., 473 Flamingo St., Roxborough, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Gelber, M. L., Sequoia Union H. S., Redwood City, California.*
Geltch, Waldemar, University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kans.
George, Anne, 3318 Delaware St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Gerber, Esther E., 3540 Glynn Dr., Toledo, Ohio.*
Gerstbauer, Mary, 4104 Grand Blvd., East Chicago, Indiana.*
Gesner, Maude, Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md.
Gest, Elizabeth, 5979 Drexel Rd., Philadelphia, Pa.* **
Giampaolo, Mrs. Ethel B., 1606-2nd, Los Angeles.*
Gibbons, Sadie Claire, 607 Miller, De Soto, Mo.*
Gibet, Sarah H., 1280 Teller Ave., Bronx, N. Y. C.*
Gibson, Henry, 2 Clinton, Tiffin, O.
Gibson, Lee, 114 North Husband St., Stillwater, Okla.
Gibson, Mabel Lita, 1841 E. 4th St., Apt. 3, Long Beach, Calif.*
Gibson, Robert, Unionville, Mo.
Gicks, John J., 213 E. Ayers, Edmond, Okla.*
Giddings, Thaddeus P., 305 City Hall, Minneapolis, Minn.*
Giersch, Herman C., 1109 W. Eighth St., Wilmington, Del.*
Gifford, Jennie L., 243 N. 11th St., Newark, N. J.*
Gilbert, Richard, 28 Kendrick, Hamilton, N. Y.*
Gilday, Edward F., Jr., 195 Union Ave., Framingham, Mass.*
Gildersleeve, Glenn, State Dept. of Pub. Instruction, Central Law Bldg., Dover, Del.*
Giles, Thomas, 1256 East South Temple, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Gilfillan, J. Alex, 679 Shady Dr., E., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Gilkeson, Mrs. Nobel, 6214 East 16th, Kansas City, Mo.
Gill, Ethan M., Osage City, Kan.*
Gillespie, Mary E., Lebanon Valley Col., Annville, Pennsylvania.*
Gillett, Viola, 1418 Dewey Ave., Bartlesville, Okla.*
Gillette, Alta 4805½ South 24th St., Omaha, Nebr.
Gilley, Donald C., Wesley M. E. Church, Worcester, Massachusetts.*
Gilliland, Dale V., Ohio State Univ., Columbus, O.*
Gillman, Ralph, Smithville, Ohio.*
Gilmore, L. Leroy, 8620 Chestnut, South Gate, Calif.*
Gingrich, Irving, 646 Belden Ave., Chicago, Ill.* **
Giunta, Pat, 1108 East 4th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Glant, Mary H., 442 Sunbury St., Minersville, Pa.*
Gleason, Alice, Hubbardston, Mass.*
Gleason, Catherine C., 4110 Dodge, Omaha, Nebr.
Gleason, Edward R., Nazareth Hall, St. Paul, Minn.*
Gleason, Harold, Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. ***
Glenn, Jane, 639 Westfield Ave., Westfield, N. J.*
Glenn, Louise, 505 S. Chilton Ave., Taylor, Texas.*
Glenn, Mabelle, 228 Library Bldg., Kansas City, Missouri.* **
Glockzin, Albert A., 316 W. Prospect Ave., Appleton, Wis.*
Glomski, Hyacinth, 5251 George St., Chicago, Ill.*
Glover, Leonard W., Pinckneyville Comm. H. S., Pinckneyville, Ill.*
Glover, Nellie L., 203 E. Mill, Akron, Ohio.*
Gloyne, Howard F., 1310 North 20th, Kansas City, Mo.
Glynn, Maude E., 1330 N. Prospect, Milwaukee, Wis.*
Goddard, Fay, 732 Dennett, Fresno, Calif.*
Goette, Clara A., 193 Seminary St., Berea, Ohio.*
Goettel, Julia C., 212 Maplehurst, Syracuse, N. Y.*
Goetz, Esther, 6037 Dorchester Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Goetz, Hugo, 1432 S. Baltimore, Tulsa, Okla.*
Goheen, Mrs. Margaret R., Lincoln H. S., Tacoma, Washington.*
Goldenberg, Morris D., 1493 Virginia Park, Detroit, Mich.*
Goldman, Edwin Franko, 194 Riverside Dr., N. Y. C.*
Goldthwaite, George T., 142 State St., Berlin, N. H.*
Goll, Marguerite M., 3523 N. 16th, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Goodbrod, Rupert M., Midland College, Freemont, Nebr.
Goodfellow, Helen, 750 Valley Rd., Upper Montclair, N. J.*
Goodhart, Luther W., 353 Park, Rutherford, N. J.*
Goodner, Josephine R., 1100 N. E. 4th, Camas, Washington.*
Goodrich, Wallace, New England Conservatory of Music, 290 Huntington Ave., Boston, Mass.
Goodsell, Evelyn, Cheney, Wash.*
Goodwin, Frank B., 214 Diamond S. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Goodwin, Melvin Biggs, 18 E. High, Clayton, N. J.*
Googooian, Martha, Route 3, Box 442, Fresno, Calif.*
Goranson, Arthur R., 120 Prospect, Jamestown, N. Y.*
Goranson, Ebba H., 5 Lincoln St., Jamestown, N. Y.*
Goranson, R. F., Univ. of Idaho, S. B., Pocatello, Idaho.*
Gordon, Anna B., 473 Laclede, Memphis, Tenn.*
Gordon, Edgar B., 2206 Van Hise, Madison, Wis.*
Gordon, Grace, 3725 Ridge Ave., Sioux City, Iowa.*
Gordon, Griffith L., Vienna, Mo.*
Gordon, Philip, South Side H. S., Newark, N. J.*
Gordon, Robert B., College of the Pacific, Stockton, California.*
Gorg, Raymond A., 504 Washington, Union, Mo.*
Gorton, Mary E., 1817 Emmett, Omaha, Nebr.*
Gotfredson, Rosalie, 2118 Eastlake, Los Angeles.*
Gottschalk, John, High School, Delta, Ohio.*
Gottschalk, John, 402 S. Winter, Adrian, Mich.*
Gottshall, J. Mervin, Wallingford, Pa.*
Gould, Herbert, 3314 University, Des Moines, Iowa.*
Gould, Leslie E., 1626 Grove, Topeka, Kans.*
Gould, Wm. H., 450 Hill, Grand Junction, Colo.*
Gowdy, Wm. L., Leon Public Schools, Leon, Iowa.*
Grace, Marguerite, 4401 Forest Pk., St. Louis, Mo.*
Grady, Elizabeth, 6723 Constance Ave., Chicago.*
Grady, Fred, 40 Arnodale Ave., Holyoke, Mass.*
Grady, Mrs. Marie B., 6542 S. Maplewood, Chicago.*
Graef, Laura Wieland, 1619 Champlost, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Graf, Max
Graham, Ben G., 102 S. W. Fourth St., Richmond, Ind.*
Graham, Charles, Mt. Shasta Union High School, Mt. Shasta, Calif.*
Graham, Esther M., 609 South 22nd St., Fort Smith, Ark.
Graham, Marion B., 1811 Sycamore, Bethlehem, Pa.*
Graham, Mary Forrester, Alasadero, Calif.
Graham, Mrs. R. W., 1301 West 3rd St., Topeka, Kans.
Graham, Will Francis, Alasadero, Cal.
Grainger, Percy
Graichen, Fred H., 657 Sydney, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Gralapp, Arnold L., 1508 Second, La Grande, Oregon.*
Granger, Mary, S. N., S., Lewiston, Idaho.*
Grant, Edward J., 186 Lexington Street, Providence, R. I.*
Grant, Louise L., Boston Music Co., 116 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.*
Grant, Richard W., 530 W. Fairmount Ave., State College, Pa.*
Grant, Richard W., Jr., Arnold Ave., Port Allegheny, Pa.*
Granville, Charles Norman, 701 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Granzow, Henry W., 133 S. Sixth, Maywood, Ill.*
Grapengeter, Harry, 256 S. Webster Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif.*
Grauel, R. L., 820 Vassar, Fresno, Calif.*
Graves, Helen Louise, 5330 Pershing St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Gray, Arlene B., 444 11th St., Niagara Falls, N. Y.*
Gray, Donald H., 150 E. 48th St., New York City, N. Y.*
Gray, Virgie, Reece, Kansas.*
Green, Ethel M., 909 University, Muncie, Ind.*
Green, Fredericka, 158 The Terrace, Redlands, Calif.*
Green, Harold F., 701 S. Jesse, Christopher, Ill.*
Green, J. E., 2826 San Gabriel St., Austin, Texas.*
Green, Lucie Fox, 1416 Tosso, Palo Alto, Calif.*
Green, Merwyn A., Box 226, Winner, S. Dak.*
Green, Spencer, 917½ North East St., Bloomington, Ill.
Green, Mrs. Spencer, 917½ North East St., Bloomington, Ill.
Greenburgh, Maurice Mark, 74 Freeman, Stoughton, Mass.*
Greene, Mrs. Carlotta, 177 Sunset, Brighton, N. Y.*
Greene, Ruth E., 2844 Lawton, St. Louis, Mo.*
Greenhill, Sigrid A., 3421 University, Des Moines, Iowa.*
Greenlee, Dillon, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.
Greenlee, Harold M., 709 Elm, Shenandoah, Iowa.* **
Greenwald, Pearl N., 2020 Kings Hwy., Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Greer, Helen, 1785 Agnes, Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Gregory, Arthur E., New Kensington High School, New Kensington, Pa.*
Gregus, George J., 623 Rosemore Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Greim, Helen A., 105 6th St., South, St. Cloud, Minn.
Greiner, Nettie, 5834 Cabanne Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Gremelspacher, Joseph A., 111 S. Grant Ave., Crawfordsville, Ind.*
Grenninger, Louise C., 89 Hough St., Bridgeport, Conn.*
Grentzner, Rose Marie, 2311 Arlington, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Griebenow, Gordon H., Central H. S., Red Wing, Minn.*
Griebenow, H. E., 3825-11th Ave., S. Minneapolis, Minn.*
Griffin, Madge B., Lucina Hall, Muncie, Ind.*
Griffith, Blanche Noble, Park College, Parkville, Mo.
Griffith, Charles, Dept. of Fine Arts, Park College, Parkville, Mo.* **
Griffith, Charles E., Silver Burdett Co., 45 E. 17th St., New York, N. Y.*
Griffith, Chauncey L., 330 Webster Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Griffith, Mrs. Elizabeth, 1211 S. Elgin, Tulsa, Okla.*
Griffith, Jenet, 2653 Bellaire St., Denver, Colo.*
Griffith, Margaret M., 539 Pennsylvania, Gary, Ind.*
Griffith, Nini G., 1118 Brush Creek Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Griffiths, Ruth, 34 High, Farmington, Me.*
Griffiths, Samuel, Harvard St., Hyannis, Mass.*
Griggs, Hazel, 5260 Sycamore Ave., New York, N. Y.
Grim, Roberta A., 140 S. 13th St., Allentown, Pa.*
Grimes, Clarence A., Hamden High School, Dixwell Ave., Hamden, Connecticut.*
Grimler, Janet, 16 Kenton Ave., Pitman, N. J.*
Grimm, Walter, Winona S. T. C., Winona, Minn.*
Grimsley, Mrs. Olive M., 503 W. Wabash, Bluffton, Ind.*
Grimwood, Omo, 1376 B. St., Hayward, Calif.*
Grinnell, Lloyd G., 1515 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.
Griswold, Leona, 2421 Washington, Parsons, Kans.*

Groffman, Alice, 941 Church St., Beloit, Wisc.*
Grolimund, Joe, Selmer Bldg., Elkhart, Ind.*
Groom, Lester W., 732 North Drake Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Grosbane, Benjamin, Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Gross, Frances Louise, 1235 Glenn, Columbus, Ohio.*
Grossmon, F. Karl, 1570 Mars Ave., Lakewood, O.
Grossman, Hilda R., 1425 Laramie, Manhattan, Kans.
Grout, Donald J.
Grove, Helene, 944 Grand Ave., Grand Junction, Colo.
Grove, Rozy, Baylor University, Waco, Tex.
Grow, Ruby Kay, Altamount, Kans.
Gukenberger, Benjamin, 71 Hastings St., West Roxbury, Mass.
Guengerich, Marie A., 512 North Peal St., Joplin, Mo.
Guenther, L. W., 1621 A Lucas Hunt Rd., St. Louis, Mo.*
Guernsey, Mrs. Evelyn Stone, 935 S. Stanley Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Guild, Leslie C., 1626 Grove, Topeka, Kans.
Guile, Mabel A., 357 Fifth, New Rochelle, New York.*
Guilliams, Ruby L., 621 Washington Ave., South Bend, Ind.*
Guion, David Wendell
Gunderson, Helen L., Louisiana State University Music School, University, La.
Gundlach, Mrs. Agnes Franz, John Pitman School, Kirkwood, Mo.*
Gunn, Elizabeth L., 3745 Lindell, St. Louis, Mo.*
Gunnis, Lillian, 1444 N. Humboldt Ave., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.*
Gunther, Edith M., Elvins, Mo.*
Gunther, Edwin L., 6 East 45th St., New York, N. Y.
Gunzbourg, Mark, 449 West Ferry, Detroit, Mich.
Gustafson, Astrid, 1316 S. 5th, Rockford, Ill.*
Gustafson, Dagny B., East 15th and Denver, Kansas City, Mo.
Gustat, P. J., 78 S. Lakeview Dr., Sebring, Ill.*
Gustaveson, Jacqueline, 5532 Woodland, Kansas City, Mo.
Guthrie, Mrs. Helen Z., 911 Park Ave., Pekin, Ill.*
Guthrie, Leah N., 4223 Enright Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Guthrie, Mildred Carmen, 2401 Tracy, Kansas City, Mo.
Guy, Ruth C., 426 N. Oak St., Danville, Ill.*
Haake, Charles J., 500 Kimball Hall, Chicago, Ill.* **
Haake, Mrs. Gail Martin, American Conservatory of Music, 300 S. Wabash, Chicago, Ill.* **
Haberly, Ruth E., 2544 O St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Hackel, Mrs. Doris K., Kennard School, 5031 Potomac, St. Louis, Mo.*
Haderer, Walter, 119 E. Davenport, Iowa City, Iowa. *
Hadley, Lois T., 929 S. Garvin, Evansville, Ind.*
Haenle, Frank C., 327 N. Lawrence, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Hagan, Dorothy V.
Hagar, Jessie May, 69 N. 9th St., Newark, N. J.*
Hagen, Hugo, 4519 A. S. Kings Hwy., St. Louis, Mo.*
Hager, Henry, 51 Harman St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Hague, Eleanor
Hahn, Alvin J., Mt. Pulaski, Ill. *
Hahnel, Eugene M., 6245 Itaska St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Hahnel, Nellie B., 6245 Itaska St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Hahnel, Robert, 4271 A. Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Haines, Clark J., Fairmont H. S., Dayton, Ohio.*
Haines, Edmund, 343 Alexander St., Rochester, N. Y.
Haines, Evangeline, 910 Lily St., Leesburg, Fla.*
Haines, Mrs. Joyce, 343 Alexander St., Rochester, N. Y.
Haines, Lloyd M., 352 Greenwood, Akron, Ohio.*
Hall, Mrs. Ethel S., 94 Congress St., St. Albans, Vt.*
Hall, Helen M., 2017 Ravenna Blvd., Seattle, Wash.*
Hall, Helen S., Box 665, Henrietta, Mo.*
Hall, Ina W., 45 Hall St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Hall, Lottie, 906 S. Lake St., Carbondale, Ill.*
Hall, Norman H., 434 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Hall, Mrs. Regina G., Hotel Lucerne, Kansas City, Mo.
Hall, Mrs. W. H., 11 Beverly Ave., Durham, N. C.*
Halloran, Helen, Box 962, Anaconda, Mont.*
Halloway, Birdie H., Woman's College Univ. of North Carolina, Greensboro, N. C.*
Halstead, E. E., 710 Fourth Ave., California, Pa.*
Halvorson, H. M., c/o Ginn & Co., 2301 Prairie Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Ham, Charles E., 550 Florence Ave., Box 51, Downey, Calif.*
Ham, Erna Urland, 222 W. Cecil, Springfield, Ohio.*
Hamilton, Beth, 5104 Oakman, Dearborn, Michigan.*
Hamilton, Carrie E., 2014 Braddock Ave., Swissvale, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Hamilton, Edward H., 1311 Nickerson St., Knoxville, Tenn.*
Hamilton, G. May, Hamilton School of Music, 7038-40 W. Garrett Rd., Upper Darby, Pa.
Hamilton, Mrs. Hazel, P. O. Box 264, Linesville, Pa.*
Hamilton, Irwin C., 424 North E. St., Hamilton, Ohio.*
Hamilton, Mrs. Lois B., 322 Mulberry, Madison, Kansas.*
Hamilton, Paul E., Oaklandon, Ind.*
Hamlet, Mrs. Selma B., Marret Pl., Box 82, Rte. 2, Louisville, Ky.*
Hammack, Julia D., Sturgis, Sturgis, Ky.*
Hammill, Lucille M., 5504 Cates, St. Louis, Mo.*
Hammitt, Lillian E., 230 Wilson, Uniontown, Pa.*
Hammon, Mildred B., 607 West Fort Scott, Butler, Mo.
Hammond, Francis E., 251 Tulane Road, Columbus, Ohio.*
Hammond, John F., Jr., 4060 N. Keystone, Chicago, Ill.*
Hamper, H. E., 402 Hickory St., Anaconda, Mont.*
Hanauska, Marie, 90 E. Second, Fond du Lac, Wis.*
Handzlik, Leon L., 2303 S. E. 58th St., Portland, Ore.*
Hanel, Mrs. W. S., Woodrow Wilson Jr., High School, Sioux City, Iowa.*
Haneschka, Frank J., 2211 Benicia Ave., West Los Angeles, Calif.*
Hankins, William V., Mt. Vernon, Mo.*
Hann, Carl W., 44 La Salle, Kenmore, N. Y.*
Hanna, Belle A., 2854 Perrysville Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Hanna, Harriet, 326 Rochelle St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Hannah, Wallace, Bremerton H. S., Bremerton, Wash.*
Hannas, Ruth
Hanneman, F. H., 808 E. Main, Mt. Horeb, Wisc.*
Hannen, Helen M., 10724 Carnegie, Cleveland, Ohio.*
Hannon, Sarah Allen, 2115 P. St., N. W. Washington, D. C.*
Hannum, Harold Byron, Emanuel Missionary College, Barrien Springs, Mich.
Hanscom, Howard H., Wayne S. T. C., Wayne, Nebr.*
Hansen, Anna C., Public H. S., Philipsburg, Mont.*
Hansen, Louis A., 1206 17th Ave., South Nashville, Tenn.
Hansen, Paul, Washburn College, Topeka, Kans.
Hansen, Mrs. Paul, Washburn College, Topeka, Kans.
Hanson, Alice M., 29 E. Wilson St., Madison, Wisc.*
Hanson, Ethel L., 848 6th St., Charleston, Ill.*
Hanson, Florence M., 1020 N. Austin, Oak Park, Ill.*
Hanson, Frank, 4935 Queen Mary Rd., Apt. 20, Montreal, Que., Canada.*
Hanson, Glenn L., 2382 Harrison, Ogden, Utah*
Hanson, Howard, Dir. Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y.* ** ***
Hanson, Lily E., c/o Anaheim Union H. S., Anaheim, Cal.*
Hanson, Phoebe, 1154 Ward Ave., Bronx, New York, N. Y.*
Hanson, Phyllis L., Studio 337, Day Building, Worcester, Mass.*
Hanson, W. E., Braham, Minn.*
Harap, Louis
Harble, Mary Jane, Junction City, Ohio.*
Harcum, Eunice Lee, 3 Thomas, Batavia, N. Y.*
Harden, John, 737 S. Hill St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Hardesty, Mrs. Mayo, Weston, Mo.
Hardin, Mrs. Francis Pool, 1315 S. Delaware Ave., W. Tulsa, Okla.*
Harding, Betty, Winthrop Hotel, Tacoma, Wash.*
Harding, Mrs. Celia R. E., 7810 York Rd., Apt. 2, Elkins Park, Pa.*
Harding, Marion H., Box 416, New Paltz, N. Y.*
Hardin, Bristow, 413 Boissevain Ave., Norfolk, Va.
Hardin, Milton B., Theodore Presser Company, Philadelphia, Pa.
Harding, Paul E., 49 Laurel Ave., Washington, Pa.*
Hares, Ernest, Board of Education, 911 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Hargrave, Philbert E., 13102 Stoepel, Detroit, Mich.*
Harkins, Mrs. Edith, 3306 Eastside Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Harlan, Grace, 222 South Ward St., Ottumwa, Ia.
Harley, Alexander M., Maine Twp., H. S., Des Plaines, Ill.*
Harley, Bertha Roberts, 1337 Forest Glen Dr., Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.*
Harlor, Beatrice M., 907 E. Mahnoy Ave., Mahnoy City, Pa.*
Harlow, Mrs. Ruth, P. O. Box 40, Midway City, Calif.*
Harman, Effie, 228 S. St. Joseph, South Bend, Ind.*
Harmon J. Bertram, Louisville Male High School, Louisville, Ky.*
Harms, David L., 366 Franklin St., Napa, Calif.*
Harp, E. L., Box 301, Carlsbad, N. Mex.*
Harp, Marjorie, 808 Lakeshore, Baton Rouge, La.*
Harper, Henrietta, 118 S. Erie St., Mayville, N. Y.*
Harper, James C., 103 Norwood, Lenoir, N. Car.*
Harper, R. Pauline, Box 118, Lebanon, Ill.*

Harre, Esther Roepe, 5319 Woodland, Kansas City, Mo.
Harreld, Kemper, Atlanta University, Atlanta, Ga.
Harrell, Arthur G., Kearney Public Schools, Kearney, Neb.*
Harrington, Louise, Lathrop, Mo.
Harris, Marguerite, 2024 Ripley, Davenport, Ia.*
Harris, Russell G., 1024 Speight, Waco, Tex.
Harris, S. D., Mgr., Carl Fischer. Inc., 306 S. Wabash, Chicago, Ill.*
Harrison, Daniel, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Kan.
Harshbarger, Mrs. W. A., 1401 College Ave., Topeka, Kans.
Harshman, Mrs. Agnes, 3721 Densmore, Seattle, Wash.*
Hart, Edward, 220 Spruce Ave., Kingston, Pa.*
Hart, Freda M., 2240 Nowland, Indianapolis, Ind.*
Hart, Jeanette, 3834 Prospect, Kansas City, Mo.
Hart, Lloyd T., 14 S. Walnut, West Chester, Pa.*
Hart, Mary Florence, No. 6 Unaka Apts., Johnson City, Tenn.*
Hart, Mildred M., Depot St., Ludlow, Vt.*
Hart, Ruby C., 204 North Water, Butler, Mo.
Hartley, Evaline, 1029 Linwood, Kansas City, Mo.
Hartman, Ruth J., Music Dept., K.S.C., Manhattan, Kans.* **
Hartmann, Helen E., 191 W. 3rd St., Mansfield, Ohio.*
Hartner, Harlan, 2511 West 43rd, Kansas City, Mo.
Hartshorn, W. C., 1817 W. 42nd St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Hartwig, Mrs. Fred W., Box 44, Humboldt, Kansas.*
Hartzell, Ralph E., 244 Aberdeen Ave., Dayton, Ohio.*
Harvin, Ruth, 117 Wickes St., San Antonio, Tex.
Harwood, Lucille, Ripley High School, Ripley, N. Y.*
Hasemeier, Margaret, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Hasenauer, Ray J., 168 Augustine, Rochester, N. Y.*
Haskell, Duane H., 33 Rundel Park, Rochester, N. Y.*
Hasselmans, Louis
Haste, Maurice E., Whitehaven High School, Whitehaven, Tenn.*
Hastie, William A., 1942 Hewitt Ave., Cincinnati, O.
Haswell, L. Graham, 4529 Madison, Kansas City.* **
Hatch, Edith, 716 Locust St., Anaconda, Mont.
Hathaway, Eva, 711 E. 6th St., Duluth, Minn.*
Hathaway, Lisbeth, 346 State St., Conneaut, O.
Hattstaedt, John, American Conservatory, Chicago, Ill.*
Hauck, Mary Bush, 221 Emerald, Hattisburg, Pa.*
Hauenstein, Sidney, 107 Campus Drive, Bluffton, Ohio.*
Haupt, David M., Apt. B 512-Parkwood Manor, Upper Darby, Pa.*
Haury, Elsa M., Friends University, Wichita, Kans.
Hausen, Margaret, 828 N. Main St., Chariton, Iowa.*
Havelson, H. B., Arizona S. T. C., Tempe, Ariz.*
Haven, Dale, Ginn & Co., 199 E. Gay St., Columbus, Ohio.*
Havens, Mrs. Raymond, 1228 West 62nd St., Kansas City, Mo.
Haviland, Earl W., 1204 Howard, Pottsville, Pa.*
Havolic, A. J., 3151 Beaver Ave., Pleasant Ridge Sts., Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Hawaiian Teachers, Ltd., 224 West 72nd St., New York, N. Y.
Hawkins, Ada, 1136 Morningside Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Hawkinson, Frances, 829 N. Vista St., Hollywood, Calif.*
Hawkinson, Marguerite, Teachers College, Ada, Okla.*
Hayden, Charles A., 713 West Mills, Creston, Ia.
Hayden, Chester H., 179 McKingley, Dinuba, Calif.*
Hayden, Mrs. Mary S., 303 Bradford, Pueblo, Colo.*
Hayden, Villa E., Dept. of Education, State House, Augusta, Me.*
Haydon, Glen, Univ. of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. Car.* ** ***
Hayes, Ella M., 130 34th St., Newport News, Va.*
Hayes, George L., 815 Alton-Edwardsville Rd., Wood River, Ill.*
Hayes, Kenneth, 629 N. Cheyenne, Tulsa, Okla.*
Hayes, Mrs. R. F., Abingdon Rd., Bristol, Va.*
Hays, Ernest H., Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va.*
Hays, Mrs. Harold, 815 West 44th, Kansas City, Mo.
Hays, Margaret, 1332 Tennessee, Lawrence, Kans.
Haywood, Charles S., Box 24, Los Gatos, Calif.*
Haywood, Frederick H., 1928 Franklin Circle, Hollywood, Calif.*
Hazelman, Herbert R., Cavalier Club, Greensboro, N. Car.*
Hazen, George C., 166 W. Crawford Ave., Connellsville, Pa.*
Hazen, Margaret S., 1153 S. Grenshaw, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Hazlette, Mrs. Lucille Dale, Hotel Continental, Kansas City, Mo.
Head, Myrtle, 11432 Mayfield Rd., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Head, Robert L., 3523 Wyandotte, Kansas City, Mo.
Headley, H. Klyne, Board of Education, Palo Alto, Calif.*
Heagy, Clarence H., 301 Hall of Records, Fresno, Calif.*
Healey, Kate L., 12 Schubert St., Binghamton, N. Y.*
Heath, Hilda, 13 Park Place, Holley, N. Y.*
Heaton, Carrie F., Shaw Jr. H. S., 54th & Warrington Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Heaton, Louise, 718 North 17th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Heaton, Ruth, 110 N. Fourth St., Niles, Mich.*
Heaton, Thelma J., Sparling Hotel, Gt. Falls, Mont.*
Hebert, Henry O., 413 Fulton St., Keokuk, Iowa.*
Heck, Jennie B., 418 Rice St., St. Paul Minn.*
Heck, Mathilda A., 418 Rice St., St. Paul Minn.*
Heckman, Mrs. Margaret G., Holmes Park, Mo.
Hedges, Genevieve, 1631 16th Ave., Seattle, Wash.*
Heeter, Eugene F., Holland High School, 15th at River Holland, Mich.
Heiges, Kenneth, 417 S. Birch St., Santa Ana, Calif.*
Heim, Fritz, 520 W. 12th St, New York, N. Y. *
Hein, Carl, New York College of Music, 114 and 116 East 85th St., New York, N. Y.
Heinemann, Marie M., 701 S. High St., West Chester, Pa.*
Heinz, Alba Cherrington, 2117 11th Ave., Huntington, W. Va.*
Heinz, Charles J., Woods Music Co., 1421 Third Ave., Seattle, Wash.*
Heizer, Mrs. Frederick, 1215 Douglas St., Sioux City, Ia.
Held, Lillie B., 1453 Wightman St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Helm, Everett B.
Helmar, Roger, 1103 Union St., Ashland, Ohio.*
Helstrom, Einar, 1112 W. 6th St., Ashtabula, Ohio.*
Hembling, Violette A., 732 East Gregory Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Hemmer, Mrs. Grace M., Maple Lane, Seymour, Ind.*
Hemmeter, Helen M., 1301 Concordia Ct., Springfield, Illinois.*
Henderson, Mrs. Effie W., 1315 Clifford St., Ft. Myers, Fla.*
Henderson, Elizabeth L., 603 Hill Ave., Wilkinsburg, Pa.*
Henderson, J. Chandler, 815 McKinley Ave., Fresno, Calif.*
Henderson, Stanley Lee, 4422 Enright St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Hendrich, Ida M., 221 Locust, Washington, Mo.
Hendrichs, Margaret B., 135 S. Terry, Dayton, Ohio.*
Hendrickson, Cora G., 1210 S. Yakima Ave., Tacoma, Wash.*
Hendrickson, Mrs. Isabel, 5501 Washington, Chicago.*
Hendrix, Magdalen, Central Mo. S. T. C., Warrensburg, Mo.*
Heney, John J., Route 2, Deland, Fla.*
Hennigar, Lucille A. D., 113 W. Brennan, Glendive, Montana.*
Henning, Carl J., Tuscola H. S., Tuscola, Ill.*
Henning, Oren A., Roosevelt H. S., Minneapolis.*
Henry, George, 624 Joyner, Greensboro, N. C.*
Henry, Helen I., 200 E. Pine St., Springfield, Ill.*
Henry, Marie L., 5217 Wissahickon, Philadelphia.*
Henshaw, Helen, The Albany Academy, Academy Rd., Albany, N. Y.*
Hensler, Bernice, Box 15, B. U. Station, Waco, Tex.
Henson, Ethel M., 810 Dexter, Seattle, Wash.*
Henzie, Charles A., 226 Blake St., Indianapolis, Ind.*
Herbert, Mrs. Wilhelmina K., 1106 N. San Joaquin, Stockton, Cal.*
Herdien, Mabel Sharp, 1462 Bryn Mawr Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Herfuth, Clarence Paul, 145 Gregory Ave., West Orange, N. J.*
Herndon, Claude H., 1011 Galloway Ave., El Paso, Tex.
Herriman, Marion, 170 Deerfield, Rochester, N. Y.*
Herrmann, Rowena, Dushore, Pa.*
Herter, Annette C., 114 E. 64th St., New York City.
Hertz, Erwin A., 1107-9th Ave., S., St. Cloud, Minn.*
Hertz, Wayne, 206 N. View St., Aurora, Ill.*
Hervey, Mrs. J. A., R. 4, Box 840, West Allis, Wis.
Herzog, George
Hess, Mrs. H. Lewis, 1041 West 71st Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Hess, Pauline E., 60 Rockaway Ave., Rockville Center, L. I., N. Y.*
Hesser, Ernest G., New York University, 80 Washington Square, East, New York, N. Y.*
Hesser, James M., 554 Third, Niagara Falls, N. Y.*
Hessler, John J., 712 Chelsea Ave., Bexley, Columbus, Ohio.*
Hester, Harriet H., Winnebago County, R. R. 1, Rockford, Ill.*

Hewitt, Mrs. F. W., 46 Main St., Granville, N. Y.*
Hewitt, Naomi, 414 Montgomery Ave., Laurel, Md.
Hibberd, Lloyd
Hibbs, Lois, 819 S. Laurel, Port Angeles, Wash.*
Hibler, Mrs. John M., 2625 Frederick Ave., St. Joseph, Mo.
Hickman, Ida, Goodman, Miss.*
Hickman, Mrs. Marita, Preston, Mo.*
Hickmon, Venus B., 4529 Wornall Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Hiden, Vincent A., 2134-35th St., Oakland, Calif.*
Hieber, Olga E., c/o Silver Burdett & Co., 221 E. 20th St., Chicago, Ill.*
Higgins, Ethel L., 129 Livingston St., New Haven, Connecticut.*
Hilb, Birdie E., 5330 Pershing Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Hildebrand, Ruby, 112 West Jones St., Sherman, Tex.
Hill, Arthur D., 2625 Cruft, Terre Haute, Ind.*
Hill, Charles C., Sewankaka H. S., Floral Park, N. Y.*
Hill, Edgar, 1635 Mill St., Wilkinsburg, Pa.*
Hill, Edward Burlingame
Hill, Frank W., I.S.T.C., Cedar Falls, Ia.
Hill, Richard S.
Hill, Ruth B., 335 West Tenth St., Anderson, Ind.*
Hill, Stella May, 214 South 18th, St. Joseph, Mo.
Hill, William G.
Hilton, Rena H., 204 Bryant St., North Tonawanda, New York.*
Hilty, Roy V., 121 N. Maple, Bowling Green, Ohio.*
Hindman, Alta I., 920 W. William, Decatur, Ill.*
Hindman, Cecile
Hindsley, Mark H., Univ. of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.*
Hine, Gladys, 212 Elm, Kalamazoo, Mich.*
Hinga, Howard M., 31 Colby St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Hinkelman, Ruth E., 1919 La Salle, Los Angeles.*
Hinkle, Daisy E., S. T. C., Murray, Ky.*
Hinman, Florence L., Lamont School of Music, Denver, Colo.
Hintz, Elmer M., 1 Huestis Ct., Saratoga Springs, New York.*
Hirschler, Daniel A., College of Emporia, Emporia, Kans.
Hirschler, Mrs. D. A., College of Emporia, Emporia, Kans.
Hirt, Charles C., 1850 Hillside Dr., Glendale, Calif.*
Hiscox, Ethel M., Isaac Young H. S., Center Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y.*
Hitchcock, Edith M., 1721 E 2nd St., Long Beach, Calif.*
Hitchner, Wilbert B., Board of Education, 11th & Washington St., Wilmington, Del.*
Hite, Edward B., 4404 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Hite, Louise S., 4404 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Hiteman, Meitha, Nathan Hale Junior High School, West Allis, Wis.*
Hjelmervik, Kenneth, District No. 212, Issaquah Public Schools, Issaquah, Wash.*
Hobart, Florence M., 315 South Washington, Iola, Kans.
Hobbs, Clella L., 436 Monroe, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Hobbs, Mrs. Lily H., 403 Crockett St., Greenwood, Mississippi.*
Hobbs, Theodosia J., 1010 Fourth Ave., Council Bluffs, Iowa.*
Hodges, Minnie May, Box 465, Marion, Ind.*
Hodghead, Lillian K., 3435 Sacramento St., San Francisco, Calif.
Hodgson, Hugh, University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.
Hodgson, Walter H., Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio.* ** ***
Hodson, E. L., Silver Burdett Co., 221 E. 20th St., Chicago, Ill.*
Hoeltzel, Marjorie L., 6026 Lee, Kansas City, Mo.
Hoerr, Emma M., 336 S. Atlantic, Pittsburgh, Pa.* **
Hoersch, Isabelle H., 467 W. Hancock, Detroit.*
Hoffman, Edith M., 364 N. Hain, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.*
Hoffman, Esther, 5850 Philadelphia, Dayton, Ohio.*
Hoffman, John A., 509 Howell Ave., Cincinnati, O.
Hoffman, Raymond A., 509 S. Wabash, Chicago.*
Hoffman, Ruth D., Winchester, Kans.
Hoffmann, Howard B., Box 485, New Paltz, N. Y.*
Hoffmann, John A., Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Hoffmeister, Harry P., West Philadelphia H. S., 48th and Walnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Hogan, Bernice, 2410 K St., Sacramento, Calif.*
Hogan, Edna, R. F. D. 3, Clinton, Okla.*
Hogg, James Russell, P. O. Box 102, Noel, Mo.*
Hoggard, Lara G., 423 N. Sixth, Durant, Okla.*
Hoh, Oscar J., 51 James St., Columbus, Wis.*
Hohmann, Charles B., M. Hohner, Inc., 6533 Kimbark Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Hohmann, Walter H., Bethel College, Kansas.* **
Hoke, Meryl M., 935 Lancaster, Syracuse, N. Y.*
Holden, Edmund M., 206 Voss, Yonkers, N. Y.*
Holden, H. A., Theodore Presser Co., 1712-1714 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Hole, R. A., Box 63, Clinton, Ohio.*
Holekamp, Ruth, 239 Swon, Webster Groves, Mo.*
Holl, Helen R., Willow City, N. Dak.*
Holland, Carol M., S. N. C., Geneseo, N. Y.*
Hollenbeck, Edna M., 8716 N. Syracuse St., Portland, Oregon*
Hollingsworth, Mrs. Adelle P., Route 10, Box 384, Fresno, Calif.*
Hollingsworth, Helen, 1116 W. 30th, Indianapolis, Ind.*
Hollister, J. Kenneth, 19 Liberty St., Walton, N. Y.*
Hollyman, Jane, 1701 E. Capitol Dr., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Holman, Bertha, 845 N. 2nd Ave., Phoenix, Ariz.*
Holman, Grace E. P., Board of Education, Spokane, Washington*
Holes, Mrs. Chas. B., 9 Carleon, Larchmont, N. Y.*
Holmes, Ralph M., 905 S. 1st St., Champaign, Ill.*
Holmes, Robert, Centralia High School, Route 4, Chillicothe, Ohio*
Holroyd, Ella L., Concord S. T. C., Athens, W. Va.*
Holscher, Nicholas W., 8112 Jeanes, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Holsinger, Doris C. Tubbs, 1957 Garfield Dr., Pasadena, Calif.*
Holt, Charlotte A., 920 W. Main St., Salem, Ill.*
Holt, Mrs. Edna C., 40 Chestnut St., Geneva, Ohio*
Holt, Mrs. Hilda, 165 W. 91st St., New York City*
Holt, Temperence, 288 North 19th, Kansas City, Kans.
Holthoefer, Albert J., 449 N. Second, Lindsborg, Kansas.*
Holtz, Fred A., Martin Band Instrument Co., Elkhart, Ind.*
Holtzclaw, Dovie V., 2201 Lipscomb St., Ft. Worth, Texas.*
Homer, Florence, Box 6, York Village, Maine.*
Hon, Ola O. H., 19th, Kansas City, Kans.
Honaas, Christopher O., Rollins College Conservatory of Music, Winter Park, Fla.
Honn, J. Marshall, Petersburg, Alaska.*
Honn, Yuba Schmith, Normal, Ill.*
Hood, Marguerite V., Univ., of Montana, Missoula, Montana.*
Hooker, Ione, Kettleman, Calif.*
Hooper, Gladys E., c/o Silver Burdett Co., 45 E. 17th St., New York City*
Hooss, Ida M., 5330 Pershing Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Hoover, C. Guy, Educational Music Bureau, 30 E. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.* **
Hopkins, Alfred, 415 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.
Hopper, Lena Mae, 313 N. Diamond, Jacksonville, Illinois*
Hornaday, Bertha, 4 East Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Horner, Frederic W., 202 Papin Ave., Webster Groves, Mo.
Horning, Ralph, 403 W. 8th, Traverse City, Mich.*
Horsfall, Mrs. William, 1007 S. Second St., Marshfield, Oregon.*
Horton, James A., Murdock, Minn.
Horton, Lewis H., Morehead S. T. C., Morehead, Kentucky*
Hoskinson, Cedwin, 622 North 10th, Clarinda, Ia.
Hoskinson, Helen Hall, 622 North 10th, Clarinda, Ia.
Hosmer, Helen M., 12 Hamilton, Potsdam, N. Y.*
Hostetter, Mrs. Beulah, 950 Grosvenor Pl., Oakland, Calif.*
Hotchkiss, Mrs. Charles E., 99 Joralemon St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Hottinger, Norma, 1410 Gilpin St., Denver, Colo.*
Hougham, Ethel B., 307 E. Wood St., Paris, Ill.*
Houghton, James R., 72 Mt. Vernon St., Boston, Mass.*
House, Marguerite, 1606 E. Royall Pl., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Housfeld, Mildred C., 3035 W. Wisconsin Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Houts, Earl, 708 Lincoln St., Charleston, Ill.*
Hovey, Howard, Riverhead Public Schools, Riverhead, N. Y.*
Howard, Charles T., 630 Garfield, Kansas City, Mo.
Howard, John E., University Station Box 56, Grand Forks, N. D.* **
Howard, Mrs. Sarah F., 64 S. 23rd St., Kansas City, Kansas.* **
Howard, Walter T., 76 South 19th, Kansas City, Mo.
Howe, Edith C., 839 Lake St., Oak Park, Ill.*
Howe, Helen C., 3217 Washington, Chicago, Ill.*
Howe, Mary, 1821 H. St., North West, Washington, D. C.
Howell, Anabel Groves, 3102 Pennsylvania Ave., Wilmington, Del.*
Howell, Julia, 2657 Harcourt Ave., Los Angeles.*
Howell, Raymond H., 3428 Hoyt, Everett, Wash.*
Hower, Beth D., Lanark, Ill.*
Howerton, George R., Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio.*
Howes, Maude M., 60 Monroe Rd., Quincy, Mass.*

Howeth, Mary C., 5420 Eleventh Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Howland, Betsy, 1230 Highland, Emporia, Kans.
Howland, Russell S., 621 Remington, Fort Collins, Col.
Hoyt, Clara M., Decorah, Ia.
Hruby, John J., 3034 Albien Rd., Cleveland Heights, Ohio.*
Hubach, Alfred G., 217 North 12th, Independence, Kans.
Hubbard, Bruce L., Humboldt Co. H. S., Winnemucca, Nevada.*
Huber, Henry J., Conception Abbey, Conception, Mo.
Huckriede, Irma, Puritan Apts., Louisville, Ky.*
Huckstep, J. R., 1221 Locust St., Chillicothe, Mo.*
Hudson, Marcia A., 1057 11th St., N. W., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Huey, Bess A., 606 Haddon, Collingswood, N. J.*
Huff, Gardner P., 6749 N. Artesian, Chicago, Ill.*
Huffman, Daniel Leonard
Huffman, Ethel B., 1625 Arlington, St. Louis, Mo.*
Huffman, Homer E., 134 Kenmore Ave., Marion, Ohio*
Huffman, I. N., Edenburg School, Knox, Pa.*
Huffman, Mary Gem, 1012 Laird Ave., Parkersburg, West Virginia.*
Hufnagel, Irene, 312 Claremont Apts., Evansville, Indiana.*
Huggins, Annie Louise, Flat River, Mo.*
Hughes, Amy, Vernonia, Oregon.*
Hughes, Mrs. Bertha D., 415 Albiston Apts., Utica, New York.*
Hughes, Charles W.
Hughes, David W., High School, Elkhart, Indiana.*
Hughes, Dom Anselm
Hughes, Edwin, 338 W. 89th St., New York City.*//
Hughes, Helen M., 44 E. 16th, Tulsa, Okla.*
Hughes, J. H., Monticello H. S., Monticello, Wis.*
Hughes, Jennie M., 848 Superior, Wyandotte, Mich.*
Hughes, Jewell B., 338 West 89th, New York, N. Y.
Hughes, Mrs. T. B., Cozad, Nebr.
Hulbert, Helen C., 1705-28th St., Two Rivers, Wisconsin.*
Hulf, Mildred A., Augustana Conservatory of Music, Rock Island, Ill.*
Huls, Helen Steen, 122 6th St., South, St. Cloud, Minn.
Humberger, Frank L., 502 Ridge Ave., Troy, Ohio.*
Humble, Will J., 1918 Penn Ave., Joplin, Mo.
Humfeld, Charles A., 5045 Westminster, St. Louis*
Hummel, Lynn E., 608 Central, Monett, Mo.*
Humphreville, Margaret L., 304 College Ave., Lancaster, Pa.*
Humphrey, Albert, 574-31st St., Oakland, Calif.*
Humphrey, Alice, Holland, Va.*
Humphreys, Mrs. Louise, 43 High St., Passaic, N. J.*
Humphreys, Verna E., 100 S. Gouverneur Ave., Trenton, N. J.*
Hunsley, Robert E., Eureka, Nevada.*
Hunt, Adeline, 1622 Paloma, Pasadena, Calif.*
Hunt, Beatrice A., 6 Water St., Ext., Plymouth, Massachusetts*
Hunt, Ida Clawson, 425 Michigan St., Winfield, Kans.
Hunt, Marjorie, 203 E. Wyandotte, Stockton, Calif.*
Hunt, Raymond H., 414-14th St., Denver, Colo.*
Hunter, Clarena, 409 S. Liberty St., Muncie, Ind.*
Hurd, Edna W., S. T. C., Buffalo, N. Y.*
Hurd, Lyman C., 125 Central St., Somerville, Mass.*
Hurst, Ida Delphine, 402 Elm Pl., Berkeley, Norfolk, Va.*
Hurt, E. Bomar, 31 E. Parkway, S., Memphis, Tenn.*
Hustvedt, Sigurd Bernhard
Hutchins, Agnes M. Jackson, 14397 Coyle, Detroit*
Hutchins, John E., 703 W. 7th, Grand Island, Nebr.*
Hutchinson, Florence W., Oregon N. S., Monmouth, Oregon.*
Hutchinson, George, 35-40-82nd Street, Jackson Heights, L. I., N. Y.*
Hutchison, Horace, Public Schools, McClure, Pa.*
Idol, Virginia, 1019 E. Alder, Walla Walla, Wash.*
Iles, Bessie M., 205 Delaware, Urbana, Ill.
Ingalls, K. Elizabeth, 429 Lenox, Westfield, N. J.*
Inglee, Emma, 186 Prospect Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Ingraham, Osman, 255 Marshall Blvd., San Bernardino, Calif.*
Ingram, Helen L., 4556 Alcott St., Denver, Colo.
Ingram, Thomas L., 120 Corbett, San Francisco*
Inskeep, Alice C., Board of Education, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Interrante, G., 12 West 45th St., New York, N. Y.
Interrante, Giuseppe, G. Ricordi & Co., 12 W. 45th St., New York City*
Ireland, Mary E., 2414 T St., Sacramento, Calif.*
Irion, Herman, Steinway & Sons, Steinway Hall, 109 W. 57th St., New York City*
Irons, Mayme E., 1165 W. Main St., Decatur. Ill.*
Irvine, Demar
Irvine, La Verne, 504 South Fillmore St., Maryville, Missouri*
Irwin, Francis Alan, Friends University, Wichita, Kans.
Isaac, Burton H., 106 W. Monroe, Kirkwood, Mo.*
Isaac, Merle J., 854 N. Drake Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Iverson, Maurice T., 1221 Pierce, Sioux City, Iowa.*
Jackson, Dorothy M., P. O. Box 42, Fontana, Calif.*
Jackson, Franklin J., 5822 Fourth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Jackson, George Pullen
Jackson, Lucy A., Clendenin, W. Va.*
Jackson, Mildred M., 120 E. State, Mason City, Iowa.*
Jackson, Ophelia W., 1414 North 8th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Jackson, Victor A., 61 Whitman, Orangeburg, S. C.*
Jahnke, Albert A., Box 452, Shelby, Montana.*
Jakey, Howard R., 1007 S. 9th, Yakima, Wash.*
James, Arthur C., 99 John St., New York, N. Y.
James, Clyde W., 2800 Cherry St., Kansas City, Mo.
James, Mary, 460 Madera Ave., Youngstown, Ohio.*
James, Ralph R., 217-3rd Ave., N., Renton, Wash.*
Jamieson, Rhoda, 219 Ave. F, Redonda Beach, Calif.*
Jankel, Rudolf
Jansky, Nelson M., 615 Salem St., Malden, Mass.*
Janssen, Danelia, 721 W. Nebraska, Peoria, Ill.*
Jaques-Dalcroze, Emile
Jaquish, John H., 5 S. Dorset, Atlantic City, N. J.*
Jarvis, Nancy A., 918 East 9th St., Winfield, Kans.
Jasmagy, Clarence, Woodland Ave., P. O. Box 85, Westhampton Beach, N. Y.* **
Jefferies, Janie, Ville Platte, La.*
Jeffers, Edmund V., Bancroft Hall, 509 W. 121st St., New York City*
Jenkins, Dorothy I., Ted Brown Music Co., Tacoma, Washington.*
Jenkins, Mrs. E. C., Box 246, Independence, Mo.
Jenkins, Essie B., 1885 Melvin Rd., Oakland, Calif.*
Jenkins, Maggie, Liberty St., Milledgeville, Ga.*
Jenks, Alice G., Long Lane Court Apts., Upper Darby, Pa.*
Jennings, Arthur B., 815 Kenwood Parkway, Minneapolis, Minn.
Jennings, Esther L., 613 University, Syracuse, N. Y.*
Jennison, C. H., Moultrie, Ga.*
Jenny, Herbert
Jens, Martha, 6112 Victoria Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Jensen, Irene H., Central H. S., Omaha, Nebr.* **
Jessen, Mrs. Pearl F., 3030 Leverett St., Alton, Ill.*
Jeter, Beryl R., 1865 Los Flores, Eagle Rock, Calif.*
Jeter, Susie Belle, Macclenny, Fla.*
Jetter, Frank, 16 Finley St., Amsterdam, N. Y.*
Jewell, Mrs. Annie O., 7615 Kelly, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Jewell, Mrs. Florence Fletcher, Harding College, Searcy, Ark.
Jividen, Lucille, Thornville, Ohio.*
Johannsen, Anna W., 2218 N. Summit, Milwaukee.*
Johns, Elsie, Hotel Duluth, Duluth, Minn.*
Johnson, Ben S., Box 84, East Hampton, L. I., N. Y.*
Johnson, C. Pearl, 800 W. Pine, Johnson City, Tenn.*
Johnson, Mrs. Caldwell, 515 West 9th, Coffeyville, Kans.
Johnson, Caldwell, 515 West 9th, Coffeyville, Kans.
Johnson, Christine, Charleston H. S., Charleston, West Virginia.*
Johnson, Donald, Isaac Young H. S., New Rochelle, New York.*
Johnson, Donald E., 1302 John Jay, Columbia University, New York, N. Y.
Johnson, Donald S., S. T. C., Kutztown, Pa.*
Johnson, Edna Cora, 199 St. Paul, Brookline, Mass.*
Johnson, Esther, 919 W. 50th St., Los Angeles.*
Johnson, Franklin, 1140 East 66th, Kansas City, Mo.
Johnson, Mrs. Grace M., Mound City, Kansas.*
Johnson, H. Earle
Johnson, Harold M., Horace Mann School, Orchestra Dept., Gary, Indiana.*
Johnson, Hazel L., Hastings Hall, 35 Holt St., Fitchburg, Mass.*
Johnson, Helen Pauline, 218 Pleasant, Oak Park, Ill.*
Johnson, James, Scottsbluff H. S., Scottsbluff, Nebr.*
Johnson, Laura E., 5060 City Line, Apt. C-8, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Johnson, Mrs. Marguerite A., 39 Front St., Exeter, New Hampshire*
Johnson, Marie S., 4117 Greenview Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Johnson, Martin O., 208 North 6th, Marysville, Kans.
Johnson, Merion J., 3914 Van Buren, North East, Columbia Heights, Minn.
Johnson, Meryam, S. Weinback Ave., R. R. 6, Evansville, Ind.*

Johnson, Rachel E., 113 East 7th, Topeka, Kans.
Johnson, Retta W., 119 State Ave., N., Kent, Wash.*
Johnson, Vivian Harder, 917 South Henderson, Fort Worth, Tex.
Johnson, Volena, Albany, Oregon*
Johnson, William, 5201 Abbot Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Johnston, Ben E., 221 W. Indiana, Chesterton, Ind.*
Johnston, Mrs. Bernice E., 2335 Norwalk Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Johnston, Norman Cecil, 16 Hamilton St., Potsdam, N. Y.
Jones, Adelaide C., College Misericordia, Dallas, Pa.*
Jones, Alton, 50 West 67th St., New York, N. Y.
Jones, Archie N., University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho.* **
Jones, D. Oswald, 227 S. Cornell Circle, Fort Wayne, Ind.*
Jones, Delwen B., 5422 S. Pine, Tacoma, Wash.*
Jones, Edna Marie, Box 842, Odessa, Texas.*
Jones, Emery T., 18 Blue Grass, Ft. Thomas, Ky.*
Jones, Griffith J., 1420 E. 82nd St., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Jones, Helen, Robstown, Texas.*
Jones, Helen L., 1301 Dewey Ave., Bartlesville, Okla.*
Jones, Mrs. Helen Loud, H. S., New Madrid, Mo.*
Jones, Herald A., E. Orange H. S., East Orange, N. J.*
Jones, Jennie L., 1172 S. Longwood, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Jones, L. Bruce, Little Rock H. S., Little Rock, Ark.*
Jones, Lois, 421 South Tyler, Enid, Okla.*
Jones, Marjorie K., Conwell Hall, Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Jones, Mary E., Board of Education, Div. of Music, 21st & Parkway, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Jones, Paul G.
Jones, Rachel, 69 Lent, Hempstead, L. I., N. Y.*
Jones, Raymond W., Ginn & Co., 2301 Prairie Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Jones, S. Turner, Huntington, Pa.*
Jones, Vincent, Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa.* **
Jones, W. Oscar, 731 Harrison Ave., Defiance, Ohio.*
Jones, William E., Texas State College for Women, Denton, Tex.
Jones, Zelda M., 50 Lincoln Ave., Rutherford, N. J.*
Jordalen, Marion I., 200 West Armour Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Jordan, Ann, Board of Education, Northfield, N. J.*
Jordan, Frank B., 915½ North East St., Bloomington, Ill.
Jordan, Mrs. Frank B., 915½ North East St., Bloomington, Ill.
Jorgenson, Alberta, Western S. C., Gunnison, Colo.* **
Jorgensen, Elin K., 300 Main St., Oneonta, N. Y.*
Jorgensen, Lillian V., 2419 Carmel Ave., Racine, Wis.
Jorgensen, Ramona Selma, Colonial Apts, Burlington, Iowa.*
Jorgenson, Leila J., Maquoketa, Iowa.*
Joseph, Frances, 112 Oakwood Ave., Troy, N. Y.*
Joseph, Virgil, 120 Polk St., Coalinga, Calif.*
Joslin, Virginia N., Forest Apartments, Pittsburg, Kans.
Joyce, Elizabeth, 128 Daniels Ave., Pittsfield, Mass.*
Joyner, Mae, 42 W. Coulter St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Julstrom, Clifford A., State Teachers College, Macomb, Ill.
Jung, William C., 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Just, Amanda, Elmhurst Apts., Pullman, Wash.*
Justice, John E., 128 Second Ave., Beach City, Ohio.
Justis, Mabel Hope, 1370 Summit, Springfield, Mo.*
Kahr, Kathryn, 3123 Allendale St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Kaho, Elizabeth E., 4177 Wakeley, Omaha, Nebr.
Kalb, Abraham I., 273 Van Cortlandt Ave. E., New York City*
Kaman, Louis J., Jr., Hinton, W. Va.*
Kammer, Ann F., 4 East Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Kane, Mrs. Helen L., 6530 Drexel Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Kaner, Jeanette, 681 Merrick Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Kaney, Laurence L., 505 Morrison, Waterloo, Ill.*
Kantzer, Barbara, 841 26th St., South Bend, Ind.*
Kappelman, Edwin G., Wisconsin Conservatory of Music, Milwaukee, Wis.
Karn, Mrs. Lillian W., 1900 Lamont St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Karr, Elma E., Box 637 R. 6, Independence, Mo.
Karsten, Frieda E., 1300 East 32nd St., Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.*
Kasschan, Howard, 30 Nauset Lane, Ridgewood, N. J.
Kaszynski, Hubert B., 1215 8th St., LaSalle, Ill.*
Kaufman, Verna M., North Newton, Kans.
Kauffman, Harry M., 611 N. Broadview, Wichita, Kans.*
Kay, Marguerite, 1330 N. Prospect, Milwaukee, Wis.*
Keach, Catherine, 1211 L St., Bedford, Ind.*
Keane, Helen I., 212 N. 4th St., Dundee, Ill.*
Kearns, C. D., Greenville Public S., Greenville, Pa.*
Keefover, Mrs. Marion L., Grantville, Kans.
Keenan, Florence E., 307 S. Goodman St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Keenan, George, 3601 Bell, Kansas City, Mo.
Keenley, Richard J., Lyon & Healy, 245 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Keevers, Marcella G., 6 Steere, Centerdale, R. I.*
Keffer, Edna M., 401 Brilliant Ave., Aspinwall, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Keil, Carrie Drummons, 432 Harrison St., Helena, Mont.*
Keiset, Margherita. 708 Kiowa St., Leavenworth, Kans.
Keith, Alice, 2017 S St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Keith, Helen, 1926 A Ave., N. E., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Keith, John R., Nebraska S. T. C., Wayne, Nebr.*
Keizer, Henrietta, Capitol University Conservatory of Music, Columbus, Ohio.*
Keller, A. Russell, Bement, Ill.*
Keller, Edith M., State Dept. of Education, Columbus, Ohio.* **
Keller, Henrietta, S. T. C., Springfield, Mo.*
Keller, Homer T., Fort Hays, Kansas State College, Hays, Kans.
Keller, I'Georgine, 203 Chestnut St., Brooklawn, Gloucester P. O., N. J.
Keller, Marjorie M., Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Highland & Oak Sts., Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Keller, Ruby C., Parkville, Mo.
Kelley, Blanche M., The College of the Ozarks, Clarksville, Ark.
Kelley, Dorothy G., S. T. C., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Kelley, Ethel C., 712 Parallel Ave., Kansas City, Kans.
Kelley, Mrs. Joy, Marengo, Ill.*
Kelley, Kenneth G., Van Antwerp Rd., R. D. 7, Schenectady, N. Y.*
Kelley, Mrs. M. J., 4319 Pine St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Kelley, Mrs. Margaret, 740 N. 23rd, Paducah, Ky.*
Kelley, Mary Evelyn, 1310 Monroe St., Johnston City, Ill.*
Kelly, Marian, Seneca Grade School, Seneca, Ill.*
Kelly, Pearl Roemer, 3030 Euclid Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Kemmerer, Mildred, 27 N. 11th St., Allentown, Pa.*
Kempe, Pauline B., 7322 Lydia, Kansas City, Mo.
Kemper, Susan, 3526 Pine St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Kendall, John D., 948 North Jefferson, Springfield, Mo.
Kendall, Raymond, Div. of Music, Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.* **
Kendel, John Clark, 414 14th St., Denver, Colo.* **
Kenk, Laurietta, 932 Gladstone, Detroit, Mich.*
Kenley, Huldah Jane, 5550 Pocusset St., Pittsburgh*
Kenmuir, Elisabeth H., 9875 Winner Rd., Independence, Mo.
Kennedy, Mrs. Eleanor Green, 66 Prospect, Amsterdam, N. Y.*
Kennedy, Helen M., School Administration Bldg., Atlantic City, N. J.*
Kennedy, Mildred Bernice, 503 Bayview Dr., Hermosa Beach, Calif.*
Kennedy, Vivian F., 120 S. 'M' St., Madera, Calif.*
Kenney, Marjorie Gallagher, 4869 N. Hermitage Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Kern, Rev. Lyford, Diocesan Chancery, 607 N. Madison Ave., Peoria, Ill.*
Kerr, Aleeta I., 1947 Adanac St., Vancouver, B. C., Canada.*
Kerr, Edgar D., 815 South Mulberry, Ottawa, Kans.
Kensar, Maurits, Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill.
Kessler, Frances, 1103½ E. Jefferson, Bloomington, Ill.*
Kessler, John J., 6802 Pershing Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Kessler, Philip S., 74 Van Cortlandt Park, S., New York City*
Kessler, Sylvia, 211 West 21st St., Topeka, Kans.
Kestle, Victor, Sacojawia Inn, La Grande, Oregon.*
Ketcham, Warren A., 375 W. Grand Blvd., Lincoln Park, Mich.*
Ketman, Dorothy Lea, 650 Waverly St., Palo Alto, Calif.*
Keutzer, Clyde, 630 Ft. Washington Ave., N. Y. C.*
Keyl, Gertrude L., 1055 N. Dunham, Decatur, Ill.*
Kibbe, Maude, Hermansville, Mich.*
Kidd, Elizabeth A., Glen Oak Acres, Glenview, Ill.
Kidder, Eva G., 2717 N. Madison Ave., Peoria, Ill.*
Kiehnhoff, Estelle W., 4860 Lowell, Lincoln, Nebr.
Kiess, Emma, S. T. C., West Chester, Pa.*
Kiess, Mary H., 725 Simpson St., Evanston, Ill.*
Killam, R. M., 633 Maine St., Quincy, Ill.*
Killeen, Earle G., 2615 Park Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.
Killgrove, William T., 1141 Windsor Place, South Pasadena, Calif.*

Kilpatrick, Lulu, 5110 W. 24th St., Cicero, Ill.*
Kimber, Alice E., 941 Feldkamp, Springfield, Ill.*
Kimbrough, Herbert, Box 176, College Station, Pullman, Wash.*
Kimmel, Willliam
King, A. Merl, 38 Nordham Dr., Bedford, Ohio.*
King, Alvin J., Box 1014, Jackson, Miss.*
King, Bertha M., Nat'l. Pres., Mu Phi Epsilon, MacPhail School of Music, Minneapolis, Minn.*
King, Mrs. Charles J., 506 Crosby St., Apt. 2, Akron, Ohio.*
King, Charles, 4 Lincoln Terrace, Meriden, Conn.
King, Chauncey B., Delta S. T. C., Cleveland, Miss.*
King, Coryl, 8047 Hamilton, Detroit, Mich.*
King, Ernest V., 8047 Hamilton, Detroit, Mich.*
King, Glenn W., Western Reserve Academy, Hudson, O.
King, Katherine M., 5512 Center, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
King, Lilburne D., 915 Oak, Emporia, Kansas.*
King, Lois, Wakelon School, Zebulon, N. C.*
King, Mrs. Mary E., 301 Chesterfield Ave., Nashville, Tenn.*
King, Maurice, The Log Cabin, Greenfield, Ohio.*
Kingham, Clarence, Bd. of Education, Ponca City, Oklahoma.*
Kingsbury, C. Lawrence, 67 Oakland Ave., Wheeling, W. Va.*
Kinkel, Francis W., 1615 Cleveland Ave., Chicago*
Kinkeldey, Otto
Kinnear, William B., 813 West 6th Ave., Topeka, Kans.
Kinney, Margaret, 83 Tompkins St., Cortland, N. Y.*
Kinscella, Hazel G., 2721 R. St., Lincoln, Nebr.*
Kinsey, C. P., 525 E. Delmar St., Springfield, Mo.*
Kintz, Carolyn, 63 Park Ave., Rochester, N. Y.*
Kirchmier, Adeline, 7427 Georgian, Philadelphia*
Kirk, Margaret Preston, 612 W. Innes St., Salisbury, North Carolina*
Kirkpatrick, Mabelle, 120 W. Ninth, Tulsa, Okla.*
Kirkpatrick, Ralph
Kisch, Harriette, 2126 Maple Ave., Evanston, Ill.*
Kiser, Martha D., 3922 Locust, Kansas City, Mo.
Kisinger, Everett, 20 S. Church, Grandville, Mich.*
Kiskaddon, Clare, 1016 S. College, Tulsa, Okla.*
Kissling, Grace P., 213 E. 5th St., Winona, Minn.*
Kitchell, Velma Irene, School of Music, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.*
Kitchen, Dorothy, 12 Mayfair, Morris Plains, N. J.*
Kittel, Rodney, Harrington, Wash.*
Kittrell, Mrs. Mary Overman, 1418 Garden St., Santa Barbara, Calif.*
Kitts, Leta K., 2015-7th Ave. N., Birmingham, Alabama*
Kjerstad, Clara, 705 E. Elder St., Canton, S. Dak.*
Kjos Music Co., Neil A., 14 W. Lake St., Chicago*
Klaus, Clara Anna, 5218 Brown, Niles Center, Ill.*
Klein, Maynard J., Newcomb Col., New Orleans, La.*
Kleyle, Marie A., 135 Scout Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Klinker, Marguerite, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebr.
Klugh, Mary A., 415 Emerald St., Harrisburg, Pa.*
Knapp, Clifford D., 629-1st Ave., Havre, Mont.*
Kniffke, Margaret L. M., 1211 Addison, Chicago*
Knott, Katherine, Lebanon, Ky.*
Knowles, Muriel E., 830 Louisiana, Vallejo, Calif.*
Knudson, Emma R., 204 N. School St., Normal, Ill.*
Knudson, R. Louise, 522 S. West St., Royal Oak, Michigan.*
Knudson, Vern O.
Knuth, William E., San Francisco State College, 124 Buchanan St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Koch, Casper P.
Kochenderfer, Margaret, 622 W. 39th, Erie, Pa.*
Koehler, Mrs. M. R., 87 Maple, Rutherford, N. J.*
Koehuke, Jeanette D., 1 Christopher St., New York City*
Kohler, Emma M., 227 N. Wayne, St. Marys, Ohio.*
Kohler, M. Ruth, Tioga County, Gaines, Pa.*
Koile, W. David, 405 Walnut, North Manchester, Indiana.*
Kolb, Dorothy, Marygrove College, Detroit, Mich.*
Kolisch, Rudolf
Konnerty, Frank J., 157 Hudson, Peekskill, N. Y.*
Kops de Bruyn, Mrs. J., 56 Inman Circle, Atlanta, Georgia.*
Korab, Joan R., 1181 College Ave., Topeka, Kans.
Kortschak, Hugo, 155 East St., New York, N. Y.
Kountz, Richard, 200 86th St., New York City*
Kozak, Andrew V., Concord S. T. C., Athens, West Virginia.*
Kramer, A. Walter, Galaxy Music Corp., 17 W. 46th St., New York City*
Kranz, Selma, 1139 Cherokee Rd., Louisville, Ky.*
Kratt, Theodore, University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore.
Kratz, A. Raymond, Hughes H. S., Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Krausse, Ruth, 6618 Elmer Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Krehbiel, Christine, Box 143, Steelville, Mo.*
Kreisher, Margaret A., S. T. C., West Chester, Pa.*
Krenek, Ernst
Krestic, John, 10 Washington, Silver Creek, N. Y.*
Kretsinger, Helen M., 4337-15th, N. E., Seattle.*
Krieg, Ida, Roosevelt School, 927 Hudson Ave., Union City, N. J.*
Kritner, Carl, Music Publishers Holding Corp., 1250 Sixth St., New York City*
Krohn, Ernest C.
Krone, Max T., School of Music, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, Cal.*
Krumme, Herbert, 1415 South 34th, St. Joseph, Mo.
Kubach, Bessie, The Angus, St. Paul, Minn.*
Kucinski, Leo, 1221 Summit St., Sioux City, Ia.
Kuechel, Albert F., 815 Amherst Ave., Village, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Kuehn, Mrs. Elizabeth Dunsmore, 34 Balltown Road, Schenectady, N. Y.*
Kuersteiner, Karl O., Kansas University, Lawrence, Kans.
Kuersteiner, Martha Lee, Kansas University, Lawrence, Kans.
Kuhn, Lucille, Public Schools, Cresson, Pa.*
Kuhns, G. Austin, c/o Y.M.C.A., Steubenville, Ohio.*
Kuhns, Harold E., Jr., 335 Stuart, Downington, Pa.*
Kuite, Josephine, 600 St. Joseph, Pawpaw, Mich.*
Kunsman, Mamie E., 143 Bostwick Ave., N. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Kursheedt, Abigail G., 411 Baldwin Rd., Maplewood, N. J.*
Kurth, Burton L., 1224 W. 14th St., Vancouver, B. C., Canada.*
Kurtz, Edward Frampton, Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Ia.
Kutschinski, C. D., N. C. S. C., Raleigh, N. C.*
Kutz, Frederick B., Middletown, Del.*
Kutz, Helen, 320 Thorpe, Kansas City, Kans.
Kuypers, John, Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn.*
Kwalwasser, Jacob, 860 Livingston, Syracuse, N. Y.*
Kyle, Anna, Court House, Fairfield, Calif.*
Kyle, Jane E., Reedsville, Pa.*
Labunski, Mrs. Wanda, 3525 Central, Kansas City, Mo.
Labunski, Wiktor, 3525 Central, Kansas City, Mo.
La Coste, A. J., Philip Werlein, Ltd., New Orleans*
La Croix, Virginia W., Oklahoma College for Women, Chickasha, Okla.
Lacy, Leslie Lee, Phillips University, Enid, Okla.*
La Fayette, Haskell, 318 N. Wheeling, Kansas City, Mo.
Lafetra, E. J., 25 Branch Ave., Red Bank, N. J.*
Lafferty, Genevieve, 664 E. Allegheny, Philadelphia*
La Gassey, Homer C., 314 Montana St., Detroit*
Lahm, Millicent E., 1501 Polk St., Amarillo, Tex.
Laidlaw, Mrs. Harriet D., 1309 W. 54th St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Laing, Grace C., 40 Sanford Pl., Bridgeport, Conn.*
Lamb, Mrs. Madge B., Farwell Schools, Farwell, Michigan.*
Lambert, Catherine, 1605 Michigan Ave., Niagara Falls, N. Y.*
Lambert, Edna Alison, 94 Phillips, Methuen, Mass.*
Lambert, Louis L., 3671 Broadway, New York City*
Lamont, Harry K., Hotel Shirkmere, Wichita, Kans.
Lamoree, Ruth F., 123 Pierpont, Rochester, N. Y.*
Lamp, Charles J., 1480 Willard St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Lampert, C. A., University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky.*
Lampert, Marcia E., 348 Aylesford, Lexington, Ky.*
Lancaster, Louise, 549 Riverside Dr., New York City.*
Lancaster, Margaret, 155 Cobb Ave., Decatur, Ill.*
Landau, Anneliese
Landen, Lucie, Lithia Hotel, Ashland, Oregon.*
Landes, E. Leighton, Excelsior Springs, Mo.*
Landes, Jack, Box 404, New Berlin, Ill.*
Landis, Elizabeth, Franklin Parish, Winnsboro, La.*
Landsbury, John J., School of Music, University of Oregon, Eugene, Oregon.*
Lane, Catherine O., S. N. S., Fredonia, N. Y.*
Lane, Lewis

Lane, Lucile, 244 W. Orange St., Lancaster, Pa.*
Lanet, William F., Jr., Prospect & Feist Ave., Pottstown, Pa.*
Lang, Mrs. Margaret Lambeck, 1737 Bel Aire Dr., Glendale, Calif.*
Lang, Paul Henry
Langhauser, Virginia, 5560 Acme, St. Louis, Mo.*
Lanigan, Elizabeth M., 65 Rutgers, Rochester, N. Y.*
Lantz, Edwin W., H. S., Galesburg, Ill.*
Lapham, Claude
Lapham, G. Frank, Corinth, N. Y.*
La Prade, Ernest, National Broadcasting Co., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City*
La Prime, Mrs. Yvonne, 935 Harding, New Orleans, La.*
Larsen, Mrs. Mable D., 419 E. Rusholme St., Davenport, Iowa.*
Larsen, Minnie M., 1924 56th St., Kenosha, Wis.*
Larsen, Ruth M., 1332-40th St., Des Moines, Iowa.*
Larson, Agnes, 2710-56th St., Des Moines, Iowa.*
Larson, Herman L., 2514 Westport Rd., Kansas City, Kans.
Larson, Opal Martin, Brookside Hotel, Kansas City, Mo.
Larson, William S., Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y.* **
La Rue, Maurice, Jr., Central College, Murry Hall, Fayette, Mo.*
Larue, Mildred L., 330 S. Cayuga St., Ithaca, N. Y.*
Lashbrook, Ruth S., 220 West 2nd St., Bonner Springs, Kans.
Lasley, Ruth, 404 N. 5th St., Temple, Texas.*
Latham, Mrs. W. R., 1025 Main St., Moultrie, Ga.*
Lathrop, E. C.
Lauenstein, Elsa, 835 Washington, Evansville, Indiana.*
Launer, Franklin B., Christian College, Columbia, Mo.
Lawder, Irene A., 3111 N. Calvert, Baltimore, Md.*
Lawler, Mary Esther, 325 N. Riley, Indianapolis*
Lawler, Vanett, 64 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.*
Lawless, Clarence F., 715 N. McKinley, Sand Springs, Okla.*
Lawless, Leo B., 443 North Broadway, Sterling, Kans.
Lawrence, Clara E., Memphis, Mo.*
Lawrence, Mrs. Lillian, 1928 Laura St., Jacksonville, Florida.*
Lawrence, M. Elizabeth, Miami University, Music Education Dept., Oxford, Ohio.*
Lawrence, Ruth, Cainsville, Mo.*
Lawrence, Thomas R., California, Mo.*
Lawrenson, Raymond E., 110 South Adams, Moscow, Idaho
Lawson, David T., 1800 Oakley, Topeka, Kan.* **
Lawson, Dorothy E., 206 West Indiana, St. Joseph, Mo.
Lawson, Mrs. J. D., 271 Ideal Ave., Milan, Mich.*
Lawson, Leonard L., Box 607, Kittitas, Wash.*
Lawton, Dorothy
Lawton, Marian A., Cheney N. S., Cheney, Wash.*
Laxson, Robert, c/o Public Schools, Ontario, Ore.*
Leachman, Constance, Westover Apt., Newport News, Va.*
Leacy, Marie, 806 North 3rd St., Atchison, Kans.
Leake, Mrs. Esther C., 14 Cargill Ct., Medford, Ore.*
Leaming, Marjorie, 1540 Dean, Highland Park, Ill.*
Leavengood, Luther O., 1413 East 8th St., Winfield, Kans.
Leavitt, Helen S., 15 Ashburton Pl., Boston, Mass.*
LeBaron, Harrison D., Alabama College, Montevallo, Ala.
Lebo, C. R., 864 N. Howard St., Akron, Ohio.*
Leckner, John G., Lorenz Publishing Co., 91 Seventh Ave., New York City.*
Leckner, Mrs. Max, 709 North Pennsylvania St., Indianapolis, Ind.
Lee, Florence A., S. T. C., West Chester, Pa.*
Lee, Genevieve, 616 Columbia, Burlington, Iowa.* **
Lee, Howard, 207 E. Bridge St., Streator, Ill.*
Lee, Mary Alice, 1303 E. Dunklin, Jefferson City, Missouri.*
Lee, Mary H., 46 Grosvenor St., Athens, Ohio.*
Leeder, Joseph A., Ohio State Univ., Columbus, O.*
Leedy, Camille, 500 Knickerbocker, Kansas City, Mo.*
Leedy, Clifford E., 1112 Alta Vista, Bakersfield, California.*
Lees, Mima P., 1609 Washington St., Denver, Colo.*
Le Fevre, Ethel, Box 383, Brilliant, Ohio.*
Leffel, Jessie E., 212 Cheyenne Apts., Cheyenne, Wyoming.*
Lefler, Kermit, 4238 Chestnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Legg, Pansey, 321½ Oak St., Danville, Ill.*
Lehman, Laura May, 105 E. Clinton Ave., Johnstown, N. Y.*
Lehman, Wilbur H., 94 W. Amazon, Columbus, O.*
Lehmann, C. A., 209 S. State St., Chicago, Ill.*
Lehmann, Esther, 1630 Church St., Wauwatosa, Wis.*
Lehn, Roberta, Market St., Edinboro, Pa.*
Leichtentritt, Hugo
Leighton, Winifred, Hoquiam Public Schools, Hoquiam, Wash.*
Leinhart, Mrs. Helen Terrel, Oviedo H. S., Oviedo, Florida.*
Leitsinger, Carl W., 33 Castleton St., Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.*
Lekvold, A. D., No. 10 Tallawanda Apt., Oxford, Ohio.*
Lemcke, H. J., 302 E. Lockwood Ave., Webster Groves, Mo.*
Lemke, Leo, 1157 Edison Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Lentschner, Sofie
Lentz, Don, 2444 Park Ave., Lincoln, Nebr.
Lenz, Doris E., 740 Hazelwood, Detroit, Mich.*
Lesinsky, Adam, Whiting City Schools, Whiting, Indiana.*
Lester, John, Montana State University, Missoula, Mont.
Levan, Herbert C., 2314 Main St., Parsons, Kans.*
Levarie, Siegmund
Levering, Effie, 42nd and Rayton Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Levi, Irene Adler, 614 S. St. Andrews Pl., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Levitan, Joseph S.
Lewando, Ralph, 121 Elysian Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Lewis, Alberta S., 177 W. Hansberry, Philadelphia.*
Lewis, Clinton, 217 Center St., San Rafael, Calif.*
Lewis, Eileen, Somerset, Ky.*
Lewis, Jessie D., 143 Ninth St., Lakewood, N. J.*
Lewis, John, Jr., 314 McDowell Rd., Lexington, Ky.*
Lewis, John, Sr., Ashland H. S., Ashland, Ky.*
Lewis, Leo Rich ** ***
Lewis, Mildred, 218 Arlington Ave., Lexington, Ky.*
Lewis, Ruth, 4417 South 28th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Leyendecker, P. Joseph, 125 Montrose Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Lichtmann, Maurice Meru
Lickey, H. L., High School, Marshall, Mo.*
Lieurance, Thurlow, University of Wichita, Wichita, Kans.
Liggett, Mrs. Mary D., 308 Broadway, Pella, Iowa.*
Lightbody, Helen, 3 Wakefield St., Rochester, N. H.*
Lillard, Marie C. S., 2547 Tracy Ave., Kansas City, Kans.
Lillya, Clifford P., 3538 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago.*
Limburg, Stanley W., Redwood Falls, Minn.*
Lindgren, Carl G., 1980 Cedar, Long Beach, Calif.*
Lindloff, Frnacis A., 712 Juniper Lane, Norman, Okla.
Lindquist, William, 1740 Fairview Ave., Manhattan, Kans.
Lindsay, Anna L., Va. State College for Negroes, Ettricks, Va.*
Lindsay, Edna, 21 Academy, Amsterdam, N. Y.*
Lindsay, George L., Board of Education, Parkway at 21st St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Lindsay, Helen G., 2617 E. Indiana, Philadelphia.*
Lindstrom, Arthur L., Fairfax, Mo.
Linebarger, Eleanor, 1301 N. East St., Bloomington, Illinois.*
Lingo, J. Collins, Birdsall Ave., Marlboro, N. Y.*
Link, Esther L., 226 Southampton, Buffalo, N. Y.*
Linnell, Adelaide, S. T. C., Mankato, Minn.*
Linnell, Bertha, 302 Maple St., Northfield, Minn.*
Lippincott, Ruth, 2425 Bexley Park Rd., Columbus, Ohio.*
Listiak, Michael R., 12 Pine, South Haven, Mich.*
Listrom, Evelyn C., Lathrop, Mo.
Little, Harold M., 641 N. Humphrey, Oak Park, Ill.*
Littlejohn, Elfreda, Franklin Apts. No. 5, Kent, O.*
Litzinger, Robert, 1175 Washington St., Indiana, Pa.*
Lloyd, Alice E., 614 N. 7th St., Cambridge, Ohio.*
Lloyd, Hazel E., 836 N. Humphrey, Oak Park, Ill.*
Lloyd, Herbert, 25 Chestnut, Bound Brook, N. J.*
Loar, Lloyd, 2328 Lincoln Park West, Chicago, Ill.
Lockard, Gladys G., 113 First St., N. E., Washington, D. C.*
Locke, Arthur W.
Lockhart, Lee M., Music Publishers Holding Corp., R. C. A. Bldg., Rockefeller Center, N. Y. C.*
Loeffler, Mrs. Sidney, 5520 Central, Kansas City, Mo.
Logan, Estelle K., 4111 Charlotte, Kansas City, Mo.
Logan, Mrs. Ida C., 842 The Alameda, Berkeley, California.*
Lohman, Marie, Andrew Jackson H. S., St. Albans, New York.*
Lohmeyer, Lillian M., 1119 Leomis, Winfield, Kans.
Lonegren, Mrs. Joe L., Phi Beta Fraternity, 1906 Kenwood Parkway, Minneapolis, Minn.
Lonegren, Opal Church, 2119 Pleasant, Minneapolis.*

Loney, Andrew, Jr., 301 Spring St., La Grande, Ore.*
Long, Beatrice, 302 North G, Tacoma, Wash.*
Long, Charles D., Public Schools, Chester, Pa.*
Long, Gertrude M., West 14th, Falls City, Nebr.
Long, Harley S., 2015 Hampshire, Quincy, Ill.*
Long, Leland R., Exeter Union H. S., Exeter, Calif.*
Long, Margaret E., R. F. D., South Fork, Pa.*
Longdon, Blanche B., 214 Parker Dr., Pittsburgh.*
Longfellow, Mary E., 30 Jefferson, Columbus, Ohio.*
Longhurst, Maurice F., Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H.
Loomis, Louise, R. D. No. 8, Crafton Sta., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Loose, Dorothy E., Tualatin, Ore.*
Lord, Mary P., Box 5, Montreat, N. C.
Lorence, Ruby Ann, Mills College, Oakland, Calif.*
Lorenz, Karl, Lorenz Publishing Co., 501 E. Third Ave., Dayton, Ohio.*
Losgren, Oscar, 505 North Grant St., Lindsborg, Kans.
Lossing, Laverna L., 146 S. Wetherly, Los Angeles.*
Lott, Dwight W., John Adams H. S., Cleveland, O.*
Love, Edna Barr, Modesto Jr. Col., Modesto, Calif.*
Love, Lily LeGrand, Dorset Rd., Devon, Pa.
Lovelace, Mrs. Ella, 1309 S. 7th St., Waco, Tex.*
Lovesee, Gayle Giles, 3500 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
Lovesee, George, 3621 Locust, Kansas City, Mo.
Low, Henrietta Baker, Teatown Rd., Croton-On-Hudson, N. Y.*
Lowden, Alice M., 2139 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit.*
Lowe, Evelyn, 523 Taylor Ave., Scranton, Pa.*
Lowe, Joel, Creston H. S., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Lowe, Oliver E., 317 Walter St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Lowell, John L., 1222 North Olsen, Tucson, Ariz.
Lower, Mrs. A. W., Hastings, Mich.*
Lower, Arthur W., 220 S. Church, Hastings, Mich.*
Lowrie, Alice C., 1104 N. Broad St., Galesburg, Ill.*
Lowrie, Blanche E., 64 Union Ave., Irvington, N. J.*
Lowry, Cleo Dixon, 309 Third Ave., W., Mobridge, South Dakota.*
Lowry, Margaret, 419 W. Sixth, Corsicana, Tex.*
Loy, Gene H., Aurora Public Schools, Aurora, Mo.*
Lu, Andrew C. W., Peiping, China.
Lucas, Alma, 113 West Adams St., Pittsburg, Kans.
Luce, Mildred, Eldora, Ia.
Luckenbill, Donald, 536 Walnut St., Freeland, Pa.*
Ludgate, Dorothy, 2296 Victoria, Beaumont, Tex.*
Ludwig, Margaret, S. T. C., St. Cloud, Minn.*
Ludwig, William F., 1728 N. Damen Ave., Chicago.*
Luecker, Arline W., Brillion, Wis.*
Luedecke, Pansy, 1715 Cromwell Hill, Austin, Tex.*
Lukken, Albert, 1315 South Florence, Tulsa, Okla.
Lumbard, Alta May, Pikeville College, Pikeville, Ky.*
Lund, Helen, 302-9th St., San Bernardino, Calif.*
Lund, Roy B., 835 N. Hollister, Pasadena, Calif.*
Lundgren, E. Carl, 315 Keys Ave., Springfield, Ill.* **
Lundgren, Mrs. E. Carl, 315 Keys Ave., Springfield, Ill.* *
Lundkvist, Lyllis D., 416 S. Ward, Compton, Calif.*
Lunn, Victor F., New Hampton, Iowa.*
Luoma, Charles E., 103 W. Central, Delaware, O.*
Lurie, Doris A., J. L. House, New Comb College, New Orleans, La.*
Luther, Verna H., 189 Washington, Muskegon, Mich.*
Lutkewitte, Margaret, 7321 Pershing Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Lutton, Charles E., Clark - Brewer Agency, 64 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.* **
Luttrell, Pearl, Bakersfield, Mo.* **
Luttrell, Samuel C., Green City, Mo.*
Lyders, Matthew, 53 Dake Ave., Rochester, N. Y.*
Lyman, Alice F., 3125 Jule St., St. Joseph, Mo.
Lyman, Cora, 500 East 44th, Kansas City, Mo.
Lyman, Ralph H., 357 W. 10th, Claremont, Calif.*
Lynch, Mrs. Gertrude T., 203 Third St., S. E., Waverly, Iowa.*
Lynch, Lucy, 2520-14th St. N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Lynch, Mary V., 58 Ames St., Worcester, Mass.*
Lyngby, Genevieve, 64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago*
Lynn, H. LeRoy, 216 Lincoln, Urbana, Ohio.*
Lynt, Barbara C., 13 Colony St., Ardsley, N. Y.*
Lyon, Florence, 3 Lyon Ct., Mt. Vernon, Ill.*
Lyon, Frances V., Box 151, Huntington Beach, Calif.*
Lyon, H. Lyle, 2333 First, Wyandotte, Mich.*
Lyon, Tyrie W., 511 North Taylor Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Lyons, Eulalia, 2923a S. Kings Hwy., St. Louis, Mo.* **
Lyons, Katherine, 20 Murray Pl, Princeton, N. J.*
Maasdam, Elizabeth, R. R. 2 A, Fairfield, Iowa.*
Maaser, Helen M., 1 Park Pl., Apt. 8, Athens, O.*
Maaske, Mrs. Margaret Lee, 504 North St., Chapel Hill, N. C.*
Maberry, Lucille S., 122 Paxson Ave., Schuykill Haven, Pa.*
Mac Collin, Paul, 3507 Peters Ave., Sioux City, Ia.
MacCoy, H. B., 20 Lansdowne Ct., Lansdowne, Pa.*
MacDonald, Emma W., 2105 E. 71st St., Chicago.*
MacDonald, Hazel, Maryland S. N. S., Towson, Md.*
MacDonald, Mrs. Leah Moyer, 547 Indianola Rd., Youngstown, Ohio.*
MacDonald, Sibyl, Federal Music Project, Millsaps Bldg., Jackson, Miss.*
MacDougall, Hamilton, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass.
Machirron, Helen, Wilamette Univ., Salem, Ore.*
MacKenzie, Edward G., P. O. Box 1444, Wenatchee, Washington.*
MacKenzie, Martha A., 18th and B Sts., San Bernardino, Calif.*
Mackie, Mrs. Virginia French, 5212 Mission Woods, Kansas City, Mo.
Mackinder, Irene, 312 Lester Ave., Oakland, Calif.*
Mac Lachlan, T. Robin, 41-47 149 Place, Flushing, N. Y.
MacLean, Viola R., 4153 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Mac Rae, Mabel, 603 Ash Ave., Ames, Ia.
Mac Rae, Tolbert, Music Department, Iowa State College, Ames, Ia.
Maddy, Joseph E., P. O. Box 608, Ann Arbor, Michigan.* **
Madison, Ruth C., Atchison, H. S., Atchison, Kansas.*
Madsen, Rev. Cletus P., St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Iowa.*
Madsen, Evan A., Gila Jr., Col., Thatcher, Ariz.*
Maesch, LaVahn K., 108 East Atlantic St., Appleton, Wis.
Maganini, Quinto, Calhoun Dr., Greenwich, Conn.
Magendanz, Johannes Maggart, Imogene, Potosi, Mo.*
Magnusson, Alice, 4503 Greenview Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Maguire, Mary J., 104 E. 12th St., Alton, Ill.*
Mahar, Mary, 12 W. Borden, Syracuse, N. Y.*
Maher, Helen C., 206 Comstock, Buffalo, N. Y.*
Maher, Marvin, 209 W. Elk St., Glendale, Calif.*
Mahoney, Allene, 121 North St., Nacogdoches, Tex.*
Mahood, Mrs. Herbert L., 86 Durand Rd., Maplewood, N. J.*
Maier, Hermann R., 240 Alpine Pl., Tuckahoe, N. Y.*
Main, Marjorie, Olympic Apts., Tacoma, Wash.*
Majeski, John F., 111 W. 57th St., New York City, N. Y.*
Major, Louise, 512 N. 5th, Ponca City, Okla.*
Makowsky, Bob, 210 West, Stillwater, Okla.* **
Maladey, Elizabeth A., Fairfax Apt. Hotel, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Malin, Donald F., Lyon & Healy, 64 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.* **
Mallory, Margaret Lord, Allerton Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio.*
Malone, Mary, Harold Flammer, Inc., 10 E. 43rd St., New York City, N. Y.*
Maltby, Mrs. A. Raymond, 6742 Paseo, Kansas City, Mo.
Malter, Hannah G., 135 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Mancini, Frank, Rte. 4, Box 1860, Modesto, Calif.*
Manchester, Arthur L., 511 South McQueen St., Florence, S. C.
Mangan, Martha, 138 Page Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.*
Mangrum, Jessie, 445 De Baliviere, St. Louis, Mo.*
Mann, Charlotte Louise, Cleveland H. S., St. Louis, Mo.*
Mann, Chester D., Jr., 611 East 47th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Mann, Elizabeth, M., 367 Harvard, Cambridge, Mass.*
Mann, Ella C. Jordan, Jr., H. S., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Mann, Mrs. Mabel P., Prospect St., Bloomfield, Connecticut.*
Mannheimer, Frank, 44 St. Leonard's Terrace, London, England.
Manning, Edward Betts
Manoly, Ludwig, 1311 Kennedy St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Mansfield, Louise, San Pedro H. S., 1221 S. Gaffey St., San Pedro, Calif.*
Mantell, M. Gladys, 713 Myrtle, Watertown, N. Y.*
Mapes, Alberta, 151 S. Main St., Winchester, Ill.*
Marble, Manette, 530 Riverside Drive, New York, N. Y.
Marcelli, Nino, 825 Union St., San Diego, Calif.*
Marchese, Antoinette M., 521 Olive, Kansas City, Mo.

Margrave, Russell L., Union H. S., Cass Grande, Ariz.*
Margrave, Wendell, 909 S. Normal, Carbondale, Ill.*
Marin, R. A. M., 1815-12th St., W. Vancouver, B. C. Canada.*
Markell, Ruth, 1147 Lincoln Ave., Pasadena, Calif.*
Markey, Kaarlo, 1131 W. 6th St., Ashtabula, Ohio.*
Markham, Margaret, 960 Central, Albany, N. Y.*
Markley, Audrey, 1231 N. Vine St., Tucson, Ariz.*
Marks, Mrs. Adam, Council Grove, Kans.
Marks, Robert W.
Marm, Anna, 741 North 2nd, Lindsborg, Kans.
Marquis, Clara O., 112 Brookfield, Lawrence, Mass.*
Marr, Virginia, 5888 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Marsh, C. Carolyn, Trumansburg Rd., Ithaca, N. Y.*
Marsh, Frank E., Jr., T. C., Hattiesburg, Miss.*
Marsh, Mrs. Harriet, 626 Hastings St., E. E., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Marsh, L. J., 117 Mason St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Marsh, Marjory Miller, Box 384, Ketchikan, Alaska.*
Marshall, John P., Boston Univ., Boston, Mass.*
Marshall, Margaret E., Wells Hall, Murray, Ky.*
Marshall, Mary Mahaffey, Colburn Hotel, Denver, Colo.*
Martensen, Thelma L., Len Morris College, Jacksonville, Tex.
Martin, Florence, Hall & McCreary Co., 434 S. Wabash, Chicago, Ill.*
Martin, Helen E., 802 N. Harrison, Wilmington, Del.*
Martin, Helen M., Jr. H. S., Pampa, Texas.*
Martin, Mrs. James C., 100 W. Franklin St., Richmond, Va.*
Martin, Mrs. Joe M., 122 West Cleveland, West Plains, Mo.
Martin, Lorraine M., 203 Central, San Francisco, Calif.*
Martin, Max R., 1621 Leavenworth St., Manhattan, Kans.
Martin, May E., Highland Hotel, Lead, S. Dak.*
Martin, Mildred, 8 Wollaston Ave., Arlington Heights, Mass.*
Martin, Pearl B., 447 Centennial St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Martin, Priscilla, 5291 Allendale, Detroit, Mich.*
Martin, Ruth J., Bethany College, Lindsborg, Kans.
Martinek, Marietta, Kingswood School Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, Mich.*
Martinson, Reuben A., Ensley H. S., Birmingham, Ala.*
Marty, Belle Marie, 820 Cedar, Long Beach, Calif.*
Marwick, Geraldine, 511 E. 86th St., New York City, N. Y.*
Mason, Alex G., 23 Magnolia, Dorchester, Mass.*
Mason, Henry L., 134 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.
Mason, Lela, 656 Maxwelton Ct., Lexington, Ky.*
Mason, LeRoy F., R. 3, Box 98, Baden Sta., St. Louis, Mo.*
Mason, Lucille T., 5109 Falls Road Ter., Baltimore, Maryland.*
Mason, Marjorie S., 3860 Charlotte, Kansas City, Mo.
Masters, Jose D., Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, Okla.
Matchett, Meta, 36 Porter St., Haddonfield, N. J.*
Matousek, Laura L., Union, Iowa.*
Matson, Dorothea, 1040 Princeton St., Santa Monica, Calif.*
Mattason, Maurice, State Teachers College, Frostburg, Md.
Mattern, David, School of Music, Univ. of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.*
Matteson, Mary Louise, 339 Vermont, Rochester, Pa.*
Matteson, Maurice J., S. T. C., Frostburg, Md.*
Mattfeld, Julius
Matthes, Mrs. Helen E., 316 S. Poplar St., Carbondale, Ill.*
Matthews, H. Alexander, 1714 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Matthews, Janet S., 1401 N. Walnut St., Oklahoma City, Okla.* **
Matthews, Paul W., 660 S. Limestone, Lexington, Ky.*
Mattingly, Pauline, 421 Cedar St., Morgantown, W. Va.*
Matz, Eugenia Adamus, 507 E. Buffalo, Ithaca, N. Y.*
Matz, Gertrude, 4411 Windsor, Kansas City, Mo.
Mauk, Mary Vic., S. T. C., Troy, Ala.*
Mauldin, Myrtle, Decatur, Miss.
Mauschbaugh, Margaret, 308 Heading, Peoria, Ill.*
Mautner, Edith Robechek
Maxson, Alice L., 447 Centennial St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Maxwell, L. R., Newcomb College, New Orleans, La.
May, Rodney F., Averill Park Central School, Averill Park, N. Y.*
Maybee, Harper C., 115 Buckley St., Kalamazoo, Michigan.*
Mayer, Camille, 401 S. Madison, Green Bay, Wis.*
Mayer, Francis N., 965 St. Clair, St. Paul, Minn.*
Mayer, Fred C., Jr., 324 N. Spring, Wilmington, Ohio*
Mayer, Sir Robert, 3 St. Helen's Place, London, E. C. 3, England.
Mayfield, Alpha, Iowa S. T. C., Cedar Falls, Iowa.*
Mayfield, Alpha C., Extension Division, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va.
Mayfield, Helen M., 2117 E. Alexandrine, Detroit, Mich.*
Maynard, Mrs. Ella P., 610 S. Lee St., Americus, Ga.*
Mayo, Mrs. W. Irving, Westminster, Vt.*
Mays, Eloise, Box 223, 1111 C. St., San Rafael, Calif.*
Mays, Verdis Lee, New Mexico Normal Univ., Las Vegas, N. Mex.*
McAllister, A. R., Joliet Twp. H. S., Joliet, Ill.*
McArthur, Grace E., 1001 S. Arch, Aberdeen, S. D.*
McBride, Helen, Cortland Apts., 354, Louisville, Ky.*
McBride, Heloise M., 604 E. 5th St., Tucson, Ariz.*
McBride, William B., 424½ S. Main, Ada, Ohio.*
McCachern, Geneva, Morgantown, N. C.*
McCall, Adeline, Box 843, Chapel Hill, N. C.*
McCall, Eileen L., San Francisco State College, San Francisco, Calif.*
McCall, Harla E., 505 West 20th, Ada, Okla.
McCann, Edna R., 354 S. Atlantic, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
McCargar, Dorothy, 324 Olive, Piedmont, Calif.*
McCarthy, Agnes F., 46 Burroughs St., Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.*
McCarthy, Lem C., Central Union High School, El Centro, Calif.*
McCauley, Clara J., 2007 Lake, Knoxville, Tenn.*
McCawley, Maude, Sheet Music Service, Inc., 618 Park Ave., S. W., Portland, Ore.*
McClanahan, Richard, 806 Steinway Bldg., 113 West 57th St., New York, N. Y.
McCleary, Billie, P. O. Box 4, Waterville, Wash.*
McClintock, Goldie I., 84 Sexton, Struthers, Ohio.*
McClure, Mrs. Mary F., Los Gatos Union High School, Los Gatos, Calif.*
McCollister, Edith, 516 Fourth St., Box 753 Rawlins, Wyo.*
McCollom, Donald L., Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, Okla.*
McCollough, Alma V., Chicora, Pa.*
McColly, Mary, Public Schools, Cairnbrook, Pa.*
McCombs, Lela M., 10 South 11th, Kansas City, Kans.
McConathy, Osbourne, 24 Snowden Pl., Glen Ridge, N. J.* **
McConnell, Sarah, 747 Third St., La Salle, Ill.
McConnell, Stanlie, Malverne Public Schools, Malverne, L. I., N. Y.*
McCook, Lilian Gerow, Louisiana S. N. C., Natchitoches, La.*
McCorkle, Gayle, Jefferson School, Ponca City, Okla.*
McCormac, Halstead, 2582 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa, Calif.*
McCormick, Arthur, R. D. 1, Conway Rd., Freedom, Pa.*
McCormick, Mrs. Winifred, 6 Genessee Park Blvd., Rochester, N. Y.*
McCracken, Blanche, 783 Lexington, Zanesville, O.*
McCray, Walter, College Station, Pittsburg, Kans.
McCrohan, James, Lower Lake Union High School, Lower Lake, Calif.*
McCrum, Raymond E., 833 W. Third, Webb City, Missouri.*
McCune, Mrs. Henry L., 5232 Oak, Kansas City, Mo.
McCutchan, Grace J., R. R. 8, Box 160, Evansville, Indiana.*
McCutchan, Robert Guy
McDevitt, Annetta, 2222 Auburn, Cincinnati, Ohio.*
McDonald, Elmer, 226 West Main, Collinsville, Ill.
McDonald, Harl
McDonald, Martina, 93 Moraine St., Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.*
McDonald, Mary I., 98 Vernon, Worcester, Mass.*
McDonald, Pearl E., 915 East Pine St., Seattle, Wash.
McDonald, Thane, Davidson Col., Davidson, N. C.* **
McDonnell, Flossie Belle, 712 Missouri Ave., Columbia, Mo.*
McEachern, Edna, N. J. S. T. C., Upper Montclair, N. J.*
McElvaney, Maude P., Highland Park Junior High School, Dallas, Tex.*
McFarlane, Marjorie, 403 Heil, El Centro, Calif.*
McGarrity, Bertram C., 211 E. Healey, Champaign, Illinois.*
McGranahan, Elizabeth B., 203 N. Wabash, Wheeling, W. Va.*
McGregor, Bernard R., University School of Music, Morgantown, W. Va.*
McGriff, Mrs. L. I., S. T. C., Livingston, Ala.*
McGroarty, Mrs. Margaret J., 2451 York, Denver.*
McHose, Clarence N., 205 W. Chestnut St., Lancaster, Pa.*
McIlroy, James, Jr., 129 Wynoka Ave., Pittsburgh.*
McIlwraith, Isa Roberta
McInerney, Anna L., 15 Francis Ave., Auburn, R. I.*

McIntire, Alice, 427 N. Broome, Wilmington, Del.*
McIntosh, David S., 504 S. Forest, Carbondale, Ill.*
McIntosh, Marie G., High School, Desloge, Mo.*
McKay, Anne R., 13943 Terry Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
McKay, Mary, 2222 Maple Ave., Evanston, Ill.*
McKee, Mrs. Amy W., 1584 San Nicholas St., Ventura, Calif.*
McKee, C. J., 1215 W. 5th, Coffeyville, Kan.*
McKee, Edna L., 302 Spaulding, Pullman, Wash.*
McKee, W. Dean, Iowa High School Music Assoc., Shenandoah, Iowa.*
McKelvie, Jane K., 44 Lebanon Hills Dr., Pittsburgh, 16, Pa.*
McKenzie, Duncan
McKinley, Ethel G., 6347 Irving Ave., Merchantville, N. J.*
McKinney, Lelia, 315 W. Liberty, Farmington, Mo.*
McKinney, Mrs. Nona, Hialeah Jr. High School, 320 E. Fifth St., Hialeah, Fla.*
McKray, Clees, 417 North College Ave., Fayetteville, Ark.
McKray, Ethel M., Box 125, Sully, Ia.
McLaughlin, Constance, 1043 N. Pilgrim St., Stockton, Calif.*
McLaughlin, Constance, 50 Aberdeen Pl., St. Louis, Missouri.*
McLaughlin, Mrs. John L., 2824 Benton Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
McLean, Lawrence, 1217 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.*
McClellan, Mrs. Myrtle, 934 Wilson, Fresno, Calif.*
McManis, Ruth, West Union, Ohio.*
McManus, Mildred, Provincial Normal School, Vancouver, B. C., Canada.*
McManus, Virginia, 400 N. 11th St., Apt. 3, Albuquerque, N. M.*
McMeans, C. E., Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, Arkansas.*
McMichael, Gertrude R., Box 854, Sapulpa, Okla.*
McNaughton, C. David, Indian Mountain School, Lakeville, Conn.*
McNeal, Alma, 304 E. Main St., Lebanon, Ind.*
McNeal, Mary Witters, 4111 Harrison St., Kansas City, Mo.
McNeely, Edwin, 1810 Broadus St., Fort Worth, Tex.
McNeely, Nancy E., 11 E. Bank St., Winston-Salem, North Carolina.*
McNeil, Carol M., S. T. C., Inst., 220 N. Agassiz St., Flagstaff, Ariz.*
McNeil, J. Douglas, 215 E. 18th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.*
McNeil, Ruth, Univ. of Mississippi, Oxford, Miss.*
McNeill, Margaret E., Rauh Building, 57 E. 4th, Dayton, O.
McNew, Kathryne L., 317 N. 5th, Ponca City, Okla.*
McNulty, Dorothy, 170 Broadway, Passaic, N. J.*
McPheeters, Claudia, Milwaukee-Downer College, Milwaukee, Wis.
McPherson, Josephine, Jr. Col., Moberly, Mo.*
McTaggart, Edwin G., 408 Euclid, N., Pierre, S. D.*
McVeigh, Josephine Katharine, Congers School, Congers, N. Y.*
McWhirter, John A., 1006 Arthur, Des Moines, Ia.*
*Mead, Edward G. ***
Means, Anna K., 321 East Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.
Mear, S. E., Whitewater H. S., Whitewater, Wisc.*
Mecaskie, Elsie C., Sr. H. S., Atlantic City, N. J.*
Mechalson, George J., 5602 Washington Ct., St. Louis, Mo.*
Mecham, Mrs. Kirke, 809 Land, Topeka, Kans.
Meechan, Mary C., 2615 East Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.
Meek, Louis E., 2218 E 24th St., Granite City, Ill.*
Mehl, Lydia O., Goodwell, Okla.
Meierhaffer, Virginia, S. N. S., Fredonia, N. Y.*
Meinrath, Mrs. Joseph, 4605 Holmes St., Kansas City, Mo.
Meiser, W. Donald, 201 High St., Zelienople, Pa.*
Mekan, Frank Ernest, 214 S. Elm St., Dexter, Mo.*
Melander, Carl G., 1600 13th Ave., Greeley, Colo.
Melbourne, J. L., 3342 Tracy, Kansas City, Mo.
Melin, Edward L., 201 E. Parker, Slater, Mo.*
Meloney, Grace B., Roosevelt Jr. H. S., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Meloy, Elizabeth E., Ball S. T. C., Muncie, Ind.*
Melton, Ronald E., Box 71, South Whitely, Ind.*
Meltzer, Edward J., 5632 Wayne Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Melvin, Ruth, 221 E. A. St., Wellston, Ohio.*
Menaul, Anna E., 22 W. Dayton St., Madison, Wisc.*
Mendel, Arthur
Mendel, Mrs. Gertrude N., 44 Waverly St., Roxbury, Mass.*
Mendez, Joy, 212 Gwinnett St. W., Savannah, Ga.*
Menges, F. C., 10115 Flora Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Menz, Olive, 3651 Burlington, St. Petersburg, Fla.*
Mercer, Walter C., 312 N. 9th St., Richmond, Va.*
Merchant, May, 422 Linden St., Camden, N. J.*
Merker, J. C., 121 John St., Newport, R. I.*
Merrel, William B., 198 Academy, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.*
Merriam, R. H., c/o Joseph T. Dunham & Co., Chatham, N. J.*
Merritt, A. Tillman
Mertz, Janet A., 144 Park Place, Decatur, Ill.*
Meserve, Grace M., 31 Mawney, Providence, R. I.*
Mesh, Esther E., Box 23, Randolph, Vt.*
Mess, Clara S., 2200 19th St., N. W., No. 509, Washington, D. C.*
Messer, Alex, 1339 Cordova Rd., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Metcalf, Frank J.
Metcalf, Holace, High School, Inglewood, Calif.*
Metcalf, T., Middlesboro, Ky.*
Metfessel, Milton F.
Methvin, Mrs. John O., 908 2nd, Columbus, Ga.*
Metz, Edwards M., 213 West First, Sioux City, Ia.
Metz, Robert Roy, Kimball Hall, Chicago, Ill.
Meyer, Arnold F., 55 South 21st St., Kansas City, Mo.
Meyer, Clara, 393 North Euclid St., Euclid, Mo.
Meyer, Mrs. Dorothy J., 196 Dell Ave., Pittsburgh, S. H. B. Pa.*
Meyer, E. G., 607 S. Mt. Joy St., Elizabethtown, Pa.*
Meyer, Leland M., Stronghurst, Ill.*
Meyer, Leontone, 6712 McCune, St. Louis, Mo.*
Meyer, Pauline A., S. N. S., Cortland, N. Y.*
Meyn, Harry, 258 Lexington St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Michaels, A. F., 225 Rush St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Mickle, Mabel E., 3409 Baldwin Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Middleton, Duff E., 622 S. Chautauqua, Wichita, Kansas.*
Middleton, James W., 125 S. Washington, New Bremen, Ohio*
Miessner, W. Otto, 1220 W. 6th St., Lawrence, Kansas.* **
Milam, Mrs. Lena, 1693 Pennsylvania Ave., Beaumont, Texas.*
Milburn, Faye, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Miles, Mrs. Mildred H., Staunton School, Pleasant Hill, Ohio.*
Miller, Amy G., 101 N. Hill Ave., Pasadena, Calif.*
Miller, Audrey G., 204 Hayward St., Woodstock, Ill.
Miller, Bessie, 2746 N. 10th St., Kansas City, Kans.* **
Miller, Byron L., 409 Oak St., Centralia, Wash.*
Miller, Charles H., 13 S. Fitzhugh, Rochester, N. Y.*
Miller, Dayton C.
Miller, Dorothy, 1903 Morrison Rd., N. W. Roanoke, Va.*
Miller, Dorothy Adams, 3023 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.
Miller, Dorothy B., 240 Magnolia, Mt. Lebanon, Pa.*
Miller, Dorothy Enlow, 2000 Kentucky St., Lawrence, Kans.
Miller, Edith May, 2961 Pacific, Omaha, Nebr.
Miller, Elsa S., 20 Scio, Rochester, N. Y.*
Miller, Florence Lynch, P. O. Box 17, La Grande, Oregon.*
Miller, Frances L., Pomeroy H. S., Pomeroy, Wash.*
Miller, George C., 419 S. High St., Hillsboro, Ohio.*
Miller, Gertrude, Willis Music Co., 137 W. 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio*
Miller, Horace Alden
Miller, Isabel M., 730 Euclid, Detroit, Mich.*
Miller, James Moore, 3365 Milwaukee Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Miller, Jessie M., 2400 Elmwood, Kansas City, Mo.
Miller, Leo C., 193 N. Euclid Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Miller, Lois, 9 W. Oakdale Ave., Glenside, Pa.*
Miller, Louise D., 408 Empire Trust Building, St. Joseph, Mo.
Miller, Mrs. Lu, 2400 Elmwood, Kansas City, Mo.
Miller, Lucille, Hayti, Mo.*
Miller, Mrs. M. V., 7303 Virginia, Kansas City, Mo.
Miller, Margaret, 1011 Fulton Rd., N. W. Canton, Ohio*
Miller, Marguerite, Lilbourn, Mo.*
Miller, May Catherine, 5044 Grand Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Miller, Mrs. Morris, 335 Broad St., Apt. 33, Red Bank, N. J.*
Miller, Rhea E., 1008 Hancock, Saginaw, Mich.*
Miller, Ruth E., 1733 Arvey, Parkersburg, W. Va.*
Miller, Ruth M., 2910 Sacramento St., St. Joseph, Mo.
Miller, Wm. E., Draper Apts., Milford, Del.*
Miller, Wm. Hugh, Fort Hays Kansas State College, Hays, Kans.
Miller, Wm. Hugh, Pekin H. S., Pekin, Ill.*
Millikin, Marguerite V., 1005 N. Madison St., Wilmington, Del.*
Mills, Violet, East Oregon N. S., La Grande, Ore.*
Millsap, Rose Ann Carr, 106 West Armour, Kansas City, Mo.

Milnes, Harold P., Silver Burdett Co., 45 E. 17th St., New York City. N. Y.*
Milton, Bertha A., 1531 College Ave., Topeka, Kans.
Milton, Robert W., 3610 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Miner, Bess E., 321 E. 2nd St., Apt. 1, Bloomington, Ind.*
Miner, Phyllis S., N. Y. S. T. S. Hudson, N. Y.*
Miner, Sarah A., 803 W. Decatur St., Decatur, Ill.*
Minick, Perl A., 2240 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit, Mich.*
Mininberg, I. M., 1346 Chapel St., New Haven, Conn.
Minnichbach, Leo F., Pottsville H. S., 1808 Elk Ave., Pottsville, Pa.*
Minor, Alleine R., Woman's College of University of North Carolina, Greensboro, N. C.
Minor, C. W., Corcoran, Calif.*
Minturn, W. St. Clare, 535 W. Mason, Decatur, Ill.* **
Mitchell, Bernice O., 3004 Seneca, St. Joseph, Mo.
Mitchell, Hamer, R. 1, Lima, Ohio.*
Mitchell, Janet D., Box 324, Amityville, L. I. N. Y.*
Mitchell, Josephine, 1409 Rosewood, Louisville, Ky.*
Mitchell, Lillian A., Howard University, Washington, D.C.
Mitchell, Max A., Oklahoma A. & M. College, Stillwater, Okla.* **
Mitchell, Rita M., 121 S. Benton Way, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Mitchell, W. Merwyn, 826 Burke Ave., N. E. Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Mitchell, William J.
Mitschrich, Florence, 541 N. Seventh St., Ponca City, Okla.*
Moag, Mrs. Laura, 4453 Central Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.*
Mochlmann, Roland T., Franklin H. S., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Mohl, Evangeline Louise, 238 East Wisconsin Ave., Russell, Kans.
Mohr, Elsa, 3213 N. 17th St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Mohr, Hilda C., 3623 Phillips Pl., St. Louis, Mo.*
Moller, Dora, 605 City Hall, Omaha, Nebr.*
Monahan, Clementine, 356 N. Claybrook, Apt. 8, Memphis, Tenn.*
Moncrieff, Mrs. Alice, 907 Arkansas St., Lawrence, Kans.
Monfort, Lucienne, 1117 Grayton Rd., Grosse Pointe, Mich.
Monlux, Zelma, c/o Waukesha H. S., Waukesha, Wisconsin.*
Monroe, Anna M., 3248 Wellington, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Monroe, Samuel Frederic, 8 Columbia Ave., Trenton, N. J.*
Montandon, Blaise, 419 East 15th, Tulsa, Okla.
Montani, Nicola A., 1705 Rittenhouse Square, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Montgomery, Marna, Buckley, Washington.*
Montgomery, Mrs. Merle, Southwestern T. C., Weathersford, Okla.*
Montgomery, Merle A., 507 Oklahoma Club, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Moon, Doris E., 5519 Cimarron St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Moor, Arthur Pritchard
Moore, Alice O., 204 Fig St., Porterville, Calif.*
Moore, Carl T., Warner, Ohio.*
Moore, Clifford, Tamalpias H. S., Mill Valley, Calif.*
Moore, Delbert W., 902 S. 11th, Corvallis, Ore.*
Moore, Douglas
*Moore, Earl V. ***
Moore, Mrs. Earl V., 300 39th St., Washington, D.C.
Moore, Edwin B., 715 Jenkins, Norman, Okla.*
Moore, Florida, H. S., Maysville, Mo.*
Moore, Fred T., 149 New Montgomery St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Moore, Helen Clarke, 35 Pierrepont St., Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Moore, Gladys F., 245 West College St., Oberlin, O.
Moore, Irene Marie, 1092 Williams, Lebanon, Ore.*
Moore, Lyle W., Gonzaga Univ., Spokane, Washington.*
Moore, M. Eleanor, School No. 44, Hartford Rd., & 32nd St., Baltimore, Md.*
Moore, Mary C., 7051 Pershing, St. Louis, Mo.*
Moore, Mary Carr, Chapman College, Los Angeles, Cal.
Moore, Thomas, 2740 Voelkel Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Moore, Trixie M., 173 W. 28th St., Holland, Mich.*
Mora, Flora, Escobar, 258 Alto, Havana, Cuba.
Moran, N. Edith, 39 Everett St., Arlington, Mass.*
Moran, Thomas E., 28 Emerson Rd., Watertown, Mass.
More, Grace Van Dyke, Woman's College, Univ. of N. C., Greensboro, N. Car.*
Morgan, Anne, 3125 Olive, Kansas City, Mo.
Morgan, Haydn M., Newton P.S., Newtonville, Mass.*
Morgan, Lena, Los Angeles H. S., 4600 Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Morgan, Mary G., Montant St., El Paso, Tex.
Morgan, Russell, V., Board of Education, Suite 120, 1380 E. 6th St., Cleveland, Ohio.* **
Morgan, Vincent, 14 Orchard St., Amherst, Mass.
Morlock, Matilda, S. T. C. West Chester, Pa.*
Morrette, Marlin E., 529 W. Simpson St., Mechanicsburg, Pa.*
Morris, Doris H., 1818 S. Washington St., Marion, Indiana.*
Morris, Mrs. Emma, 3761 Flora Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Morrison, Don, Box 85, Oberlin, Ohio.
Morrow, Anne, 21 Lakeview Ave., Rochester, N. Y.*
Morrow, Bernice, 623 Allen St., South Bend, Ind.*
Morse, Helen Ide, 1441 B. St., Hayward, Calif.*
Morse, Wort S., Jenkins Building, Kansas City, Mo.
Mortiboy, Forrest E., 1427 Elm St., Davenport, Iowa.*
Moseley, Lauria E., 470 Stella St., Elgin, Ill.*
Mosher, Gladys S., 4 Maple Dr., Great Neck, L. I. N. Y.*
Mossman, Isabelle, 5072 Sangster Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.*
Mother M. Carrhagh, Rev. Academy of the Presentation, Turk & Masonic Ave., San Francisco, Calif.*
Mott, Margaret McNamara
Mottern, Elizabeth R., 211 N. Adams St., Glendale, Calif.*
Mouldie, Helena B., 1042 Spaight, Madison, Wis.*
Moulin, Marian L., McCloud H. S., McCloud, Calif.*
Mount, Roderick, 518 E. Valerio, Santa Barbara.*
Mount, W. W., Technical H. S., Memphis, Tenn.*
Mourning, Betty, 2018 Orville, Kansas City, Kans.
Mowe, Homer G., 166 West 72nd St., New York, N. Y.
Moylan, Catherine, 1709 Weeks Ave., Superior, Wis.*
Muckensturm, Chas., 122 N. 31st, Belleville, Ill.*
Mueller, Erna R., 2718 N. Maryland, Milwaukee.*
Mueller, Senta, Commercial H. S., Atlanta, Ga.*
Mueller, Therese von Nostitz, 610 North Sheridan, Bay City, Mich.
Muenzer, Esther Payne, 109 South Summit St., Iowa City, Ia.
Mugler, Minnie, 406 South Maple, McPherson, Kans.
Muldoon, Jane E., 12850 Freeland, Detroit, Mich.*
Muldowney, Mary H., Teachers Col., Indiana, Pa.*
Mullikin, Clifford, Albion, Idaho.*
Mullis, Mrs. Robert, 621 First Ave., Council Bluffs, Ia.
Munk, C. W., 262 Beech St., Berea, Ohio.*
Munns, Hazel P., Columbia City, Ind.*
Munro, Kathleen, Univ. of Washington, Seattle.*
Munsie, Elizabeth K., 325 E. 79th St., N. Y. C.*
Munson, Mary Helen, 606 E. Main St., Morenci, Michigan.*
Murdoch, Marion E., 7426 Boyer St., Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Murdock, S. Ozell, State Dept. of Education, City Hall, San Angelo, Tex.*
Murlin, Maree, 311 Brush Creek Blvd., Apt. 203, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Murphy, Mrs. Franklin, 848 West 57th St., East, Kansas City, Mo.
Murphy, Howard A., Music Education Dept., Teachers Col., Columbia Univ., New York City.*
Murphy, Marie, 5524 Harrison St., Kansas City, Mo.
Murphy, Mrs. Nellie Custer, R. R. 12, Box 320, Sayler Park, Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Murray, Catharine, 1223 Vermont Ave., N. W., Washington, D.C.*
Murray, Cornelia K., 2105 E. Glenoakes Blvd., Glendale, Calif.*
Murray, Helen E., 4209 Washington, Chicago, Ill.*
Murray, Josephine, 443 - 16th, Santa Monica, Calif.*
Murray, Marjorie, Cambria, Ia.
Murray, Willie E., 709 North 7th, Tonkawa, Okla.
Murrell, Virginia, Bellevue H. S., Bellevue, Ky.*
Mursell, James L., 527 Riverside Dr., N. Y. C.*
Musson, Mrs. Inez, Hartland Music Hall, Hartland, Mich.*
Mustol, S. J., Y. M. C. A., Santa Ana, Calif.*
Mutton, Gertrude, Whitworth Col., Brookhaven, Mississippi.*
Myerovich, Alvin, Youngstown College, Youngstown, O.
Myers, Elizabeth, 508 Central Ave., Oaklane, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Myers, Mrs. Helen I. Halsey, 342 Main St., Oneida, N. Y.*
Myers, Wilma, Van Buren, Ind.*
Naffziger, Clarence A., 224 S. Main, Sidney, O.*
Nagro, C. F., 68 Miner, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.*
Nahum, Mrs. Louis H., 85 Loomis Place, New Haven, Conn.
Nansen, Leola, Route 5, North Kansas City, Mo.
Nansen, Mabel L., 306 Miami St., Hiawatha, Kans.
Nash, Alma M., 3110 Brooklyn Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Nash, Florence M., Roslyn Heights, N. Y.*
Nassi, Thomas G., Nauset Rd., Orleans, Mass.*

Nathan, Hans.
Naumann, Charlotte, 5956 Clemens Ave., St. Louis.*
Nealon, Agnes, 214 Harrison Ave., Scranton, Pa.*
Needham, Catherine, 1930 Harlem, Rockford, Ill.*
Neeson, Richard T., 1819 Deer Park Ave., Louisville, Ky.*
Neff, Charlotte B., 258 Powers St., New Brunswick, N. J.*
Neff, John W., 625 Locust St., Indiana, Pa.*
Neft, Eleanor, 916 S. Dunsmuir, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Negbaur, Mrs. Hal K., 801 West 58th Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Neil, Geo. F., P. O. Box 696, Vallejo, Calif.*
Neil, Grace L., Sabetha, Kans.
Nelson, Ada H., 4130 N. Tripp Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Nelson, Carl, 2119 Ave. H, Ft. Madison, Iowa.*
Nelson, Mrs. E. A., Phillipsburg, Kans.
Nelson, Ellen J., 60 W. Silver St., Westfield, Mass.*
Nelson, Esther, 4 E. Marlborough Apt., South St., Kalamazoo, Mich.*
Nelson, Flora S., 3308 Lincoln Blvd., Omaha, Nebr.
Nelson, Geneva, 505 N. 10th Ave., Valley City, North Dakota.*
Nelson, Gustav A., 530 E. 6th St., Erie, Pa.*
Nelson, Lucille, Wesleyan Conservatory, Macon, Ga.*
Nelson, Marian, 5635 Highland, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Nelson, Russell, 732 Michigan Ave., Adrian, Mich.*
Nelson, Ruth D., 5330 Queens Ave., St. Louis.*
Nelson, Wallace, 415 N. 1st Ave., Maywood, Ill.*
Nelthorpe, Marion R., 416 W. Lovett St., Charlotte, Mich.*
Neppert, Florence E., 1362 Van Ness Ave., S., San Francisco, Calif.*
Neppert, Julia M., 1362 Van Ness Ave., S., San Francisco, Calif.*
Nesbit, Esther E., 415 W. Washington, Hartford City, Ind.*
Nesbit, Pearl, 563 Johnson St., Kingston, Ont., Canada.*
Neth, Mildred C., 631 Laurelton Rd., Rochester, New York.*
Nettleton, Howard A., 118½ Pleasant St., Concord, New Hampshire.*
Netz, Etta A., 2311 Tenth Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Neufeld, Harriette, Emmetsburg, Ia.*
Neuffler, Marie, 4 W. Benson St., Reading, Ohio.*
Neville, Robert, Tower H. S., Wilmington, Del.*
New, L. T., Jr., Goldsboro H. S., Goldsboro, N. C.*
Newbill, Mrs. Tyree G., 7228 Belleview Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Newcomb, Claude R., Kansas State Teachers College, Pittsburg, Kans.
Newell, Mabelle, 1666 Atkinson Ave., Detroit.*
Newgard, Vera, Hull, Iowa.*
Newhard, Helen M., 262 E. Ninth St., Northampton, Pa.*
Newman, Loretta, 3900 Harrison, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Newman, Susie B., 3241 Victor Place, Wichita, Kans.
Newton, Doris I., R. F. D. No. 1, Lowell, Mass.*
Newton, Elbridge W., 15 Ashburton Pl., Boston.*
Newton, Harold, 1017 Washington St., Kansas City, Mo.
Newton, Margaret M., 611 8th Ave., S., Moorhead, Minn.*
Newton, Ruth J., 182 Main St., Cooperstown, N. Y.*
Nicholas, Charles K., Morton H. S., Cicero, Ill.*
Nicholas, Louis T., 515 North McLean, Memphis, Tenn.
Nicholas, Thelma, 631 North St., Logansport, Ind.*
Nicholls, Mary W., 8006 Susquehanna St., Wilkinsburg, Pa.*
Nichols, Mrs. W. I., 154½ E. 15th, Tulsa, Okla.*
Nickels, C. E., Miltonvale, Kans.
Nickels, Mrs. Lucy Q., 3710 Jarbre, Kansas City, Mo.
Nicoll, Mrs. Irene H., 201 Waller, San Francisco.*
Nielson, Karl B., Alma, Kans.
Nightingale, Mrs. Mae, 5814 La Mirada, Hollywood, Calif.*
Nim Y Castellanos, Joaquin
Nischwitz, W. A., 3716 Glenwood Ave., Youngstown, Ohio.*
Nitsche, Theodore H., 1408 N. 29th, Philadelphia.*
Nivens, Laurence, 3760 Highland, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Nixon, Inez, 351 S. Jackson St., Frankfort, Ind.*
Noah, Max Stephen, Milledgeville, Ga.*
Nofziger, Dwight E., Bowling Green State Univ., Bowling Green, O.*
Nohavec, Mrs. Hazel Beckwith, 4715 13th Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Noland, Bernitz, Belton, Mo.
Noland, Morris A., Roosevelt Jr., H. S., Decatur, Ill.*
Norden, Laura Howell, Box 512, Wilmington, N. C.
Norden, N. Lindsay
Norman, Elsie Frisbie, 16 East 45th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Norman, John, 1501 S. Broadway, Shelbyville, Ill.*
Normann, Prof. Theodore F., School of Education, Univ. of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.* **
Norris, Herbert T., Washington State College, Pullman, Wash.*
North, Mrs. Ida J., 1710 Tenth St., Sacramento.*
Northrop, Harriet, 408 E. Lincoln, Wheaton, Ill.*
Norton, M.D. Herter
Norton, William W., Flint Com Music Assoc., Flint, Mich.* **
Nourse, A. Gertrude, Turin Rd., Rome, N. Y.*
Nourse, Ruth H., Stratford Apt., Billings, Mont.*
Novick, Herman, Nogales, Ariz.*
Novikow, Elias, Okla. College for Women, Chickasha, Okla.* **
Nusbaum, W. W., 1221 J. Q. Adams St., Oregon City, Oregon.*
Nye, Bernard B., 1 Clove Rd., New Rochelle, N. Y.*
Nygaard, Marius J., Haynesville High School, Haynesville, La.*
Nygren, Gladys, 508 Ellinwood, Osage City, Kans.*
Nyvall, David, Jr., 1518 E. 65th Pl., Chicago, Ill.*
Oakes, J. Thomas, 3635 N. 56th St., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Ober, Mrs. Vincent Hilles, Bankers Trust Bldg., Norfolk, Va.* **
Oberg, Paul M., University of Wichita, Wichita, Kans.
O'Brian, Mrs. Jake, 30 Walnut, Springfield, Tenn.*
O'Brien, Elizabeth Ann, 3 Stafford, Roxbury, Mass.*
O'Brien, Kathryn F., 45 Rosedale, Rochester, N. Y.*
O'Brien, T. Carroll, 538 E. Church Rd., Elkins Park, Pa.*
O'Callaghan, Anne Grace, 130-11th St., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.*
O'Callaghan, W. J., Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind.*
O'Connor, Esther C., 37 Washington St., Marlboro, Mass.*
O'Connor, Katherine, 534 Broadway, Paterson, N. J.*
O'Connor, Michael D., 3341 Wyandotte, Kansas City, Mo.
Oder, Eleanor E., R. R. 2, Crestline, O.*
Oetting, Franklin H., 2812-4th Ave., Pueblo, Colo.*
Ogden, Mildred, Brooksville, Ky.*
Ogle, Robert B., 478 South Ashland Ave., Lexington, Ky.
O'Hara, Geoffrey, 115 Winnebago, Tuckahoe, N. Y.*
O'Hara, Kathleen, 278 Rutgers St., Rochester, N. Y.*
O'Hara, Marvel G., 15805 Ilene, Detroit, Mich.*
O'Hearn, Mary, 1227 Bryn Mawr, Scranton, Pa.*
Ohlendorf, Fred, Long Beach Public Schools, Long Beach, Calif.*
Ohlinger, Mrs. Jessie, P. O. Box 75, Reddick, Fla.*
O'Keane, Frances, 316 E. 26th, Vancouver, Wash.*
O'Keeffe, Helen R., Frederick Rd. near Nunnery Lane, Catonsville, Md.*
Olcott, Marie, 839 Main St., Gand Junction, Colo.
O'Leary, Jean, 1474 Amherst St., Buffalo, N. Y.*
Olin, Anna, 607 E. Charles, Muncie, Ind.*
Oliver, Gladys E., 107 Gakenwold, Staunton, Va.*
Oliver, Irene A., 627 Louisiana, Lawrence, Kans.
Olsen, Bertha E., Glenville State Teachers College, Glenville, W. Va.*
Olsen, Fern K., 3200 Kinwood, Kansas City, Mo.
Olsen, Paul, 307 South 2nd, Clinton, Mo.
Olsgard, Margaret E., 215 Elm, Rhinelander, Wis.*
Olson, Avary H., 607 S. 14th Ave., Yakima, Wash.*
Olson, Clair C.
O'Malley, Sarah E., 5043 Adams St., Chicago.*
Omeis, William, 2731 Idlewood, Youngstown, Ohio.*
O'Neil, Agnes B., McKinley School, Burlingame, Calif.*
O'Neill, Chas., The Citadel, Quebec, Ont., Canada.*
Opperman, Ella S., Florida State College, Tallahassee, Fla.
Orcut, Ruth, 1201 Oread, Lawrence, Kans.
Orme, Douglas, 1424 F. 4th Ave., Eugene, Ore.*
O'Rourke, William, 148 West 72nd St., New York, N. Y.
Orr, Hildred, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Orth, W. Fred, Jr., Y.M.C.A., Wilmington, Del.*
Ortmann, Otto
Osborne, Chester G., 8 Winter St., Reading, Mass.*
Osborne, Kenneth R., 274 Maple, Holland, Mich.
Osburn, Mrs. Raymond, 337 West 9th Ave., Columbus, O.
Osburn, Robert Lee, 551 Park, River Forest, Ill.*
Osman, A. M., Sidney, Mont.*
O'Steen, Alton, Bureau of Educational Research, Ohio State Univ., Columbus, O.*
Osterloh, C. F., Moberly, Mo.*
Ostlund, Helga K., American Book Co., 360 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Ostrander, L. Herbert, 192 Clay St., Rochester, Pa.*

Ostrander, Mrs. Marie Clark, Box 836, Humboldt Junior College, Arcata, Calif.*
Oswald, Velma L., 862 Main St., Slatington, Pa.*
Ott, Ruth, 1402 Main St., St. Joseph, Mo.
Otte, John B., 319 N. 25th St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Ottersen, Ragna, Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C.*
Otterstein, Adolph W., S. T. C., San Jose, Calif.*
Ottinger, Mrs. Pauline G., 15076 Sussex, Detroit.*
Ounsworth, Marjorie Kathryn, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Ousley, Myra E., 635 Forty-sixth, Des Moines, Ia.
Overgard, Graham T., Director of Bands, Wayne University, Detroit, Mich.*
Overholt, Charles E., 409 W. Ft. Scott, Butler, Mo.*
Overholt, Frances, Victoria Hotel, Des Moines, Ia.*
Owen, Frank E., 2 Redfield Pkwy., Batavia, N. Y.*
Owen, Herman, 160 Delmar St., San Francisco.*
Owen, Murray, 213 E. "J" St., Ontario, Calif.*
Owsley, Louise, American Book Co., 300 Pike St., Cincinnati, O.*
Ozarin, Sylvia, 166 W. Utica St., Buffalo, N. Y.*
Paarmann, William A., 1220 Warren, Davenport, Ia.*
Packard, Donald W., Walden H. S., Walden, N. Y.*
Packer, A. O., Dieges & Clust, 17 John, N. Y. C.*
Paddock, Dorothy, 2634 Brooks, Richmond, Calif.*
Paff, W. Conrad, 423 Cobun, Morgantown, W. Va.*
Page, Ethel, 841 Post Rd., Scarsdale, N. Y.
Page, Nathaniel C., 410 Lancaster, Haverford, Pa.*
Paine, Ruth C., University High School, 11800 Texas Ave., West Los Angeles, Calif.*
Painter, Paul, Winfield H. S., Winfield, Kans.*
Palm, Augustus O., 340 Resor Ave., Cincinnati, O.
Palmer, Claude E., Ball S. T. C., Muncie, Ind.*
Palmer, Donald, 2239 Malcolm Ave., West Los Angeles, Calif.*
Palmer, H. G., Ellinwood Pub. S., Ellinwood, Kans.*
Palmer, Mary Ruth, Central Jr. H. S., Anderson, Ind.*
Parfitt, Ivor, 3282-26th, West, Vancouver, B. C., Canada.*
Park, S. Norman, 1055 Archwood, Lorain, Ohio.*
Park, Mrs. Winifred A., 12943 Clifton Blvd., Suite 206, Lakewood, Ohio.*
Parke, Charles Ernest, 1301 Pirl, McKeesport, Pa.*
Parker, Alvin D., 21 Claflin Pl., Newtonville, Mass.*
Parker, Bernice, Fountain School, Pueblo, Colo.*
Parker, Mrs. C. F., 645 Osage, Augusta, Kans.
Parker, Dorothy Louise, 702 Goethe, Hermann, Mo.*
Parker, Florence Evelyn, 118 Carr Dr., Glendale, Calif.*
Parker, Fred H., Columbia College, Columbia, S. C.
Parkinson, Mrs. J. A., 3225 Pasco, Kansas City, Mo.
Parkinson, Jane, Colorado Woman's Club, Denver, Colo.
Parks, Helen Mae, 626 Orient Drive, Kansas City, Mo.
Parks, Lottie Frances, 308 Fourth, Yuma, Ariz.*
Parman, Milton C., 66 W. High St., London, Ohio.*
Parman, Virgil F., 1200 Ave. B., Dodge City, Kans.*
Parmelee, Mrs. Anna Grace, 431 S. New St., Springfield, Ill.*
Parmley, Lula C., 55 Sierra Bonita Ave., Pasadena, California.*
Parrish, Carl
Parrish, Clarence F., Kimball Bldg., Room 1228, Chicago, Ill.* **
Parrott, J. R., 386 Fairview Ave., Elmhurst, Ill.*
Parrott, Lucy, 3924 McGee St., Kansas City, Mo.
Parrott, Vera Jane, 2715 Copeley, San Diego, Calif.*
Parson, Ruth M., 920 Maplewood, Ambridge, Pa.*
Parsons, Alice B., Holmes Jr. H. S., Covington, Ky.*
Parsons, Mrs. Gertrude B., 1836 S. Wilton Pl., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Parsons, Roy M., 446 W. Maplehurst Ave., Ferndale, Mich.*
Partlow, Miriam, Liberty, Tex.*
Partridge, Harriet, 14 Arthur Ave., Blasdell, N. Y.*
Partridge, Roland Edward, 528 W. 111th St., New York City
Partridge, Mrs. Vaughn L., 805 West 6th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Patee, Mary C., 874 Bellevue Ave., Trenton, N. J.*
Patrick, G. W., 864 Columbia St., Springfield, Ill.*
Patterson, Mrs. Lettie, Box 331, St. Johns, Ariz.*
Patton, Carolyn J., 224 S. Green, Wichita, Kans.*
Patton, Mary L., 5816 Julian Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Patz, Mrs. Milton D., 5851 Morrowfield, Pittsburgh.*
Paul, John B., Mulvane, Kans.
Paul, Katharine S., Girard Col., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Paulger, Mrs. Vesta R., 257 W. 12th, Apt. 2, Tulsa, Oklahoma.*
Pauly, Lamoyne, 2422 Cleveland, Granite City, Ill.*
Paxton, J. Russell, 5505 Pleasant Run Pkwy., Indianapolis, Ind.*
Payne, Aldythe M., 208 South 8th, Salina, Kans.
Payne, Eunice M., 2150 Pennsylvania Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Payne, May de Forest
Paysen, M., Mgr., Paysen Mfg. Co., Hebron, Nebr.*
Peabody, Irene, University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kans.
Pearsall, John V., 161 Argyle Pl., Arlington, N. J.*
Pearson, Charles A. H.
Pearson, Dorothy J., Chatfield, Minn.*
Pearson, Martin, 2314 Swatzel Rd., Kansas City, Kans.
Pearson, Walter, 62 Holly St., Lawrence, Mass.*
Pearson, Winifred, 112 N. 2nd St., Alhambra, Calif.*
Pease, Adelaide R., 133 Cobb Ave., Decatur, Ill.*
Pease, Donald J., 95 Beekman Ave., North Tarrytown, N. Y.*
Pease, Ralph E., 221 Fairmont Ave., Oakland, Calif.*
Peck, Ernest M., Payson, Ill.*
Peck, Samuel A. W., 26 Vine St., Reading, Mass.*
Pederson, Ann, Flathead Country H. S., Kalispell, Montana.*
Peery, Rob Roy, c/o Theodore Presser Co., 1712 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.* **
Peickert, Frances, Chicago N. C., 68th & Stewart Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Peithman, Harlan, Ill. State Nor. Univ., Normal, Ill.* **
Pelton, Marion H., 1127 Laramie, Manhattan, Kans.
Pemberton, Charles, School of Music, U.S.C., University Park, Los Angeles, Calif.
Pendleton, Mrs. George C., 1410 W. Maine, Durant, Okla.*
Pennington, Lauretta, 804 W. 8th, Oklahoma City, Okla.*
Peoples, Claren, 2865 S. Staunton Rd., Huntington, West Virginia.*
Pepinsky, Abe, 2349 Bourne Ave., St. Paul, Minn. ***
Pepinsky, Minerva H., 1915 East 4th St., Duluth, Minn. *
Pereau, Warren C., 1728 Fairmount, Wichita, Kans.*
Perfield, Mrs. Effa Ellis, 103 East 86th St., New York, N. Y.
Perkins, Mrs. Clella, 2801 Foster Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Perkins, Harriette M., 62 Sprague, Malden, Mass.*
Perkins, Leonard Norman, A. & M. College, Stillwater, Okla.*
Perkins, M. Louise, 20 Magnolia, Brockton, Mass.*
Perkins, Margaret H., 3230 Pinehurst Ave., Dormont, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Perlow, Anna L., 919 Highview Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Perry, Adelaide, T., School of Music, Univ. of Southern California, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Perry, Charles, F., 25 Hilltop Rd., Wellesley, Mass.*
Perry, Chester, A., 1350 Western, Glendale, Calif.*
Perry, Dorothy, 531 W. Tremont, Hillsboro, Ill.*
Perry, Dr. R. D., Teachers Col., Bowling Green, Ky.*
Perry, Ruth, A., Agawam, Mass.*
Person, Mrs. C. B., 621 E. Eaton St., Tulsa, Okla.*
Pessl, Yella
Pete, Louis E., 408 Center St., Ashland, Ohio.*
Peters, Alice, 115 Willow St., Erwin, Tenn.*
Peters, Charlotte V., 202 E. Kenilworth Pl., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Peters, Thelma Frances, 1612 W. Broadway, Muskogee, Okla.*
Peterson, Ann M., 622 S. Minn., Sioux Falls, S. Dak.*
Peterson, Bernice M., Weskan, Kans.
Peterson, Elizabeth R., 2137 Micheltornea, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Peterson, Ella J., 2050 Brigden Rd., Pasadena, Calif.*
Peterson, Orville R., 918 W. Main St., Festus, Mo.*
Peterson, Paul, 175 Gibbs St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Peterson, Ralph J., 835 N. Vermont Ave., c/o Los Angeles City College, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Peterson, Ruth Miller, 4432 State Line, Kansas City, Kans.
Peterson, Ruth, 27 Marlborough, Providence, R. I.*
Peterson, U. Rudolph, 4053 Sunnyside Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.
Petran, Laurence A.
Petran, Laurence A., 226 Fountain, Albert Lea, Minn.
Petri, Anna Louise, 3024 Hawthorne Blvd., St. Louis, Mo.
Petri, Egon, New York, N. Y.
Petri, Mrs. Egon, New York, N. Y.
Petrik, Mary R., 608 Kansas Ave., Topeka, Kans.
Petrilli, Michael A., 724 Atwood, N. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Petsch, Augusta B., 5918 Elwood St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Petterson, Mrs. Dave, 808 South Central Ave., Chanute, Kans.
Pettis, Ashley B., 54 West 47th St., New York, N. Y.
Pettit, Martha, 23 E. Church St., Frederick, Md.*
Petty, Ralph L., 306 S. Gretna, Whittier, Calif.*
Pfatteicher, Carl F.
Pfau, Louise M., Metropolitan Sta., Box 5510, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Pfingstag, Dorothy, Steuben County Schools, Hudson, Indiana.*
Pfohl, James Christian, Davidson College, Davidson, North Carolina.*
Pfromm, Margaret, 745 Mary, McKees Rocks, Pa.*
Phares, Hale, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Phelps, Anne C., 165 Grove St., Mt. Kisco, N. Y.*
Phelps, Elizabeth B., 706 W. 13th, Vancouver, Washington.*
Phelps, John R., R. F. D. 1, 2460 Walnut Rd., Birmingham, Mich.*
Phelps, Nellie F., 615 S. Center St., Ada Apts., Casper, Wyo.*
Phelps, Norman F., 1204 North Delaware, Indianapolis, Ind.
Phifer, Beulah, 508 Connelly St., Clovis, N. Mex.*
Philbrook, Madge Hiller, 1915 N. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Philip, William F., Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa.*
Phillips, Mrs. Beatrice J., 1436 Fanshawe, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Phillips, Della L., Belmar Public School, Belmar, N. J.*
Phillips, Don, 301 E. Chapin, Cadillac, Mich.*
Phillips, Frederick, 617 Andrews, Collingsdale, Darby, Pennsylvania.*
Phillips, Jane, 228 Garfield St., Kennett Square, Pa.*
Phillips, Mrs. Mabel J., 150 Madison Blvd., Terre Haute, Ind.*
Phillips, May A., Piedmont Hotel, Seattle, Wash.*
Phillips, Ruth Marguerite, Court House, Room 301, Sacramento, Calif.*
Phipps, Zadie L., Florida State College for Women, Box 211, Tallahassee, Fla.*
Pidduck, Harriet, 3789 Menlo Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Pidduck, Marjorie K., 3209 E. James, Seattle, Wash.*
Pierce, Alton C., Trinity University, Waxahachie, Tex.*
Pierce, Anne E., 209 Lexington, Iowa City, Iowa.*
Pierce, George L., 1414 Broad St., Grinnell, Ia.
Pierce, Mrs. George L., 1414 Broad St., Grinnell, Ia.
Pierce, Grace G., 163 Jason St., Arlington, Mass.*
Pierce, Howard T., Bulkeley H. S., New London, Connecticut.*
Piercy, Hazel, 2025 Scott St., Covington, Ky.*
Pierson, Ebba V., 129 Hastings St., N. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Pike, Caroline, Georgetown Col., Georgetown, Ky.* **
Pike, Earlburtt, 406 Washington, Denver, Colo.*
Pillsbury, Norman E., 5300 Walnut, Oakland, Calif.*
Pinkerton, Mrs. C. B., 345 Gladstone, Kansas City, Mo.
Pinkerton, Wm. Russell, Box 536, Alpine, Tex.*
Pirro, Andre
Pisk, Paul A.
Pitcher, Gladys, 221 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.*
Pitluck, Phyllis, 4414 Pasco, Kansas City, Mo.
Pitman, Hazel, 401 W. Van Buren St., Columbia City, Ind.*
Pittenger, Raymond R., 184 Ethel Ave., Mill Valley, Calif.*
Pitts, Mrs. Carol M., State Teachers College, Trenton, N. J.
Pitts, Lilla Belle, 1025 E. Jersey, Elizabeth, N. J.*
Pitzer, Carl A., 3616 51st St., N. E., Seattle, Wash.*
Place, Olive B., 147 S. 8th St., LaCrosse, Wisc.*
Place, Regina F., 204 S. 25th Ave., Omaha, Nebr.*
Plantz, Zetta, Kendell School, Tulsa, Okla.*
Podolyn, Joseph C., 1820 Widener Pl., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Poggenburg Marion G., Wykagyl Gardens, New Rochelle, N. Y.*
Poister, Arthur, Oberlin Conservatory, Oberlin, O.
Poland, Max, Hanover College, Hanover, Ind.*
Pollard, Warren E., Montezuma, Iowa.*
Polley, Alta A., 2317 Portland, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Polley, Helen L., 234 Milburn St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Pomeroy, Mrs. Marie Snyder, Toms River, N. J.*
Pope, Isabel
Pope, Mrs. Lillian, 7115 Bennett Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Popejoy, Mrs. Dora Streight, 508 W. Oklahoma, Anadarko, Okla.
Porter, Betty, 511 N. Martin, Muncie, Ind.*
Porter, Catherine E., 326 Brooks, Missoula, Mont.*
Porter, Charles S., 1909 Clawson, Alton, Ill.*
Porter, Gladys M., American Book Co., 99 Lexington Ave., New York City, N. Y.*
Porter, Margaret, 215 20th St., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Porter, Marguerite S., 125 Ivy Lane, Daytona Beach, Florida.*
Porter, Mayme H., Salem College, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.* **
Porter, Nelle, Jefferson School, Billings, Montana.*
Porter, Wm. H., 127 W. Bennett, Glendora, Calif.*
Post, Theodore, Univ. of Nevada, Reno, Nevada.*
Pottle, Ralph S., E. Louisiana College, Hammond, La.*
Potts, Katherine B., 325 Brown Ave., Osawatomie, Kans.
Pouk, Margaret F., 75 S. Root St., Aurora, Ill.*
Pouliot, Adrian E., 1641 North Decatur Rd., Atlanta, Ga.
Pound, Lottie, 422 Conlen Ave., Dalhart, Tex.
Powell, Lois E., 5045 Aldrich Ave. S., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Powell, Walter Grant, 230 E. 6th St., Downey, Calif.*
Powers, J. Harold, Central S. T. C., Mt. Pleasant, Mich.*
Poynor, Virgia, The College of the Ozarks, Clarksville, Ark.
Pratt, Carroll C.
Pratt, Elizabeth, 5540 Pershing Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Pratt, Ira, R. F. D. No. 1, Topeka, Kans.
Preeman, Morse M., Preeman Mathews Music Co., 733 S. Grand Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Prescott, Gerald R., 80 Malcolm S. E., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Press, Elsie, Southwest H. S., Kings Highway & Arsenal, St. Louis, Mo.*
Preston, Daniel L., 423 Fourth St., Moorhead, Minnesota.*
Preston, Valentine L., 312 Realty Bldg., Mitchell, South Dakota.*
Preston, W. Deane, Jr., B. F. Wood Music Co., 88 St. Stephen St., Boston, Mass.*
Prevatt, Pauline, Sr. High School, Orlando, Fla.*
Preyer, Carl A., 1125 Tennessee, Lawrence, Kans.
Preyer, Frances H., 1125 Tennessee, Lawrence, Kans.
Price, Bernice E. West, 1125 18th St., Santa Monica, Calif.*
Price, Eleanor, 3539 Jackson St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Price, James D., 49 Belknap Street, West Hartford, Conn.*
Prickett, Emma, S. T. C., Towson, Md.*
Priest, Anita, 1515 Bath St., Santa Barbara, Calif.*
Prigge, Olga E., 3740 Hazel Ave., Norwood, Ohio.*
Prindl, Frank, Cochise Hall, Univ. of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona.*
Prindle, Elizabeth P., 104 East Melrose St., Chevy Chase, Md.
Prior, Lyman P., 1318 Windsor Place, Jacksonville, Fla.
Pritchett, Mrs. Edith C., Route 1, Box 400, Independence, Mo.*
Pritchett, Geraldine V., 425 South Kensington, Kansas City, Mo.
Privette, Trula, Robin Rd., Knoxville, Tenn.*
Proudfoot, Catherine, Park Hill Jr. H. S., Pueblo, Colorado.*
Prouty, Paloma P., 4010 5th St., Riverside, Calif.*
Prunieres, Henry
Prutting, Howard E., 514 Concord Ave., Williston Park, L. I., N. Y.*
Puffenberger, Emil W., Canal Fulton Public Schools, Canal Fulton, Ohio.*
Pugsley, Grace Z., Robert Gray Intermediate School, Tacoma, Wash.*
Pullo, Louis E., 168 Griffith St., Jackson, Miss.*
Purcell, Mrs. Gertrude, 805 Weldon, Fresno, Calif.*
Purdon, Lisabeth, 510 Beech St., Farmville, Va.*
Purdum, Maude B., 487 Ridgewood, Glen Ellyn, Ill.*
Putland, Arthur K., Ft. Williams, Ont. Canada.*
Putnam, Florence E., Box 55, R. F. D., Dodge, Massachusetts.*
Putnam, Phillip C., Box 234, Orion, Ill.*
Pyle, Robert W., Wyoming, Del.*
*Quarles, James T. ***
Quealy, Genevieve, Lyon & Healy, 235 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Questa, Yolanda, 408½ W. State St., Olean, N. Y.*
Quiers, Mrs. Helen H., 201 Center Ave., Reading, Pa.
Quimby, Arthur W., Western Reserve Univ., Cleveland, O.
Quimby, Lucile, Hotel Waukegan, Waukegan, Ill.*
Quinn, Marie, Contra Costa Co., Brentwood, Calif.*
Quinto, Lenard Warner, Jr. High School, 18th & Van Buren, Wilmington, Del.*
Rabe, Robert H., Theodore Presser Co., 1712 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Rachford, George R., 2132 Quatman, Norwood, Ohio.*
Rafferty, Sadie M., Evanston Hotel, Evanston, Illinois.*
Rainier, Earl D., West Division High School, 2218 W. Highland Ave., Milwaukee, Wisc.*
Rainier, Paul L., 714 Michigan Ave., Adrian, Mich.*

Ramsey, Mrs. Allen, 2008 Linwood, Kansas City, Mo.
Ramsey, Mildred D., Dickinson County Com. High School, Chapman, Kansas.* **
Rand, Frieda, 37 Church St., Bridgewater, Mass.*
Randall, Catherine, 401 Broadway, Tacoma, Wash.*
Randall, Clarissa A., S. T. C., Mansfield, Pa.*
Randall, W. Raymond, Francis Ave., R. F. D. 2, Stamford, Conn.*
Randolph, Myrtle, 515 West 40th, Kansas City, Mo.
Ranger, Richard H., 574 Parker St., Newark, N. J.*
Rankin A. E., Hampton H. S., Hampton, Iowa.*
Rasmussen, Margretha, 704 N. Lott, Gibson City, Ill.*
Rathbun, Mrs. Lloyd, 3006 Tracy, Kansas City, Mo.
Rathke, Ellen, 50 Forester St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Rauschelbach, Oscar, 57 E. Jackson Blvd., Room 500, Chicago, Ill.*
Rawlings, Helen S., 1340 S. Cloverdale, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Ray, Martha Sue, 1155 Sherman, Denver, Colo.*
Rayner, Doris, 123 Long Hill Drive, East Hartford, Connecticut.*
Rea, Mrs. B. A., Box 198, Jol, N. M.
Rea, Donald F., 281 Madison St., Coalinga, Calif.*
Read, Gardner, 1824 Hinman Ave., Evanston, Ill.
Rearick, Helen L., L. Y. W. Residence, South Bend, Indiana.*
Reavis, Leona, 1405 Scott Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Reber, Elizabeth, Union Hill H. S., Union City, N. J.*
Redfield, Mabel Whitney, 5109 Kingsrow, Wichita, Kans.
Reding, Mrs. T. E., 415 North 4th St., Lufkin, Tex.
Redmond, Mrs. Bessie, Benjamin Franklin H. S., 309 E. 108th St., New York City, N. Y.*
Redway, Virginia Larkin
Rehmann, Dr. Victor L. F., Dir. Dept. of Music, Ithaca College, Ithaca, N. Y.*
Reed, Esther G., 1432 N. Quincy St., Topeka, Kansas.*
Reed, Grace Kathryn, 614 W. Second, Maryville, Missouri.*
Reed, H. Owen, Hillcrest Village, Apartment 171 B, Lansing, Mich.
Reed, Helen Elizabeth, 949 Palmer, Bronxville, N. Y.*
Reed, M. S., North H. S., Worcester, Mass.*
Reed, Mary, 3524 Park St., Kansas City, Mo.
Reed, Mrs. Minnie L., 536 Terraine Ave., Long Beach, Calif.*
Rees, Elizabeth M., Lewis, Kans.
Rees, Faye, 121 E. Pine St., Wooster, Ohio*
Rees, Gertrude K., 2759 Garrison Ave., Evanston, Ill.
Reese, Gustave
Reese, Marian A., 150 Pinehurst Ave., New York City, N. Y.*
Regere, Wayne M., 1306 Davis Ave., Elkins, W. Va.*
Rehman, Francis H., 9523 243rd St., Bellerose, N. Y.*
Reich, Willi
Reichenbach, Hermann
Reid, Gertrude, 34 Station Street, Rankin, Pa.*
Reid, Mary L., 3524 Park Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Reider, Mrs. Lillian M., 612 W. 3rd St., Williamsport, Pa.*
Reilly, Lena E., Rosalind Gardens, Dobbs Ferry, New York.*
Rein, Ellen F., Sweet County High School, Big Timber, Mont.*
Reineman, Kurt, P. O. Box 34, Fallbrook, Calif.*
Reinert, Ida M., 416 E. Philadelphia Ave., Boyerstown, Pa.*
Reis, Claire R.,
Rencenberger, Richard, High School, Anderson, Ind.*
Rendina, Mrs. Albert, 2034 East Gregory Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Rendina, Millietta, 4450 Virginia, Kansas City, Mo.
Renfrew, Clara E., 604 W. Main St., Urbana, Ill.*
Renfro, Richard M., Parkville, Mo.* **
Renkwitz, Walter C., Public Schools, Easton, Pa.*
Renna, Albert, South Side High School, Rockville Centre, N. Y.*
Renninger, Eleanor I., 4822 Baltimore, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Repke, Mildred, 1952 E. 72nd Pl., Chicago, Ill.*
Replogie, Esther, 47 Joy Ave., Webster Groves, Mo.*
Resnick, Lorraine Smith
Reusch, Florence C., 1315 Second Ave., S. E., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.* **
Revelle, Jarmie, 1506 N. 26th, Oklahoma City, Okla.*
Revelli, William D., Univ. of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan.*
Revere, Jane, 432 Grove St.,Westfield, N. J.
Reynolds, I. E., S. W. Baptist Theological Seminary, Seminary Hill, Fort Worth, Tex.* **
Reynolds, Mary E., 151 S. Pine St., York, Pa.*
Reynolds, Thomas H., 1115 North 10th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Reyroth, Mary C., 3735 Belleview, Kansas City, Mo.
Rhoades, F. Lauren, 3551 Sabina St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Rhodes, J. Clark, San Angelo Col., San Angelo, Tex.*
Rice, E. Donald, 351 Wheeler, Hoquiam, Wash.*
Rice, Wilby A., Buffalo, Mo.*
Rice, William C., Baldwin, Kans.
Rich, Arthur Lowndes, Catawba College, Salisbury, North Carolina.*
Rich, Gladys, S. T. C., Clarion, Pa.*
Rich, Thaddeus
Richards, Ellen R., 1560 S. Yorktown, Tulsa, Okla.*
Richardson, A. Madeley, 127 W. 15th St., New York City.
Richardson, Alan, Wilson H. S., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Richardson, Barbara, Box 125, Montvarde, Fla.*
Richardson, Hazen L., 313 Ash., Ottawa, Kansas.*
Richardson, Ora K., Rural Route 1, Box 309, Kansas City, Kans.
Richeson, Mary Carter, 310 Court, Portsmouth, Va.*
Richey, Harold A., School of Music, Converse College, Spartanburg, S. Car.*
Richman, Luther A., State Department of Education, Richmond, Va.*
Richmond, Colin Beckett
Rickards, Ruth, 515 Franklin, Des Moines, Iowa.*
Ricker, Herbert, 716 North West 19th St., Oklahoma City, Okla.
Ricks, Maurine W., 1066 Pennsylvania, Denver, Colo.
Rider, Albert W., Dearborn Public Schools, Dearborn, Michigan.*
Rider, Genevieve, 927 Oakland St., Akron, Ohio.*
Rieck, Frieda V., 336 N. Lorimer Dr., Cape Girardeau, Mo.*
*Riemenschneider, Albert ***
Rifkind, Herbert R., 5209 S. Drexel Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Rigby, Ralph, Berea College, Berea, Ky.*
Riggs, Dorothy J., Music Dept., Morehead S. T. C., Morehead, Ky.*
Riggs, Lawrence H., Ward-Belmont School, Nashville, Tenn.
Riggs, Margaret Seasholes, Hebron Rd., Newark, Ohio.*
Riggs, Virginia L., 12 Crescent, Waterbury, Connecticut.*
Righter, Charles B., State University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa.*
Rightland-Glockner, Mrs. Valentine, 44 Kingsboro Ave., Gloversville, N. Y.*
Rile, Mrs. Edna S., 1532 Roselyn St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Riley, Jas. W., Taft Union H. S. & Jr. College, Taft, Calif.*
Riley, Maurice, Englewood Public Schools, Englewood, Colo.*
Riley, Mendel L., 713 Arlington, Champaign, Ill.*
Riley, Paul, Dept. of Music, A. & I. College, Kingsville, Tex.*
Rinck, Katie M., 139 E. Centre, Mahanoy City, Pa.*
Ringo, Boyd R., University of Tulsa, Tulsa, Okla.
Ringo, Helen C., University of Tulsa, Tulsa, Okla.
Ringo, Lucille P., 6701 Delmar, University City, Missouri*
Ripple, Martha A., 615 S. Serrano, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Riskin, Irving, 306 Carnegie Hall, New York, N. Y.
Ristine, Clara L., 315 S. 45th St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Rittenband, Jacob L., 66 Schuyler Newark, N. J.*
Ritter, Olive M., Courtland, Kans.
Rix, Elizabeth C., 4 S. 4th Ave., Ilion, N. Y.*
Roach, J. Tatian, 3185 Hull Ave., New York City, N. Y.*
Roach, Sally, Oak Sr. and Jr. H. S., Burlington, Iowa.*
Roam, Lyn H., 3608 Aldrich St., S., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Robbins, Edith Lucille, 411 Liberty Theatre, Lincoln, Nebr.
Robbins, S. Louise, 1230 S. E. Morrison, Portland, Oregon*
Robe, Vivian M., Fredonia, N. Y.*
Roberts, Carolyn, Rutland Rd., Hempstead, N. Y.*
Roberts, Charlotte, 217½ N. 5th St., Olean, N. Y.*
Roberts, Edith, 409 East Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Roberts, Helen, 329 S. Eighth, Mayfield, Ky.*
Roberts, Katherine, 1st Natl. Bank Bldg., Cambridge, Ill.*
Roberts, Marion E., 1535 Pruitt, Fort Worth, Tex.
Roberts, Owen, 626 N. Main, Kenton, Ohio.*
Roberts, Ronald L., Edinburg, Ill.*
Roberts, Thomas, 9 Pleasant St., Hamilton, N. Y.*
Roberts, Walter B., 514 Oakland Ave., Rock Hill, S. C.
Roberson, Adaline, 205 S. Forest, Chanute, Kans.*
Robertson, David R., Hendrix College, Conway, Arkansas.* **
Robertson, Gladys, 1015 Washington, Olean, N. Y.*
Robertson, James P., 1104 E. Elm St., Springfield, Mo.*
Robertson, R. Ritchie, 1104 E. Elm St., Springfield, Mo.*
Robinson, Arnold, J. L. Hudson Co., 9186 Mendota, Detroit, Mich.*
Robinson, Mrs. Ferne, 9186 Mendota Ave., Detroit, Mich.*

Robinson, Franklin Whitman
Robinson, Harriet E., 3701 Broadway, Kansas City, Mo.
Robinson, Helen Margaret, 522 S. Stephens St., Roseburg, Ore.*
Robinson, Mark, Board of Education, Ogden, Utah.*
Robinson, Oscar E., Chicago Conservatory of Music, 306 S. Wabash Ave., Kimball Hall, Chicago, Ill.*
Robinson, Robert B., 4243 Garfield, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Robinson, Vera M., 4243 Garfield, Kansas City, Mo.
Robinson, Mrs. V. M., 310 South 13th, St. Joseph, Mo.
Robison, Maurine, 317 Fredonia, Muskogee, Okla.*
Roblee, W. W., Box H. 1, Oxnard, Calif.*
Robyn, Louise
Roche, Elsie, 1400 Fairmount St., Washington, D.C.*
Roche, Jewel Major, 1821 North West 19th, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Roche, Perle K., 21451 Montgomery Ave., Hayward, Calif.*
Rockwell, Kenneth, 508 South Cooper St., Arlington, Tex.
Rockwood, Bernard J., 241 S. Buena Vista St., Hemet, Calif.*
Rodenhoffer, Anna, 214 Connecticut, Buffalo, N. Y.*
Rodekohr, Leona, 533 Gladstone, Kansas City, Mo.
Rodekohr, Renata, 533 Gladstone, Kansas City, Mo.
Rodruan, Lydia G., 526 Brittingham, Madison, Wisc.*
Roe, Hazel E., 205 Washington, Santa Monica, Calif.*
Roehr, Frederic, 927 S. Grant, San Mateo, Calif.*
Roemer, Fred, Waupun H. S., Waupun, Wisc.*
Rogers, Alice, c/o Board of Education, 1333 6th St., Santa Monica, Calif.*
Rogers, Islay C., 2369 E. Mountain, Pasadena, Calif.*
Rogers, Muriel C., South Maple St., Aledo, Ill.*
Rogensack Delinda, 508 S. 5th Ave., W. Newton, Iowa.*
Rohner, Traugott, 2430 Lawndale, Evanston, Ill.*
Rolland, Romain
Romig, Isla, 504 S. Walnut St., Ottawa, Kansas.*
Ronfeldt, Louis F., 383 Jefferson, Pomona, Calif.*
Rood, Katherine A., 523 Main St., Stevens Point, Wis.
Rooney, Dorothea, 3631 West Roanoke Drive, Kansas City, Mo.
Rooney, Mrs. Shirley C. A., 115 North 13th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Root, Stella R., 200 Union St., Bellevue, Ohio.*
Rose, Bernice L., 460 N. First, San Jose, Calif.*
Rose, Harriett H., 112 W. Hill St., Champaign, Ill.*
Rose, Raymond E., Box 564, Crowley, La.*
Rosenbaum, Isadore, 6234 Cedar, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Rosenberg F., 5911 Willard, Oakland, Calif.*
Rosenberry, M. Claude, Dir. of Music Education, State Dept., of Public Inspection, Harrisburg, Pa.*
Rosenfield, Alice, 294 Pleasant Ave., St. Paul, Minn.
Rosenthal, David, Box 225, Beaumont, Calif.*
Rosenwald, Hans, 5344 Greenwood Ave., Chicago, Ill. ***
Rosenwald, Winifred Glass, 5344 Greenwood Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Ross, Alta Josephine, 510½ Delaware, Bartlesville, Okla.*
Ross, Edith, 302 W. 11th Ave., Huntington, W. Va.*
Ross, Genevieve, c/o Warsaw H. S., Warsaw, N. Y.*
Ross, Gilbert, Sage Hall, Smith College, Northampton, Mass.
Ross, Helen C., Sequin, Wash.*
Ross, Irving, 1298 College Ave., Fresno, Calif.*
Ross, Laura E., 1008 Wilde Ave., Drexel Hill, Pa.*
Ross, Lucille, 3531 Park Blvd., San Diego, Calif.*
Ross, Robt. W., Presser Hall, Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Ill.* **
Rossel, Denton, Webb City, Okla.*
Rothgeb, Helen, Rogers Hotel, Bloomington, Ill.*
Rothholz, Amanda E., 34 S. Stenton Pl., Atlantic City, N. J.*
Roush, Celeste P., 5635 Rippey St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Routh, Ruth Sara, Route 4, Spartansburg, S. C.*
Rowand, Mrs. W. H., Shorter College, Rome, Ga.
Rowand, Wilbur H., Shorter College, Rome, Ga.
Rowe, Donald W., 1316 Manzanita St., Hollywood, Calif.*
Rowe, Mrs. Kathleen E., 502 Byron St., S. Whitby, Ont., Canada.*
Rowell, Seward F., 22 Valley Rd., Montclair, N. J.*
Rowland, Ruth E., Chico State College, Chico, Calif.*
Rowles, Wm. Lloyd, Eastern Washington College of Edu., Cheney, Wash.*
Rowley, Geraldine, Waterport, N. Y.*
Royer, Byron, Butler School, Vandalia, Ohio.*
Royer, Clifford F., 1108 Vermont St., Lawrence, Kans.
Royer, Dolores, 4 East Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Royt, Dorothy E., 3311 N. Fratney St., Milwaukee, Wisc.*
Rozza, Bela, 2700 Washington Ave., Waco, Texas.
Ruby, Robert B., Pella, Iowa.*
Rubinstein, Beryl, Cleveland Institute of Music, 2605 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, O.
Rubinstein, Rafael, 1600 Linwood Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Rubsamen, Walter
Ruch, Geraldine M., 105 Inglewood Dr., Mt. Lebanon, Pa.
Ruckmick, Christian A., 475 Elder Lane, Winnetka, Ill.
Ruddick, J. Leon, 120 Bd. of Edu. Bldg., 1380 E. 6th St., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Rudy, J. Harold, 1738 Tinsman Ave., Merchantville, N. J.*
Ruehrmund, Isabel, 848 6th St., Charleston, Ill.*
Ruff, Edna M., 561 N. 14th St., Apt. 52, Milwaukee, Wisc.*
Ruff, W. Glenn, 1129 Vermont, Lawrence, Kans.
Ruffner, Carrie, 315 E. Chestnut, Bloomington, Ill.*
Rule, Elizabeth S., 1111½ S. 2nd, Springfield, Ill.*
Rule, Nadean, Gashland, Mo.
Rumsey, Harriett, 717 Grove St., Alton, Ill.*
Rund, Anne, 1820 Jefferson St., Duluth, Minn.*
Runsvold, Gerhard O., 1533 N. Serrano Ave., Hollywood, Calif.*
Rush, Ralph E., Heights H. S., Cedar & Lee Rds., Cleveland Heights, Ohio.*
Rushton, Gwen, 11 South Cherokee, Kansas City, Kans.
Russell, Alexander
Russell, Alice W., 1656 Illinois St., Lawrence, Kans.
Russell, Helen Annette, State Normal School, Johnstown, Vt.
Russell, Maxine, 171 W. Orange Grove, Sierra Madre, Calif.*
Russell, Myron E., 1815 College St., Cedar Falls Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Iowa.*
Russell, Reva L., 910 S. Main, Aberdeen, S. Dak.*
Russell, Theodore C., 1059 College Station, Columbus, Mo.
Russell, Mrs. Vivian, East Prairie, Mo.*
Rutledge, Edward P., 216 E. Maple, Annville, Pa.*
Rutledge, Marie, 4609 Bayard St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Ryan, Aurelia A., 2510 Linwood Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Ryan, Barbara E., 466 Albemarle Rd., Newtonville, Massachusetts.*
Ryan, Eunice, 442 Cherokee, St. Paul, Minn.*
Ryan, Mary M., 1743 Albion Ave., Chicago, Illinois.*
Sacerdote, Olga G., 1905 Orchid St., Hollywood, Cal.
Sachs, Curt
Sackett, John V., 161 Hope Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.*
Sacks, Nathan, Musical Arts Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.
Sadlo, George W., 1012 S. 4th, Ponca City, Okla.*
Sage, Miss Jerome, 609 Millsaps Building, Jackson, Miss.
Sager, Charles I., Doane College, Crete, Nebr.
Salisbury, Lynn W., 41-31 Ave., Spokane, Wash.*
Salmond, Felix, 65 E. 96th St., New York City.
Salter, Lewis S., Faculty Exchange, Norman, Okla.
Saminsky, Lazare
Sammis, Claude, Box 140, Fort Worth, Texas.*
Sammond, Marjorie I., 2812 W. 19th St., Wilmington, Del.*
Sample, Walter Scott, Jr., 912 S. Main St., Phoenixville, Pa.*
Sams, Blanche, 1501 Corning, Parsons, Kansas.*
Sams, Lynn L., C. G., Conn., Ltd., Elkhart, Ind.*
Sanders, Fannie Irene, Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va.*
Sanders, Gladys I., 1609-23rd St., S. E., Washington, D. C.*
Sanders, Paul P., 2125 McKinley St., Honolulu, Hawaii.*
Sanders, Robert
Sanders, Robert L., Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind.
Sanderson, E. S., 120 West St., Newton, Kansas.*
Sanderson, Eva A., 409 Waltham St., West Newton, Masachusetts.*
Sanderson, Wendell, 1321 S. Main St., Findlay, Ohio.*
Sanford, Clara F., 21 E. 10th St., New York City.*
Sargeant, Ellen M., Rufus King High School, 1801 W. Olive St., Milwaukee, Wisc.*
Sauer, Clarence F., 414 Black Ave., Springfield, Ill.*
Saul, Mrs. Otis, 234 Oak St., Bristol, Va.*
Saunders, Arthur, 141 Dearborn St., Buffalo, N. Y.*
Saunders, E. May, 113 Third, Murfreesboro, Tenn.*
Saunders, Lelia M., 104 West 12th, Hutchinson, Kans.
Saunier, Paul, R. F. D. 2, Richmond, Va.*
Sawhill, Clarence E., H. S., Urbana, Illinois.*

Sayers, Grace F., 131 E. 5th Ave., Gary, Ind.*
Sayre, Edwin D., 203 North 14th St., Manhattan, Kans.
Scahill, Mary M., 19 Meadow Lane, Lackawanna, New York.*
Scanlon, Mary B., 10 Roselawn Ter., Pittsburgh, Pa.* ***
Scatchard, Mrs. Wm. Beaumont, 984 Memorial Dr., Cambridge, Mass.*
Schaefer, A. F., Victor Publishing Co., Inc., 814 Hickory St., Abilene, Tex.*
Schaefer, B. G., 1603 W. Tenth St., Davenport, Iowa.*
Schaefer, Eugene V., 430 Park Ave., Belleville, Ill.*
Schaeffer, Myron S., 3333 Berkeley, Cleveland, Ohio.* ***
Schaible, Elsie E., 435 Duncan St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Schelbach, Jean M., 787 E. William, San Jose, Calif.*
Schenck, Janet D., 238 E. 105th St., New York City.
Scherf, Etta, 28 E. 16th St., Apt. 707, Indianapolis, Ind.*
Schierle, Betty, 4311 Eaton, Kansas City, Kans.
Schill, Edmund, 88 S. 16th St., East Orange, N. J.*
Schilling, Mrs. Henderson, 522 North Cheyenne, Tulsa, Okla.
Schillinger, Joseph
Schindel, Isabel, 19 Southampton Ave., Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Schinhan, Jan Phillip
Schirmer, Allen F., Baldwin Wallace College, Conservatory of Music, Berea, Ohio* **
Schlager, Wilfred C., 2936 Bales, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Schlatter, Sherrill M., 727 Linn St., Peoria, Ill.*
Schlei, C. F., 1617 N. Seventh St., Sheboygan, Wisc.*
Schlick, Earnest F., Southern State Normal, Springfield, S. D.*
Schliep, Wm. F., S. T. C., Superior, Wisc.* **
Schlipf, Margaret A., Temple University, Box 413, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Schmid Adolf
Schmidt, Carl G., 246 Hancock St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Schmidt, Doris T., c/o Bronxville Public School, Bronxville, N. Y.*
Schmidt, Gertrude K., S. T. C., West Chester, Pa.*
Schmidt, Herbert, 1421 Washington St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Schmidt, Oscar T. H., Holmes H. S., Covington, Ky.*
Schmidt, Peter, 865 Mercer, Albany, N. Y.*
Schmitt, Robert A., Paul A. Schmitt Music Co., 77 S. 8th St., Minneapolis, Minn.*
Schmitz, Mary M., 4054 Campbell, Kansas City, Mo.
Schmutz, A. D., 1005 Constitution, Emporia, Kans.
Schmutz, Mrs. A. D., 1005 Constitution, Emporia, Kans.
Schnakenberg, Alberta, 21 S. Elm, Dexter, Mo.*
Schneider, Alex F., 1615 9th St., Rapid City, S. Dak.*
Schneider, Carolyn, 31 Clifton St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Schnorf, Mollie L., 6034 Brookside, Kansas City, Mo.
Schock, Alma, 476 Franklin Blvd., Elgin, Ill.*
Schoen, Louise, 307 W. Gay, Warrensburg, Mo.*
Schoen, Max, 5864 Douglas St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
*Schoenberg, Arnold **
Schoettle, Geo. H., 134-07 39th Ave., Flushing, N. Y.*
Schofield, Mrs. William M., Lockhart, Tex.
Schoonmaker, Ralph L., Medford Public Schools, Medford, Mass.*
Scholes, Percy
Schott, Clarence R., Gen. Del., Quincy, Calif.*
Schowalter, Carol, Box 292, Minneapolis, Kansas.*
Schrade, Leo
Schramm, Rudolf R. A., 20 Washington Square, No., New York City, N. Y.*
Schreiber, Avis Trumbo, 2136 Lincoln Park W., Chicago, Ill.*
Schriefer Ilda, Public Schools, Eveleth, Minn.*
Schuchman, Leonard E., Box 454, Elma, Wash.*
Schuette, Marie A., 7 Garden St., Potsdam, N. Y.*
Schuler, Mabel K., 1536 Walnut St., Allentown, Pa.*
Schulte, Mabel I., 119 Atlanta Pl., South Hills, Pa.*
Schultz, E. J., Univ. Col. of Fine Arts, Norman, Oklahoma.*
Schultz, Mrs. Ethmer Breivogel, Box 4501, University Sta., P. O., Tucson, Ariz.*
Schultz, Paul D., Arkansas Tech., Russellville, Ark.*
Schumacher, Hermine M., 6100 Stanton, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Schumacher, Joachim
Schumacher, Joseph C., 6542 Newgard, Chicago, Ill.*
Schumacher, Martha A., Public S., Auburn, N. Y.*
Schumann, William, Jr., Box 725, Chappaqua, N. Y.*
Schunck, Bernadine, 300 Pike St., Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Schuster, Hilda M., Oberlin Cons., Oberlin, Ohio.*
Schwartz, Elwyn, Kingsburg Joint Union H. S., Kingsburg, Calif.*
Schweiger, Hertha
Schweitzer, Eleanor C., 3811 N. Kildare, Chicago, Ill.*
Schweitzer, Louise, 349 E. 29th St., Erie, Pa.*
Schwier, Elizabeth, 281 Darden Rd., E. South Bend, Ind.*
Sconza, Silvia, 304 39th St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Scott, Aletha M., 1339 4th St., Des Moines, Iowa.*
Scott, Mrs. C. R., 3310 Bales, Kansas City, Mo.*
Scott, Carlyle M., 2305 Aldrich South, Minneapolis, Minn.
Scott, H. F., 209 Hendrew, Walsenburg, Colo.*
Scott, Jesse L., Bennett Hall, Univ. of Pa., Philadelphia, Pa.* **
Scott, Lois, Alexander Hamilton Jr. High, Seattle, Washington.*
Scott, Malcolm, 1314 S. 20th St., Terre Haute, Ind.*
Scott, Ruth, Kirwin, Kans.
Scovill, Edward E., 24 Seminary, Auburn, N. Y.*
Scruggs, Margaret E., 116 S. Summit St., Bowling Green, Ohio.*
Scruggs, Margaret E., Milwaukee-Downer College, Milwaukee, Wis.
Scudder, Florence Kellerstrass, 4707 Grand, Kansas City, Mo.
Seager, Helen A., 523 Central Ave., Dunkirk, N. Y.*
Sealey, Frank Gordon, 124 Longview Ave., White Plains, N. Y.*
Seaman, Margaret L., 69 West Maiden St., Washington, Pa.
Searfross, Willis P., 24 Main St., Bangor, Pa.*
Searight, Roland, Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Iowa.*
Searle, Arthur H. J., 322 King Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Searle, Laura, 322 King Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Seashore, C. E.
Sebald, Frances, 2004 East 36th, Kansas City, Mo.
Secor, Edith, 2507 Greenview Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Sedberry, Jose Allen, 906 E. Culver, Phoenix, Ariz.*
Sedore, Robert N., Box 505, Baldwin, Kans.
Seeger, Charles
Seem, Evelyn A., 802 West Wabash, Enid, Okla.
Seemel, Erna, 419 N. Seventh, De Soto, Mo.*
Seifried, Martha M., 3117 Portsmouth Ave., Hyde Park, Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Seiling, Tearle M., 1020 Jefferson, St. Charles, Mo.*
Seiter, Mrs. Victor M., 2620 Agnes, Kansas City, Mo.* *
Seitz, Harry W., 1951 Lawrence, Detroit, Mich.* **
Seitz, Pearl R., 113 Crickett Ave., Ardmore, Pa.*
Seller, Lillian M., 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.*
Sellers, Grace, Winfield, Kans.
Sellers, Ida Bell, Deridder H. S., Deridder, La.*
Sennett, Margaret M., 23 S. Pine, Albany, N. Y.*
Sentz, Katherine, 1023 Lincoln St., Topeka, Kansas.*
Servais, Magdalene, 1043 W. Virginia Ave., Dunbar, W. Va.*
Sessions, Roger H.
Settlage, Phoebe, Cottey Cottage, Nevada, Mo.* **
Settle, Frances R., 581 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.*
Settle, Mrs. Ruth Klepper, 6907 Washington St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Severinson, Bernice, King Cole Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn.*
Shaar, Harold R., 423 W. Lemon St., Lancaster, Pa.*
Shackleford, J. D., 1606 Olympian Circle, S. W., Atlanta, Ga.*
Shackson, L. Lee, 91 University, Westerville, Ohio.*
Shaefer, Mrs. Marjorie, 810 S. Eighth, Pekin, Ill.*
Shafer, Ruth M., Alpha Theta Chapter of S.A.I., 529 West 111th St., New York, N. Y.
Shafer, Winnie, Edgerton, Mo.* **
Shanahan, Catherine Chapman, Jerseyville, Ill.*
Shanklin, Robert B., University of Michigan School of Music, Ann Arbor, Mich.
Shanner, Margaret, c/o Baker School, Evansville, Indiana.'
Shannon, Ruth, 1628 Holmes, Springfield, Ill.*
Sharp, Helen T., Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C.
Sharp, Helen T., 816 E. Randolph, Kirksville, Mo.*
Sharp, Margaret C., 446 3rd St., Pitcairn, Pa.*
Sharp, Rhoda M., Univ. Jr. College, Tonkawa, Okla.* **
Sharp, Robert L., Ukiah Union H. S., Ukiah, Calif.*
Shattinger, Oliver, Arcade Building, 8th and Olive, St. Louis, Mo.
Shattuck, Lewis B., 84 Shady Ave., Lowville, N. Y.*
Shaver, Glenn C., Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill.
Shaw, A. W., Washington Irving High School, Clarksburg, W. Va.*
Shaw, Eulalie, 309 W. Jefferson, Sandusky, Ohio.*
Shaw, Kathleen M., 117 Glen, Council Bluffs, Iowa.*

Shaw, Lois J., 716 Ray Ave., N. W., New Philadelphia, Ohio.*
Shaw, Mrs. Ralph E., 2514 Westport Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Shaw, W. Warren, Theodore Pressor Co., 1712 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Shawe, Elsie M., 62 S. Dale St., St. Paul, Minn.*
Shea, George, 995 Fifth Ave., New York City, N. Y.*
Sheehan, Robert S., 223 N. Oak Park, Oak Park, Ill.*
Sheel, Winifred E., 1132 Farwell Ave., Apt. 3, Chicago, Ill.*
Sheen, Elizabeth, 20 8th St., N. E., Massillon, Ohio.*
Sheffield, Vernon R., 809 Neosho, Emporia, Kans.
Sheldon, Mrs. Mary E., 3518 Bales, Kansas City, Mo.
Shelly, John, Jr., 428 E. Wadsworth Ave., Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Shelton, Elizabeth, 108 Rogers St., Bluefield, W. Va.*
Shelton, Loyal, 201 S. 5th, De Soto, Mo.*
Sheltraw, Blanche G., 615 Boren, Spokane, Wash.*
Shennum, Harland, 1512 Wabasso Way, Glendale, Calif.*
Shepard, Leon C., 2005 S. Meyler, San Pedro, Calif.*
Shepard, Margaret Taylor, 820 S. Riverside Dr., Evansville, Ind.*
Shepard, Wesley, Central H. S., Evansville, Ind.*
Shepherd, Arthur **
Sheridan, Mrs. Roberta L., 2820 Prince St., Berkeley, Calif.*
Sherlock, Ethel, 741 Irving Park Blvd., Chicago, Ill.*
Sherman, Sadie E., 1210 S. Hayworth, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Sherrard, Wayne, Carondelet, Clayton, Mo.*
Shields, Ivine, Sacramento Junior College, Sacramento, Calif.*
Shimp, William Bennett, Greenfield, O.
Shinkman, Karl B., York Band Instrument Co., 1600 Division Ave., S. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Shipherd, Mabel M., 5022 Isard St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Shivelbine, W. A., Central H. S., Cape Girardeau, Missouri.*
Shoemaker, B. M. H. S., Wellsville, Mo.*
Shoemaker, M. H., 1010 N. Denver, Hastings, Nebr.*
Shoener, Florence, Orwigsburg, Pa.*
Short, Bernita L., 235 College Ave., Ashland, Ohio.*
Short, Caryl, 1001 E. North St., Appleton, Wisc.*
Short, Eleanor Virginia, 408 Almaden Ave., San Jose, Cal.
Short, Virginia L., 140 E. Willow, Stockton, Calif.*
Shoup, Alice E., 20 N. Gamble, Shelby, Ohio.*
Showalter, Elaine, Leadwood, Mo.*
Showengerdt, E. A., 923 N. Noland, Independence, Missouri.*
Shropshire, George E., 25 N. Vega St., Alhambra, Calif.*
Shroy, Mrs. L. S., 1133 Fillmore, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Shuck, Mrs. Helen Roberts, 668 Terrace Ave., Fresno, Calif.*
Shuck, Lenel, School Administration Bldg., 2348 Mariposa St., Fresno, Calif.*
Shulman, Ida, 1132 Main St., Peekskill, N. Y.*
Shumway, Mrs. J. W., 5424 Cherry, Kansas City, Mo.
Shute, Florence L., Peabody H. S., Mangaretta & Bealty Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Shutt, Mrs. Flora, 1523 Washington Ave., Des Moines, Iowa.*
Shuttlesworth, Russell E., 121 Chestnut St., Harrisburg, Pa.*
Shutts, Bernice, 1529 W. Fourth, Waterloo, Iowa.*
Siar, Blanche M., 49 Walnut St., Brooksville, Pa.*
Sibley, Frances, 847 Gwinn Pl., Seattle, Wash.*
Siddall, George M., Port Clinton Public Schools, Port Clinton, Ohio.*
Siddell, Mae Knight, 401 Ninth St., Santa Monica, California.*
Sides, L. R., 528 East Blvd., Charlotte, N. C.*
Siegel, Muriel M., 730 W. Euclid, Detroit, Mich.*
Sierveld, Frederick, Roosevelt H. S., 450 S. Fickett St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Sievers, Hans, 43 Tremont St., Bridgeport, Conn.*
Sights, Doris L., Box 24, Alton, Ill.*
Silber, Sidney, 2707 Giddings St., Chicago, Ill.
Silverthorne, H. M., Sherburn, Minn.*
Simas, Frances M., Women's Residence Hall, Havre, Montana.*
Simmers, Mrs. Marie W., 303 West Dewald St., Fort Wayne, Ind.
Simmons, June B., Shelbina, Mo.*
Simmons, L. Robert, The Chas. E. Wells Music Co., 1629 California St., Denver, Colo.*
Simons, Mrs. Madeline M., 13980 Pinehurst Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Simpson, Criss, 1028 Missouri St., Lawrence, Kans.
Simpson, George T., Box 163, Wilberforce, Ohio.*
Simpson, Lylian, 710-113 W. 57th, N. Y. C.*
Simpson, Wm. D., 1024 Ridge Ave., Coropolis, Pa.*
Sims, W. Hines, 3011 Alabama, Shreveport, La.*
Sines, Thelma, 1913 High St., Logansport, Ind.*
Singer, Vera, 145 Rombach Ave., Wilmington, Ohio.*
Singleton, Camilla B., 400 East Capitol Ave., Jefferson City, Mo.
Singleton, Harold T., 32 Riverside, Rochester, N. Y.*
Sink, Charles A., University of Michigan School of Music, Ann Arbor, Mich.
Sipps, L. Dewey, Sharon, W. Middlesex, Pa.*
Sister Agnes Catherine Bargy, St. Teresa's College, Kansas City, Mo.
Sister Agnes Joseph, St. Agnes Institute, 876 E. Main St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Sister Agnes Marie, 3430 Rocky River Dr., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Sister Alice Marie Keys, O. S. U., Ursuline Academy, 2448 E. 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Sister Ann Regina Sweeney, Seton Hill College, Greensburg, Pa.*
Sister Anna, College of St. Catherine, Randolph and Cleveland Aves., St. Paul, Minn.
Sister Anna Agatha Muser, Academy of Our Lady, Peoria, Ill.
Sister Anna Cecile, College of Mt. St. Joseph on-the-Ohio, Mount St. Joseph, Ohio.*
Sister Anna Rita, C.S.J., 122 Elm, Albany, N. Y.*
Sister Anne Rita, St. John's Academy, Jamestown, N. D.
Sister Arthur Purol, R.S.M., 245 Dale Ave., Muskegon, Mich.*
Sister Austin Joseph, 3863 Cleveland, St. Louis, Mo.*
Sister Cecilia Clare Ott, Seton Hill College, Greensburg, Pa.*
Sister Cecilia Howley, Nazareth Jr. Col., Nazareth, Kentucky.*
Sister Cecilia Marie, 3910 Bellefontaine, Kansas City, Mo.
Sister Cecilia Marie, O.S.F., 4523 Park Pl., St. Bernard, Ohio.*
Sister Celine, 221 North 19th St., Fort Smith, Ark.
Sister Clare Immaculate, S.S.J., W. Philadelphia Catholic Girls H. S., 45th & Chestnut Sts., West Philadelphia, Pa.*
Sister Clement Marie, Marymount Col., Salina, Kans.* **
Sister Cyrilla Myers, O.S.B., Acad. of the Immaculate Conception, Ferdinand, Ind.*
Sister De La Salle, Col. Misericordia, Dallas, Pa.*
Sister Dorothy Hanly, The St. Mary College, Leavenworth, Kans.* **
Sister Edith Stein, Mt. St. Scholastica College, Atchison, Kans.
Sister Etta Louise Knaup, Marymount College, Salina, Kans.
Sister Frances, 3840 Emerson, N., Minneapolis.*
Sister Frances Romana, Trinity High School, Rivert Forest, Ill.
Sister Gabrielle, 221 North 19th St., Fort Smith, Ark.
Sister Louis Marie, St. Mary's Convent, 77 Ames Ave., Rutherford, N. J.*
Sister Marianna De Tarr, 3910 Bellefontaine, Kansas City, Mo.*
Sister Marie Concetta, Teachers College of the Athenaeum, Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Sister Marie Helen, Ursuline College, 2234 Overlook Rd., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Sister Marie Paul, 2015 Webb Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Sister Marion, Holy Name Acad. & Normal School, Spokane, Wash.*
Sister M. Adele Canus, St. Teresa's College, Kansas City, Mo.*
Sister Mary Adele, 4900 Cottage Grove, Chicago.*
Sister Mary Adeline, Webster College, Webster Groves, Mo.
Sister M. Adrianna, 809 Vermont, Kansas City, Kans.*
Sister Mary Agnes, 69 Ransom Ave., N. E., Grand Rapids, Rapids, Mich.*
Sister M. Agnes Anita, John W. Hallahan C. G. H. S., 19th & Wood Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Sister Mary Agnetis, St. Rose Convent, La Crosse, Wisconsin.*
Sister M. Albertina, Marywood College, E. Fulton, Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Sister Mary Alexia, S. S. N. D., 2 Fellsway East, Malden, Mass.*
Sister Mary Alphonsine, 2504 N. 37th, Milwaukee.*
Sister M. Ambilis, Our Lady of the Lake College, San Antonio, Tex.
Sister M. Ambrosine, F. S. P. A., St. Mary's Convent, West Point, Iowa.*
Sister Mary Angela Reintjes, 4223 S. Compton St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Sister Mary Anita, Mt. Loretto, Dubuque, Ia.
Sister M. Anna, 1501 South Layton Blvd., Milwaukee, Wis.
Sister M. Annina Auerbeck, 1614 Belknap St., Superior, Wis.*
Sister Mary Anthony, O. S. F., St. Francis Assisi Convent, St. Francis, Wis.*
Sister Mary Antoine, Rosary Col., River Forest, Ill.* **
Sister Mary Antone, 5079 Queens Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Sister M. Antonia, S. S. N. D., Mt. Mary College, Milwaukee, Wis.*

Sister Mary Archangela, 3800 Peterson, Chicago.*
Sister M. Armella, 3216 E. 24th, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Sister M. Augusta, S. S. N. D., 106 Smith St., Roxbury, Mass.*
Sister M. Augustine, S. S. N. D., Notre Dame Jr. Col., 320 E. Ripa Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Sister M. Beata, Nazareth College, Nazareth, Mich.
Sister M. Bernadine, O. S. U., 3115 Lexington Rd., Louisville, Ky.*
Sister M. Bernice, Briar Cliff College, Sioux City, Ia.
Sister M. Bertranda, Rosary College, River Forest, Ill.
Sister Mary Blanche, Incarnate Word College, San Antonio, Tex.
Sister M. Bonaventure, S. S. J., Nazareth College, Nazareth, Mich.*
Sister M. Bonaventure Sitarz, 809 Vermont Ave., Kansas City, Kans.
Sister M. Bueche, Manhattan, Kans.
Sister M. Carmencita, St. Ursula's Acad. 2413 Collingwood, Toledo, Ohio.*
Sister M. Carolito, 1425 East 31st St., Kansas City, Mo.
Sister Mary Cassina, 5220 Troost, Kansas City, Mo.
Sister M. Cecelia, St. Agnes Convent, 2526 Vermont, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Sister Mary Cecelia, 39th and Roanoke, Kansas City, Mo.
Sister Mary Cecillia, 3195 S. Superior, Milwaukee.*
Sister M. Celeste, 1000 Edgewood Ave., Madison, Wis.
Sister M. Celestine, Mount St. Mary's College, 12001 Chalon Rd., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Sister M. Celine, 320 East Ripa Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Sister Mary Clara Ward, St. Matthew's Parochial School, Monroe, La.
Sister M. Claretta, Academy of Our Lady, 95th & Throop St., Chicago, Ill.*
Sister M. Clarissima, 1501 South Layton Blvd., Milwaukee, Wis.
Sister M. Clotilda Ohleyes, 1113 Broadway, Hannibal, Mo.
Sister Mary Concepta, O. S. F., 1435 Mallinckrodt St., St. Louis, Mo.*
Sister M. Davidica, 1209 Park Ave., Racin, Wis.
Sister Mary De Chantal, Academy of Visitation, De Sales Heights, Dubuque, Iowa.*
Sister M. De Lourdes Burns, Mt, Mercy Jr. College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*
Sister M. Dolores, R. S. M., De Sales College, Toledo, Ohio.*
Sister Mary Dolorosa, Mt. Loretto Ave., Dubuque, Ia.
Sister M. Elaine, Our Lady of the Lake College, San Antonio, Tex.
Sister M. Elsie of the Paraclete, Xavier Univ., Washington & Pine Sts., New Orleans, La.*
Sister Mary Emerentia, Maryhurst College, Oswego, Oregon.*
Sister M. Estelle, 17001 Lake Shore, Cleveland, O.*
Sister M. Eulalia, O. S. F., College of St. Francis, 303 Taylor St., Joliet, Ill.*
Sister M. Felicia, S. S. N. D., 1456 Oakdale, Chicago.*
Sister M. Felicia, Grove Ave. at 15th St., Racine, Wis.
Sister M. Felicitas, 14028 Euclid, E. Cleveland, O.*
Sister Mary Felix Hebert, St. Mary College, Leavenworth Kans.
Sister M. Fidelia, 1447 W. Superior St., Chicago.*
Sister M. Fourier, Mount Mary College, Milwaukee, Wis.
Sister M. Francella, Mt. Mercy, 3333 Fifth Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Sister Mary Francis Costello, 500 Seventh St., Boonville, Mo.
Sister Mary Gerald Picard, 207 W. Linwood Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.* **
Sister Mary Georgia Kilburg, Mount St. Francis, Dubuque, Iowa.*
Sister Mary Gisela, Mount Mary College, Milwaukee, Wis.
Sister Mary Grace, St. Joseph Col., Adrian, Mich.*
Sister M. Gregor, Good Council Academy, Mankato, Minn.*
Sister M. Helen Joseph, Immaculata College, Immaculata, Pa.*
Sister Mary Heliodore, 4034 West 56th St., Chicago, Ill.
Sister Mary Henry, 6832 Convent, Sylvania, Ohio.*
Sister Mary Herbert, 3195 S. Superior, Milwaukee.*
Sister M. Hilary, 8671 Quincy Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Sister M. Irmina, 16 Lake View Park, Rochester, New York.*
Sister Mary Jeannette Hoffman, W. 33rd & Rebecca, Sioux City, Ia.* **
Sister M. Johanna, S. S. N. D., Good Counsel Convent, Mankato, Minn.*
Sister Mary John, O. P., Holy Rosary Academy, Bay City, Mich.*
Sister Mary John Kennedy, 7214 St. Charles Ave., New Orleans, La.*
Sister M. Joselita, 815 S. Sixth St., Springfield, Ill.*
Sister M. Judith, St. Mary's College Holy Cross P. O., Notre Dame, Ind.*
Sister Mary Justin, St. Xavier School of Music, 4900 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Sister M. Justina, Nazareth College, Nazareth, Mich.
Sister Mary Justina, 716 Geyer Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Sister M. Kathleen, S. S. J., 1017 Lake Ave., Rochester, N. Y.*
Sister M. Laura, 2064 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.*
Sister M. Leonarda Hamel, R. S. M., St. Jean Convent, 77 Strong Ave., Muskegon, Mich.*
Sister Mary Lois Wessel, 75 W. 17th, Dubuque, Ia.* **
Sister Mary Loiselle, 1000 Edgewood Ave., Madison, Wis.
Sister Mary Lorita, Webster College, Webster Groves, Mo.
Sister Mary Louise, Mount Mary College, Milwaukee, Wis.*
Sister Mary Louise, St. Joseph's College, Adrian, Mich.*
Sister Mary Lourdes, Conservatory of Music, St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Ind.*
Sister M. Lucille, Holy Family Academy, 1444 W. Division, Chicago, Ill.*
Sister M. Lucretia, Marywood Col., Scranton, Pa.*
Sister Mary Luke McConnell, 620 Oakmont Ave., Oakmont, Pa.*
Sister Marcellina Telgmann, St. Mary's Academy and College, Leavenworth, Kans.
Sister M. Marguerite, Mt. St. Joseph Academy & Jr. College, Maple Mount, Ky.*
Sister M. Marian, 1209 Park Avenue, Racine, Wis.
Sister Martina Hughes, College of St. Scholastica, Duluth, Min.
Sister Mary Matilde, 946 N. Jefferson St., Huntington, Ind.*
Sister M. Michael Joseph, Immaculata College, Immaculata, Pa.*
Sister Mary Miriam Sitarz, 40 North Mill St., Kansas City, Kans.
Sister M. Modesta Olson, St. Xavier's School, Junction City, Kans.
Sister M. Monica Marie, St. Mary's College, Holy Cross P. O., Notre Dame, Ind.*
Sister Mary Odilo, Rosary College, River Forest, Ill.*
Sister Mary of the Paraclete, Xavier University, Washington & Pine Sts., New Orleans, La.*
Sister Mary Patricia Hickey, Sacred Heart Jr. Col., McCormick & Sheridan Aves., Wichita, Kans.*
Sister Mary Paul, Mt. Loretto, 1229 Mt. Loretto, Dubuque, Ia.
Sister Mary Paula, Webster College, Webster Groves, Mo.
Sister Mary Paula, Villa Angela, 17001 Lake Shore Blvd., Cleveland, Ohio.*
Sister Mary Rafael, 6363 Sheridan Rd., Chicago, Ill.
Sister Mary Raphaeldis, Mount Carmel Academy, Wichita, Kans.
Sister Mary Rose De Lima, S.S.N.D., 458 Eugenie St., Chicago, Ill.*
Sister Mary Roselle, 1023 West 32nd St., Chicago, Ill.
Sister Mary St. Jane, 5220 Troost, Kansas City, Mo.
Sister Mary Salome Meyerhofer, Immaculate Conception Academy, Dubuque, Ia.
Sister M. Sophia, 5874 St. Lawrence Ave., Detroit.*
Sister M. Sylvester, P.H.J.C., 2001 Devon, Chicago.*
Sister Mary Teresina, 921 Clay St., Topeka, Kans.
Sister M. Veronica Given, Bishop McDonnell Memorial H. S., 260 Eastern Pkwy., Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Sister Mary Victorine Klein, St. Teresa College, 5600 Main, Kansas City, Mo.* **
Sister M. Vincent Meyer, R.S.M., 1415 W. Saginaw St., Lansing, Mich.*
Sister M. Xaveria, O.S.F., St. Joseph Convent, 1501 S. Layton Blvd., Milwaukee, Wis.* **
Sister Mary Zitta, Mt. Loretto, Dubuque, Ia.
Sister Maureen, 4628 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Sister Philomena, Siena Heights College, Adrian, Mich.
Sister Priscilla McGowan, 415 North 15th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Sister Rita Agnes, Dept. of Music, College of St. Rose, Albany N. Y.*
Sister Rose Cecilia, 306 Van Buren, Topeka, Kans.
Sister Rose Cecilia, St. Pious School, St. Louis, Mo.*
Sister Roselite Hall, St. John School, Beloit, Kans.
Sister Rose Margaret, 1849 Cass St., St. Louis, Mo.* **
Sister Rose Marie, Rep., Shreveport Music T. A., Shreveport, La.
Sister Rose Matthew Sillers, St. Mary College, Leavenworth, Kans.
Sister Rose Vincent, Webster College, Webster Grove, Mo.*
Sister Rose Vinventia Tomlin, St. Mary College, Leavenworth, Kans.
Sister St. Charles, S.S.J., St. John's Convent, 118 Adams St., Johnstown, Pa.*
Sister Salome Hornins, Sacred Heart School, Salina, Kans.
Sister Teresa Marie, Loretto Heights College, Loretto, Colo.*
Sister Teresa Mary, College Misericordia, Villa St. Teresa, Dallas, Pa.*
Sister Urban, Col. of St. Benedict, St. Joseph, Minn.*
Sister Valeria Willems, Mount St. Scholastica College, Atchison, Kans.
Shakman, Samuel D., 430 S. Michigan, Chicago.*
Skarritt, Gladys, 19 Bartlett, Highland Park, Mich.*

Skeat, William J., c/o Board of Education, Welch, West Virginia.*
Skeath, Harold, Music Pub. Holding Corp., 733 Flower St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Skidmore, J. I., 301 W. Main St., Danville, Ind.*
Skillingstad, O. S., Deer Lodge, Mont.*
Skilton, Charles S., 1318 Louisiana, Lawrence, Kans.
Skinner, Annie L., 17 Harrison, Johnson City, N. Y.*
Skinner, Ellen Trimble, 180 Ransom, Lexington, Ky.*
Skinner, J. F., 1628 Bennett, St. Charles, Mo.*
Skinner, T. Stanley, 6001 Kingsbury, Springfield, Mo.
Skornicka, Joseph E., 4454 N. Morris, Milwaukee.*
Slader, Eleanor, 5038 S. Ashland Ave., Chicago.*
Slater, George Holt, Crescent, N .Y.*
Sleeper, Helen Joy.
Sleeper, Henry Dike.
Slepicka, Eleanor, 2420 S. Oak Park, Berwyn, Ill.*
Slette, Arleen, 1722 E. Sixth St., Tucson, Ariz.*
Slingsby, Mrs. Hazel R., 1 Christopher, N. Y. C.*
Sliter, Merle M., 208 W. Main, Clarinda, Iowa.*
Sloan, Dorothy R., 1044 Roanoke Rd., Cleveland Heights, Ohio.*
Sloan, Mrs. Myra, 327 W. Ave., Rochester, N. Y.*
Sloan, Teresa F., 421 Aldine Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Slocum, Celia Wilson, 806 N. Cayuga, Ithaca, N. Y.*
Slocum, Earl, Univ. of N .C., Chapel Hill, N. C.*
Slocum, Jeannette Alice, c/o Jr. H. S., War, W. Va.*
Slonimsky, Nicolas, 238 Hemenway St., Boston, Mass.
Slotter, Elizabeth P., 315 S. State St., Ephrata, Pa.*
Small Allan, 425 101st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Small, Arnold M.
Smart, Elizabeth, Clark Apts., Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.*
Smith, Agnes A., Ramsey Jr. H. S., 50th & Nicollet, Minneapolis, Minn.*
Smith, Alfred H., 825 Union, San Diego, Calif.*
Smith, Mrs. Besse Edmonds, Academy of the New Church, Bryn Athyn, Pa.*
Smith, Bessie L., 618 East Walnut, Bloomington, Ill.
Smith, Carleton Sprague
Smith, Cecil Michener, Univ. of Chicago, Chicago.
Smith, Charles H., 533 Fir St., Ft. Bragg, Calif.*
Smith, Clara E., 1531 N. E. Schuyler, Portland, Ore.*
Smith, Cyrus G., 1224 Oak St., Lebanon, Pa.*
Smith, Edna B., 1213 White St., Key West, Fla.*
Smith, Edna M., Longfellow School, Tulsa, Okla.*
Smith, Elizabeth L., 128 Marvin St., Milan, Mich.*
Smith, Esther Charlotte, Box 55, Corwith, Iowa.*
Smith, Eula R., 1941 Massachusetts St., Lawrence, Kans.
Smith, F. Louise, 35 N. Franklin, Waynesboro, Pa.
Smith, Mrs. Flora H., 832 East St., Grinnell, Iowa.*
Smith, Florence, Tiltonsville, Ohio.*
Smith, Mrs. Florence, 50 Chestnut, Rochester, N. Y.*
Smith, Fowler, 467 W. Hancock, Detroit, Mich.*
Smith, Fred G., 2566 N. 45th St., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Smith, Geraldine, 312 W. Orange St., Lancaster, Pa.*
Smith, Gertrude I., 610 Blaine Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Smith, Gertrude Parker.
Smith, Henry M., Minneapolis College of Music, Minneapolis, Minn.
Smith, Herman F., 1752 Martha Washington Dr., Wauwatosa, Wis.*
Smith, Ida, 307 West 10th, Coffeyville, Kans.
Smith, Ione, Lisbon, Iowa.*
Smith, Jennie Belle, 728 Cobb St., Athens, Ga.*
Smith, Jessie, 216 N. Union, Independence, Mo.*
Smith, John M., 23 Regent, Valley Stream, N. Y.*
Smith, Julia, 247 S. Citrus, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Smith, Leila D., 3568-1st Ave., San Diego, Calif.*
Smith, Lucia W., 346 W. California, Pasadena, Calif.*
Smith, Marie H., Minneapolis College of Music, Minneapolis, Minn.
Smith, Marjorie M., 1211 C St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Smith, Marlowe G., Clover Hills Dr., R. 2, Rochester, N. Y.*
Smith, Martha, 204 W. Main, Logan, Ohio.*
Smith, Mary Naomi, 924 Prov. Rd., Columbia, Mo.*
Smith, Maud, 5825 Harrison, Kansas City, Mo.
Smith, Norman P., 3208 Brighton, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Smith, Reed
Smith, Ritchie C., Ginn & Company, 45 Second St., San Francisco, Calif.*
Smith, Roberta J., Chowchilla, Calif.*
Smith, Rosalie, 116 Upton St., Salisbury, Md.*
Smith, Sarah, Box 176, Taft, Calif.*
Smith, Suzanne Black.
Smith, Sylvia M., 4225 Montgall, Kansas City, Mo.
Smith, Velma H., 1211 C St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Smith, Virginia E., 536 Hamilton St., Roanoke Rapids, N. C.*
Smutz, Dorothy Drina, 308 Altus Place, Kirkwood, Mo.
Snapp, Katherine L., 705 S. Ninth, Salina, Kans.*
Snider, Leslie W., Nashville, Ill.*
Snodgrass, Eleanor E., 1611 Laramie, Manhattan, Kans.
Snow, Edith H., 43 St. Paul St., Brookline, Mass.*
Snow, Ruth Lenore, 1075 W. 35th St., Los Angeles.*
Snyder, Agnes Rast, MacPhail School, Minneapolis, Minn.
Snyder, Mrs. Dorothea Sage, R. R. 7, Kalamazoo, Mich.*
Snyder, Eleanor, 1601 W. Broad St., Columbus, O.*
Snyder, Elizabeth, 7115 Thomas, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Snyder, Ellis E., 119 South Ardmore Rd., Bexley, Columbus, O.
Snyder, Frances L., 5123 N. 15th St., Philadelphia.*
Snyder, Mrs. George Pence, 3514 Michigan Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Snyder, Hartley D., Univ. of Ariz., Tucson, Ariz.*
Snyder, Howard A., 311½ South Dodge St., Iowa City, Ia.
Snyder, Ina, Jenkins Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.*
Snyder, Keith D., 123 Gillette Ave., Sayville, N. Y.*
Snyder, Melvin E., 716 Polk St., Gary, Ind.*
Soders, J. O., 211 Abney Ave., Hillsboro, Tex.
Solomon, Ida, 629 S. Serrano, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Sommers, Hobart, 452 W. Aldine, Apt. 3, Chicago.*
Sonier, Elizabeth C., 94 Williams, Winsted, Conn.*
Sopkin, Henry, 5732 Winthrop Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Sordillo, Fortunato
Sorenson, Alice, Great Neck H. S., Great Neck, L. I., N. Y.*
Sorenson, Othalia, 3120 Jefferson, Kansas City, Mo.
Sorrells, Robert D., 504 Hunter, Sikeston, Mo.*
Sory, Mrs. Robert, Madison H. S., Richmond, Ky.*
Souder, Mrs. Florence K., 515 N. Evans St., Pottstown, Pa.*
South, Eudora L., 115 Shelby St., Frankfort, Ky.*
Southard, Natalie T., 165 Wesleyan Ave., Providence, R. I.*
Sovereign, Oliver M., 510 North Sergeant, Joplin, Mo.
Sovereign, Mrs. Oliver M., 519 North Sergeant, Joplin, Mo.
Sowers, Mrs. Earl E., Box 1118, Drumright, Okla.
Spaeth, Sigmund, 220 W. 42nd St., New York City.*
Spalitto, Mrs. Peter, 429 North Van Frunt, Kansas City, Mo.
Spangler, George P., 4803 C St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Sparks, Fay, 1170 Center St., Salem, Ore.*
Spaulding, Vernon E., 410 S. Jefferson St., Martinsville, Ind.*
Spayde, Luther T., 421 Cajon St., Redlands, Calif.
Speir, Ruth E., 175 North St., Buffalo, N. Y.*
Spelman, Leslie P., Univ of Redlands, Redlands, Calif.* **
Spencer, Allen, American Conservatory, Kimball Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
Spencer, Carrie M., 115 E. Espanola St., Colorado Springs, Colo.*
Spencer, Clara A., Dekalb, Mo.
Spencer, Duane E., 4119 Troost, Kansas City, Mo.
Spencer, H. A., Dept of Edu., Niagra Falls, N. Y.*
Spencer, Robert A., Box 45, Storrs, Conn.*
Spezia, Emilia, Box 1507, Clifton, Ariz.*
Spier, La Salle, 2235 Bancroft Place, North West, Washington, D. C.
Spiller, Isabele Taliaferro, 232 W. 138th St., New York City.*
Spinks, Leslie L., 204 Texas St., Shreveport, La.*
Spisak, Helena E., 172 Shenango Blvd., Farrell, Pa.*
Spivacke, Harold
Spizzy, Mrs. Mabel S., Court House Annex, Santa Ana, Calif.*
Spizzy, Mabel Seeds, Reedley Junior College, Reedley, Calif.
Spofford, Grace, 8 Pitt St., New York City.
Spooner, Kathleen, 328 S. E. St., Exeter, Calif.*
Spouse, Alfred, 267 Westminster, Rochester, N. Y.*
Spratt, Blanche M., 1340 Morningside Ave., Sioux City, Iowa.*
Sprenkel, Charlotte E., 3131-38th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Spring, Harling, Westport H. S., Kansas City, Mo.* **
Springston, Christine, San Diego State College, San Diego, Calif.*
Sproesser, Josephine, 907 Clyman St., Watertown, Wis.
Spurbeck, Samuel W., Normal School, Potsdam, N. Y.*

Squire, Russel N., George Pepperdine College, 1121 W. 79th St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Squires, Margaret, Union High School, Huntington Beach, Calif.*
Staffel, Tekla, 302 Cedar St., San Antonio, Tex.
Stafford, Margie Helm, 314 T. C. Station, Danton, Texas.*
Stalzer, Mrs. F. S., 1838 North 26th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Stam, Peter, Jr., Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill.* **
Stamm, Ernest P., Beaumont H. S., St. Louis, Mo.*
Stamm, Ruth V., 404 West Jefferson, Pittsburgh, Kans.
Stamper, Mary Kay, Ward Junior High School, 6701 Delmar, University City, Mo.*
Stanchfield, Bessie M., 701-1st Ave. S., St. Cloud, Minn.*
Stanger, Mildred M., 296 E. Grand Blvd., Detroit.*
Stanley, James, 128 East Ruby, Independence, Mo.
Stanley, M. D., 965 Shasta Ave., Dunsmuir, Calif.*
Stanton, George A., 4104 Old Orchard Ave., Montreal, Quabec, Canada.*
Stanton, Margaret, 337 N. Lincoln, Scranton, Pa.*
Stanwood, Lucy, 299 W. 12th St., New York City.*
Staples, Jean G., 124 Woodside Ave., Narberth, Pa.*
Stark, L. A., 2900 Atlantic St., Franklin Park, Ill.*
Stark, Mrs. Mary W., 7 Dover Pk., Rochester, N. Y.*
Starke, M., Girls High School, Barnato Park, Pohannesburg, South Africa.*
Starkey, Willard, Box 444, Troy, Mo.*
Starks, Thomas I., Box 458, Route 5, Watsonville, Calif.*
Starr, Clara Ellen, Bd. of Edu., Detroit, Mich.*
Starr, Charles Neil, University of Akron, Akron, O.
Starr, Glenn B., N. 4516 Addison, Spokane, Wash.*
Starr, Minnie E., 1310 W. 22nd, Cedar Falls, Iowa.*
Staton, Elizabeth, State Dept. of Ed., Dover, Del.*
Staubus, Verna, 307 N. Jefferson, Robinson, Ill.*
Steadman, Gwendolyn, 105 Columbia St., Hattiesburg, Miss.*
Steckel, Edwin M., Oglebay Park, Wheeling, W. Va.*
Steckel, Harry A., 802 Main St., Slatington, Pa.*
Steckelberg, Carl-Frederic, 1254 South 62nd St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Steele, Jean A., 45 Park Ave., Mt. Vernon, N. Y.*
Steele, Lucinda J., 3945 McGee St., Kansas City, Mo.
Steensland, Dorothy E., White Sulphur Springs, Montana.*
Steffen, Jeannette Mae, Hollenbeck Jr. High School, 602 S. Soto St., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Steigely, W. G., 707 Hamilton Ave., Lorain, Ohio.*
Stein, Gladys M., Stein School of Music, 1109 W. 26th St., Erie, Pa.* **
Steinberg, Merle M., 819 East 12th, Winfield, Kans.
Steinberg, Walter F., 4412 Adams, Kansas City, Kans.
Stell, Ina G., 1603 E. Main, Rochester, N. Y.*
Stempleman, Bertha, 4430 Benton, Kansas City, Mo.
Stengel, Drusilla H., 1292 Michigan, Buffalo, N. Y.*
Stensland, Minnie D., 157 Augusta, De Kalb, Ill.*
Stenwall, Hulda, 368 N. Taylor Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Stephens, Alvin, 3229 Paser, Kansas City, Mo.*
Stephens, Clyde, 3424 Hennepin Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.
Stephens, Donald S., 3224 Linwood Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.*
Stephens, Lala, 961 N. Barksdale, Memphis, Tenn.*
Stephens, Percy Rector, 27 W. 67th St., N. Y. C.*
Stepleton, Glen, 1617 S. Elm St., Muncie, Ind.*
Sterling, J. Lacey, Woodmere Academy, Woodmere, N. Y.*
Sterling, Winthrop S., Metropolitan College of Music, Cincinnati, O.
Sterns, Francena, 308 W. Boston, Indianola, Iowa.*
Sternstein, Frances R., 486 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Stetson, Mrs. Pansy B., Hanover Center, Mass.*
Steunenberg, Tom B., University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla.
Stevens, Lola E., Forsyth Apt., Savannah, Ga.*
Stevens, Lulu M., Lamar Hotel, Houston, Texas.*
Stevens, Maude Lucinda, 501 E. Colfax, Denver.*
Stevens, Paul E., Sanborn Hall, Delaware, Ohio.*
Stevens, Robert W., 1014 2nd Ave., South, Great Falls, Mont.
Stevens, Zolona E., 5605 Winner Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Stevenson, Annie P., Brantview, St. Johnsbury, Vt.*
Stevenson, Mrs. A. L., 202 South College Ave., Warrensburg, Mo.
Stevenson, Mary E., 607 W. Main, Knoxville, Tenn.*
Steward, J. C., Harrisonville, Mo.
Stewart, Esther, 711 West 2nd, Pittsburg, Kans.
Stewart, Mable V., 408 N. Horne, Oceanside, Calif.*
Stickel, Alma L., 1632 Menlo Ave., Los Angeles.*
Stiers, Carolyn, 531 E. Washington, E. Peoria, Ill.*
Stillinger, Mrs. Frank, S. T. C., Trenton, N. J.*
Stine, Harold Y., Highland Ave., Pearl River, N. Y.*
Stinson, M. H., Melville H. S., Melville, La.*
Stipek, Mildred, 5127 W. 24th St., Cicero, Ill.*
Stith, Helen, Newton City Schools, Newton, Kans.*
Stitt, Lawrence C., S. T. C., Indiana, Pa.*
Stiven, Frederic B., 804 West Oregon St., Urbana, Ill.
Stockholm, Helena, Box 182, Escalon, Calif.*
Stockton, Melvin S., Arnitt, Okla.*
Stoddard, Eugene, Woodlawn, Calif.*
Stoddart, Alma M., Darien, Conn.*
Stokes, Charles F., Cons. of Music, Cincinnati, O.*
Stokes, Dorothy I., Box 164, Old Saybrook, Conn.*
*Stokowski, Olga Samaroff **
Stoller, Louis H., 13535 La Salle, Detroit, Mich.*
Stone, Lillian T., 205 Fell Ave., Normal, Ill.*
Stone, Olive, 47 West 58th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Stoneburner, Mrs. Leora, 308 Millboro Rd., Silver Lake Estates, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.*
Stoneman, Robert, 708 Jefferson Ave., Orrville, O.*
Stookey, Lewis L., Box 822, Mobile, Ala.*
Stopford, Emma Mae, 911 Mulberry St., Stonier Apts., Scranton, Pa.*
Stopher, H. W., University of Louisiana, Baton Rouge, La.
Stopp, Ruth H., 36 Rogers Pl., Floral Park, N. Y.*
Storms, Arthur, 1861 Harvard, Independence, Mo.
Story, Mary H., 1308 East 36th, Kansas City, Mo.
Stoughton, Paul W., 510 E. Second Ave., Northfield, Minn.*
Stout, Barrett, 312 S. Mulanix St., Kirksville, Mo.* **
Stout, George C., Box 1842, Baton Rouge, La.*
Stout, Kemble A., Kirksville State Teachers College, Kirksville, Mo.
Straman-Thomas, Helen
Strang, Gerald
Stratton, Frank B., 1610 Grove Ave., Topeka, Kans.
Stratton, Myra C., 1610 Grove Ave., Topeka, Kans.
Street, Alice B., 6444 Summit, Kansas City, Mo.
Stribrny, E. J., 1121 Washington, McKeesport, Pa.*
Strickling, George F., Cleveland Heights High School, Cleveland Heights, O.
Stringer, Catherine, 102 Lincoln St., Johnstown, Pa.*
Stringham, Edwin J., Teachers Col., Columbia Univ., New York City.* ***
Stroessler, John, 107 N. 54th, Seattle, Wash.*
Strom, Ellen O., 217 Normal Ave., Lindsborg, Kans.
Strong, Anna C., 215 First St., Elizabeth, Pa.*
Strong, Mrs. Cecile, Florida State College for Women, Tallahassee, Fla.*
Strong, Mary E., 728 Jenne St., Grand Ledge, Mich.*
Strong, Kate, Elsmere Hotel, 1107 Linwood, Kansas City, Mo.
Strother, H. Dana, 21 Kemper St., Wollaston, Mass.*
Stroud, Virginia Lisdale, Hyde Park Hotel, Kansas City, Mo.
Stroup, Orlo C., 326 Mulberry, Bryan, Ohio.*
Strouse, Catharine E., Kansas S. T. C., Emporia, Kansas.* **
Strub, Paul, 1016 S. Davis, Kirksville, Mo.*
Strunk, Oliver
Stuart, R. E., St. Louis Institute of Music, Bonhomme & Bemiston Aves., St. Louis, Mo.* **
Stuhl, Raymond, University of Kansas School of Music, Lawrence, Kans.
Stull, Charles C. T., Route 3, Frederick, Md.*
Stults, Walter A., Box 194, Evanston, Ill.*
Stumpf, Florence R., 107 W. Ross Ave., Tampa, Fla.*
Stuntzner, Edwin L., 769 E. Harrison St., Springfield, Mo.*
Sturchio, Frank, Box 325, West Palm Beach, Fla.*
Sturdy, L. Alice, 1802 Fifth Ave., Los Angeles.*
Sturges, Mary A., 7335 Forest, Kansas City, Mo.
Stutts, Walter A., Box 694, Evanston, Ill.
Sublette, Florence M., 725 Grove Ave., Kent, Ohio.*
Suckew, Eleanor W., 2849 N. Hackett, Milwaukee.*
Suderman, David H., Bethel Col., Bethel Col., Kan.* **
Suderman, Mrs. David H., North Newton, Kans.
Suffel, Marie, 731 Covington Dr., Detroit, Mich.*

Sullivan, Elaine, 48-23-59th Pl., Woodside L. I., New York.*
Sullivan, Grace C., 2511 Ave. S, Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Sullivan, Jerry, Winthrop, Wash.*
Sumarlidasan, Kristin, Neah Bay, Wash.*
Summers, Louise E., Carlin High School, Carlin, Nev.*
Summers, Phala C., Clendenin, W. Va.*
Summy, Norma, Napier Consolidated School, R. F. D. 3, Ames, Iowa.*
Sumner, Zara O., Board of Ed., Lakewood, Ohio.*
Sunderman, L. F., Oswego S. N. S., Oswego, N. Y.*
Sur, William Raymond, 324 N. Allen, Madison, Wis.*
Surdo, Joseph, 2315 Madison Ave., Norwood, Ohio.*
Sussman, Helene G., 4426-3rd Ave., Los Angeles.*
Sutcliffe, J. Richard, 42 Lancaster St., Leominster, Mass.*
Suter, Mrs. F., Jr., 120 Dove St., Rochester, N. Y.*
Sutherby, Thirza M., 334 E. Milton, Alliance, Ohio.*
Sutherland, Edith A., 1442 N. Second, Phoenix, Ariz.*
Sutton, Francis, Box 67, Bowmanville, Ont., Canada.*
Sutton, Jeannette, 1833 S. Park, Springfield, Ill.*
Swain, Frank, Viola, Ill.*
Swalin, Benjamin F., Univ. of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C.* *** **
Swan, Alfred J.
Swanson, Doris, Pershing County High School, Lovelock, Nev.*
Swanson, Wilbur F., Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill.
Swarthout, Donald M., Univ. of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas.* **
Swarthout, Max van L., 2548 North Catalina St., Los Angeles, Calif.
Swayze, Naomi, 5906 Briston St., Duluth, Minn.*
Sweeney, Mrs. Agnes R., 158 Grant Ave., Jersey City, N. J.*
Sweet, Marjorie E., 4614 Fifth Ave., Pittsburgh, 13.*
Sweet, Mildred, 119 N. 43rd St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Sweet, Naomi, 2401 Park Pl., Evanston, Ill.*
Sweet, S. Matilda, 2590 N. Beachwood, Los Angeles.*
Swetland, Ruth K., Scotch Plains H. S., Scotch Plains, N. J.*
Swift, E. Hargrave, P. O. Box 454, Beardstown, Ill.*
Swift, Frederic Fay, 127 West St., Ilion, N. Y.*
Swindells, Harold B., Box 33, New Canaan, Conn.*
Swindler, Ivadell A., 1930 Walling Ct., Davenport, Iowa.*
Swing, Martha L., 6819 Ridgeland Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Swirnberg, Annette, 1008 East 32nd Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.
Switten, Henry N., Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J.
Switzer, Mrs. Lucile B., 97 Spencer Ave., Toronto, Ont., Can.*
Switzer, Russell W., 725 Moores River Dr., Lansing, Mich.*
Swoope, M. C., Roaring Springs Public Schools, Roaring Springs, Pa.*
Symonds, Mary Evelyn, Wilson, Ark.*
Taber, Dorothy, Box 124, Winnemucca, Nev.*
Tackett, Betty, High School, Normandy, Mo.*
Taferner, Theodore A., 2070 Belmont Ave., Bronx, New York City.*
Taheny, Catherine M., 6601 S. Maplewood, Chicago.*
Tait, Lorelie I., 1288 W. Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga.*
Talley, Howard, Univ. of Chicago, Dept. of Music, Chicago, Ill.* ***
Tallmadge, Irving J., 804 S. 21st Ave., Maywood, Ill.*
Tallman, Harold H., Wayne University, Detroit.*
Talmadge, Arthur S., Hollins College, Va.
Tammi, Paul H., 18 Highway, Battle Creek, Mich.*
Tampke, R. A., 420 W. San Antonio, San Marcos, Texas.*
Tangeman, Robert S., Indiana University School of Music, Bloomington, Ind.
Tanner, Helen E., 1717 Tenth Ave., Greeley, Colo.*
Tapper, Thomas
Tartar, Lena Belle, 393½ Court St., Salem, Ore.*
Tarver, Helen J., 3828 Troost, Kansas City, Mo.
Tata, Romeo, 811 Normal Ave., Tempe, Ariz.
Tatro, Francis, 76 Elm Ave., Franklin, N. H.*
Tatum, T. Alto, Box 532, Gladewater, Texas.*
Taylor, Bernard U., 464 Riverside Dr., N. Y. C.*
Taylor, Corwin H., 2356 Norwood, Norwood, Ohio.*
Taylor, Davidson, 485 Madison Ave., N. Y. C.*
Taylor, Elizabeth Medert, 2356 Norwood Ave., Norwood, Ohio.*
Taylor, Gene, 10 W. Sugat St., Mt. Vernon, Ohio.*
Taylor, Gladys McCoy, 3800 Central St., Kansas City, Mo.
Taylor, H. C., University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kans.
Taylor, Harry F., Eastern New Mexico Jr. College, Portales, N. M.*
Taylor, Margaret A., N. Jefferson, Mexico, N. Y.*
Taylor, Maurice D., Montrose School, Montrose, Pa.*
Taylor, Minnie, 515 Walnut, Leavenworth, Kan.*
Taylor, Rober Mt., 1029 Walnut, Emporia, Kans.
Taylor, Mrs. Robert M., 1029 Walnut, Emporia, Kans.
Taylor, Ruth V., Box 148, Sumner, Ia.
Taylor, Vernon H., Box 148, Sumner, Ia.
Taylor, Willa C. Williammee, Dept. of Music, Pennsylvania State College, State College, Pa.
Tea, Martha, 218 S. Graham, Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Tedd, N. E., Bd. of Ed., Toronto, Ont., Can.*
Teel, Stanley M., c/o Univ. of Montana, Dept. of School Music, Missoula, Mont.*
Teitsworth, Mrs. Carolyn, 836 Van Buren St., Wilmington, Del.*
Tellaisha, John, Elko, Nev.*
Teller, Henry, 5222 Drexel Blvd., Apt. 1, Chicago.*
Teller, Ida Catherine, 201 Hibiscus Ct., Orlando, Fla.*
Tempel, William G., 1841 Lake St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Tenner, Eleanore A., Public Schools, Butte, Mont.*
Terry, Anna M., Wilberforce Univ., Wilberforce, O.*
Terry, J. L., Morgan H. S., Morgan City, Utah.*
Terry, W. H., South Cache H. S., Hyrum, Utah.*
Terstegge, Meta, 204 N. 11th St., Newark, N. J.*
Thackrey, Joseph E., Box 225, Athens, Ohio.*
Tharp, Harold, Warsaw, Mo.*
Tharp, Roy E., Box 296, Ava, Mo.*
Thayer, Audrey F., F. A. Brackett School, 54 Westland St., Hartland, Conn.*
Thayer, Mae E., Box 273, Clovis, Calif.*
Thiers, Mrs. Harry L., 815 S. College Ave., Mt. Pleasant, Mich.*
Thole, Elsie E., 147 Union Ave., N. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.*
Thomas, Alvin V., 526 West Almeria Rd., Phoenix, Ariz.
Thomas, Anna A., 401 Yancey, Montgomery, Ala.*
Thomas, Avis H., Olivet College, Olivet, Mich.
Thomas, Clara L., Bd. of Ed., Davenport, Iowa.*
Thomas, Clare John, 2632 Winnemac Ave., Chicago.*
Thomas, Cloea, 295 Tappan St., Columbus, Ohio.*
Thomas, Earl P., 517 Osborn Blvd., Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.*
Thomas, Idella, Public Schools, Westfield, Pa.*
Thomas ,Isabelle, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Thomas, John, Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.
Thomas, Mrs. John, 312 North 5th, St. Charles, Mo.
Thomas, Mary J., 1201 Tennessee, Lawrence, Kans.
Thomas, Mrs. Mary S., 1201 Tennessee St., Lawrence, Kan.*
Thomas, Wade F., Jr., 1244A-21st, Santa Monica, Calif.*
Thomas, Walter, Greenacres, Wash.*
Thomas, Wm. W., Box 65, Gig Harbor, Wash. *
Thompson, Barney B. M., Sr. H. S., Quincy, Ill.*
Thompson, Emma Louise, 6417-16th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Thompson, Florence W., 6318 City Line, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Thompson, Gordon V., 152 St. Leonards Ave., Toronto, Ont., Can.*
Thompson, James M., 1314 E. Washington St., Joliet, Ill.*
Thompson, John, 1431 West 56th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Thompson, John, Jr., 1431 West 56th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Thompson, Lova M., 636 S. Poplar, Centralia, Ill.*
Thompson, Loyd E., 421 Third Ave. E., Twin Falls, Idaho.*
Thompson, Martha Ryan, 300 West Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Thompson, Merle R., 3385 Woodrow Blvd., Toledo, Ohio.*
Thompson, Randall, Curtis Institute, Rittenhouse Square, Philadelphia, Pa.
Thompson, Sara, 3225 Wabash, Fort Worth, Texas.*
Thompson, Van Denman, De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind.
Thomson, Blanche C., Supr. of Music, Hawthorne School, Elmhurst, Ill.*
Thomure, L. P., Crystal City, Mo.*
Thornton, Alice H., 2412 Micheltorena, Los Angeles.*
Thornton, Paul, La. S. N. C., Natchitoches, La.*
Thorp, Christine, 10 Eastview Ter., Pittsford, N. Y.*
Thorp, Julia Abbie, 75th and High Dr., Route 7, Kansas City, Mo.
Thorpe, Leah V., 4 Hartranft, Norristown, Pa.*
Thorpe, Lillian J., 705 South Glenn, Wichita, Kans.
Thorsen, Oscar, Lindsborg, Kans.
Thorson, Corinne Paulson, 1109 North 56th St., Omaha, Nebr.
Thurman, Ina Louise, 800 Hickory, Denton, Texas.*
Thurston, Blanche, 1202 South Maple St., McPherson, Kans.

Tibbits, Blanche A., 69 Orchard St., Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.*
Tice, Georgia Buck, Georgia Tice Studio, Beloit, Kans.
Tiefenthal, Dwight L., 1107 Portage St., Kalamazoo, Michigan.*
Tiernan, Mrs. Hallie, Biarritz Apartment Hotel, Kansas City, Mo.
Tierney, Daniel D., 248 Stratford, West Roxbury, Massachusetts.*
Tiffany, Mary, Morrow Ave., North Chicago, Ill.*
Tilden, Charles, Oliver Ditson Company, Philadelphia, Pa.
Tilden, Norma, McConnelsville, Ohio.*
Tillett, Jeannette, 1100 West Cannon, Fort Worth, Tex.
Tillotson, E. C., 3829 State St., Apt. D, E. St. Louis, Ill.*
Tillyard, H. J. W.
Tilson, Lowell M., S. T. C., Terre Haute, Ind.*
Tilton, Edith Rhetts, 16925 Normandy, Detroit.*
Tilton, Harwood W., N. Water, Gallatin, Tenn.*
Tilton, Ruth, 239 W. Brooksdale, Fullerton, Calif.*
Tingle, Chas. G., 14606 Hamlin St., Van Nuys, Calif.*
Tipton, Eleanor, O'Neil Hotel, Chisholm, Minn.*
Tipton, Gladys G., 601 Broadway, Normal, Ill.* **
Tkach, Peter D., 4614 Arden Ave., Minneapolis.* **
Tocus, C. Spencer, 4335 A Cote Brilliante, St. Louis, Missouri.*
Todd, Arthur E., 1347-29th St., Des Moines, Iowa.*
Todd, Mable E., 28 N. Union St., Akron, Ohio.*
Toll, Doris E., Valders, Wis.*
Tolmach, Alice R., 136 Exeter St., Manhattan Beach, Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Tomshany, Robert A., 1819 Walker St., Kansas City, Kans.
Toplansky, Herman T., 412 Winthrop Pl., Elizabeth, New Jersey.*
Topping, Mrs. Mabel A., Ottawa, Kans.
Torbett, Mrs. Janet, 3137-24th St., N. E., Washington, D. C.*
Toren, E. Clifford, 5040 North St. Louis Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Towle, Mrs. Elizabeth N., Box 662, Woodland, Calif.*
Towner, Edward, Gilroy H. S., Gilroy, Calif.*
Towner, Jessie Wilson, 2631 Victor, Kansas City, Mo.
Townsend, Mrs. William U., 4828 Flora Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Trace, Janey M., 151 E. Main, New Concord, Ohio.*
Tracy, Flavilla, 815 E. Milton St., South Bend, Ind.*
Trant, Genevieve, 508 W. Hughitt, Iron Mountain, Michigan.*
Trauernicht, Anna Marie, Lutesville, Ohio.*
Travelstead, Chester, 45 Mentelle Park, Lexington, Kentucky.*
Travelstead, Mrs. Nelle Gooch, c/o Whittier Hall, New York City.*
Travis, James.
Traylor, C. O., Seymour, Ill.*
Treffinger, Mrs. Dorothy, 6136 N. 7th, Philadelphia.*
Tremaine, C. M., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, Room 620, New York City.* **
Trenholm, R. W., 617 S. Vine, North Platte, Nebr.*
Tressel, Dorothy Ruth, 28-5th St., S. E., Massillon, Ohio.*
Tresselt, Elsie, 7327 Passyunk Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Tribble, Noble, Bloomfield, Mo.*
Trimble, Lucille, 1621 East 35th, Tulsa, Okla.
Trimingham, Ann, 238 S. Oak Park, Oak Park, Ill.*
Triplett, Jeanette Case, 3306 Brooklyn, Kansas City, Mo.
Tripodi, Joseph, Emerson Rd., Creve Coeur, Mo.*
Troeck, Martha D., 236 Cooper, Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Troll, Hans, c/o Chicago Musical College, 64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill.
Trollman, John O., 429 Pine St., Leavenworth, Kansas.*
Trongone, Joseph A., 648 Weld St., West Roxbury, Massachusetts.*
Troup, George, 164 Chelmsford, Rochester, N. Y.*
Troxell, Charles, 2109 Rosewood, Richmond, Va.*
Truitt, Austin, 281 Sherwood, Rochester, N. Y.*
Truran, Genevieve, 440 North Plum, Vermillion, S. D.
Trusdell, Loreen B., 4643 Liberty St., Kansas City, Mo.
Trutner, Herman, Jr., 860 Leo Way, Oakland, California.*
Tubbs, M. Louise, 2 Elm St., Warrensburg, N. Y.*
Tucker, Mrs. Eva Roberts, 1285 Humboldt, Apt. 8, Denver, Colo.*
Tucker, Isabel, 5826 Pershing Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Tucker, Mary Laura, 4259 Lafayette Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Tufts, William O., Jr., 1635 Madison St., North West, Washington, D. C.
Tulloss, Dorothy E., 1612 S. 18th St., Chickasha, Okla.*
Tunheim, Mrs. Thorval, 2034 Brigden Blvd., Pasadena, Calif.*
Tunnicliffe, R. M., State University, Bowling Green, Ohio.*
Turk, Charlotte, 2121 Wm. Penn Highway, Wilkinsburg, Pa.*
Turner, Avis, 207 W. 9th St., Apt. 1, Jacksonville, Fla.*
Turner, Dorothy P., 1020 W. Prairie, Decatur, Ill.*
Turner, J. Warren, 958 Washington St., Denver.*
Turner, Miriam B., Route 1, Box 38-A, Los Gatos, California*
Tuthill, James A. Brown, 205 W. 57th St., New York City.
Tuthill, Margaret, 1136 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.*
Tutt, A. Bernice, 602 Capitol St., Vallejo, Calif.*
Tuttle, Stephen
Twaddell, William Powell, 707 S. Duke St., Durham, North Carolina.*
Tye, Mrs. Aileen, University of Miss., University, Miss.*
Tye, Esther L., 2608 Broadway, Parsons, Kans.
Uhe, Arthur Emil, Culmetock, Arms Hotel, Spokane, Wash.
Uhl, Mrs. Genevieve, 3680 Bret Harte Ct., Sacramento, Calif.*
Uhl, Glenn, 146 W. Water, Chillicothe, Ohio.*
Uhl, Minnie, 1103 Adams Ave., Evansville, Ind.*
Uflemeyer, Grace E., S. T. C., Lock Haven, Pa.*
Ulmer, Jennie C., 822 Kerper St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Underwood Rex, Univ. of Oregon, Eugene, Oregon.*
Underwood, Roy L., 2015 15th Ave., South, Nashville, Tenn.
Upton, William Treat
Utt, Paul R., Central Mo. S. T. C., Warrensburg, Missouri.* **
Valentine, C. Irving, 150-11 Barclay, Flushing, N. Y.*
Valentine, Norma, 11 Ford St., Deposit, N. Y.*
Valentine, Ralph E., 706 South Franklin, Kirksville, Mo.
Valentine, Theodore, Fayette, Ohio.*
Vallender, Christine, 9 Trowbridge, Arlington, Mass.*
Vance, Alpha, 134 Watchung Ave., Chatham, N. J.*
Van den Borren, Charles
Vanderbeck, Irma, 434 West 120th St., New York, N. Y.
Vanderost, Kappa, 3910 Little Ave., Cocoanut Grove, Fla.
Vanderwerken, Olive M., 272 S. Broadway, Yonkers, New York.*
Van De Wall, Willem, 1010 Fincastle Rd., Lexington, Ky.* **
Vandre, Carl W., 2821 N. 9th St., Milwaukee, Wis.*
Van Driesen, Mrs. Bessie, 1724 Varnum St., N. W., Washington, D. C.*
Van Duzee, Harold, 3507 Gillham Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Van Duzee, Mrs. Harold, 3507 Gillham Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Van Hook, Mrs. Maud, Niangua, Mo.*
Van Katwjk, Paul, 4610 Wildwood, Dallas, Tex.
Van Meter, E. L., Maplewood H. S., Maplewood, Missouri.*
Van Ness, G. E., 7134 Bennett, Chicago, Ill.*
Vanover, Edward S., McDonald, Ohio.*
Van Peursem, James E., 306 S. 3rd St., Richmond, Ky.*
Van Sickle, Howard M., 702 Kitchell, Pana, Ill.*
Van Stavern, Mrs. D. C., 3411 Montgall Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Van Voorhis, Dorothy, 1406 Orchard, Coshocton, Ohio.*
Van Wye, Mrs. C. De C., 260 Kearney Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Varney, Lindley, Brookside Ave., Mt. Kisco, N. Y.*
Vaughan, Portia Lo, Sequoyah Indian School, Tahlequah, Okla.
Vawter, Alice E., 107½ N. Third St., Goshen, Ind.*
Vawter, Mrs. Lola R., 1034½ Indiana Ave., La Porte, Ind.*
Veall, Florence L., Box 284, Winters, Calif.*
Veazey, Lotta T., 319 Howell Ave., Apt. 10, Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Veevers, Vida Sprague, 311 Raymond St., Hasbrouck-Heights, N. J.*
Venn, Olive, Jefferson School, Jefferson, Ohio.*
Vernon, Mary Strawn, Carleton Hotel, Oak Park, Ill.*
Vetter, Joyce, 712 Maine, Lawrence, Kans.
Victor, M., Goodman Public Schools, Goodman, Wis.*
Victor, Virginia, 421 S. Fifth St., Moberly, Mo.*
Vieh, Wilhelmina L., S. E. Mo. S. T. C., Cape Girardeau, Mo.*
Vierheller, Amanda, 17 Sylvania Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Viggiano, F. Anthony, 41 Terrence St., Springfield, Massachusetts.*
Viglianetti, Mrs. Jane F., Tarkio, Mo.
Villers, Eleanor R., 2170 E. Jefferson Ave., Detroit.*
Vincent, Jean S., 509 Fair Oaks Ave., South Pasadena, Calif.*
Vincent, John N., Colonial Ct., Bowling Green, Ky.*
Vitry, Rev. Ermin, O.S.B., O'Fallon, Mo.*
Vocelka, Ernest C., Evanston, Wyo.*
Voegelin, Ardis, 5306 N. Broad, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Voepel, Pearl E., 2926 Brooklyn Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Vogt, Harold G., 19 Elm St., Elizabeth, N. J.*
Volkart, Hazel, 108 West 36th, Kansas City, Mo.

Von Lehe, Agnes, 301 A. Philippine, Taft, Calif.*
Voorhees, Sylvia, c/o Carl Fischer, Inc., 62 Copper Square, New York City.*
Voorhies, Howard, 720 Washington, Lafayette, La.*
Voss, Erma Nala, 2010 McGregor, Wichita Falls, Texas.*
Voth, Rudolph D., Lawrence Jr. H. S., Lawrence, Kansas.* **
Vrionides, Christos **
Vroom, Mary A., 141 St. Marks Pl., New Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y.*
Wachter, Mrs. Esther, Spring Lake, Mich.
Wade, Robbie Lucille, 1317 N. Beard, Shawnee, Oklahoma.*
Wagner, Arnold H., 123 N. Manhatten Pl., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Wagner, Doris, 17 Clinton St., Oxford, N. Y.*
Wagner, Mrs. Georgia B., 16 Herron St., Montgomery, Ala.*
Wahlberg, Arthur G., Fresno State College, Fresno, California.*
Wait, F. Wilson, 220 Vancouver, Medford, Oregon.*
Wait, Marie J., 5550 N. Kenmore, Chicago, Ill.*
Wakefield, Helen M., 840 Boulevard, Bayonne, N. J.*
Walker, Mrs. Clare C., Gatun, Box 74, Canal Zone
Walker, Elvie F., 3011 Oak, Kansas City, Mo.
Walker, Georgia Lee, c/o High School, Clayton, Mo.*
Walker, Gertrude Graham, 75th and Belinder, Route 7, Kansas City, Mo.
Walker, Gwyneth, 238 High School Ave., Council Bluffs, Ia.
Walker, Pearl W., 4432 Washington, St. Louis, Mo.*
Walker, Walter C., 114 West 10th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Wall, Elsie G., 713-20th St., Belleville, Kansas.*
Wall, Marie Maude, 1231 S. Utica, Tulsa, Okla.*
Wallace, Lenore, 2650 Gd. River, Marr School, Detroit, Mich.*
Wallace, Leta, Bruce School, 624 East 63rd, Kansas City, Mo.
Wallace, Maude Bruce, Mangum, Okla.*
Wallace, Maude Orita, 511 S. Jefferson, Mexico, Mo.*
Waller, Elsie K., 1781 Pulte St., Cincinnati, Ohio.*
Waller, Florence E., 324 Broadway, Paterson, N. J.*
Waller, Gilbert R., 7676 Wise Ave., St. Louis, Mo.*
Waller, James L., 1232 S. Lewis Ave., Tulsa, Okla.*
Waller, Judith, N. B. C., Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill.*
Wallingford, Mrs. Lloyd, 2212 Country Club Blvd., Omaha, Nebr.*
Waln, George E., 82 S. Cedar St., Oberlin, Ohio.*
Walsh, Edward J., Hancock, N. Y.*
Walten, Max F., 15 Curtis Ave., San Rafael, Calif.*
Walters, Mrs. Audrey B., 1231 S. Webster Ave., Green Bay, Wis.*
Waltman, Evelyn H., Bd. of Ed., York, Pa.*
Walton, Wirt D., 4236 W. Aldine, St. Louis, Mo.*
Wandling, Georgia, 152 E. 22nd St., New York City*
Wanee, R. L., 8258 McGroarty Dr., Tujunga, Calif.*
Wannamacher, Eva L., 14 Birch Crescent, Rochester, New York.*
Wanner, Adelaide, 67 Nutt Rd., Phoenixville, Pa.*
Ward, Adele C., 145 Portsea, New Haven, Conn.*
Ward, Arthur E., 22 Valley Rd., Montclair, N. J.*
Ward, Loftus Hume, Huron College, Huron, S. Dak.
Ward, Rachel Hartley, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Ward, Sylvan Donald, 7120 Constance Ave., Chicago
Ward, T. Lane, c/o Ward-Brodt Music Company, 208 State St., Madison, Wis.*
Warden, Alice B., The Berry Schools, Mt. Berry, Ga.*
Wardwell, Mrs. Ethel L., Eastern S. N. S., Castine, Maine.*
Warner, Harry, 116 W. Commerce, Youngstown, Ohio.*
Warner, Phil, 3500 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Waron, Philip, 1534 Main St., Rahway, N. J.*
Warren, Mrs. Edna N., 553 S. Ogden St., Denver.*
Warren, Gladys E., Georgia State Woman's College, Valdosta, Ga.
Warren, Loren A., 71 College Ave., Mansfield, Pa.*
Wartenbe, Lyla Nash, 6611 East, Chevy Chase, Md.*
Washburn, Mrs. Katharine, 713 E. Mill St., Porterville, Calif.*
Washco, Alec, Jr., 2320 S. 22nd, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Washco, George, Northeast H. S., 8th St. and Lehigh Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Wassom, Georgia, West Union, Iowa.*
Wasson, Martha, Harding School, Bergenfield, N. J.*
Wasstol, Helene Carla, 145 Summit, Summit, N. J.*
Wasum, Dorothy, Estherville, Iowa.*
Waterbury, Winifred S. H., 3510 Crestwold Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.*
Waterman, Fred O., 612 S. Main, Kewanee, Ill.*
Waterman, Vernon B., Ritzville Consolidated Schools, Ritzville, Wash.*
Waters, Edward N.
Watkins, Eileen, 47 Barker Ave., White Plains, N. Y.*
Watkins, William J., Bd. of Ed., St. clair Ave., Grosse Pointe, Mich.*
Watrous, Aleen, 244 S. Hillside, Wichita, Kansas.*
Watson, F. Campbell, Music Publishers Holding Corp., 681 Eighth Ave., New York City*
Watson, Mabel Madison, Dorset Rd., Devon, Pa.
Watters, Lorrain, Des Moines Public Schools, Garfield Bldg., Des Moines, Iowa.*
Watts, Lillian, 1304 Park Ave., Racine, Wis.*
Waugh, Harvey R., S. T. C., St. Cloud, Minn.*
Way, Chas. W., 961 Lee Ave., San Leandro, Calif.*
Wayman, Florence, 38 Cowan St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Weatherly, Albert, Central H. S., Tulsa, Okla.*
Weathers, Walter, Canby, Oregon.*
Weaver, James C., 37 Montgomery Ave., Shippensburg, Pa.*
Weaver, Mary H., 100 Main St., Johnstown, Pa.*
Weaver, Paul J., 320 Wait Ave., Ithaca, N. Y.* **
Weaver, Powell, 4146 Warwick Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Weaver, Ruth B., Jefferson Jr. H. S., Columbia, Mo.*
Webb, Mrs. H. H., Wilhort Bldg., Springfield, Mo.
Webber, Margaret S., 1114 East Armour, Kansas City, Mo.
Webber, Russell A., 3504 Troost, Kansas City, Mo.
Weber, D. Gertrude, 127 S. 38th St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Weber, Frederic H., 606 Hillsboro Ave., Edwardsville, Ill.*
Weber, Helen M., 605 Rex St., South Bend, Ind.*
Webster, Alma, 849 West Wood St., Decatur, Ill.*
Webster, Louise, Mannsville, N. Y.*
Weddel, James M., 653 Beecher Ave., Galesburg, Ill.
Weddle, Franklyn S., Central H. S., Flint, Mich.*
Weed, Winona A., Enosburg Falls, Vt.*
Weegand, Ruth, Bd. of Ed., City Hall, Atlanta, Ga.*
Weeks, Frances Omar, 96 The Fenway, Boston Students Union, Boston, Mass.*
Weeks, George, High School, Ketchikan, Alaska.*
Weersing, Carolyn R., Pasadena Dist. Jr. College, Colorado St. & Hill Ave., Pasadena, Calif.*
Wegner, Mrs. Milton, 1312 Bruch Creek Blvd., Kansas City, Mo.
Wehrend, William R., Faculty Exchange, University of Oklahoma, Norman, Oklahoma.*
Weichselfelder, Louis, Jr., 2807 J St., Eureka, Calif.*
Weidler, Gladys, Felton Grammar School, North Tonawanda, N. Y.*
Weidman, Pearl Jeanette, Music Hall, State Teachers College, Emporia, Kans.
Weidner, L. Arlean, 1019 Chestnut, Reading, Pa.*
Weigel, Eugene J., 2399 Coventry Rd., Upper Arlington, Columbus, Ohio.*
Weigel, George D., 106 Dickson, Kirkwood, Mo.*
Weil, Alfred R., 6844 Burns St., Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y.*
Weil, Paul, Seaford, Delaware.*
Weiler, George W., 1011 North Howard St., Indianola, Ia.
Weimar, Claribel K., Durfee Intermediate School, 2470 Collingwood Ave., Detroit, Mich.*
Weimar, Ethel, 200 Loney St., Fox Chase, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Weimer, Joan E., 303 S. Hillsdale, Homer, Mich.*
Wein, Florence E., 178 N. Charlotte, Pottstown, Pa.*
Weinberg, Edwin B., 207 North Central, Clayton, Mo.
Weinberg, Emma L., Box G, Fowler, Calif.*
Weinberg, Jacob
Weiner, Lazar
Weinrich, Ralph B., 3846 Connecticut St., St. Louis, Missouri.*
Weinstein, Max, 300 Lenox Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Weis, Dr. E. H. F., L. B. 32, Guilford College, N. C.
Weis, Norman A., 120 Avery St., Buffalo, N. Y.*
Weisinger, Virginia Anne, 404 Charles St., East Lansing, Mich.*
Weiss, Adolph
Weiss, Mrs. Anna B., 1620 Lindley, Philadelphia*
Weissgerber, Marcia, 109 W. Maple, Libertyville, Ill.*
Welch, Charles E., Mt. Vernon, O.
Welch, Mrs. Ethel, 680 Delaware, Detroit, Mich.*
Welch, Mrs. Oramay, La. State University, School of Music, Baton Rouge, La.*
Welch, Roy Dickinson
Welke, Walter C., University of Washington, Seattle.*
Wellesz, Egon
Wells, Alan M., 235 Ward Parkway, Kansas City, Mo.

Wells, Clarence, 8 Fairview Ter., Maplewood, N. J.*
Wells, Evelyn M., 52 Main St., Oswego, N. Y.*
Wells, Hope, Polytechnic H. S., 400 W. Washington, Los Angeles, Calif.*
Wells, Joseph, City Schools, Clifton, Ariz.*
Wells, Kenneth H. C., 54 Pleasant, Hamburg, N, Y.*
Wells, Miriam, 8223 Chestnut St., Wauwatosa, Wis.*
Wells, Phradie, 36 Dumont Apartments, Lynchburg, Va.
Wells, Preston B., 1750 Collingwood, Detroit, Mich.*
Welsh, Edith R., 221 Tipton St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Welton, J. Henry, 151 Knoels Way, Stockton, Calif.*
Wenaas, Sigurd, Flathead County H. S., Kalispell, Montana.*
Wendelin, Andrew, 6546 S. Peoria St., Chicago, Ill.*
Wendt, Emily, 647 W. Pleasant St., Freeport, Ill.*
Wentz, Mildred G., 132 W. Third, Lewistown, Pa.*
Werner, Mrs. Margaret N., 2400 38th, Oakland*.
Wersen, Louis G., 718 N. Third St., Tacoma, Wash.*
Wesbey, Mrs. Bessie W., 1225 S. Baltimore, Tulsa, Oklahoma.*
Wesler, Amos G., 12005 Robertson, Cleveland, Ohio.*
Wessel, Robert, 4415 Park Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
West, Helen W., 2030 Riverside Dr., Trenton, N. J.*
West, Mrs. Loave, 1028 N. Weber, Colorado Springs, Colo.*
West, Mary Alvaretta, 2717 Hampshire, Cleveland, Ohio.*
West, Wilbur Marwyn, Fairview, Kans.
Westbrook, Arthur, School of Fine Arts, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebr.
Westbrook, Dean Arthur E., Ill. Wesleyan School of Music, Presser Hall, Bloomington, Ill.*
Westerman, Kenneth N., Box 62, Ann Arbor, Mich.*
Westgate, La Verne K., Reed City Public Schools, Reed City, Mich.*
Westhoff, Margaret, 304 W. Mulberry, Normal, Ill.*
Westlake, Isabelle G., 5301 Fremont, Lincoln, Nebr.*
Wethers, Mrs. Marita Dean, 1805 Church Ave., Scranton, Pa.*
Wetzel, Leroy, 1127 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.*
Wetzel, Lillie, 1717 Overton, Independence, Mo.
Weyforth, Emma E., S. T. C. Towson, Md.*
Whalen, Mary A., 3273 Parkside Pl., N. Y. C.*
Wheeler, Rufus A., 208 First St., Scotia, N. Y.*
Wheelwright, D. Sterling, 2810 - 16th N. W., Washington, D.C.*
Wheelwright, Lorin F., Bd. of Ed., Salt Lake City.*
Whery, Winifred, Mountain Iron, Minn.*
Whetstone, D. M., 222 - 3rd St., Marietta, Ohio.*
Whetstone, Helen E., Plattsburg, Mo.
Whistler, Harvey S., Box 3046, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio
Whitacre, Hannah E., 516 W. Jefferson, Kirksville, Missouri.*
Whitcomb, Agnes M., 111 Linden St., New Haven, Connecticut.*
White, Mrs. Cassie C., 9 S. Main, Salamanca, N. Y.*
White, Mrs. Florence S., 12049 Monica, Detroit.*
White, Janet M., 222 North St., Logan, Ohio.*
White, Mary E., 733 S. Flower St., Los Angeles.*
White, Richard, 814 Hickory St., Abilene, Texas.*
White, Robert J., 4406 Magoun, East Chicago, Ind.*
White, Sarah K., Bd. of Ed., St. Joseph, Mo.*
White, Sarah L., Friends School, Wilmington, Del.*
White, Stella G., 700 Chalfonte Pl., Cincinnati, O.*
White, Virginia Lee, 727 Maple, Alva, Okla.*
Whitehurst, Mary W., Marshall Col., Huntington, West Virginia.*
Whiteman, Loretta, 83 W. Main St., Cuba, N. Y.*
Whiting, Mrs. Olive S., 440 North St., East Aurora, New York.*
Whitlock, E. Clyde, 1100 West Cannon, Fort Worth, Tex.
Whitlock, Jean A., 137 E. 95th St., New York City.*
Whitlock, Vera, High Point Col., High Point, N. C.
Whitlock, Vera E., 724 N. Sixth, Springfield, Ill.*
Whitmire, Mrs. Alice G., 907 E. 52nd St., Chicago.*
Whitmore, Edna, 870 St. Charles Ave., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.*
Whitmore, Rogers, Univ. of Mo., Columbia, Mo.* **
Whitney, Gerald, 1324 S. Harvard, Tulsa, Okla.*
Whitney, Mrs. Harlow A., 11 East St., Northfield, Vermont.*
Whitney, Maurice C., Hudson Falls Public Schools, Hudson Falls, N. Y.*
Whitsey, Edna A., 2800 Coleridge Rd., Cleveland Heights, Ohio.*
Whittier, Margaret, 64 Salem St., Reading, Mass.*
Whittington, Mrs. Gretchen, Orosi Union H. S., Orosi, Calif.*
Whittlesey, Marjorie R., 531 - 12th St., Richmond, California.*
Wick, Mrs. Elizabeth B., 6050 Overbrook, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Widdicombe, Elizabeth A., Gay and Moris, Phoenixville, Pa.*
Widener, Marguerite W., 1947 South St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Wiedemann, Louise A., 1700 Vermont St., Lawrence, Kans.
Wier, Helen, 1201 Tennessee, Lawrence, Kans.
Wieseman, Carl, Box 3865, T. S. C. W., Deuton, Tex.
Wigell, Clare Arthur, 608 College, Maryville, Mo.*
Wight, Mrs. Irene, 4458 Orange Grove Ave., Riverside, Calif.*
Wikberg, Olga, Corbett, Ore.*
Wikoff, Lillian, Lyndhurst H. S., Lyndhurst, N. J.*
Wilby, Ann, 414 W. DeSoto St., Lake City, Fla.*
Wilcox, Evelyn, 626 Burns Ave., Wyoming, Ohio.*
Wilcox, John C., 5212 Cornell Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Wilcox, O. Louis, S. T. C., Cape Girardeau, Fo.*
Wild, Julianna, 4642 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Wild, Theresa F., 217 W. Carroll St., Macomb, Ill.*
Wilda, Mrs. George, 637 West 70th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Wilder, Edna B., 341 Englewood Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Wile, Ella, 1947 Medary Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Wiley, Bernice, 720 C., Cook St., Springfield, Ill.*
Wiley, Mildred P., 501 N. Chestnut, Barnesville, O.*
Wilhousky, Peter J., 6701 Colonial Rd., Brooklyn, New York.*
Wilkes, Lydia F., 6601 Forbes St., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Wilkin, Elizabeth, 325 E. Harvey St., Ely, Minn.*
Wilkins, Cecil, School Administration Bldg., Norfolk, Va.*
Wilkins, Joseph F., 1535 University Dr., Lawrence, Kans.
Wilkins, Mary, 1519 - 28th St., N. W., Washington, District of Columbia.*
Wilkinson, Helen F., 307 Chandler, Evansville, Ind.*
Wilkinson, Curtis, 227 N. Main St., Kennett, Mo.*
Willardsen, Armount, 1603 Mayfair, Salt Lake City.*
Willfong, Ermine, Winthrop College, Rockhill, S. C.*
Willgus, Leon A., 1612 Highland, Salina, Kans.
Williams, Arthur L., Oberlin Conservatory of Music, Oberlin, Ohio.*
Williams, Colvin L., Tontogany, Ohio.*
Williams, E. Janet, 3941 N. Prospect Ave., Shorewood, Milwaukee, Wis.*
Williams, Elizabeth, 136 Chestnut St., Rutherford, New Jersey.*
Williams, Ellen C., 539 Colonial Ave., Devon, Conn.*
Williams, Ernest S., 153 Ocean, Brooklyn, N. Y.*
Williams, Mrs. H. M., 3501 Jefferson St., Kansas City, Mo.
Williams, Helen C., 1515 S. 29th St., Omaha, Nebr.*
Williams, John, 136 East 64th St., New York, N. Y.
Williams, Julia E., 1300 Broome, Wilmington, Del.* **
Williams, Loren R., 407 E. Hickory, Neosha, Mo.*
Williams, Mae Belle, Box 7, Iuka, Miss.*
Williams, Mary Ray, Dupo Community High School, Dupo, Ill.*
Williams, Merl D., 2735 S. Quincy, Milwaukee.*
Williams, Myrtle M., 5260 Centre Ave., Pittsburgh.*
Williams, Nesta L., Stephens College, Columbia, Mo.
Williams, Robert, 53 Ann St., Newburgh, N. Y.*
Williams, Ross O., 1305 Central, Dodge City, Kansas.* **
Williams, Sudie L., 6831 Clayton, Dallas, Texas.*
Williams, Thomas W., Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.
Williamson, Elwin E., Warsaw, Mo.
Williamson, High P., 3446 Blossom St., Columbia, S. C.
Williamson, Ray, Pomeroy, Wash.*
Williamson, Viola B., 9615 Shore Rd., Brooklyn, New York.*
Willis, Caroline E., 6202 Summit St., Kansas City, Mo.
Willis, Eloise, 9315 Ravenswood, Detroit, Mich.*
Willis, Harriet C., 205 S. 32nd Ave., Omaha, Nebr.*
Willis, Jane, 6202 Summit St., Kansas City, Mo.
Willis, Mrs. T. F., 6202 Summit St., Kansas City, Mo.
Willison, Dorothy, 201 Fayette, Cumberland, Mo.*
Willoughby, Winifred Dell, 553 N. 14th St., East St. Louis, Ill.*
Wills, Arline, Eleventh St., Rochelle, Ill.*
Wilsbach, John L., Oneonta S. N. S., Oneonta, N. Y.*

Wilson, Clarence Hayden, Vashon H. S., 3026 Laclede, St. Louis, Mo.*
Wilson, Eleanor, 59 N. Ave. D., Canton, Ill.*
Wilson, Esther L., S. T. C., Edinboro, Pa.*
Wilson, Florence B., 3938 Belvoir Pl., Seattle, Wash.*
Wilson, Florence T., 2105 W. 4th St., Williamsport, Pa.*
Wilson, George C., Emporia S. T. C., Emporia, Kan.*
Wilson, Grace V., Bd. of Ed., Wichita, Kan.* **
Wilson, Harry Robert, 90 Morningside Dr., N. Y. C.*
Wilson, Helen E., 28 Lincoln Ave., Crafton, Pa.*
Wilson, Helen M., 413 Manchester St., Aurora, Ind.*
Wilson, Mrs. Herbert, 618 Columbia, Council Grove, Kans.
Wilson, Jackman, 2016 Cleveland, Kansas City, Mo.
Wilson, Jane, Sandoval, Ill.*
Wilson, Jane, 424 Ave. C., Snohomish, Wash.*
Wilson, M. Emmett, Ohio State Univ. Columbus, O.* **
Wilson, Mabel B., S. T. C. Lowell, Mass.*
Wilson, Mabel G., Smith St., Mullins, S. C.
Wilson, Mary Irene, Chilocco, Okla.*
Wilson, Opal Belle, 319 West Washington, Purcell, Okla.
Wilson, Thomas, 17 Oakwood Pl., Elizabeth, N. J.*
Wilson, Verna, 1116 Green Ridge St., Scranton, Pa.*
Wilson, Warren, Burden, Kans.
Wiltrout, Gladys M., 1109 Prospect, Lansing, Mich.*
Windhorst, Estelle L., 5810 Julian, St. Louis, Mo.*
Wines, Edith, 330 N. Austin Blvd., Oak Park, Ill.*
Winkler, M., Boosey-Hawkes-Belwin, Inc., 43-47 W. 23rd St., New York City.*
Winkler, Shirley A., 5207 Garfield, Kansas City, Mo.
Winkler, Theodore, 1230 N. 6th, Sheboygan, Wis.*
Winning, Amy, 2831 Harrison, Kansas City, Mo.
Winslow, Harold E., 5354 Julian, Indianapolis, Ind.*
Winslow, Ralph G., 16 Glenwood, Albany, N. Y.*
Winslow, Robert W., 1133 Randolph Ave., Topeka, Kans.
Winter, Eulah F., Hotel Gary, Gary, Ind.*
Winter, Mrs. Roma, 725-42nd St., Sacramento, Cal.*
Wise, Henry, 115 S. E. 2nd, Abilene, Kan.*
Wise, Will F., 929 East Dr., Woodruff Pl., Indianapolis, Ind.*
Wisehart, Mrs. Harry C., 3418 Coleman Rd., Kansas City, Mo.
Wishnow, Emanuel, 800 South 30th St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Wiswall, Vera M., 308 Augusta Ave., De Kalb, Ill.*
Witham, Clara Edith, 825 East 5th, Cherryvale, Kans.
Witherson, Maude I., 136 S. 5th St., Duquesne, Pa.*
Withey, Lilla, 220 S. State St., Springfield, Ill.*
Withrow, Miriam F., S. T. C., Fresno, Calif.*
Witte, Arthur F. A., Bd. of Ed., Yonkers, N. Y.*
Witte, Katherine B., 7300 N. 21st St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Witters, Mrs. Clarence, 1024 East 22nd St., North Kansas City, Mo.
Witters, Eugene, 279 Alice St., E., East Palestine, O.*
Wolf, Ina E., 4924 N. Avers Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
Wolfe, Irving W., Eastern Ill. S. T. C., Charleston, Ill.*
Wolfe, Lillian Reznikoff, 1379 Union St., Brooklyn, New York.* **
Wolfe, Marian, 2010 F St., Lincoln, Nebr.
Wolfrom, Mrs. Agnes, 168 Fallis Rd., Columbus, Ohio.*
Wolfson, Arthur, 4800 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.*
Wolverton, Josephine, Northwestern Univ., Evanston, Illinois.*
Womelsdorf, George L., 614 Jones Ave., North Braddock, Pa.*
Wood, Annabelle, 201 W. 54th St., New York City.
Wood, Carl Paige, Univ. of Washington, Seattle.* **
Wood, Irene B., 902 S. C St., Port Angeles, Wash.*
Wood, Janet Sue, 121 W. North, Warrensburg, Mo.*
Wood, Russell M., Box 256, Edinboro, Pa.*
Woodbury, H. S., 123 W. 7th, Florence, Kan.*
Woodard, Florence McN., 3003 East 32nd St., Kansas City, Mo.
Woode, Angela Dukye, 1209 Pressman St., Baltimore, Md.*
Woodfin, Mrs. Lynden L., 5800 Kenwood, Kansas City, Mo.
Woodford, Carl D., 401 South Market St., Oskaloosa, Ia.
Woodford, Mrs. C. D., 401 South Market St., Oskaloosa, Ia.
Woodlen, Etta A., 206 N. Scott, Wilmington, Del.*
Woodman, David M., Summersville, Mo.*
Woodman, Mrs. Grace P., Extension Division, Chapel Hill, N. C.*
Woodruff, Corinne R., Box 304, Somerville, N. J.*
Woodruff, Edith S.
Woodruff, Louise, 520 Elizabeth St., Ashland, Ore.*
Woodruff Weidner, Marguerite, Union College, Lincoln, Nebr.
Woods, Glenn H., Administration Bldg., 1025-2nd Ave., Oakland, Calif.*
Woods, Mrs. Hubert, 1106-9th St., Durham, N. C.*
Woods, J. Ross, 926 N St., Lewiston, Idaho.*
Woods, Mrs. Katherine T., 325 Stratford Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*
Woods, Miriam, Harrisville, W. Va.*
Woods, Robert W., 225 Eastern Ave., Greenville, Ill.
Woodward, Henry L., Western College, Oxford, O.
Woodworth, Wallace
Woolf, Ruby A., 321 North Wentz, Guthrie, Okla.
Worcester, Irene L., Wallace School, E. 13 Cleveland, Des Moines, Iowa.*
Worman, Russell E., 404 South Osage, Caldwell, Kans.
Wormell, Myra E., 2702 Amboy Rd., New Dorp, Staten Island, N. Y.*
Wort, S. Morse, Jenkins Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.*
Wortley, Mrs. Cora V., 213 N. Adams, Ypsilanti, Michigan.*
Wray, Frances M., 5538 The Paseo, Kansas City, Mo.
Wright, Mrs. Anna M., Wheeler School, Evansville, Indiana.*
Wright, Beatrice, Rayton, Mo.
Wright, Edna R., 403 West 2nd., Maryville, Mo.
Wright, Elizabeth E., Box 44, Augusta, Mont.*
Wright, George W., Beverly Hills H. S., 21 Moreno Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif.*
Wright, Helen J., 1000 W. Onondaga, Syracuse, New York.*
Wright, Mabelle G., Deem Apartments, Valley City, N. D.
Wright, Mrs. Mary Ellen, Clarksdale City Schools, Clarksdale, Miss.*
Wright, N. Louise, Central College, Fayette, Mo.
Wright, Ralph W., Bd. of Ed., Indianapolis, Ind.*
Wright, Rebecca, 1218 Main St., Aliquippa, Pa.*
Wronski, Thaddeus, 449 W. Ferry, Detroit, Mich.*
Wuerth, Eugenia, 1741 Hopkins, Berkeley, Calif.*
Wunsch, Frederick, 2850 Eggert Rd., Tonawanda, New York.*
Wylie, Mary E., 3021 Gaines, Little Rock, Ark.*
Wylie, Mrs. Robert B., McMurray Station, Abilene, Tex.
Yakuntchikoff, Barbara.
Yardley, Alma J., 1232 Reynolds, Kansas City, Kans.
Yasser, Joseph.
Yates, Annetta, 46 Boone St., Cumberland, Mo.*
Yater, Marye, 612 West Cherry, Nevada, Mo.
Yaus, Grover C., 450 Crandall, Youngstown, Ohio.*
Yearley, Francis L., Milligan College, Johnson City, Tenn.
Yeazel, Mary E., 334 North 22nd. St., Kansas City, Kans.
Yeiser, Frederick.
Yenney, James, 410 Hancock, Olympia, Wash.*
Yerkes, Mabel J., 411 Bordeck St., Fox Chase, Philadelphia, Pa.*
Yingling, Lawrence, 549 Hill Ter., Winnetka, Ill.*
Yingling, Robert W., S.T.C., Slippery Rock, Pa.*
Yockey, Arden, 413 Elm, Coshocton, Ohio.*
Yoder, Paul, 1369 Estes Ave., Chicago, Ill.*
York, Francis L., Detroit Institute of Musical Art, 52 Putnam Ave., Detroit, Mich.
York, Mrs. Myrtle Cornish, 25 E. Jackson Blvd., Room 1205, Chicago, Ill.*
Yost, Marie, 131 E. Fifth St., Gary, Ind.*
Yost, Naomi A., David City, Nebr.
Young, Bessie Mae, R. 1, Bremen, Ala.*
Young, Gordon E., 3819 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.
Young, Elmer H., Burlingame H. S., Burlingame, California.*
Young, Floy, Ge Bane Apts. 5, Medford, Ore.*
Young, Frank A., 4411 Kemper St., Bernard, Ohio.*
Young, Paul L., 309 N. Walnut, East Orange, N. J.*
Young, Robert H., 4204 Cambridge, Kansas City, Kans.
Young, Robert W., 1107 Harrison, Superior, Wis.*
Youngberg, Harold, 421 S. 14th, La Crosse, Wis.*
Youngdahl, Carl R., 1110 Summit Ave., Sioux Falls, S. D.
Youngs, Geneva A., Christian College, Columbia, Mo.
Younkman, George, 1037 Blakeslee, Neodesha, Kan.*
Yowell, Orene V., 354 South 11th St., Kansas City, Kans.
Yuill, Mildred, 208 South 10th St., Herrin, Ill.
Zahn, Logan, 2107 E. 58th, Kansas City, Mo.*

Zamecnik, Walter, Sam Fox Publishing Co., 430 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif.*

Zander, Beulah, 5644 N. Artesian Ave., Chicago, Ill.*

Zander, Henry H., Hall of Record, San Jose, Calif.*

Zanzig, Augustus D., National Recreation Association, 315 Fourth Ave., New York City.*-

Zaring, Irene Beldon.

Zartman, Emanuel, Heidelberg University, Tiffin, O.

Zehetner, Arthur W., 11824 Browning Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.*

Zeho, Mary, 11 Concord St., Jersey City, N. J.*

Zeigler, Laura, 1521 Dennison Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.*

Zeiner, Edward J. A., 11 Adams St., Port Washington, L. I., N. Y.*

Zimemr, Edward, Jr., 233 Price, West Chester, Pa.

Zimmerman, Marguerite M., Chatham Hotel, 3701 Broadway, Kansas City, Mo.* **

Zimmerman, Rosa. Madrona Apts., Everett, Wash.*

Zipperlen, Ruth Ann, Wheelersburg, Ohio.*

Zoeller, Jerome, 315 Kayton, San Antonio, Texas.*

Zoeller, Otto, 1139 Rigsby, San Antonio, Texas.*

Zopf, Arnold, 5856 Bastmer, St. Louis, Mo.*

BOGUSLAWSKI COLLEGE OF MUSIC

323 So. Wabash Avenue,

Chicago, Ill.

Lillian Boguslawski
Director

Moissaye Boguslawski
Director

Master classes in piano, voice, violin, public school music, theory and composition, interpretation, conducting, history of music, dramatic art, languages and courses in modern piano arranging.

Special teachers' normal classes.

Write or telephone Webster 7815 for rates.

MANHATTAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC, NEW YORK CITY

Janet D. Schenck, Founder and Director

In 1917-1918, the Manhattan School of Music, formerly Neighborhood Music School, was founded by Janet D. Schenck (Mrs. Martin A. Schenck), with a self perpetuating Board of Trustees.

It is incorporated under the Regents of the University of the State of New York.

It has an enrollment of 525 students and a waiting list of approximately 100 desire admission.

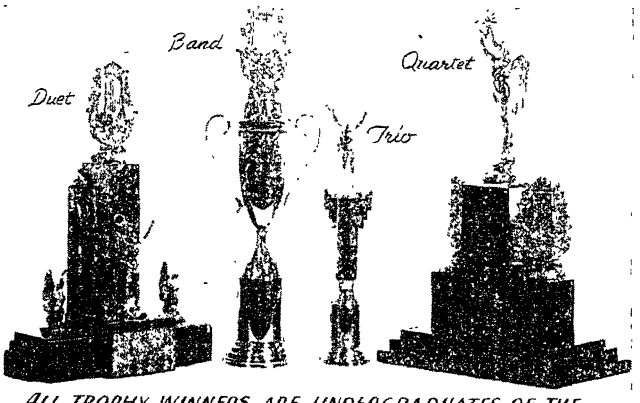
Its faculty numbers 52 members and includes many distinguished names: Mrs. Schenck is Director and heads the piano department; Harold Bauer teaches both privately and in classes by special arrangements; Hugo Kortschak heads the string department; Hugh Ross the chorus; George Wedge is advisor to the theory department; Roger Sessions has the composition. The woodwinds, brasses, and tympani are under such musicians as the first desk men of the Philharmonic Orchestra.

The Trustees number twenty-five; the officers are as follows:

Hon. Pres.	Mrs. John Hubbard
Pres.	Mr. Charles Triller
Vice Pres.	Mrs. Alfred H. Schoellkopf
	Mrs. Roy A. Rainey
	Mr. Bertram H. Borden
Treasurer	Miss Gertrude A. Freeman
Secretary	Mrs. John S. Ellsworth

The present beautiful building with auditorium seating just under 500 was the gift of Mrs. John Hubbard, Hon. President of the Board of Trustees.

The School receives approximately one-third of its support from tuition; the remainder of its budget must be raised each year. The sources include: individual contributions, income from a small endowment, benefits, parent and student money-raising activities, bequests and special gifts.



NUNZIO
ACCORDION SCHOOL

★ CHARLES NUNZIO, DIRECTOR ★

643 Broad St., Newark, N. J., — Loew's Theatre Bldg.

"Largest and Leading Accordion School in New Jersey"

MItchell 2-0908

ALL TROPHY WINNERS ARE UNDERGRADUATES OF THE NUNZIO ACCORDION SCHOOL

N. Y. World's Fair — Trophy Winners 1939

★ PRIVATE INSTRUCTIONS ★

ACCORDION-PIANO-WOODWIND-STRING INSTRUMENTS

SPECIAL TEACHERS COURSES

ALSO

COACHING and HARMONY

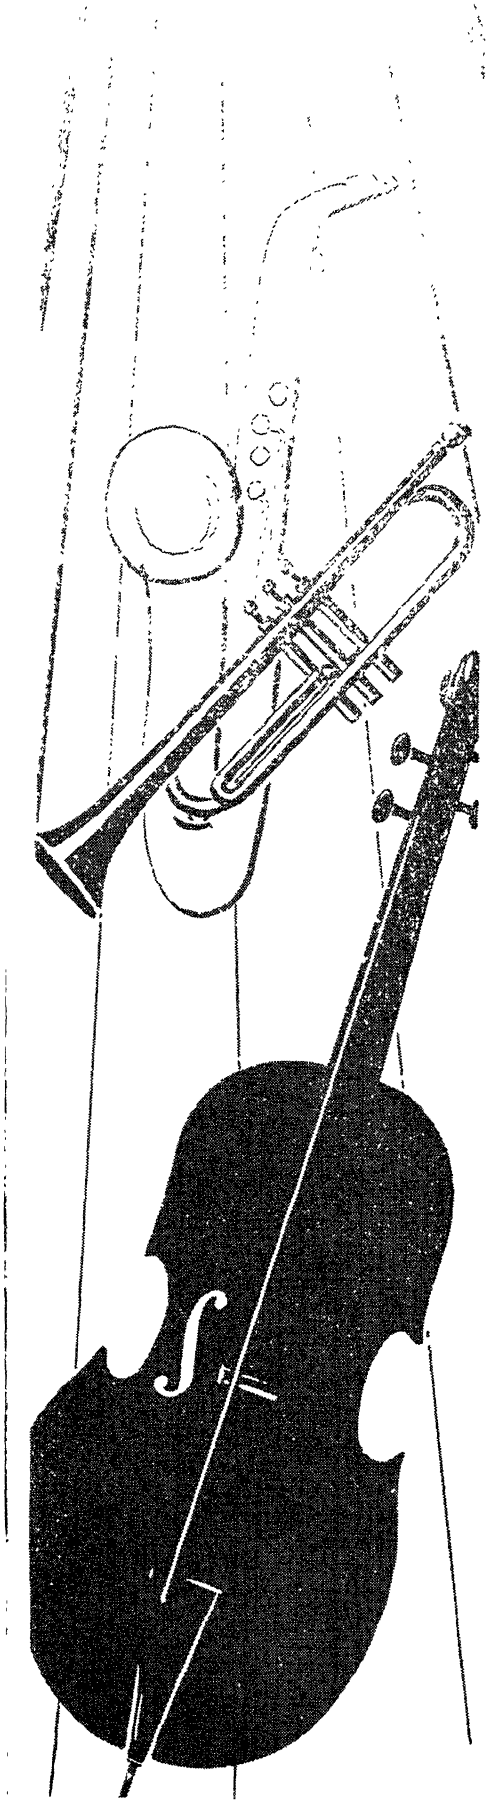
CHICAGO MUSICAL COLLEGE

THE Chicago Musical College has been identified with the cultural life of Chicago for more than seventy years. Many former students now occupy distinguished positions in colleges and in universities, and others are known on both the American and European concert stage.

• The Chicago Musical College is strictly a professional school; it offers a wide variety of courses and complete curricula leading to university accredited degrees — Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Music Education, Master of Music, and Master of Music Education.

• Each department of the college is under the direction of a highly skilled artist teacher thoroughly trained to meet both the professional and pedagogical requirements set forth by the college. All credits earned at the Chicago Musical College are recognized by the State Departments of Education. The college is a member of both the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the National Association of Schools of Music. Academic courses required for certificates and degrees are given by University College of The University of Chicago.

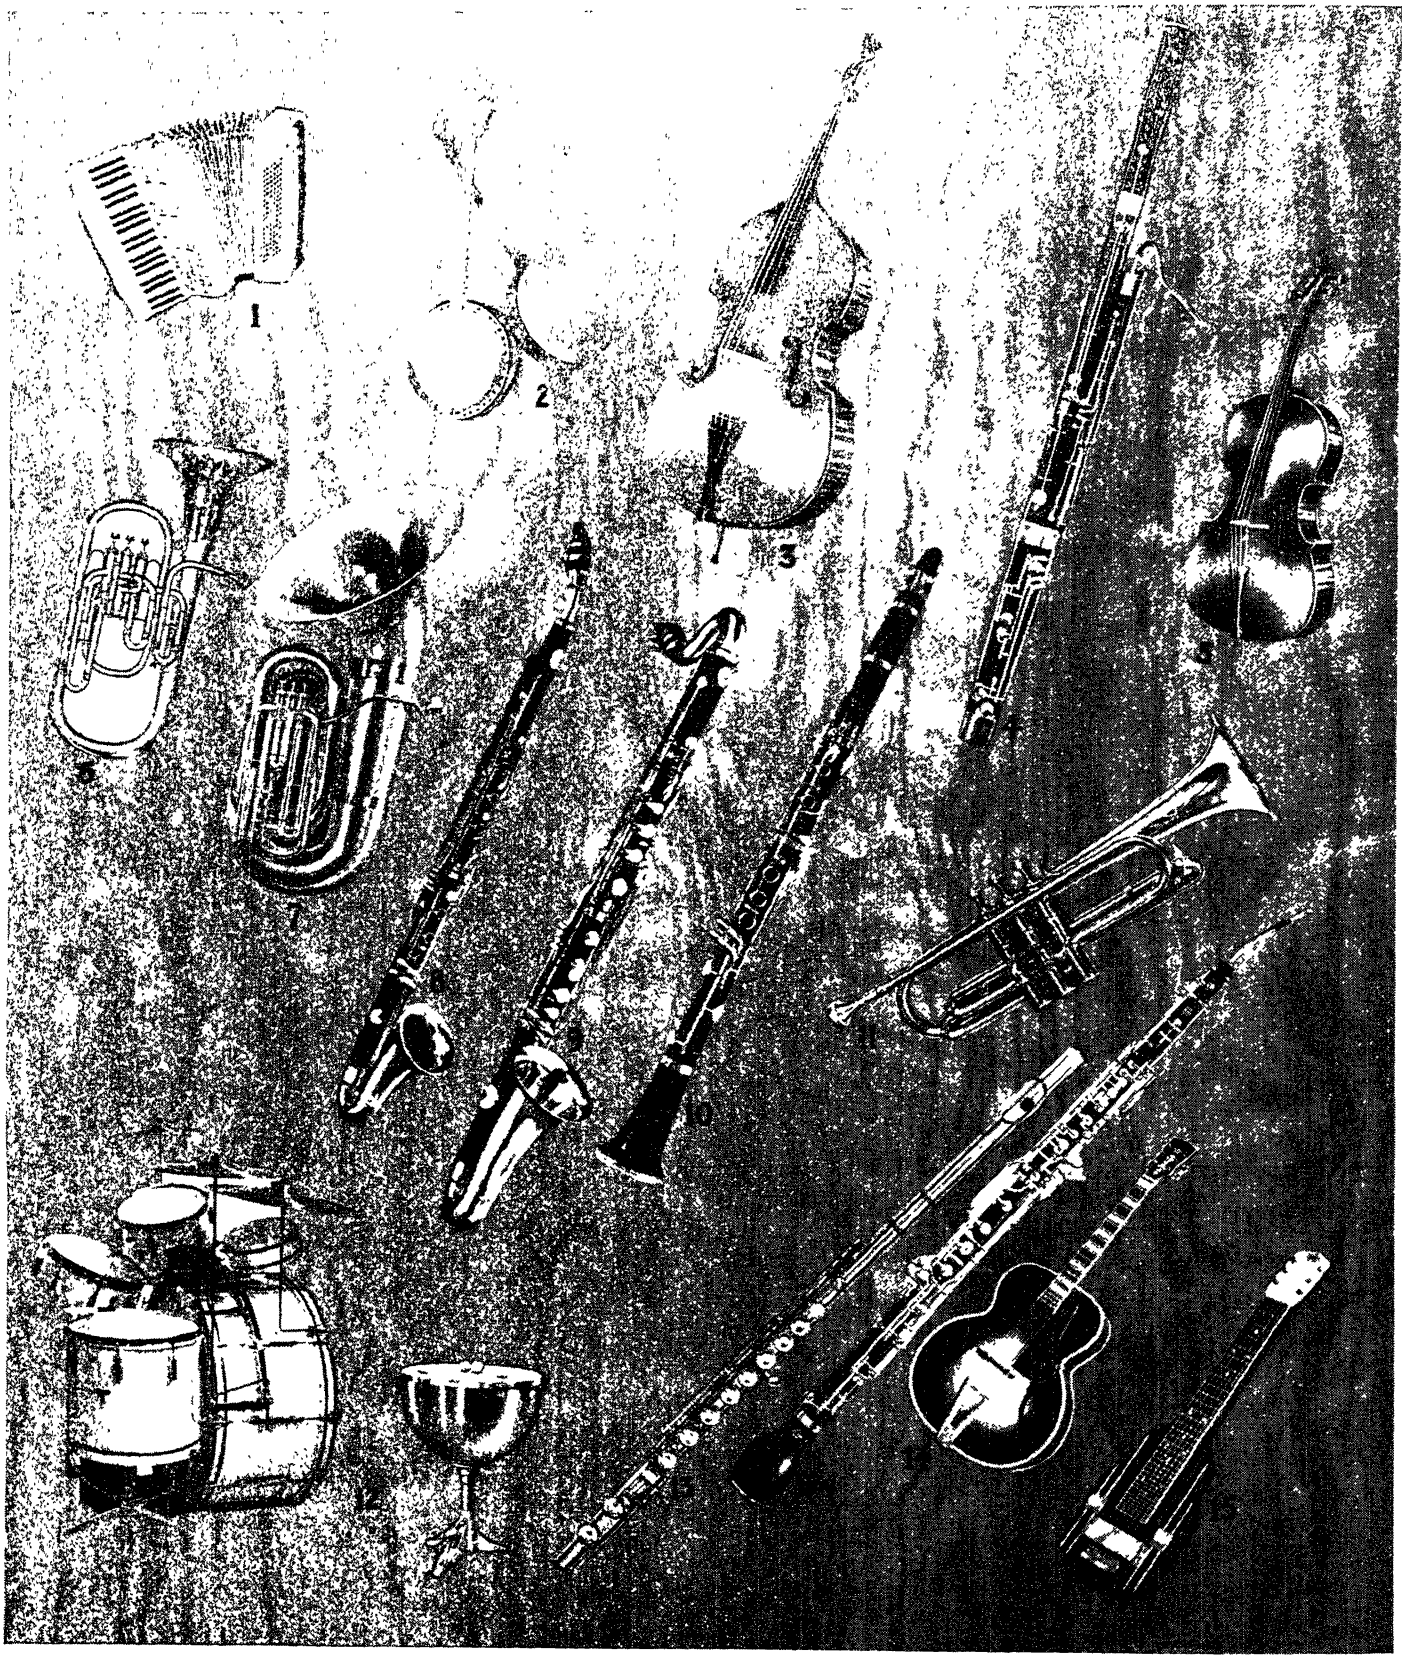
• In addition to its strictly professional activities, the Chicago Musical College offers non-professional music instruction to adults, and through its preparatory department, to both younger people and to children.



• The college is centrally located, providing excellent transportation facilities to and from all parts of Chicago.

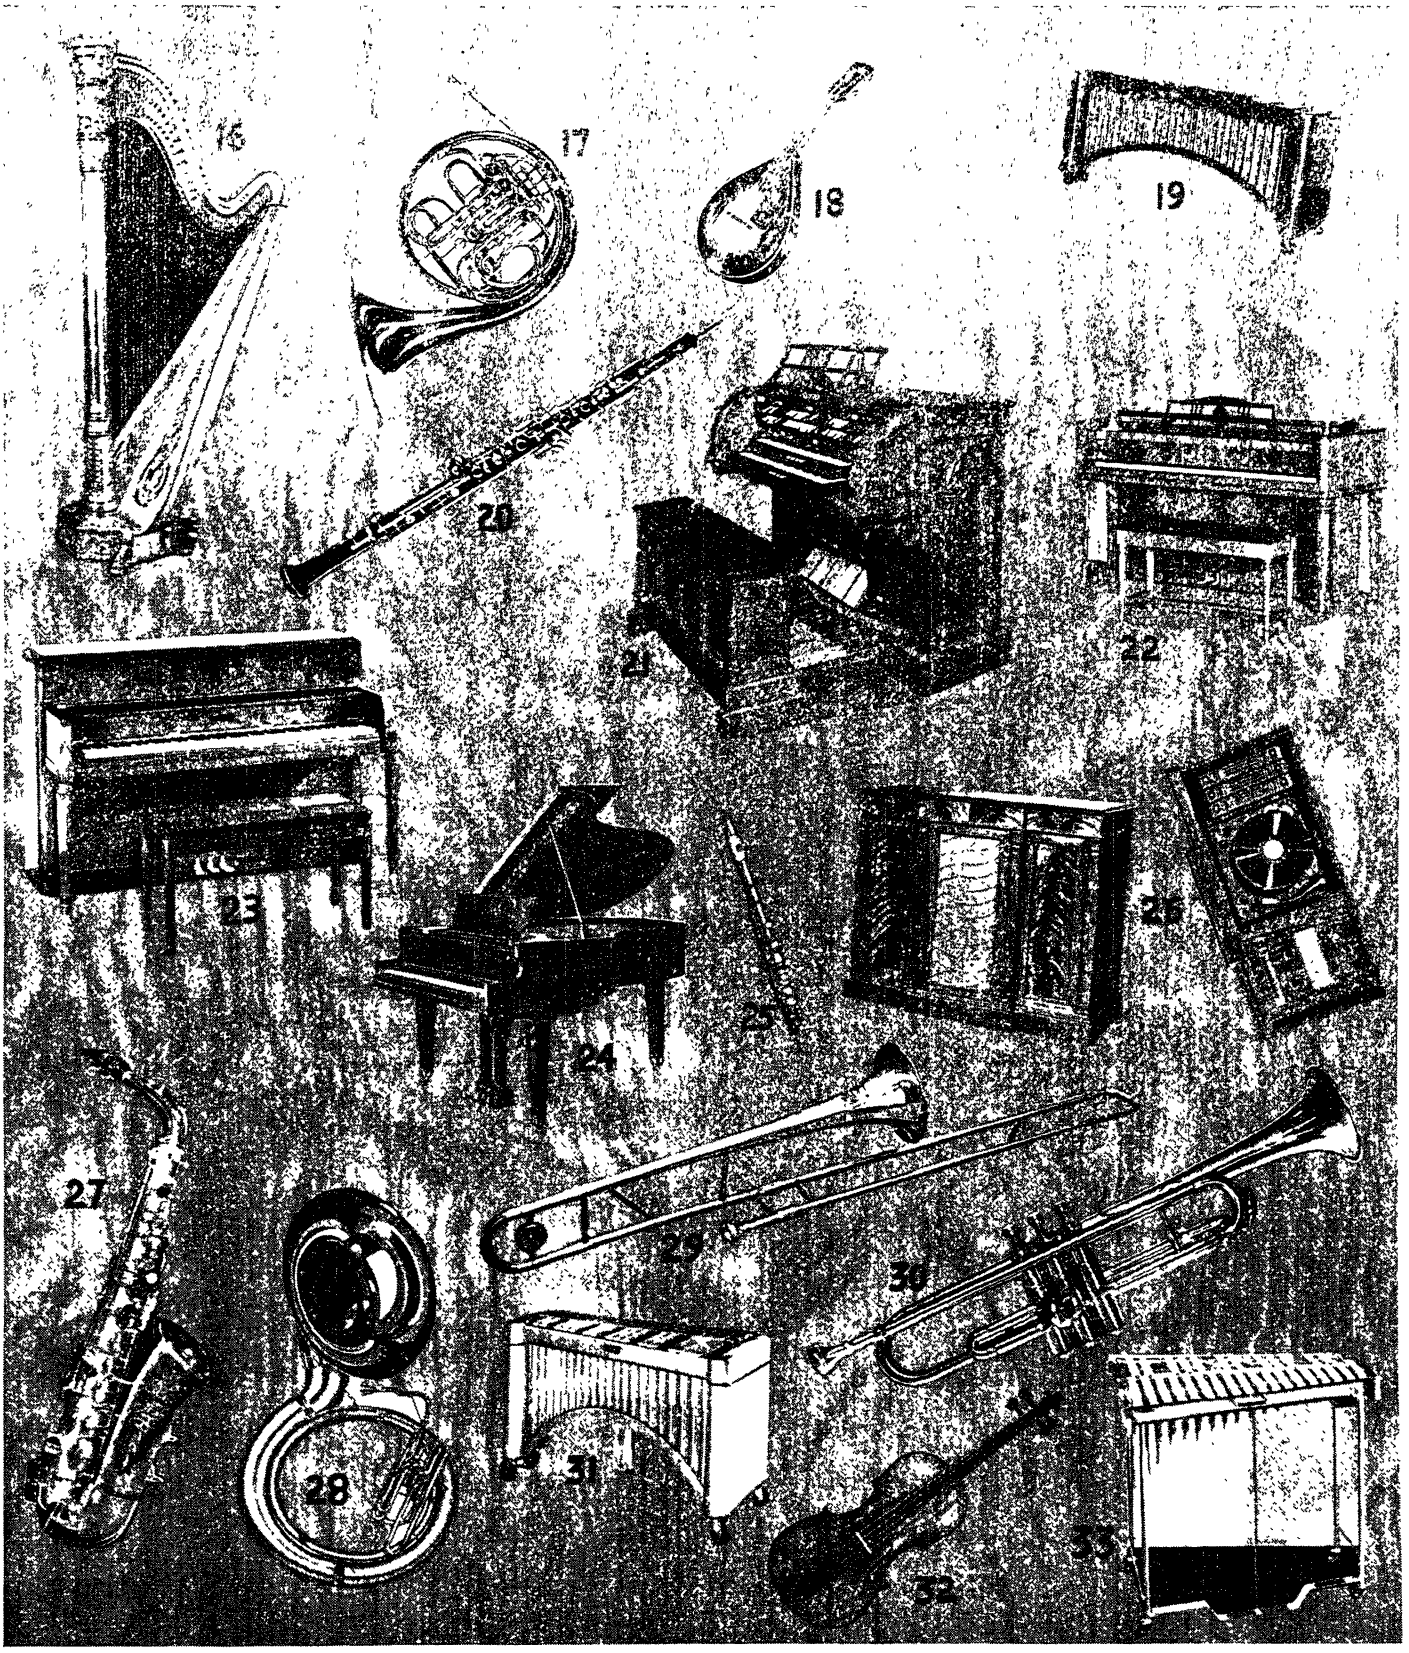
• The dormitories are located in the college building and provide comfortable and inexpensive living quarters for out of town students. They are completely equipped, with recreation room, infirmary and private reception parlor. Student aid is available to a number of deserving students; a number of students receive part-time employment at the College.

Additional information and catalogue on request.



CHICAGO MUSICAL COLLEGE

64 E. Van Buren St.,
Chicago, Ill.



MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

PHOTOGRAPHIC DEFINITIONS

1. ACCORDION
2. BANJO
3. BASS VIOL
4. BASSOON
5. 'CELLO (VIOLONCELLO)
6. BARITONE HORN
7. BASS HORN
8. ALTO CLARINET
9. BASS CLARINET
10. CLARINET
11. CORNET
12. DRUMS & TYMPANI
13. FLUTE
13A. ENGLISH HORN
14. GUITAR
15. HAWAIIAN GUITAR (ELECTRIC)

OF INSTRUMENTS OF MUSIC

16. HARP
17. FRENCH HORN
18. MANDOLIN
19. MARIMBA
20. OBOE
21. ORGAN
22. PIANO (SPINET)
23. PIANO (UPRIGHT)
24. PIANO (GRAND)
25. PICCOLO
26. COMBINATION RADIO-PHONOGRAPH
27. SAXOPHONE
28. SOUSAPHONE
29. TROMBONE
30. TRUMPET
31. VIBRAHARP
32. VIOLIN
33. XYLOPHONE

• Largest collection of choice specimens of rare Italian masterpieces

Adolf Busch

Jascha Heifetz

Yehudi Menuhin

The Curtis Quartet

The Musical Art Quartet

And many other world famous artists have chosen their concert instruments from the Emil Herrmann collection.

●

EMIL HERRMANN RARE VIOLINS, INC.

130 West 57th St. : : New York City

Why and How Rare Instruments First Came To This Country

By JAY C. FREEMAN*

BACK in 1880-90, when symphonic music in this country was very young and almost unknown outside Boston and New York, there was little knowledge and appreciation of Seventeenth and Eighteenth century violins.

A fiddle was a fiddle and the name of Stradivari, mythical and legendary, was known through the vast number of commercial copies with fake labels that for years had been sold, like butter and eggs, by country stores, at anywhere from five dollars up, case and bow included.

Were I asked through what influence the public was first made to realize the existence of better and more artistic violins, violas, cellos and double basses, without reservation or hesitation I should name the symphony orchestras of Theodore Thomas, Boston and New York, and the early-day visiting European concert violinists, who from as long ago as 1840 toured this country at intervals.

Thomas was the real pioneer educator, violinist and symphony orchestra conductor, who in the 1850-60 began to tour as a solo violinist and in 1868 began touring the country with his orchestra giving concerts of the highest order, as a study of his programs of that early period proves. In 1862, at the age of 27 years, he organized the Theo. Thomas Symphony Orchestra and began a series of concerts in Irving Hall in New York City. In 1866 he began the famous "Summer Night" concerts, at what was then known as the Terrace Garden, which stood on Seventh Avenue at 58th Street, near the present site of Carnegie Hall, and lasted until 1888. He toured the country far and wide, each season, giving programs of the best music, in scores of places, the influence of which exists to this day. He introduced Wagner and Brahms to thousands.

Musically speaking, Chicago was a "hick" town in those early days. Its musical education began with Thomas' Summer-night concerts, given in the old exposition building which stood on the present site of the Art Institute. These concerts, packed with all classes of people, were responsible in my opinion for the inception and growth of musical culture in the vast Middle-West area of the country.

There is an old saying that "business follows the flag." Equally true it is that trade in good musical instruments follows wherever a permanent symphony orchestra has been located.

In 1891, Theodore Thomas left New York for Chicago, organized the great orchestra now known as the Chicago Symphony, but popularly known by his name. Music dealers quickly realized the potent influence of such a band of first class musicians in the community. A demand for the best in instruments of all kinds soon became noticeable, not alone in Chicago but throughout that part of the country.

As to violins, there were few good ones aside from those owned by professional violinists, but amateurs and violin students began to realize there were better instruments in the world than their cheap modern, commercially made, German imitations of Stradivari and Amati. They soon learned to realize the advantage and pleasure a player enjoys who uses a good instrument, by one of the old masters.

The New York Philharmonic, soon to celebrate its centenary, had through many years, exercised its cultural influence in the East. Then came the Boston Symphony, formed in 1881, which was the first "permanent" orchestra in the U. S. The members were engaged under contract and paid regular salaries, attended almost daily rehearsals and gave seventy or more concerts each season, in and out of Boston. Philharmonic musicians worked on a mutual basis, dividing the profits, if any, among themselves and averaging six concerts and six public rehearsals per season. About 1906-7 it became a "permanent" orchestra like the Boston and Chicago Symphonies, and then only was it able to meet the artistic musical competition of its foremost competitors, to say nothing of eight or ten other permanent orchestras that by that time flourished in other cities.

However, from 1870, New York had Dr. Leopold Damrosch also. He was a musical giant, organizer of the Oratorio Society, and an orchestra conductor of first rate ability.

His son, Dr. Walter Damrosch, has done more than any living person for music in New York, but his work began after that of the pioneers; for Thomas organized his New York orchestra concerts in 1862, the year of his birth.

To the influence of the above must be added that of visiting concert violinists, who in the early days concertized in many parts of this country. Those whose influence was greatest in creating appreciation of violin music and the choicest instruments were undoubtedly Wilhelmj, Wienawski, Vieuxtemps, Ole Bull and Edward Remenyi. There were many others. Wilhelmj, Wienawski, Vieuxtemps reached the intellectuals; Ole Bull and Remenyi the big public. Bull came to America first in 1843, and, as far as I know, was the first violinist of international repute to do so.

My purpose in digressing at such length is to show that in our country the desire to own fine violins, violas and cellos came only with the inspiration imparted by hearing the best in music, properly performed by good orchestras, string quartets and soloists, on first class instruments. Amateurs found their ideal medium of self-expression to be a seventeenth or eighteenth century Italian instrument. Professional violinists realized in time that they could hold their own on the concert platform and in good orchestras only by aid of a good instrument.

The first Amati violin I know of to be owned in this country, was in Boston and was bought in London about 1848. About 1893, a Mr. Watson of Boston passed through Chicago and showed me an Amati violin which he, as a young man, purchased from Ole Bull about 1850.

In the late 1875-80 a Brooklyn gentleman, Mr. John P. Waters imported the first famous violin to be owned in this country, paying about $3500 for it. It is known as the "King" Joseph Guarneri, made in Cremona in 1737. He previously imported a fine Nicolo Amati and other violins and some fine old French bows.

About 1870, inspired and influenced by hearing the great violinists who toured this country about that time, Mr. R. D. Hawley of Hartford, Connecticut, began the formation of the first collection of Cremona masterpieces ever made in the United States, and European artists en tour never failed to visit him for the pleasure of playing his Stradivarii, Guarnerii, Amatii and other splendid violins of his famous private collection.

Later he induced Mr. Waters the owner of the "King" Joseph Guarnerius, previously mentioned, to sell it to him. After his death the collection was purchased by the late Mr. Ralph Granger of San Diego, Calif., and when in 1900 I bought it from him, on behalf of the firm with which I was at that time associated—Lyon & Healy, Chicago, there were fifteen first-class violins in the lot, including the "King" Joseph. Shortly afterward I sold it to the late Mr. H. O. Havenmeyer of New York, for $12,000, the highest price ever paid, up to that time, for a Guarnerius.

About thirty-five years earlier, a German violinist named Jean Bott, a pupil of Spohr, settled in New York, bringing with him one of the first, if not the first, Stradivari violin to be owned in this country. Its date was 1723 and it had been given to Spohr by the Duke of Cambridge who was an excellent amateur player. After Bott's death, I bought it from his widow and it is still owned here, after changing hands several times in the intervening years.

From about 1870, very fine violins came here, in rapidly increasing numbers. Franz Kneisel brought a Stradivari, Martin Loeffler also, and many other members of the Boston Symphony brought seventeenth and eighteenth century Italian instruments, and the unexcelled beauty of tone of the string section of that orchestra became internationally famous. Originally a set of new Zach, Vienna, violins was purchased for the violin section, on the assumption that violins of the same make would be very desirable. They were put aside, however, after a test, and since the time of Nikisch, if not earlier, the members have owned old Italian instruments almost exclusively. As of today, Mr. Burgin, the concertmaster, plays a fine Landolphus, Mr. Elcus a Tononi, Mr. Bedetti, solo cellist, a Montagnana, Mr. Le Franc, solo violist, a Landolphus. Other members, too numerous to mention here, have violins of Cremona, Venice, Naples, Milan, etc.

In Chicago, Theodore Thomas was extremely exacting and insisted his string section should have only the best. In those early years, as I recall them, Theo. Spiering and Hugo Kortschak owned fine Joseph Guarnerii; Bruno Steindel, solo 'cellist, a beautiful Amati, and Herman Diestel a Goffriller. Max Bendix, famed concertmaster, always used good instruments. Leopold Kramer, who succeeded to his post, had a Grancino, Boegner a Guadagnini and every other member used and owned a good instrument. Consequently, for some years, the tone of the string section of the Chicago Orchestra was the only one in the country which approached the Bostonians.

For two decades, the string section of the New York Philharmonic has steadily improved in richness and purity of tone, the reason being that the members have finer instruments. Mishel Piastro, the concertmaster, has a splendid Bergonzi; Corrigliano a Guadagnini, Joseph Schuster, solo 'cellist a David Tecchler, Rome 1726, while Joseph Vieland owns a superb Gasparo da Salo viola made in Brescia about 1550-60; and other members, for the most part, have old Italians.

Needless to say, the Philadelphia Orchestra has a gorgeous string section, with unsurpassed, large, rich quality of tone—due to the same reason. The concertmaster, Mr. Hilsberg, owns a Joseph Guarnerius, del Gesu, Messrs. Heifetz and Mayes, solo cellists, both have splendid cellos, the latter a fine Matteo Goffriller, recently purchased from the Wurlitzer Collection.

My space is too limited to make mention of the many other symphony orchestras, now established in the country. Their experience in gradually acquiring fine instruments has been, more or less, like those I have mentioned.

In 1920 I resigned my Chicago post to became associated with The Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. in New York. In 1923, for their account, I bought the famous Waddell Collection in Glasgow, and in May 1929 the great Wanamaker Collection of Philadelphia, after the death of Rodman Wanamaker, and others which became available from time to time besides many famous individual instruments.

From the pioneer days of Thomas, when scarcely a pair of 17-18th century Italian violins were owned in the United States, (a span of say eighty years) what a change has taken place! With more than 200 authenticated Stradivari violins, violas and cellos now owned here, we have about half the world supply of these treasures! And for every genuine Stradivari, possibly 10,000 cheap old German imitations, with fake labels! I venture to say that we have the same percentage of Guarnerii, Amatii, Bergonzii, Guadagninii and other great masters. Of existing Gasparo da Salo violas certainly 75% are owned on this side of the Atlantic.

All this is primarily due, in my opinion, to the educational influences above mentioned.

America has vast hoards of gold buried out in Kentucky. She has incalculable treasures in her symphony orchestras, now numbering well over one hundred, and in her precious violins, for the 17-18th century violin is the only form of antique there is combining unique artistic value with greater practical value than any that have been produced since. A modern chair can be as comfortable as an original Chippendale of which it is a copy; a modern painting as decorative and satisfying as an old masterpiece of which it may be a faithful copy; but no copy of a Stradivari gives the violinist and his public the tone and the satisfaction that the original gives.

* Curator of the Wurlitzer Collection, New York City.

Streamlining Violin Pedagogics

By GEORGE PERLMAN

SOME years ago, it fell to my lot to prepare a Violin Teachers' Assignment Guide, a work embracing the field of pedagogic violin literature. The material required careful grading and preparation for the practical teaching necessities of the violin teacher. The publications of some one hundred and fifty foreign and domestic publishers, some still existent, others on the way out and the rest completely moribund, were examined and prepared for entry into this guide.

The results of my survey were edifying and to say the least, astounding. The efforts, in aggregate, of the pedagogic writers of the past decades had produced a thick pea soup haze of practice and procedure which, in terms of ink and paper, was monumental, but, in actual constructive and utilitarian value, while in most cases sincere, in others it was rather indicative of disturbed ignorance or benign fraud.

The writers were peddling their pet panaceas holding forth the solution to this rather mystifying business called violin artistry. To them, of course, there was no mystery. Here was the answer to the violin student's dream of a perfect technique. Here was the lodestone to virtuosity doled out in easy doses from the open strings to Paganini. Some works came in highly ornate packages with blaring covers which substituted for hawkers. Inside the covers, confused nomenclature greeted the eager ones. Italian, German and French, peppered here and there with a bit of English, faced the hopeful student who was to wade through this miasmic mess on the road to the greatest masterpieces of all time. It took a strong spine and well starched intestinal fortitude to see it through. The writers wrote and the publishers published while the printed mass rose higher and higher — collaterally with the student's confusion.

A noted psychologist once told me that most art creations, either aesthetic or pedagogic, are the objective expression of an inner reaction to reality and that the value of such a work to society was based on the status of the psychic equipment of the creator.

The pedagogic creator, he said, was in reality, externalizing his own struggle, so that he, himself, might objectively view what, to him, seemed to be the solution to the disturbing situation. Most writers, my friend continued, find the answer, but only for themselves, for each ego requires its own peculiar manner of solving its own peculiar problems, but the joy of externalizing the solution, usually, brought along with it the enthusiastic wish to give or sell it to the rest of the world. In this way, was much of this pedagogic material born.

The works which I examined were as varied as the countless types of chin rests to be found on the violins in the world today. Each designer of a chin rest feels confident that he has found comfort for the common violinist chin just as does each pedagogic writer come to the conclusion that his work is an adequate answer to the violinistic needs of the constituents of Catgutonia. But, sad as it may seem, Paganini's secret is still a secret and for general violinistic principles there has, as yet, not been found a substitute. Some day, when a great genius reveals the mystery of Paganini's violin playing, the world will be dismayed to find that it consisted of ten per cent inspiration and ninety per cent perspiration. The great error has been the search for this holy grail outside the psychic portals of each violinistic aspirant. There and there alone lies artistic realization and because of this, there can be no substitute for the sincere, learned teacher who knows the basic principles of violin playing and how to apply them to each and every disciple who comes seeking his aid.

Of the three time-honored divisions of violin study, the base of the pedagogic violin pyramid is the seeding phase. Here are to be planted the time honored fundamentals which know no compromise and are the Alpha and Omega of violin technique. There is no short cut which can abolish the accepted basics of violin study. Fundamentals cannot, as yet, be taken by teaspoon nor can Mother Goose's Old King Cole, more efficaciously, teach the meaning of four-four time, even tho, by this method, the violin student does become a kind of poet on the way to the eighth note. Neither is there a short cut to violin artistry nor is there a rose-strewn path to the heights. That mystic power which transports the genius to Olympus, even before his earthly eyes are completely open, has no traffic with the common run of mortals who must grub and grow by dint of careful intelligent effort. It is the latter who interest us most anyway. The former have no need of us. It is we who need them. They light the way.

Some of the elementary works were filled with pet monomanias which had to do with excessive tampering with the motor faculties. Instead of lighting the aesthetic faggots with which the student came endowed, these practices tended, early, to pin the student's attention to externals and there he lost himself in pitiful tampering with a high elbow, a low (book under arm) elbow, a high wrist, a flat wrist, a tightly fixed little finger, a floating little finger, etc. etc. ad infinitum. The Russian School said this, but the Belgian School said that. The German School thundered this and the French School piped that. An American with an Italian fiddle and a German bow arm plus a Bohemian left hand must have found himself in an awful stew when he faced a Russian teacher.

Many writers for beginners seemed not to have realized that no two necks, shoulders, hands, elbows are alike as to magnitude or quality of function. Each separate case required its own analysis which only the competent teacher was capable of performing. No two artists project their messages with identical violinistic modus operandi. Why, then, should the student be forced into an artificial mold during his formative days?

The careful teacher studies the student's violin playing mechanism and if unnatural function begins to manifest itself, he quickly recognizes it and effects a correction. There is much less danger in under direction than in that freezing which comes from arbitrary motor dictation. Does Menuhin control his bow like Heifetz? Attempting this would destroy him, for the basic potential pattern of motor function is unconsciously fashioned by those psychic forces which brook very little interference from without.

The indolent teacher armed with alluring but questionable teaching material is a menace to the serious student. It is so comforting to think that all that is needed is a check of the pencil on the pages of these enticing books and presto, the student's weekly practice diet has been effectively outlined The disproportion between the number of violin students at the base of the violinistic pyramid and those at the apex points to something radically wrong on the way up. There is no ersatz for the serious teacher who, as a catalytic agent, weds the student to the basic principle. He brings to his task, along with good judgment, sound teaching material which he knows how to assign in correct quantity and at propitious time.

Many elementary works attempted to teach students en masse. It was good business for the teacher but not for the student. Used simultaneously with orthodox violin study, such works were a stimulus to the young musician's growth but as a sole means of evolving violinists, surgeons would be equally as successful without a thorough knowledge of anatomy. As ensemble work or sight reading study they were a splen-

WILLIAM AND MOENNIG SON

CRAFTSMEN MAKING • REPAIRING IN VIOLIN AND RESTORING

1631 CHESTNUT STREET • PHILADELPHIA • PA •

A large selection of rare old

VIOLINS — CELLOS — BOWS

by famous makers.

Makers of fine instruments used in such Symphony Orchestras as

PHILADELPHIA

INDIANAPOLIS

CLEVELAND

ST. LOUIS

PITTSBURGH

and by all the members of the

CURTIS STRING QUARTET

Descended from a family who have been violin makers for over three hundred years.

Present firm was established in Philadelphia in 1909.

did addendum to the regular pedagogic literature but at that point their effectiveness terminated. In isolated cases the student learned to play in spite of this limited method of study but in the long run no substitute has, as yet, been found for the private session with the master during the earlier stages of violin study.

The next stratum of violin pedagogics above the elementary is the preparatory and here, may they rest in peace, lie the hopes of many aspirants who met their Waterloo on the battle field of violin mechanics. It was the sphere of publicational activity in which the pedagogic medicine man enjoyed his Witches' Sabbath. I am reminded of a vocal teacher who wrote "The Innate Vocal Significance of the Dipthong" and a pianist who wrote a treatise on "The Pianist's Little Finger" and a violinist who wrote "Four Thousand Exercises for the Bow." The last must have done much to convince violinists that Dante's Inferno was not such a bad place after all.

Just as the elementary is the seeding phase, so is the intermediate the branching period. Here, basics evolve into technical faculties, conveyances for the exalted musical ideas of the masters. It is the field in which the aural, visual and motor faculties merge in perfected spontaneous coordination. At this point all violin playing vehicles, must attain an ease and smoothness which makes them unobtrusive and unconscious. Here the way is paved for the royal entrance of the musical ego. Here, as before, the guidance of the wise pedagogue is indispensable. Patience and encouragement and the discriminating use of correct teaching material are absolutely necessary for the artist-to-be.

I remember reading an article by a well known writer on violin technique. He announced that he did not believe in the promiscuous and excessive use of so called exercise books, but felt that the master should determine, specifically, what the students' needs were and go to work correcting that which appeared to be faulty. He was right, but I read his article too late, that is, after I had spent my good money on his books and found them filled with violinistic mumbo jumbo. He was disillusioned in his own books and so was I, — but at my expense.

The last stage of violin study is the period of fructification. The student should arrive here equipped to commune with the great masters. He basks in the glory of the masterpieces, their styles and their traditions. The great solos and ensemble works are his boon companions. The only technical materials he need work with is that specific mechanical matter which he requires to keep his physical vehicle strong, supple and unconsciously responsive. The published technical material pertaining to this period is of dubious and overlapping character. All the so called mechanics he may require will be more than amply supplied by the works of the great ones.

At this stage we come in contact with the teacher of artists. His place in the artistic sun is unquestionably important but his contribution by comparison with the task of the elementary and intermediate teacher has been decidedly overrated. Not that a good and sincere musician cannot be an inspiration and joy forever to those students who worship at his shrine. Not that a truly great master cannot be of prime importance to those young people who come to bask in the effulgent musical aura of his radiant spirit, but that his brilliant place in the pedagogic scheme of things has somewhat blinded society to the sterling contribution of those teachers who have gone before him and paved the way for those disciples who eventually were to become artist students. The earlier periods of musical gestation required wise, painstaking application on the part of preparatory teachers, and their task was of paramount importance in the life of the evolving musical ego. The artist teacher is like the painter who creates the figurines on the outside of the vessel but if his vehicle were a rusty, dented tin can instead of a bit of smooth porcelain, his task would hardly have been a grateful one.

Destined to become your most cherished possession . . .

A Violin, Viola or Cello by Ladislav Kaplan means a treasured instrument that you will never want to part with.

The full, rich mellow tone is predetermined by the application of a proven, scientific system of construction so that each one, as it comes from these skilled hands, has identical qualities, assuring tonal perfection never before achieved.

Ladislav Kaplan instruments are the equal in tone of the finest that ever came from the masters of old Cremona.

Your inquiry is respectfully solicited.

Ladislav Kaplan

South Norwalk, Conn.
104 Highland Avenue

It is said that the artist teacher must introduce the novitiate to the arcane secrets of interpretation. Good, but the elementary teacher must build a structure which will be able to carry its aural, visual and motor load. The artist teacher must teach the student to soar away on his own creative wings? Yes, but the preparatory teacher must help the adolescent musical spirit develop such musical character and strength that it will be strong enough to undertake the aesthetic flight. It is time that this distortion of statii be corrected. Each phase of teaching requires specialists who have sincerely prepared for their duties. Many evils flowing from the beliefs that preparatory and elementary teachers need not be so capable, to the hocus pocus of so called master classes will be corrected to the advantage and benefit of the young student who finds himself torn between these chaotic and harmful misunderstandings.

Just as, during early study, the lesser number of teachers, the better for the young student, so during the period of artistic realization, along with the one guiding master, every famous concert artist should become an auxiliary teacher for the budding virtuoso. He must hear as much good solo, ensemble and orchestra music as is it humanly possible. He must also learn to stand on his own aesthetic feet and wean himself away from those influences which have been as props to his rising musical spirit. His is the right and the duty to make his own musical decisions and to project his own message to his little world. Too many students reach this stage only to be made over into the images of their masters. This is sad for it can eventually only result in a violinistic fraternity of conditioned, maimed imitators whose artist teachers, like a host of incubii, ride on their musical shoulders and rob them of their own divine right to project themselves according to their own lights. The master must set the student free to go into the world and take his place along with those others who minister to the needs of the community, just as do the doctor, the lawyer and the priest.

Violin Making

By LADISLAV KAPLAN

FOR years the musical world has looked upon the violin family with a mixture of wonderment, worship and mystical awe little short of crediting this king of instruments with a soul. Since the days of Stradivari, volume upon volume has been written by men of varying ability purporting to know the innermost secrets of the violin and other instruments. To the layman the violin seems really an enchanted box with some secret properties which will make one instrument a priceless treasure and another just a common fiddle for the lack of them. At one time or another professors, engineers, and amateur lovers of the violin tried their hand at delving into the secrets of Stradivari violins and as a consequence every so often some newspaper or other publication will blaze forth with headlines purporting to have found at last the discoverer of the treasured secret. However, to this day the "secret magic formula" of Stradivari and other famous Cremona makers, has not yielded to the host of both amateur and professional makers who dream of such a discovery the world over.

It has long been my contention that the violin should be regarded as a purely mechanical instrument, a sound box which merely serves as an amplifier for the vibrations of the strings. Rather than to search for the secret of Stradivari, the task of a violin maker is the scientific analysis of violin construction to reach mechanical perfection. From results of many years of experimentation, it appears that the mysticism surrounding the violin will yield to cold science. A perusal of practically all the books available for violin makers inevitably leads to the conclusion that those who had knowledge of how to make a good fiddle made fiddles, and those who knew nothing about it wrote books—more foolishness, if not outright charlatanism, has been written about the violin than perhaps any other branch of work. The only art involved in connection with the making of a violin is in the outward appearance of the instrument. The construction of it is a matter of applying scientific principles, not searching for "magical" materials.

That the perfection of tone does not come from the application of a special kind of varnish or through the impregnation of the wood with various chemicals, salts, fillers, and many other abominations claimed by "experts" is to my mind, a basic premise. Neither can it be obtained by various kinds of "gadgets" which furnish a source of income to some who put them in the instruments and to others who take them out again. The quality of tone associated with the old masters is solely a result of the construction of the instrument itself, and results in my workshop are ample evidence of this truth—there the so-called secret of tone has been revealed in the undistorted light of the scientific approach. Armed with scientific principles it can be demonstrated that the remarkable qualities required of a fine instrument can be produced in a violin made from any kind or type of wood with confidence beforehand that those qualities will be there.

In my experiments I have been able to make as good a violin out of the cheapest kind of white wood as out of the finest old European spruce and maple, a viola with an "aromatic" cedar top and mahogany back and sides, another viola made entirely of mahogany, and still another made entirely of white wood. Thus violin construction based on scientific principles eliminates every vestige of guess work, regardless of the kind of wood used, the size of the instrument, or the type of model which fancy might dictate.

It is not age that determines quality, for an instrument must have a good tone at its inception. A poor fiddle remains poor. There are many old instruments that are very poor and always were poor in tone.

Every maker knows that the shaping of the violin was developed over a period of many, many years, and that the outline as it is known today was brought to perfection by Gasparo de Salo. For the violin maker, however, it is important to understand that there is a definite underlying scientific principle which dictates why it cannot deviate from this design.

When one talks of the perfection of tone, the question naturally arises as to what is perfect tone. It is my sincere belief that there are only two kinds of tone—good and bad. The good tone, stripped of all the flowery descriptive terms used in connection with fine instruments, is fundamentally the same, regardless of the type of instrument, and it is that quality which provides ease of playing. It is the responsiveness in an instrument (which does not hamper the musician by requiring him to labor arduously to express himself through it) which determines its quality. Such playing quality can be obtained only through the fine balance of all the component parts of the instrument.

Without in any way detracting from the artistry of the old masters, it can be safely said that while there are a great many fine instruments representative of the highest art in violin making, they were evidently attained by chance, because it is well known that there are many finely made old masters' works that do not possess the fine tone expected of them. To those who say that these instruments were tampered with, it can be pointed out that if the instruments had possessed a fine tone to begin with, the most rash player or violin maker would not have dared to tamper with them. If the instrument indeed was tampered with, it was only in the quest of improving the tone.

The fact that Stradivari himself changed his models so many times showed conclusively that he was not satisfied with his work. The size or model has no bearing whatsoever on the tonal quality. This may be proved with various-sized instruments, including three-quarter size violins, the tone of which is equal to that of a full-sized instrument.

Violin makers have pondered as to the secret ingredients which Stradivari and other Cremona makers might have used: chemists have tried to work out complicated formulas for an "Italian" varnish. It is my belief that the old masters used the simplest of ingredients available at the time, and therefore the finish for instruments which I developed is merely one that enhances the natural beauty of the wood, preserves the instrument with an oil varnish, and is durable, yet of a softness that does not interfere in any way with the function of the sounding boards. Varnish is not the secret of the tone of the Cremona's.

Good violin making involves scientific construction, not chance or mysterious ingredients.

Old Violins

By CARL BECKER and WILLIAM I. PENERY*

PROBABLY everyone who is associated with music has heard countless tales of old violins being found in attics, barns, basements, old trunks, and so forth — violins that are split, cracked, broken, worm eaten, warped, and covered with dirt but when dusted out and examined closely turn out to have a label "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonenfis Faciebat Anno 17—."

Very likely most of these stories are true—but, the unfortunate part, and the fact that does not seem to be generally known even now, is that these labels are meaningless.

Every music store has at some time or other received inquiries regarding the value of an old violin bearing such a label. The larger violin dealers actually receive dozens of such letters every week year in and year out. In answering these letters it becomes the painful duty of the violin expert to explain that actually hundreds of thousands of more or less accurate facsimile Stradivari labels are, and have been for many years, put into the cheapest commercial violins. They are put there not with any intent to misrepresent, but only to show the model upon which these instruments were supposed to have been made.

Another important point that is overlooked is that Stradivari violins were among the most expensive violins in the world at the time they were made, and as such represented important investments. Thus they were not likely to be carelessly tossed around and buried in old trunks.

The most generally accepted estimate of the total output of instruments for Stradivari's entire lifetime places the number at around 1100 which includes violins, violas, cellos, and a few guitars. Approximately 750 of these instruments are known at the present time. It is therefore evident that the chances of any old violin's being a genuine Stradivari are so slight as to be practically beneath consideration.

However, a violin does not necessarily have to be a Stradivari in order to be a fine instrument with worth-while commercial value. There were actually hundreds of other excellent violin makers whose works are highly regarded and much sought after today. And included in these are the works of artists who are relatively modern, and even some by makers who are living today.

While the works of the old Italian masters such as the Amati family, Bergonzi, Cappa, Carcassi, the Gaglianos, Goffriller, Guadagnini, the Guarneris, Landolfi, Montagnana, Rogeri, Ruggeri, and Seraphino are generally considered to be the finest instruments, almost every European country had a few makers of prominence. Neuner, Stainer, the Klotz and Hornsteiner families in Germany, Eberle and Hellmer in Bohemia, Contreras in Spain, Perry in Ireland, Hofmans in Belgium, Bernandel, Fent, Gand, Lupot, and Vuillaume in France, and Banks, Duke, Betts, Dodd, Hill, Forster, and Gilkes in England are only a few whose works are listed in the authoritative compendia of violin makers.

The classification and identifications of old violins and the determination of their value is, however, a highly specialized art with an extremely limited number of competent practitioners. In fact, there are probably not over a dozen men in the entire world who are thoroughly competent judges of old instruments. The reasons for this are several. To classify or identify old violins a man must know them; and to know them he must have seen, handled, and worked with a great many of them. He must know models, details of workmanship, and above all, varnish. The reason that varnish is so important is that it alone can often place a maker when all other indications are confusing. For every school of violin makers used its own characteristic varnish.

Incidentally, varnish, which is probably the most interesting phase of all violin making to most students, offers an endless opportunity for argument and speculation because nothing about it can ever be proved. If for no other reason, we cannot wait two hundred years to observe the effect of time and use on modern varnishes. The varnishes of a very few modern makers give every indication of being very nearly equal to the Cremonese varnishes, but at least another hundred years would need to pass before we could begin to be really certain about them.

To become expert in the evaluation of all of the factors that identify a violin a man must have seen and remembered hundreds of them. The reading of all of the books that have ever been written on the subject (many of which, by the way, are woefully inaccurate) would not make an expert. Varnish colors and textures, for example, require visual comparison, which is manifestly impossible to accomplish with written words. Even the finest colored illustrations fall far short of reality in this respect.

It is unfortunate, but understandable, that more students do not ever have the opportunity to become experts. No one can blame the owner of a fine old instrument for refusing to entrust it to the hands of a workman who is not already a recognized expert. For this reason, practically all fine instruments, when requiring repairs or adjustments, or being offered for sale, naturally gravitate to one of the very few organizations with established reputations in the violin field, and thus pass through the hands of a very limited number of men time after time. Thus only these experts at repairing and restoring and their assistants have the necessary opportunity to study the majority of fine instruments.

Incidentally, fine repairing is an art in itself, requiring a long and arduous apprenticeship. The best advice anyone can ever give the owner of a fine violin (or one that is even suspected to have value) when it requires repairs, is to entrust it only to a recognized expert. Self styled "violin makers" have been responsible for ruining many fine instruments that might have been restored to value by a real expert.

Ultimately of course, in judging a violin the expert appraiser has for his primary consideration the tone the instrument is capable of producing. The work of each violin maker has been traditionally placed in a certain class because of the tone quality of the majority of his instruments.

Almost everyone assumes tone to be the most important factor, for after all, the purpose of a violin is to produce tone. For this reason owners of violins who offer them for sale are often quite astonished that the dealer does not bother to listen to the instrument even when its condition would make playing it possible. The answer to this of course is that an expert can identify the school or maker of the violin and thus knows what tone the instrument is likely to be capable of producing without having to hear it. In fact, if an expert were to judge most violins on their tone at the time they are offered for sale practically all such instruments would necessarily be rejected or accepted at far less than their values. It almost never happens that violins are offered for sale to a dealer in even reasonably satisfactory condition. At the least, these instruments usually require new bridges properly fitted, new strings, adjustment to fingerboard, pegs, and soundpost, and reglueing of open edges. At the worst they may require complete restoration, involving such extensive operations as regraduation, internal patching or doubling, fitting of a new bass bar, restoration of original arching, and fitting of a new neck graft.

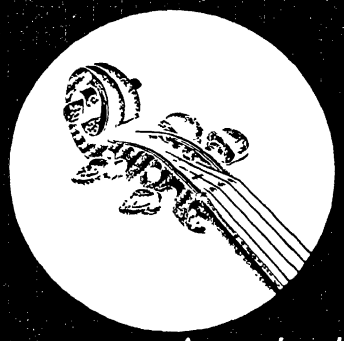
And here is where the importance of expert knowledge of repairing and restoring comes in. A violin may be in almost any conceivable state of disrepair, but if all of the original parts are there (and even sometimes when they are not) and the original varnish is mostly intact, a violin with inherent value can be almost miraculously restored by a skillful repair man with the requisite knowledge, experience, and ability.



The reason for placing so much emphasis in this brief article upon expert knowledge, and the rarity of such knowledge, is to try to impart a thought of caution to those who may some time have occasion to purchase a fine violin. The most serious mistake any buyer can make, and one that may cost him thousands of dollars, is to assume that he is an expert in this most highly specialized field of old violins. Unscrupulous sellers will take advantage of such buyers with the result that many years later the buyer may find that the violin for which he paid thousands of dollars (and which he partly convinced himself was a fine old Italian instrument) may turn out to be a German imitation worth possibly one-tenth of what he paid for it.

The only safe course to follow therefore is for the buyer to place himself in the hands of a reliable dealer; one who knows what he buys and therefore knows what he is selling, and who is willing to stand behind his violins with guarantees of authenticity and value.

Of William Lewis & Son.

Music and physical research work originate in different sources, but they are interrelated through their common aim, which is the desire to express the unknown. Their reactions are different, but their results are supplementary. As to artistic and scientific creation, I hold with Schopenhauer that their strongest motive is the desire to leave behind the rawness and monotony of everyday life, so as to take refuge in a world crowded with the images of our own creation. This world may consist of musical notes as well as of mathematical rules. We try to compose a comprehensive picture of the world in which we are at home and which gives us a stability that cannot be found in our external life. —Prof. Albert Einstein.

R. A. Olson, Pres.

Lewis — "America's Foremost Violin House for Over Half a Century"

Offers the discriminating professional and amateur violinist the following unequalled service in the violin field—

A superb collection of OLD MASTER violins, violas, 'cellos, bows

EXPERT APPRAISING - RESTORING - REPAIRING

Carl Becker VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS

New Instruments and Student Outfits in every price class

CATALOGS AND BROCHURES ON REQUEST

William Lewis and Son

207 South Wabash Ave. Chicago

What Price Stradivarius

By S. A. STOCHEK

ONE of the well known New York City papers recently depicted a collection of rare old Master violins, and the accompanying article had gone into detail as to the value of these instruments. Because of the fabulous sum involved, much public spirited discussion arose in the music world as to the justification of such exorbitant prices, and many musicians made a very sincere effort to learn what differences, if any, existed to create such a terrific breach in prices between these old violins and the modern new ones.

Our story goes back to the sixteenth century, when violin making was still in its very early stages. The violin, at that time, was merely an unimportant secondary instrument with very little music being written for it. The demands upon the violinist were few and simple, and any sort of a fiddle was entirely satisfactory. In the middle of the seventeenth century, however, the sonata form reached a position of rank in the history of music, and with the demand for the violin as a solo instrument came a demand for better violins, more powerful violins, violins which were much more brilliant.

In the city of Cremona dwelt a family of violin makers, the Amatis, and in their workshop began the experiments for the improvement of the violin which finally resulted in the instrument as we know it today. The efforts of the Amatis for improvement were carried on by their most famous pupil, Antonio Stradivarius, and his change of form to a flatter and larger model proved the most successful of all.

At that time it was only the nobility and those of means who were in a position to purchase these handmade instruments, but the violins were developed by the artists who were patronized by these noblemen and who were given these instruments to play upon at the various social functions. The need for violins in quantity had not yet arrived, and practically all of the violins made by these Masters had ample opportunity to become improved through use before later violin makers arrived upon the scene.

With the passing of the Masters and the increased demand for violins, factories were established throughout France and Germany where fiddles were made in quantity and sold very cheaply. Those artists, however, who were financially able to do so continued to purchase the then existing Strads, Guarneriis, etc., and with every sale and resale the price of the violins went up, being determined—in most instances—not by the actual value of the violin but by the anxiety displayed by the would-be purchased to possess a violin previously owned by a great soloist. Many new masters of the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries were relegated almost to oblivion, despite the finesse and worthiness of their work, all because their instruments were discarded in favor of the ones which had already been developed. The old violins enjoyed further improvement, and the new ones got along as best they could. Makers such as Lupot, Rocca, Pressenda and others, who also worked for quality instead of quantity, had to bide their time for entrance to the Hall of Fame, waiting for the financially embarrassed artists who would be compelled to purchase their instruments and develop them as well. Although the Strads and Guarneriis at that time were not nearly as expensive as they are today, the Lupots, Roccas and Pressendas had to be sold even cheaper, one might say for almost next to nothing, yet we find them in the high-price brackets today with tones which, in my opinion, are as fine as many of the Italian classics.

WAGNER AND GEORGE

ESTABLISHED 1898

OLD AND NEW VIOLINS — CELLOS — BOWS
STRINGS — CASES — REPAIRING
CARL H. GEORGE VIOLINS

810-12 FINCHLEY BUILDING
23 EAST JACKSON BOULEVARD CHICAGO

TELEPHONE HARRISON 0451

VIOLINS
By STOCHEK

Master violins as the Masters made them—entirely by hand; of old, naturally seasoned wood; pure oil varnish and permanent colors; guaranteed against loss of tone.

STOCHEK
Violin Maker
117 West 48th Street
New York, N. Y.
Tel.:-Longacre 5-8162

Violins Cellos Basses
Artistic Repairing Bows Accessories

Although there is still a demand for cheap fiddles manufactured by the factories, there is also a demand—an ever increasing one—for fine, handmade violins to replace the old ones which are gradually being played out or destroyed. As in days of old, we also find a few modern makers with high ideals and a burning love of their art who are engaged in producing violins of the finest calibre, equal to those of the Masters and needing only playing to develop them. These men use nothing but the finest of old, naturally seasoned woods; in many instances they use a fine oil varnish, sometimes of their own making; the instruments are entirely hand carved and the workmanship is of the finest; and there is no doubt but that some day the violins created by these modern makers will be held in the same high esteem as the instruments for which such fabulous sums are being paid today. These men do not profess any secrets in their methods of seasoning raw wood, nor do they make copies of the old Masters with the hope that by some accident they will produce a violin which may equal the original; instead, they devote themselves to producing as fine an instrument as Strad himself, but with their own ideas and methods. Strad and his contemporaries were not magicians; they were simply skilled craftsmen who used common sense guided by experience. There could not be any secrets to the methods of the old Italians for they had too many brilliant pupils and assistants to permit of any process remaining unknown for long. Had they been able to definitely determine in advance just exactly what type of tone would be produced in any instrument, they surely would not have given to the world those violins adjudged of poor tonal quality, violins which are sought only as antiques by collectors who wish to possess Strads or other fine Italian names.

It therefore remains that the prices for the old Masters today vary in accordance with their condition, development, so called distinguished pedigree and playable or antique value, and as for their presumable superiority over the modern handmade violins, I believe the matter can best be summed up by quoting from Mr. Percival Hodgson in the October 1939 edition of that famous monthly English publication, The Strad, as follows: "There are, doubtless, a few present-day makes which will prove winners, going up by leaps and bounds —the sooner these are bought the better, and players who succeed in spotting the 'Guadagninis' and 'Roccas' of the future will not regret buying hastily. I have met very desirable instruments by quite unimportant makers as well as some most undesirable Strads."

The Violoncello

By HANS HESS

WE ALL love music, consciously or subconsciously. Many appreciate music in the fullest sense of the term; others in direct proportion to their ability to comprehend, and most of us, as a result of environment.

From the most primitive state of man to the highest culture the race has obtained, starting with rhythm and extending through all its various forms, increasing in significance in step with the advance of human progress, music represents today and for all time one of the ultimate achievements of man's mental and spiritual evolution. From the early day of the pre-historic man, when rhythm first was transmuted into tonal quality through the drum, to the time of the first made string instrument and upwards through the years to the great instrument makers and composers, music has steadily advanced.

In this era of mechanical achievement, it is wholly to the artistic that one turns for complete relaxation. Beautiful as are the mechanical results of the piano, organ and many fretted instruments under the hand of the accomplished artist, to the master of the violoncello comes the real satisfaction and responsibility of the complete mastery of his instrument. There are always those who demand the extreme, but it is the happy medium that gives the great and lasting sense of satisfaction. The fairy treble of the violin, the ponderous bass of the viol, each in itself rich in beauty, lack only for want of contrast in themselves. Contrast in a word expresses modernism, which is only the advancing symbol of future progress.

No instrument has ever been perfected that can duplicate the tonal quality and perfection of the human voice. Perhaps, the violoncello with its great range of tonal beauty, its singing quality of tone, and depth and brilliancy of fibre most nearly approaches in a mechanical sense man's never-ending search for mechanical reproduction of Nature's gift to her children. The ages have given us today, the violoncello. Its beauty of line, the result of the craftsman's art, and its beauty of tone, the result of years of earnest seeking after the secret of the phenomena of acoustics, make it a heritage lovely and satisfying.

The word "cello" is very nearly that of the Italian "cielo" which means heaven. It is pleasant to associate these two words in our imaginations as violoncello, or "heavenly violin" as a very fitting name for this beautiful instrument. One may well imagine these thoughts enhanced when bringing to mind what Alessandro Scarlatti said on hearing Franciscello of Italy, one of the very first concert 'cellists, that "his playing sounded like that of an angel singing," and again, by the fact that the early Puritans had a decided predilection for the 'cello. It was, indeed, strange that they should choose this instrument for participation in their religious services; since they regarded the violin as a device of the "evil one" and looked askance at nearly all music, except congregational singing. One may recall Jean Douis Duport, French 'cellist (1749-1819) the inventor of the thumb position and originator of the modern technic of his instrument, who played so well that Voltaire, so impressed by his performance, said to him, "Sir, you make me believe in miracles, you can transform an ox into a nightingale."

The violoncello was developed from the viola da gamba (knee fiddle) in contrast to the viola da bracclo (arm fiddle). The viola da gamba is the outcome of the basso di viola (bass viol) and it is perhaps due to this fact that even today the 'cello in many places is called the "bass viol." The earliest violoncelli were made by Gaspar de Salo in Brecia (1550-1612). However, it is said that Paola Maggini came nearer to gauging the more scientific proportions for the violoncello than any other early maker. Following Maggini, Nicolas Amati, Antonio Stradivari, Joseph Guarnerius, Carlo Bergonzi and other later makers all contributed toward enriching the world with master treasures; but Stradivari is credited with having constructed the most perfect in beauty of tone, style, varnish, and other features.

The violoncello is made of soft and hard wood for the purpose of combining mellowness and brilliancy in fibre of tonal quality: spruce (soft wood) for the top, bass-bar, sound-post, linings and blocks; maple (hardwood) for the back, ribs, neck, head and bridge; a third kind of wood, ebony, is used for the finger-board, nut, pegs, tail-piece and tail-pin, (for the latter a steel rod often is used).

Varnishing the instrument is not only for the purpose of beautifying its exterior but, also, to protect it from dampness and deterioration and the part it plays in influencing the tone is, indeed, considerable. Two kinds of varnishes are used. Spirit of varnish, (solution of a gum in spirits of wine) and oil varnish, (solution of gum in turpentine). Spirit of varnish for a clear and brilliant tone; oil varnish for mellowness and fullness.

In master instruments, carefully chosen maple and pine and every detail as to the adjustment between bridge, sound-post, sound-holes and of the model jointing and varnish, is studied to bring about the utmost sonority and refinement of tone.

The strings (C-G-D-and A) tuned an octave lower than those of the viola are made of sheep-gut, the two lower strings, C and G, are spun with wire (copper or silver; silver preferably, as it gives a clearer tone. In the past few years winding the D string with aluminum wire has been found a great improvement in tone. Recently, steel strings have also come into use.

The "natural tone" compass of the instrument ranges over five octaves and may be easily extended one more octave by employing artificial harmonics.

Holding the 'cello has been rendered perfect in every way by the invention of the tail-pin (or peg). In former days the instrument was held in the manner of the viola da gamba, in such a way as to grip it between the calves of the legs, thus producing a position rather upright and somewhat stiff and awkward; but with the invention of the tail-pin the holding of the 'cello has been made free and comfortable.

Nikolas Platel (1777-1835) and his pupil, Joseph Servais (in his day called the Paganini of the 'cello) are both credited with having invented the tail-pin. The story is that Servais was the inspiration and Platel the inventor. Servais was inclined toward corpulency and growing more stout as the years went on, it became more and more difficult for him to hold the cello in the customary manner. His teacher, Platel, noting this ever growing predicament, came upon the happy idea of the cello-pin, to the great relief of his "budding" pupil.

Francois Tourte (1747-1835), French bow maker, fashioned the bow as we know it today. He was rightly called the "Stradivari of the bow" for his workmanship was truly as artistic and scientific as that of the great violin maker. Tourte selected Pernambucco (lance wood) from Brazil as the ideal wood for its weight, elasticity and pliability. Theodore Thomas' tribute best expresses the indebtedness of the violin world to this master bow maker: "Francois Tourte invented a bow which made the modern orchestra with all its shading and nuances—and a Beethoven, possible."

The hair in the bow is horse-hair (that from white male colts is the best to use). However, due to the difficulty in obtaining the white, other color hair is also used; although the bleaching process takes some of its life. The hair, under a microscope, looks somewhat like a feather, a strand covered with tiny bristles all pointing one direction. It is, therefore, necessary in placing the hairs in the bow that they alternate in direction, so that both down-stroke and up-stroke are possible. Rosin is a substance prepared from the pine tree which is also called colophonium, named after a Grecian town, Colophon, from where it first came; it is rubbed on the hair of the bow just to irritate, so to speak, the tiny ridges so that they will grip the strings more sharply and quickly.

Pioneer 'cellists of the 18th century have by their courage and farsightedness prepared the road for modern 'cello technic, and more recent methods of teaching place mastery within the reach of the serious minded aspirant as effectively as those methods for the student of any other instrument. And so; with the ever growing popularity of the violoncello as a solo instrument, its use in orchestra and chamber music ensemble, the inspiration it has afforded the great composers from Bach to Hindemith, it is on par with any of the great musical instruments of today and its study is as practical and truly as fascinating and as pleasureable.

Full of traditions, gracing the present, hailing the future, the violoncello has come into its own. What more could an instrument represent to the musician, student and lover of music?

'Cello Playing: A Contemporary Revolution

By EMANUEL FEUERMANN

AMONG the solo instruments, the 'cello may not be the smallest in size yet it certainly is the youngest, the "Benjamin." If I am not mistaken, it has reached its maturity only in our century. Only now can 'cello playing be considered on the level with piano and violin playing.

When Amati, Stradivari and Guarneri made their wonderful 'celli they hardly expected them to be used for solo playing. At that time 'celli were used for accompaniment, even—for instance—in nightly serenades. You will find traces of round holes in the backs of some of these instruments. They are supposed to have been made for the purpose of attaching the instrument by strings to the player who had to walk while playing. We must realize that that was at a time when the violin was already popular and such great masters as Tartini and Corelli had brought violin playing to a high level. We possess instruments from the time when the 'cello originated but very little of the music belonging to that epoch, so that the suites by Bach belong to an exceptional literature. However, these suites require only the first positions and hardly make the listener anticipate the possibilities of expression of later times, to say nothing of the later development of the technique.

About fifty years later, in Paris, Duport senior made the first steps in this direction. He discovered the thumb position which for the first time is mentioned in his method on playing the 'cello. This was the moment when the way for the 'cello as we know it today was paved.

Such a revolutionary technique revealed the possibilities and beauties of the instrument heretofore hidden. After that the first artists in its history appeared and the first great compositions for the cello were written. Among the leading 'cello players were Duport, senior, and Duport, junior, Krafft of Vienna and, somewhat later, Romberg of Berlin. For quite a long time the personal relations of composer and 'cellist were most important. Many decades later, in fact, Chopin, for example, who has written nothing for the violin, wrote his beautiful 'cello sonata and some other pieces for his friend Franchomme.

It is interesting to follow up the interest of the composers for the "newly discovered" 'cello. Haydn, having used it only for accompaniment, suddenly turned to exposed passages for it in both symphonies and quartets. It is as though a 'cellist friend had called the novel technique to his attention. Boccherini, after having used the 'cello only as bass fundament, gave a leading and surprisingly difficult part to the first 'cello in one of his string quintets. Both Haydn and Boccherini wrote many concerts for the 'cello of which, however, most are lost. Those preserved are, unfortunately, (at least in most cases) played in very bad editions.

One of the great sorrows of us 'cellists is that Mozart composed nothing for the 'cello as a solo instrument. Thank heavens, we have, however, a sort of a substitute in his three last quartets, also called 'cello quartets. They belong to the most beautiful which Mozart has written. In them the 'cello shares the leading part with the first fiddle.

At Beethoven's period, in the beginning of the nineteenth century, the 'cello had achieved its place. The time of pioneering was over. Beethoven himself proved that in his 'cello sonatas as well as in the 'cello part of his triple concerto. He no longer recognized limits in both technical and tonal respects. Particularly the triple concerto belongs to the most virtuoso-like, most difficult and most beautiful music ever written for the instrument.

Of course, the question will arise why the interest of the great composers in the 'cello had not endured and further developed during the course of the nineteenth century. If we draw conclusions from the number of compositions written by them for the 'cello, it certainly was treated as a stepchild. Also the public seems to have had rather limited enthusiasm for it as a solo instrument. In brief, the 'cello, as solo instrument, did not become as popular as one could have expected after the rapid rise in the initial stage. We wonder why.

A full answer to this justifiable question is rather difficult. Having heard in my youth the acknowledged German 'cellists of the second part of the last century who were products of the preceding generation. I can survey quite a period. I have come to the following conclusion: the development of 'cello playing stagnated, in fact just in the stage in which it was just on its way to become an art. The technique, therefore, remained perfected for many decades only to the extent that one could play vigorously and rapidly but without taking into consideration the finesse of performance. Granted that there were exceptions, excellent musicians, performers, and composers amongst the 'cellists. Yet there was not one great personality to prove that the enormous difficulties in playing this instrument could be overcome to a degree that one can even prefer it to the violin because of its wider range. The 'cellist had not succeeded in creating for themselves a mechanism, a technique which would have made pure artistic enjoyment for the listener. One took it for granted that scratching, lack of clarity, bad phrasing, ugly glissandi, and even bad intonation simply belonged to a 'cello. May I illustrate this opinion by a famous story about Brahms. Once, in Vienna, he played his first 'cello sonata with the foremost 'cellist of that city. After the performance the 'cellist complained to Brahms: "You played so loudly that I couldn't even hear myself." Brahms' reply was: "You were lucky!"

When I took lessons from Julius Klengel he thought I was using strange and unusual fingerings only on account of my long fingers. It did not occur to the dear old man that I had purely musical reasons in mind. Twenty years ago when I started concertizing, the public and even critics often disliked my way of playing. Because of my efforts to eliminate the usual noise which, in their opinion, was inseparable from the sound of a 'celio, they frequently criticized me for "playing violin on the 'cello." The tradition among even music-minded people was to pity the 'cellists for trying to compete with the violinists; a 'cello recital was expected to be a boring affair. The public preferred to hear small pieces: some badly arranged minuet or a slow piece with schmalz.

I do not hesitate to confess that it seems quite understandable to me that composers cared little about writing for the instrument and that the public likewise was not overly enthusiastic about it. The 'cellists had missed their chance.

Finally, about 40 years ago, the great personality appeared on the 'cello horizon. Through him, one man, the 'cello is now established as a favorite member of the family of the solo instruments. This man's name is Casals. Nobody who has ever heard him play can doubt that with him a new period for the 'cello began. He has shown that the 'cello can sing without becoming overly sentimental, that phrasing on the 'cello can be of highest quality. He adopted a technique according to the musical requirements. The enormous reaches seem to have disappeared; so have the ugly noises theretofore considered an integral part of 'cello playing. He has set an example for us younger 'cellists and demonstrated what can be done on it. He was the first to show to the public that listening to the 'cello can be an extraordinary artistic enjoyment. He inspired the great contemporary composers to write for our instrument.

For the love of music and for the sake of my instrument, may I say a few words to my fellow 'cellists. It seems to me that quite a number of them fail to recognize that 'cello playing has been revolutionized during their own lifetime. What a long, long time ago Liszt and Chopin were to the pianists, Viotti and Paganini were to the violinists, Casals is to us 'cellists. However, this sudden change has occured but so recently that many 'cellists still adhere to the way of playing they have been taught, practically untouched by this change; perhaps even resisting it, like the man who insists on traveling by wagon in this age of streamlined transportation.

I would like to conclude my contribution to this publication with the wish that my colleagues may open wide their minds and do their share to make our instrument as much appreciated and as popular as it deserves to be.

NICHOLAS VASICH

VIOLIN MAKER

of International Reputation

529 NORTH HOWARD STREET
BALTIMORE, MARYLAND

FROM THE LETTERS OF THE GREATEST MASTERS:

. . . I was surprised at the tonal qualities and fine craftsmanship of your violins, congratulations.—Signed Fritz Kreisler.

. . . both the tone and craftsmanship of the violin and viola you made for me are superb; your work shall be nationally known.—Signed Mischa Elman.

INSTRUMENTS SENT ON APPROVAL
ASK FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE

History of the Accordion

By CHARLES NUNZIO

THE accordion, based on the free-reed principle, was invented by Damien of Vienna in 1829. The free-reed had been known for many hundreds of years in Asia, the Chinese having used it in an instrument called the Sheng, which was something of a primitive mouth organ. This reed action was introduced into Europe in the latter part of the eighteenth century.

But it was not until the beginning of the nineteenth century that a separate keyboard was applied to the free-reed. Grenie, in 1810, in his Orgue Expressif, embodied that idea using tubes as resonators. In 1818 Hackel of Vienna used free-reed without tubes in his Fisarmonica. The efforts of Damien to produce an instrument more portable than those mentioned resulted in his accordion in 1829.

The first accordions were mere toys. They were made of wood with a square body effect. The fingers worked on studs and no wide variations were possible. However, the accordion has now developed into an instrument of considerable value and importance. The improvements that have been made have been the results of suggestions made by the artists of the accordion. The models of the twentieth century are streamlined.

In 1905 Pietro Frosini first introduced the chromatic accordion on the vaudeville stage. About 1908 Guido Deiro first popularized in this country the accordion with the piano keyboard, a principle first used in the manufacture of accordions in 1872 by the Soprani Company in Italy.

Charles Nunzio is responsible for some of the latest improvements in the instrument. He suggested the automatic plunger switch on the grill, first introduced on the Soprani accordion in 1937 and manufactured under his supervision, while he was in the Soprani factory in Castelfidardo, Italy. Keys with rounded edges and sides, all made from one single piece, and vacant or shelled valves to improve the tone are also inventions and ideas of his.

The first accordion was made entirely bodied of plywood, covered on the outside with a thin layer of veneer, of different designs embodied into the veneer with Mother of Pearl in shapes of flowers, hearts and many other creations to catch the eye.

The bellows were made from a heavy compressed cardboard and where the bellows creased at the corners, oilcloth covered these particular spots in order to prevent air from escaping, from the consistent in-and-out motion of the accordion when being played.

The wooden body was also made of rounded pieces of metal so as to keep the case from coming apart. This prevented leakage of air, which is very important.

Accordion sizes in the year 1872 were seven and one-half inches in length, seventeen and one-half inches high and fifteen inches extending from the bottom of the accordion to the top of the keyboard. The treble keyboard had about forty-one keys, of which twenty-four were white diatonic, and seventeen black, called semi-tones.

This keyboard was then constructed of a composition of imitation ivory; the white keys were four and one-half inches long and ten-sixteenths of an inch wide, the black keys were three inches long and four-sixteenths of an inch wide; both of these types of keys were supported by a metal rod and the wire extended to cover the air valves.

Valves were made of metal with a piece which covered the actual spot where the sound comes out. The accordions were made with thirty-seven keys, thirty-nine, forty-one, and forty-three for the treble keyboard.

Bass buttons were made of various sizes from four basses, eight basses, twelve basses, twenty-four basses, forty-eight basses, sixty basses, eighty basses, ninety-six basses, one hundred and twenty basses, one hundred and forty basses and also one hundred and sixty basses. The bass buttons consisted of small pistons with rounded corners which were three-sixteenths of an inch round. They were made from imitation ivory and they were supported by metal rods working into the mechanism to cover the air holes also made to prevent air from escaping. By pushing these bass buttons down the air is released; in so doing you may actually sound three or more notes as played on the piano.

The reeds of the accordion consist of various sizes. The reed, at that time, was a zinc plate about one inch wide and varied in length to about four inches.

These plates consist of two open frames and on these frames they first made them riveted with brass; these frames on opposite sides are covered with a small piece of leather in various sizes glued about half an inch from the bottom. The reason for the leather being glued to the frames is that every time air is forced to this reed the leather is flapped back and forth letting the air escape, causing various tonal effects.

In former days the treble keyboard was covered with a wooden ply so as to cover the action of the keys and also eliminate dust from gathering on the inside of the instrument.

The bass panel board was also fitted with small holes so that the imitation ivory keys could fit into these holes, and this was made as a protection for the action of the bass mechanism and also to prevent dust from gathering into the body of the keys.

The reeds were fitted into a heavy wooden reed block and started with low "F" and went chromatically up to high "A," ranging from three quarters octaves. The actual reeds are mounted on the reed block by beeswax. As intense heat will melt this wax it is important to keep the instrument away from excessive heat.

This reed block rested on heavy wooden ply. On one side the reed blocks and on the other side the valve hammers, rested on the plate, which was controlled by the action of the keyboards consisting of a small coiled wire spring to give immediate action. These springs were installed individually underneath the treble keys.

The whole treble keyboard of white and black keys was held together by a long brass wire piercing through each key where a separate hole was drilled so the wire could pass through to hold them together, and in position.

The actual measurement of the keyboard, from the lowest musical note "F" to high "A," was sixteen and one-half inches long.

The keyboard case was made of walnut with a half-moon effect carrying a design of a lyre. Also the accordion was supported with two buckles on top and bottom of treble side case, on which two leather straps were fitted. The bass was supported by screws from the top to the bottom with a leather strap one inch in width.

The treble register was located in the back of the treble keyboard and was controlled by the thumb in-and-out motion. This register switch closed one set of lower reeds and the other reeds would sound when played an octave higher.

The weight of the accordion in the early days (for an accordion consisting of forty-one keys, one hundred and twenty bass with four sets of reeds and five sets of reeds on the bass) was twenty-five pounds.

In the nineteenth century the accordion started to become popular. Many changes took place in the manufacture of accordions. Instead of all wood they started to apply celluloid on top of the ply-wood casing. The keys were made from celluloid. The white keys on the treble were about six inches long and thirteen-sixteenths of an inch wide; the black keys were about three and one-half inches long and five sixteenths of an inch wide. These keys had aluminum wires and the metal valve was replaced with a wooden valve covered with leather.

The grill and case were made from different designs, such as different color effects, also rhinestones. Later, the grill was replaced with designs of celluloid and carried also the name of the manufacturer; this change took place in 1927.

Then came the invention of the automatic switch which was used to a good advantage. Later two treble switches were used. These were added to give tonal effects of full four reeds, which sounded accordion; the three reeds were clarinet sound; two reeds, one low and one regular, had an organ tone; one reed regular alone sounded as an oboe.

Then another switch was added to the bass. This switch gave an octave higher tone. By applying the automatic switch on the bass it closed the lowest reed and gave a higher octave sound.

The immense popularity of the accordion today is due to the continual improvements, not only by the manufacturers but by the players themselves.

The miracle of genius expressed in the twentieth-century accordion now has an ampliphonic reed block which has literally startled the accordion profession. It is much the same, no doubt, as when four hundred years ago the first chested violin appeared in Italy, to the utter amazement of those accustomed to strings stretched over a stick. This exclusive twentieth-century accordion gives an ampliphonic depth, beauty of resonance and volume of tone just as the sound chamber of the violin, guitar or other string instruments improves and amplifies the tone.

Instead of the usual solid wood reed blocks found on old style accordions the ampliphonic reed blocks are made with individual sound chambers for each reed, plus a central sound chamber extending the full length of the reed block. Furthermore, these blocks are shorter, wider, lighter, and stronger, and being placed transversely across the accordion instead of lengthwise, they are less liable to shrink or warp. The reeds of the present day are lighter in weight and have a richer, fuller, more powerful tone than ever before.

On the latest models you will not find bellow straps. Instead there is a knob to turn by which the bellows lock or open automatically.

The newest models also employ a rocker bar switch, conveniently placed for easy manipulation by any finger of the right hand, which opens and closes the shutter on the grill. This new creation permits unusual variations in volume and tone.

A new switch slide construction gives lightning-fast response. This effect is noticed at once in improved precision, ease of playing and also increase of the tone volume. The switch plate in which the slides operate as a part of the metal plate and a thin connecting layer of veneer wood are a great improvement over the older models.

Artist's models are made today which have twelve automatic treble switches and two bass switches, making possible fifteen automatic combinations! With these automatic switches the tonal effects of the woodwind family from piccolo to bassoon are instantly provided. They are also made with the finest hand made Swedish steel rods mounted on duraluminum blocks, four sets in the treble and five sets in the bass. Also the accordion of today has special hand made bass mechanism, exceptionally quiet and lighter in action, with an aluminum fingerboard.

The bellowswing of today for a given amount of playing is reduced one-third, due to improvements over the older models of leakage; the accordion of the twentieth century is airtight throughout the entire construction and more particularly in its one-piece switch plate mechanism that accomplishes this miracle of bellowswing economy.

The Accordion Today

By ANDREW WM. RIZZO

IN its early stages the accordion offered but the scantiest musical possibilities. It was equipped with a short-range right hand keyboard meant for melodic passages and a piston board for the left hand rigged with only a few buttons for the basses and harmonies, these generally not reaching beyond two of the fundamental chords; Dominant and Tonic. What a contrast with the piano-accordion of today! Equipped with a full bass and harmony piston board with one hundred and forty buttons, besides the many advantageous switches which afford the player unlimited variety of tonal combinations. In its appearance the piano-accordion of today is an object of beauty whether in its classic design of black and white or in its gay multi-colored decorations.

The piston board on the left end of the standard size piano-accordion is equipped with seven rows of buttons, each row consisting of twenty, making a total of 140 buttons. Every button operates a piston which produces a set of tones.

The buttons on the first two rows, proceeding from right to left, produce the "single" bass tones, also called fundamental or natural tones. Considering that in these two rows there are forty buttons, it is clearly seen how these twelve fundamental tones are repeated three times and some of them four times in different positions on the piston board.

Contrary to a generally accepted notion, these two rows of buttons do not produce single tones. What actually is heard from the instrument upon pressing each button is a series of five tones, each tone repeated five times in three different octaves.

Continuing from right to left of the two bass rows, each of the following five rows of buttons produces a different set of harmonies in all keys. The first row (third from right) consists of twenty buttons each producing a major triad. For mechanical reasons peculiarly consistent with the construction of the instrument, the three tones of every triad are repeated in the same octave and one octave above.

The second harmony row (fourth from right) consists of twenty buttons each producing a minor triad. The third harmony row (fifth from right) consists of twenty buttons each producing a complete chord of the Dominant Seventh in a series of twelve tones. The fourth harmony row (sixth from right) consists of twenty buttons each producing a diminished seventh chord. The fifth harmony row (seventh from right) consists of twenty buttons, each producing an augmented triad and it has been added to the instrument only since the Fall of 1921. This innovation is accredited to the writer of this material.

Every standard model piano-accordion is equipped with one or more switches. These attachments may be divided in two classes: the switch that affects the harmony by changing the position of the chords, and the switch that affects the quality and character of the tone in a way similar to the various stops of a pipe organ. Of this last type, the piano-accordionist may choose to have his instrument so manufactured as to afford him as many switches as he may wish to suit his taste. Some instruments are equipped with as many as twelve switches which produce various kinds of tones resembling those of the instruments in the orchestra: the flute, piccolo, clarinet, oboe, English horn, bassoon, violin, and many others.

There is hardly a civilized country in which the piano-accordion has not become a popular instrument or failed to capture the interest of noted musicians. Among the many great figures who enjoyed playing it were Charles Dickens and Gustav Mahler. Several great composers found it very valuable in expressing their musical ideas including Tschaikowsky who introduced it in his second Symphonic Suite Op. 53 and Joseph Holbrooke who invested it with orchestral dignity in his Cantata "The Bells."

Of the European countries Sweden leads among the accordion loving nations. Every year an accordion festival is held at Goteborg. The Germans have always shown a marked interest in the manufacture and mechanical improvement of the instrument. In Hungary, Austria and Switzerland, the accordion is the chosen instrument for the people's songs and dances because it is so well adapted to their lively rhythms and flowing melodies. The folk tunes of Poland seem to have been born for the accordion and in Italy, the land of song, the accordion is almost a national instrument.

In the United States and the South American countries the accordion may be said to be in its golden era, not only because of its wide spread use as a solo and orchestral instrument but also because of the considerable strides it has made in the academic field. Conservatories, colleges and high schools have for some time endorsed and accredited regular courses on the piano-accordion which is now recognized for its full musical importance.

The Bassoon

By BENJAMIN KOHON

THE modern Bassoon (Basson, French; Fagott, German; Fagotto, Italian) is a double reed woodwind instrument of double tube type, serving as bass to the woodwind section of the orchestra. It consists of six parts—the bell, the long-joint, the wing-joint, the boot, the crook and the reed — which parts, when assembled for playing, form a slender, tubular instrument, approximately 53 inches long, varying in diameter from about 2½ inches at its top, the bell, to approximately 3¼ inches in its double tube section—which section comprises about 2/3 of the instrument. If its tubing would not be doubled back on itself (for convenience in handling and for production of a certain tone quality) the bassoon would measure approximately 9 feet, including crook and reed. When the bassoon is taken apart into its six parts, it can be packed into a rectangular case of the approximate dimensions of a violin case.

As for the origin of the bassoon, the theory was held for many years that it was invented about 1530 by the Italian canon, Afranio of Ferrara, while he was experimenting with musical instruments of his day, such as the 8 foot Bass Pommer or Bombard and the Pannonian Piva or bagpipe. It is known from a treatise published in 1539 at Pavia by Teseo Ambrogio Albonese, Afranio's nephew, ("Introductio in Chaldaicum Linguam," dedicated to Afranio by the author) that Afranio played a solo on an instrument named, by Afranio, the "Phagottus" for the Duke of Ferrara and his guests, between the fifth and sixth courses of a dinner given by the Duke in Mantua, in 1532. The woodcuts and description of the instrument, the Phagottus, in this work by Teseo Ambrogio Albonese, prove clearly, however, that Afranio's solo instrument at this occasion was fundamentally a metal-tongued bag-pipe, Afranio's improved form of the Piva, this Phagottus having no connection whatsoever with the bassoon, except its phonetic similarity in name to the Italian and German names, Fagotto and Fagott respectively, adopted later for the bassoon. The Italian name, later carried over into Germany, was probably derived from the apparent resemblance of the bassoon, in its original uncouth form, to a "bundle of sticks" or "Fagotti."

Another view held for a long time of the origin of the bassoon was that it was an improved descendant of the Bass Pommer or Bombard, another instrument with which Afranio had experimented, but Dr. Curt Sachs, in his Real-Lexikon der Musik-Instrumente, published in Berlin in 1913, has contested the view that the bassoon derives from the Pommer (or Bombard). It now seems established that the bassoon developed, in the late Renaissance, from an instrument called the Dulzian (Dolcian) into a form later called the Chorist-Faggott — the bassoon family existing in its varieties independently, side by side, for over a hundred years, with the various members of the pommer or bombard family.

Michael Praetorius, German composer and writer on music of the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries, makes allusion in one of his works to "Siebenerley Pommer" (seven kinds of Pommer) and "Fünferley Fagotte" (five kinds of Bassoon) indicating that both instruments were in use together in his time, some of these old varieties of bassoon being the Quint-Fagott, Quart-Fagott, Basset-Fagott, Fagotto-Piccolo and the Ranket or Racket or Wurst-Fagott (Sausage-Bassoon). The sausage-bassoon, be it noted, was an especially noisy member of the bassoon-family, therefore we can speculate that possibly the sausage-bassoon was the Loud bassoon heard by the guest in Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner" —"The wedding-guest here beat his breast, for he heard the loud bassoon." As the tone of the bombard was hard and rough, and the tone of the dulzian and its generations of bassoon descendants was relatively rounder and sweeter, the harsher and less beloved bombard naturally died out, in process of transition—the bassoon surviving, developing, always improving.

The country of origin of the bassoon (fagotto) was in all probability Italy, but, as Germany had the lead in the 16th and 17th centuries in the production of wind-instruments, it would seem, according to Dr. Sachs' Real-Lexikon, that the development of the bassoon (fagott), at its earliest simplest stages, was furthered more rapidly and more assiduously in Germany than in any other country. There is a record that "Fagotte" were already manufactured by an instrument-maker, Siegmund Schnitzer, in Nürnberg, Germany, in the second half of the 16th century—his "Fagotte" being carried and distributed into other countries. In France the instrument was named "Basson" from its "bas son" (low tone), and it was finally named "Bassoon" in England, accordingly, though a variety of Dolzian or small bassoon was previously known in England as the "Curtall."

Towards the end of the 17th century, the bassoon had already received the form under which we now know it, being assembled of various pieces or parts and provided with keys, three in number at the time. Later, in the 18th century, the instrument was again improved by the addition of further keys—a Flemish bassoon-maker giving the bassoon its fourth key in 1730, an English bassoon-maker giving the bassoon its fifth key in the second half of the 18th century, and during the course of its continued improvement, the bassoon has gradually acquired a great number of keys (amounting to a peak of about 25 keys together with other mechanical improvements in the newest instruments of our day).

The first appearance of the bassoon in an orchestra was probably in Cambert's "Pomone," in Paris, 1671, as a purely bass instrument, and, during the century of its development that followed after its first orchestral appearance, it gradually achieved for itself a firm and assured position in the orchestra. Instrumental music then reaching new heights of creation, demands on wind-players were increased, manufacturers of the bassoon, especially in France and Germany, were spurred on to remedy the deficiencies, particularly of tone, still inherent in the instrument, and, during the early decades of the first half of the 19th century, the bassoon finally acquired evenly balanced sound volume and tonal purity, achieved mechanically through changing of the bore and through keys. The bassoon of today has yet additional points of mechanical (and tonal) improvement over the bassoon of the past century, such as essential trill-keys, and it has a range of over three octaves.

Also belonging to the family of bassoons and important in modern orchestras is the contra-bassoon or double-bassoon—a three tubed instrument proportionately longer and broader than the bassoon, and an octave lower in pitch. It is believed to be of German origin, invented about 1620 by Hans Schreiber, and was gradually developed to various sizes and in various registers. In the last quarter of the 19th century, it reached approximately the present peak of its development.

Music for the bassoon is written in bass and tenor clefs. The instrument has been frequently termed the "clown of the orchestra," due to the fact that it is well adapted, in certain registers, to give expression to humorous and grotesque passages, such as occur in the "Sorcerer's Apprentice," by Dukas, or the "Hall of the Mountain King" movement, in the Peer Gynt Suite by Grieg. However, notwithstanding its undeniable adaptability for such passages in comic vein, it has a dark beauty of tone very well suited for serious lyrical passage work. Probably the earliest appearance of the bassoon in a work by the Masters of the 18th century was in the Witch music, in Handel's "Saul," though Handel (and Bach) used the bassoon only rarely. Haydn, however, already made good use of its possibilities, and wrote a Sinfonie Concertante for Violin, Cello, Oboe and Bassoon with orchestral accompaniment.

Compositions by Mozart and Beethoven definitely established the bassoon as an instrument of expression. Mozart thought enough of the bassoon, even in the instrument's cruder form, of his time, to write a charming Concerto for Bassoon in B flat, with Orchestral Accompaniment—also his Sonata for Bassoon and Cello, his Quatoir Concertante for Oboe, Clarinet, French Horn and Bassoon, with Orchestral Accompaniment, and he included the bassoon in several chamber music compositions for winds and strings, for winds and piano, and in purely wind combinations. Beethoven employed the bassoon prominently in his Symphonies, and in the last movement of his Fourth Symphony there is a famous staccato passage for the instrument. He also employed the bassoon in some of his chamber music compositions, such as in his Septet for Winds and Strings, Sextet for Winds, Quintet for Winds and Piano, Trio for Piano, Flute and Bassoon — also in three duets for Clarinet and Bassoon.

Schubert employed the bassoon in his famous Octet for Winds and Strings. Rossini wrote a Quartet for Flute, Clarinet, Horn and Bassoon. Weber wrote two solo works for bassoon with orchestral accompaniment — his Concerto for Bassoon in F and his "Andante Hongrois." (Incidentally, there is a passage from the "Agnus Dei," in Weber's Mass in G, which reveals the bassoon's fine possibilities in the role of accompaniment to the human voice—the passage is played first by bassoon, then sung, then repeated by the bassoon. In the Aria "Una Furtiva Lagrima" in Donizetti's "Elisir d'Amore," the bassoon has a somewhat similar role, and in Verdi's "Requiem," the bassoon has important and charming accompaniment figures to the voices.) Tschaikowsky has given beautiful lyric passages to the bassoon in his symphonies. It is prominently used by Rimsky-Korsakoff in the "Scheherezade Suite," and he employs the instrument in his Quintet for Winds and Piano. Glinka has written a Trio for Piano, Clarinet and Bassoon. Other compositions in the older literature for bassoon are as follows:

Concerto in B flat for Bassoon with Orchestral Accompaniment (Strings and Tympani) by Ferdinand David.

Concerto in F for Bassoon with Orchestral Accompaniment by G. A. Schneider.

Concerto in C for Bassoon by G. H. Kummer (renowned German Bassoonist, 1774-1857.)

Forty-two Caprices for Bassoon by Etienne Ozi (renowned French Bassoonist, 1754-1813.)

Six Duos Concertants for two Bassoons—by E. Ozi.

In the older chamber-music literature in which the bassoon appears, the compositions cover combinations from Duets to Nonets, and are for Winds with Strings, Winds with Piano or for Winds only. In addition to the Duos Concertants listed above for two bassoons by E. Ozi, and a number of Trios solely for bassoons by G. H. Kummer and Julius Weissenborn, there are Quartets for various combinations with bassoon by J. Brandl, Franz Danzi, J. J. F. Dotzauer, Friedrich Gumlich, Franz Krommer, F. A. Pfeiffer, and G. A. Schneider. There are Quintets by J. Brandl, and F. Spindler; Sextets by J. Amon, Luigi Boccherini, G. Erlanger, Ludwig Thuille; Septets by J. F. Berwald, A. Blanc, C. Kreuzer, Julius Roentgen; Octets by Louis T. Gouvy, Franz Lachner, C. H. C. Reinecke, Louis Spohr; Nonets by Charles F. Gounod and Louis Spohr.

In the modern orchestral compositions Deems Taylor employs an effective cadenza for bassoon in the "Jabberwocky movement" of his "Looking Glass Suite." Stravinsky opens his "Sacre du Printemps" with a bassoon solo in the extreme upper register, and in the "Berceuse" of his "Firebird Suite" is a beautiful bassoon solo. In various other compositions he uses the bassoon prominently. Ravel has given conspicuous solo passages to the bassoon in his works, as in his "Bolero," his "Rhapsodie Espagnol" (which has a cadenza for two bassoons) and his "Alborada del Gracioso"; in his Piano Concerto, he gives difficult passage work to the bassoon in the accompaniment, and in another passage in this concerto, he gives the bassoon a solo reaching to high E, which demands a great deal of the instrument. Richard Strauss employs two bassoons very effectively in a canon form, in his Don Quixote," representing the two monks met by the Don, on his journey. Sibelius employs the bassoon in a lengthy solo, in melancholy mood, in the first movement of his Fifth Symphony. Gabriel Pierné wrote a Solo de Concert for Bassoon with Orchestral Accompaniment (there is also a cadenza for the instrument in his Cydalise-Suite No. 1.) Ermanno Wolf-Ferrari has written a Suite Concertino in F Major for Solo Bassoon, with String Accompaniment and two Horns.

In the modern chamber music literature for bassoon, the following compositions can be noted — the majority of them for wind combinations only, occasionally for winds with strings or winds with piano: Sonata for Clarinet and Bassoon by Francois Poulenc, Sonata for Piano and Bassoon by C. C. Saint-Saens; Sonata for Violin and Bassoon by Vladimir Dukelski; Trios by Fernande Decruck, P. O. Ferroud, L. de Lorenzo, Igor Markevitch, Darius Milhaud, Walter Piston, Francois Poulenc, Erwin Schulhoff, Heitor Villa-Lobos; Quartets by Arcady Dubensky ("Prelude and Fugue" — four Bassoons), Jacques Ibert, Mikhail M. Ippolitov-Ivanov, G. F. Malipiero, Serge S. Prokofieff ("Scherzo Humoristique" —four Bassoons); Quintets by Jorgen Bentzon, Theodor Blumer, Pavel Borkovec, Alfredo Casella, William Edmonstoune Duncan, Giorgio Federico Ghedini, Paul Hindemith, Charles Huguenin, Jan Ingenhoven, Paul Juon, Max Laurischkus, Erwin Lendvai, Lucien D. Magnard, Carl A. Nielsen, Gabriel Pierné, Joseph G. M. Ropartz, Carl Rorich, Heinrich Kaspar Schmid, Arnold Schoenberg, Leo Sowerby; Sextet by Leoš Mládi Janáček; Octets by Hugo Kaun, Rudolf Novaček, Igor Stravinsky; Nonet by Eugene Goossens.

Some well established studies for the instrument are by Jacobi, Milde, Weissenborn, Ozi and Giamperi. There are good Orchestral Studies for the Bassoon by Curt Weller and Adrian Berendes—also Orchestral Studies from the Works of Wagner by E. Albert, and Orchestral Studies from the Works of Richard Strauss by J. Bohm, for the instrument.

It is interesting to note that, in an article on the bassoon in an old journal, the "Quarterly Musical Magazine and Review," Volume 6, published in London, in 1824, there is a list, with short biographical sketches, of about fifty distinguished European bassoon-players of the late 18th and early 19th centuries — a number of them also composers—all of them apparently highly regarded and honored for their skill on their instruments and their musicianship. One of them, Steiner, chamber musician to the King of Denmark, was so highly esteemed in Europe that, when he went to Paris, in the suite of the Swedish minister, he was presented at court to the French king. He later gave concerts with great success in Holland. It should be added that the famous Russian composer and conductor, Kalinnikov, 1866-1901, was at one time a professional bassoon-player, but, strangely enough, he did not contribute in his creative work to the solo repertoire of the bassoon.

AMERICAN REED MANUFACTURING COMPANY
CABLE ADDRESS "ARMCO" TELEPHONE: DIVERSEY 3238
MANUFACTURERS OF THE ODEL SUPREME REEDS FOR CLARINET AND SAXOPHONE
1948 NORTH HALSTED STREET
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

The Clarinet Family

By SIMEON BELLISON

THE clarinet is perhaps the most colorful of the many instruments which enter into the composition of a modern orchestra. It is also known as the youngest member of the woodwind section.

The first model of a clarinet was made in Germany at the end of the seventeenth century, between the years 1690-1700. It was the invention of a flute maker, Johan Christofer Denner, who was born in Leipzig in 1655 and died in Nurenberg in 1707. The model was built of yellow wood, with seven finger holes in it and had only two keys made of thin bronze on the upper part of the instrument. It was tuned in the key of C, as were the other woodwinds, flute, oboe, and bassoon. It had a rough, harsh, and unsteady tone. In the middle and low octaves, it sounded like a trumpet, and in the high octave, it sounded like a Musette or English horn. All of the half tones were played at random with an unusual fingering combination, and also with an unusual pressing of the lips. Most of the notes were not clear, causing the intonation to be false. In our time, when orchestra playing demands a superlative degree of precision and the technique of the instrument makers is so greatly perfected, the first model would satisfy not even a shepherd. The inventors tried their utmost to make the instrument popular, but they were unsuccessful.

During the first ten years of its existence, it had no definite name. A little later, old Italian and French composers started to use it infrequently as a trumpet with a high register and named it "clarinetto" (clarino in Italian means trumpet). Since that time, the name has remained. Whether "clarinetto" is male or female is unknown to this day. In France and in Germany, the feminine gender is used ("la clarinette" in French, and "die clarinette" in German). The masculine gender is used in Italian and Spanish ("il clarinetto") and in Russian it is called "clarnet."

Prominent makers of woodwind instruments at that time, Fritz in Braunschweig, Lefevre in Paris, Stadler in Vienna, and Schlott in Berlin, together with the best clarinet players, worked very hard to improve this instrument. The experience of the maker and of the player proved to them that the character of the tone of this instrument was very promising, but that it had to be rebuilt. About fifty years later, the clarinet appeared in the keys of A and B flat. It was now made of dark grenadille wood with ten keys of solid nickel. The new construction, the better quality of wood, and other improvements gave the clarinet a more agreeable tone and greater flexibility. The additional number of keys gave it a longer range which made easier the playing of technical passages. In the year 1767, the clarinet appeared in the compositions of Mozart, since it was assuming a new and more active role. Mozart transferred it from the brass section to the woodwind, and since that time, it has always been welcomed and widely used by all composers.

The long range of the clarinet, its individual tone quality which is so near the human voice, its technical flexibility, and the ease with which it blends with other instruments, strings or winds, made it an indispensable member of every symphony orchestra, with a prominent, responsible, and outstanding part over all other instruments. In a band, its role is even greater. There it becomes the first violin.

The clarinet is often heard in solos and in chamber music. Its concert literature has been written by the greatest composers such as Mozart, Spohr, Schumann, Mendelssohn, Weber, Beethoven, Brahms, and Debussy. In jazz, the clarinet is of course a favorite member of the "gang." There too it disports itself better than any other instrument, doing comical imitations that no other instrument can do.

The clarinet family consists of: A flat clarinet piccolo (the baby); E flat piccolo (clarinet); B flat clarinet (the most popular); bassethorn in F; alto clarinet in E flat; and the bass clarinet; and contra-bassclarinet, both in B flat.

The saxophone also belongs to the clarinet group. (As the founder of the Clarinet Ensemble, I have chosen to exclude it because its menagerie-like sounds degrade the entire clarinet family. But I have to admit that the clarinet and the saxophone are the most popular instruments in this country.)

The clarinets are shown to their greatest advantage when they are grouped into an ensemble. Because of the long range of the entire group, they can play as a whole orchestra without the help of other instruments. There are no other wind instruments of the same color of tone, of which an ensemble could be made up to play as an orchestra. For this reason, a clarinet ensemble is original, new and unique.

The roles in the Clarinet Ensemble are divided as follows: the E flat clarinet, which is tuned a fifth higher than the B flat, substitutes for the flute, piccolo, and for the oboe; the B flat clarinet substitutes for the first violin and plays its own original part of the first clarinet; the second B flat is the second violin; the third B flat is the viola too; *the bassclarinet and contra*net serve for the 'cello, bassoon French horns, English horns, and sometimes the viola too; the bassclarinet and contrabassclarinet substitute for the bassviol.

At the beginning of its existence, the E flat clarinet was used only in a band. Later, Johann Strauss, the King of Waltzes, took it into his string dance orchestra. Berlioz was the first to bring it into the symphony orchestra with his "Fantastic Symphony." Later Richard Strauss and many modern composers gave it an outstanding role. And now it is a steady member of the symphony orchestra, with a prominent and colorful part.

The A flat piccolo (the baby) is used very seldom, and mostly in gyspy bands in Hungary.

Mozart was also the first composer to use the bassethorn, giving it a distinguished solo part in the duet for soprano and bassethorn, in the opera "Titus," and also in his requiems. Later, Mendelssohn wrote his famous two Concertstucks, Op. 113 and 114, for Clarinet, Bassethorn, and Piano. (The difference between an alto clarinet and a bassethorn is in the very low part of the instrument only. Long ago, the alto-clarinet had a bell like a regular clarinet, but the sound of some notes which came out from the bell was too close to the floor. This muted the notes and affected them. The instrument makers improved it by changing the bell to a horn, making its appearance similar to the bassclarinet and therefore named it "the bassethorn" or "basset.")

The bassclarinet makes its appearance in the orchestra in Meyerbeer's "Huguenots" in 1836 and in Verdi's "Aida" in 1871, and later in the compositions of Richard Wagner, Liszt, Tschaikowsky, and Richard Strauss. The bassclarinet is also a very prominent member of the woodwind section with an outstanding color in the low register.

The contra-bassclarinet is one octave lower than the bassclarinet. Some conductors prefer it to the contrabassoon. In some modern scores, it has its original part. It is as important to the Clarinet Ensemble as is the bassviol to a symphony orchestra.

The clarinet is a transposing instrument. In the very old scores, we can find it in the keys of A, B flat, C, D, E flat, F, and G. In those days when the player, through lack of experience, doubted that transposition was possible on one clarinet, he carted all of the original clarinets in a horse carriage to his job. Today, the player uses only two clarinets, A and B flat. The A, which is a little longer, is tuned half a tone lower than the B flat. This difference makes the tone softer and more agreeable, especially in slow movements. Most of the composers realize the exceptionally mellow quality of the A clarinet, when they arrange their compositions, and show preference to either instrument accordingly.

The B flat clarinet, which is tuned one tone lower than the piano, is the most popular. This clarinet is preferably used for solos by the player and by the composer, and the clarinetist can more easily transpose any other key on it. The B flat clarinet is especially used in bands. It also has a soft, and at the same time, brilliant tone. In order to make easier the transposition and the technical passages, the player decides which of these clarinets to use. A passage that is not comfortable to play on the A is played on the B flat.

For instance, when the orchestra plays in the key of A (three sharps), the composer and arranger keep in mind the key most suitable for the player and write the music for the A clarinet. The clarinetist plays in the key of C, which makes the technical parts easier to manage. Thus, he has less keys to use and the sound coming out from the natural finger holes is clearer. When the orchestra plays in three flats, the B flat clarinet will play in one flat; naturally, then it is better to use the B flat clarinet.

The clarinet with a perfect intonation does not exist. However, to improve the intonation, the number of keys were brought up to seventeen and sometimes to twenty. The well known inventor of the new flute, Theobald Boehm, gave a new idea to the clarinet also. The famous clarinet players, Karl Baermann and Ivan Mueller, together with the eminent instrument maker, George Ottensteiner in Munich, tried to adopt the Boehm System to the clarinet to simplify it. As a result, there are now in existence two systems of a clarinet; the German, or old system, and the Boehm, or new. Each one has its good and bad features, and it is difficult to say which is the better of the two. In some countries, France, Italy, and Spain, the Boehm system is more popular. Germany, Austria, Hungary, Russia, Czecho-Slovakia, and the Scandinavian countries use the old system.

The history of my Clarinet Ensemble is closely connected with the history of the Committee on Ensemble Musical Training and Scholarships of the Philharmonic Symphony Society of New York. This Committee was organized some years ago for the purpose of choosing such children from the public Elementary and High Schools of Greater New York as gave evidence of exceptional musical promise; to obtain for these children the opportunity to study any instrument under the guidance of a staff of distinguished teachers connected with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra; and finally to enrich the musical background of these children by means of broader cultural studies. The Clarinet Scholarship Ensemble is an offshoot of the activities of this Committee.

In 1927, in my studio, I organized a double quartet of my pupils. This group had two B flat clarinets, a bassethorn, and a bass-clarinet. This was the beginning of the Clarinet Ensemble. During the next two years, this group had sixteen members. Since 1929, when the Committee on Ensemble Musical Training of the Philharmonic-Symphony Society began to give scholarships to the most promising musical children of the Elementary and High Schools of Greater New York, this group grew larger every year and at present it has seventy to seventy-five players.

The Flute

By REX ELTON FAIR

THE Flute is often and rightfully called "The Nightingale of the Woodwinds" by all who are familiar with its clear enchanting tone that has the power to excite even the birds to a state of ecstasy in song. Truly an instrument of Nature is the flute.

It is certain that the origin of music was founded on natural rhythmic forces. There can be little doubt that it was the song of the birds, or the waves of the ocean, the water-falls, the constant even motion of a bit of drift-wood lodged in some rapidly flowing stream, the wind singing in the evergreens, or some other form of nature's ever present rhythms that prompted our very early ancestors to gather in groups, and to merely slap their hands together so that they, too, might create and enjoy some form of physical rhythm of which their child-like minds might be conscious.

However, long before man ever exercised such primitive rites, the zephyrs that gently kissed the myriads of reed flutes that grew along the water's edge, were producing sweet sounds and music that might be likened unto that of Schubert or Mozart, in pianissimo effect. Then there were winds of such force and terrific violence as to instill the most horrible fear into the hearts of all living creatures, but these same winds —as the force of them was interrupted by trees and mountain crags—were as the breath of a great musician, playing upon his flutes; music in fortissimo effects, depicting the torturous and horrible, such as only the great Tschaikowsky knew how to write.

It is an interesting and fascinating picture one can create within his mind, if he will imagine the first wayfarer of a few thousand years ago, when suddenly he became conscious of the fact that the wind was producing pleasing sounds variable in loudness and pitch, as it blew across the open ends of the hollow reeds. Eventually he plucked one of those reeds, and was both amused and amazed to find that he, too, could extract a tone from it by holding his lips to the edge of the hole, and then blowing across the top of it. In due course of time it was discovered that the shorter reeds produced a higher tone than the longer ones. It is possible, too, that while he was playing with those reeds, a long one was found that made a tone of higher pitch than some of the short ones. Probably by that time his slight mechanical and acoustical senses had been awakened to the extent that an investigation followed. Upon careful examination of that particular reed, it was discovered that a hole had been worn through the side of it. It called forth very little ingenuity to prompt him to cut a hole in another reed, only to find that by so doing the air column had been deflected and shortened, thereby making the longer reed respond in pitch to the likeness of the shorter one. When this hole or vent was covered with his finger, the effect was just opposite. Thus, it was then and there that the first man-made flute was created. Even today, with our most modern wood-wind instruments, the change of pitch brought about by the manipulation of many padded stops or keys, may be attributed to the fact that it is a matter of shortening or lengthening the tube upon which the mechanism is placed. It is of course possible to alter pitch by fourths, fifths, octaves, etc., on the modern flute, by changing the tension of the lips. But now to return to our primitive flute, it is interesting to know that for untold centuries, primitive peoples used these flutes, not only as a means of amusement and entertainment, but for religious rituals, and love making. In time of drouth, and famine or illness, the flute was often used to awaken the gods, and to call them to perform their rites and duties.

These beautiful soft toned pipes or flutes have played such important roles in the development of mankind, as to demand the careful attention and much research on the part of many of our most prolific historians. Many who have given serious study to the history of the flute have said that the god Osiris of Egypt gave the flute very great consideration and was responsible for its rather sudden popularity. All of our flute playing fraternity have heard the story of the great god Pan of Greece and his love of the flute. Then there was Krishna, Indian god of the woods, of whom it has been said, played his flute so delightfully that all who heard him followed in his path of divine loveliness, even unto the end of mortal life.

When next you hear a flutist, if you will allow but a passing thought to attest to the fact that he is playing on an instrument born of such color and romance, it is bound to afford you extra pleasure, and to incite a keener interest in his performance.

The Boehm System Flute of today, when made of sterling silver, gold or platinum, (as made by our finest of flute makers) is the very acme of perfection. That is to say, that it is probably unequalled by any other musical instrument dependent upon mechanical and acoustical science for perfection of pitch and intonation. This instrument has a chromatic range of three octaves with the possibilities of half and whole step trills throughout the entire range. B flat to C in altissimo is the one exception. It is one of the most important instruments of our concert bands and symphony orchestras, the modern orchestra or "band" included. This is especially true where the modern organization with modern music is used in radio or concert. It may be of interest to you to know that the finest flutes made in the world today, are made in America.

Generally speaking, people are not conscious of the important role that the flute plays in our music. Those of us who are interested in the promotion of this—"The King of the Wood-winds"—should assume the obligation of informing our public at every opportunity, of its usefulness, grace and loveliness.

In attending an orchestra or band concert, anyone is apt to notice that the flutist "blows" into his instrument, and manipulates the keys with his fingers to make the necessary changes and variations in pitch, but more often than not, his interests come to a halt at that point. Flute players have often been asked questions concerning their "fifes" by well meaning friends who wished to appear genial and interested. Though many such questions probably leave the player speechless, he should take such a cue as an opportunity to promote his instrument in an instructive and enhancing manner.

It is a fact that many, even numbered among musicians, do not appreciate the full capacity of the flute. They all know that Beethoven, Saint-Saens, Mendelssohn, Tschaikowsky, Brahms, and others, entrusted many prominent solos throughout their orchestral works, to the flute. However, many are surprised to learn that Quantz, Kuhlau, Mozart, Bach, Handel, and many others numbering among our finest of composers, have left us many concertos and sonatas that were originally written for the flute.

The French Horn

By T. M. JUSTUS

THE French horn (Waldhorn; Natural horn) is one of the oldest wind instruments in existence. It is usually made of brass, but present day manufacturers use various combinations of metals, specially designed to improve the tonal quality and durability of the instrument. It consists of wound tubing, about 5/16 of an inch in diameter at the mouthpiece and about 11 to 11¾ inches in diameter at the Bell. The old style mouthpiece was small with conical, slightly convex bore and very narrow rim. The modern mouthpiece is larger, with conical, slightly concave or cupped bore and a wider rim. The length of the tubing is governed by the pitch of the instrument.

Horns of most primitive construction and made only from the natural horns of animals, can be traced back to and are mentioned in the histories of the most ancient races. The ancient Ethiopians called them "Kenet and Keren." The Hebrews used the same name of "Keren" and also "Schofar." In India they were named "Nursingh" and the Greeks knew them as "Kegas."

Alexander, the Great (336-323 B.C.) used a horn which could be heard at a great distance to call his army together. Subsequently horns were also made of wood, the bark of trees, ore, glass and ivory. A horn made of ivory is said to have been the property of the renowned Rowland, nephew of Charles the Great. The ancient legend tells us that the tone of this horn carried to such a distance that Charles the Great was enabled to hear Roland call for assistance for miles, when the latter lay helpless in the Pyrenee mountains (778).

However, all the above-mentioned materials used for the construction of horns proved undesirable, especially as to lasting qualities, and the advisability of using metal for the manufacture of these instruments became more evident.

From the 12th to the 16th century the instruments were constructed in a slightly bent form to imitate the natural animal horn. During the 17th Century they gradually developed into the wound form which we know as the "natural" or "Stopped" (Hand) Horn, so named because a majority of its notes were produced by means of the right hand placed in the bell of the instrument and "Stopping" the different notes. These horns were first built in E flat but later they were made in different sizes, in order to enable their use in different keys. For compositions modulating into different keys a different horn had to be used for each change, or smaller or larger appliances (crooks) were attached to the instrument to change the pitch. In addition to these, shorter tuning slides were used as an aid for correct intonation. However, these complicated appliances for changing the pitch interfered materially with the practical manipulation of the instrument and the pitch, as before, remained a most defective one. Numerous ideas and inventions for improving the horn were advanced during the next century but they were all equally unsuccessful because the intonation of the instrument was not improved and "stopping," with all its inequalities of tone still had to be resorted to.

Finally in 1814, a hornplayer named Stolzel of Breslau, assisted by an oboist named Bluhmel, invented a real improvement for the horn, by supplying it with two air-tight valves (Piston valves). The first valve lowered the horn one half-tone and the second one whole tone, and both together one and one-half tones. This invention was improved upon in 1819 by Muller of Mayence and Sattler of Leipsic, who constructed horns according to Stolzel's idea with three valves. The third valve lowered the horn one and one-half tones and therewith placed it upon that basis of perfection which it has remained until the present day. Rotary valves instead of piston valves are now in general use. At the beginning of the 20th Century came the introduction of the double horn to improve the tone, intonation and ease of playing.

Michael Practorious (1571 -1621) seems to have been the first composer to introduce the horn as an orchestral instrument. He called it "Hunter's Trumpet." J. Fux (1660-1741) was probably the first who used the horn in pairs for orchestral purposes. From that time on, it was used more and more, and gradually raised itself to such distinction that it successfully rivalled and finally placed itself side by side with the more favored trumpet, being preferred by the most prominent composers as a solo instrument. It has been used most effectively as an orchestral instrument by Mozart, Beethoven, Mehul, Cherubini, Spontini, Weber, Mendelssohn, Wagner, Richard Strauss, and particularly by all the followers of the modern school. Weber preferred it among all other instruments and probably used it most effectively for orchestral purposes among all writers.

The beautiful, pliable tone of the French horn makes it of all instruments nearest to the human voice, and this, together with the varied effects it produces and the almost limitless uses it can be put to, accounts for its popularity with modern-day composers. Its tone seems to blend perfectly with all other instrumental groups. Because of its peculiar tonal color, the instrument seems to adapt itself to almost any type of music. Played softly it is well adapted for expressive, dreamy, song-style music. Played forte it depicts the joyous, boisterous music of the hunt. The echo can be sweet or mysterious and the crash effect is one of sudden terrifying savagery.

In spite of its wide popularity, the French horn is perhaps the least understood of all instruments. Why does the French horn finger different from the cornet? Why use rotary valves? Why do you put your right hand in the bell? Why is the double horn easier to play? When do you change to the B flat horn? Is it possible for one player to play the range of the horn? These are but a few of the questions we hear every day.

The popular idea that the French horn fingers differently from other three-valve instruments is wrong. It fingers exactly the same. The French horn range begins on F sharp, the space below the bass clef staff. The cornet range begins on F sharp below middle C. A comparison will show that from the first playable tone on the two instruments, the fingering is identical, with the French horn having an added octave in range. However, the playing range of the French horn is pitched so low that it is necessary to play in the next octave higher in order to make the parts sound. This octave, beginning with middle C, has the same fingering as the cornet octave beginning with C in the third space. Most people compare the octave beginning with middle C on the cornet with the octave beginning with middle C on the French Horn and this leads to the belief that the French horn fingers differently. However, it will be seen that the French horn in playing in the octave beginning at middle C is playing in the same range on the instrument as the cornet is when playing in the octave beginning at C on the third space, and the French horn presents practically the same difficulties in playing in this octave as the cornet does in its higher octave.

Lip trills can be made on a cornet from the note E in the 4th space on up the range of the instrument. The fingerings are: E-F sharp-1-2-3; F-G-1-3; F sharp-G sharp-2-3; G-A-1-2; A flat-B flat-1; A-B-2; B flat-C-1. It is here that the cornet teacher begins to have trouble with the students when they finger correctly and play the wrong note. These difficulties show up on the French horn, with the note E on the first line of the treble staff. This is true because the French horn at that point is playing just as high on the instrument as the cornet is when playing E in the fourth space. It is said of the French Horn that "Not any notes are made for you." Which is another way of saying that regardless of the fact that you may finger a note correctly, you will not play the correct tone unless you hear it and blow the correct tone. Beginning with A in the second space you can finger 1-2 and play either G-A-B- or C sharp with the same fingering. This is the tonic, second and third, and minor seventh. This can be done with all notes in the upper octave of the French horn. Thus, if we understand that the French horn plays exactly the same as all other valve instruments, and that we are playing in a higher octave most of the time instead of the actual playing range of the instrument, it is easy to understand why the instrument is tricky and difficult.

The French horn is an instrument of great smoothness and flexibility and the use of rotary valves is a contributing factor to this. When we understand the flow of air through the rotary valve we will understand why it is used instead of the piston valve which is generally used on other three valve instruments. The passage of the air is continuous through the rotary valve. When the valve rolls to change the direction of the air from one slide into another, it closes the first slide and deflects or "throws" the air column into the second slide without in any way disrupting the air stream. This gives the effect of the old tone apparently "melting" into the new tone. The new tone will speak when the rotary valve is one-half or a little more changed while the piston valve must be almost entirely up or down before the new tone speaks. Also the air passes on the same level through a straight, open passageway in the rotary valve, while in the piston valve it has to climb or go down through an abrupt curve to reach its new slide. Thus it will be seen that the rotary valve merely deflects the air stream from one slide to another and does it in such a manner that it is far more satisfactory for the French horn which demands that utmost in flexibility and smoothness.

Learning the proper manipulation of the right hand in the bell is of extreme importance. In playing open horn the bell is approximately half closed. This is done as an aid in the control of pitch, tone, and tone color. The hand may be held in several different ways depending upon its size and the effects desired. Generally speaking however, the back of the hand should rest against the far side of the bell with the little finger and thumb pressing on opposite sides. The weight of the instrument should rest on the back of the thumb. The hand must not be straight or full cupped as either extreme will prevent proper tone production.

The hand may be moved in and out until the place is found where tone and intonation is best. If the hand is held properly, faulty intonation can be corrected by a slight flexing or straightening of the hand. By gradually closing the opening and flatting the tone with the lips, the tone will be lowered. By making the opening larger and forcing the tone up with the lips the tone becomes sharper. This is a more open, and brighter tone, but may become hard if the opening is too great.

When the right hand is thrust firmly into the bell, stopping it ¾ to full, the pitch is raised a half-tone. The "Echo," one of the most charming effects a horn player can produce, is made in this manner. The hand should close the bell as far out as the size of the player's hand will permit. The raise in pitch is counteracted by transposing the horn part one semi-tone lower than written. The Crash effect, one of sudden terrifying savagery is made in the same manner as the Echo except that the crash notes are played very loud and are marked fz (forzando). In addition to hand muting, French horn mutes may be purchased. Muting presents a difficult problem and should not be attempted until sufficient embouchure and experience have been acquired. The French horn requires a discriminating ear and a sensitive lip because it makes more use of the upper partials of the harmonic series which are more difficult to attain.

Because of the difficulties encountered in playing the French Horn, the double horn was introduced for the express purpose of solving some of these problems. The double horn is two horns built as one. There is only one mouthpiece and one bell but there are two complete sets of valve slides. Double French Horns are built in F with a rotary valve to throw the instrument into B flat. There are more open tones on a double horn and it also has a wider playing range. Its use makes both the lower and higher tones easier to play. Although the instrument is pitched in F and B flat, the player should consider it as an instrument of one pitch only. Do not change the names of the notes when the B flat horn is used. For example, if the 4th line D is played on the B flat horn, it should still be thought of as D and not as A.

With the increasing popularity of the double horn comes the question, where in the scale should the change to the B flat horn be made? Also why is the B flat horn more sure and can the change be made without its being noticed?

It would be difficult to establish a set of rules for the change to the B flat horn that would apply in all cases. It depends to quite an extent upon the ability of the student. Some experienced players do not make the change until the top line F. Others change at fourth line D, and still others at second line G sharp. The fingering of the two horns is the same from G sharp on the second line through C on the third space. It has been found that this is the best place to make the change, preferably on the G sharp. The higher the point at which the change is made, the more danger of a break in the tone. Extreme care must be taken by the player to make the change smoothly so as not to disturb the embouchure. The tone quality of the two horns at this point is near enough alike that by continual practice in matching tones they can be made so nearly equal in quality that only the best trained ear can detect when the change is made. And in many cases they have not been able to do so. Do not use the B flat horn from middle C to G on the second line because of faulty intonation and rough tone. It is safest to use the F horn at all times below G on the second line, although the B flat horn is used, particularly in loud passages where tone quality is not so important and in ranges where it is difficult to get volume and power on the F horn. Some prefer to use the B flat horn for the notes C sharp to F in the octave below middle C. The B flat horn is more sure because you are changing from the upper octaves of a larger horn to the playing range of a smaller horn.

The range of the French horn is nearly four octaves, and because of this, the question is often asked, Is it possible for one player to control this range? The impression seems to be pretty general that a player is either a high horn or a low horn player. This need not be the case. With the increased use of the double horn and the improved mouthpieces of today it is possible for any player of ability to control this range. In fact some players play more than a four octave range but the notes at either extreme are very difficult to play.

Fretted Instruments

By JACK LUNDIN and LETRITIA KANDLE

HISTORY ascribes the origin of Music in China to divine inspiration, and names the Emperors Fo-Hi (c. 3000 B.C.) and Hoang-Ti (c. 2600 B.C.) as pioneers in organization. Confucius (d. 478 B.C.) also was very interested in the progress of music and did much to aid it.

There are no exact dates of the origin of fretted instruments, but it is known that ancient China had many of them, namely the "moon-guitar," with four strings, and the "Pipa" with four strings. In ancient times India was represented with the Hindu Sitar and the Magoudi, a long necked four string guitar. Assyria, Egypt, and Persia also had fretted instruments which included the lute and the guitar.

One of the most important fretted instruments used by the Mohammedans of the Middle Ages was the "el'ud," a lute. It had a broad, pear-shaped body, rather short neck bent back at the head, and four or more strings. It was introduced into Europe by 800 A.D., was imitated in lutes (the word "lute" being derived from el'ud) and is still survived by the mandolin.

The Troubadours and Trouvers soon after 1100 A.D. used lutes and other stringed instruments extensively in their wanderings to lend a musical background to their songs, though the lute was yet not technically advanced.

Between 1500 A.D. and 1600 A.D. the 6 string lute attained much popularity in select society and music in madrigal style was written for it, which were named "Fancies." With the increased popularity of these instruments, an enlargement of the method of notation became necessary and this gave rise to the tablature system, which was adapted to various individual kinds of instruments. For instance, the Lute tablature, represented the strings of the instruments by lines on which letters designated the positions of the fingers for the required tones.

Fretted instruments also helped play an important role in the beginning of the opera of which the first was a monody or cantata patterned after the Greek tradition. It consisted of a declamatory melody with occasional accompanying chords played on the lute. The lute aided in the development of the harmonic style and contributed much to the awakening of a desire for true instrumental composition, but its mechanical limitations were such that gradually it was supplanted by the viol, though it continued in some vogue until the 18th century.

The modern derivations of the lute are the guitar and the mandolin, the latter resembling it in shape. The guitar was used in place of the lute and was extensively studied from about 1800, several varieties being used, such as the English (really It. "Citera") and the Spanish. The former showing its kinship with the lute by its wire strings (partly in unison pairs) and its pear-shaped body, and the latter having gut and silk (overspun) strings and a body shaped like an "8." The Spanish gradually became the favorite.

Fretted instruments are those containing metal strips, called frets, placed transversely across the fingerboard at regular intervals, which serve to mark off the various string lengths to produce given tones.

The Fretted instrument family is subdivided into 3 main classifications, namely the Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo. There are many kindred instruments contained in each group as shown by the following table—

Guitar Group
Spanish Guitar
Hawaiian Guitar
Harp Guitar
Banjo Guitar
Ukulele
Tenor Guitar
Lute (now rare)
Mandolin Group
Mandolin
Mandola
Mando cello
Mando bass
Mandolin banjo
Balalaika (Russian)
Tambaritza (Slovine)
Banjo Group
Tenor Banjo
Plectrum Banjo
Standard Banjo
Cello Banjo (rare)
Bass Banjo (rare)

The Banjo, commonly called the only native American instrument, originated in the South and credit is given to one Joel W. Sweeney of Appomatox, Va. for its original conception in the year of 1830. Its use through the 19th century was mostly as a minstrel instrument, having gained much favor with the American negro who found its quality of tone and timbre adaptable to his style of music.

The development of the instrument began in 1870 when frets were added and changes in neck and string lengths took place. Not until 1922 did the Tenor Banjo standardize the string length to 23 inches, and until the year of 1930, the Tenor Banjo was the popular instrument of the day. Almost every size dance orchestra employed a banjoist for rhythm style playing and many fine soloists helped in popularizing it by way of stage and radio.

Banjo bands up to 75 pieces and small mixed groups employing banjos have done much towards the development of banjo literature and technique. It is true that the style and tonal quality confines the library to a more definite classification but it may well be noted that the banjo has appeared on many occasions in the leading Symphony Orchestras of the country, when the orchestration has specifically called for it.

When we consider that up to 1930, over one million dollars a year was spent in the country for banjos, one can appreciate the tremendous popularity of this instrument. The fact that the banjo, as previously stated, is the only original American instrument should insure its permanency in American music.

The Mandolin was the first of the modern fret family to enjoy national popularity. It was used in small and large groups ranging from trios to 100 piece orchestras appearing socially and professionally on the concert stage. The mandolin, commonly called the violin of the group, has been a classic solo instrument. Its repertoire contains many fine concertos, overtures, operatic transcriptions and a comprehensive list of standard compositions. Each year, one may hear fine mandolin orchestra concerts in various cities throughout the United States.

It is the opinion of the profession that the Mandolin is a standard instrument of the fretted instrument group and will always have a definite place in the world of music.

The Spanish Guitar has been and probably will always be the outstanding fretted instrument of the group, not only in general popularity, but in its possibilities or repertoire and international acceptance as a standard instrument.

Guitar artists, who stand shoulder to shoulder with great virtuosi of the piano and violin, have been produced by Italy and Spain, where they consider it their national instrument. Terrega, Sor, Carcassi and many other fine writers have contributed compositions that have elevated the guitar to the plane of the concert stage as a solo instrument. Franz Schubert used the guitar extensively in assisting him in his composing and Nicolo Paganini, the great violin technician wrote concertos for guitar and violin. Paganini himself was an adept guitarist, claiming that its technical requisites helped his violin playing.

In America, beginning in 1930 the dance orchestra accepted the Spanish guitarist in their personnel as a rhythm player and accompanist for voice, supplanting the banjo and introduced a new technique of fingering and picking for the modern player.

This development has up to the present time not only circumvented the banjo's popularity but has enlarged the scope of repertoire for other fretted instrument groups (save banjo) and ensembles. Dance orchestras of every size usually have one or two guitarists and small ensembles are popular over radio and for night club entertainment. Sales in this country amount to nearly two million dollars per year for guitars alone over a period of five years (1935-1940).

The history of the Hawaiian guitar is purely legendary. A story is told that one day while basking in the sun on one of Hawaii's many beaches an unidentified person being too indolent to pick up the Spanish guitar at his feet, placed a pocket knife between his toes and slid it backwards and forwards on the strings. The pocket knife developed into what is now known as the steel. The modern technical use of the steel divides the strings by its placement on them into various lengths producing differences in pitch. The right hand employs three finger picks which are placed on the first and second fingers and the thumb, to pluck the strings.

As if in answer to a silent prayer Hawaii, Land of sunshine, love and music, gave to the world her six-string Hawaiian guitar, which in approximately a half century has found a place all over the United States and in foreign countries as well. It has been and still is used as a solo instrument and in ensembles. The six string Hawaiian guitar, because of its harmonic limitations, is gradually being developed into a multi-string instrument.

The most recent contribution towards fretted instrument progress has been the electrical amplification of guitars and banjos. The tones are picked up by built-in units and amplified thru a speaker, similar in construction to a radio chassis. The result of this action produces rich, vibrant sustained tones, greatly different in quality and timbre than the original non-electrical instruments. The popular orchestras and radio have used, and are using these electric instruments quite frequently for both solo work and effects. Many problems have confronted both manufacturer and player of electric instruments but it is the contention of both that a great future lies ahead in this field for all instruments and instrumentalists.

From the educational point of view, the students and players of guitars and banjos have developed a broader knowledge of both harmony and rhythm, for these instruments require the reading of both notes and chord symbols. Marking chord names is not a new idea in its entirety. Original marking of the old figured bass system dates back to 1580 and its origin is given to Galilei, father of the famed astronomer Galileo. It was later developed in Italy by Montiverde and is used in a revised form to this day in the harmony departments of music schools and conservatories. The figured bass system names a chord with the tonic as the basic tone, while the modern guitar symbol uses the root of the chord as its basic tone and name.

The fretted instrument field is one of the oldest in origin and the latest in development; but its possibilities indicate that it will demand ever increasing respect and regard in the world of music.

Repertoire For Fretted Instruments

By ANTHONY ANTONE

IN CONSIDERING the type of music adaptable to the various fretted instruments, it must be realized that each individual type of fretted instrument has its own advantages and stands in a class by itself.

All the fretted instruments are tuned differently. These different tunings and workmanship, or the manner in which they are made, tend to bring out the particular features of each one separately—particularly when music best suited for each instrument is played. What, then, is the music best suited for each of these instruments?

The repertoire for the mandolin, an old romantic instrument that has long been used and loved, may include the same repertoire as the violin, both modern and concert music, as these two instruments are tuned exactly the same.

One of the most popular instruments is the plectrum guitar. Possessing six strings, virtually as much music can be produced on this instrument as on the piano. Though used mostly with dance orchestras for popular music, many guitarists have adapted themselves to playing some of the most difficult concert music. But, of course, the plectrum guitarist could never equal the finger guitarist on some of the more intricate concert music—such as the music of Bach, Beethoven and others—as it is an impossibility for the plectrum guitarist to manipulate the plectrum itself in the same manner as the concert guitarist uses his fingers. However, the plectrum guitarist has other advantages which are just as impossible to the concert finger guitarist. Incidentally, the same tuning is used for both plectrum and concert guitars. These guitars are more commonly known as the Spanish guitar, since it was, according to some authorities, first seen and heard in Spain; however, others claim that the first guitar was made and played in Italy.

The Hawaiian guitar is a very old instrument of Hawaii. This instrument was so well liked by people visiting the Islands that it was brought to the states, where it soon gained such popularity that various large companies began experimenting with it. These experiments have resulted in an electrical instrument, opening up wide possibilities for use with orchestras.

Originally, only the A Major tuning was used, but of late years instrumentalists have devised many new tunings, and these tunings have helped considerably in popularizing the instrument. There are now the A Major, A 7, E 7, and other tunings too numerous to mention. These new tunings have helped produce more possibilities for modern dance orchestral work, and also to produce new effects. For instance, in the higher positions, train effects can be produced. But the best sounding of all effects is the harmonics. Of course, harmonics can also be obtained on practically all the fretted instruments, but not with the same result as on the Hawaiian guitar.

In early years, this instrument was always called the Hawaiian guitar, but after becoming electrified and up to the present time, it is more commonly known as the electric steel guitar.

Though many Hawaiian or electric steel guitarists apply very effectively many compositions and popular tunes that require much speedy shifting with the steel, none of this material is quite so effective to hear as either the slow or moderate compositions or popular melodies. These permit the player to include many chord changes and harmonics besides, of course, the melody.

The father of all banjos is the American banjo, which has five strings and is played with the fingers. The music best suited for this instrument is extremely soft, sweet music in slow or moderate tempo. For example, "Songs of the South" are included in the repertoire of the American banjo, and others of this type. However, in the hands of a capable artist, many technical compositions may also be applied to this instrument. In the banjo family, this instrument is considered the foremost member, insofar as solo playing is concerned. However, the tenor banjo, a relatively young member of the fretted instrument family having four strings and played with a plectrum, is really the most popular, since it is better suited for orchestra and particularly string ensembles. Compositions requiring exacting technique are more adaptable to this instrument.

Music is the universal heritage. Somewhere in the flowerdotted fields between Brahms and "The Maiden's Prayer" there is room for all of us to ramble.

—George Ade.

The Harp

By CARLOS SALZEDO

AT THE outset, it seems advisable to explain and dispel a state of confusion which exists regarding the musical status of the harp. In general, the public fails to differentiate the historic origin of that instrument from its musical evolution. This misconception is caused in part by the numerous references made to the "harp" in the Bible and other ancient books; also because museums the world over are displaying harps of the various past ages. Without belittling the historic interest and the importance of these landmarks, one must admit, however, that they have no bearing with "music."

At the beginning of the twentieth century, the harp, musically considered, was still in its infancy. It could be compared to a pipe organ with only five or six stops. This was due to mechanical and sonorous limitations of the instruments built previously. As a matter of information, let us recall that at the beginning of the nineteenth century the harp could be played in only a few keys; nothing beyond four sharps and three flats. This indicates one of the reasons why composers of that period were not attracted towards writing for such a limited instrument. It was in 1811 that the famous French piano maker, Sebastien Erard, remedied this deficiency by inventing the double pedal action, thus making it possible to play the harp in every key. However, the harp of the nineteenth century was an instrument of little carrying power; it bore the same relation to a concert grand harp of today as the harpsichord of the past bears to a modern concert grand piano. This lack of sonorous efficiency is another reason why composers of the past century did not write for the harp. It is true that in this time a great amount of music was written for the harp — by harpists. But what music! Musical sensibility forbids comment.

Wagner and Berlioz, those two great masters of the orchestra, have made much use of the harp in their orchestral scores but not in a manner capable of bringing out and establishing the real character of the instrument. It took the genius of a Debussy to reveal the true utterance of the harp and determine its function. Debussy's vision, however, was hampered by the fact that his experiments were made with the French harps. These lovely instruments cannot be compared to the sonorous splendor of the concert grand harp made today in America by Lyon & Healy.

Composition for the harp proved more and more absorbing as it revealed the unexplored possibilities of this instrument. It appeared that the harp could be made to produce numerous tone-colors and effects never before considered possible. These tone-colors and effects, though by no means exhausted, number at present more than thirty-five.

Too few musicians have, as yet, had the opportunity of grasping the nature of the harp. Not even its fundamental voice is understood. It has often been "blamed" for not possessing qualities that belong properly to other instruments. It lacks, pianists say, a "real staccato" and a "real legato." True. But one does not hear the piano criticized for not being able to render the numerous effects characteristic of the harp, or for being unable to produce the pizziccato of the string instruments!

There is this paradox: the less people know about the harp, the more they tend to express authoritative opinions of its potentialities! A statement generally made by newspaper reviewers who hear the harp is that "the harp is the most ancient of musical instruments." While this is true historically speaking, it is, musically, a fallacy; for the harp of the Jews, Egyptians, Greeks

Ask for . . .

KAPLAN QUALITY STRINGS

for Violin - Viola - 'Cello - 'Bass and Harp

- Miracle Wound Plastic Wound Strings U. S. Pat. No. 2,205,144
- Maestro
- Tru-Strand
- Red-O-Ray
- Tone Craft
- Supremo

The name KAPLAN has been identified with musical strings of outstanding quality since 1907. Kaplan Strings have established a standard of perfection by which other strings are judged.

Kaplan Brands are identified by an individual name tag on each string, and there is a grade to meet the requirements of the artist, professional musician, teacher or student.

Foremost in tone quality, long life, moisture and perspiration proofing, smoothness and accuracy, Kaplan Strings are a wise choice from every standpoint.

Ask for Kaplan Strings by name at your dealers.

An interesting booklet entitled "Fiddlestrings" will be mailed to you gratis on request. Address Dept. W.

KAPLAN MUSICAL STRING CO. South Norwalk, Conn., U.S.A.

and Irish, bears as much relation to the harp of 1940 as an ox—historically the oldest means of transportation—to an airplane, scientifically the most modern instrument of transportation. The statement quoted above is often followed by the remark that "the harp is a very limited musical instrument." Another fallacy! There will be less talk of these so-called "limitations" when people become adequately informed concerning the most modern aspects of the instrument.

In the last quarter of a century the harp has undergone a complete transformation. Up to that time a harp player was somehow an object of musical disgrace in the family of musical instrumentalists. This unfortunate condition was due mainly to the unworthy class of music that harpists had to contend with during their musical upbringing and afterward, while pianists always have had the privilege to evolve through music written by great composers.

Today, harpists have nothing to envy from their fellow musicians. They have a repertoire written by such great musicians as Debussy, Ravel, Widor, Pierne, Caplet, Wagenaar and others. Besides, harpists have now all the opportunities to become thoroughly initiated into the inner meaning of their instrument and its inexhaustible resources.

Leading musicians, educators, and concert organizers, aware of the tremendous evolution of the harp, have shown their eagerness to cooperate to the civic as well as artistic development of that instrument. Harp departments have been successfully instituted in universities, colleges, high schools, and, of course, in music schools and conservatories.

In the orchestral field, the "unmusical" harpists of yesteryear have been gradually replaced by modern harpists—in major orchestras as well as in symphonic organizations of smaller caliber.

As a solo instrument, the harp now enjoys a place of honor. Not only do harpists appear on all important music concert courses, as well as in remote music centers, but one can frequently see harpists listed among other instrumentalists as soloist with symphony orchestras.

A fact worthwhile mentioning is that most of our leading harpists, in the orchestra, in the teaching world and the concert field, are relatively younger than other instrumentalists. They seem to have absorbed and assimilated the extent of their artistic responsibility at an earlier age than their fellow musicians.

The wealth and variety of musical color and effects of the contemporary harp has induced leading composers of our times to enrich music literature with works for harp solo, harp as a basis for chamber music, and harp with accompaniment of orchestra. This literature includes works no less significant and musically important than those written for the other concert instruments. In short, our repertoire, as it now stands, may be said to present the harp as a true medium of the present age.

The Harpsichord

By ALICE EHLERS

WE live in an age which tries to investigate fully the things of the past, and to gain a clear insight into the course of art. (I avoid the word "development" intentionally.) We try to give the work of art its proper atmosphere and we endeavor to reproduce the musical works through their proper medium and make them sound as they did in the time when they were composed.

These experiments, which have been taken up independently in different parts of the world, are brought about by the fact that we always find whenever music of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Century is performed, that these works are deprived of much of their meaning, if played on modern instruments. This movement was, in the beginning, started by musical historians, but today even the performing musician is affected by these ideas.

Everywhere we witness these tendencies to revive old music. All types of means were used to achieve this; either by enlarging orchestras and choruses, or by arrangements. But all these experiments were leading farther and farther away from the original idea of the work.

After this, experiments were carried out in the opposite direction. One tried to find the way back to the old music by performing it on old instruments. Thus the performance assumed more and more the character of chamber music. The tendency changed from that of increasing the volume to that of striving to penetrate into the innermost nature of the musical piece and to catch its contemporary spirit. The performing musician of today tries to give to these works their proper atmosphere, looking upon them in an objective way.

We all grew up under the influence of German Romanticism. Our conception of the music of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries was influenced by the musical and aesthetic ideas of a later period. Only in the last years have we realized that the inner principle of the old music could never be reconciled with the ideas of this later period.

Now the problem arose; shall we reproduce the works of the centuries in which music attained one of its greatest heights, by modern means, or on the old contemporary instruments? The work of the composer, after all, finds its realization in sound, and the sound depends upon the possibilities of the instrument (which means that the work and its reproduction are correlated).

The music of that period corresponded to the instruments then in use, just as music does to modern instruments. Undoubtedly it would be of advantage for every musician to be acquainted with the original instruments. The violin has not experienced any fundamental change, which is not true of the keyboard instruments. But if a violinist, for instance, would try to play with an old bow of the period of Corelli or Bach, he would get an entirely different idea of phrasing.

If this is the case, how interesting it should be for the pianist to know something about such an entirely different instrument as the harpsichord. The harpsichord, as well as the organ, in spite of being keyboard instruments, have nothing in common with our piano. Organ music sometimes is played on the piano in a transcription. But how many realize that it is also a transcription to play the music of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries on the pianoforte? This does not, of course, imply that all pianists should play the music of the past on the harpsichord; but at least they should be able to understand something about it, about the tone-quality and the possibilities of the instrument for which these works were originally written—which is rarely the case. "A comparison between the Harpsichord and the Pianoforte presents difficulties on account of the great differences which exist between these two types of instruments. It is indeed not easy to understand why the former was discarded in favor of the latter, seeing that the Pianoforte can no more replace the Harpsichord than the Harpsichord can replace the Pianoforte."

The harpsichord was the most important of the keyboard instruments before the invention of the pianoforte, its name being derived from the Italian "Arpicordo." It employs a plectrum-action principle, producing precise tones, there being no way of prolonging them. The harpsichord should not be confused with the clavichord, its contemporary, which produced a tone that was more responsive to the touch. It is believed that the harpsichord was invented in the latter part of the Fourteenth Century, undergoing several changes such as the addition of a second keyboard, unison strings, octave strings, devices for shifting the keyboard for transposing purposes, etc.

During the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries, the harpsichord was employed in the orchestra, the conductor usually playing it and directing at the same time. Music literature for the harpsichord is extensive and highly valuable, including all Rameau, Scarlatti, Handel, Couperin, and most of Bach's keyboard compositions. With the turn of the Twentieth century, there has been a remarkable revival of interest in the harpsichord, and it is now often heard in concert halls in the performance and interpretation of music composed for it and best expressed by that instrument.

The Marimba

By CLAIR OMAR MUSSER

MARIMBA, that romantic sounding word which rarely (if at all) is to be found in the dictionary or encyclopedia, is the name of a musical instrument whose prominence in the music world is not to be denied. Its music is of a rare and beautiful sonority, capable of awakening atavistic emotions with a subtlety where it makes an intimate appeal to the intelligence and emotions of the man of today.

Despite the fact that the marimba and its analogues date back more than 3000 years B.C., and of its prominence of being the national musical instrument of Central and South America, for centuries its historical story has been sadly neglected. This case is especially to be lamented when consideration is duly given the survey made in 1934 wherein it was disclosed that more than 60,000 marimbas were in use in the United States alone—that an orchestra of 100 marimbas earned the exclusive Gold Medal at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933, playing Wagner, Bizet and other master works—and the historic tour of Europe and America of the 100 piece Marimba Symphony Orchestra in 1935, when Paris and New York were among those cities to laud the art of this unprecedented orchestra in the playing of Franck, Tschaikowsky, Mozart, Wagner and others. Here then is the romantic expose of the story of the marimba.

The story of the Marimba is the story of a tree—a very special tree—which grows abundantly in the forests of Central America. This is the genera Dalbergia and Machaerium, a fabaceous tree (speci hormingo) commonly called tropical rosewood (Eng.) which, when fashioned into keyboards for the Marimba, produces a subtle mellow musical tone greatly superior to the woods found in other parts of the world.

The Marimba has several hundred analogues with different classifications in various countries, but the theoretical musical principle is the same. The historical Italian instrument is the "organ di legno." The ancient German instruments of the Bards are the glockenspiel and Stroh fiddle. In Africa it was the marimba, Java and Bali the perlambung, Mexico and South America the marimba.

The North American forerunner of the marimba was the xylophone, which name is taken from the Greek — xylos (wood) and phono (sound).

The records of Anthenaeus show that both the Greeks and barbarians were taught by refugees from Egypt and that the Alexandrians were most scientific musicians. Instruments in use among the Egyptians were the xebouni, harp, sistrum and the percussive darabooka. Of especial importance were the ranat and Vorangi marimbas, specimens which have been recovered in the sculptures and tombs near the Pyramids of Gizeh, which were built 3700 B.C. during the IV or Pyramid Dynasty.

Altered forms of the Vorangi (marimba) were used by musicians during the reign of Ravana of Ceylon nearly 5000 years B.C. Ravana was a great musician himself and redesigned an instrument of the Vina family which later was named the Ravanastron.

At religious festivals among the Hebrews great number of singers and players upon instruments were employed. According to Josephus, at the Temple dedications more than 40,000 musicians were present.

The Assyrians used music for liturgical purposes in social and private life. At Nineveh and Babylon were found representations of bearded musicians playing upon analogues of the marimba (ranat) family.

In the books of Job and Genesis there may be found reference to the organ (ugab) which name applied in no way to the stately instruments of today, but instead referred to the "fixed tone" instruments which included the marimba (ranat) family as the "organ di legno" (It.) of today.

The marimba is indigenous to Guatemala and was greatly developed by the Indians. From the lips of native marimbists I have the story of the evolution of their marimba. The Conquistadores arrived centuries ago to find the Indian playing on a small set of wooden bars. This was the embryonic marimba, containing barely an octave of musical tones. This musical amoeba was soon given legs and additional keys to make up a full scale of tones.

Its early development incorporated the use of elongated gourds which were used as tone resonators. The Mexican and Central American artisans were early exponents in the development of ligneous tone chambers, thus characterizing an individuality of tone perfection.

While the Central America marimba is the forerunner of the present day concert instrument of the U.S.A., it is of importance to trace the instrument of the Chinese, the Hindus, and the Greeks a little more clearly.

In the sixth century B.C., Phythagoras, during his scientific investigations of sound phenomena, demonstrated the laws of beat frequency difference on analogues of the marimba. His researches were founded upon data derived from the Egyptians. The Egyptian priests, who were the chief people of the Hamitic branch of the Caucasian race, sanctioned and cultivated the art of music.

In China there are many styles of marimba analogues to the "chen koto ranat" of Burma and Siam. These instruments incorporate the Chinese pentatonic scale and are widely spread throughout the Indian archipelago, in Siam and Burma, and among the hill tribes of India.

In South Africa we find the Zulu marimba with a lesser known analogue, the izambilo. These instruments were extensively made by the Mindonga tribes, whose country marches with the Portuguese settlements of Inhambane on the East Coast. The wood from which these keyboard bars are made is called intzari.

The resonators are the shell of a fruit known as strychnos m'kenii or the Kafir orange. The ball heads of the playing mallets are made of native rubber. Some of these marimbas are made to be played either resting upon the ground or suspended from the performer's neck by a cord. The cords used are from the intestines of the aulacodus or cane rats.

The marimba is traceable therefore from the Cretes, the Egyptians, the Chinese, the Javanese, the Africans, to Central and South America.

When the instrument first migrated to Central America it was called balak, then balafon, balafo, balamgy and then maramba—taken from the African name, Marambi. The marimba was extensively developed in Admolonga, Republic of Guatemala at the Quetzalenango Department. The musical register was greatly enlarged at San Bartolome de las Cases, Chipias, Mexico and such artisans as Corazon Borras and David Gomez are directly responsible for the advancement and good musical qualities of the Central American marimba.

The latter part of the nineteenth century found soloists and ensembles of Mexican and Guatemalian marimbists visiting the United States, and a memorable exposition of this fascinating music was rendered at the San Francisco World's Fair in 1915.

However, until 1930 the xylophone was the popular percussive musical instrument of the United States due to its exposition on the vaudeville stage as a musical feature. The glamor of this crisp toned instrument, played with hard headed mallets, together with the dexterous feats of the performer was an unfailing attraction for applause. Overtures including such gems as William Tell, Poet and Peasant, Raymond, and others, were coarsely rendered with little musical expression and usually with the accompaniment of a blaring orchestra.

Radio and the public's education to good music has changed this situation. The marimba with its mellow and rich tone was destined to replace these coarse toned instruments, and today it is the favorite, with its popularity growing steadily.

Throughout the recorded course of human history investigations into the nature and properties of its distinctive musical sounds have occupied the attention of philosophers and scientists. Through the genius of twentieth century acousticians and musical instrument artisans, the keys of the modern marimba keyboard are tuned with an unprecedented precision. Not only are the fundamental tones calibrated and tuned, but the major overtones (or partials) are regulated and tuned to the temperament ratio of the octave, thereby creating a consonance of sound which is truly harmonious.

There have been several virtuosi who have attained fame and musical distinction with the marimba as their chosen instrument. Famous among these is the name of Michael Joseph Gusikov, a Polish musical genius, who was born in Mogilev, Shklova in 1809. He forsook the flute in early years for the marimba and made many successful tours in Europe, playing transcriptions and his own compositions. The great masters, Chopin and Liszt, lauded the genius of Gusikov.

Felix Mendelssohn was especially enthusiastic about the work of this dextrous artist and wrote for him a Paganini transcription, playing the piano accompaniment during a concert in Berlin in 1830.

Moderns featuring the marimba on the concert stage include Yoichi Hiraoka of New York City, and Burton Lynn Jackson of Chicago.

In a recent recital in Town Hall, New York City, Hiraoka featured works by Handel, Beethoven, Haydn, Bach, Mozart and Rameau. Critic Taubman of the New York Times lauded the recital in glowing terms.

Jackson, in a late 1940 recital in Chicago, featured Beethoven, Paganini, Mendelssohn and Chopin. His rendition of the E flat Beethoven (Emperor) Concerto set a musical precedent, and it is through the work of such artists as these that the marimba is destined to hold its lofty place in the musical world of the future.

The Oboe

By FLORIAN MUELLER

THE oboe is a double reed instrument of conical bore. To the same family belong the oboe, English horn, oboe d'amore, oboe de caccia, bassoon, and contra-bassoon. These instruments differ in construction only as to length and the width of the reed used.

The term double reed is self-explanatory. The manufacture of a double reed involves two processes. First, two blades of frejus cane of equal dimensions are bound together. Second, the two blades are scraped thin toward the tip of the reed. When blown through, both blades of the reed are in equal vibration. Physically the tones of the double reed group are extremely difficult to analyze because of the great number of upper partials which are present.

The tone quality of the oboe has been described in many ways by poets. To the one, it is plaintive and melancholy; to the other, it is pastoral; to the next, it is strident and harsh; to still others it is thin and reedy. The modern oboe can be any one or all of these at the will of the player because the instrument has been improved and refined throughout the ages.

The history of the oboe may be traced to the beginning of the written word, for it is the oldest of all reed instruments. It has come down to us without any radical changes of form through the centuries. Ancient examples are all of conical bore which vary only in length and width at the bell.

The oboe originated in India. A description of the "otou" (the oldest oboe known) is given in Sanskrit documents of the twelfth to the seventh century B. C. The "otou" is still used in India today for certain ritualistic dances. Every Asiatic people knows some form of oboe or double reed instrument.

All examples of Greek and Roman wind instruments have been lost, but from the descriptions given by writers of the period we know that the "auloi" of the Greeks and the "tibiae" of the Romans were types of oboes.

To our ears, these instruments would probably sound like bag pipes. The oboist of today places the reed directly into his mouth with both lips covering the teeth. Some ancient instruments were played through the nose, some with the reed enclosed in a mouthpiece, and some with the reed in the mouth as with the present day oboe.

During the middle ages various types of oboes came into use by travelling musicians. These were called brummers or pommers. Finally in France the term "hautbois" meaning high-wood came to denote the oboe as it is known today. In that ancient day the oboe was simply a conical tube having a reed at one end with tone holes to be covered by the fingers. By the end of the 17th century two keys had been added to produce certain chromatic tones; in 1727, Gerard Hoffman of Rastenberg introduced two more keys to facilitate technical passages. Since then through the researches of Sellner, Barret, Triebert, and Loree, the oboe has a complete chromatic scale with all trills possible. The scale extends from B flat below middle C to B flat in the third octave above middle C. However the practical range is from B flat below middle C to F in the third octave above middle C. The notes above F in the third octave above middle C are too unsure of execution to be of any value. Music for the oboe is written in C or in the natural scale, as for the violin.

Of the many types and sizes of oboes used in the middle ages only three have survived: the oboe, the English horn or Alto oboe, and the oboe d'amore. The bass oboes have taken to forms of the bassoon family. The English horn and oboe d'amore have undergone the same mechanical changes as the oboe proper; however, the English horn is written in F and the oboe d'amore in A. The Heckelphon or Baryton oboe is a recent addition to the oboe group. It is pitched one octave lower than the oboe proper. This instrument is not used to any great extent by composers.

The oboe was first introduced into the orchestra in an opera named Pomone by Cambert which was given at Paris in 1671. Since then all composers have used the oboe freely. In the time of Handel the orchestra contained as many oboes as violins. Bach employed the instrument as obbligato and also in Tutti. The Mass in B minor has one aria with oboe obbligato and one with two oboes obbligato. In the time of Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven two oboes were used in the standard orchestra of that day. The Allegretto of Haydn's Military Symphony has an extended solo passage for a solo oboe as do many of Mozart's symphonies. These passages just mentioned use the oboe merely as a tone color in the framework of orchestral sonority. Beethoven, on the other hand, in his most famous oboe passages such as the one in the Funeral March of the third symphony and the famous cadenza in the first movement of the fifth symphony, employed the instrument to obtain effects of the utmost poignancy. In the sixth symphony the oboe represents the call of a quail. Bach's Christmas oratorio contains a Pastorale for two oboes and two English horns soli.

The romantic composers used the oboe in many ways. Brahms and Wagner wrote not only "long line" solos but intricate pasages of a light nature. Brahms' first symphony contains oboe solo parts in which the instrument uses practically its entire compass in the space of six measures. Wagner's Waldweben makes the oboe sing like a bird. Tschaikowsky entrusts the oboe with some of his most languishing melodies such as the opening theme of the second movement of his fourth symphony, yet in tutti parts the oboe is used to reinforce the trumpets and horns.

Modern writers in some cases disregard the technical difficulties of the instrument. They will write passages which would tax the ingenuity of a flutist or a violinist. Richard Strauss' music for the oboe is always playable and grateful, but some composers have written oboe parts which are almost impossible of execution. Sibelius is partial not only to the lush tones of the middle register, but also to the more strident notes of the extreme low register. Strawinsky's keen sense of the possibilities of the oboe have led him to write not only lyric solos, but some which are purposely grotesque as in Petruschka, and some involving the extreme high register as in Jeu de Carte. The day when an oboist needed only a good tone is gone; nowadays he must not only have a beautiful tone but a keen knowledge of music in all its phases, and a tremendous technique as well.

The English horn was not given prominence in the orchestra by the older masters. Nowadays the parts which Bach wrote for the oboe de coccia or hunting oboe are played on the English horn.

Composers of the earlier days considered the instrument an exotic flower to be used for the particular effects only. The overture to William Tell has a long solo for the English horn, but the instrument is not used throughout the rest of the opera. This is true also of Berlioz' overture Le Carneval Romain and Dvorak's symphony From the New World, both of which contain beautiful solos for the English horn. It remained for Cesar Franck to use the English horn not only for long orchestral solos, but as a component part of the symphony orchestra. For this he was castigated not by foreign musicians but by his own countrymen. Wagner, in his later operas, uses the English horn extensively.

The oboe d'amore is used in Strauss' Sinfonia Domestica and in Ravel's Bolero.

Here follows a partial list of solos and chamber music for the oboe and various combinations: Mozart, Quartet for oboe, violin, viola, and cello; Quintet for oboe, clarinet, bassoon, horn, and piano; and Solo concerto for oboe. Haydn, Solo concerto for oboe. Handel, Three sonatas for oboe and clavier; Concerto grosso in B flat; and Concerto grosso in G. Beethoven, Trio for two oboes and English horn; Trio for two oboes and English horn on aria by Mozart "Reich min die Hand" (Variations); and Quintet for oboe, clarinet, bassoon, horn and piano. David Stanley, Sonata for oboe and piano. Schumann, Three romances for oboe. D'Indy, Variations on a French Air. De Grandval, Concerto for oboe. Teleman, Sonata for oboe. Arnola Bax, Quartet for oboe, violin, viola and cello. Loeffler, Trio for oboe, viola and harp, and many lighter pieces by various composers.

Some standard teaching material for the above is as follows: Barret, A Complete Method for Oboe. Sellver, Etudes Progressives; 12 Duets; and Etudes. Bruyant, Grand Etudes. Brod, Complete Method. Luft, Etudes. Gillet, G., Etudes. Loyon, Etudes. Gillet, E., Scale and Staccato Studies. Ferling, 48 Preludes and Studies; and Etudes.

History Of The Organ

By GEORGE C. WHITE*

THERE is probably no musical instrument with as extensive and dramatic a history as the organ.

As late as the 18th century the organ was considered by the Puritans as a noise making device of the Devil and in England in the 17th century Oliver Cromwell and his followers destroyed many organs along with all the music pertaining to the instrument.

Back in about 200 B.C. Ctesibius is credited with building probably the first organ making use of hydraulic water pressure with a supply of wind. It is said that the ancient Romans called the instrument a Hydraulous since the air was forced into the pipes by means of water. The Romans seemed to have great admiration for it because it was the loudest instrument.

Records show that Pope Vitalian recommended an organ for churches to assist in improving congregational singing during the 7th century. There is a story that the Caliph Haroun Alraschid sent an organ, built by the Arabs, to Charlemagne in the 9th century.

The name Bumbulum was applied to an organ in England during the 10th century, and it is thought the instrument in those days was principally noteworthy because of its loudness rather than as a musical instrument.

Those ancient organs were operated by pulling or pushing slides for the release of air into the large pipes; there were no keys and no pedals.

About the 12th century the first key boards came into use for the organ and the keys were from 5" to 9" wide and approximately ten in number. Strength was the first requisite of the organist in those days, for he had to literally strike these enormous keys to play. Thus he was known as an "Organ Beater." Besides the player it took usually about ten men to operate the mechanism to furnish the wind for those early instruments. Later on, probably just before the 15th century, pedal-keys were added to the playing control and the first of these had to be stood upon to be operated.

Through the centuries this instrument developed until the early "tracker" type action organ was evolved which was really the forerunner of the modern organ. It was called the "tracker" type because long strips of wood ran from the keys to valves under the pipes to operate its action and these strips were known as "trackers."

In the early 19th century the "tracker" type gave way to the "tubular pneumatic" organ which substituted long lead tubes from key-board to pipe valves and operated the organ by air. There were many famous organs of this type built during those years.

Toward the end of the 19th century after many experiments came the "electro-pneumatic" type and it is the type of action used today in a more improved and further developed form.

Through the years improvement followed improvement in the mechanism operating the organ, in the system of control at the key-board, and in the tonal development. Today the large organ possesses a really grand ensemble, a variety of tonal voices, some distinctly its own, others perfectly imitative of various orchestral counter-parts such as French Horns, English Horns, Flutes, and others, and a refinement of tone undreamed of in the earlier instruments.

Not the least among the improvements in the modern organ is the expression control. While the earlier instruments had no expression (could never be made soft or loud at will) the modern organ is most expressive and the utmost in tonal shading of each stop or the complete organ can be effected.

The modern organ depends upon a wide variety of the arts and sciences. Electricity, metallurgy, pneumatics, magnetism, mechanics, acoustics, and countless other physical laws have all contributed to organ craftsmanship. It is operated by electricity which controls the wind used to operate the valves and supply wind to the pipes. The organist at the key-board or console presses a key which makes an electric contact and energizes an electromagnet in the organ which in turn opens a valve and permits the air to enter the pipe and cause it to speak. With this modern type of action the results are instantaneous and thus there is an unbelievably quick response in the speech of the pipes to the organist's touch. Large enclosed fans operated by electric motors usually placed in basements furnish the wind supply.

There is a vast difference between the various organs, for most of them are built especially for the particular auditorium in which they are to be placed. Thus some are large with many ranks of pipes or stops, while others are considerably smaller both in physical size and in tonal variety or stops.

The tonal character of organs also depends upon the particular instrument because those ranks of pipes are selected that will best serve the particular purpose in mind. For instance the organ for the broadcasting studio or for the theatre is entirely different in tonal personality than the one built for the accompaniment of a service in the church.

The United States has been most fortunate in having a number of organ building firms that have achieved international reputations for their fine work and for their contributions to the art of organ building. Among these are the Aeolian-Skinner Co., of Boston; the Moeller Co., Hagerstown, Md; Kimball Co., Chicago; Ernest Skinner, Methuen, Mass; The Kilgen Organ Co., St. Louis. They have all built many organs, some of which have achieved international fame.

The last named company, however, has probably the most romantic history, for its beginnings may be traced as far back as 1640 in Europe and 1851 in the United States. Through this period the same Kilgen Family has been building organs and today a member of the 7th generation, Mr. Eugene Kilgen, heads this company.

While there are a great many fine modern organs in the world, some of them are of such outstanding artistry that failing to mention them in any article on organs would be derelict. Among them are the famous instruments in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York; St. Bartholomew's Church, New York; St. Thomas' Church, New York; Carnegie Hall, New York; the Chapel at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point; St. Ignatius Church, and the Downtown Methodist Temple in Chicago; St. Francis Xavier Church and Third Baptist Church in St. Louis; the Episcopal Cathedral, San Francisco; the Shrine of the Little Flower, Royal Oak, Mich.; Chapel at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; St. Michael's Monastery in Brooklyn. There are others with such outstanding reputations; so that a really huge list of fine organs testifies to the ability of American Organ builders.

Historian of the Philharmonic Society of St. Louis.*

The Organ Today

By PIETRO YON

EVER since the dawn of Christianity, the organ and religious worship have been inseparable and much of organ literature is definitely based on liturgical forms. The organ affords the player two great opportunities; in church for sublime effects and religious sanctity; in concert for display of a distinctive art wholly peculiar to itself.

The contrast between the complex instruments of today and the crude primitive organ is as wide as that between the lowest forms of life and a fully-developed organism. Some may look upon the organ as a mechanical apparatus emitting dull, monotonous sounds, while others simply lack appreciation and knowledge of its beauties, grandeur and versatility. They do not realize its vast capacities when compared with the symphony orchestra which it surpasses in dynamic range and in infinite variety of musical tones. Doubtless, the organ has cradled more distinguished musicians than all other instruments combined. Beyond that, it offers unlimited scope for tone color. Although the organist has no direct control over tone quality, as do the pianist and violinist, he secures contrasts by tone mixtures through the manipulation of stops. Thus, a Bach prelude and fugue, when played on the organ, is far more effective than on the piano or when orchestrally arranged.

There was a time when the organ served merely as an accessory to church services. This was followed by an era of few recitals, mostly in church edifices or in convention auditoriums. Then, the movies opened the way to utilize the instrument as an accompaniment to silent pictures. And now it has become popular in the legitimate concert field through the introduction of the paid admission plan. To this development the writer has contributed, being the first to play the organ concerts in New York's Mendelssohn and Aeolian Halls and later in Town and Carnegie Halls; in 1934-1935 I appeared as soloist in symphony and oratorio concerts with the New York Philharmonic Symphony under Toscanini, featuring a series of all-Bach programs, as well as Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis."

When I first advocated paid admissions and strictly concert programs, I felt that the function of the organ was manifold—an instrument for the church, the movies and concerts. At that time it was the concert field in which it had made the least advance and had been most neglected. Between beautiful church music and popular vaudeville music, there was and still is a wealth of literature for the organ which has been very little drawn upon. Today, the function of the organ is even wider, embracing radio, residences, concert halls, schools, theatres and hotels. The movies, of course, have been practically eliminated since the inception of talking pictures and the use of large symphony orchestras in some motion picture palaces.

Currently, the organ recital is a recognized form of concert entertainment and the literature of the instrument has been brought forward to a point where programs have been constructed so as to embrace works written primarily for the organ, purely intellectual in contrast to the purely spiritual music of the church.

There has been a seeming prejudice against a concert organist appearing as soloist on a symphony program. There is little reason why this prejudice should not be broken down. Any disciple of the grand console who has made an art of his playing has a right to be accorded opportunities to reveal to symphony audiences the wealth of literature for organ and orchestra in which the former is used as a solo instrument, not merely employed to build up a climax for a symphonic or choral composition.

Because I feel that the organ is an instrument with an identity of its own —not a condensed symphony or a glorified piano—I have stressed the playing of only original works, barring transcriptions. Programs should always be diversified and indicate a fine distinction between compositions suitable for recital and those suitable for church. I am opposed to organists playing trivial music in church and disapprove performing too much church music in the concert hall.

Critical reports indicate that classic organ music is appreciated more and more each year. The crux of the player's art is to carry the message of the organ in a manner that people can understand and enjoy. This has been attested not only by the profession but by the country at large.

It would be well if organists would increase their knowledge of the orchestra and orchestration, in order that they might have a more comprehensive view of the registration of big compositions by modern and old composers. Nevertheless, they should retain their appreciation of and their feeling for the ancient order; otherwise, playing becomes an imitation of the orchestra, instead of a preservation of the real organ tones which are the backbone of the instrument.

Today, one finds many fine organs installed in churches as well as in non-ecclesiastical buildings. Truly, our American organs are the best in the world. As a matter of fact, there are so many magnificent ones in concert halls, that there is no reason for further neglect of organ concertos in symphony concerts.

During my incumbency as musical director of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, I have adhered to a firm policy of providing appropriate music for each specific occasion—that for the service in accord with the prescribed formulae; that for other events in accord with individual needs.

It was Haydn who said that "Those who would make others feel, must feel themselves." This truism applies to all communicative efforts. If we would make others think, know, produce and perform, we must also think, know, produce and perform. The thought behind this statement of Haydn's might well be taken to heart by followers of the organ—particularly by those who would impart their knowledge to others. Too often the effect of the organ has been unappreciated because of the unwise selection of music for the particular occasion and audience.

The pupil of the organ should find it a delightfully inspiring work, combining the mastering of a great instrument and the interpretation of its literature. The organ is truly the instrument which heralds man's coming and his going. It sounds his birth, tempos his wedding, and solemnizes his death.

Percussion Instruments

Drumming, Then and Now

By ROY C. KNAPP

ALTHOUGH percussion instruments of all types can be definitely traced to remotest antiquity, this class of instrument was not governed by any methods of playing until introduced into the British Army where, as early as 1515, there are records of drum corps used with marching units. With customary army thoroughness, a set system of sticking was worked out and became the rudiments of drumming.

The first taste of this military drumming was had in America about 1717 when a British Army unit was stationed at Annapolis, Maryland. An integral part of this unit was a musical group composed of drums, bugles, and fifes. During the War of Independence, the Continental Army was quick to adopt this method of drumming, and in 1779, the "Duty" for drummers was authorized by Congress. This "Duty" consisted of beating out signals such as Reveille, Tattoo, Parley and the numerous signals used in army camp routine.

It was nearly a century later that, during the Civil War, drumming became standardized as concerns the rudiments. During that war, boys ranging from twelve to sixteen years of age were enrolled as drummer boys. Too young for fighting, these boys were taught, by rote, the rudiments of drumming. Not being able to read music, these lads were taught by use of names; hence the coined words, "Paradiddle," "Flamadiddle," "Rat-a-macue," and the long or "Daddy-Mammy" roll. The long roll and other rudiments are still taught in essentially the same manner. To produce the roll, the boys were taught to strike two strokes with the left stick saying the word "Dad-dy" and then two strokes with the right stick saying the word "Mam-my" starting very slowly and evenly and gradually increasing the speed until the roll was very rapid or "closed."

Finally in 1869 the rudiments, twenty-six in all, were scored and adopted by the U. S. Army and are still considered today the standard twenty-six rudiments of drumming. Thus, so far in the United States the drum was a military instrument considered as a part of military and marching units.

In the meantime, the musical organizations were treating percussion instruments, with the exception of timpani, as military type instruments used only in martial sequences. The timpani, being instruments of definite pitch, were faring somewhat better. Timpani can be traced back to the early people of India and, like drums, were used in connection with trumpets for military effect. It was not until the time of Beethoven that they achieved any semblance of recognition as general orchestral instruments. In the earlier works of Mozart and Gluck, timpani sounding the tonic and dominant, used in connection with trumpets or brass choir, were the closest that timpani had come to orchestral recognition. Beethoven recognized the tremendous possibility of timpani in their inherent qualities of tone color, dynamic forces, the dominating rhythmic influence, and the fact that through the medium of the roll, a crescendo reaching ponderous proportions could be had and a tonal solidity under the entire orchestra could be obtained when required.

Recognizing this power of timpani, Beethoven wrote important parts and solo passages for timpani and thus the heretofore lowly kettle drums were on the way to orchestral prominence. Composers after Beethoven followed his lead, and timpani parts of importance became more frequent.

The symphony orchestras, at the time of the beginning of their growth in the United States, were using timpani and drums when indicated in the score. The difficulty was to find players proficient enough to handle the timpani parts and drummers who could read sufficiently well to handle the scored percussion parts. Drummers who were musicians were, in those early days of America's musical history, extremely scarce so that it was necessary to recruit instrumentalists from the orchestra to handle the percussion instruments. Usually a violinist was assigned to the task. The violinist, having a good ear and being a good reader, could soon learn to tune the timpani and learn enough about the mechanics of stick technique and tone control to play the part. The drum parts were handled in the same manner, usually by one of the violinists. So in the early days of the symphony orchestra, "doubling" on percussion was the usual procedure.

There not being much required percussion in orchestral work, the instruments available were very crude, in most cases home made, or clumsily constructed at the best. Timpani were of the hand screw type, that is, the pitch being changed by the manipulation of hand screws which tightened or loosened the heads. In Germany there was news of pedal operated timpani whereby the pitch could be controlled by means of a foot pedal, but the price was very high and the timpani extremely heavy and ponderous affairs. The American timpanist was forced to use, therefore, the hand screw timpani for many years with a few exceptions.

In the meantime in small orchestras and bands, the drummer was faring none too well. In military or concert bands, the drums were beginning to be standard instrumentation, but not so in the orchestras. The orchestra drummer was expected to play both snare and bass drum, and there being no foot pedal device, the drummer played by placing the snare drum on a chair with the bass drum nearby. On marches or waltzes, he would strike the bass drum on the beat with the snare drum stick and then quickly play the after beats on the snare drum, squeezing in a roll where possible. This, no mean feat to accomplish, was perfected to a remarkable degree of proficiency, nevertheless: but never to the satisfaction of the orchestra or the drummer.

Then too, it became apparent that the open, rough style of military drumming, thrilling in the army duty and corps, would not serve, since it was too crude and open for the small orchestras using strings, harp and woodwinds. So with characteristic American ingenuity, those concerned determined to do something about it. Drummers began to experiment and arrive at new ways to overcome obstacles in their path. Soon a foot pedal device was invented, crude but satisfactory for the time, the old rope snare and bass drum gave way to a type using rods with thumb nuts for tightening the heads, and the drummer was doing better work through the medium of this improved equipment.

Meanwhile, some of the musicians doubling percussion in symphony orchestras were becoming interested in percussion through their increasing duties with the instruments, and some players of other instruments in the bands and orchestras were taking up drums and timpani. These men, with their background of playing other instruments, were in a position to begin to study the possibility of percussion. Being familiar with phrasing, interpretation, excellent readers and good all around musicians they began to work out ways to improve the drumming methods, or rather to apply the rudiments of drumming to the musical ensemble. Through investigation it was revealed that the original twenty-six rudiments were the fundamentals, and, mechanically, the way to produce various combinations of beats upon the drum, but the exaggerated accents, the anticipated rolls, and uneven sequences of notes of the military drummer were sadly out of place in the orchestra or band, excepting in solo passages. Thus a more musical approach and study of drums were begun and, in a while, began to show some results.

With better drummers, composers and arrangers began to write more prolifically for percussion, and the need for better instruments became apparent. By this time several small manufacturers of timpani and drums were in existence. The owners of these plants, former drummers, had made some progress and soon better snare and bass drums, foot pedals, and other instruments were at the drummer's disposal. Then, too, some of these players had become interested in xylophones and bells and were becoming adept at solo playing, and thus the lowly xylophone, itself of ancient origin, used principally in musical work as an "effect" such as denoting the rattling of bones in Saint Saens' Danse Macabre, was also coming into its own. The American xylophone, originally cheaply made with maple bars, was now replaced by xylophones with resonators and rosewood bars, and proficient players were cropping up. Now a study of music was needed, scales and chords had to be mastered and the percussionist was rising in repute.

Finally, in 1909, the announcement of the first pedal-tuned timpani made in America was hailed as a milestone in percussion advancement. These timpani were operated by hydraulic pressure and, while crude, would work satisfactorily. Later the hydraulic principle was replaced by cables which worked much better and chromatic timpani became a reality. This, one of the great achievements in the world of drums, opened new fields and new problems to the percussionist. Composers and arrangers now began to write difficult parts for timpani and the study of timpani became more involved. Ear training had to be developed to make rapid changes of pitch faultlessly, more complex rhythms were cropping up involving intricate sticking and cross-hammering, and the playing of timpani alone was becoming an involved and definite specialization. Soon a few great artists were to be found on timpani. The late Joseph Zettelman, acknowledged generally to be the greatest timpani player of all time, was one of these. Mr. Zettelman, originally a violinist, was one of the players who doubled on percussion with the Theodore Thomas Orchestra in Chicago. This orchestra was later the famous Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and Mr. Zettleman, for over thirty years, was with this orchestra developing the art of timpani playing to as high degree as anyone who ever lived. Men like this naturally passed on their teachings to others and soon proficient drummers, timpanists and xylophone artists were available.

Meanwhile, the drums were being employed in orchestras more and more. Theatre orchestras were using drums both in movie houses and in vaudeville work. In this field a tremendous development was attained, for here drummers were called upon to play, in most instances, drums, bells, timpani, xylophone, and sundry effects, as required. With this experience and with greatly improved equipment, the drummer was beginning to truly come into his own.

Then Paul Whiteman and his orchestra rose to prominence with his symphonic dance music. Up until that time the dance drummer was more or less of a "fly" drummer, employed merely to beat time and a very obscure member of the orchestra. With the early Whiteman era came special arrangements and other orchestras quickly following this lead began to ask for arrangements of the symphonic type.

Again American ingenuity entered the picture and the arrangers began to search for new tonal colors, new instrumental combinations and orchestral effects. When they investigated the instruments of the percussion section, they found a world of possibilities, for here were chromatic timpani, chimes, bells, xylophones, drums and effects which offered unlimited rhythmical combinations and new tone color.

Soon arrangements were being written with drum parts very complex, slurs and glissandos on timpani, rhythmical cymbal breaks, and solos for drums, bells and xylophone. Soon a new mallet-played instrument, the vibraphone, was on the market. This instrument, similar to the marimba in general appearance but with metal bars, and with fans in the tops of the resonators, rotated by means of a small electric motor, had a tone of ethereal beauty with a rich vibrato and almost instantly became a part of all types of orchestras.

The development of new arrangements and better equipment made serious demands on the ability of the drummer, for now he was one of the very important members of the orchestra and a vital factor in the rhythm section of piano, drums, banjo (later guitar) and bass. Now he must play as a member of that section, fitting his work to the section and to the ensemble as well.

Again further study was indicated, drummers began to search for better, more complete instruction and sought out symphonic timpanists, theatre drummers and prominent orchestra drummers for study, and during this era tremendous progress was made. It was now definitely established that the successful drummer must be a musician; no longer could military type drumming, so thrilling in the field duty, be employed. Conductors were demanding finesse and musicianship in drummers as well as other musicians.

It became obvious that percussion was elevated to the full status of instrumental importance, and the drummers realized that to keep pace musically with players of other instruments they must thoroughly study the musical application of their chosen instruments. The training ground of many of our famous drummers was in the orchestra pits of the many theaters which employed orchestras ranging in size from six to one hundred players.

The training ground of many of our most famous drummers was in the orchestra pits of the many theaters. Here the drummer had a chance to play a varied class of music ranging from the symphonies to the popular tunes of the day, acquiring valuable experience. Usually in the average theater orchestra of from six to thirty players, one drummer handled drums, timpani, bells, xylophones, chimes and traps, and it was nothing short of remarkable how the more skilled of these drummers were able to change from one instrument to another. In the larger orchestras two and sometimes three and four drummers were used, for the larger theaters such as the Chicago theater, Roxy, and Capitol theaters (New York) were employing orchestras of symphonic instrumentation, with full percussion sections.

No longer was it necessary to recruit players of other instruments to fill important drum assignments, for capable drummers and timpanists were available. Obviously these players were more proficient than the old time "double," for their sole study and interest was in percussion and many of them had served in that capacity for years. Thus, in the slow but sure development of ability the drummer reached a new level of importance in the orchestral world.

Music in the theater went along well until the sound movies in 1927 began to replace it, finally, as is well known, causing the unemployment of most theater musicians. Radio, however, was gaining headway and proved the acid test of all musicians; here perfection was mandatory. The radio was particularly hard on drummers, for in obtaining orchestral balance, the drummer had to specialize in the radio technique of handling all the percussion instruments, which were always difficult to record.

Now radio occupied the most important niche as a training ground of fine legitimate drummers who must handle all types of drum jobs from legitimate timpani to modern "Dixie-land" drums, and improvising on vibraharp and xylophones. Many of the finest drummers today are radio drummers who can do a highly satisfactory job on all percussion instruments.

Meanwhile, there was coming into prominence a new style in popular music called "swing," which caught the public fancy. With the popularity of "swing" the drummer really came into his own; for strong rhythm was predominant in this style of playing, and the drummer being the rhythmic "sparkplug" of the orchestra was automatically placed in the spot light of public attention.

With the growth of swing the names of Gene Krupa and other "name" drummers became as well known as the outstanding players of other instruments. Krupa is an excellent example of the development of the modern popular drummer, and I am in a good position to cite his development as an example since he started his lesson with me some eighteen years ago. He was a good student and soon began to experiment with the rudiments and their application in rhythmic patterns and figurations to fit modern swing, and with experience and routine, achieved his success, finally leading his own band in 1938. The foremost modern drummers have raised the drummer to the status of soloist by inspiring, flashy drum solos and have been great factors in making the modern drummer the important member of the popular orchestra he is today.

There are so many fine drummers in the present day phases of music that it would require more space than is there allotted to tell of them and their accomplishments, but it has been definitely proved that the drummers can be good musicians in every sense of the word through proper study and effort.

Any one of the major percussion instruments such as timpani, vibraharp, drums, and xylophones is an instrument worthy of specialization and full time study; yet today the drummer is expected to be proficient on all, and the present day style of improvisations in modern music requires a most thorough study of scales and chords that the drummer may play vibraharp, marimba and xylophone in the modern manner.

The amazing development of the school bands and orchestras during the past few years has also been a very definite factor in the development of good, young drummers. The present day school bands and orchestra programs compositions of a serious nature that twenty years ago were considered impossible for any band, save the recognized professional concert bands, to perform. Automatically the percussion section is required to be of high calibre to capably perform their parts and percussion study must be given the same attention as other instrumental work.

On the classical side of music, new symphonic compositions call for artist percussionists to handle timpani parts almost as complex as trombone parts (there are several concertos for timpani in symphonic literature); and the Boston "Pops" orchestra has recorded a vibraharp solo in the modern manner with orchestral accompaniment; and the new interest in Pan American Music has introduced both in symphonic and popular music the rhumbas, tangos, and congas, calling for intense study on the rhythms playable on the bongos, guiros, claves, and the host of other percussion instruments used.

Thus, it has been a far cry from the drummer of 1776, who with his rope drum beat out the various signals, to the modern percussionists of today, who surrounded by an army of timpani, vibraharp, tom-toms, drums, "hysok" pedal, chimes and Cuban instruments, produces rhythmic effects undreamed of a few years ago.

Percussion instruments have also undergone radical changes. The old cable timpani have given way to modern types using balanced spring action, a ratchet device or a friction principle for head tensioning. The modern snare drum has been greatly improved mechanically, the vibraharp, chimes, xylophones and marimbas made into true musical instruments in every sense of the word, and all drummers' instruments on a new high plane in both appearance and mechanical excellence.

The next few years will see important progress in drumming. There is much to be done. American drummers, now easily the best in the world, will reach new rhythmical heights and thoroughly assure their position as the "backbone" of the band and orchestra.

(Note: I wish to acknowledge with appreciation, the cooperation of John P. Noonan in supplying historical data used in this article.)

Editor's Note:

Roy C. Knapp, author of the above article, is known as one of the foremost percussion artists and teachers. He is particularly well adapted to the writing of this article since his versatility in the teaching of percussion instruments covers a wide range from symphony orchestra material to opera orchestra, concert band, and the modern theater, cafe, and rhythm band, and his pupils are to be found in many of the finest orchestras.

Romance of the Piano

By MOISSAYE BOGUSLAWSKI

NOT many, perhaps, of America's piano-playing millions realize how far back the creation of their favorite instrument reaches. Many centuries before Christ, the Chinese employed a stringed instrument called the "Ke," consisting of fifty strings stretched over a wooden box five feet in length. Each string was made up of eighty-one silk thread strands of such length as to enable the adept performer through able gauging, to produce the upper and lower fifth of each tone when plucked. As time went on this instrument was improved by using movable bridges, one for each string and the number reduced to twenty-five. The Chinese took great pride in this instrument and it was spoken of with the same enthusiasm as the Clavichord some four thousand years later. As the growth of music advances, so has this remarkable instrument passed into oblivion, together with the Clavicytherium, probably the first key-board played harp known. The Clavichord, upon which Johann Sebastian Bach and Emanuel Bach captivated the audiences of that period, followed as an improvement upon the afore-mentioned Clavicytherium.

The year 1503 saw the introduction of Giovanni Spinnetti's instrument in the form of a four octave oblong combining long strings and sound board. These instruments had a twangy quality of tone because of the quill that was employed to produce the tone when the key was plucked. The instrument was named, after the Venetian inventor, the Spinet. The early part of the sixteenth century brought forth the Virginal, which might be considered the prototype of the present day upright piano. As one would easily imagine, the quality of wire used for strings at that time was very thin and, since the frail cases would not stand the tension of heavier wires, a harpsichord of sixteen feet in length was built. It developed that the longer the string of thin wire the less musical was the tone. And so the makers of these instruments resorted to the development of piano lengths confined to eight and ten feet. Then began the innovation of increasing the volume of tone by using two, three and four strings for every note.

About the middle of the seventeenth century we find the harpsichord with two key-boards, and it is said that most of Scarlatti's music (1670) to Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" (1802) was written for this improved form of the piano. The end of the eighteenth century saw the last of the harpsichord, for it prevented the player from expanding artistically. It was Christoph Schroter in 1717, a well known German organist, who submitted models of hammer actions to the King of Saxony, hoping to enlist the aid of the king in building piano-fortes. And keen was his disappointment when the king showed no inclination toward his discoveries. Schroter's ideas were taken up by the celebrated organ builder Gottfried Silbermann who produced pianos in 1728. Johann Sebastian Bach bitterly condemned this particular pianoforte "because it was too hard to play"—though he praised the tone produced by the hammer.

The invention of the piano as a complete instrument is credited to Bartolomo Christofori of Padua, about the year 1720. During this period there were schools of piano building instruction—the "German" school and the "English" school. About 1760 Johannes Zumpe constructed in London the first square piano. This was followed by Jonah Broadwood of London presenting his first square piano, as well as Sebastian Erard of Paris with a similar instrument copied after the English model. Johann Behrend of Philadelphia exhibited the first square piano in this country in 1775. The year 1789 found Charles Albrecht in Philadelphia and Benjamin Crehore in 1792 at Milton near Boston building square pianos.

A very important advance in piano tone was the invention of the full iron frame which produced adequate resistance for powerful string tension. This was invented by Alpheus Babcock, and it fell to Jonas Chickering to improve the Babcock frame and a patent was granted him in 1840. It is an interesting fact to record that the Boston makers were inclined toward the English school adopting the full iron frame whereas the New York makers were influenced by the German school, objecting to the metallic tone caused by the inferior compositions of the castings then available.

At the World's Fair in New York in 1855 the firm of Steinway exhibited a square piano having an overstrung scale which not only produced greater sonority but overcame the harsh metallic quality so objectionable in pianos using the full iron frame. The overstrung scale was soon adopted by all American makers.

The year 1780 witnessed the production of the first upright piano made by Johann Schmidt of Salzburg, Austria. And twenty years later John Isaac Hawkins of Philadelphia patented an upright piano which was rejected on account of unsatisfactory tone quality.

With the adoption of an action by Wornum, Ignace Pleyel of Paris created a wide success with his upright piano. And with the inception in Paris in the beginning of the nineteenth century of the first apartment houses known, the upright piano came into vogue as a boon to space saving. Geronimo is said to have been the first to introduce "wing" form of instrument which became known as the grand piano. The Parisians, Sebastian and Pierre Erard were in the foreground of piano production, and the Englishmen Stodart and Broadwood as well as Allen and Thom actively engaged in the production of pianofortes.

Meantime America was advancing rapidly in research for the improvement of the piano and the Loud brothers of Philadelphia and John Jardin produced grand pianos between 1825 and 1835. Jonas Chickering followed shortly afterward with an improvement on the Broadwood combination and this was again followed sixteen years later by the Steinway patented iron frame and overstrung scale for their grand piano.

The grand piano of today is a remarkable example of construction governed by the most exacting laws of acoustics. It is a noble instrument and embodies the work of great masters in piano building. The length of American concert grand pianos is usually nine feet with the compass of seven and one-half octaves, whereas Bosendorfer of Vienna builds concert grands ten feet in length. Great strides have been made with the small grand named by Albert Weber as the "baby" grand. This type of instrument has practically replaced the upright piano. We find tremendous improvements in piano building and much ingenuity required in provisions for physical soundness and durability of tone. Did you ever stop to think that the average weight of a plate in a concert grand is four hundred pounds, and it is cast to bear a string tension of sixty thousand pounds? The baby grand carries a plate of two hundred and fifty pounds in order to bear the necessary fifty thousand pounds of string tension.

We find numerous ideas concerning keyboards: Kirkman of London in 1851 devised a six and three quarter octave keyboard two feet by two and one-half inches wide and allowing only one-half inch for each key; Dr. Krause constructed a keyboard in 1811 in which the semi-tones were not raised, but all keys were of the same color; in 1780 Neuhaus presented a concave form keyboard resembling the Cludsam keyboard allowing the human arm to move in a semi-circle; Janko of Austria constructed a keyboard of six tiers enabling the player to play tenths and twelfths with great ease, arpeggios are managed with a sweep of the wrist (of course this keyboard would necessitate an entirely new music to be written).

Few pianists realize the great debt due piano manufacturers for the high development of the piano action. Frequently pianists encounter heartaching obstacles in attaining technical command of such compositions as the Toccata by Schumann. It takes an exceedingly elastic piano action for a satisfactory performance of this composition. For some virtuosi, piano actions are built with a lighter dip or vice versa. And in some cases the ivory edges of the key have been dispensed with or corners especially rounded off to suit certain players. For a long time experiments were conducted and fortunes spent in developing a "downward" striking action in which such men as Loud, Sackmeister, Hildebrande and Streicher participated, but which they finally gave up as hopeless. The "upward" striking action was universally adopted as the most practical. In 1816 Nannette Schreicher built a grand piano for Beethoven's use. It had a compass of six and one-half octaves. It is said that most of Beethoven's important works were composed with the use of this instrument.

Of the long list of piano manufacturers the names of Bosendorfer, Ibach, and Bechstein, all of Germany; Broadwood and Brismead of England; Erard, Gaveau and Pleyel of France; Jacob Becker and A. Bietepage of Russia; and T. Yamaba of Japan are among the leading builders of Europe and the Orient. In America Jonas Chickering, followed by his sons Thomas E., C. Frank, and George H. carried on the manufacture of pianos in New England while McPhail, Lindemann, the Knabes, Kurtzmann, Albert Weber, the Steinway family, Sohmer, Steck, Krakauer and Baldwin have been among the most active throughout the rest of America.

It was the writers happy adventure to have visited one of the foremost piano factories a short time ago and to have observed the loving care and idealism which is carried into the making of their instruments. The preparation of felt for the hammer, to prevent atmospheric shrinkage and flattening through usage, comes in for careful consideration. I watched with great interest the man who wound with copper the heavy bass strings; he was a master of every wire strand with a complete knowledge of the sound his finished string would give after it is inducted into the piano frame. In every department there was intensely careful preparation of the ninety parts which make up a grand piano action.

The last department to be visited was climaxed by my amazement at the new discovery, the Spectrograph. With this instrument piano-making masters are able to select the ideal tone secured from the sound board and transformed by a microphone into electrical vibrations that are amplified into clear readings in the Spectrograph. Thus the undesirable vibrations are filtered out and in this way a perfect tonal balance is maintained throughout the entire scale. The same quality of tonal richness and individuality was maintained in their various models, upon which I have played, ranging from a little grand, five feet two inches, to the concert grand, measuring nine feet. Through the Spectrograph the piano becomes the perfect medium to fully interpret the great masterpieces of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Schubert and Chopin.

The modern piano manufacturers, with untiring research, have realized the dream that began thousands of years ago when the Chinese first produced the "Ke."

We cannot imagine a complete education of man without music.—Richter

The Pianoforte

("Clavicembalo col piano e forte")

By WILLIAM BRAID WHITE

TWO hundred and thirty-one years have elapsed since Bartolomeo Cristofori of Padua, harpsichord tuner and instrument repairer to the Grand Dukes of Tuscany, in his little shop among the outbuilding of the Grand Ducal palace in the lovely city of Florence, first fitted a set of balanced pivoted hammers beneath the strings of a harpsichord, and thereby created the instrument now universally, but rather absurdly, called the "Piano."

Cristofori undoubtedly recognized from the very start that he had created an entirely new instrument of music, an instrument of enormous potential efficacy; and he sealed the recognition by giving to it a new and special name. He christened it the "Clavicembalo col piano e forte"; that is to say the "keyed, stringed, instrument with soft and loud." For he certainly saw that in endowing the hitherto expressionless harpsichord with power to vary the intensity of its tones, under the direct influence of the player's fingers, acting upon the keys, he had created a medium for music bound to exert vast influence upon musical development. And he was right. He had actually created the King of musical instruments, and so completely that what first saw the light two hundred and thirty-one years ago remains to this day in its seat of supremacy, undisturbed and in fact unchallenged.

In the Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York stands one of the two known extant specimens of the handicraft of this man, who invented the hammer-action and therefore also the pianoforte. In it may be seen every essential element that goes to make up the concert grand pianoforte of to-day. In detail, the ensuing evolution has indeed been astonishingly rich and complex; but in essence there has been no change. And it is just this fact that should command our special interest; for it shows us that the principle of generating tones from strings struck, rather than from strings bowed or plucked, contained within itself power to revolutionize the art of music and to give to that art the main one of its modern directions, namely the direction of tone-color and of expressive interpretation. Such was, and is, the achievement of the modest Italian workman who lived and died more than two centuries ago.

Now the essential characteristics of the pianoforte are mainly two in number. It is a stringed instrument and its strings are struck. The pianist plays upon the strings, striking them by hammers which, instead of actually being held in his hands, are permanently pivoted under the strings and are set in motion by finger pressure on balanced levers called "keys." The very considerable technical difficulties which must be overcome before one can attain mastery over the keyboard of the pianoforte, have obscured too much the vital fact that it is the function of the pianist to play upon the strings of the pianoforte, and that the elaborate key and hammer mechanism are merely so many means to that primary end.

It is necessary to emphasize this truth because the strings of the pianoforte are beyond doubt the most sensitive of all known generators of musical sound. It is a far cry from the thin brass wires of Cristofori's day to the marvellously strong, fine steel filaments (six times as strong, size for size, as the steel girders that support a skyscraper) which make up the more than two hundred strings of the modern instrument. Each of these strings must be stretched at a tension of more than one hundred fifty pounds to bring it into tune and to set free its marvellous, latent tonal energies. Thus, the framework of the pianoforte of to-day must carry a stress from the stretched strings amounting to some eighteen tons; more than the weight of an average street-car! The physical structure of the pianoforte is therefore necessarily massive; yet a single strand of the steel wire that goes into one of its bass strings, is strong enough to support the whole weight of a modern grand of medium size! It is upon this battery of high tensioned extremely sensitive steel springs that the pianist works his will, producing from them an extraordinary variety, both of intensity from the faintest to the loudest and of tone-color from the mellowest to the fullest, richest and most strident.

How is it that the strings of the pianoforte can be so sensitive, musically? The reason is both simple and fascinating. Whenever the stretched steel string of a pianoforte is struck by its hammer, under the impulse of the player's finger, that string begins to vibrate, and continues so to do until the key is released or the imparted energy has become dissipated. The blow of the hammer forces the string into vibration, but thenceforward, until brought to a stop, the string continues of its own free will, so to speak, as long as it is able. Now the actual forms of these vibrations of the strings are extraordinarily interesting. Almost every one has heard of what are often called 'overtones,' but should rather be named "harmonics." It is they which give to musical sounds their characteristic timbers or "colors." for every musical instrument generates them in greater or lesser quantity. Each instrument in fact generates its own peculiar set of them, so to speak, which determines its characteristic tone quality. Generally speaking, the more harmonics a musical instrument generates from its strings, its pipes or its tubes, the richer, more complex and more highly organized is its characteristic timbre. We are accustomed to talk about the rich and lovely tone-colors that we hear when masses or strings and of wind instruments play together in a symphony orchestra. Now it is a demonstrable fact that the struck strings of the pianoforte may be caused to emit tone qualities (colors) corresponding to those of every known musical instrument; and this because of another demonstrable fact, namely that each time the pianist depresses a key on the pianoforte, he imparts to the corresponding hammer a definite velocity, at which it is traveling when it strikes the string. Each such velocity imparts to the string more or less of energy. The more energy is imparted, the more harmonics are developed in the string, while the quantity of sound of course is simultaneously increased. Thus, if a skilled pianist should begin to touch a certain key on his pianoforte, first just so lightly as barely to produce an audible sound, and then by degrees more and more energetically, he would produce a succession of sounds, all of the same pitch of course, but each differing, not only in the quantity of its sound, but in its quality too. In other words, every change one makes in loudness involves parallel change in tone-color; and the possible number of such variations is positively beyond computation.

Why do we not all of us hear these marvelous shimmering changes and shifts of the tone-colors streaming from the strings of the pianoforte? Only because we cannot sustain the sounds at their full value. We can only produce them, and then allow them gradually to decay. In fact the only serious weakness of the pianoforte as a musical instrument lies in this limitation. The pianoforte's tones can neither be swelled nor diminished after they have been produced; nor can they be sustained at full intensity and quality value.

Yet in this very seeming defect lies a virtue. For, just because a string of the pianoforte, once struck, can only execute its own free vibrations, until these naturally die away or until the key controlling that string is released, we are able to set into operation the unique function of the damper pedal, something the like of which no other musical instrument possesses. For with every other musical instrument, the sound ceases when the act of producing it ceases; but with the pianoforte this need not be so. It and it alone permits us to call into existence the acoustical property of sympathetic resonance, whereby every string throughout the whole scale may be used to reinforce, harmonically enrich, and maintain in vibration, the sound emitted by any one string, thus endowing the pianoforte with a power to surround its tonal output with a luminous haze of shimmering harmonics, still floating into the air long after the act of producing the original tone has ceased.

Nor is this all. Cristofori's act of genius, in substituting for the expressionless plucking action, the potent striking hammer, gave to musical art a domestic (as well as a concert) keyboard instrument possessing not only the harmonic and melodic range of the harpsichord but direct immediate control over the intensity of the sounds emitted. It is this direct control through the key that gives to the pianoforte its extraordinary capacity, possessed in like degree by no rival instrument, of accentuation-rhythmic variety and melodic clarity. One may run an arpeggio from one end to the other of the keyboard, accentuating every alternate tone, each time varying the intensity of the accent. One may do this in a dozen different ways; and indeed vary the experiment to almost any extent along the same lines. No other musical instrument possesses this power at least to any comparable extent. When to such a capacity is added the power that the player possesses to vary the tone-quality emitted, precisely as and when he varies the loudness, and when still more we take into consideration the marvelous acoustical possibilities contained in the damper pedal's ability to maintain and vary tones of which the productive action has actually ceased . . . it is evident that there is the best of foundations for calling the pianoforte the king of musical instruments.

The scientific study of the acoustical, musical and mechanical possibilities of the pianoforte is a comparatively young branch of applied physics, but during recent years much valuable progress has been made, the results of which, passed on to piano manufacturers and to the piano-playing public, have played their part in developing the really remarkable efficiency of the contemporary instrument. It is as true today as it was ever that one gets what one pays for. Certainly, dollar for dollar, the pianoforte of today is finer than any of its predecessors; but always in its higher manifestations it remains a great work of art, based indeed on science, but requiring to be illumined and made practical by the personal genius of master craftsmen. And that sort of thing is not cheap and cannot be cheap.

It is an unfortunate fact too that the general public, even including most of those who play the pianoforte as professionals or amateurs, is grossly ignorant of the principles of its tone production, of its key mechanism and of its general construction. Hence we have the deplorable spectacle of beautiful instruments standing in beautiful rooms beautifully cased but disgustingly out of tune! Of course every pianoforte needs frequent and highly skilled attention. It should be tuned at least four times a year and its mechanism should be thoroughly adjusted at least once a year. So treated it will remain for many years one of those things of beauty which, as the poet reminds us, is a joy forever. Neglected, it degenerates and decays.

Pianism, Then And Now

By MORIZ ROSENTHAL

TO SUMMARIZE my meditations on the difference between the older and newer school of pianism, I herewith submit the conclusion I have reached, founded partly on generally unknown facts which throw some new lights on the history of piano playing.

One hundred years ago the modern "Hammer-Klavier" came to the forefront. Ludwig van Beethoven celebrated the new invention by his sonatas "for the Hammer-Klavier" Opus 101 in A major, Opus 106, in B flat major, and by his following piano works, Opus 109, 110, 111 and 120. Beethoven promoted the pianoforte to the highest extent, and did not concentrate his unique powers on the reproductive side of his art.

The true piano virtuoso of this epoch was J. N. Hummel, pupil of Mozart and rival of Beethoven (of course, not as a composer, but on the battlefield of "Eros," where both masters were interested in the same damsel—an incident tending to sever their friendly relations.)

Hummel's art, which for decades held the musical world spellbound, can safely be characterized as of the bygone, "old" school of piano playing, despised the pedal (he called it "the sin-coverer") and favored almost exclusively difficult finger work which he played in finished style and at lightning speed but without strength or splendor of tone.

It is true that he was hampered by the scant sonority of the instrument of his time, called spinet. But he did not alter his style after the perfection of the "hammer-piano." Little wonder that in 1835 Hummel had already lost his spell upon the masses. In that year he played in Vienna to empty seats, and was overheard to remark, after the recital: "If this is not a shame for Vienna, it certainly is not for me." Hummel died at Weimar, the later residence of Liszt whom he had once refused to take as a pupil because the wonder-child could not pay the high fee he asked.

From 1833 to 1848 the quintessence of piano playing was represented by three names—Chopin, Liszt, and Thalberg. The latter was a correct player, but without great musical distinction. His most conspicuous trick consisted of declaiming a melody with the thumb and surrounding it with brilliant passages. Even this he borrowed from the harpist Parish-Alvers. (So did Wagner in the "Tannhäuser" Overture!)

Liszt inverted the procedure, introducing great orchestral effects on the piano. A Hungarian instrument, the cimbalum, inspired him to the invention of interlocking octaves with which he achieved his most amazing effects.

What Chopin did for the piano need hardly be dwelt upon. He was the seraph and the demon of the instrument. He opened a new range of human and superhuman emotions. He invented a new world of harmonies and was, besides, one of the greatest melodic inventors of all time. He also invented new passages compared with which all others sound commonplace, and he played them in the most refined and finished style. For these he used a touch of velvet-like delicacy, a flawless legatissimo, the secret of which he passed on to his pupils, one of my teachers, Charles Mikuli, being among the most distinguished of that group.

This legatissimo sounds infinitely more dignified, elegant, and aristocratic than the commonplace half-staccato (jeu perle) which is now most generally used, and which even Beethoven derided, speaking abusively of "dancing fingers." My teachers Mikuli and later Raphael Joseffy delighted my ear with their almost infinite dynamic range from piano to pianissimo and "pianississimo" but they left my thirst for big orchestral effects unquenched. So at the age of 14 I sought out the old Thunderer of Weimar and Rome, Franz Liszt.

I learned much more from him than mere piano playing. In spite of a sometimes surprising pedantry as to pianistic cleanness and accuracy he saw all with the eye of the composer, and made us do the same. These were unforgettable days at Weimar and at Rome, and we drank deeply of the intoxicating delights the old wizard brewed for us. But in spite of all these splendors I grew weary after seven years, like Tannhäuser in the Venusberg. A new desire, a new thirst tormented me. I had heard Rubinstein!

In the Triumvirate—Chopin, Liszt, Thalberg—Chopin easily holds the place of Octavianus, Liszt that of Antonius (with many Cleopatras) and Thalberg that of Lepidus. We can dismiss him from any exalted position and in his place add the name of Rubinstein to those of Chopin and Liszt. It is true that he lacked finesse of execution, that his passages were blurred often beyond recognition; but the heroic vein of his style and his colossal climaxes gave him true greatness. Moreover, he was, to my knowledge, the first pianist who introduced publicly the so-called syncopated use of the damper pedal, thus perfecting the instrument's legato.

I have called this discovery the most important in the history of piano playing. Alas, it also is the last so far! The various "methods" — Breithaupt's, for example—are for the most part distressingly erroneous and furthermore, they derive from the methods of Deppe and others, published about fifty years ago.

After having described the merits and the shortcomings of the methods of Chopin, Liszt, Thalberg and Rubinstein, it seems easy to answer the question: "Which of these possesses the characteristics of the 'new' school of piano playing?" The answer must be the following: There is no such thing in existence as a new school of piano playing. The mere fact that one has not studied with Liszt, that one has never heard the Chopin school, that one never has been privileged to listen to Anton Rubinstein, is a drawback. In its helpless negativeness, it can constitute no claim to distinction or greatness.

Having missed the great triumvirate —Liszt, Chopin, Rubinstein—the pianists of the younger generation are bound to learn from those who had the great privilege to study with these musical and pianistic giants. If they turn away from us they harm themselves, not us. They may boast of their youth! But who is really young? I turn to my favorite philosopher, namely myself, for the answer.

A man is young if a lady can make him happy or unhappy. He enters middle age when a lady can make him happy, but no more unhappy. He is old and gone if a lady can make him neither happy nor unhappy.

Well, I am still a young man.

The Saxophone

By SIGURD M. RASCHER

THE saxophone, today the most popular instrument, is also the most misunderstood. Capable of rendering the music of the great masters, it is still regarded as the clown of the orchestra, its serious side being very seldom used compared to the use of other instruments. This paradox calls for an explanation, if the general attitude towards the saxophone is to be changed.

When Adolphe Sax set out to construct his new instrument, in 1840, his aims were manifold but definite. He wanted to fill the gap of tone-quality between the strings and wind instruments, on the one side, and between the brass and the wood-wind instruments on the other. Therefore the new link should have the flexibility of the strings, the power of the brass, and the variety of tone-quality of the wood-wind instruments. But in addition, the saxophone should have a distinct character of its own. Adolphe Sax was aware that in order to achieve all this in one instrument he had to use a single-reed mouthpiece, similar to that of a clarinet, and a conic body of metal. To acquire the necessary flexibility of tone he broadened the mouth-piece outwardly and widened its inner measurements. To make the saxophone's tone sufficiently voluminous, so that it would stand out successfully against the brass of the orchestra, the inventor gave the conic body a parabolic shape. All these features are mentioned in the patent which Sax took out for the saxophone.

It is for this reason that his competitors and also many opponents of the saxophone today regard the instrument as a bastard, for they consider it nothing really new. They overlook the fact that to group together already existing elements in accordance with intuition, is a creative act, and that a bastard is frequently much more resistant and hardy than the pure-bred and yields better results. The saxophone has a variety of tone-qualities never achieved by any instrument before, and a technical facility comparable to that of any other wood-wind instrument. Its rich tone is perfectly suited for carrying a legitimate vibrato, which achieves the utmost expressiveness. The capacity to produce the finest pianissimo as well as the most powerful fortissimo, in all registers, and the possibilities of glissando, slap-tongue and flutter-tongue, are well-known features of the saxophone. A new achievement is the extension of its range from 2¼ to 4 octaves without the addition of special keys, which is possible on every stock-model instrument. Special fingerings and a hard training of the embouchure enable the player to produce these top-notes reliably and in tune.

One would suppose that Sax's contemporaries immediately seized upon such an outstanding instrument. History shows, however, that jealousy, laziness and narrowmindedness prevented them from playing the new instrument, and therefore for a long time made it almost impossible for the composers to score for it. Nearly a century had to pass before the saxophone's possibilities were investigated to their full extent. Only in recent years has it come to be used on a larger scale as a solo instrument with symphony orchestras. Through their use of the saxophone as a solo instrument several players of high standard (Mule in Paris, Lear in London, Leeson and others in the United States) have greatly increased the interest in it. Indeed, its unique tone-qualities, its technical facility and its great range, seem to predestine the saxophone to solo-playing. Concertos, chamber music, suites and sonatas have been written by such composers as Larsson, Ibert, Debussy, Eisenmann, Hindemith, Coates, Demuth, Creston, Glazunow, Jacobi, Bozza, Tarp, Swain, Pierne, Vellones and others. Some of these compositions require a range of more than 3½ octaves.

And the composers begin to realize what an addition to the tone-colors of the orchestra they have in this instrument. The saxophone has already been used in some French orchestral works of the last century, one of the earliest being "L'Arlesienne" by Bizet. Vincent D'Indy asks in his opera "Fervaal" for 6 saxophones, Strauss in his "Sinfonia Domestica" for 4. Massenet, Thomas, Kastner, Villa Lobos, W. Walton, Copland, Carpenter, Puccini, Ravel, Honneger, Milhaud, K. Beck, Dallapiccola, Holbrook and many others ask in their orchestral works or operas for one or more saxophones.

But the reason for the general misunderstanding of the saxophone and its onesided use in today's popular music remains unexplained. It can be grasped only if one realizes that an instrument endowed with such unique qualities can be adapted to all kinds of use, and that it takes a musician of some moral discrimination to hold it to its proper place in our contemporary culture.

Music has, like society, its laws of propriety and etiquette; and even those to whom their deeper meaning has not been revealed are bound to respect and conform to them.—Liszt.

The Trombone

By JAROSLAV CIMERA

THE sackbut of Medieval times was the immediate predecessor of the present-day trombone. Since its early development the trombone has undergone very few changes. Its early use was confined to secular music, and remained so limited until the latter part of the Eighteenth Century. Gluck (1714-1787) and Mozart (1756-1791) were among the first to use it in opera, although it was used as early as 1565 by Striggio and Corteccia. Beethoven (1770-1827) was the first to introduce it in the symphony (the fourth movement of his Fifth).

The trombone is played through a cup-shaped metal mouthpiece, and its distinctive feature is a pair of slides which can be extended to add various lengths of tubing for supplying notes omitted in the natural or open scale.

At the present time trombones are made in both tenor and bass ranges. The range of the tenor trombone is from E below low C, to B above middle C, while the normal range of the bass trombone is from B-flat below low C, to B-flat above middle C. The only difference between the tenor and bass trombones is their relative size, the bass trombone being larger and its tone broader and darker in quality and color. Since early times the trombone has retained its majestic and solemn tonal character, and this quality is often employed to great advantage. Like the trumpet, the trombone is effectively used for "fanfares."

In nearly all orchestral literature three trombones are employed; two tenors and one bass. However, the trombone does not hold as important a position in the orchestra as it does in the band. Its function in the band is very important. For example, when an operatic program is presented, the trombone is very often employed to play the arias that the tenor singer sings in the opera, and frequently to play passages that 'cellos and basses play in the orchestra. The function of the trombone in the orchestra, with few exceptions, is to furnish the harmony and build up climaxes. The double-bass trombone, like the bass trumpet was made at the suggestion of Wagner for use in his Rhinegold Ring music. Parts for the double-bass trombone can now be played on the regular bass trombone as a result of the improvements made in the extension of the lower register of the present-day bass trombone. The valve trombone is used occasionally by foreign bands. This instrument is built on the same principle as other valve instruments.

The more modern composers of orchestral music are now beginning to write more solos for trombone than were written for the instrument by the earlier composers in the last forty or fifty years. The trombone has taken its place in importance beside the cornet as a solo instrument. One of the reasons for the popularity of this instrument today is because of the natural beauty of its tone and possibilities of technique, as was demonstrated and developed by Arthur Pryor. There is no question in my mind that the future orchestral composers will write as prolifically for the trombone as they now write for the french horn. The use of various types of mutes for the trombone enables it to produce many different tonal effects in addition to the natural noble and majestic quality of tone. These different tonal effects are generally used in the orchestra to depict laughter, moaning, crying, or the cries and sounds made by dumb animals.

The Trumpet and Cornet

By JOHN O'DONNELL

THE cornet, generally considered as a descendant or an improvement of the post horn, appeared in the early part of the 19th century in the approximation of its present form. At that time it had two valves (now three). The cornet, very similar to the trumpet, having a more conical bore, is somewhat smaller in size. It has been employed in the orchestra by such composers as Tschaikowsky, Berlioz, and Cesar Franck, but is regarded chiefly as the solo instrument of the band. Popular orchestras employ it to some extent.

The trumpet, one of the most ancient instruments, also employs three valves and is somewhat similar to the cornet but longer and possessing different proportions in its tubular column. The tone, unlike that of the cornet which is round and mellow, is piercing and brilliant. It is often used in the symphony orchestra in place of the cornet and almost exclusively in modern dance orchestras. Parts for the trumpet and cornet are written in keys of B flat and A, and the modern instruments are built in the key of B flat, with a slide which changes the key to A. Music for them is written in the treble clef.

Up to a few years ago the trumpet and cornet were avoided by the arrangers and composers. Not because they disliked these instruments, but because of the lack of embouchure knowledge so much was left to the pupils of these instruments to discover for themselves that only the "naturals" were able to make progress with the instruments. Consequently composers and arrangers wrote their works around the instruments that could be trusted. After all, their compositions were played world-wide. So the few cornetists that were able to handle the parts or compositions of that day were not enough to encourage more confidence from the composers and arrangers.

The more they slighted these instruments, the more they were degrading them. By slighting them I mean the incorporation of many rests, and the deletion of phrases because of a high note. These tactics softened a performer rather than gave him confidence and kept him from becoming more efficient. As all other instruments advanced the cornet and trumpet remained about the same.

However, modern teaching methods not only take care of the musical education but of the embouchure as well. The arrangers with their new style and more difficult arrangements have brought about new methods and new teaching ideas which forced those teachers who wished to cope with this "Blitzkrieg" to find new ways of simplifying the playing of these instruments.

Today the cornet and trumpet are highly thought of by the composer and arranger and have a rating equal to the flute, clarinet, violin, and piano. In fact they have won for themselves a high standing in music. Their beauty of tone, and unlimited resources entitle them to this high standing among the other instruments.

To show the advancements made in these instruments, I wish to compare the range considered possible by the celebrated artist of his day. Joseph Arban, to the present day range and possibilities. Arban was elected professor of cornet at the Conservatory in France, January 23, 1869. He was considered the most brilliant cornetist of his time. The complete range used by Arban from F sharp below, to C above the staff was considered practical but not many players succeeded in mastering the whole range. When writing for these instruments, even if for a solo, it was not advised then to use the extreme limit of this range unless writing for a capable and trusted performer.

Because of faulty embouchures and the lack of knowledge to correct these faults, most performers failed to produce the simplest passages even when called for in middle register. At that time from low C to G above the staff would be trusted to the performer. Some composers and arrangers would even go so far as to trust performers up to high B flat but high B natural and high C were used very sparingly.

Compare the range used by Arban in 1870 to that of today when, for example it is possible to play with one embouchure just as easily as playing middle C, C above high C and even the F (above high C above high C).

Some performers have been known to play two octaves above high C by changing embouchures. This is incorrect and is as little practical as it is for a violinist to use three violins for three ranges. Notes that cannot be produced with one embouchure should neither be demanded nor attempted.

For years the manufacturers have been making very fine instruments of unlimited possibilities, and to prove it was not the instrument of years ago that caused the trouble, our modern virtuosi of today can pick up an old horn and make it sound as well as our modern instruments. I state this to prove that the embouchure has always been the real source of the performers' troubles. But let us not take any of the credit away from our modern manufacturers; they have made outstanding improvements.

Up to a few years ago very little was written for those instruments while all other instruments were progressing by leaps and bounds. But to the arrangers we must give the credit for popularizing these instruments in the dance orchestra field. A few colored artists were the first to enlighten the arrangers to the possibilities of the cornet and trumpet. Finally out of a clear sky they overwhelmed the brasses. Those who could take it stood up well and became popular over night, setting the pace for the present generation. The mediocre brassman who loved his instrument and wished to continue with it, was forced to seek preparedness.

This brought the brasses up to par with the flute, clarinet, violin, and piano. Trusting the performer to the utmost today, modern arrangements call for high D's, E's and F's. Years ago when high A, B, and C were considered high notes, it was the custom and correct to rest every other chorus. But today, performers are called upon to play one difficult arrangement after another and choruses of high flares on high C, D, E, F, and G, with some of our virtuosi playing the A, B, and C above high C.

With the modern methods of teaching, these instruments can be enjoyed and played with the greatest of ease.

Embouchure and Its Development

By WILLIAM COSTELLO

IT IS an amazing fact that many students of brass instruments do not have the remotest idea of the real meaning of the word "embouchure." The general opinion is that one simply places the mouthpiece on his lips and blows. While we sometimes hear of a student who follows this procedure and by a stroke of luck produces satisfactory results, these cases are very few indeed.

The system I advocate involves the development of the upper register first. I believe that much time is wasted playing the lower register and waiting for the upper register to develop. This tends to discourage students and eventually some of them drop out of the running or seek a new approach to their problems. Of course musical knowledge attained is an asset but in such circumstances one can be said to possess the equivalent of "frame work" but no foundation.

It is impossible to obtain any degree of efficiency unless a correct, true foundation is well established right from the beginning. This is a comparatively simple matter if a little serious thought is given to the position of the jaw and the placement of the mouthpiece. In playing, the brunt of the pressure must be on the lower jaw, especially when producing the upper register. Coming down to the middle and lower register the jaw recedes a little, but not enough to interfere with the pressure background. After one has acquired a good lip formation the only time he need actually exert any effort is in the upper register. Playing the middle and the lower registers should require practically no effort and be considered a comparative rest period. The maximum of endurance cannot be attained by anyone who plays with a receded lower jaw, especially in the upper register. The average student lifts his head for range and points his instrument downward. The reason for this is that his lower jaw drops back and he automatically follows it with the mouthpiece. This is a serious mistake and can easily become a habit hard to break. The process should be reversed and while this jaw formation may be difficult to acquire in the beginning, particularly to the advanced player who wishes to change, it can be accomplished with a little patience. A beginner can formulate this position regardless of the natural routine of the lower jaw, with intelligent concentration.

There are many conflicting ideas regarding lip positions. The types most liable to be injurious are "pouting" and "stretching" of the lips. Utilization of a mirror is suggested here and the first step is to acquire what can best be expressed as a "half smile." Now open your lips slightly, leaving an opening between the teeth about half the thickness of an ordinary lead pencil. Having proceeded thus far, next roll the underneath "red" of your lips over the edges of your teeth, to provide a solid foundation. The mouthpiece may now be placed, without disturbing this formation, one-third resting on the upper lip and two-thirds on the lower. This is the normal position for the mouthpiece and is used by most players automatically. When you blow, do not fail to direct the air upward. Occasionally a little difficulty is experienced starting the tone, and while I advocate dry lips, in such cases it is permissible to use the tip of the tongue to moisten only the portion responsible for the vibrations. Sometimes, too, it may be necessary to start the tone with the tongue. If you have carefully studied and applied these points, I know you will find that the grip required for upper register and the relaxation that comes in the middle and lower registers is simple and apparent.

When you have successfully established the correct formation, you may assume that the first step has been overcome. However, the matter of breath control is of as great importance as lip position, and a really successful player must have both. Here too, students are lax and concern themselves only with taking a breath and exhaling it without realizing that this particular phase of playing has a definite theory. Frequently unsatisfactory results are due to incorrect breath control rather than a poor embouchure and the latter is blamed. Any given tone must have a certain amount of air force behind it for maximum result. Consequently a small amount of air force behind it produces a small tone and gives an undesirable effect. I cannot emphasize too greatly the advisability of studying this carefully. A good vocal teacher can give you the principles of diaphragm breathing. It must be borne in mind, however, that an open throat is necessary whether playing high or low register. Naturally, obstructing the wind column cuts down the volume of air.

In conclusion I would like to mention something about "straining" for high notes. Sometimes the lips do not function correctly and the player is forced to "jam" and this is recognized as one form of straining. Then there is the player who does not release air correctly and his neck bulges. While it is conceded that a certain amount of rigidness appears when playing the upper register, I believe that if properly done, no uncomfortable sensation will be experienced. It is not recommended that the player concentrate solely in the upper register, but incorporating this with the middle and lower registers is not difficult.

MUSICAL QUIZ ANSWERS

MUSICAL QUIZ

IF YOU WISH TO TEST YOUR MUSICAL I. Q. OR ADD TO YOUR INFORMATION AND KNOWLEDGE, THIS FEATURE SHOULD PROVE INVALUABLE THE QUESTIONS ARE DIVIDED INTO FIVE CATEGORIES; (1) PERTAINING TO FAMOUS INDIVIDUALS; (2) FORM AND STYLE OF MUSIC: (3) MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS; (4) MUSICAL INSTITUTIONS; (5) THE LITERATURE OF MUSIC (COMPOSITIONS AND PUBLICATIONS). THESE CATEGORIES ARE SUBDIVIDED INTO VARIOUS GROUPS, THE ANSWERS APPEARING AT THE END OF EACH GROUP. THE GREATEST NUMBER OF POINTS POSSIBLE IN ANY GROUP IS 100. IF YOUR SCORE IS BETWEEN 60 AND 70 YOUR RATING IS GOOD—BETWEEN 70 AND 80, VERY GOOD —BETWEEN 80 AND 90, EXCELLENT, AND BETWEEN 90 AND 100. SUPERIOR. THE QUESTIONS ARE NOT DESIGNED PRIMARILY FOR THE PROFESSIONAL MUSICIAN, BUT FOR THE INDIVIDUAL WHO IS INTERESTED IN MUSIC.

AMONG THOSE WHO HAVE CONTRIBUTED MATERIALLY TO THE COMPILATION OF THIS SECTION OF THE BOOK ARE JOSEPH BARONE. EDWARD BARRY, THEOLINDA C. BORIS, LEROY V. BRANT. WINIFRED GLASS, GLENN DILLARD GUNN, ERWIN HARDER, LEONARD LIEBLING, HANS ROSENWALD, AND H. KNOX SPAIN.

I
PERTAINING TO FAMOUS INDIVIDUALS

GROUP A:

(In this group each question is divided into two parts for scoring purposes. If you are able to determine the name of the individual by only reading up to the point in the material marked "10" then credit yourself with 10 points. If it is necessary for you to read further, then you are only entitled to 8 points.)

1. Q. He was born in the early eighteenth century. He started composing opera in Italy, then went to London and became director of a traveling theatre group, yet Paris became the city of his success—success in novel operatic forms. He is known as the greatest reformer of opera. (10) His works include "Orpheus," "Iphigenia," and "Alkeste." (8)
2. Q. He was born in 1860 and is known to Americans for his conductorship in New York. He directed the New York Philharmonic Society from 1909 to 1911. Nonetheless, his greatness in the field of music lies in his compositions, particularly in symphonies, one of which calls for as many as one thousand performers. (10) He is with Brahms, Bruckner, and Strauss, a towering figure in late romantic symphonic music. (8)
3. Q. Many of us have heard him as pianist in concerts, others have heard compositions from his pen, still others were impressed by his scholarly writings. It is in this threefold significance that he has entered the history of music. Though he died in 1924, he is still alive through many of our younger contemporaries who, inspired by his genius, write in the style for which he paved the way. (10) His Bach transcriptions for piano have established his fame with every piano student. (8)
4. Q. His cradle stood in Poland but his fame was established in France. In the salons of his day he was the favorite with men and women. He was in love with a woman writer, George Sand. He was of a fragile nature and died at the age of thirty-nine. (10) He is famous for Mazurkas, Waltzes, Polonaises and Nocturnes. (8)
5. Q. He is a Russian, living in the Soviet Union, and is famous as a violinist as well as a composer. His music is full of wild dissonances. He loves to be sarcastic. He wrote an opera for Chicago, and, in a symphony, glorified the spirit of classicism. (10) Recently a work written for a speaker with orchestra and adored by all children has made his name famous with even those who do not know much music. (8)
6. Q. He is a German, and is the grandson of a famous philosopher. As a high school boy he composed an overture to a drama by Shakespeare. He excelled as pianist and man of the baton. Nothing disturbed the secure course of his short life from 1809 to 1847. (10) The name of his most popular work is "Songs Without Words." (8)
7. Q. She is an American who made a great name for herself as a pianist in both this country and Europe. Moreover, she is a dynamic lecturer and a famous author. Her deep interest has been the education of the layman and she has led thousands of people to music. (10) She was married to one of the outstanding conductors of this country. (8)
8. Q. He is a Frenchman who started out as a physician and at 27 wrote a work full of fantastic ideas. Franz Liszt was an ardent advocate of his music. A feature of his orchestrations is his predilection for unusual color combinations. (10) His symphonic works have influenced all program musicians of former days and are even regarded as models today. (8)
9. Q. A foreign born American, he paid to this country the tribute of a symphony reflecting the spirit of American history. Many Jewish subjects were also portrayed in his works. He has lived in Cleveland and on the West Coast and also in Switzerland. (10) One of his best known works is "Schelomo." (8)
10. Q. He was born in Hanover, Germany, in 1884, of Holland parentage. He is known as a concert pianist. He served as violinist in the Dresden Royal Orchestra from 1899 to 1901, and made his debut as a pianist in Holland in 1902. He has made extensive tours of Europe and the United States. He was chosen by Busoni to write the piano score for the "Indian Phantasy." (10) He was a collaborator with Busoni and Mugellino in the edition of the complete works of J. S. Bach, for Breitkopf and Haertel. (8)

ANSWERS:

(1) Gluck
(2) Gustav Mahler
(3) Feruccio Busoni
(4) Chopin
(5) Prokofieff
(6) Mendelssohn
(7) Olga Samaroff Stokowski
(8) Berlioz
(9) Ernest Bloch
(10) Egon Petri

GROUP B:

(For scoring, same arrangements as for Group A.)

1. Q. In a trilogy he portrayed pines, fountains and festivals of a great Italian city. He died a few years ago. In his impressionistic orchestrations he has proved to be one of the finest followers of Debussy. (10) He also wrote the opera "La Fiamma." (8)

2. Q. As a child prodigy he made great impressions when playing the piano. He was sophisticated and yet there was an urge in him to become a priest. When over 50 he went to Rome and became an Abbe. He celebrated triumphs as a virtuoso and director, but he was also famous as teacher, writer, composer, and propagandist. (10) His fifteen Hungarian Rhapsodies are played everywhere. (8)
3. Q. He was called the British Orpheus. He composed music for stage plays, religious works, and works for the organ, harpsichord, and others, but only one real opera. (10) With Byrd and Handel he is considered one of the great composers of England. (8)
4. Q. He raised Italian opera to its greatest peak and of all Italian composers had the best sense for the theatre, for effective libretti and original orchestration. Later, he approached the style of Wagner, yet his fame was overshadowed by the master of Bayreuth. (10) Among his mature works are "Otello" and "Falstaff." (8)
5. Q. He is a Russian composer who died in 1915. In his compositions he followed first Chopin then Debussy. He liked mysticism and the occult. His motives are supposed to portray metaphysical forces—water and fire. (10) The "Poem of Ecstasy" and the "Poem of Fire" are his best works, and Koussevitzky is his American advocate. (8)
6. Q. He was born near Pittsburgh of Southern parents and died in utmost poverty, although most of his simple songs have become the folk songs of his country. (10) Among them are "Old Black Joe," "My Old Kentucky Home," and "Old Folks at Home." (8)
7. Q. He was the first incumbent of the chair of music at Columbia University. Of Irish-Scotch parentage, he studied in Paris and Germany. His favorite instrument was the piano, but he is best known as one of the foremost American composers. (10) The following are the names of piano works which made him famous: "Fireside Tales," "Woodland Sketches," and "Sea Pieces." (8)
8. Q. A commission of cardinals and singers investigating church music declared one of his compositions the model of a Mass. He was a Catholic—perhaps the greatest Catholic composer of all times. (10) He lived in the sixteenth century, was the founder of the Roman school, and left to the world 94 Masses and approximately 350 Motets. (8)
9. Q. One of his piano pieces portrays plays of the waves. One of his ballets depicts the story of Daphnis and Chloe. One of his orchestral compositions glorifies the rhythm of the Spanish Bolero. (10) He died in 1937 as one of the most popular composers of serious music in our century. (8)
10. Q. He was born in 1888 in Poland. He studied with D'Albert and Leschetizky. As one of the most remarkable contemporary piano virtuosi, he introduced in his recitals some of the works of Debussy, Ravel, and Stravinsky. He made his American debut with the Philadelphia Orchestra in Philadelphia, in 1906. (10) His last name is the same as that of the famous Russian composer whose "Melody In F" is one of the favorites of music lovers. (8)

ANSWERS:
(1) Respighi
(2) Liszt
(3) Purcell
(4) Verdi
(5) Scriabin
(6) Stephen Foster
(7) MacDowell
(8) Palestrina
(9) Ravel
(10) Artur Rubinstein

GROUP C:

(In the following questions select which of the answers suggested may be correct. Each question is worth 5 points. In some instances there may be more than one correct answer. If you answer only part of the question correctly, then you are entitled to only the proportionate number of points for that question.)

1. Q. Among the famous contemporaries of Bach were:
1. Domenico Scarlatti 2. Haydn 3. Rameau 4. Buxtehude
2. Q. One of the following composers inspired Bach to transcriptions:
1. Locatelli 2. Geminiani 3. Pugnani 4. Vivaldi
3. Q. Among the great philosophers who have made names for themselves as composers are:
1. Voltaire 2. Emerson 3. Rousseau 4. Nietzsche 5. Kant 6. Schopenhauer
4. Q. Philidor, an opera composer of the eigtheenth century, was famous:
1. For his love adventures. 2. As basket ball player. 3. As the founder of a school of gymnastics. 4. As chess player.
5. Q. The composer whom Beethoven admired as the greatest of his contemporaries was:
1. Spontini 2. Weber 3. Mozart 4. Cherubini
6. Q. Spontini was the music master of one of the following:
1. Queen Mary of England. 2. Ivan the Terrible. 3. Frederick William IV of Prussia. 4. Empress Josephine.
7. Q. One of the following members of the Bach family is noted for his treatise on piano playing:
1. Philipp Emanuel. 2. Wilhelm Friedemann. 3. Johann Sebastian. 4. Johann Christian.
8. Q. Monn was an important writer of the preclassical school. One of his 'cello concerti is transcribed by:
1. Stravinsky 2. Schoenberg 3. Carpenter 4. Schubert
9. Q. One of the following composers abandoned Protestantism, the traditional faith of his family, for Catholicism:
1. Beethoven 2. Brahms 3. Johann Christian Bach 4. Johann Sebastian Bach.
10. Q. Which of the following aristocrats insured Haydn's livelihood?
1. Baron von Steuben 2. Princess of Wittgenstein 3. Prince Esterhazy 4. Baron Lichnowsky
11. Q. Mozart's wife was a relative of a famous composer. Who was he?
1. Weber 2. Beethoven 3. Chopin 4. Schumann
12. Q. With which of the following cities do you associate Mozart's life?
1. St. Petersburg 2. Bayreuth 3. Salzburg 4. Zurich
13. Q. Which one of the following cities is the birthplace of Beethoven?
1. Bonn, Germany 2. Heidelberg, Germany 3. Salzburg, Austria 4. Vienna, Austria
14. Q. From which severe physical handicap did Beethoven suffer?
1. Deafness 2. Loss of sight 3. Paralysis 4. Loss of limb
15. Q. Seven great personalities of musical history are buried at the Central Cemetery of Vienna. Who are they?
1. Gluck 2. Haydn 3. Bach 4. Chopin 5. Liszt 6. Mozart 7. Beethoven 8. Schumann 9. Mahler 10. Wolf 11. Brahams 12. Tschaikowsky 13. Wagner 14. Rossini 15. Schubert
16. Q. What solo instrument did Beethoven play?
1. Piano 2. Flute 3. Clarinet
17. Q. A daughter of Mark Twain was married to a famous conductor. Who is he?
1. Koussevitzky 2. Gabrilowitsch 3. Goossens 4. Thomas
18. Q. One of the following Spanish composers was lost at sea when returning from the United States to his native land:
1. Albeniz 2. Falla 3. Granados 4. Pedrell
19. Q. Guido of Arezzo is renowned for:
1. Introducing the system known as solmization. 2. Patron of the early opera. 3. A Mass composer of the sixteenth century. 4. One of the foremost singers of Spain.
20. Q. At least two persons by the name of Martini are well known to the music-lover. What are their first names and what do the names stand for?

ANSWERS:
(1) Domenico Scarlatti. Rameau
(2) Vivaldi
(3) Rousseau. Nietzsche.
(4) As a chess player.
(5) Cherubini
(6) Empress Josephine
(7) Philipp Emanuel
(8) Schoenberg
(9) Johann Christian Bach
(10) Prince Esterhazy
(11) Weber
(12) Salzburg
(13) Bonn, Germany
(14) Deafness
(15) Gluck, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Wolf, Brahms, Schubert
(16) Piano
(17) Gabrilowitsch

(18) Granados
(19) Introducing the system known as solmization.
(20) (a) Giovanni Battista, commonly called Padre, Italian composer and theorist and teacher of Gluck, Mozart, and others.
(b) Nino, Italian tenor who has appeared in this country in Opera, Radio, and Film.

GROUP D:

(Scoring is the same as for Group C.)

1. Q. Which of the following contemporary tenors is famous for his Wagnerian roles?
1. Kiepura 2. Martini 3. Crooks 4. Melchior
2. Q. Two of the following names are known in connection with American bands:
1. Gilmore 2. Sousa 3. Carpenter 4. Dett
3. Q. Three of the following six composers are important for their study of Indian music:
1. Sessions 2. Skilton 3. Farwell 4. Jacobi 5. Ives 6. Hanson
4. Q. Which one of the following four conductors has appeared in films?
1. Toscanini 2. Stokowski 3. Golschmann 4. Stock
5. Q. The life of one of the following old Italian composers, surrounded with mystery, furnished the libretto of an opera by Flotow:
1. Corelli 2. Monteverdi 3. Stradella 4. Vivaldi
6. Q. Which of the following pairs of names belong together as those of people united in friendship:
1. Liszt and George Sand 2. Wagner and Wesendonck 3. Brahms and Wagner 4. Wolf and Strauss 5. Brahms and Clara Wieck
7. Q. Bizet, the composer of "Carmen," was a relative of a famous French opera composer. This composer was his father-in-law. Who was he?
1. Auber 2. Meyerbeer 3. Saint-Saens 4. Halevy
8. Q. The following are names of composers who resided in New England. True or false?
1. Charles M. Loeffler 2. Aaron Copeland 3. Rudolph Ganz 4. Horatio Parker
9. Q. Which member of the Damrosch family founded the New York Symphony Society?
1. Frank 2. Leopold 3. Walter
10. Q. Who of the following opera composers served temporarily as Paganini's accompanist?
1. Meyerbeer 2. Bellini 3. Paer 4. Rossini 5. Verdi
11. Q. Which of the following names are characteristic of romantic piano playing?
1. Chopin 2. J. S. Bach 3. Kuhlau 4. Liszt 5. Thalberg 6. Wagner
12. Q. Among America's famous radio commentators are:
1. Irving Kolodin 2. Roy Harris 3. Hendrik Van Loon 4. Samuel Chotzinoff 5. Deems Taylor 6. Milton Cross
13. Q. Among the postromantic composers, which was the conductor of the New York Philharmonic?
1. Johannes Brahms 2. Hugo Wolf 3. Gustav Mahler 4. Tschaikowsky
14. Q. Which of the following composers are representatives of Brazil and frequently played in America?
1. Falla 2. Martinu 3. Villa-Lobos 4. Iturbi 5. Chavez
15. Q. Which of the following Italian families are important in the history of violin making?
1. Amati 2. Este 3. Guarneri 4. Borgias 5. Cellinis
16. Q. In which of the following fields was Tschaikowsky's early training?
1. Engineering 2. Law 3. Music 4. Architecture
17. Q. Among the American musicologists, the following are outstanding:
1. Kinkeldey 2. Adler 3. Dent 4. Sonneck
18. Q. Gaspard de Salo is:
1. A famous Italian Rennaisance painter who specialized in paintings of musical instruments. 2. One of the pupils of Palestrina. 3. An Italian organist of the 18th century. 4. The first maker of the violoncello.
19. Q. Francois Tourte was called:
1. The Swan of Tuonela. 2. The Liszt of the Viola. 3. The Stradivari of the bow. 4. The Minstrel from the Holy Grail.
20. Q. Oscar Hammerstein's performances of standard operas took place in:
1. The Metropolitan Opera House in New York. 2. The Chicago City Opera. 3. The Manhattan Opera House in New York. 4. The Juilliard Institute. 5. Ravinia Park, in Illinois.

ANSWERS:

(1) Melchior
(2) Gilmore. Sousa.
(3) Skilton. Farwell. Jacobi.
(4) Stokowski
(5) Stradella
(6) Wagner and Wesendonck. Brahms and Clara Wieck.
(7) Halevy
(8) See "America's Voice in Symphonic Music" by Leonard Liebling.
(9) See "Symphony Orchestras in America" by Linton Martin.
(10) See "A Tribute to Paganini" by Arthur Hartmann.
(11) See "Pianism, Then and Now" by Moriz Rosenthal.
(12) See "Music and Radio" by Leonard Liebling.
(13) Gustav Mahler
(14) Villa-Lobos
(15) See "What Price Stradivarius" by S. A. Stochek.
(16) See "A Tribute to Tschaikowsky" by John Fredericks.
(17) See "Musicologists & 'Musicologists'" by Hans Rosenwald.
(18) See "The Violoncello" by Hans Hess.
(19) See "The Violoncello" by Hans Hess.
(20) See "Opera in America" by Pitts Sanborn.

GROUP E:

(The following statements may be true or false. For each statement which is correctly determined as true or false you may credit yourself with 5 points.)

1. Q. Cosima Wagner was the daughter of Liszt. True or false?
2. Q. Walter Damrosch is considered the father of American church music. True or false?
3. Q. Vladimir Golschmann is the conductor of the St. Louis Symphony. True or false?
4. Q. Howard Hanson is the director of the Eastman School of Music. True or false?
5. Q. Nicolas Slonimsky is not only known for his writings, but also as a conductor. True or false?
6. Q. Maurice Ravel lives as a French emigre in America. True or false.
7. Q. Deems Taylor is famous as a radio commentator for NBC. True or false?
8. Q. John Barbirolli is of Spanish extraction. True or false?
9. Q. Anton and Artur Rubinstein are father and son. True or false?
10. Q. Rossini was a famous gourmet as well as famous composer. True or false?
11. Q. Wagner died in Germany. True or false?
12. Q. Schumann discovered Brahms for the musical world? True or false?
13. Q. Joseph E. Maddy is associated with the music camp at Interlochen. True or false?
14. Q. Rudolph Ganz became Schelling's successor as conductor of the Young People's Concerts in New York. True or false?
15. Q. Father Finn is the founder of the New England Conservatory. True or false?
16. Q. Karl Wilson Gehrkens is the name of a famous American music educator. True or false?
17. Q. Paul Hindemith started out as a viola player. True or false?
18. Q. Rasoumovsky was a famous patron of music. True or false?
19. Q. Nadia Boulanger is associated with Malipiero. True or false?
20. Q. Czerny was a pupil of Beethoven. True or false?

ANSWERS:

(1) True
(2) False
(3) True
(4) True
(5) True
(6) False
(7) False
(8) False
(9) False
(10) True
(11) False
(12) True
(13) True
(14) True
(15) False
(16) True
(17) True
(18) True
(19) False
(20) True

GROUP F:

(Each of the following ten questions is worth 10 points. If your answer is partially correct you are entitled to a proportionate number of points.)

1. Q. What instrument is it said that Beethoven used in composing most of his important works?
2. Q. Name two famous Baritones who were newspaper men early in their careers.
3. Q. Of what country are Carlos Chavez and Sylvester Raveltes?
4. Q. Who was the first Metropolitan Opera star to be employed by the movies?
5. Q. What Viennese composer is often, but not legitimately, referred to as the "father of the symphony"?
6. Q. Name an English and a Bohemian composer who turned to the United States for themes for some of their works.
7. Q. Which of our great contemporary pianists is a successful inventor?
8. Q. Which conductor appeared in the motion picture "100 Men and a Girl"?
9. Q. What have the three following women in common: 1. Wilma Neruda 2. Camilla Ursa 3. Maud Powell
10. Q. Which musical pioneer made the most extensive coast-to-coast tours in the "Seventies"?

ANSWERS:

(1) See "The Romance of the Piano" by Moissaye Boguslawski.
(2) Lawrence Tibbett and Nelson Eddy.
(3) See "Music in Mexico" by Herbert Weinstock.
(4) See "Music in Talking Pictures" by Bruno David Ussher.
(5) Franz Josef Haydn.
(6) Samuel Coleridge-Taylor (English, the cantata "Hiawatha" and "The Death of Minnehaha"; Antonin Dvorak (Bohemian) "The New World Symphony" and "Humoresque."
(7) Josef Hofmann or Hans Barth.
(8) Leopold Stokowski.
(9) See "Women as Musicians" by Erica Morini.
(10) See "Symphony Orchestras in America" by Linton Martin.

GROUP G:

Scoring is the same as for Group F.)

1. Q. With what famous composer did Tschaikowsky study at the St. Petersburg Conservatory?
2. Q. Who was Nadejda Van Meck?
3. Q. How many known female violinists were there between 1610 and 1850?
   (a) 73 (b) 442 (c) 886
4. Q. What is the name of the composer of the St. Louis Blues?
5. Q. Name Paganini's most famous musical contemporary.
6. Q. Identify Patrick S. Gilmore.
7. Q. From what country did Michael Joseph Gusikov, the famous Marimba player, come?
8. Q. Who was Walter Aiken?
9. Q. What aspiration did Beethoven and Hummel have in common?
10. Q. Which of our young American violinists has two sisters on the concert stage?

ANSWERS:

(1) See "A Tribute to Tschaikowsky" by John Fredericks.
(2) See "A Tribute to Tschaikowsky" by John Fredericks.
(3) See "Women as Musicians" by Erica Morini.
(4) William C. Handy.
(5) See "A Tribute to Paganini" by Arthur Hartmann.
(6) See "Bands in the United States" by Peter Buys.
(7) See "The Marimba" by Clair Omar Musser.
(8) See "The School Orchestra and Band Movement in America" by Joseph Maddy.
(9) See "Pianism, Then and Now" by Moriz Rosenthal.
(10) Yehudi Menuhin. The sisters are Hephzibah and Yalta.

GROUP H:

Scoring is the same as for Group F.)

1. Q. On what instrument did each of the following conductors perform before entering the field of conducting?
   (1) Stokowski (2) Toscanini (3) Koussevitzky
   (4) Ormandy (5) Barbirolli
2. Q. What common incident occurred in the lives of the following:
   Schoenberg, Hindemith, Krenek?
3. Q. Who composed the eighty-six year old quartet recently played in an All American Chamber Music concert at the Library of Congress?
4. Q. What foreign-born symphony conductor was the first to offer an All American program?
5. Q. What American patroness of music is known as "The Lady Bountiful of Chamber Music"?
6. Q. What living American composer was once a truck driver?
7. Q. What living Russian composer has written eighteen symphonies?
8. Q. What composers made up the "French Six"?
9. Q. What great English composer was once an orange planter in Florida?
10. Q. Name three famous composers who also distinguished themselves as critics and writers on musical subjects.

ANSWERS:

(1) 1. Organ 2. 'Cello 3. Double Bass 4. Violin 5. 'Cello
(2) Emigrated from Germany to the United States since the rise of Naziism.
(3) John Knowles Paine
(4) Frederick A. Stock
(5) Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge
(6) Roy Harris
(7) Nicolai Miaskovsky
(8) Auric, Honegger, Milhaud, Poulenc, Tailleferre, Durey.
(9) Frederick Delius
(10) Schumann, Berlioz, and Wagner.

II PERTAINING TO FORM AND STYLE OF MUSIC

GROUP A:

(In the following questions select which of the answers you think is correct. Each question is worth 5 points. In some instances there may be more than one correct answer. If you answer only part of the question correctly, then you are entitled only to a proportionate number of points.)

1. Q. The Sarabande is:
   1. A stately dance in 4/4 time. 2. Supposed to be of Central American origin. 3. A typical movement of the Divertimento. 4. Another name for Chaconne.
2. Q. The Passacaglia is:
   1. Exclusively used in organ literature. 2. Based upon an ever-returning bass. 3. A dance which originated among the sailors of Basse Bretagne. 4. An Italian dance in duple time.
3. Q. Diapason is:
   1. Singing in octaves. 2. Another term for polyphony. 3. The Greek name for the octave. 4. The title of the journal of the American Guild of Organists.
4. Q. Impromptu is:
   1. A term equivalent to improvisation. 2. A term used by Schubert as a synonym for musical moment. 3. The plaint of the Savior on the cross. 4. Incidental music for a drama.
5. Q. Recitativo is characteristic of:
   1. Its closeness to speech. 2. Its coloratures. 3. Its use in the Mass. 4. The opportunities which it offers to the singers.
6. Q. Which of the following meters are most typical of the siciliano?
   (a) 12/8 (b) 3/4 (c) 4/4 (d) 5/4
7. Q. The composer who made the overture an organic element of the opera is:
   1. Gounod 2. Wagner 3. Gluck 4. Meyerbeer
8. Q. One of the following dance movements frequently makes its appearance in the symphony:
   1. The sarabande 2. The minuet 3. The polonaise 4. The tango
9. Q. Homophonic style is one which:
   1. Emphasizes many voices. 2. Emphasizes crescendi. 3. Emphasizes the upper voice. 4. Uses twelve tones.
10. Q. Troparion is:
    1. A hymnal by Sandra Gregory. 2. A Greek word meaning "phrase." 3. A short motif in the Wagnerian opera. 4. A verse of the ritual. 5. A group of verses in the Eastern ritual.
11. Q. The singing of the Serbian Church of today is conducted in the following style:
    1. With chamber orchestra. 2. With organs. 3. With combination of harp and guitar. 4. With reed instruments. 5. A cappella.

12. Q. Rubato means:
1. Using different keys at the same time. 2. Using different meters at the same time. 3. Slight relaxation of the meter in performance. 4. It is a synonym for "ritardando."
13. Q. Which of the following entail a definite set of rules: 1. Capriccio 2. Toccata 3. Fugue 4. Nocturne
14. Q. Is the word choir used (1) chorally, (2) orchestrally, or (3) architecturally?
15. Q. Is the word chorus used in connection with (1) singers, (2) a part of a musical score, or (3) a musical instrument?
16. Q. A cappella means:
1. Liturgical music 2. Mixed choir 3. Without accompaniment
17. Q. Allemande is:
1. A German national or peasant dance. 2. A French school of composition. 3. A foreign phrase meaning "smoothly." 4. A movement in a suite of Bach.
18. Q. Andante is a term in music meaning:
1. Lively 2. Moderately slow 3. Staccato-like
19. Q. Antiphony may be defined as:
1. Responsive or alternate singing. 2. Discord. 3. Antonym of "polyphony."
20. Q. Atonality is:
1. Used in works which employ the chromatic scale freely with no definite key center or tonic. 2. Music which revolves around a single tone.

ANSWERS:

(1) Supposed to be of Central American origin.
(2) Based upon an ever-returning bass.
(3) The Greek name for the octave, and the title of the journal of the American Guild of Organists.
(4) A term equivalent to improvisation.
(5) Its closeness to speech.
(6) 12/8
(7) Gluck
(8) The minuet.
(9) Emphasizes the upper voice.
(10) See "Music in the Near East" by Alexander J. Savine.
(11) See "Music in the Near East" by Alexander J. Savine.
(12) Slight relaxation of the meter in performance.
(13) Fugue
(14) Used in connection with all three—CHORALLY: Four or more singers in a church. ORCHESTRALLY: The sections or divisions such as the strings, woodwinds, brasses and percussion. ARCHITECTURALLY: In Abbey or cathedral churches that portion set apart for daily services, usually the eastern end. Choir is also used when speaking of soft-toned organ pipes.
(15) All three—1. A group or company of singers. 2. That part of an opera or oratorio intended for the company to sing, also a refrain to a song. 3. It was the name of an obsolete instrument of the trumpet family.
(16) Without accompaniment.
(17) A German dance, and also part of a suite of Bach.
(18) Moderately slow.
(19) Responsive or alternate singing.
(20) A quality of music which employs the chromatic scale freely with no definite key center or tonic.

GROUP B:

(For scoring, same as Group A.)

1. Q. Bacchanalian songs are:
1. Songs composed by Bacchus. 2. Drinking songs. 3. Compositions of the school of composers following Bach.
2. Q. Barcarolle is:
1. An air sung by gondoliers. 2. A lyrical instrumental composition. 3. A form of Italian opera.
3. Q. Berceuse is:
1. A national Spanish dance. 2. A national French dance. 3. Cradle song.
4. Q. Bolero is:
1. A Spanish dance. 2. A Tahitian dance. 3. An African dance.
5. Q. Bourree is:
1. Part of a sonata. 2. A Spanish or French dance. 3. A mixture of various national folk forms.
6. Q. Buffa means:
1. Brief 2. Comic 3. Robust
7. Q. Cantata may be defined as:
1. A lively dance. 2. A work for chorus and solo.
8. Q. Caprice is:
1. A form of a Viennese dance. 2. Ballet music. 3. Whimsical work of irregular form.
9. Q. Chanson is:
1. A song or ballad. 2. A liturgical chant. 3. A march.
10. Q. Largo is:
1. Slow, noble, or broad. 2. The third movement of suites. 3. Antonym of "minuet."
11. Q. A concerto is:
1. A composition for one or more solo instruments, with orchestral accompaniment. 2. A concert including the works of only a single composer. 3. An informal concert. 4. A short symphony.
12. Q. Cacophony is:
1. Discord. 2. A Brazilian march. 3. Music imitative of animals.
13. Q. Czardas, or Csárdás is:
1. A national dance of the Russian court. 2. A Magyar dance. 3. A school of composers, commissioned by Peter the Great.
14. Q. Diatonic is:
1. The antonym of chromatic. 2. Song for two voices. 3. A chord of two tones.
15. Q. Elegy means:
1. A song dedicated to an individual upon his death. 2. A dirge, or mournful composition. 3. A composition for violin.
16. Q. Epithalamium is:
1. A funeral composition. 2. A wedding ode. 3. A composition without words.
17. Q. Etude is:
1. A study. 2. A mazurka. 3. A composition intended solely for the piano.
18. Q. Euphony is:
1. A Far Eastern form of music. 2. A European form of music. 3. Harmony.
19. Q. In which system did Palestrina and his colleagues write?
(1) Harmonic (2) Polyphonic (3) Monophonic (4) Monodic
20. Q. A madrigal means:
1. An unaccompanied chorus with elaborate counterpoint. 2. Spanish dance. 3. A short amorous or pastoral lyric.

ANSWERS:

(1) Drinking songs.
(2) An air sung by gondoliers, and a lyrical instrumental composition.
(3) Cradle song.
(4) Spanish dance.
(5) Spanish or French dance.
(6) Comic.
(7) A work for chorus and solo.
(8) Whimsical work of irregular form.
(9) A song or ballad.
(10) Slow, noble, or broad.
(11) A composition for one or more solo instruments, with orchestral accompaniment.
(12) Discord.
(13) Magyar dance.
(14) Antonym of "chromatic."
(15) A dirge, or mournful composition.
(16) A wedding ode.
(17) A study.
(18) Harmony.
(19) Polyphonic.
(20) An unaccompanied chorus with elaborate counterpoint, or, a short, amorous or pastoral lyric.

GROUP C:

(The following statements may be true or false. For each statement which is correctly determined true or false you may credit yourself with 5 points.)

1. Q. Tempo rubato (a) was favored by Mozart. (b) Is characteristic of "swing" music. True or false?
2. Q. Zigeuner music is Gypsy music. True or false?
3. Q. Symphony compositions are written for groups of three classifications of instruments: String, wood-wind and brass. True or false?
4. Q. Vaudeville may be defined as a country ballad or roundelay. True or false?
5. Q. Chromatic alteration was typical of church modes. True or false?
6. Q. The Alto clef is the "C" clef on the third line of the staff. True or false?
7. Q. Battitura means battle piece. True or false?
8. Q. Program music is music with a more or less definite description of events or moods. True or false?

9. Q. The quadrille originated with the introduction of the contredanse. True or false?
10. Q. Camera means chamber? True or false?
11. Q. The prelude can be found in every suite. True or false?
12. Q. "Fa" is always "F" in the fixed "Do" system. True or false?
13. Q. To transpose means to change the pitch of a composition an octave higher or lower. True or false?
14. Q. (a) Philharmonic may be defined as "music loving." True or false?
    (b) Philharmonic is a literal synonym of "symphonic." True or false?
15. Q. Far Eastern music is polyphonic. True or false?
16. Q. The usage of ninth chords in succession without resolution is possible. True or false?
17. Q. Passion music is the musical setting of the suffering of Christ. True or false?
18. Q. A Trio is a composition for three instruments or voices. True or false?
19. Q. A Quarto is a composition for four instruments or voices. True or false?
20. Q. Scherzo is a form developed from the minuet and finally substituted by Beethoven and his successors as a movement of a sonata or symphony. True or false?

ANSWERS:
(1) (a) False (b) True
(2) True
(3) False
(4) True
(5) False
(6) True
(7) False
(8) True
(9) True
(10) True
(11) False
(12) True
(13) False
(14) (a) True (b) False
(15) See "Music in the Far East" by Claude Lapham.
(16) See "Modern Harmony" by Tom Timothy.
(17) True
(18) True
(19) False
(20) True

GROUP D:

(For scoring credit yourself with 10 points for each term which is correctly defined.)

Define the following:
Q. 1. Fugue
Q. 2. Minuet
Q. 3. Variation
Q. 4. Rondo
Q. 5. Concerto
Q. 6. Cadenza
Q. 7. Symphonic poem
Q. 8. Music drama
Q. 9. Aria
Q. 10. Polonaise

ANSWERS:
(1) An instrumental form in contrapuntal style based upon a definite arrangement and utilizing a subject, the principal theme, and answer which can be "real or fugal."
(2) A dance form of French origin which received its name from the steps used in performance. It is always in triple time.
(3) The change of a theme for the display of workmanship or as a nucleus of emotional drama; it came into its own in the 16th Century and grew to an independent musical form.
(4) A form characteristic of the alternation of a theme and its changing second theme, called couplet.
(5) A form characteristic of opposed and unequal groups of either instruments or voices; a composition for one or more solo instruments with orchestral accompaniment.
(6) Brilliant passage work or further thematic development introduced into the concerto before the close of a movement (generally on the dominant 6-4 chord).
(7) An orchestral composition, frequently of one movement, and always based upon a program. The term was first applied by Liszt.
(8) The term used by Wagner in order to designate an opera with emphasis upon scenic action, philosophy and poetry. Now often used for any operatic work without showy arias and bel canto.
(9) The most important form of the opera but also present in oratorio and cantata. Usually a solo song, it is customarily written in the ternary form and gives the singer the opportunity for vocal display.
(10) A Polish folk dance in 3/4 time which had its origin in the 16th Century and later was glorified in art music by Bach, Handel, Mozart, Chopin and others.

GROUP E:

(Scoring is the same as for Group D.)

What is the English meaning of the following foreign musical terms:
1. Q. Nachtmusik
2. Q. Romanza
3. Q. Lied
4. Q. Madrigal
5. Q. Aubade
6. Q. Staendchen
7. Q. Kyrie
8. Q. Dur
9. Q. Galliard
10. Q. Solfeggio

ANSWERS:
(1) The German word for Nightmusic.
(2) The Italian word for a song or instrumental piece of romantic character.
(3) The German word for song.
(4) The Italian word for secular vocal compositions of pastoral character.
(5) The French counterpart of nocturne designating music to be performed in the morning or dealing with "nature in the morning."
(6) The German word for serenade.
(7) The Greek word in the Mass meaning "O Lord."
(8) The German word for "major" in major key.
(9) French word originally designating a stately walking dance and used as such in the suite; later more liberally applied to any music of gay dance character.
(10) The Italian technical term suggesting sight singing.

GROUP F:

(Credit yourself with 20 points for each question you answer correctly.)

1. Q. What is the essential difference between the idioms of classical or romantic music and the ultra-modern?
2. Q. Explain the twelve-tone system.
3. Q. What are the aims of the Expressionistic School?
4. Q. What does the term neoclassicism in modern music suggest?
5. Q. What does the term "Musical Impressionism" signify?

ANSWERS:
(1) In classical and romantic music, so-called, dissonant chords are prepared and carefully resolved; in ultra-modern music such is not necessarily the case. In the older music certain rules of form or musical architecture are carefully followed, in the newer the form is of freer and more erratic growth, evolving from the theme or program back of the music. Tonality played a much greater role in the drama of older music than it plays in these days.
(2) The twelve-tone system is the arrangement of all twelve tones of the scale in a set order. This represents the material from which the composer draws his composition. The arbitrary invention of the "row" is followed with utmost mathematical exactitude. The composer's ingenuity is directed to the elaboration of the "row" for which he uses all devices of contrapuntal art (inversion, elongation, elision, interpolation, crab, etc.).
(3) The aim of the expressionists is to make music a direct expression of the composer's personality (rather than a record of his reactions to the outside world). In their radical exclusion of all literary and philosophical factors from music the expressionists create a new language of tones often falsely called atonality.
(4) The return of composers to the aesthetics of the pre-romantic era. Neoclassicism strives for a greater emphasis upon forms and the revival of classical tendencies. Its achievements (on which we as yet lack perspective) are based upon a new soberness and objectiveness and the rebirth of such forgotten forms as the sonata form, the suite, the variation, the concerto grosso, etc.
(5) Musical impressionism signifies an aesthetic attitude of composers of the late nineteenth century, especially in France, who desired to express emotional reactions rather than to attempt the depiction of tangible subjects.

III PERTAINING TO MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

GROUP A:

(Credit yourself with 5 points for each question you answer correctly.)

In what class, (brass, woodwind, string, or percussion) are the following instruments?

1. Q. Piano
2. Q. Lute
3. Q. Bassoon
4. Q. Marimba
5. Q. French Horn
6. Q. Cornet
7. Q. Trumpet
8. Q. Trombone
9. Q. Flute
10. Q. Piccolo
11. Q. Tuba
12. Q. Clarinet
13. Q. Oboe
14. Q. English Horn
15. Q. Saxophone
16. Q. Tympani
17. Q. Harpsichord
18. Q. Viola
19. Q. Zither
20. Q. Cembalo

ANSWERS:

(1) String
(2) String
(3) Woodwind
(4) Percussion
(5) Brass
(6) Brass
(7) Brass
(8) Brass
(9) Woodwind
(10) Woodwind
(11) Brass
(12) Woodwind
(13) Woodwind
(14) Woodwind
(15) Brass
(16) Percussion
(17) String
(18) String
(19) String
(20) String

GROUP B:

(For scoring, credit yourself with 5 points for each question you answer correctly. If you answer only part of the question correctly, then you are entitled to only the proportionate number of points for that question.)

1. Q. The Marimba is the national musical instrument of:
   (a) Certain tribes of Africa. (b) Southern Spain.
   (c) Central America. (d) Sicily.
2. Q. The Violoncello was developed from:
   (a) The violino-piccolo. (b) The viola de gamba.
   (c) The viola da braccio.
3. Q. The strings of a 'cello are tuned:
   (a) An octave higher than those of a string bass. (b) A fifth below the violas. (c) An octave lower than those of the viola. (d) A fourth lower than those of the viola.
4. Q. The tuba may also be called
   (a) Euphonium (b) Bommadon (c) Bass Clarinet
5. Q. Which of the following members of the Clarinet family are frequently used in gypsy bands?
   (a) B-flat clarinet. (b) Alto clarinet
   (c) Bass clarinet. (d) A-flat piccolo.
6. Q. The range of the French Horn is:
   (a) One and one-half octaves. (b) Two octaves.
   (c) Four octaves. (d) Five octaves.
7. Q. The Schofar is:
   (a) A Greek name for a musical dictionary. (b) The writings of Plato, on music. (c) The horn used by the Hebrews. (d) A modern instrument of the woodwind family.
8. Q. The flute has a chromatic range of:
   (a) One and a half octaves. (b) Two octaves.
   (c) Three octaves. (d) Four octaves.
9. Q. The music for Bassoon is written in two of the following clefs:
   (a) Alto. (b) Tenor. (c) Baritone (d) Bass.
10. Q. What is the most generally accepted estimate of the total output of instruments by Stradivari?
    (a) 200 (b) 400 (c) 650 (d) 1,100 (e) 1,500
    Approximately how many of these instruments are known at the present time?
    (a) 50 (b) 250 (c) 500 (d) 750 (e) 1,000
11. Q. Which of the following are modern derivations of the lute?
    (a) Guitar (b) Flute (c) Bassoon (d) Mandolin
12. Q. The Saxophone has been in existence since:
    (a) 1740 (b) 1790 (c) 1840 (d) 1890
13. Q. What modern instrument is in the same family as the Clavicytherium, Clavichord and Virginal?
14. Q. The framework of the modern Piano carries a stress from the stretched strings amounting to:
    (a) 1,000 lbs. (b) 10,000 lbs. (c) 25,000 lbs.
    (d) 36,000 lbs.
15. Q. The hammer action characteristic of the modern piano goes back to:
    (a) An instrument maker of Padua. (b) The violinist Tartini. (c) Handel. (d) To the Greeks.
16. Q. A double bass most nearly resembles:
    (a) The Horn (b) The Violin (c) The Tuba
    (d) The 'cello.
17. Q. The Plectrum is:
    (a) The head of a drum. (b) A device used to pluck strings. (c) A stringed instrument.
18. Q. Frets are:
    (a) Musical notations. (b) Ridges across the necks of stringed instruments to produce different pitches. (c) Keys on stringed instruments to tighten the strings.
19. Q. The pitch of the tones produced by reeds is governed by:
    (a) The vibrating length of the reed. (b) By the column of air with which the reed is connected. (c) By a combination of both processes.
20. Q. A bow usually contains the following number of hairs:
    (a) From 50 to 100. (b) From 175 to 250. (c) From 400 to 500.

ANSWERS:

(1) See "The Marimba" by Clair Omar Musser
(2) See "The Violoncello" by Hans Hess.
(3) See "The Violoncello" by Hans Hess.
(4) Euphonium.
(5) See "The Clarinet Family" by Simeon Bellison.
(6) See "The French Horn" by T. M. Justus.
(7) See "The French Horn" by T. M. Justus.
(8) See "The Flute" by Rex Elton Fair.
(9) See "The Bassoon" by Benjamin Kohon.
(10) See "Old Violins" by Carl Becker & William I. Penery.
(11) See "Fretted Instruments" by Jack Lundin and Letritia Kandle.
(12) See "The Saxophone" by Sigurd M. Rascher.
(13) See "The Romance Of The Piano" by Moissaye Boguslawski.
(14) See "The Pianoforte" by William Braid White.
(15) An instrument maker of Padua.
(16) The 'cello.
(17) A device used to pluck the strings.
(18) Ridges across the necks of stringed instruments to produce different pitches.
(19) By the vibrating length of the reed, by the column of air with which the reed is connected and by a combination of both processes.
(20) From 175 to 250 hairs.

GROUP C:

(The following statements may be true or false. For each statement which is correctly determined true or false you may credit yourself with 5 points.)

1. Q. Members of the Clarinet family are the following: Saxophone, Basset Horn, Contra Bass Clarinet, Oboe. True or false?
2. Q. The Lute is a fretted instrument. True or false?
3. Q. Stradivari changed his models many times. True or false?
4. Q. In the last quarter of a century, the Harp has undergone a complete transformation. True or false?
5. Q. In the 18th Century, it was customary for conductors to direct opera performances seated at the Harpsichord. True or false?
6. Q. The English Horn is a tenor Oboe. True or false?
7. Q. The Ophicleide belongs to the Tuba family. True or false?
8. Q. Céleste is the name of an organ stop. True or false?
9. Q. The Harmonium is sometimes called "The American Organ." True or false?
10. Q. The Alto Horn is a regular member of military bands.

True or false?
11. Q. The Hecklephone is a double reed instrument. True or false?
12. Q. The Dulcimer is an old string instrument which had a range of four octaves. True or false?
13. Q. The Double Horn is easier to play than the French Horn. True or false?
14. Q. The name given to the modern piano by its inventor was "Pianoforte." True or false?
15. Q. There are fifteen different kinds of clarinets. True or false?
16. Q. A Virginal is a small spinet-like instrument. True or false?
17. Q. All Trombones operate on the sliding tube principle. True or false?
18. Q. The Piccolo may be described as a small flute sounding an octave higher. True or false?
19. Q. The Saxophone has been in existence less than 100 years. True or false?
20. Q. In order to play the chromatic scale an instrument must be built to have seven fundamental tones. True or false?

ANSWERS:
(1) See "The Clarinet Family" by Simeon Bellison.
(2) See "Fretted Instruments" by Jack Lundin and Letritia Kandle.
(3) See "Violin Making" by Ladislav Kaplan.
(4) See "The Harp" by Carlos Salzedo.
(5) See "A Few Words On Conducting" by John Barbirolli.
(6) False
(7) True
(8) True
(9) True
(10) True
(11) True
(12) False
(13) See "The French Horn," by T. M. Justus.
(14) True
(15) True. Tiny A-Flat, Small F, G, E-Flat, D, C, B-Flat, A, F—(or Basset-Horn), E-Flat alto, C Bass, B-Flat Bass, A-Bass, E-Flat Contra bass, and B-Flat contra bass.
(16) True
(17) False
(18) True
(19) True
(20) True

GROUP D:

(For scoring, credit yourself with 5 points for each question you answer correctly.)

1. Q. Which instrument is most frequently used for the accompaniment of a cowboy song?
2. Q. Name three modern fretted instruments.
3. Q. Who was the inventor of the "thumb position" in playing 'cello?
4. Q. Who was the inventor of the Clarinet?
5. Q. Which instruments used in band music have retarded its processes of popularization?
6. Q. Define harmonics.
7. Q. What have the following family names in common? Seraphino. Neuner. Hellmer. Cotreras. Bernandel. Gilkes.
8. Q. To whom is the invention of the piano credited?
9. Q. What is the meaning of the word "embouchure?"
10. Q. Which was the most popular percussive instrument in the United States preceding the last decade?
11. Q. In what century was the first organ believed to have been built?
12. Q. Is it possible to control the volume of tone on the modern organ?
13. Q. In what century did the banjo originate?
14. Q. Define flageolet.
15. Q. Tympani are turned by means of tension screws. What is their range?
16. Q. In a wind instrument does the lengthening of the tube produce higher or lower tones?
17. Q. The Accordion as a free reed instrument was invented by Damien in Vienna, in what Century?
18. Q. What was the effect of Sebastian Erard's improvement on the harp?
19. Q. Name the instruments which are similar to the violin in the order of their range and size, descending from that of the violin.
20. Q. Does pitch of tone vary directly or inversely with rapidity of vibration?

ANSWERS:
(1) See "The Song of the Cowboy" by Alice G. Whitmire.
(2) See "Fretted Instruments" by Jack Lundin and Letritia Kandle.
(3) See "The Violoncello" by Hans Hess.
(4) See "The Clarinet Family" by Simeon Bellison.
(5) See "America Likes Band Music" by Eugene La Barre.
(6) Partial tones that go to make up the compound vibrations.
(7) See "Old Violins" by Carl Becker & William I. Penery.
(8) See "The Romance Of The Piano" by Moissaye Boguslawski.
(9) See "Embouchure And Its Development" by William Costello.
(10) See "The Marimba" by Clair Omar Musser.
(11) See "History Of The Organ" by George White.
(12) See "History Of The Organ" by George White.
(13) See "Fretted Instruments" by Jack Lundin and Letritia Kandle.
(14) An early form of a flute, and a general term for harmonics on the violin.
(15) About five full tones.
(16) Lowers the tone.
(17) In the 19th Century. See "History Of The Accordion" by Charles Nunzio.
(18) Sebastian Erard perfected the double-action harp which made it possible for all keys being obtainable on the modern harp in fairly quick succession by the manipulation of pedals.
(19) Viola, Cello, and Double Bass.
(20) Directly.

IV
PERTAINING TO MUSICAL INSTITUTIONS

GROUP A.

(In the following questions, select which of the answers suggested may be correct. Each question is worth 5 points.)

1. Q. There are in the public schools and colleges of the United States, approximately the following number of bands:
(a) 10,000 (b) 20,000 (c) 32,200 (d) 40,000 (e) 50,000
2. Q. The first publicly-performed production representative of the Opera was performed in:
(a) 1500 (b) 1600 (c) 1700 (d) 1800
3. Q. The Island of Bali has the following number of orchestras:
(a) 50 (b) 1,000 (c) Several thousands.
4. Q. How many Community Music Schools are there in the United States?
(a) 13 (b) 37 (c) 53 (d) 95
5. Q. When were women first admitted into the Musician's Union?
(a) 1894 (b) 1904 (c) 1914 (d) 1924
6. Q. When was the first American native female orchestra founded?
(a) 1872 (b) 1887 (c) 1902 (d) 1917
7. Q. The Mutual Broadcasting System's musical director is Alfred Wallenstein, who has made a name for himself by:
(a) The performance of Mozart Piano Concertos. (b) The performance of Bach Cantatas. (c) The performance of Handel Operas. (d) The performance of Haydn Symphonies.
8. Q. The musical mentor for CBS is:
(a) Olin Downes (b) Laurence Gilman (c) Ernest La Prade (d) Howard Barlow (e) Deems Taylor.
9. Q. In 1929 the famous NBC Music Appreciation Hour was initiated. Who was its founder and propagator?
(a) Frank Black (b) Vladimir Golschmann (c) Oscar Thompson (d) Frank Damrosch (e) Walter Damrosch.
10. Q. Among the prominent living musicians, the following are embittered enemies of radio:
(a) Heifetz (b) Toscanini (c) Rachmaninoff (d) Bartok (e) Kreisler
11. Q. The Chicago Symphony is one of the few which has had only two conductors since its inception. Which of the following are they?
(a) Ambroise Thomas (2) Theodore Thomas (c) Frederick Stock (d) Hans Kindler
12. Q. The following are names of the earliest conductors of the New York Philharmonic:
(a) Theodore Eisfeld (b) John Knowles Paine (c) Walter Damrosch (d) Carl Bergman
13. Q. The Philharmonic Society of Boston was inaugurated by:
(a) A New England journalist. (b) A tobacconist from South America who had settled in Maine. (c) A student of Divinity at Harvard University. (d) A musician emigree from Germany.

14. Q. What following figures do you consider most authentic as the sum total spent by 16 major symphony orchestras of the United States for their maintenance?
(a) $500,000 (b) $2,000,000 (c)$5,000,000
(d) $8,000,000

15. Q. Collegium Musicum is:
(a) The Latin word for conservatory. (b) The name of amateur organizations performing instrumental music. (c) The name of a composition by Schumann. (d) A chorale ensemble for performance of Bach Fugues.

16. Q. The Konzertmeister in the orchestra is:
(a) The conductor. (b) The organist or pianist. (c) The first violinist. (d) The assistant conductor.

17. Q. Among the following festivals in the United States, one is devoted exclusively to the performance of Mozart operas. Which is it?
(a) Ravinia Park, Illinois. (b) Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. (c) Evanston Festival, Illinois. (d) Ridgefield Festival, Connecticut.

18. Q. Which of the aforementioned festivals is devoted to Bach?

19. Q. The Juilliard Musical Institute derives its name from:
(a) A famous New York cotton merchant. (b) A famous singer of the Metropolitan Opera. (c) The first conductor of the New York Symphony. (d) The founder of the school, a famous American teacher.

20. Q. Which five of the following are operas written by American composers which have been produced at the Metropolitan Opera House?
(a) The King's Henchman. (b) Peter Ibbetson. (c) Girl Of The Golden West. (d) The Flying Dutchman. (e) Emperor Jones. (f) Merry Mount. (g) The Bartered Bride: (h) The Man Without A Country. (i) Louise.

ANSWERS:

(1) See "Bands In The United States" by Peter Buys.
(2) See "Opera: Past, Present and Future" by Oscar Thompson.
(3) See "Music Of The Far East" by Claude Lapham.
(4) See "The Community Music School" by Janet D. Schenck.
(5) See "Women As Musicians" by Erica Morini.
(6) See "Women As Musicians" by Erica Morini.
(7) See "Music And Radio" by Leonard Liebling.
(8) See "Music And Radio" by Leonard Liebling.
(9) See "Music And Radio" by Leonard Liebling.
(10) See "Music And Radio" by Leonard Liebling.
(11) See "Symphony Orchestras in America" by Linton Martin.
(12) See "Symphony Orchestras in America" by Linton Martin.
(13) See "Symphony Orchestras in America" by Linton Martin.
(14) See "Symphony Orchestras in America" by Linton Martin.
(15) The name of amateur organizations performing instrumental music.
(16) The first violinist.
(17) Ridgefield Festival, Connecticut.
(18) Bethlehem, Pennsylvania.
(19) A famous New York cotton merchant.
(20) Peter Ibbetson, The King's Henchman, Emperor Jones, Merry Mount, Man Without A Country.

GROUP B:

(For scoring, credit yourself with 10 points for each question your answer correctly.)

What organizations do the following initials stand for:

1. Q. AGO
2. Q. AFM
3. Q. AFRA
4. Q. ASCAP
5. Q. AGMA
6. Q. NAPA
7. Q. SWPA
8. Q. BMI
9. Q. ACA
10. Q. MPPA

ANSWERS:

(1) American Guild Of Organists
(2) American Federation Of Musicians
(3) American Federation Of Radio Artists
(4) American Society Of Composers Authors and Publishers
(5) American Guild Of Musical Artists
(6) National Association Of Performing Artists
(7) Song Writers Protective Association
(8) Broadcast Music, Incorporated
(9) American Composers Alliance
(10) Music Publishers Protective Association

GROUP C:

(For scoring credit yourself with 5 points for each question you answer correctly.)

Who are the conductors of the following orchestras?

1. Q. Philadelphia Orchestra
2. Q. New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra
3. Q. Boston Symphony Orchestra
4. Q. Cleveland Orchestra
5. Q. St. Louis Symphony Orchestra
6. Q. Chicago Symphony Orchestra
7. Q. NBC Symphony Orchestra
8. Q. Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra
9. Q. San Francisco Symphony Orchestra
10. Q. Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra
11. Q. The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra
12. Q. New Orleans Civic Symphony Orchestra
13. Q. CBS Symphony Orchestra
14. Q. St. Louis Little Symphony
15. Q. Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra
16. Q. Victor Salon Orchestra
17. Q. Toronto Symphony Orchestra
18. Q. Philadelphia Little Symphony
19. Q. Illinois Symphony Orchestra
20. Q. Metropolitan Opera Orchestra

ANSWERS:

(1) Eugene Ormandy
(2) John Barbirolli
(3) Serge Koussevitzky
(4) Artur Rodzinski
(5) Vladimir Golschmann
(6) Frederick Stock
(7) Arturo Toscanini
(8) Eugene Goossens
(9) Pierre Monteux
(10) Fritz Reiner
(11) Fabian Sevitzky
(12) Ole Windingstad
(13) Howard Barlow
(14) Hans Lange
(15) Dmitri Mitropoulos
(16) Nathaniel Shilkret
(17) Sir Ernest MacMillan
(18) Jceseph Barone
(19) Izler Solomon
(20) Erich Leinsdorf

GROUP D:

(For scoring credit yourself with 10 points for each question you answer correctly.)

Identify the following popular orchestras by their theme songs:

1. Q. "Summertime"
2. Q. "Let's Dance" or "Goodbye"
3. Q. "How I'll Miss You When The Summer Is Gone"
4. Q. "Jazznochracy"
5. Q. "Toy Trumpet"
6. Q. "Apurksody"
7. Q. "Thinking Of You"
8. Q. "The Very Thought Of You"
9. Q. "Nightmare"
10. Q. "My Time Is Your Time"

ANSWERS:

(1) Bob Crosby
(2) Benny Goodman
(3) Hal Kemp
(4) Jimmie Lunceford
(5) Raymond Scott
(6) Gene Krupa
(7) Kay Kyser
(8) Ray Noble
(9) Artie Shaw
(10) Rudy Vallee

GROUP E:

(Scoring is the same as for Group D.)

1. Q. Which is the oldest symphony in America?
2. Q. What is the "Schubert Memorial?"
3. Q. To what cities do the following bands belong:
(a) The Grenadier Guards Band. (b) The Garde Republicane Band. (c) The Chieti Band.
4. Q. What types of musicians were first used in the American army?
5. Q. When was the first American military band established?
6. Q. What is the name of the first famous Negro singing ensemble?
7. Q. What was the sound film which is said to have revolutionized motion pictures?

8. Q. What are the purposes of community music schools?
9. Q. What motion picture was the first to receive an Academy Award from the Academy Of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for its music?
10. Q. Name four American libraries important for their collections of musical material.

ANSWERS:

(1) See "Symphony Orchestras in America" by Linton Martin.
(2) See "Music in the Southland" by H. Knox Spain.
(3) See "America Likes Band Music" by Captain Eugene La Barre.
(4) See "Military Music In America" by William Carter White.
(5) See "Military Music In America" by William Carter White.
(6) See "A Panorama of Negro Music" by William C. Handy.
(7) See "Music In The Films" by Bruno David Ussher.
(8) See "The Community Music School" by Janet D. Schenck.
(9) See "Music In The Films" by Bruno David Ussher.
(10) See "Musicologists & 'Musicologists'" by Hans Rosenwald.

GROUP F:

(Ten points awarded for each question answered correctly.)

There are a number of music festivals and summer music concerts and performances in the open-air, can you name those which take place in the following places?

1. Q. Tanglewood, Lennox, Mass.
2. Q. Lake Chautauqua, N. Y.
3. Q. Carmel, Calif.
4. Q. Cincinnati, Ohio.
5. Q. St. Louis, Mo.
6. Q. Hollywood, Calif.
7. Q. Chicago, Illinois.
8. Q. New York City.
9. Q. Peterbrough, N. H.
10. Q. Philadelphia, Penn.

ANSWERS:

(1) Berkshire Festival
(2) Chautauqua Festival
(3) Bach Festival
(4) Cincinnati Zoo Operas
(5) St. Louis Summer Opera
(6) Hollywood Bowl Concerts
(7) Grant Park Concerts
(8) Lewisohn Stadium Concerts
(9) Mac Dowell Colony Festival
(10) Robin Hood Dell Concerts

V
PERTAINING TO THE LITERATURE OF MUSIC

GROUP A:

(Below are listed synopses of various famous operas. A number of questions are asked concerning each opera. A perfect answer for each question is worth 10 points. If only part of the question is answered correctly then you are entitled to only a proportionate number of points for that question.)

1. Q. The title role is that of a slave to the daughter of the Pharaoh, but the slave is actually the daughter of the invading Ethiopian king. She loves the man who has been chosen to lead the defense of Egypt against the invader. The daughter of the Pharaoh is in love with the same man, who returns in triumph, bringing with him the invading Ethiopian king as prisoner. The successful leader is engaged to marry the Pharaoh's daughter but is persuaded to flee with the slave girl and rearm the Ethiopians.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the Pharaoh's daughter?
   (d) What is the name of the leading male character?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
2. Q. A Count, who is in disguise, wishes to marry the ward of a doctor, who also wants to marry her. A man, who's vocation gives the title to the opera, aids the Count by stealing a key for him. The ward, believing that the Count is untrue to her prepares to marry the doctor.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the female lead?
   (d) What is the name of the male lead?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
3. Q. A poet, painter, musician and philosopher live in a Paris attic in a state of poverty and starvation. One of them obtains sufficient money for a meal which all, except the poet, attend. He remains to write an article, and meets the female lead who stumbles into his room in a faint. The romance between the female lead and the male lead (the poet) is deterred by excessive jealousy.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the poet?
   (d) What is the name of the female lead?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
4. Q. The man who plays the title role murders the head of the government and takes the throne of the country. A novitiate of a monastery impersonates the murdered head of the government, but is condemned to death by the aroused public.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) In what country does the action take place?
   (d) What is the conclusion of the opera?
5. Q. The female lead plays the title role. She is a coquette who is arrested for fighting in a factory. The sergeant put in charge of her, overcome by her beauty and offers of love, permits her to escape. He is sentenced to prison and upon his release joins a smuggling ring to which she belongs. He is called away to his mother's deathbed, and upon his return finds her in love with a bullfighter.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the sergeant?
   (d) What is the name of the bullfighter?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
6. Q. A young lady has been betrayed by the local Don Juan, who is in love with a married woman. The young lady tells the husband, and he fights a duel with his wife's lover.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) What is the name of the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the lover?
   (d) What is the name of the woman who has been betrayed?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
7. Q. The man who plays the title role enters the home of a government official to abduct his daughter who has attracted him. He is discovered and in escaping, kills the father. Meanwhile, the leading male character falls in love with a peasant girl, breaking up her wedding party in an attempt to seduce her.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the conclusion of the opera?
8. Q. There are two operas which revolve around a scholar who receives supernatural aid in exchange for his soul.
   (a) What are the names of the operas?
   (b) Who are the composers of the operas?
   (c) How do the two operas differ in their conclusions?
9. Q. The title role of this opera is the female lead, the daughter of a Hindu priest. She meets the male lead in a forbidden temple grounds, where his presence means his death. Her father discovers his trespass, and, discovering who he is, stabs him.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) What is the name of the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the male lead?
   (d) What is the conclusion of the opera?
10. Q. The female lead is accused of murdering her brother. At her trial, she tells of her dream, that a knight will come to protect and marry her. A boat, drawn by a swan appears with the knight in the prow. He acts as her champion upon the stipulation that she will not seek his identity. She marries the knight and in the bridal chamber she attempts to discover her husband's name.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) What is the name of the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the female character's name?
   (d) What is the name of the knight?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?

ANSWERS

(1) (a) Aida
   (b) Verdi
   (c) Amneris
   (d) Radames
   (e) The plot is discovered and Radames is sentenced to death by suffocation. He spurns the offer of freedom if he will marry Amneris. Aida, who has escaped, conceals herself in the tomb and dies with him.

(2) (a) The Barber Of Seville
(b) Rossini
(c) Rosina
(d) Count Almaviva
(e) The Count throws off his disguise and clears himself with Rosina. The two are married by the notary who had been engaged to marry her to Dr. Bartolo, her guardian.

(3) (a) La Boheme
(b) Puccini
(c) Rodolfo
(d) Mimi
(e) Mimi becomes ill and dies as Rodolfo realizes her love for him. Marcello, the painter, and his love, Musetta, who have quarreled, are reunited by the scene.

(4) (a) Boris Godunoff
(b) Moussorgsky
(c) Russia
(d) Boris repents the murder of the Czarevitch and dies of remorse, leaving the throne to his son.

(5) (a) Carmen
(b) Bizet
(c) Jose
(d) Escamillo
(e) Jose begs her to come back to him, but she refuses. Insane with his scorned love and jealousy, he kills her.

(6) (a) Cavalleria Rusticana
(b) Mascagni
(c) Turiddu
(d) Santuzza
(e) Turiddu is killed in the duel by Alfio, the husband, and Santuzza, upon hearing the news, swoons into her mother's arms.

(7) (a) Don Giovanni
(b) Mozart
(c) Don Giovanni asks the statue of the man he has murdered to dine with him. The statue enters the room and the Don grasps the hand of the statue and is hurled into Hell, which opens at the statue's feet.

(8) (a) Faust and Mefistofele
(b) Gounod, and Boito
(c) Faust concludes with the redemption of Marguerite and the disappearance of Faust and Mephistopheles. In Mefistofele, after the redemption of Marguerite, Faust is taken to Thessaly where he meets Helen of Troy, who is attracted to him. In the epilogue, Faust has grown old and has lost interest in everything with which Mephistopheles has provided him. Faust dies with a Bible in his hands.

(9) (a) Lakme
(b) Delibes
(c) Gerald
(d) After Gerald has been stabbed, Lakme has him moved to the forest, where she cures him. She leaves to concoct a love potion and upon her return discovers he is leaving, having been persuaded by his friend to return to his duties. Lakme takes poison and dies in Gerald's embrace.

(10) (a) Lohengrin
(b) Wagner
(c) Elsa
(d) Lohengrin
(e) Elsa's husband reveals his identity. He prays and the swan which drew his boat sinks, and Elsa's brother appears in the swan's place. Lohengrin disappears in his boat as Elsa falls dead in her brother's arms.

GROUP B:

(Scoring is the same as for Group A.)

1. Q. The son and daughter of two houses that have maintained a feud for years are in love. He leaves the country and her brother tricks her into believing that her lover has been untrue, and arranges a marriage for her with another.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the male lead?
   (d) What is the name of the female lead?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
2. Q. There are two operas based upon a story by Abbe Prevost, of two unhappy lovers whose plans to marry are thwarted. She is ordered banished to the New World.
   (a) What are the names of the operas?
   (b) Who are the composers of the operas?
   (c) What are the names of the lovers?
   (d) How do the conclusions of the two operas differ?
3. Q. A rich goldsmith promises to give his daughter in marriage to the winner of a singing contest. A knight who loves her enters the contest. The knight's rival attempts to discredit him and steals the song of which the knight had dreamed. Therefore, the knight composes another verse.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the knight?
   (d) What is the name of the daughter of the goldsmith?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
4. Q. A wealthy young man purchases a gypsy girl who is about to be beaten by the gypsy chief when she refuses to dance. She accompanies her new owner to his castle, but he dismisses her in order to protect her reputation. Her father, an insane singer who has been searching for her, overhears her wish that the castle be struck by lightning, for she is jealous of an actress who is in the castle with her former master.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the gypsy girl?
   (d) What is the name of the male lead?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
5. Q. This is the story of a man who seeks to regain his dead love by looking for her in the underworld. He is warned that he must not look back at her. He finds her at last in the Elysian Fields.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the conclusion of the opera?
6. Q. This is the story of a company of strolling players. The wife of the male lead carries on an affair with a villager, which is betrayed to her husband by another whom she has spurned. The husband tries to kill them, but the villager escapes and she is defended by the other players.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) What is the name of the composer?
   (c) What are the names of the husband and wife?
   (d) What is the name of the villager?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
7. Q. The title role is that of a boy who is captured by the knights guarding two holy relics, one of which has been lost. It can be regained only by one who will resist all temptation, and they believe the boy is the one for whom they have been looking. The Temptress practices all her wiles on him, but he resists the temptations.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the Temptress?
   (d) What is the conclusion of the opera?
8. Q. Lady Harriet and her friend Nancy, as a prank, become maids to two farmers, who fall in love with them. The women soon tire of their escapade and leave. The farmer who is in love with Lady Harriet is imprisoned at her request for throwing himself at her feet during the hunt.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What name does Lady Harriet assume?
   (d) What is the name of the male lead?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
9. Q. The heroine of this opera meets her husband in a forest. His half-brother, however, is attracted to her, and he becomes exceedingly jealous and spies upon them.
   (a) What is the name of the opera?
   (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
   (c) What is the name of the heroine?
   (d) What are the names of the husband and his half-brother?
   (e) What is the conclusion of the opera?
10. Q. Accompanied by his son, the head of the government leaves his country to fight enemy tribes. While he is away, his brother-in-law seizes the government. Meanwhile, the father and son are captured by the enemy. The son falls in love with the daughter of the leader of their enemy.
    (a) What is the name of the opera?
    (b) Who is the composer of the opera?
    (c) What is the name of the son, and the name of the girl he loves?
    (d) What is the conclusion of the opera?

ANSWERS:

(1) (a) Lucia Di Lammermoor

(b) Donizetti
(c) Edgar of Ravenswood (Edgardo)
(d) Lucy Ashton (Lucia)
(e) On the marriage night Lucia murders her husband and dies in the famous "mad scene." Edgardo, who has returned, thinking her unfaithful, discovers the tragic trick that has been played upon her, and stabs himself.

(2) (a) Manon, and Manon Lescaut
(b) Massenet, and Puccini
(c) Manon and Chevalier des Grieux.
(d) In Massenet's opera, Manon dies on the way to the ship in which she is to be deported.
In Puccini's opera, Des Grieux accompanys Manon on the boat as a member of the crew, and she dies in the New World.

(3) (a) Die Meistersinger
(b) Wagner
(c) Walther von Stolzing
(d) Eva Pogner
(e) In the contest, the knight's rival, Beckmesser, sings the stolen song very poorly. Walther sings all the verses of his song, wins the contest and the reward of Eva's hand.

(4) (a) Mignon
(b) Thomas
(c) Mignon
(d) Wilhelm Meister
(e) Lothario, the father, on hearing his daughter's wish, sets the castle on fire. Mignon is saved from the fire by Wilhelm after she has rushed into the building to retrieve a bouquet he had given to the actress. He realizes that he is in love with Mignon, and the father regains his sanity on finding his lost daughter.

(5) (a) Orpheus And Eurydice
(b) von Gluck
(c) Orpheus leads Eurydice back, but accidentally looks at her, and she disappears. However, the gods relent, and they meet again in the Temple of Love.

(6) (a) Pagliacci
(b) Leoncavallo
(c) Canio and Nedda
(d) Silvio
(e) The actors present a play which is virtually a duplication of their real-life drama. Canio in the play demands that Nedda tell him her lover's name, and stabs her when she refuses to tell him. Silvio attempts to protect her, but is also killed. Whereupon, Canio turns to the audience and says, "The Comedy Is Ended."

(7) (a) Parsifal
(b) Wagner
(c) Kundry
(d) Parsifal wanders for some time until he finds the castle of the knights of the Holy Grail, where Kundry is, after having repented of her evil ways. Parsifal returns the Spear, the holy relic which he has recovered, and becomes the leader of the Order Of The Knights Of The Holy Grail. Kundry dies.

(8) (a) Martha
(b) von Flotow
(c) Martha
(d) Lionel
(e) Lionel is actually the Earl of Derby, and when he proves his position, Lady Harriet agrees to marry him.

(9) (a) Pelleas And Melisande
(b) Debussy
(c) Melisande
(d) Golaud and Pelleas
(e) Pelleas is killed by Golaud whose suspicions have driven him mad. Melisande dies in childbirth, telling them that she loved Pelleas but that their romance was completely innocent.

(10) (a) Prince Igor
(b) Borodin
(c) Vladimir and Konchakovna
(d) Prince Igor and Vladimir regain control of the government. Vladimir is recaptured, but is saved from execution by Konchakovna.

GROUP C:

(Credit yourself with 5 points for each question you answer correctly.)

1. Q. Which of the following operas represent the Moderists of post-war years?
(a) Jonny Spielt Auf (b) South Wind (c) Bartered Bride (d) Fatal Wedding (e) Neues Vom Tage (f) Schwanda

2. Q. Stravinsky's "Rites Of Spring" opens with:
(a) Staccato of the flutes. (b) Fortissimo of the entire orchestra. (c) Bassoon solo in the extreme upper register. (d) Percussive effects.

3. Q. Alexander Scriabin, in order to produce an effect for his opera, "Prometheus," proposed:
(a) To fire cannons off-stage. (b) To release perfume in the hall. (c) Had a brass band march through the audience.

4. Q. Which of the following have employed the Saxophone in their compositions:
(a) Haydn (b) Handel (c) Hindemith (d) Debussy (e) Puccini (f) Bizet

5. Q. Which of the words opposite the names of the following composers is most descriptive of his compositions:
(a) Bach—religious, sensual, perfumed.
(b) Haydn—sorrowful, joyful, indifference.
(c) Mozart—cacophonic realism, pure musical form.

6. Q. Which of the following modern composers used the songs "Dying Cowboy," and "Old Paint" as material in a symphony first?
(a) Aaron Copland (b) Deems Taylor (c) Louis Gruenberg (d) Roy Harris

7. Q. Which collections of the following consists of 24 numbers?
(a) The Well Tempered Clavichord (b) Schubert's Impromptu (c) Chopin's Preludes (d) Paganini's Caprice (e) Chopin's Nocturnes

8. Q. Which of the following three composers are among the originators of the symphony?
(a) Haydn (b) Mozart (c) Beethoven

9. Q. Which three of the following five songs are cowboy songs?
(a) Old Black Joe (b) Trail to Mexico (c) It's A Long Way To Tipperary (d) Get Along Little Dogies

10. Q. The music of the Roumanians is decidedly influenced by:
(a) The music of ancient Greece (b) The Compositions of the Byzantine (c) By Jewish chants (d) By Ottoman coloratura.

11. Q. Which of the following compositions may be called the best products of the Roumanian school?
(a) The Persian Market, by Side. (b) The Roumanian Rhapsody, by Enesco. (c) The 'Cello Phantasy, by Pleshoyanu. (d) The Quintet, by Martinu. (e) Roumanian Folk Dances, by Bartok.

12. Q. Which of the following names are important in the history of American musical criticism:
(a) Schirmer (b) Henderson (c) Chadwick (d) Gilman (e) Finck (f) Bloch

13. Q. Who is the composer of the first serious American symphony?
(a) Stephen Foster (b) John Knowles Paine (c) Roy Harris (d) Howard Hanson

14. Q. In the year 1767, the Clarinet appeared for the first time in the compositions of a great composer. Which of the following composers was it?
(a) Bach (b) Handel (c) Haydn (d) Mozart

15. Q. Who brought the E-flat Clarinet into the symphony orchestra?
(a) Liszt, in "Les Prelude." (b) Berlioz, in "The Fantastic Symphony." (c) Richard Strauss, in "Til Eulenspiegel."

16. Q. Which of the following are famous biographers and enthusiasts of Bach:
(a) Pratt (b) Spitta (c) Schweitzer (d) Hansen (e) Taylor

17. Q. Which of the following are types of musical knowledge constituting Musicology:
(a) Counterpoint (b) Solfeggi (c) Music History (d) Psychology of Musical Talent.

18. Q. In three of the following works the Bassoon is employed. Which are they?
(a) Beethoven's Fourth Symphony. (b) Bach's "Art Of The Fugue." (c) Beethoven's Septet. (d) Handel's "Julius Caesar." (e) Schubert's Octet.

19. and 20. Q. Two of the following composers wrote compositions which incorporate in the title the word "clock." Who are they, and what are the names of the compositions:
(a) Beethoven (b) Haydn (c) Bach (d) Mendelssohn (e) Debussy

ANSWERS:

(1) See "Opera: Past, Present and Future" by Oscar Thompson.
(2) See "The Bassoon" by Benjamin Kohon.
(3) See "Opera: Past, Present and Future" by Oscar Thompson.
(4) See "The Saxophone" by Sigurd M. Rascher.
(5) See "Musical Interpretation" by Serge Koussevitzky.

(6) See "The Song Of The Cowboy" by Alice G. Whitmire.
(7) See "A Tribute To Paganini" by Arthur Hartmann.
(8) See "Is There A Revolution In Music?" by Walter Damrosch.
(9) See "The Song Of The Cowboy" by Alice G. Whitmire.
(10) See "Music In The Near East" by Alexander J. Savine.
(11) See "Music In The Near East" by Alexander J. Savine.
(12) See "An Institute of Critics" by Ralph Lewando.
(13) See "America's Voice in Symphonic Music" by Leonard Liebling.
(14) See "The Clarinet Family" by Simeon Bellison.
(15) See "The Clarinet Family" by Simeon Bellison.
(16) See "Musicologists & 'Musicologists'" by Hans Rosenwald.
(17) See "Musicologists & 'Musicologists'" by Hans Rosenwald.
(18) See "The Bassoon" by Benjamin Kohon.
(19) and (20) Haydn's "The Clock Symphony," Debussy's "Cloches a Travers Les Feuilles."

GROUP D:

(Scoring is the same as for Group C.)

1. Q. One of the following works is an immortal oratorio by Bach:
(a) The Seasons. (b) Fidelio. (c) The St. Matthew Passion (d) St. Francis of Assisi.
2. Q. The Goldberg Variations are:
(a) Variations on a Jewish theme by Bloch. (b) A variation work by the composer Goldberg. (c) Piano work by Bach. (d) A work by Brahms written in the town of Goldberg.
3. Q. The Musical Offering is based on a theme by:
(a) Bach (b) Handel (c) Queen Elizabeth of England (c) Frederick the Great.
4. Q. The Art of The Fugue is:
(a) The name of a book written by Deems Taylor. (b) A compositional treatise on the fugue by Ph. E. Bach. (c) A composition by J. S. Bach. (d) Synonym for contrapuntal writing.
5. Q. The Messiah is an oratorio by Handel written:
(a) In Hamburg at the time of his operatic ventures. (b) In Italy. (c) In Hanover during his friendship with Steffani. (d) In England.
6. Q. Three of the following are outstanding oratorios of Handel:
(a) Judas. (b) Israel in Egypt. (c) Samson. (d) Rodelinda. (e) Xerxes. (f) The Rose's Pilgrimage.
7. Q. The Blacksmith Variations are:
(a) A Chopin piano cycle. (b) A harpsichord work by Handel. (c) Compositions for flute by Quantz (d) An orchestral work by Beethoven.
8. Q. Among the ancient subjects which inspired Dittersdorf's compositions are:
(a) Homer's Ulysses. (b) The Odes by Horace. (c) The Ideal State by Plato. (d) The Metamorphoses by Ovid.
9. Q. One of the following Shakespearean dramas has influenced both Benda and Tschaikowsky:
(a) The Merchant of Venice. (b) Romeo and Juliet. (c) The Tempest. (d) Julius Caesar.
10. Q. Which of the following Gluck operas represent dramatizations of Greek subjects?
(a) Orpheus. (b) Iphigenia. (c) Alceste. (d) Paris and Helena.
11. Q. Which group of composers decidedly influenced the classical symphony?
(a) The Netherlands School. (b) The Florentine Camerata. (c) The Austrian Romanticists. (d) The School of Mannheim.
12. Q. Mozart's Father was famous for:
(a) His writing of German lieder. (b) His rivalry with Haydn as organist. (c) His love affairs. (d) The authorship of a book on violin playing.
13. Q. Name four symphonies by Haydn of which two refer to cities and two to periods of the day.
14. Q. Which one of these gods is associated with Mozart's C Major Symphony:
(a) Apollo (b) Jupiter (c) Wotan (d) Osiris
15. Q. Two of the string quartets of Haydn are generally quoted with a zoological title. The titles are:
(a) The Bird. (b) The Bear. (c) The Swan. (d) The Nightingale.
16. Q. The "Russian" quartets are written by:
(a) Borodin. (b) Scriabin. (c) Haydn. (d) Tschaikowsky.
17. Q. "Little Night Music" is a famous work by Mozart. It belongs to the branch of:
(a) Symphony. (b) Serenade. (c) String Quartet. (d) Piano Sonata.
18. Q. "The Marriage of Figaro" an opera by Mozart, in subject matter resembles one of the following operas by another composer:
(a) "The Marriage of Sobeide" (b) "Lucia di Lammermoor" (c) "The Barber of Bagdad" (d) "The Barber of Seville"
19. Q. One of the following works of Mozart remained unfinished:
(a) The G Minor Symphony (b) The Requiem (c) "Don Giovanni" (d) "The Magic Flute"
20. Q. One of Beethoven's piano concerti bears the title:
(a) The Duke (b) The King (c) The Emperor (d) The Princess

ANSWERS:

(1) The St. Matthew Passion.
(2) Piano work by Bach.
(3) Frederick the Great.
(4) A composition by J. S. Bach.
(5) In England.
(6) Judas, Israel In Egypt, and Samson.
(7) A harpsichord work by Handel.
(8) The Metamorphorses by Ovid.
(9) Romeo and Juliet.
(10) Orpheus, Iphigenia, Alceste, and Paris and Helena.
(11) The School of Mannheim.
(12) The authorship of a book on violin playing.
(13) Parisian Symphonies, London Symphonies, The Morning, and The Evening.
(14) Jupiter.
(15) The Bird, and The Nightingale.
(16) Haydn.
(17) Serenade.
(18) The Barber of Seville.
(19) The Requiem.
(20) The Emperor.

GROUP E:

(For scoring, credit yourself with 10 points for each question you answer correctly.)

1. Q. The Centenary of the death of what composer was observed in 1940?
2. Q. The Centenary of the birth of what composer was celebrated in 1940?
3. Q. What composer is known as the first of the great reformers of opera?
4. Q. Is the dramatic or musical element the most important in opera?
5. Q. What is the name of the work generally looked upon as the first opera?
6. Q. Who is the composer of the first American opera performed in public?
7. Q. Which of the Oriental musics is most violently opposed to Occidental music?
8. Q. Can you name three composers who have written under the influence of Paganini's 24th Caprice?
9. Q. The following works are symptomatic of the era of experimentation in modern music. Who are their composers:
(a) Pierrot Lunaire. (b) Sacre du Printemps
(c) Allegro Barbaro. (d) Scythian Suite.
10. Q. What is the last important work of Tschaikowsky?

ANSWERS:

(1) Paganini
(2) Tschaikowsky
(3) See "Opera: Past, Present and Future" by Oscar Thompson
(4) See "Opera: Past, Present and Future" by Oscar Thompson
(5) See "Opera: Past, Present and Future" by Oscar Thompson
(6) See "America's Voice in Symphonic Music" by Leonard Liebling
(7) See "Music Of The Far East" by Claude Lapham
(8) See "A Tribute To Paganini" by Arthur Hartmann
(9) See "The Contemporary Musical Scene" by Oscar Thompson
(10) See "A Tribute To Tschaikowsky" by John Fredericks

GROUP F:

(Scoring is the same as for Group E.)

1. Q. Name the titles of the compositions by the following composers which suggest heavenly bodies:
(a) Debussy (b) Mozart (c) Rimsky-Korsakov (d) Wagner
2. Q. Which grand operas are suggested by these popular songs:

(a) "Ferdinand The Bull (b) "Ding Dong The Witch Is Dead" (c) "You Go To My Head"

3. Q. What was the secret of Suzanne, in the opera "The Secret Of Suzanne?"
4. Q. Wagner had quite a zoo in his operas. In which of his operas are the following:
(a) A swan. (b) A bear. (c) Two ravens. (d) A dragon.
5. Q. Give the names of the compositions of the following composers that have a flower in their titles:
(a) Gilbert & Sullivan. (b) MacDowell. (c) Mozart.
6. Q. What are the titles of the compositions of the following composers. which contain the word "night?"
(a) Mendelssohn (b) Schoenberg (c) DeFalla (d) Moussorgsky
7. Q. Who is considered the first American composer?
8. Q. Name three European operas of which scenes are laid in America.
9. Q. The works of what great composer are constantly played by symphony orchestras, yet never in the form he wrote them?
10. Q. What famous orchestral work uses a phonograph as one of the instruments of the orchestra?

ANSWERS:

(1) (a) Clair de Lune. (b) Jupiter Symphony. (c) Hymn to The Sun. (d) Song of The Evening Star.
(2) (a) Carmen. (b) Hansel & Gretel. (c) Samson & Delilah, Salome, Barber of Seville, or Marriage of Figaro.
(3) She smoked cigarettes and tried to keep it a secret from her husband.
(4) (a) Lohengrin. (b) Siegfried. (c) Gotterdammerung. (d) Siegfried.
(5) (a) "I'm Called Little Buttercup." (b) "To A Water Lily." (c) "The Violet."
(6) (a) "Midsummer Night's Dream." (b) "Transfigured Night." (c) "A Night In The Gardens Of Spain." (d) "A Night On Bald Mountain."
(7) Francis Hopkinson (1737-1791).
(8) (a) "Manon Lescaut." (b) "The Girl Of The Golden West." (c) "Masked Ball."
(9) Johann Sebastian Bach.
(10) In "The Pines Of Rome" by Respighi, for the nightingale song in the third movement.

GROUP G:

(Each question is worth ten points.)

Name the composers of the following symphonies:

1. Q. Ocean
2. Q. Spring
3. Q. Italian
4. Q. Classical
5. Q. Pathetic
6. Q. Rustic Wedding
7. Q. Surprise
8. Q. Eroica
9. Q. Rhumba
10. Q. Toy

ANSWERS.

(1) Anton Rubinstein
(2) Schumann
(3) Mendelssohn
(4) Prokofieff
(5) Tschaikowsky
(6) Goldmark
(7) Haydn
(8) Beethoven
(9) McDonald
(10) Haydn

GROUP H:

(Credit yourself with 10 points for each question answered correctly.)

The following are familiar quotations concerning music which you have often heard and probably often have used, but can you identify where they appear and their authors?

1. Q. "The man that hath no music in himself,
Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils;
The motions of his spirit are dull as night,
And his affections dark as Erebus.
Let no such man be trusted."
2. Q. "And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares, that infest the day
Shall fold their tents like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away."
3. Q. "Music is the universal language of mankind,—poetry their universal pastime and delight."
4. Q. "Music is Love in search of a word."
5. Q. "Music must take rank as the highest of the fine arts—as the one which, more than any other. ministers to human welfare.
6. Q. "Music, when sweet voices die, Vibrates in the memory."
7. Q. "Alas for those that never sing, But die with all their music in them!"
8. Q. "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast . . . "
9. Q. "Music hath charms."
10. Q. "The still, sad music of humanity."

ANSWERS:

(1) "The Merchant Of Venice," by Wm. Shakespeare, Act 5, Scene I.
(2) "The Day Is Done," by Longfellow.
(3) "Outre Mer," by Longfellow.
(4) "The Symphony" by Sidney Lanier.
(5) "On The Origin & Function Of Music," by Herbert Spencer.
(6) "To—," by Shelley.
(7) "The Voiceless," by Oliver Wendell Holmes.
(8) "The Mourning Bride," by Wm. Congreve.
(9) "The Spleen," by Matthew Green.
(10) "Lines Composed A Few Miles Above Tintern Abbey," by Wm. Wordsworth.

GROUP I:

(The following twenty statements may be true or false. For each one that you correctly determine as true or false, credit yourself with five points.)

1. Q. Before the World War, interpretive art was strongly influenced by the Romantic School. True or False?
2. Q. Berlioz, Wagner and Mendelssohn were the first conductor-interpreters. True or False?
3. Q. The following are all piano sonatas by Beethoven: "Moonlight," "Pathetique," "Appassionata," and "Les Adieux." True or False?
4. Q. The Ninth Symphony of Beethoven is the "Chorale" and utilizes words written by Schiller. True or False?
5. Q. Beethoven's sixth symphony is usually called The Dance symphony and his seventh, "The Pastoral symphony." True or False?
6. Q. Busoni is the pathfinder of the neoclassical style. True or False?
7. Q. Wagner's Meistersinger depicts the life of wandering troubadours. True or False?
8. Q. "Salome" is the name of a tone poem by Henry Hadley. True or False?
9. Q. Roger Sessions' best known composition is "El Salon Mexico." True or False?
10. Q. Shostakovich is famous for his "Classical" symphony. True or False?
11. Q. Franck's only symphony is in D minor. True or False?
12. Q. "Falstaff" is an opera composed by Verdi. True or False?
13. Q. "Aida" is an opera composed by Verdi for the inauguration of the Suez Canal. True or False?
14. Q. Wagner's "Ring" embraces four operas. True or False?
15. Q. Glazunoff wrote a concerto for the saxophone. True or False?
16. Q. Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" is a Chinese tragedy. True or False?
17. Q. Both Busoni and Puccini wrote a Turandot. True or False?
18. Q. Purcell wrote only one opera. True or False?
19. Q. "From the New World" is Dvorak's first symphony. True or False?
20. Q. Offenbach used the Orpheus legend as the basis of a comic opera. True or False?

ANSWERS:

(1) See "Musical Interpretation" by Koussevitsky—True.
(2) See "Musical Interpretation" by Koussevitsky—True.
(3) True
(4) True
(5) False—just the opposite
(6) True
(7) False
(8) True
(9) False
(10) False
(11) True
(12) True
(13) True
(14) True
(15) True
(16) False
(17) True
(18) True
(19) False
(20) True

Popular Music
A Symposium

By

TOMMY DORSEY HAL KEMP KAY KYSER
BENNY GOODMAN GENE KRUPA RAYMOND SCOTT

Tommy Dorsey

"SWING" has always been with us. Its discovery by the public, both as a word and an idea is recent, but musicians for years have used the term and exercised its meaning.

The playground swing denotes transition from one place to another and back again, in regular cadence. Fundamentally, musical swing demonstrates the same thing. In jazz jargon, "to swing" is synonymous with "to travel," "to get off," "to put in the groove." There is really no mystery about it at all; it's easy to understand.

Jazz is modern dance music, with many styles of expression. Swing is one of these styles. It is not sufficient to say that swing is rhythm, because the latter is defined as the result of "accented and un-accented tones in regular order," and so rhythm is common to all dance music, all styles. It has to be. People dance to rhythm.

However, the particular style depends upon the phrasing or the grouping of these accented and un-accented sounds. Thus, what the dancers "feel" and call "swing" is mechanically created by the way the notes are grouped for emphasis and non-emphasis, and the various styles differ from each other according to this formula.

Jazz is just a babe. During its life, composers have been writing the tunes. Next, the arrangers and then the players have interpreted the numbers according to individual preference and temperaments; that is the way you have heard the tunes. Finally, out of all this have come the definite styles.

The only complaint of any volume against swing is that some bands play it too loudly. Such "barrel-house" as we call it, is not necessary. Five muted brasses can whisper swing just as convincingly as when they open up—more so, in my judgment. And then, when you do want to rough it up, or "put sawdust on it," the contrast is just that much more effective.

It has been said that the Dixieland Band introduced swing. It did, in the sense that this unit exposed it to popularity. But, more than that, these five musicians introduced jazz, or modern dance music. That was their contribution; their recordings prove that their work was a potpourri of different styles rather than swing concentration. Nick La Rocca would really "swing out" on a chorus, and the next moment someone else would take off on a different style.

Fletcher Henderson came up from Chapel Hill, North Carolina, in the early "Twenties" to foster the germ of swing, which had sprouted in the minds of the first exponents of jazz. Since then, a long string of orchestras has specialized in swing. Few have lasted, mainly because their output was sloppy and shabby.

I do believe that swing, as a distinctive style, will outlast other modes for two specific reasons. First, as indicated previously, it appeals to our basic emotions; second, I firmly believe that all good modern dance musicians and arrangers have a strong impulse "to swing." They feel it keenly. It grips them, and the strong attraction to it in both performers and listeners demonstrates how strongly it is entrenched.

Benny Goodman

THE early settlers of New England were stern, hard fellows who insisted that music outside of the church was "evil" and "dangerous to moral restraint." Dancing was sinful. Not until 1830 did the sound of a real, solid folk form of American music begin to appear on the musical horizon. This was the era of Southern spirituals and ballads of which the blues were a later development.

By 1850 Stephen Foster found universal appreciation. America was suddenly flooded with its own music. The minstrels of the '70's and the '80's carried the music to river boats, vaudeville stages, and fair grounds, and a new syncopated variation of old blues and spirituals bounced into prominence by 1895, "ragtime." The classic of that age became Irving Berlin's "Alexander's Rag Time Band." New Orleans was always a step or two ahead of the rest of the country. By 1918 it had a new rhythm up its sleeve featured by a musician named "Jasbo" Smith. When Jas played, the house rocked. Musicians everywhere patterned themselves in the Jas style or played in the Jas way.

Another great town of the time was Chicago. In fact, during the '20's it became the hottest spot of the country. Here spirituals and blues "jazzed up" in the latest style were being featured by some of the finest musicians, but jazz died as "sweet" music came in. It became sophisticated, Europeanized, and lost its original American flavor. In 1935, "Swing" came along, which is in the typical American "groove," as scholars say. The trouble with popular music, some time ago, was that it had no kick. Everything had to be played softly and sweetly, so my desire was to make music more exciting, to throw away the funny hats and give all popular music more virility. Some condemned me, some liked me for this approach. But coast-to-coast radio shows, motion pictures and continuous theater and hotel dates have proved to me that I was building on a solid foundation.

I gave a concert in January, 1938 in old Carnegie Hall, in New York. It may have been the first time that a "Swing" concert was covered by reporters. I have played at Symphony Hall in Boston, Taft Auditorium in Cincinnati, and in Chicago at Ravinia Park. The audiences at these concerts were not wholly composed of mere jitterbugs, and their reactions demonstrated that there is not only a wide acceptance of swing, but a sound musical basis to it.

Hal Kemp

BEHIND the ultra-modern rhythm so dear to the hearts of America's dance lovers lies a solid base of serious music. It is in no way strange that a conductor of popular music should have a keen interest in classical forms of musical expression. Moreover, the members of every dance orchestra are greatly aided by a good knowledge and deep love of the masterpieces. There can be no question that jazz and swing can become very monotonous by stereotyped arrangements and uninspired interpretations. By listening to classical music we can learn a great deal of ways and means to improve the harmonization of our popular melodies and to obtain new timbres and patterns of orchestration.

In steady search of new ideas it has come increasingly apparent that jazz composers, arrangers and players should be well acquainted with development of music since the impressionistic era. As for myself, my favorites among the more modern composers are Debussy, Ravel, Honegger, and, above all, Dmitri Shostakovich. I have a complete set of Shostakovich's works in my library and have practiced his orchestrations with the members of my band. I cannot help but believe that new colors as well as novel effects in symphonic presentation of popular music may be achieved by listening to modern compositions, and that we could add dozens of new combinations which musicians a few decades ago never dreamed of.

To quote but one example, the use of the trombone. We know from experience that it has become a solo instrument of first rank since Wagner and a few post-romantic composers gave it prominence. Just as the listener of sound musicianship today is convinced that the use of the trombone in popular music was greatly stimulated by its utilization in classical scores, no one will doubt that many a further interest may be given to popular music when our composers and arrangers have broadened their scope of musicianship by earnest study of classical forms.

In summary, I would say that the popular composers and musicians would do well, if instead of taking merely the melodies of Chopin, Debussy and Tschaikovsky, they also borrow something of the orchestral contexts of the great compositions.

Gene Krupa

SWING has been called quite a few nasty names. It is supposed to be today's seducing villain, playing the same role that liquor did during prohibition. Label it "blatant," "raucous," what you will, the fact remains that it is the favorite love of most youngsters old enough to put a nickel in the half-million coin machines in the United States. To me, swing is a means of self-expression. To most musicians the same holds true.

The tumult and shouting of the first swing ventures have subsided. We know that its great popularity was gained by stressing a solid rhythm beat—so essential to good dancing. When a jitterbug dancer "swings out," it is not only because he is feeling rhythm that would send Puritans into a frenzy—but is expressing the tense, restless world in which we live. Today swing is a definite art, stressing melody with interesting variations, a well-knit orchestral background with, above all, a dynamic rhythm beat. At first, swing was nothing more than improvisation by instrumentalists from the original theme, their expression and analysis being the way in which they saw and appreciated the original. Before "swing" became so well liked it was not uncommon to hear three or four musicians filling in with musical interludes, then called "jam sessions," simply giving free expression to the rhythms as they caught them. The efforts took on a resultant "kick." Later, in ensemble work, the importance of this effect was grasped, and became incorporated in the beat and expression of the entire band arrangement. In the days of the '20's and early '30's, musicians were only trying to achieve popular understanding and recognition for their individual interpretations of popular music.

Today, great soloists are still important, but the evolution of swing has reached a point where good ensemble work, with a crisp rhythmic beat is the type of swing most readily accepted. All the talk about swing being a slap-bang noisy affair is foolish. Swing bands play softly and when the uninitiated hear it, they do not realize what it is. Swing is American folk music with an instinctive appeal to Americans. As we know it, swing is just in its infancy. More than anything else, it is a way of getting a lilt into rhythms and improvising around them.

Kay Kyser

UNDOUBTEDLY the "glamour" of the popular orchestra leader, and the apparent ease with which he earns his fabulous living, fires the imagination of many. Almost nightly, people waltz, fox-trot, or shag up to my bandstand and say, "You certainly have an easy life; all you do is wave a stick over a bunch of musicians and for that they pay you a zillion dollars a week. Boy, you're lucky!" Not that I wish to discourage anyone (although I do not at the same time wish to convey the impression that competition is not exacting), but perhaps it might be of service to set forth some of the trials and tribulations involved in this "Easy Way To Make A Living."

In order to become a bandsman, you spend about twelve years learning how to play one instrument. Figuring at the rate of two hours' of practice daily, you spend about 146 days and nights practicing and studying. You can choose the zither, ocarina, piano or cymbals, if you so prefer. It does not make such a difference in the end, so long as you have a thorough basic musical knowledge.

But wait! Do not think that just because you are a master of the sax, violin, zither, ocarina, etc., that you are qualified to be an orchestra leader.

First you have to serve an apprenticeship as a musician with a band. The length of that apprenticeship is determined entirely by you alone. However, it should not be for less than five years. In that time, you learn a little about conducting a band and running it. So now you have spent twelve years learning how to play a sax, violin, zither, etc., and five years more playing it in an orchestra. After this mere seventeen years of preparation, you are practically ready to become a band leader. There are a few slight items that have to be taken care of, however, like getting a proficient group of musicians together, spending about $25,000 on arrangements, publicity, library, and then, if you think it wise, getting a place to play.

The problem of getting a place to play is a subject all in itself. Unfortunately, there is no course in school which furnishes the answers. Reams could be written about the experiences of the various band leaders and their struggles to success. Examine any of these cases where men have skyrocketed to fame and you will find a long period preceding that dazzling climb, in which they travelled at snail's pace over a long and rough road.

The orchestra leader of today has to be a friendly, ingratiating personality in front of a band, and, equally important, he has to be a hard-headed businessman in a field where the competition is enormous and the casualties are numberless. There are endless but necessary hours of rehearsal. There is much time spent in working out arrangements. Competent musicians have to be engaged and it takes a smart leader to bring about complete harmony and ensemble in orchestral balance. The modern orchestra leader always has to be up-to-the-minute as far as dance tunes are concerned. You never know—unless you make it your painstaking business to find out—what tunes will be popular tomorrow. You have to be able to fill a majority of tune requests when you appear in a public place or at a private function.

The above is intended neither as a psalm of complaint, nor a song of self-exaltation, but a little explanation of what transpires behind the scenes in the development of any popular orchestra leader who may win your envy for his apparently effortless means of livelihood, and possibly it will also serve as a word of admonition.

Raymond Scott

MUSIC to me is any sound which creates an emotional reaction whether it be the martial booming of cannons which has so expertly been described by Tschaikowsky in his Overture Of 1812, or the perpetual rolling of the seas which Claude Debussy has copied in his La Mer.

It is upon this premise that I have based my efforts at composition. For example, Dinner Music For A Pack of Hungry Cannibals is not a strictly realistic composition but an imaginative projection of the subject. It is my impression of what cannibalistic dinner music would sound like to a white man approaching their island just at the moment when the cannibals were breaking a long fast.

Another instance of a musical description of an impression is that of Bumpy Weather Over Newark. In a number of flights I noticed that the weather got bumpy as we neared the Newark airport, and that certain sounds and sensations resulted—the changing tone of the motors as the plane dropped and rose in the air pockets; the definite rhythm to the hostess' repeated instructions, "Fasten your safety belts, please"; and others. Bumpy Weather Over Newark is an exposition of those impressions.

If I may be permitted one further example of a composition in which I attempted to incorporate impressions, may I cite Power-house. I remember a powerhouse in the neighborhood in which I lived. Every time I passed it I would stick my head in the doorway for a moment and then walk on. That composition is my impression of what I heard and saw in those moments.

Thus, in carrying out my thesis, I have strived through the medium of music to recreate my reactions to objects and situations, just as the writer through his medium describes his sensations and impressions.

SURVEYS OF MUSIC ACTIVITIES

Music In Canada

By SIR ERNEST MAC MILLAN

OF LATE years music in Canada has made great strides. Concert giving organizations—orchestras, choral societies, chamber groups and the like—have multiplied in number and improved in quality, and, what is of greater significance, more and more young people of talent are becoming interested in the creative side of the art. Let us deal with this development first, for the musical status of a nation is, in the last analysis, judged by its creative product.

Up to now Canada has benefited from the presence within her borders of a number of European-born composers of some distinction, and the disturbed conditions of European countries at the present time has induced several others to take up residence here. Canada, with its composite population, shares the folk-lore of many older lands, and the indigenous contributions of American Indian tribes are by no means insignificant, as the collection of recorded music in the National Museum in Ottawa shows. Most important of all is the wealth of French Canadian folk-song; though for the most part European in origin, this has in the course of over three centuries become thoroughly acclimatised and since the appearance of Ernest Gagnon's collection in the middle of the last century, has been unearthed in increasing quantity through the devoted labours of Barbeau, Massicotte and others. More than five thousand records of French Canadian songs are to be found in the National Museum, and much interesting music based on this material has appeared—chiefly, but by no means exclusively, in the Province of Quebec. To the missionary work of linking up the folk-song of France and other nations with the Canadian scene and with Canadian history, that man of ideas, John Murray Gibbon, has devoted much time and thought.

It cannot be claimed that Canada has as yet produced a genuinely great composer, but at least the ground is being prepared by many young musicians who —whatever be the ultimate value of their product—are serious in their aims and keen in their application. One will watch with particular interest the progress of young Paul Mathieu of Montreal, now ten years of age, who has since the age of five been writing music surprisingly mature in character to the amazed acclaim of hard-boiled critics in Paris and New York as well as in his native land. Competitions such as the Prix Lallemand (Montreal) and the scholarships and prizes of the Canadian Performing Rights Society, in co-operation with the Toronto Conservatory of Music, direct the attention of more and more students to the importance of musical composition and afford facilities for their development as composers. It may not be long before this vast land of contrast, with its varied landscape and picturesque history, its composite racial tradition and immense industrial potentialities will be given adequate interpretation through the musical imagination of a distinguished native composer.

In the meanwhile, we have the splendid church music of Healey Willan, who has also produced much fine work in other fields; the brilliant orchestral and chamber works of Arthur Benjamin, who has recently settled in Vancouver, and finely written works by many other composers of British or French traditions.

If in the field of composition Canada is interesting chiefly on account of her potentialities, in that of performance she has already accomplished much more. Canadians respect and demand high standards. The choral traditions established during the first two decades of this century by the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir under the late Dr. A. S. Vogt carried the musical reputation of Canada far beyond her borders and under his successor, Dr. H. A. Fricker, this and other fine choral bodies in practically all the leading Canadian cities have worthily maintained those traditions. In Western Canada particularly the choral tradition has been fostered by the popularity of the competitive festival. This institution has proved of notable value in raising the standard of choral music in schools. One doubts whether school choirs anywhere in the world are capable of doing finer work than is done, for example, in Winnipeg. The ability and desire to sing, so inculculated in the young, is not often lost in later years; a constant supply of new recruits has generally been available for adult choral societies. Perhaps this happy state of things has suffered a setback within the last decade on account of the many distractions of modern life, but there are signs that the idea of amateur music-making and in particular of choral singing is again making a strong appeal, and that the musical instincts of the younger generation will not long be satisfied by mere passive listening.

For many years past the high standard of the leading American orchestras challenged Canadian orchestras, and, in view of our increased familiarity with those standards through extensive international broadcasts, Canadian orchestras make every effort to meet that challenge. The budgets of Canadian orchestras are as a rule so small that an American manager would doubtless throw up his hands in despair if asked to produce an orchestra on such a basis; opportunities for supplementing their regular income by recordings, touring, etc., are very restricted. Nevertheless the standard of orchestral playing in many Canadian cities—notably Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver and Winnipeg—has improved of late by leaps and bounds, and in some cases Canadian orchestras already challenge comparison with corresponding organizations in the United States which operate on much higher budgets. The existence of a publicly-owned broadcasting system which is expected to distribute its favours among different centres has had the salutary effect of providing a reasonable, though not too generous income for a number of first-class executants in the different cities, thus preventing too great centralization. It may be, however, that in the end more centralization of musical activities will prove desirable if work of genuinely first-class standard is to be ensured.

The Toronto Symphony Orchestra, which under Frank S. Welsman operated with success for some ten years up to the earlier years of the Great War, was revived in 1923 (largely through the efforts of the players themselves) under the leadership of the late Dr. Luigi von Kunits. Dr. von Kunits died in 1931 and was succeeded by the writer of this article. It has since that time given successive series of concerts annually, broadcast extensively and appeared in several other Canadian cities. In spite of war conditions the season 1939-40 was from many points of view one of the most successful in its history, for seat sales and contributions to the orchestra's sustaining fund were so far in excess of the budget figures that all accumulated debts were paid and a substantial figure left for continuing operations.

The Montreal Orchestra under the direction of Douglas Clarke, Dean of Music in McGill University, has won an enviable reputation in the course of some ten years' activity; this orchestra also broadcasts frequently and its programmes are characterized by many "first performances in Canada" especially of modern British works. More recently formed, the orchestra of the Concerts Symphoniques de Montréal, largely patronized by French speaking music lovers, gives an annual series of Winter concerts under its Musical Director, Wilfred Pelletier of the Metropolitan Opera House, who also directs the early summer Festival in June of each year. The chief feature at this Festival is usually performance of outstanding classics for chorus and orchestra. The Concerts Symphoniques engage a number of guest conductors for their Winter series and also for the series of Summer concerts which they hold at the Chalet on the summit of Mount Royal. The latter have proved very popular and on a fine evening have been known to attract as many as eight thousand people.

In Toronto the Promenade Concerts, organized by the Toronto Musical Protective Association in 1934 and conducted by Reginald Stewart (also known as a brilliant pianist) have from the first won popular acclaim and attract thousands each Thursday evening during the Summer to the University of Toronto Arena where they are held. Summer concerts in Stanley Park, Vancouver, have for some years past been given by the Vancouver Orchestra under the sponsorship of the B. C. Electric Company and directed by the Orchestra's permanent Conductor, Allard de Ridder; Winnipeg also enjoys Summer concerts which for the last two seasons have been directed with success by Geoffrey Waddington, formerly of Toronto. Space forbids mention of other Canadian orchestral activities, but many other centres are by no means idle in this regard.

Among concert giving organizations other than choral and orchestral, the best known internationally is doubtless the Hart House String Quartet, founded in 1924 by Hon. Vincent Massey, now Canadian High Commissioner in London. Its headquarters are in Toronto, which also boasts other distinguished Chamber organizations including the Toronto Conservatory String Quartet. String playing in Toronto and other Canadian cities is of a particularly high standard, and among the best known of the C. B. C.'s musical broadcasts are those of Alexander Chuhaldin's Melodic Strings. Individual pianists, violinists and other instrumentalists of note in Canada are numerous, and Canada has, from the days of Albani and Edvina down to those of Edward Johnson and others of the present day, given to the world many of its most outstanding singers. Talent among the young people is abundant: one only wishes that more scope could be given in some cases to its exploitation. A Canadian concert tour involves, by the very geographical conditions of the country, long jumps from town to town, and in any case concert giving organizations look for the most part to New York for their talent. Perhaps the very difficulties of war conditions may help to bring more Canadians to a realization of the accomplishments of their younger fellow-citizens.

A survey of this nature would not be complete without reference to the subject of musical education. Mention has already been made of the fine vocal music produced in schools in many parts of Canada. Developments in class instrumental instruction, in music credits for orchestral and other instrumental work lag decidedly behind similar developments in parts of the United States, but many centres are awakening to the value of such things and fine school orchestras are now much less exceptional than formerly. Several of the leading universities have departments of music or affiliated music schools and grant musical degrees on lines similar to those of British universities—that is, throwing emphasis on composition and the theoretical and historical aspects rather than on performance. Certain music schools connected with universities conduct examinations in diploma and lower grades not only for their own students but also extra-murally throughout the Dominion. The Toronto Conservatory of Music, for example, founded in 1886 and controlled by the University of Toronto, has in some years examined as many as twenty thousand students in this manner and sends every year eight to ten travelling examiners in the Western provinces alone, thus exercising a profound influence on music teaching standards quite apart from the four or five thousand students it enrolls annually in its Main School and teaching Branches in Toronto. The Conservatory Choir is an exceptionally fine body of 200 singers; and the Conservatory Orchestra, conducted by Ettore Mazzoleni, performs most enterprising programmes, its playing being of professional standard.

McGill Conservatorium bears a similar relationship to McGill University and also conducts extensive examinations throughout Canada as do other university schools. A lead has been given in Saskatchewan by the creation of a chair of music in the provincial university at Saskatoon and the appointment, ten years ago, of Arthur Collingwood to the chair. In addition to such public schools of music, Canada is favoured with many very good private schools and teachers; teachers' associations, organized on lines similar to those of corresponding bodies in the United States, are growing in numbers and influence. Some of these bodies are devoting much thought and labour to the development of a reliable form of registration for teachers of music and in some provinces legislation has already been passed to ensure this. It must however be confessed that the musical profession as a whole is still very loosely organized in most parts of Canada.

One might speak at considerable length of other interesting features in Canada's musical life: band music, for example, or that highly popular institution, the Competitive Festival, which does so much to encourage serious musical effort among amateurs and professional students alike. Some fifty annual festivals are held in the Western Provinces alone; almost as many operate in Ontario and Quebec, while the Maritime Provinces have within the last five years organized at least five. One could also write at length of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and of the differences between complete public ownership of radio on the English model and private ownership with a minimum of government control as it exists in the United States. When all the pros and cons are summed up, one is bound to admit that, given conditions existing in Canada, a compromise between the two extremes as represented by the C. B. C. is the best solution of Canada's radio problem. The future will decide how successful that organization can be in meeting the many political, managerial and artistic problems which face it. At present its chief efforts are naturally concentrated on handling the difficult problems of news dissemination, propaganda, etc., created by the war. Not only in broadcasting but in all its aspects must the progress of Canadian music depend on the outcome of the terrific struggle in which our nation is now engaged. Of the outcome of that struggle we have no doubt, but one cannot forsee how it will affect the lives of musicians. Canada may well be on the verge of a very great musical future.

Music In South America

By NICOLAS SLONIMSKY

WITH the musical blackout in Europe, South American music has become a fresh subject of curiosity. Two orchestral argosies, headed by two famous conductors, Toscanini and Stokowski, went "down to Rio," and beyond, on a good-will tour. Carleton Sprague Smith, the polyglot chairman of the Music Division of the New York Public Library, has made a flying tour, via Pan American wings, to all capitals of South America, with the purpose of collecting materials on South American music. A special committee for inter-American exchange in the field of music has been organized in Washington. The Pan American Union, too, has intensified its activities in its music branch. Several special concerts of South American music have been arranged in New York. All this has contributed to the better acquaintance between the two Americas.

But still, very little is known, and practically nothing in the way of comprehensive information is available on the development of creative music in South America. Even the best-equipped music libraries possess very little of South American music literature; and it is all the more strange inasmuch as numerous South American compositions, at least, in smaller forms, have been published in South America, in Paris, and in this country. It is to be hoped that now, once the curiosity has been aroused, the public libraries will fill this inexplicable lacuna. The major symphony orchestras, and chamber music organizations, are as yet fighting shy of presenting works by South American composers, but it is only a natural consequence of the unavailability of the music, and distrust of something new and reportedly immature. It is not so very long that American music was treated with the same apathy by the leaders of musical opinion. As soon as South American music is recognized as possessing artistic merit, performances will follow.

A catalogue of South American composers, even if we limit ourselves to those composing in larger forms, is considerable. I have made a provisional list of such composers, using the standard of a minimum of acceptability in a music dictionary, depending on several factors: (1) inherent worth; (2) dimension of principal works; (3) absolute number of works in any form; (4) number of publications (5) number of performances, local and abroad; (6) number of references in the musical journals; (7) acknowledged position in the musical community. Allowing from one to three points for each factor, and graduating inherent worth by the system of 12 marks, I have been able to include seventy-three names in my list, with age ranging from twenty-one to ninety-four. The latter record age belongs to the Brazilian composer of operas and symphonies, Joao Gomes de Araujo, who was born at Pindamonhangaba, in the state of S. Paulo, on August 5, 1846. I am a proud possessor of his manuscript composition dedicated to me, and written in February, 1940.

As far as each individual country is concerned, the number of composers is proportionate to the geographic magnitude. But, while a composer may be a native of the periphery, practicing composers concentrate in large cities, which is natural, in view of the fact that most composers earn their living by teaching. The largest cities count the greatest number of composers per square mile, and we are not surprised to find the greatest concentration of talent in Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro. Large cities and capitals of other countries act similarly as magnets, and so we find the majority of Peruvian composers living in Lima, Ecuadorian composers in Quito, and the same is true of the other countries. In a few cases, when a musician earns his living from other sources than teaching, he may reside outside of large cities, in a country estate. Guillermo Uribe-Holguin, the Colombian composer, who is the owner of a rich coffee plantation, divides his time between his business and his music, but lives in Bogotá, Colombia's capital.

Practically every town of sufficient size possesses a band that plays regularly in the public square. The conductor of such a band is usually a one-man conservatory, who teaches all instruments, and arranges the standard repertoire, from popular marches to easy overtures. He is often a composer of popular music, or even an orchestral suite, with a definite, movie-like, programme taken from the history or legend of the country. Capitals, and larger cities, have symphony orchestras, capable of performing the complete orchestral repertoire, including modern works. Most of the compositions by native composers are performed for the first time by these organizations. The richer the community is, the greater is the excellence of the local orchestra, which is the familiar economic law governing the orchestras of the United States as well. Many countries of South America grant government subsidies to their symphonic organizations, and such help naturally results in the heightening of their standard. The dispersal of orchestral players from Central Europe, under the pressure of discriminatory laws, has enabled many South American orchestras to acquire their services. It is not unusual to find that the concertmaster and the first desk players are musicians of high standing recently emigrated from Europe. As far as conductors are concerned, there is a much larger proportion of native sons than in most cities of the United States. Villa-Lobos and Oscar Lorenzo Fernandez conduct the orchestras and choruses in Rio de Janeiro; brothers Castro conduct the opera and the orchestra in Buenos Aires; Armando Carvajal conducts the Santiago orchestra in Chile; Guillermo Espinosa directs the Bogotá Orchestra, which was formerly led by the prime Colombian composer, Uribe-Holguin; Vincente Emilio Sojo directs the fine choral society, Orfeon Lamas, in Caracas, Venezuela. All these men are competent conductors; several are also composers of great merit. The Symphony of Lima, Peru, is under the direction of the Vienna musician, Theo Buchwald. Many other European and American conductors act as guests on their visits to South America.

Only Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro possess permanent opera houses. The Colon Theatre of Buenos Aires is famous, and vies in reputation with the Metropolitan Opera of New York. Visiting opera companies give short seasons in many South American cities, subject to the inevitable flux of fortune.

There are several music publishing houses in South America. Ricordi has branches in Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, and S. Paulo. The list of publications is impressive, ranging from popular songs to orchestral scores by Argentinian and Brazilian composers. The University of Rio de Janeiro has published an excellent collection of songs and piano pieces by Brazilian composers, and several scores by Villa-Lobos and Fernandez. In Rio de Janeiro is also published a review, "Revista Brasileira de Musica." The University of Chile in Santiago has a printing press, which publishes piano pieces and other short compositions by Chilean composers. An informative eight-page bulletin, "Revista Musical Peruana" is published in Lima. The Ricordi Company issues monthly bulletins in Argentine and Brazil, which give interesting information on the activities of South American musicians. The symphonic organizations of Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Lima, Bogotá, and other cities print their programs with biographical notes on the composers represented. The "Grupo de Renovación," representing the progressive musicians of Buenos Aires, such as the brothers Castro, Honorio Siccardi, Jacobo Ficher, and Juan Carlos Paz, also print special notes for their programs. Finally, Francisco Curt Lange, the champion of "Americanismo Muscial," a movement which he launched in Montevideo, Uruguay, has done a great service for Latin American musicology in publishing four voluminous issues, with musical supplements, of his "Boletín Latino Americano de Musica."

All these sources of information enable one to form a fairly complete picture of what is going on, musically, in South America. One definite impression emerges clearly: whatever the educational background of an individual composer may be, they all strive to create a national school of composition in their respective countries. Such a national school is based on the simple melodies and rhythms of the rural Indians, the Incas in Peru, Chibchis in Colombia, Araucanians in Chile. These melodies are harmonized, and stylized, according to the individual feeling of the composer, and form a background of his creative effort. Villa-Lobos translates the overtones of the Brazilian jungle in a "choros," the form which he conceives as extremely flexible, from a dissonant duet, to an extensive musical panorama for orchestra and chorus. Fernandez, who was dubbed "brasileirissimo" by a Brazilian critic, is sensitive to the plaintive, quasi chromatic, song of Indian women, and the poetic legends of the Brazilian rivers. Humberto Allende of Chile sets the street cries of Chilean towns in a rhapsodic form, within tonal harmonies, but Carlos Isamitt, another Chilean composer, prefers a dissonant setting. The dean of Argentinian music, Alberto Williams, has written seven symphonies based on Argentinian folklore, while adhering to the European form, and harmony. But Julio Perceval, thirty years his junior, hears the rhythms and melodies of the Argentines, in percussive, explosive tones. In Peru, Andre Sas and Theodoro Valcárcel write in an economic modern manner, so congenial to the pentatonic monody of the Inca song. In Bolivia, José María Velasco Maidana has in his ballet "Amerinda" given the musical picture of the surviving legends of his land. In Colombia, Guillermo Uribe-Holguin makes use of Colombian melodies in characteristic polyrhythmic time, 3/4 and 6/8, for his extraordinary "Trozos en el sentimiento popular" of which he has now written three hundred. The Uruguayan composers, Alfonso Broqua, and Carlos Pedrell, despite their long residence in Paris, have kept their native inspiration, and used it as the essence of their suites, and songs. In Venezuela, where composers write for chorus by preference, the native element finds immediate expression in words as well as music. Juan Lecuna, world-wise Venezuelan composer, who has been an attaché at the Washington Legation, writes in a more sophisticated style, exploiting city songs of Caracas, and rhythms of Venezuelan dance, for the background of his music. There are, of course, composers of "absolute" music among Latin Americans. Domingo Santa Cruz, composer and educator, attached to the Department of Fine Arts at the University of Chile, is a contrapuntist of great originality, and most of his music is in the tradition of classical counterpoint, without reliance on native themes. Juan Carlos Paz of Buenos Aires, also contrapuntally minded, has come to the conclusion that the twelve-tone technique, according to Schoenberg's precepts, is the ideal form of expression for purely musical purposes, but he is the only South American composer to have published composition in the Schoenberg system.

With the growing educational facilities in South America, the new generation of composers does not have to rely on European or North American schools for a thorough training in music. South America is rapidly becoming self-sufficient in music education, but there is an immediate necessity to establish an intimate contact with South American musicians for the purpose of artistic exchange.

Music In Mexico

By HERBERT WEINSTOCK

NOTHING, unfortunately, has been more usual than that a program of semipopular cast should be labeled "Mexican music," but turn out to consist of an Argentine tango, a transcription of Albéniz or Falla, a malagueña by the Cuban Lecuona, and the aragonaise from Le Cid. Not that it would be impossible to design a light program of familiar and really Mexican music: it could, for instance, include Juventino Rosas' world-famed waltz Sobre las Olas (Over the Waves), Manuel M. Ponce's eternally yearning Estrellita, and such folksongs as Cielito Lindo, La Cucaracha, and Adelita. That program would represent several periods of truly Mexican music. The folksongs are naturally of uncertain date. Sobre las Olas, by a man who might be called the Waldteufel of Maximilian's Empire, belongs to the Victorian period, when Mexico City was trying to be as much like Napoleon III's Paris as possible. Estrellita, by an extremely competent living traditionalist, born in 1868, represents the day before yesterday. The program would certainly span a century, at least, of Mexican history. But, except for elements in the folksongs, it would offer nothing that could come only from Mexico. Nor would that be true for the reason that it spoke exclusively in the supernational language of the greatest music.

The truth is that the phrase "Mexican music" legitimately covers five or six extremely disparate things: the relatively pure indigenous music surviving in regions of Mexico still difficult of access; purely European music composed by Mexican musicians of any racial background, and from the sixteenth century on; folk music from Europe that has suffered a sea change in the transplantation; "rhapsodies," "symphonies," and the like built on watered-down versions of indigenous or mixed folk music, and, finally, modern serious music with native roots by such revolutionary composers as Carlos Chávez and Silvestre Revueltas. I have purposely omitted Mexican jazz from this list, for there is, in the epidemically popular sentimentalities of Agustín Lara nothing more than a faint wash of color native to Mexico and not equally native to honky-tonks on Broadway, the Calle de Alcalá, and the byways of Buenos Aires.

In May, 1940, the Museum of Modern Art, in connection with its superb exhibition, Twenty Centuries of Mexican Art, commissioned Carlos Chávez to arrange and conduct a historical survey program of Mexican music in New York. A brief description of the nine numbers on that program conveys the best idea possible of the unexampled variety hidden under the omnibus term "Mexican music." The program opened with Xochipili-Macuilxochitl, Chávez' own imaginative reconstruction of the probable sound of a pre-Conquest, Aztec instrumental ensemble. Using archeological and historical data, limiting his scale to that still to be produced on archeological instruments, Chávez composed a curiously stirring brief barbaric ritual. Sones Mariachi followed, an arrangement by the talented young full-blooded Indian, Blas Galindo, of semipopular, semi-folk music of a peculiar ensemble of instrumentalist-singer-dancers of the Central Pacific Mexican states. Next was Corridos Mexicanos, orchestrated by the musicologist Vicente Mendoza from the news-ballads still monotonously sung throughout Mexico by itinerant professionals. Fourth on the program was a Mass by José Aldana, a Church composer of the eighteenth and very early nineteenth century in Mexico City. This is a conventionally designed Catholic service plainly echoing Haydn, Mozart, and Handel, and it was presented in an abridgement by Candelario Huizar. Then came Marcha, Vals, Canción (known in Mexico as Obertura Republicana), Chávez' arrangement of Zacatecas, a Sousalike military march, Club Verde, a sentimental nineteenth-century waltz, and Adelita, insinuating and improper.

The fifth number on the Museum of Modern Art program was an orchestration by Gerónimo Baqueiro Fóster, critic of the Mexico City daily Excelsior. Sounding much like a very superior Cuban rhumba, it was Huapangos, complicated rhythmic dances from communal fiestas in the tropical regions of Vera Cruz and adjacent states. Chávez' own version, full-dress, of the sentimental, highly Italianate canción La Paloma Azul (unrelated, except temperamentally, to Yradier's better known Paloma) preceded the two culminating high spots of the program. First of these climaxes was Luis Sandi's brilliant arrangement of Yaqui music, originally called Sonora because the Yaquis come from that northwestern state. This is almost chemically pure indigenous music of great distinction and vigor. Last was a section of Chávez' ballet with chorus, Los Cuatro Soles (1925), kin to Le Sacre du printemps, but of a Mexican, not a Scythian, spring.

These, one was tempted to say, are Mexican music. And, to be sure, even the portions of this program that have been brilliantly recorded by Chávez for Columbia Records give an honest introduction to sound south of the border. But the Maya of Yucatán are not represented, nor the Huicholes of Nayarit. Silvestre Revueltas, a composer of disquieting originality, is not represented. The pseudo Liszts and pseudo Dvoraks of 1890 and 1910 are missing. Julián Carrillo and his fractional tones are not here. And so one fell back on something learned sooner or later in connection with each phase of Mexican life: facts and statistics suffer in that beautiful siren land from vertigo and the sun. There is no bare statement about anything in Mexico that is not true and untrue, simultaneously complete and incomplete. And so, one said, Mexican music is, in brief, a microcosm of European music from 1519 to 1940, plus infusions of fifty or sixty distinct Indian cultures, African music, and Harlem-Broadway jazz.

Now, Mexican folk music and popular music are no exception to the general conditions of their equivalents elsewhere. They are at times striking and charming, but they have limited interest for ears and minds conditioned by the serious repertoire of European-American music. It is not in their pristine and self-sufficient original form that they will likely enact roles in the musical world, but as sources of color, rhythm, and melodic contour for trained and (in the exact sense) self-conscious composers. Finnish folk music has unquestionably conditioned Sibelius' style, though he denies with patent candor ever having made use of a folk melody, and even though devotees of Finnish folk music tell us that it does not resemble Sibelius' Fourth or Seventh Symphonies. So I should be tempted to limit the words "Mexican music" arbitrarily to the works of serious composers, and particularly to those of Mexican composers who have given up academic slavery to Germany and France, and have struck out in new directions for themselves. Of such men, the leaders are unquestionably Carlos Chávez and Silvestre Revueltas.

Carlos Chávez is a many-faceted man. Composer, educator, and conductor, he is deeply interested in the sociological and scientific aspects of his art. He is an intellectual and (figuratively) a monomaniac — he lives in, for, and by music alone. Having passed through the fringes of a long and bloody social struggle during adolescence and early youth, having worked through a period of academic self-instruction, having emerged as a modern nationalist of international sympathies, and having built a major symphony orchestra out of nothing, he is a man and musician of experience and comprehension. The genealogy of his best music is so mixed that its unmistakable projection of a distinct personality is in itself proof of that personality's strength and urgency to expression. Formally, Chávez tends to adjust classic forms to modern needs. His harmonic and rhythmic speech owes something—his melodies less—to Mexican (notably Indian) folk music, and much to Stravinsky. But the result is something new, not a conglomerate of old unaltered components.

Chávez was born on June 13, 1899, and it is fair to assume that his most important compositions remain to be written. Of those now familiar to audiences in the United States cities where he has conducted (New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Hollywood), perhaps the finest is the Sinfonía de Antígona. This one-movement symphony is sparse, sinewy music, unyielding at first acquaintance, but at last becoming incandescent with magnificent tragic light. Here economy of means justifies itself by richness of result. The Sinfonía India, for once, quotes Indian melodies direct, working them into a wholly integrated pattern. It has more surface lure than most of Chávez, but reveals less on later hearings. Then there is the ballet-symphony H.P. (Horse Power), a rather Petrouchkan carnival of sounds. A piece which should be heard here soon is the Concerto for Four Horns. All vigor and golden song, it is a very remarkable composition, Chávez beyond a doubt, Mexican unquestionably, and destined for the general repertoire. It stirs eagerness for the piano concerto on which Chávez has been at work. Not a composer, it would seem, of the happiest inspirations or the most intense lyrical spontaneity, Chávez is a craftsman of unshakable standards, a musical intelligence earning both respect and admiration, and an incorporator into common speech of new forms and new vocabularies.

Silvestre Revueltas, six months younger than Chávez, is antipodal to him. The single-word titles of Revueltas' orchestral pieces—Caminos, Cuanahuac, Esquinas, Janitzio, Planos, Ventanas—summon up the ejaculatory brevity of his manner. He has thrown away classical form altogether, discarding development and connecting passage, dispensed with repetition. His brief pieces are outcroppings of passionate and disordered genius. The score he did for Paul Strand's The Wave showed him unwontedly mellow. But he is commonly disdainful of means, caring only for immediate, palpitating utterance. He is, in one limited sense, the most original Mexican talent, and the neglect of him by American Symphony orchestras is senseless and inexplicable. But only decades of performance will tell whether his gnomic outbursts, like lumps of white-hot music, will have the staying power of the less challenging, more thought-out, sonata-based works of Chávez. Discounting the comparison ten ways in advance, it is not too misleading (and is perhaps useful) to say that Chávez is the Rivera, Revueltas the Orozco, of Mexican music.

Music In The Near East

By ALEXANDER JIMITCH SAVINE

A SURVEY of famous works of the contemporary composers of Armenia, Greece, Yugoslavia and Rumania indicates that the basic structure of those compositions were founded upon the remnants of the ancient form of Arabian, Assyrian, Turkish, Hebrew and Egyptian music.

To commence with the contemporary Armenians, the magnificent songs such as Horovel, Dzirany Dzar, and Alakiaz, edited by Kriktor Suni and Komitas Vartabet, as well as original compositions such as Dooy, Dooy, and Vart, both by Melikian and Groung by Kalfian, are the typical reflections of the panorama of Arabian and Turkish tonal pictures.

The anthological progression of the modern Greek music may be classified in two groups: one, which drifts along the shore of the Adriatic—toward Rome and Paris; and the other, which floats along the shore of the Mediterranean Sea — toward Assyria and Egypt. A glance through the score of the famous Greek opera, Marco Bozaris by Carreris, and of fragments for piano by Papandopulos, reveals the strong individualism of the Greek nation enriched with influence of the modern Italian and French composers. On the other hand, compositions such as Diluted Wine by Hatziapostolou and Cycle of Songs by Sacekelaridis are the offspring of Assyrian and Egyptian music.

The pastoral life of Yugoslavs, constantly intercepted by warring elements, formed its inspirational background in the forms of religious chants and folksongs of Assyrians and Turks. Although modern composers of Yugoslavia are the products of famous conservatories of music in Great Britain, Germany, France, Italy and Czechoslovakia, they may be classified as follows: one group, which leans toward the modern Latin; and the other, toward the modern Slavic school of musical expression. The instrumental suite, In the Village by Slavenski, further choral works such as Lament by Manoylovich, Cycle of Dalmatian Songs by Shirola, Freaks by Gotovac and many others are the best example of the above statement.

The romantic and visionary nature of Rumanians, enraptured with the bizarre improvisations of wandering gypsies, is visibly influenced by Jewish chants amalgamated with Ottoman florid coloratura. No matter how emotionally disposed, modern composers of Rumanian origin were able to retain their nationalistic rhapsodic form in their tonal paintings. Fantasie for cello-solo with piano accompaniment, composed by Pleshoyanu (a pupil of Stravinsky) and the Rumanian Rhapsody by Enesco are not only the best products of the modern Rumanian School of compositions, but the composers of those pieces are acknowledged to be satellites of Oriental music on the musical horizon of the Near East.

The music in the Near East begins with Terpander, who composed music as far back as 750 years B.C. The first decadence and dormant period of the music in the Near-East began with the reign of Theodosius in 348 A.D. Not until the thirteenth century did the structure of the music in the Near-East change its form.

At that time the rebirth of Greek music was in evidence. Now it was something more beautiful; it was a modified music, yet full of the color and emotionalism of the Orient and of the Balkan. It was a music that took over several hundred years to undergo its metamorphosis and transformation that finally reached its own form of expression—Byzantine music.

Before the "Golden Age" of Byzantium, the Balkan peninsula had become the stage of invading Asiatic peoples, who were in constant search for land. The stretch between the Black Sea and the Alps became the land of the Slavs and the Rumanians. They were at the crossroads of the Occident and the Orient. Wars and destruction passed them by as great powers rose and fell. The passing conquerors deposited fragments of their own musical cultures on their doorsteps.

On the other side of the Adriatic, in the Roman Empire and Flanders, medieval chuch composers were laboring on musical technical problems. Scale and structure, pitch, clef and part-writing came into prominent consideration. A system for the perpetuation of musical ideas was established. Descant was introduced and the science of counterpoint was elaborated. At the same time theorists were struggling with the intricate problems of polyphonic mode.

Within the borders of Serbia, Armenia, Assyria and Rumania, the wealth and beauty of Byzantian music swept away all other foreign influences. The system of ceremonial music and chants was adopted from Greece. Even the Greek language was introduced for worship in Serbian churches. The structure of the church music on the Balkan had as its basis the eight tonal pattern of melodies of St. John Damaskin.

The forms of those melodies were as follows:

I. The structure of the melody is built upon six tones. The intervals move through major and minor scales of the same key. The theme commences on the first step of the key, the refrain on the fifth—but period finishes on the second step.

II. The second model of melodies is built upon the range of seven tones of the same major and minor scale. The arrangements of steps are as follows: The theme and refrain commence on the first step up to the diminished sixth, varying in colors of major and minor scale. On rare occasion does the range touch the seventh below the first step, and then only as a leading tone. It commences and ends on the first step.

III. The entire melody of this model is written in the major key. The range of the same climbs to the sixth above, and then moves down to the perfect fifth—below the first step. The melody commences on the third and finishes on the first step. The melodic phrases of this form have a definite design, the ending of which is most interesting. The first movement ends on the lower sixth, respectively minor third below the first step. This ending can be considered as a modulation into the parallel minor key. The next melodic line ends on the lower fifth, which, in reality, is the fourth below the first step. This ending presents a modulation in the upper dominant. But in the last movement the intervals descend slowly to the primary key, ending on the first step.

IV. The fourth design is composed of a melody in a major key which reaches the range of seven tones, but the seventh is diminished. The theme commences on the first; the refrain on the third—finishing the period on the third step.

V. The fifth form is a rather complicated one. The melody is in a minor key, which commences on the second step. The intervals move up and down to the fifth, sometime also to the sixth. In this instance the sixth is augmented for a half step. Immediately upon reaching the sixth step, the intervals commence to descend step by step. Landing between fifth and the fourth as a half step, and between fourth and the third as an augmented second the intervals form a design of an oriental color. In the first phrase, the intervals move slowly below the first step, reaching the open fifth, then suddenly with a jump to the diminished seventh and the augmented sixth they modulate into the minor key of its upper dominant. The refrain changes its color from the minor to the major of the same key—ending the period on the fourth step.

VI. The melody of the sixth form has a range of nine tones; the lowest being the seventh below, and the highest, an octave above the first step. The intervals of this melody do not follow rules and theory of the minor scale. They have their own laws of progression. The first period commences on the fifth step. Moving upward the range reaches the augmented sixth, but the intervals between the fourth and the third step form the distance of an augmented second. Then just before ending the first phrase, the range reaches the seventh below the first step as a leading tone, finishing the phrase on the second step. The movement of intervals in the second period are very quiet and majestic. They range from the first up to the fourth step, ending the sentence on the second step. From there on, the third period commences. The intervals ascend with a half step to the third, then fifth and the sixth, reaching the diminished seventh and thus modulating into the minor of the upper dominant. In the fourth period the intervals ascend from the minor of the upper dominant until they reach the highest tone of the range, namely the octave above the first step. The ending phrase of this period is composed of intervals of the melodic minor scale of the upper dominant.

VII. The melody of this form is in a major key. It commences on the seventh step below the first, but finishes on the first step. The range in upper region reaches the fifth, but in the lower, it goes down to the sixth, respectively the third below the first step.

VIII. The eighth pattern of these melodies revolves in a major key. The entire range stretches from the basic tone to the above, diminished seventh and down to the third below the first step. The melody starts on the fourth, but finishes on the first step.

So impressive were those eight patterns of St. John Damaskin, that Serbs, Bulgars, and Rumanians, including Russians accepted and introduced them to their own liturgy.

The verses of the ritual were selected for singing parts of the ecclesiastical services. They were classified in four groups:

1. Troparions (Hymns); Kontakions (Chants).
2. Irmos (Odes); Canon (Invocations).
3. Blazeny (Beatitudes); Psalms (Anthems).
4. Litany (Recitations); Ikos (Exclamations).

The eight melodic forms were then adjusted to fit the verses of the above classified group of songs. But at this procedure, the necessity was apparent that considerable changes must take place, because the metric system of some syllables came in conflict with accents of the melodic line. For this reason, sixteen variations were added and the task was accomplished. The entire church service was sung in unison.

Then with the invasion of Turks and the fall of the Serbian Empire in 1389, the musical horizon of Serbs began to darken and faded into oblivion. Nearly all of the Serbs were held in slavery. But in the cells of Serbian monasteries and in the caverns beneath the Balkan mountain secretly sprang the rebirth of the Serbian church and national music. It was handed down from one generation to another by clergy, chanters of the monasteries and wandering gypsies.

Musical metamorphosis and transformations followed for nearly five hundred years, until the Crusade of Serbian Liberation in 1804. At that time Serbian clergy came in contact with Russian missionaries, who were spreading Russian majestic church - melodies throughout the entire Balkan. So spellbound was the spirit of Serbs listening to new music and in the language, half understandable to worshippers of the Serbian church, that the Greek language was instantaneously replaced by the new Russo-Slavic. Meanwhile Czechoslovakian musicians came to their assistance, because of their exceptional musical gifts and the knowledge of both languages: the Greek and Russo-Slavic.

The spectacular influence of Russian composers disappeared as swiftly as it appeared on the musical horizon of the Serbs.

In spite of the modifications, which were dictated by certain linguistic demands of the Serbian liturgy, to this very day, Serbs have retained the pattern of eight modes of St. John Damaskin—now sung in Old Slavic language. The old Slavic language is now dead and used only in Serbian and Russian churches.

Through efforts of Patriarch Stratimirovich, the Serbian theological seminary was founded in 1794, at Karlovci, Yugoslavia. Archimandrite Krstitch was appointed to revise the Greek music and collate various Serbian church melodies, which were sung in the Serbian monasteries throughout the Balkan states. But the melodies were not yet transcribed into musical notations of today. As the melodies were handed down from priests and chanters, it was to be expected that they would be delivered in a rather delinquent form. Influenced by modes of different eras, they went through many transformations, and metamorphoses. Facing the problem of collating the authentic material, the best known melographs and musicologists of Serbia were engaged for the work.

The music acquired was classified in two types: the one being the music composed by professionals; the other type was collectively improvised by amateurs.

Not until the middle of the nineteenth century had the world in its possession a single sheet of Serbian church music. Korneliye Stankovich was the first composer to put some of invaluable old Serbian church melodies on the manuscript paper. Later followed Stevan Mokranjac, who became the greatest authority of Serbian religious and folksongs.

Both musicologists and composers of wide fame began collating and harmonizing the material for choral singing of mixed voices. These transcriptions inspired later on hundreds of satellites to follow the footsteps of Stankovich and Mokranjac.

Among the notable Serbian church composers of today are: Stevan Hristich, Kosta Manoylovich, Nenad Baracki, Gavrilo Bolyarich, Nikola Tayshanovich, Tikomir Ostoich, Petar Kostich, Jovan Kozobarich, Dimitriye Stoyachich and Lazar Terzin.

The choral singing of today is conducted in a cappella style.

The music in the Near East, as it is of today in comparison with the Western compositions, suggests that the choral and instrumental works are based on national folksongs of the Near East, but the melodic treatment, harmonic structure and orchestral color are of the Western school. A freer employment of instrumentation and alteration in phrase structure is evident, but only in the music of the larger forms. The folk music of today still clings unrelentingly to its original simplicity of phrasing and harmonization. The religious music of today in the Balkan has acquired a modern complex. The fundamental difference between Byzantine and church music of other Balkan states of today lies in the structure: The Greek remained faithful to the homophonic treatment, while Serbs, Bulgars and Rumanians anxiously lent their ears to Western influences accepting graciously the polyphonic form.

It would be fundamentally wrong to think that famous composers of the past and present era in the Near East have bequeathed nothing to Western civilization. One should observe reciprocity at work of such leading composers as: Bach (Choral in Phrygian mode), Beethoven (String Quartet in Lydian mode), Debussy (Pelleas et Melisande in Dorian mode), Verdi (Aida and Othello), Tschaikowsky (March Slav), Rimsky-Korsakow (Fantasie on Serbian Themes), Balakirev (Orchestral Suite on Armenian Themes), D'Indy (Istar, a symphonic poem), Ravel (group of Greek Songs: Quel galant m'est comparable, Chanson de la Marie, Tout Gai)—and of many others, to come to the conclusion that the Western composers have successfully incorporated the invincible influence of the music in the Near East.

Robert Byron wrote in his book, The Byzantine Achievement: "Responsive to the emotions of nature and religion, the Greek people has endured, posed between East and West, child of neither, yet receptive to both."

Similarly it can be said about the music in the Near East: it is a link between spiritual Asia and Europe.

Music Of The Far East

By CLAUDE LAPHAM

ORIENTAL MUSIC—the mysticism of the Far East. What pictures of exotic fantasy are conjured up in our imagination—brown-skinned solicitous natives, vistas of rice fields and tall bamboo, age-old cultures and civilizations as incomprehensible as if transplanted here from another planet.

Gradually, we Occidentals are understanding a little more of the history and commercial aspects of the Orient. In the latter aspect, we meet on common ground; but in the cultural fields, and especially music, we are very much in the dark. For, although music is the universal language, per se, this applies to all terrains except the Near and Far East. In both locales, the Occidental layman is hopelessly confused and bewildered, while the Occidental professional musician is interested, even enchanted, with the delicate and elusive nuances of Oriental music, but without clear logic to explain his preferences.

In one very important aspect, polyphony or counterpoint, the music of the Orient dates back to and even antedates that of the Western world. But whereas, we, of Europe and the Americas, gradually developed our sense of harmony; the Orient has remained a rich and fertile field of highly developed polyphonic mediae only.

Melody as such, is free and untrammeled, and to the Oriental ear, must be prominent despite the intricate weaving of counter themes scarcely less important. And so all desire for knowledge of harmony and its many laws are completely ignored by the Oriental composer; and we find in every Oriental country many instances of ancient melodies as much as a thousand years old and still very popular.

One almost insuperable stumbling-block in the study of Oriental music is the fact that it is played on native musical instruments; and upon transcription to our Occidental instruments of the piano and symphony orchestra, it loses much of its original flavor, much as does the translation of a literary classic. This is exceptionally true of Indian music.

India has contrasting types of music. The highest development has been in Southern India and the Deccan. In ancient times, the octave was divided into twenty-two intervals, called "s'rutis"; a "s'ruti" being the smallest interval discernible to the human ear. Therefore, to the East Indian ear, our major interval contains four "s'rutis"; our minor interval contains three "s'rutis"; and our semi-tone contains two "s'rutis." They are also arranged in "gramas" (stopping places) or scales. The "Shadjagrama" contains two similar tetrachords separated by a major tone, almost like our diatonic major scale; while the "Madhyamagrama" is exactly like our diatonic major scale.

However, in the music of today, the "s'rutis" are not divided and their place is taken by glissandi, or portamenti. The Hindu octave is similar to the European in having divisions of twelve semi-tones. From these, seventy-two scales are formed. Musical notation also employs many signs peculiar to India; such as, the sign of the lotus flower, long dashes, double lines, and others. Tempo, however, is mostly conveyed only by exponents of the traditional. A "Tala" is a division of time. There are seven, and these are further divided into five "Jati," forming thirty-five different time patterns.

There exist many different kinds of melodies, of which the following is a brief resume.

Svarajotas—
: Odes to some deity or hero.

Kruthis—
: Sacred songs, the melodies of which are very old. They possess a mixture of sadness and joy.

Javadis—
: Songs lighter in character. The love songs of the Nautch girls, and higher class women. The songs may be two types—descriptive ballads, or erotic songs. They deal with the loves of Krishna and Radha, and are of more modern origin.

Pathams—
: Love songs, sung in the drama, also by Nautch girls. Performers change them at will with original variations.

In the small island of Bali lives a highly cultured race of people, with a civilization and creative originality peculiarly their own. It is a land of but a million inhabitants, with about a thousand cities and villages; but the poorest village has two or three native orchestras; and Bali, itself, can boast of several thousand, ranging from small units of twenty-five men to others of fifty to a hundred in the personnel.

Balinese music is the only music of the entire Far East that is instantly comprehensible to the Occidental world; and it is my prediction that some day the music of Bali will prove very popular in Europe and the Americas. This is due to one fact—that it is founded on the pentatonic scale (five notes) and almost corresponds to the black notes on our pianos.

The musical instruments of the Balinese "Gamelan" are:

Xylophones—
Tuned in the pentatonic scale, and made either of wood, bamboo, or metal.

Gongs—
Different kinds, some of them made in Java.

Flute—
Made of bamboo.

Drums—
Different sizes. Male and female species. Covered to ward off evil spirits.

A different orchestral combination is used for each type of social affair which may be divided into the following main classes:

Feasts of various kinds during the year.

Cremation ceremonies—music of solemn and symbolic significance.

Processions of various kinds, the music suiting the mood.

Concert orchestra renditions—varying in mood with the composers.

Dances—a) by young girls, trained for many years.
b) by men alone, generally in sitting posture.
c) by mixed groups with narrator.
d) puppet plays with various kinds of leather dolls.

The leader is generally the drummer, and often he has an assistant. He composes and plays every instrument in the Gamelan. Rehearsals last for months before a public performance, and sometimes last all night long after the day's work.

It is related that Debussy was very inspired by Gamelan music at the French Colonial Exposition in Paris, and composed in their native scales. The Balinese reaction to Occidental music is interesting. They like the music of Bach tremendously, but find that Beethoven is too complicated.

Chinese music is the one music of the Orient most violently opposed to our Occidental ears. Here we find raucous cacophony, strident wailing, and a bewildering confusion of totally unintelligible musical sounds. There are two kinds of Chinese music, ancient and modern. Both are equally untranslatable musically, and lose so much of their flavor when played on the piano, that the problem has defied every Occidental composer to date. Ancient Chinese music involves an endless series of rising and falling glissandi, in all of which the quarter-tones appear. Modern music is of several types indigenous to the theatre, and all very popular. Perhaps the ear of the Occidental composer could become more attuned were he to hear this strikingly original music for a few years.

Japan is a true paradox in music; a country old and new at the same time; hungry for knowledge of the music of Bach, Beethoven and Brahms, and withal keeping alive ancient classic melodies of a thousand years ago. Japan has four large recording companies, and the Japanese public buys more symphonic records than the whole of Europe (in peace times). The pentatonic scale is the most popular, and is used in major and minor mode. There are many different types of native music, modern and classic: extolling the valor of the Samurai (armored warrior) and the piquancy of the Geisha. Some of their musical instruments are imported from China, such as the Samisen (a three-stringed banjo type), flutes, gongs, and drums; while others are original like the Shakuhachi, a bamboo flute played vertically, and the Koto, an improved type of zither. However, Japanese composers have also adapted the forms of other countries, such as the tango and waltz, to their pentatonic scales and instruments with striking effects.

Perhaps, in time, the beauty of both the Oriental and Occidental music will be merged into a transcendental form representing a truly universal medium of expression.

Music In Russia

By NICOLAS SLONIMSKY

THE present state of Russian music is closer to the national ideals than at any time since the Revolution. An interesting illustration of the new trend was provided by the Music Festival in Moscow, given in November, 1939. The high points of the Festival were three cantatas, all in a strongly national spirit: Prokofiev's Alexander Nevsky, glorifying the victory, on April 5, 1242, of a Russian medieval war lord over the Teutonic knights in the Baltic (the music was expanded from Prokofiev's film of the same name); Shaporin's On the Field Kulikov, based on another victorious episode, when the Russian forces defeated the Tartar chieftain Mamay in 1380; and the oratorio, Emelian Pugatchov by Marian Koval, depicting the career of the peasant rebel, executed by Catherine the Great on January 11, 1775. Lev Knipper's Seventh Symphony, written for the Festival, was described by the composer as "expressing the readiness of the Soviet people to answer, blow for blow, the agitation of war provocateurs." At the same Festival, the Sixth Symphony of Shostakovitch received little attention, which was all the more significant, inasmuch as his Fifth Symphony, performed two years earlier, was hailed as a supreme achievement of Soviet music. The Fifth Symphony, in fact, rehabilitated Shostakovitch in the musical and political opinion in Russia, after the severe setback administered to him by the articles in "Pravda" in January, 1936, condemning his opera Lady Macbeth of the District of Mzensk for its bourgeois decadence, and his ballet, The Limpid Stream, for frivolous treatment of the theme of Soviet farming. According to Shostakovitch's original announcement, the Sixth Symphony was to have a choral setting to the ode on Lenin by a Caucasian poet, but apparently Shostakovitch decided that he was not equal to the task, and chose the classical form, without a programme.

The harmonic style of contemporary Russian music is eminently tonal, but the modulations are made exceedingly free. Chromaticism in the Wagnerian manner is unpopular. Russian melos is essentially diatonic, and modal, and chromatic harmonies do not suit it well. As to the ultimate development of chromaticism, atonality, it is completely absent from Russian music. The fundamental tonality may, however, be embellished with permanent appoggiaturas that are joined to the harmony, with the result that major and minor triads annex an added sixth, or a superposed ninth, without the necessity of resolution. Parallel progressions are also frequently employed, and fifths are used in consecutive rows without any compunctions. But this usage is far from the impressionism of the French school. Debussyan attenuation, and tonal haze, have little appeal to Russian composers. The Russians like their chords full, with bell-like overtones, sonorous pedal points, and powerful, protracted climaxes.

Russian composers are divided by age into two groups. The elder generation, educated in pre-revolutionary conservatories, has undergone a period of self-adaptation to the "new thematics," as the catchword phrases it. At the same time, this old generation of composers acts as teachers to the new talents. The result is an amalgamation in new Russian music of elements of Russian classicism, and even academism, with spontaneous additions generated by modern songs and rhythms. Several Russian composers of eminence, Rachmaninoff, Gretchaninoff, Nicolas Medtner, Nicolas Tcherepnin, and Akimenko, left Russia early after the Revolution, and remained abroad. Glazunov, who left Russia in 1928, died in Paris, Artzibushev, a composer of the Belaieff group, also remained in Paris until his death. Stravinsky, who has not revisited Russia since before the World War, is a French citizen. Prokofiev, who left Russia in 1918, and lived many years in Paris, has now come back to Russia, and taken permanent residence in Moscow. Of the old generation of composers, those who remained in Russia throughout the Revolution are Zolotareff, Glière, Steinberg, Goedicke, and Vassilenko, all familiar names through Belaieff's editions. Alferaki, a relic of the old school, died in Petrograd in 1920. Alexander Taneieff, a minor composer and relative of Sergei Taneiev, died even earlier, in 1918. Ippolitov-Ivanov remained in Russia until his death in 1935, and in the last years of his life, composed successfully on new themes. Old Zolotareff, too, has written an opera on a revolutionary subject, without, however, changing the old harmonic style. Glière devotes much time to teaching, and the study of Caucasian music. He has written an opera on an Azerbeidzhan legend. Vassilenko, whose pre-revolutionary music was flavored with Russian orientalism of synthetic make, has not been successful in finding a new style, now that musical ethnologists have collected and recorded true folk music of Asiatic peoples. Maximilian Steinberg, who inherited the directorship of the Leningrad Conservatory from Glazunov, has paid tribute to the new times by dedicating his fourth symphony to the opening of the Turkestan-Siberian railway. His Turksib, a poetic work, remains, however, miles of dissonance behind Honegger's celebrated portrayal of the powerful Pacific 231. There is little to be said about Goedicke, who is a competent teacher and arranger.

The generation of composers now in their late fifties, who matured before the world war, when the influence of symbolism, and mysticism in Russian art and literature, was strongest, has faced the most difficult task in switching over to a more constructive philosophy. Nicolai Miaskovsky, essentially a romanticist if not a mystic, author of nineteen symphonies (a record figure for any modern composer) has repeatedly tried to reflect the new spirit in his music, but, as he has himself melancholically admitted, his efforts have not been successful, not even when he deliberately set out, in his twelfth symphony, to interpret the collectivization of peasant farms in an optimistic manner. Because of the honesty of his endeavor, Miaskovsky is reverently treated by the musical press. Besides, in his capacity as professor of composition at the Moscow Conservatory, he has contributed greatly to the education of the new generation of Soviet composers. Nicolai Roslavetz, who began as an ultra-modernist (his violin sonata, written in 1913, is still an unplayable puzzle), has virtually stopped composing, after many attempts to find a new style, including experimentation in the field of operetta. Michael Gnessin, and Alexander Krein, of the same generation, had an honorable line of retreat from early symbolism into the realities of Jewish life they knew so well. This, however, did not save Gnessin from some criticism for an all-too-facile stylization of Yiddish folklore. Alexander Krein, after an attempt at political oratorio, went back to the opera and symphonic poems with national Jewish inspiration. The case of Youri Shaporin is interesting. In his instrumental works, academism is tempered by a lightness of miniature design, suggesting Liadov, or even early Ravel. But in his major works, he is deeply national, in the Borodin tradition. His opera, Decembrists, on which he has been working for years, is praised by the critics in advance of its production.

Composers below the age of forty-five, and who, consequently, were at the conservatory age at the time of the revolution, may be legitimately regarded as products of the Soviet era. The brightest star of the Soviet generation is undoubtedly Shostakovitch, and his career, with its dramatic ups and downs, has enhanced the interest for his music. His first symphony, written at the age of nineteen, is now a standard work of the modern repertoire. His second and third symphonies, both choral, and both with political programmes, have had few performances in Russia, and the Fourth Symphony was withdrawn from performance by Shostakovitch himself, at the time when he was desperately trying to offset the curse of the "Pradva" articles. The Fifth Symphony turned the trick, but the Sixth brought another slump. The name of Alexander Mossolov is chiefly known by his Iron Foundry, or Music of the Machines, but this piece, in which a suspended metal sheet shaken transversely is included in the orchestra for realistic effect, is not favorably regarded by Russian musical opinion. His contribution to the 1939 Moscow Festival was a Harp Concerto. Lev Knipper, whose Seventh Symphony was played at the 1939 Moscow Festival, is a romanticist of no great originality. Leonid Polovinkin has written numerous, and witty, short pieces for piano, and some music for the theater. His larger works are of little significance. Shebalin is an important composer, with a great deal to say, but he has slackened the tempo of his work, and his music is seldom heard. Shenshin excels in small forms. Shirinsky has modern ideas, but his apparatus is unnecessarily complicated. Popov, an interesting composer, was an extreme modernist until he was called to order by his critical colleagues. Kabalevsky writes in a brilliant manner, particularly for piano, but his eclecticism is disheartening. Muradelli, a Caucasian composer, has been increasingly successful. He undoubtedly has an original talent. Another Caucasian composer, Khatchaturian, has now mounted into the first ranks of Soviet composers. There is romance and melancholy in his music. He cares little for harmonic and contrapuntal elaboration, but he has simple power of invention, and that is what counts in his case. Tikhon Khrennikov has written symphonic and operatic compositions in a direct folk-song style, with a natural gift for melody.

Koval, who comes from the Ural, has definitely established himself among contemporary Russian composers, with the performance of his oratorio in 1939. Julian Krein (a nephew of Alexander Krein, and son of Gregory, also a composer) whose precocious talent, in a fine romantic vein, has been frustrated by misdirection, spent several years in Paris, and went back to Moscow in 1934. Alexander Veprik, after an auspicious beginning, has not succeeded in maintaining a position commensurate with his abilities. Michael Starokadomsky (his music has been performed in America) has established a neoclassical style, which has a vitality, and a freshness, free from academic routine. Nina Makarova, one of the most talented young women composers, writes best in miniature forms.

The problem of building the new Soviet opera engages the energies of several composers. Prokofiev has recently completed the opera, Simeon Kotko, named after a hero of the Civil War of 1918-1920 in the Ukraine. Tchishko, a composer of moderate gifts, has had some success with his opera, Dreadnaught Potemkin, to the story of an uprising, in 1905, on the Czarist ship of that name. Zhelobinsky, and, of the older generation, Pastchenko and Stcherbatchev, have written several operas on revolutionary episodes of the recent and remote past. The most successful of Soviet opera composers is the youthful Ivan Dzerzhinsky, whose operas, Quiet Flows the Don, and The Uprooted Soil, to Sholohov's epic of the Revolution in the Cossack country, have not only been officially commended, but enjoy a popular success at the box office as well. And in Russia, popular attendance is an ultimate factor of success, as in any other country. In the field of ballet, Boris Assafiev, who is known as writer on musical subjects under the pen name of Igor Glebov, has had numerous successes, but his music is purely imitative. In popular music, Dunayevsky has the greatest knack of turning out marches, sentimental waltzes, songs, and a special type of syncopated music, known as "Soviet jazz."

A collection of piano pieces, and songs, composed by Russian children of the ages from 11 to 15, has recently been published by the State Publishing House, under the editorship of Prof. Goldenweiser. The youngest children imitate Tchaikovsky; those slightly older use assymmetrical periods, and some acrid harmonies, in the modern vein; the influence of Prokofiev is manifest in the more sophisticated pieces. All pieces are harmonic in style, without contrapuntal elaboration. The melody is simple, and the tonality is well expressed. In these efforts, the educational line in present-day Russia follows the trend already evident in the music of mature composers: a return to the national school, with a harmonic element expanded, without affecting the essential tonality.

Music Blackout In Europe

By HERBERT F. PEYSER

EDITOR'S NOTE: Writers were commissioned to survey for this volume the musical scene in Canada, Mexico, South America, the Near East, the Far East, and Europe. Due to the state of conditions in Europe it was impossible for our writers to report to us the plight of music in the belligerent and invaded countries. However, we know of no study of the recent developments of music in Europe which better portrays the havoc wreaked on it than the following written by Herbert F. Peyser, summarizing vividly the devastation of the erstwhile great music centers of the world.

ON THE night of the Reichstag fire I was at a concert of the Berlin Philharmonic. I first heard of the trouble during the intermission. A colleague drew me aside and nervously whispered: "This is nothing to what we shall experience." Although I was under no illusions as to the sinister meaning of the Nazi enterprise (I was already living in Berlin when the party made its first alarming electoral sweep in 1930) I was not yet prepared to take quite so black a view of things. Anyhow, why should politicians and rabble-baiters bother about musicians, and what had this whole repulsive business to do with music making? You see, I still cherished those nursery ideas that music and politics have nothing to do with one another. I was old enough to have known better. Had I not spent 1917 and part of 1918 in New York City, when any nit-wit or nincompoop was capable of starting a riot because somebody dared play a Beethoven sonata and when it was found necessary to send squads of policemen to Carnegie Hall to quell possible disturbances when the Philharmonic performed the Waldweben?

However, that was hysteria or "war psychosis," if you prefer to give this form of lunacy a fancy name. The other—the Nazi brand—was cold-blooded and deadly calculation. It took some time for the hideousness of it to sink in. I think I fully grasped the implications of it all only when I read that all musical reviewers and essayists in Germany were expected, under penalty of elimination, to conform in their writings to Nazi codes and to further Nazi doctrines. At all events, the complexion of German musical life changed almost over-night.

A few months later music in Berlin had dropped to its lowest level in a century. Most of the leading artists were proscribed or in exile. There was an end of the various manifestations of modernism, experimentation, the "neue Sachlichkeit" and other trends and movements which, since the World War had lent a tang to musical experience in Germany—even if many of them were irritating and preposterous. An ugly, vindictive Babbitry set the prevailing standard. The lyric theatres suddenly went in for large scale exhumations of the comic operas of Lortzing — bourgeois prattlings if ever there were any. And I recall one particularly horrible evening I spent in Charlottenburg listening to a piece of ghastly rubbish called Der Freikaporal by a nonentity named Georg Vollerthun, the climax of which was a parade of Prussian grenadiers whose marchings the audience accompanied with rhythmic handclaps. If by accident some such interesting work as Alexander von Zemlinsky's Der Kreidekreis managed to pass the portals of the Staatsoper it was quickly done away with.

And as with the opera house, so with the concert hall. The programs began to ooze the heavy sleeping syrups of Max Trapp, Paul Graener, Hans Pfitzner and a horde of others whose names I have not bothered to remember and who matter very little one way or the other. Even Reger came back—Reger, whom the post-war Germans set about sloughing off as if he had been some outworn ancestral sin. Mediocrities, the crooked cross on their lapels, suddenly swarmed like vermin, climbed on the bandwagon and in proper season ruled the roost. The Blechs, the Kleibers retained for a little while their precarious foothold, then went — either by compulsion or by honorable choice. Today, besides Abendroths, Schurichts, Jochums, Karajans, Hegers, Elmendorfs, and a multitude of other small fry there is the solitary and rather pitiable figure of Furtwaengler. But Furtwaengler is a chapter by himself, a tragic and distressing chapter beyond the scope of the present article; a most unhappy man caught between the upper and the nether millstone, the victim of his own vanity, weakness and irresolution.

Here and there, even today, are exceptions — even bright ones — to the crowding nobodies. For the State commandeers and, willy-nilly, the more gifted sing or play or act or conduct along with the rest. Yet out of the sows' ears not even Nazi decrees can make silk purses.

I lasted nearly ten months in Berlin after the coming of Hitler; then I yielded to the intensity of my loathing. The logical place to turn to was Vienna. When I settled in Berlin in 1930 I thought I could be happy nowhere else. It took just four days of Vienna to make me feel more completely and deliciously at home there than I ever have felt anywhere, either before or since. It took a little longer to accustom myself to some of the more typical aspects of musical life in Vienna—to the operatic and the concert audiences, for instance, with their sometimes unaccountable enthusiasms, their inability to "hold a mood" at the close of a composition like German audiences, their instant relapse into chattering good humor. But such is the nature of the beast; and because I loved the beast I learned to accept its frailties along with its most prevailing charms. Even its "Schlamperei" is only a defect of its qualities, although a maddening one.

It is undoubtedly useless to look for the hair-trigger discipline and the studied grooming in a performance at the Vienna Staatsoper that you will find under normal conditions in one at Dresden, Berlin or Munich—that is, unless a unique and self-imposing fanatic like Gustav Mahler exercises sovereignty. Taken by and large, however, the Vienna opera was not on the artistic level in 1934 (and after) that it had occupied ten years earlier, when I had made my first acquaintance with it.

Economic factors and distraught political conditions with all their attendant anxieties and deprivations and uncertainties gnawed at its vitals. And in one way or another they supplied new and fertile soil for the immemorial Viennese intrigue and bureaucratic stupidity to thrive in. In the course of a brief and casual article it is clearly impossible to invoke chapter and verse. As for the Nazi leaven, only too sure in its working, it became an irrepressible element of destruction. The treacherous defections of Clemens Krauss who, lured by Goering's promises of powers and riches, scuttled off to Berlin after persuading some of the leading artists of the Vienna house to accompany him and share his glory, did mete out to the recreant conductor a bit of poetic justice in the shape of prompt and abject failure in the Nazi capital. But it injured the Viennese theatre all the same, the more so as it brought Felix Weingartner for the second time in his career to the managerial helm of the house on the Ring Strasse. And for the second time Weingartner made a mess of it.

He had been given a contract for five years ("Why not for life?" asked a popular wit, Weingartner being then seventy-two). Yet nobody held this contract for more than a scrap of paper. "In the theatre there are no contracts," one Viennese musician said to me, "there are only good and bad performances." Most of the performances of the second Weingartner regime were bad, some of them shocking. Providentially, Weingartner received an invitation to conduct in Japan and the Viennese bade him Godspeed.

In the proper course Bruno Walter obtained a limited — a very limited — hand in the management. Actually, the house was run by the Minister of Education and a host of official underlings, but even at that the invitation to Walter was an audacious gesture in an atmosphere surcharged with anti-Semitic perils. Nevertheless, Walter's powers were too limited to avail much and, besides, Austria was on the threshold of its doom.

It was to Bruno Walter, however, that I owe my final fragment memory of the Vienna Staatsoper. On the evening of March 10, 1938, never dreaming I was sitting in that most sympathetic auditorium for the last time, I heard under his direction a matchless performance of Smetana's magnificent lyric tragedy, Dalibor, which, shamefully to say, is totally unknown to America. The next night while Tschaikovsky's Eugen Onegin held the stage, the Nazi gangsters and cut-throats took over the city. On the 12th, Tristan was to have been given. But on the 12th, the theatre was dark. Heart-sick, I travelled that night toward France.

After all my years in Germany and in Vienna I somehow dreaded the musical life of Paris—and this precisely because, having spent some of my most impressionable years there, I knew the city so well. But in proper course I was to learn what few outsiders correctly appreciate: that Paris, though it does not possess the world's greatest orchestras, though its operatic performances suffer from a variety of imperfections (just as do those of Vienna and Berlin, Munich, Milan, London and — if the horrid truth must out — New York!), though its tastes in music are sometimes quite its own—that Paris, despite these things, boasts a decidedly stimulating and individual musical life. It has long been a foreign custom to sneer at its concerts and even more so at the representations at the Opéra and the Opéra Comique. As a matter of fact, I have heard artists and witnessed productions at these theatres which, in this day and age, New York's Metropolitan could not begin to approach. For myself, I should be rather grateful to experience in New York artists of the stamp and distinction of Germaine Lubin, Martial Singher, Edouard Kriff, Louis Arnoult and Georges Jouatte, singers whom in Paris I could have heard almost every few days in the year!

Toward the middle of August, 1939, the Paris Opéra which, barring war, famine or pestilence plays twelve months a year, let it be known that "to vary the summer repertoire a little" there would be a revival of Henri Fevrier's Monna Vanna. In the long, long ago Mary Garden had appeared in that work in America but could not, for all her fascinations, hold it long above water. I went to renew my acquaintance with it a few days before the war broke. Blackouts were already in order, nerves were taut and the revival of a dead opera was the least of anybody's worries. About seventy-five people, widely disseminated, occupied the auditorium that night, applauded listlessly, then went out into the August moonlight to face the worries of the morrow.

Once more after that I visited the Opéra—this time to hear the Damnation of Faust. At the moment I did not fully realize that it was a "last time" for me and even considered going to the Flying Dutchman next evening. But there was no Flying Dutchman, for the date was September 1. Moreover, there has been no Wagner in Paris since, though as I write both the Opéra and the Comique, after a two months' interlude of silence, are functioning again.

Yet sooner or later Wagner will be back; and again the French people will be flocking to hear him as they flock to none of their own composers (such, for decades, has been the consistently inconsistent story of Wagner in France). However, at the moment of which I am speaking all music, by tacit agreement, was silenced. (It cannot be said that concert activities were arrested, for in Paris these activities never begin till mid-October.) Within forty-eight hours the air-raid sirens were driving us at three and four in the morning to our cellars. On September 12, 1939, yielding to an impulse more human than necessarily wise, I took ship for America.

* * *

(The rest is history. What manner of Hell is behind the curtain of propaganda that we hear and read in this country, only time will disclose. This much is certain: The only music in Europe today is a symphony played on instruments of war — staccato machine guns, roaring bombers, and shattering shells provide horrible tympani effects to a chorale of the wailing voices of sorrow-laden peoples. Such is the music when Mars serves as Muse instead of Apollo.)

Music In The United States

ALABAMA

By Mrs. J. Greeley McGowin

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The states which constitute the Deep South are so far removed from the musical centers of the Nation and so much of the area is rural that they naturally cannot compete in musical development with the North and East. Alabama, with its rhythmic name and French and Spanish heritage, is a land of natural, spontaneous music. There was Spanish music along the Gulf Coast forty years before Cabot reached the northern shores. It is recorded that when Bienville laid out the first settlement of Mobile, the Indians listened in wonder to the solemn chanting of the Mass by the priests and settlers.

With this background of romantic languages, the soft languorous climate, it is too much to expect masterly musical achievement. Such an atmosphere is not conducive to strenuous effort.

Nevertheless, Alabama has an impressive list of composers with compositions ranging from cradle songs to symphonies. Birmingham, the industrial and musical center of the state, has a Civic Symphony Orchestra, an excellent Chorus and Madrigal singers, a Boys' Choir of national repute and an annual Chamber Music Festival. All the cities of the state have concert courses which are growing in interest and patronage, and developing musical appreciation.

The Alabama Federation of Music Clubs, organized in 1916 with 21 clubs, now has a total of 156. Through Music Club contests, the young musicians are given an opportunity to compete for State and National honors. Increased interest is shown in choral work in colleges and clubs. The colleges in the state are devoting more attention to music than ever before and some are now showing splendid results. Faculties are being enlarged and theoretical courses offered leading to degrees in music. There is an annual contest of State High School Bands and Orchestras.

The University of Alabama in the last three years has presented The Messiah, The Creation, Elijah, Dido and Aeneas, Schubert's Rosemonde, Coleridge Taylor's Hiawatha, and Hansel and Gretel. Over a period of years eleven Gilbert and Sullivan operas have been presented.

A much needed effort is under way to offer better musical facilities for rural districts. Here is a magnificent task for those with vision and understanding to bring some manner of musical expression and appreciation to the countryside. The urban centers are overfed, while the dwellers in the country are hungering. Radio is doing much for them, but it is the individual effort that they need and that has the greatest value. This they lack.

A splendid work has been done along the line of folk music research, including work songs and calls.

The radio and the increasing popularity of good recordings is showing surprising results among the young people.

Two volumes of Musical Alabama have been published by the clubs of the state. This is a complete roster of musicians, compositions and musical organizations.

Through the efforts of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs, Alabama is now the seventh state in the Union to have a State Supervisor of Music for Public Schools.

ALASKA

By Florence Tobin

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Although the distances separating the widely scattered towns and cities of Alaska, and the consequent difficulty and expense involved in travelling from one community to another, have resulted in a slow growth of music organizations in the vast territory, the people of Alaska have a real hunger for and appreciation of good music.

In a number of the larger cities, bands give regular programs, while a few community orchestras present the works of famous composers. The populations of these places and surrounding areas turn out eagerly for these concerts.

Petersburg and Ketchikan have good-sized Scandinavian male choruses, and the audiences hear excellent renditions of both classical and folk music. In many of the comparatively isolated towns, church choirs furnish the only regular music program from year to year.

Every high school in Alaska has a band or orchestra. This fact provides a definite stimulus to the musical life and growth of the communities. Travelling groups of Indians, organized into bands, orchestras, or choruses, go from one city to another, offering good programs.

Further indicating the popular love for music here and the potentialities for music life is the situation in southeastern Alaska, which has been host to visiting concert artists. These appearances have been great artistic successes, and, together with the musical activity within the territory, prophesy a brilliant future for the music life of Alaska.

Despite the small population, considering the large area, the music scene in Alaska is inspiring, and holds out rich promise.

ARIZONA

By Dr. Arthur Olaf Andersen

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Arizona is one of the baby-states in the fine arts, being one of the last of our territories to be admitted to statehood. Glancing briefly at the topography of the land we note that it is very mountainous except in one portion known as the Salt River Valley. The mountains abound in rich ores such as gold, silver, copper and other precious metals and consequently the mines came first as a means of livelihood. Drawing, as it did, a vast army of fortune hunters to its promising field, the main objectives of the growing number of inhabitants were food and shelter. Being a mining community and a cattle raising country in a not too large way, Arizona did not put forth the effort to develop culturally until material efforts were well under way.

In this land of dry desert and intense heat during the summer months it was necessary to bring water to the soil in order to raise vegetables, fruits, corn, grain and cattle before independence from outside sources could be maintained. To do this a very intricate and expensive system of water control had to be established. Roosevelt and Coolidge Dams were erected at a tremendous cost and now supply the necessary irrigation for the Salt River Valley which produces not alone large vegetable crops but all varieties of citrus fruits, figs, dates, cotton, grain and other commodities.

And so it was that the cultural things in life were more or less neglected until the material things had been organized. It is only within the last twenty years that the thoughts of the inhabitants have had time to turn to art, architecture, drama, dance and music.

When things did turn it was with a vengeance, as things are usually done in this state, and before long music had made definite strides forward by being introduced into the public school system backed by the Arizona State Music Teachers Association and the Arizona Teachers Association.

Distances in this mountainous land, while not being very great, are difficult and sometimes very trying and tedious to cover. It so happens that after the schools had formed bands, orchestras and choral groups it was next to impossible for them to get together for annual Spring Festivals and other gatherings of a musical nature and so several communities banded together for conferences, clinics and competitions. Now there are three annual conferences in the state, one in the northern section centered at Flagstaff, one in the Salt River Valley at Phoenix and the third in the southern section with changing headquarters, but ordinarily meeting at Tucson.

The growth of group and ensemble music has gone forward in leaps and bounds and we find two local symphony orchestras in the state, one at Phoenix under the direction of Romeo Tata, the other at the University of Arizona under the direction of George C. Wilson. These orchestras give a regular yearly series of concerts which are well attended by the public and offer programs worthy of note.

At Phoenix, the Phoenix Union High School Oratorio Society, under the direction of Norman Rasburg, has reached a point of excellence in performance worthy of the attention of the national broadcasting companies which have made it available to listeners over a country-wide broadcast each season.

At the Arizona State Teachers College at Flagstaff we find another very talented and effective choral group under the direction of Dr. Audrey. This carefully trained body of singers is famous for its sunrise services each Easter from the Grand Canyon, which receive nationwide broadcasts.

At the University of Arizona much is happening in a musical way. The University Symphony Orchestra and Concert Band, under the leadership of George C. Wilson, offer a number of programs each season. The choral groups under the conductorship of Prof. Rollin Pease and Hartley D. Snyder give a number of performances each year worthy of attention and of real musical value.

These are the outstanding groups of music makers in the state. There are many other fine organizations such as the Orpheus Club at Phoenix, a male chorus under the direction of David Murdock; the Mothers Club of Tucson and smaller groups in the various cities.

From the creative viewpoint, Arizona has hardly been touched. The Spanish element in the population is vast and its music is rhythmically rich and inspiring. There are a number of Indian tribes on the various government reservations. These meet in festivals each year in different parts of the state, adding much color and music to the picture. Cowboys, old settlers, miners, all sing at their various jobs, thus instilling another musical element into the life of the community, all of which should, in time, produce a certain interesting and novel musical output by those who seek musical color, rhythm and effective local thematic material for composition.

The state is still too young, musically, to boast of any outstanding composers although there are several who give great promise of fine things to come. Among these are Andrew Buchhauser of Tucson, who writes fluently and interestingly in the large forms; John L. Lowell of Tucson, who is also demonstrating his talent in the symphonic field; Ulysses Kay, a young Negro writer whose works are better known in the east and, best known of all through country-wide performances of his works; and Robert McBride, also of Tucson. All of these men, except Lowell, are products of the Music Department of the College of Fine Arts of the University of Arizona, where the theoretical training is of a very up-to-date order. This school attracts students from all over the country, not alone for its splendid theoretical department but also for its fine work in the applied music field.

The other two large colleges in the state, the one at Flagstaff and the other at Tempe, offer well-balanced courses in music education and applied music not concentrating especially upon the theoretical work.

The Federation of Music Clubs plays a very stimulating part in the musical interest in Arizona. Its work is productive of much uncovered applied talent and it is now working vigorously in the creative field.

Undoubtedly, now that the spark has been ignited into an unwavering small flame, the musical situation in Arizona will leap into widening and very effective showing in the field of music and the second twenty years will be productive of a vastly more interesting story to tell. Watch Arizona!

ARKANSAS

By Mrs. Emile Trebing

The Arkansas Federation of Music Clubs is one of the most outstanding influences for better music in the state. The officers and departmental chairmen are musicians of recognized ability and authority.

The state is divided into five Districts, each with a complete set of officers of chosen musicians. Miss Maud Crumpler, Dean of Music at A. & M. College, Magnolia, is president of the State Federation of Music Clubs.

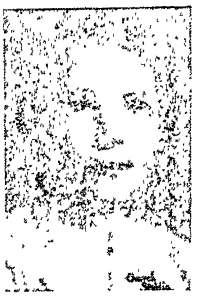
The Arkansas State Music Teachers Association is headed by Miss Virgia Poynor, Dean of the Music College of the Ozarks, Clarksville, as president. It guides the career of the young accredited music teacher who is working for a degree.

The heads of the Music Departments of the State University, and state and private colleges are all musicians of the highest type, such as composers, performers and teachers. They include: University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Dean Harry Shultz, Voice; State Teachers College, Conway, Dean Homer F. Hess, Voice; Henderson State Teachers, Arkadelphia, Dean, Dr. Frederick W. Harwood, Piano, and Mrs. Harwood, Violin; Hendrix College, Conway, Dean David Robertson, Violin (Marion and Benjamin Owen, a two-piano team, are excellent); A. & M. College, Monticello, Dean Tilden Wells.

Teachers at South Western Studios of Musical Art, Fort Smith, include Katherine Price Bailey, Violin; Hattie May Butterfield, Organ and Piano; Mrs. Harold Hefner, Violin. At the Fort Smith Symphony Orchestra, Katherine P. Bailey is Director.

Mrs. Charles Girior of Pine Bluff features a 16-piano ensemble each spring, with excellent results.

The state's high school bands hold Spring State and Regional Tournaments, with leaders of national reputation, such as Bruce L. Jones, Little Rock; R. B. Watson, Pine Bluff, and Addison Wall, Fort Smith.



The Organists Guild, Miss Kate Bossinger, Dean, presents a series of three artists, and Mrs. Frank Vaughan, for years Little Rock's Concert Manager, brings the best artists in a concert series each year.

The Civic Choral Organization, Mrs. I. J. Steed, Director, presents the Messiah each Christmas season. It has done this for eight years.

The University of Arkansas presents concerts two or three times a month, consisting of symphonies, instrumentalists, vocalists and chamber music groups, and employing local as well as outside talent. Among other organizations presenting regular concerts are the Treble Cleff Club of Jonesboro and the Musical Coterie Club of Little Rock, which also employ local and outside talent.

CALIFORNIA

By Edna Corneil Ford

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

California is the home of many distinguished musicians. composers, lovers of music, musical organizations and host to the world's renowned artists.

California has made rapid strides in its musical development and has assured itself a continued growth in musical activities by giving its youth outstanding musical advantages.

Graduates from high schools, colleges and universities are prepared to take their place in the musical group activities of their respective communities in semi-professional organizations. These educational institutions are situated throughout California, extending from Arcata, Humboldt County, to San Diego, San Diego County.

Industry has recognized the socializing influence of music. Industrial groups have organized, within their ranks, choruses, orchestras and bands. This is a new field in musical activities with a great future for development.

Bands have been popular with the fraternal organizations, and these groups also have their choruses and orchestras.

The California cities have always valued a band as a civic asset. Santa Monica has an excellent band.

The California public has awakened to the value of the symphony orchestra as an asset to the cultural development of the community. Symphony orchestras with semi-professional performers have been organized in Oakland, Sacramento, Stockton, Santa Rosa, San Jose, Fresno, San Bernardino, Pasadena, Long Beach (Long Beach Women's Symphony), Los Angeles (Los Angeles Women's Symphony), San Diego, Berkeley (Berkeley Young Peoples' Symphony) and San Francisco (San Francisco Junior Symphony).

San Francisco holds a unique position as a city whose people are so civic minded that it can boast of a major Symphony Orchestra, a Municipal Chorus and a beautiful Opera House. This has been made possible by the people of San Francisco voting one-half cent added to the tax rate for the benefit of the Symphony Orchestra. They also voted a bond issue of $4,000,000 for the erection of the Opera House.

There is an awakening interest in opera throughout California, shown by the increase in the forming of opera reading clubs, opera guilds and student opera groups.

The Student Opera Group of Riverside, founded by Maccelle Craft, is worthy of mention. It serves as a school for the preparation of an operatic career. This group gives five performances a year and meets its financial obligations.

The San Francisco Opera Company, Gaetano Merola, Director, is the only permanent Opera Association of California. The annual performances each fall are equal to the Metropolitan Opera productions. The leading roles are sung by the world's famous artists. The lesser roles are by California artists and the excellent chorus and ballet are comprised of local talent.

The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, Pierre Monteux, Conductor, has a winter season with guest soloists and guest conductors. These concerts are given in the War Memorial Opera House. A popular series with guest soloists is held in the Civic Auditorium. The Municipal Chorus, Dr. Hans Leschke, Conductor, collaborates with the Orchestra in presenting great works such as Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. A spring season of children's concerts is given with guest conductor.

The Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles, Otto Klemperer, Conductor, holds the winter concerts with guest artists and guest conductors in the Philharmonic Auditorium, and presents eight weeks of summer concerts, with guest artists and guest conductors in the Hollywood Bowl. The Los Angeles Oratorio Society, Dr. Richard Lert, Director, is the official chorus for the Southern California Symphony Association.

The Community Music Associations in California are a great influence in developing the artistic standard of their communities by bringing the great artists to their people.

The Redland's Community Music Association, Mrs. Grace Mullen, Founder-President; brings to Redland's Bowl the great artists, without charge to the people. The Association is supported by the citizens of the community and voluntary offerings.

The Marin County Musical Chest, Mrs. Maude Fay Symmingyon, Founder, also brings the great artists to the people.

The San Francisco Recreation Department sponsors free Sunday Concerts at Stern Grove.

The W.P.A. has given employment to many musicians through its respective departments.

The many music clubs of all types in California forming the membership of the California Federation of Music Clubs are a great force in the promotion and development of California musical activities.

CANAL ZONE

By Delphine M. Claughsey

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Beneath the semi-tropical skies of the Canal Zone, the immortal music of the masters forms a world of inspiring harmony.

Notwithstanding the limitation on musical activities imposed by geographical location, the population of this territory enjoys the musical events of the year, which include appearances by world-famous celebrities.

Many of these noted artists perform in the Canal Zone on concert tour en route to South America. Among the musical luminaries who recently have made such appearances are Jascha Heifetz and Leopold Stokowski.

Local musical activity flourishes. The Ancon Morning Musicale Club and the Junior MacDowell Music Club are both affiliated with the National Federation of Music Clubs. These two groups, as well as three other women's clubs also affiliated with the National Federation of Music Clubs, give excellent programs at least once each month.

A community chorus of 100 mixed voices, under the direction of Neil Branstetter, was formed in 1939, and presents concerts throughout the year, including annual events such as the rendition of Handel's Messiah.

Branstetter is director of orchestras, bands and glee clubs for the public schools of the Canal Zone, and as such helps guide an important phase of the territory's musical life and development. The Division of Schools has a well-organized music curriculum and program, and the school orchestras, bands and glee clubs contribute much to local music activity.

Once each year there is a huge, gala music festival, in which the school orchestras and glee clubs all participate, and in which all talented children are encouraged in solo performance. To the students showing the most promising talent each year, awards are presented by the Ancon Morning Musicale Club.

Hardly a child does not participate, in some form or other, in the school musical activities. Quite a number of professional musicians in the Canal Zone, who received their early inspiration at the local schools, are graduates of musical colleges in the United States.

Concerts are frequently given by United States Army bands.

Between the musical centers of North and South America, the Panama Canal Zone stretches as a vital connecting link—a link which, by its geographical location, serves to weld further the varied musical culture of the Western Hemisphere.

COLORADO

By Mrs. Alexius A. Gargan

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Denver is fast becoming known as one of the leading cities in the music life of the nation. Colorado as a state has become known as the birthplace of such celebrities as Paul Whiteman, Dalies Frantz and Josephine Antoine of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

In the field of opera, the Denver Grand Opera Company, under the able direction of Joseph Bosetti, gives a three-night performance of some well-known opera, the entire cast chosen from local talent, and the proceeds given to charity. These performances have been given regularly in May of each year, for the past six years.

The Denver Light Opera Company, under the direction of John C. Kendel, Director of Public School Music in Denver, gives an open-air performance in Cheeseman Park, Denver, each July. This attracts thousands of music lovers from throughout the state.

The Denver Civic Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Horace Tureman, appears in ten concerts each year from October through April. The orchestra consists of one hundred musicians, all of whom contribute their time and talent, in order that the people of Denver be given an opportunity to appreciate the best in music. Denver also boasts a Junior Symphony, which is rapidly becoming known as a Denver asset musically.

Denver has another musical group, a local organization of Pro Musica. This is a very large organization of mostly non-musicians, of considerable prominence and wealth, who enjoy the diversion of contributing funds to bring to Denver unusual artists of prominence who perhaps otherwise would not be heard in concert in the west.

We also have a fine concert series each year sponsored by the Oberfelder-Slack Corporation, which has for many years brought only the finest artists in the world to our city.

Other cities in Colorado are equally prominent in the promotion of the best music, for example, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, and several others. Our famed Central City opera house, which has been revived from the days of the "gold rush," is fast becoming the central attraction for opera in the United States during six weeks each summer.

The natural open-air theatre of the Red Rocks, near Morrison, Colo., is considered by judges to have the finest acoustics of any theatre in the country, not excepting those designed at a very great expense. The mountains alone provide the wonderful result.

Many other points could be listed in Colorado's favor as a music center; these are some of the best known.

CONNECTICUT

By Mrs. Willis Lyman

The Connecticut State Federation of Music Clubs has grown to a membership of more than one hundred organizations, including Senior clubs, choirs and choral groups, and Junior clubs, choirs and choral groups.

Indicative of the varied musical activity of the state are these events of 1940:

On May 7, a Senior Choir Festival took place in Stamford at the First Congregational Church, Arthur F. Lury of Stamford directing the ensemble number, The Life Everlasting, by Harry Alexander Matthews.

A Senior Choral Festival was held in Sprague Hall, New Haven, at the Biennial Convention of the Federation, on May 21, Hugh Lewellyn Smith of Yale Music School directing; and on June 2, Lyman B. Bunnell of Hartford directed a Junior Choir Festival in the First Congregational Church of Branford.

During the season, weekly evening radio broadcasts were given by Senior groups and Saturday morning programs by Junior groups.

On May 11, the annual Junior Competitive Festival was held at the Y.W.C.A. in New Haven, where Juniors were heard and judged in their respective classes in piano, violin and voice.

At the Biennial Convention at the Hotel Taft in New Haven on May 21, talks on music were given by Mrs. Vincent Hilles Ober, president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and by Quinto Maganini, composer-conductor. At the Choral Festival held in the evening at Sprague Hall, the guest artist was Samuel Lorin, pianist, National Federation of Music Clubs Contest and Schubert Memorial Winner in 1939.

Several clubs in the state, in addition to holding meetings, sponsor an evening concert series in the winter.

Besides organizations in the Connecticut Federation of Music Clubs, many other groups and individuals have contributed to outstanding musical programs. The management of the Pickwick Theatre in Greenwich has presented to packed audiences the eminent artists Sergei Rachmaninoff, Fritz Kreisler and Lily Pons.

Norwalk has a Community Concert Association Series and presented Josef Hofmann, the Ballet Russe of Monte Carlo and Josef Knitzer, violinist.

The Stamford Symphony, under the conductorship of John Barnet, gave three concerts and featured as soloists Marion Alva of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and, in conjunction with the Schubert Club of Stamford, Felix Knight.

The Stamford Symphony is the largest group of its kind in the state. Several orchestras, under the Federal Music Project, have given splendid performances throughout the state.

Special mention should be given the free Sunday afternoon concerts directed by David Rabinowitz, pianist-composer of Stamford, performed to capacity houses at the Ferguson Library of Stamford from January to Easter.

The Connecticut State Federation of Music Clubs was founded in 1916. Mrs. Frederick M. Card of Bridgeport was the first president.

Present officers are: Mrs. Willis Lyman, Stamford, president; Mr. J. Winfred Beecher, Waterbury, first vice-president; Mrs. Ruth M. Ferry, New Haven, second vice-president; Mrs. Frederick C. Hicks, New Haven, recording secretary; Mrs. Raymond B. Newell, West Haven, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Florence Beebe Hill, Bridgeport, treasurer, and Mrs. George Storm, Waterbury, historian.

DELAWARE

By Florence Hastings

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Judging by the innumerable recitals and concerts given throughout the year by teachers' classes, music schools and music clubs, together with annual contests, tournaments and festivals held each year, it can well be said that music in Delaware is in a flourishing condition. For the past few seasons Wilmington and Dover have enjoyed concert series by the Community and Cooperative Associations, respectively.

Every high school in the state and many elementary and parochial schools have well-developed music courses planned and executed by Glenn Gildersleeve, Director of Music in the Schools, and his staff of able assistants.

Under the auspices of the retail division of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, the first All-State Massed Band Concert and Clinic were held in Wilmington, April 26, 1940, with Edwin Franko Goldman as guest conductor and adjudicator. The choral groups at the University of Delaware, under the leadership of Anthony Loudis, are making satisfactory progress and gave several outstanding programs during the past season. The organ recitals given by Firmin Swinnen at the University of Delaware throughout the winter season are always well attended.

Symphonic music in Wilmington is provided largely by the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Harry E. Stausebach. This orchestra of nearly 80 members usually schedules three concerts each season which are open to the public. A concert orchestra maintained by the Works Progress Administration gives frequent concerts and weekly radio programs, as well as open-air performances in the city in the summer-time.

Throughout the 1939-40 season, lovers of chamber music were privileged to enjoy a series of four programs given in the Wilmington Drama League Hall by the Curtis String Quartet, under the auspices of the Wilmington Music School. The Wilmington Music Commission sponsored a series of five concerts consisting of choruses, orchestras, church choirs, bands and swing bands, the proceeds of which will be applied toward erection of a bandshell at the City Athletic Park.

With the coming of National Music Week and the annual celebration of the Delaware Festival of the Arts, activities were brought to a climax with a reception and musicale honoring Mrs. Edward MacDowell as guest on May 5, 1940, by the Edward MacDowell Society of Delaware, and a luncheon with a recital by Percy Grainger on May 9.

The Junior Competitive Music Festival and the annual State Junior Music Festival of the Delaware Federation of Music Clubs, held May 4 and 11, respectively, brought several hundred children and their parents to Wilmington. On May 18 the Wilmington Chapter of the National Guild of Piano Teachers conducted the fourth annual Piano Playing Tournament with scores of budding young pianists appearing before Miss Elizabeth Coulson of the Peabody Conservatory as the adjudicator.

During the 1940 summer season, Delawareans were privileged to enjoy many fine performances which are given each year at Longwood, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre S. duPont.

FLORIDA

By Dr. W. E. Duckwitz

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The world's largest carillon will soon be one of the outstanding features of the new Stephen Foster memorial at White Springs, Florida. The great bells, now located at the New York World's Fair, will be housed in a separate tower on the beautiful Suwanee River.

The Memorial, which is to cost $300,000, is a project of the Florida Federated Music Clubs. The site of one hundred acres of land has been donated, the carillon bought, and they have a substantial sum with which to start building the amphitheater, (in the very near future).

The Florida Federated Music Clubs are very active and are doing excellent work. Their sectional meetings are popular and have created interest in original composition as well as in applied music. The standard of work has shown constant and consistent improvement.

Florida is definitely music conscious. This interest in music is due to the attitude of our educators and to the energetic and intelligent activities of our leading music teachers.

The university presidents seem to agree with the statement of Dr. William Sims Allen, president of Stetson University, who states, "The main purpose of education is to develop the cultural side of life, and there is no subject that develops the appreciation of the beautiful as effectively as music." This writer is director of the Stetson School of Music. The support given to music by the university presidents is reflected in their fine music schools and departments of music. Four of Florida's universities are accredited members of the National Association of Schools of Music, and there is also one independent school of music.

Last year the music teachers and lovers of music rallied to the support of Collin English who was elected State Supervisor of Education. Mr. English has done much to elevate the standard of our educational system and has lent his support to the subject of music.

The principals of our high schools have also become music-minded, with the result that we have many fine school orchestras, glee clubs, and bands.

The high school directors and conductors have organized associations of their own. The present president of the orchestra association is Miss Sara Tyler of Tampa. Benjamin E. Green of Tampa is president of the vocal association, and John J. Heney of DeLand is president of the band association. These organizations are active and cooperative. Each year they hold separate clinics to discuss problems, make plans for the coming year, and try out the music to be used at the state music festivals.

The music festivals held in various cities of the state are well attended. The Tampa Music Festival has an attendance of about three thousand. Here the public school glee clubs and orchestras play and sing. The adjudicators are outstanding musicians of state and national reputation. One day is given over to small ensembles, solo orchestra instruments, voice, and piano auditions.

The West Florida Music Festival, held at DeFuniak Springs in July of this year, had an attendance of over two thousand. The West Florida festival differs from that at Tampa in that it includes the band organizations.

Last year the Eighth District National High School Music Contest was held in West Palm Beach with an attendance of over ten thousand. High School orchestras, glee clubs, and bands competed for special rating. Two days were set aside for solo competition.

The Rollins College Festival for orchestras, glee clubs, solo instruments, and voice is held in Winter Park. Rollins College also has an annual Bach Festival, bringing artists of national reputation and selecting singers from the college and near-by cities for the chorus.

Several counties have started annual high school music festivals. Outstanding among these county festivals are those of Dade, Lake, Manatee, and Volusia Counties.

Two summer music camps have been opened: the West Florida Music Camp at DeFuniak Springs and the Daytona Beach Summer Music Camp. Good attendance has been reported, and it is hoped that they will be permanent.

The cultural development of our state is reflected in the increased number of artists recitals. Many cities have "Artist Courses," and there are Civic Music Series in Jacksonville, Orlando, Daytona Beach, Gainesville, and Tallahassee. Most Florida Colleges have artist courses independent of the civic music courses.

The outstanding orchestras of the state are the Jacksonville Symphony Orchestra, the Miami Symphony Orchestra and the Central Florida Symphony Orchestra of Orlando. Several universities also have excellent symphony orchestras.

The Florida State Music Teachers' Association was organized in Jacksonville, Florida, March, 1934, by a group of musicians mostly of that city, and the first convention was held the following February in Orlando with a membership of one hundred and forty-two. Mrs. M. B. Byrd, of Jacksonville, was the first president and has ever since been a dominant force in the institution. The membership now includes practically all of the prominent musicians of the state and has grown to number over four hundred.

Under the Leadership of Mrs. Braxton Beacham, of Orlando, the second president, the association had for its project Music for Credit in High Schools. This project was achieved after two years of effort. The State Board of Education has accepted the Outline of Study and examinations presented by the Music Teachers' Association.

The second project was the founding and sponsoring the Musicians' Club of America under the direction of Miss Bertha Foster of Miami, the third president, originator of the idea, and chairman of the committee. This project has made definite progress; a twenty-five-acre tract of land situated near Miami has been donated to the club, and a substantial sum of money has been collected toward the erection of buildings. This project is of national interest for the membership and is open to musicians of the nation. The purpose of the club is to provide a home for retired music teachers and musicians and to build a club house and smaller buildings for the many musicians visiting Florida each year, where they can meet and work under an ideal environment. The advisory board consists of thirty-eight members, all of national and international reputation.

The present and fourth president of the Florida State Music Teachers' Association is the writer.

GEORGIA

By Mrs. John B. Guerry

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The music scene in Georgia at this time is rather a colorful picture and one that we are proud to discuss. They tell us that economically we are one of the United States' problems, but we can tell them that musically we are accomplishing much that is interesting and quite worthwhile. Every college in the state has music as part of its curricula activities and the glee clubs are known not only at home but abroad as well. Each year more and more high schools and even some grammar schools are adding music supervisors to their lists of teachers, and bands and orchestras are springing up all over the state.

The Georgia Federation of Music Clubs cannot claim credit for all of this but during the twenty-one years of our existence we have seen many changes in the preparedness of the music teacher, the performance of the individual, whether child or adult, and an increased knowledge and appreciation of the best in music and a demand for more and more concert series and light and grand opera. During the past year literally thousands of people attended concerts in every city in the state and in many of the smaller towns as well.

The newspapers of Georgia give splendid publicity to all musical happenings and federation matters are carried in our "Official Column" in the Atlanta Journal each Sunday from September until June. Five issues of a mimeographed bulletin, containing articles by the officers and chairmen, are sent to each club in the state, to members of national and state executive boards, and to other individuals who request them. Through this medium the local club is kept informed of the plans for each year's work, and the president or counselor has definite knowledge of what is required of her club.

Each club is urged to make a scrapbook, either research or publicity, and prizes are offered in each group so as to stimulate interest. The many radio stations in the state cooperate with the local clubs, giving them the opportunity to present programs at regular times and telling of our achievements.

To create and sustain interest in the Federation, we hold district festivals in each Congressional District during the fall, and some districts have theirs several times during the year. At Christmas time Doll Festivals are the order of the day—and how the juveniles do enjoy playing doll music, dressing-up like their own dolls, and bringing a doll as admission so that these may be given to other children who might not otherwise receive one.

Georgia was the first state to hold a MacDowell Festival and this has now become an annual event. In January of 1940 we had as our guests Mrs. Vincent Hilles Ober, National President, and Mrs. W. H. Davis, State President of North Carolina. And as our guest artist we had Mrs. Robert Carroll, Asheville, N. C., who played MacDowell's Concerto in D minor accompanied by the Atlanta Philharmonic Orchestra, George F. Lindner, Conductor. This festival lasts for a week and music lovers from all over the state take part on the programs.

To encourage the use of American music we have an American Music festival and at that time honor our own Georgia composers as well. To complete the year's work there is a concerto festival, at which we hear everything from Elfland by Marie Suel-Holst to Sentimental Rhaspsody by Pelz, not even omitting Mozart and Mendelssohn. Each performer is accompanied by an orchestra. Georgia is the first state to hold this type of festival, and we feel that it is one of our most progressive accomplishments as it makes it possible for many to play with an orchestra who otherwise might never have the opportunity.

But all of our efforts are not spent in festivals, because we have the Sara Leora Bailey Loan Fund, which is a revolving fund used as a loan to assist young musicians to complete their musical training. Nine loans have been made, two gifts of $250 have been made, and there is enough cash on hand for another loan this fall. Georgia encourages her students and young artists to enter the national contests and every biennium gives prizes to the state winners.

We follow the work as outlined by the National Federation of Music Clubs and also work in harmony with the other state organizations. There is much still to be done here as elsewhere, but Georgia with her one hundred and thirty music clubs has at least made a beginning, and we hope to continue to make definite progress from year to year.

IDAHO

By Mrs. Ralph Comstock

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Idaho, rightly named "Gem of the Mountains," though far removed from the centers of music, contributes its share in the musical life of our nation. In the home, in school, in church, by means of radio, through instructors, pupils, church choirs, music festivals, county fairs, municipal bands and contests, music plays a definite part.

From the early pioneer history of our state, music has contributed to its progress, strengthened its morale, and accompanied its growth. Music was heard around the camp fires, along the Old Oregon Trail. It was a part of the Indian Tribal Festivities, and an inspiration for the early pioneers to press onward, and out of this trek came some of our most beloved songs.

A native daughter by birth, instilled with the love and appreciation of good music, I have watched its progress with great interest. Throughout the length and breadth of this state of magnificent distances, one is now privileged to hear the world's best music. Several communities, with the rural population surrounding them, are enjoying concerts by world-famed artists, ballet, and local symphonies. Music groups and clubs affiliated with the National Federation of Music Clubs are working in a united effort to promote American music and composers. Contests, sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs and through our public school music departments, play a great part in stimulating interest among our young people.

Boise, our capital city, was one of the first cities in America to cooperate in the celebration of National Music Week. Now throughout our state each year several cities celebrate the entire week with every music group participating. Last year Idaho's famed Sun Valley resort prompted an outdoor musical festival attracting hundreds of music lovers. This promises to be an annual event, and should do much to make Idaho a fine music center.

ILLINOIS

By Marie Morrisey Keith

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Illinois is justly proud of its contribution to music and its position as one of the foremost states in this cultural field. In this brief review of current activities it is impossible to mention all of the important organizations which have helped Illinois forge to the front — symphony orchestras, chamber music groups, festivals and operas, choral groups and bands, to say nothing of the immeasurable debt we owe our composers, our soloists, our music schools and clubs, or the great work being accomplished in the public schools and colleges in the cause of music.

We have many important contests with awards of money, scholarships, and sometimes radio appearances. A very important one is being conducted annually by the Chicago Opera Company. There are groups such as the Illinois Opera Guild, the MacDowell Society, the American Opera Society, and many others, that are quietly making their great gifts of time, money and energy to spread the gospel of music. One of our younger but rapidly developing forces is that of the Organized Women Musicians—Anita de Mars, President. These women are pioneers in their field, and are fast blazing a trail for women musicians everywhere.

Speaking of women, it seems fitting that we should at this point mention the Chicago Women's Concert Band, composed entirely of women and conducted by Lillian Poenisch, Founder President of the Woman's Symphony Orchestra.

Music in its churches has placed Illinois far in the front rank in this field. Some of the finest choirs in America are here—some mixed voices and others composed entirely of boys and men, such as the Paulists. Noble Cain and his A Cappella Choir are famous from coast to coast.

I wish space would permit mentioning the famous organists of the past decades and those of today who have played so important a part in the healthy musical advancement of Illinois. Dudley Buck, whose centenary was celebrated recently, lived many of his important years in Chicago and was organist of St. James Episcopal Church.

We of Illinois pay our tribute to those of the past, to those of the present and to those of the future who have made or will make it possible for us to hold high the banner of music.

The following list barely touches on the important musical activities of our state, but we are, indeed, proud to attach it herewith:

Symphony Orchestras: Chicago Symphony, Chicago Civic Orchestra, Illinois Symphony Orchestra, Woman's Symphony Orchestra, Chicago Business Men's Orchestra, Joliet Symphony, Oak Park and River Forest Symphony, Western Springs Symphony, Peoria Symphony, Rockford Symphony, Chicago Philharmonic Orchestra, Civic Orchestra of Springfield, and Civic Orchestra of DeKalb.

Chamber Music: Hans Lange Chamber Music Orchestra, Saidenberg Symphonietta, Amy Neill String Quartette, and the Russian Trio.

Operas: Chicago Opera Company, American Opera Company, and many smaller groups staging one or more productions annually.

Music Festivals: Chicagoland Music Festival, North Shore Music Festival, Ravinia Music Festival, Greater West Side Music Festival, State Fair Music Festival, Springfield; Music and Drama Tournament, Urbana; and many others.

Summer Concerts: Sponsored in the parks of Chicago and its outlying districts by the Park Board and the Chicago Federation of Musicians, James C. Petrillo, President. The Grant Park Concerts are nationally famous.

Choruses: Apollo Musical Club, Marshall Field Choral Society, Chicago A Cappella Choir, The Bach Chorus, Chicago Symphonic Choir, Paulist Choir, The Swedish Choral Club, Millikin Conservatory Opera Choir, Knox College A Cappella Choir, Monmouth College Choir, and the Choral Clubs of Illinois State Normal University, University of Illinois, Chicago Teachers College, Monmouth College, Knox College, University of Chicago, De Paul University, Illinois Wesleyan University, and the Elgin P. T. A. Mothers Chorus.

Concert Courses in Illinois: History and Enjoyment of Music Series, The Chicago Chamber Music Society, Young American Artists Series, Chicago Festival of Ancient Music, Community Concerts of Decatur, Northwestern Series and many others sponsored by many of the colleges, universities, and women's clubs all over Illinois.

INDIANA

By Mrs. Lloyd Billman

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

To give an adequate account of musical activities in Indiana would require much more space than that allotted. Indiana is music - conscious and points with pride to some of her accomplishments.

Music in our public schools is of major importance. Our high schools in the state have their bands and orchestras, compete in the state and district contests, and send students to compete for national honors.

The Indiana Federation of Music Clubs—a part of the National organization—has a membership of approximately six thousand which includes Junior, Student and Senior organizations; an active State Board of fifty-two members and nine district presidents. Each year a state convention is held in the spring for all divisions and in the fall a district convention is held in each district. Every two years Young Artist and Student contests are held in the state, winners proceeding to the district and national contests sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Some years ago, as a department of the Indiana Federation of Music Clubs, a Composers' Guild was formed, membership open to anyone in Indiana seriously composing. Each year a concert is given, open to the public, where compositions receiving awards from the guild are heard. These winning compositions are then entered in the National Contest sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Indiana published several years ago a book of Indiana composers, with a short history of each composer and a partial list of compositions. At that time the book contained some 125 names; many have been added since publication.

In our State Symphony Society, which presents the Indianapolis Symphony, we have an unusual organization. Being a state society, the state, as well as Indianapolis, supports it. We are divided into four regions, with a regional director in each section. Symphony Units have been formed in many of the smaller cities. There is a small membership fee required, part of which remains in the Unit and part for maintenance of the orchestra. In most instances the Units use their money to finance the high school orchestra to at least one symphony concert a year. There are ten pairs of regular concerts each season, plus popular concerts and special children's concerts.

Before each Friday afternoon concert, a lecture is given on the music to be heard that afternoon. Our State University cooperates by preparing and sending out to a mailing list of 1,500 explanatory notes on the music played by the orchestra on radio broadcasts. Listening groups have been formed in many places.

Last year the symphony sponsored a Young Musicians Contest, the award being an appearance with the orchestra in one of its popular concerts.

Our conductor, Mr. Fabian Sevitzky, includes an American composition on every program he plays. The state has four minor symphony orchestras.

With pride Indiana points to the pioneer work being done in our rural districts through Mr. Albert P. Stewart, Director of Music, Purdue University. In 85 of our counties, Home Economics Choruses have been formed. These groups number from 25 to 40 women, meet regularly each week for rehearsal with a paid director in charge. Supervision of the music comes from the university. Each year a choral festival is held at Purdue, where 1,500 to 1,800 women participate in a massed chorus under the baton of Mr. Stewart.

To the youngest child in our public schools and the adult in both city and rural districts is brought the influence of good music. Indiana is music-conscious and is doing her part in helping to make this country the world's musical center.

IOWA

By Eleanor Houts

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Iowa is a state of small communities and so lacks some of the advantages and opportunities of metropolitan centers. However, her pioneers laid a strong musical foundation and as a result she has many worthy achievements to her credit.

A most powerful factor in this development, is the Iowa Federation of Music Clubs, which is a part of the National Federation of Music Clubs. The Iowa branch has over two thousand members and almost one hundred clubs. This organization has thirty-five departments but is particularly active in the education of the young and in creative work. Iowa annually sponsors contests in applied music for students from five to eighteen years of age; composition contests for children and also composition contests for adults. There is an annual concert of works by Iowa composers at the state meeting and most of the clubs give similar concerts. In addition, there is a biennial contest for students between the ages of eighteen and thirty, in applied music. This event has been a great inspiration to many of our young people, some of whom have progressed to the National event.

Federation organizations have done noteworthy work in choral singing and on several occasions have been placed on National programs. These activities mentioned, as well as others, have aided materially in raising the standard of music for the entire state.

Musical Iowana 1838-1938, a cloth-bound book of some hundred and sixty pages, published by the Iowa Federation of Music Clubs, relates the fascinating story of the rise of musical culture in this section of the Mid-West. Herein are chronicled, Historical Aspects; Development; Approaches to Music Study; Rural and College Music; Federation Activities; Iowa Composers, Artists, and Educators, and a Classified List Of Compositions.

The symphony orchestras have had a rather slow growth. The oldest is the Tri-City at Davenport, which was organized in 1916. Many of the world's greatest artists have been presented with this organization, of which Oscar W. Anderson of Chicago is the present director. In Cedar Rapids there is a successful organization which has a complete instrumentation with a membership of sixty-five players. Professor Joseph Kitchin is the director. The Sioux City orchestra, with Professor Leo Kucinski as director, presents several programs each year, of unusual interest and variety. The Waterloo Symphony, with George Dasch of Chicago as director, renders an important service to its community.

The raising of the standard of choral singing has been phenomenal. This is largely due to the splendid background given in the public schools, colleges and universities. The University of Iowa sponsors various types of contests and festivals for the youth of our community and for adults. Other state colleges at Ames and Cedar Falls make valuable contributions, as well as the following schools: Buena Vista, Central, Coe, Cornell, Drake, Dubuque, Grinnell, Luther, Moringside, and others.

The Society of Music Teachers in Iowa has sponsored an All-State orchestra with Rudolph Ganz as guest conductor several times, and has exerted a wide influence. Prof. Paul S. Ray of Coe College is President.

KANSAS

By E. Marie Burdette

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Kansas has made a distinctive contribution to the musical life of America. "Where there is no vision, the people perish," says a familiar proverb. In Kansas there have been those with vision. Many ideas in music, original or otherwise, pioneered in Kansas, have become dominant factors in the forward progress of music in our country.

Music has had a great patron in the colleges of Kansas. One of the earliest movements undertaken by Kansas colleges was the organizing of choral societies. Paramount in the history of choral societies in Kansas is the Lindsborg "Messiah" Chorus organized in 1882 and now an internationally known organization. The growth of this Chorus was the signal for others to organize and such choruses as the Winfield Oratorio Society and the Pittsburg "Messiah" Chorus have developed.

The music contest in Kansas, founded by the late Frank Beach at Emporia State Teachers' College, gave impetus all over the state to other colleges whose leaders in turn developed important contests for young students. Along with the contest idea has developed the Spring Festival carried on by such schools as the Emporia State Teachers' College, College of Emporia, Pittsburg State Teachers' College, Wichita University, Friends University at Wichita, Southwestern College at Winfield, Bethany College at Lindsborg, Fort Hays State College and Bethel College at Newton. The Music Week Festival and Mid-Western Band of the University of Kansas at Lawrence deserve attention, as well as the Southern Kansas Music Festival under the auspices of the Wichita City Schools.

Some colleges such as the Emporia State Teachers' College and the University of Kansas offer summer programs for high school students in the field of music. The music in the public schools and the many private music schools are guiding Kansas children in the right direction, musically. Music is offered as a part of the Summer Activity Program of the Winfield City Schools, a plan receiving national recognition in the field of education. All instruction is given the child without tuition in music, choral and instrumental classes. There is genuine enthusiasm in grade school and high school music in Kansas. High school orchestras, choral groups and soloists of Kansas have received the highest honors given in National Regional Music Contests. The colleges have been invaluable to the high school music contests and festivals.

In the colleges concert courses of stellar quality have been an integral unit in the cultural program of such institutions. Colleges not so fortunate as to have large budgets to sponsor a music series cooperate with the Civic Music Association or the Columbia Concert Association, combining college and local memberships in order to bring to many communities the world's finest artists.

Of great importance is the contribution of the colleges to the dissemination of musical knowledge. In the Middle-West and particularly in Kansas, the colleges have met this challenge admirably by the expansion and improvement of the music curricula, and the maintenance of large choral and instrumental groups in the program of the college. To a great extent it has been the responsibility of the music departments of the colleges to uphold and maintain the standards of music in Kansas.

Such colleges in Kansas as Bethany at Lindsborg, Wichita University at Wichita, Southwestern College at Winfield and the University of Kansas at Lawrence, are recognized members of the National Association of Schools of Music and the North Central Association. Kansas is justified in feeling a certain pride in the leadership her colleges have maintained in music over such an appreciably short time.

Kansas has very active music organizations such as the Kansas State Music Teachers Association, the Kansas Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and the Kansas Federation of Music Clubs. The latter organization is made up of more than one hundred federated music clubs cooperating in every respect with the National Federation of Music Clubs, which is a vital force in the musical development of the United States. The Kansas Federation of Music Clubs is of cultural, educational and philanthropic importance in the state and has promoted many fine musical projects. Kansas composers and musicians have received national recognition through the Kansas Federation of Music Clubs.

The Music Department of the Kansas Federation of Women's Clubs has done a commendable piece of work in the Music Talent Contest sponsored by the organization. Recognition is also due the Fine Arts Division of the Kansas Authors Club. The radio stations in Kansas have contributed greatly to the appreciation of music in the state.

The amateurs are impressive figures in the history of any art and the many Kansas music organizations benefit not only the musician but the layman as well. Kansas is richly endowed with real cultural refinement and appreciation in the field of music.

KENTUCKY

By Mrs. William A. Duncan

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The music scene in Kentucky is varied and reveals a constantly increasing interest in finer music. Strictly speaking, Kentucky is not a musical state, but its people are demanding and receiving great artists, and through the Cooperative Concert Series and other agencies fine concerts are available to both urban and rural populations. Louisville and Lexington have long been considered cultural centers of the state.

Louisville has two Symphony Orchestras—The Louisville Symphony, Joseph Horvath, conductor; the Louisville Civic Symphony Orchestra, Robert Whitney, conductor. Here also, each winter, a short season of Grand Opera may be enjoyed, while in summer there are six weeks of light opera, Pierre DeReeder, director, in beautiful Iriquois Park.

Louisville is also the home of one of the Columbia Broadcasting Company's efficient and popular stations, WHAS, of which Mr. Robert Hudsell is Musical Director.

The University School of Music, Dwight Anderson, Dean, is perhaps its outstanding educational institution. In Louisville also are located private teachers of exceptional ability.

Lexington is the home of the University of Kentucky and of Transylvania University. Dr. Alexander Capurso is acting Dean of the Music Department of the State University and Mr. William Bagwell is Dean of the Music Department of Transylvania. Other outstanding schools of music in Kentucky are the Department of Music, Western Teachers College, Bowling Green, John Vincent, Director; the Department of Music, Eastern Teachers College, Richmond, James E. Van Puerson, Director; Department of Music, Morehead Teachers College, Morehead, Louis Henry Horton, Director; Department of Music, Murray Teachers College, Murray, E. Price Doyle, Director.

Too much credit cannot be given to the well organized High-School Music Festivals in which thousands of young Kentuckians participate. These Festivals are sponsored by the Extension Department of the State University, and have been invaluable in stimulating musical interest over the state at large. The Kentucky Federation of Music Clubs sponsors similar festivals at its annual convention for children of grammar school age and for College Glee Clubs and Choral Groups. The Kentucky Federation also sponsors Student Musician and Young Artist Contests. In 1939 Virginia Williams, a pupil of Madame Cara Sapin, University School of Music, won the Dixie District vocal award and appeared in the semi-finals of the National Young Artists in Baltimore, Maryland.

Among Kentucky's outstanding composers, is Josephine McGill of Louisville, whose Duna was chosen as one of the nine immortal songs written in America.

Mary Wheeler of Paducah is the most recent collector of Kentucky folk-lore. Her volume of songs is widely flavored with the sectionalism of the "Troublesome Creek Country" and contains many "song ballets" unheard outside the mountain fastnesses of this region.

Perhaps John Hacob Niles, of Lexington, himself a mountaineer, is the best known collector of Kentucky folk songs. He has concertized throughout the eastern part of the United States and the greater portion of Europe. His programs are made up entirely of Kentucky folk songs which he sings to the accompaniment of the dulcimer.

Among the Kentuckians who are writing beautiful modern music are George Bagby, Maury Maddern, William J. Reddick, Ward-Stephens and Alma Stedman.

One of the most outstanding is Carl Ernest Bricken, with his old English variations. He was born in Shelbyville in 1898, graduated from Yale University and later studied in New York and in Paris under Alfred Cortot. He won the Pulitzer prize in 1922 and the Guggenheim Fellowship in 1930-31. For a time he directed the Yale Symphony and taught in the Institute of Musical Art. He also served as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Oscar Rasbach was born in Dayton in 1888, studied piano with Theodore Leschetizky and theory with Hans Thornton in Vienna. He is now active as a teacher, concert pianist and choral director. He still writes in the smaller forms, both vocal and instrumental. His best work is his setting of Joyce Kilmer's poem, Trees. His most recent publication is Hills.

Among Kentucky's adopted sons is Dr. Carl Schmidt, a member of the faculty of the Louisville University School of Music. Dr. Schmidt was born in Scherwin, Germany, in 1864 and came to America in 1889. He became a teacher in a Conservatory in Toronto, Canada, and later served as "'cello-soloist" in Theodore Thomas' orchestra in New York, succeeding Victor Herbert. He has appeared under the batons of Rubinstein, Brahms, Johann Strauss and many others. Years ago he was awarded the David Bispham Memorial Medal for his opera, Lady of the Lake, based on Sir Walter Scott's poem. The music is charming and this is the only opera yet composed by a Kentuckian.

Another of Kentucky's adopted sons is John Vincent, a native of Birmingham, Alabama, and at present Director of Music at Western Teacher's College, Bowling Green.

Louis Henry Horton, native of Ohio, now serving as Director of the Music Department of Morehead Teachers College, has written many beautiful things, of which the best known is possibly the whimsical Mother Goose Suite. He has recently written a cantata of old rural and folk hymns of the Southern Appalachians. Mr. Horton's Chorus sang this work in the Temple of Religions at the New York Fair.

LOUISIANA

By Mrs. W. Carruth Jones

When one thinks of music in Louisiana one naturally thinks first of New Orleans, with its background of many years of musical culture. The interest in music in New Orleans is still keen, especially in hearing artists of the first rank, as evidenced by the history of the Philharmonic Society. This Society, of many years growth under the leadership of Miss Corinne Mayer, provides a phenomenal number of great artists for its membership, including the greatest orchestras of the country.

For the past several years, the New Orleans Civic Symphony Orchestra has been developing, and bids fair to take its place in the list of outstanding groups. It has just completed its most successful season under the baton of the distinguished conductor, Ole Windingstad.

The Music Schools of Loyola University, Dr. E. E. Schuyten, Director, and of Newcomb College (affiliated with Tulane University), Dr. Leon Ryder Maxwell, Director, are outstanding, especially the latter with its emphasis on fine choral work under the direction of Maynard Klein.

The Federal Music Project has been very actively carried on under the direction of Rene Salomon.

Outside New Orleans, the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs is the most important influence in the state's musical life. There are busy clubs with many interests in all the larger cities.

In Baton Rouge, the most outstanding musical achievement is the annual opera season which has come about as a development of the Music School of the Louisiana State University, H. W. Stopher, Director. Under the distinguished direction of Pasquale Amato, former Metropolitan Opera baritone, and Louis Hasselmans, Conductor, formerly of the Metropolitan, now of the Chicago Opera, this event attracts many visitors.

There is a Community Concert Association presenting artists of the first rank, and the Music Clubs are very active, including several excellent choral groups.

In Shreveport, there is a fine Community Concert Association and a music school in connection with Centenary College. There are a number of busy music clubs, including a little opera group, a piano ensemble and two good choruses of women's voices.

Alexandria has a co-operative Concert Association, a Music Department of Louisiana College and a very active music club, with a choral branch.

Monroe has a Civic Music Association, which presents an interesting program each season, and several influential music clubs.

Lake Charles has an orchestra which is making rapid strides under the direction of Francis Bulber, and a very active music club.

Lafayette has a Community Concert Association which offers fine artists and a music school attached to the Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

There are other activities in smaller communities, mostly carried on by clubs. There is a state supervisor of music in the public school system, directing a state-wide program.

MAINE

By Mrs. Everett L. Littlefield

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The Maine Federation of Music Clubs, a state unit of the National Federation of Music Clubs, comprises one hundred and twenty-three musical groups: senior, student and junior clubs, choirs, choruses and ensembles. The largest of the groups, the Portland Rossini Club, Portland, Maine, is the oldest music club for women in this country. It celebrated its seventieth anniversary this year.

The Maine Federation sponsors, annually, a Harvest Festival in Portland comprised of senior, student and junior choirs. The last festival numbered four hundred voices.

Also annually, there are Junior Competitive Festivals as well as Harmonica and Rhythm Band Contests. Biennially, there are Young Artists' and Student Musicians' Contests.

In May, 1940, there was inaugurated, at the state convention, a massed chorus of more than two hundred voices, under the direction of John Warren Erb of New York. It is expected that this chorus will be an annual feature.

The Portland Symphony Orchestra, with a membership of about seventy players, Russell Ames Cook, Conductor, gives a series of concerts each season as well as several afternoon concerts for children. Guest artists are featured at each regular performance.

The Bangor Symphony Orchestra, with a membership of about sixty players, Adelbert Wells Sprague, Conductor, is said to be the oldest minor symphony in the country. It gives a series of concerts each season.

The New England Music Camp located on Lake Messalonskee, Oakland, Maine, offers training in voice and on all band and orchestra instruments during July and August. Recreation and sports have prominence as a part of the summer course. Musical instruction is given by a faculty of twenty outstanding teachers.

The Maine School Band and Orchestra Camp located at the Eastern State Normal School at Castine, Maine, offers a summer course of instruction in instruments as well as choral and orchestral work.

The colleges in Maine—Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Bates College in Lewiston, Colby College in Waterville, University of Maine in Orono, Nasson College in Springvale—all give special attention to music, supporting orchestras and glee clubs.

Normal and high schools devote careful training and organization with capable directors for bands and orchestras.

The state is well supplied with bands, municipal and military.

The Kotzschmar organ, a gift of Cyrus K. Curtis, is located in the City Hall in Portland. It was the inspiration which founded the first series of municipal organ concerts in the country. At present, during the summer season guest and local organists give public programs.

Because of its years of musical endeavors in connection with civic bands, orchestras and the well-known former William R. Chapman Festivals, which were a great musical asset to the state, Maine has been alert in its musical activities and interests. This condition continues through its Community Concerts, Federated Clubs and the broadening influence emanated by the numerous superior artists which Maine numbers among its summer residents.

MARYLAND

By Frederick R. Huber

Maryland, birthplace of America's national anthem, The Star Spangled Banner, is proud to be in the forefront of this country's musical advancement.

Throughout the state, the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs carries on its work of helping to make music appreciation and activity a vital force in city, hamlet and country-side, while in the metropolis of Baltimore municipal music ranges from varied park and neighborhood programs to the famous Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

As if not content with being the birthplace of the national anthem, the state has given the nation another song which has long taken its place among the top-ranking pieces of musical Americana—Maryland, My Maryland.

Although written 79 years ago by James Ryder Randall, Baltimore-born instructor at Pydras College, Pointe-Coupee, La., and although widely sung in the state and elsewhere, it was not until 1939, upon the initiative of the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs, that Maryland, My Maryland became the official State Song.

The Federation felt that, since 1939 was the centenary of Randall's birth, it was time something were done about giving official status to the song. So, under the guidance of Federation officials, including Mrs. Frank S. Rowe, state president; Mrs. B. S. L. Davis, second vice-president, and Mrs. Paul Criblet, chairman of legislation, an appropriate bill was drawn up. In April, 1939, this bill became state law.

This is just one example of the energy with which the Federation pursues its tasks. In more immediate and concrete terms, at least so far as present musical activities of the people of Maryland are concerned, this persistence can by measured by the reports of Senior Clubs and Choirs and of Junior Clubs throughout the state.

These reports, made regularly to the Federation, show widespread work and growth, the fruits of the Federation's intelligent efforts.

To revert to the subject of Maryland's chief city, Baltimore is the only city in the United States to have a well-defined municipal Department of Music, of which this writer is the director. Ever since 1914, when the Board of Estimates of the city appropriated $8,000 for a municipal band to give concerts in the various neighborhoods, the city administration has encouraged and developed the expansion of music for Baltimore's residents and visitors.

The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra was formed in 1915, and gave its debut Feb. 11, 1916. Since then, the orchestra has become known as one of the finest in existence, and under the successive batons of Gustav Strube, George Siemonn and Ernest Schelling, it has maintained its consistently high standards of performance. World-famous guest conductors and guest artists have appeared with the orchestra. Henry Hadley, Howard Hanson, Albert Stoessel, Richard Hageman, Chalmers Clifton, Eugene Goossens at the baton; Albert Spalding, Paul Althouse, Walter Gieseking, Ignace Paderewski as guest artists—these are some of the luminaries of the music world who have appeared with the Baltimore Symphony.

To deal adequately with Maryland's music life, and with Baltimore's excellent Department of Music, would take a volume. However, from the few foregoing notations, the reader can glean that, in the field of music appreciation, endeavor and accomplishment, the state of Maryland is in the front ranks.

MASSACHUSETTS

By Mrs. Russell Taylor Hatch

In Boston there is a winter season of Friday afternoon public rehearsals and Saturday evening concerts by the famous Boston Symphony Orchestras conducted by the eminent Dr. Serge Koussevitzky.

A spring series of "Pop" concerts, held in Symphony Hall, and an early summer group of outdoor performances held in the new Hatch Memorial Shell on the Charles River Esplanade are conducted by Arthur Fiedler.

The Stockbridge Summer Festival and Symposium is held at "Tanglewood." This newly added activity is under the direction of Dr. Koussevitzky.

The Handel and Haydn Oratorio Society is the oldest and one of the largest in the country. Under Dr. Thompson Stone it gives three concerts yearly in Symphony Hall. Oratorios and other forms of choral works are given with nationally known soloists assisting.

The Apollo Male Chorus is the best known of the male choruses and has maintained through its long life a high order of performance. Dr. Thompson Stone is its conductor.

The Women's Symphony Orchestra conducted by Alexander Thiede is a new organization which has grown to great popularity. Its personnel of eighty are all players of reputation.

The Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs maintains a Junior and Young Artists contest, the final winners going on to the National Federation of Music Clubs biennial contest. Junior festivals and district programs are held, all of these helping the extra-talented youth.

A program for furthering "better music" in the home, church, school and general community is also part of its program.

There are several settlement schools in Boston where under-privileged children are given every possible help, the best known being the "South End" House.

Harvard and Radcliffe are both providing excellent courses in all departments of music. The choral groups are of an exceptionally high order.

It may be said with truth that the restoration of an interest in better church music had its inception in these schools through the pioneering spirit of Dr. Archebald T. Davison, who also changed the college glee clubs into choral art groups.

The Bach Cantata Club gives on the Harvard Campus concerts of great musical and historical value. The works of Bach and other composers of ancient form draw capacity audiences from the public as well as the student body.

Many conservatories such as the New England Conservatory of Music, the Longy School and the Malkin Conservatory are to be found in Boston.

The Worcester Festival conducted by Dr. Albert Stoessell is one of the outstanding musical events in Massachusetts. A week's series of concerts presents a large chorus and orchestra augmented by soloists and artist groups, all of national reputation.

The Worcester Oratorio Society, Walter Howe, Conductor, maintains through the year the high standard set by the Festival in October.

The Springfield Philharmonic Orchestra is a noteworthy example of what may be accomplished in this type of music.

The Junior League Concert course brings yearly to Springfield the very best artists obtainable and is a musical high light.

In the public schools the oratorios presented under the direction of Miss Hazel Clark have received national notice. At each public performance the children have the assistance of New York's finest soloists. The endeavor is unique as well as musically noteworthy.

Massachusetts has male choruses, oratorio societies, outstanding orchestras and bands too numerous to mention. They are, however, a very important part of that which is known as the musical life of Massachusetts.

It may well be said that our state is rich in musical tradition and our Federation of Music clubs is a dynamic force in its musical progress—a great source of satisfaction and pride.

MICHIGAN

By Mrs. Christian Herrmann

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

April 12 and 13, 1916, were auspicious days for music folk in Michigan. A printed program from that time bears these words: "The Tuesday Musicale of Detroit announces a meeting for the purpose of forming a Federation of Music Clubs of Michigan at the Statler Hotel, Detroit."

Thus began the great organization which has held twenty-four annual conventions and has had the following presidents: Mrs. Boris L. Ganapol, Detroit; Mrs. F. W. Nichols, Houghton; Mrs. Norris W. Wentworth, Bay City; Mrs. Ruth Haller Ottaway, N. Y. City (then Port Huron); Mrs. Byrl Fox Bacher, Ann Arbor; Mrs. A. L. Swinton, Marquette; Mrs. Samuel C. Mumford, Detroit; Mrs. George W. Langford, Ann Arbor; Mrs. Bliss B. Wells, Pontiac; Mrs. I. B Gilbert, Flint; Mrs. Christian Herrmann, Lansing.

Among our number are the following National chairmen: National Executive Contest Committee—Mrs. Ruth Haller Ottaway, Chairman, N. Y. City; Mrs. Byrl Fox Bacher, Ann Arbor; Education—Mrs. George W. Langford, Ann Arbor.

We are divided into ten Districts with the following directors:

Alpena—Miss Dessolee Chester.
Ann Arbor—Mrs. Frank Stoner.
Bay City-Saginaw—To be appointed.
Detroit—Mrs. Earl Potter.
Flint-Lansing—Mrs. E. Rosenthal.
Grand Rapids—Mrs. A. W. Penney.
Houghton—Mrs. Fred Stoyle.
Interlochen—Mrs. Benton A. Holm.
Kalamazoo—Mrs. George H. Kabel.
Port Huron—Mrs. Thomas J. Wadsworth.

The Federation meets in Convention once a year, in the Spring. Each District meets at least once a year. Competitive festivals are held for young artists and for Juniors. The Artist winner at the last Biennial was Samuel Sorin, a pianist of Detroit. He won both the National Federation and the Schubert Memorial awards and is being received everywhere with acclaim. Michigan has held a proud record of Young Artist winners.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra is the outstanding one of Michigan, of course, but there are other orchestral groups, such as the WPA orchestra of Detroit, under the direction of Walter Poole, the Kalamazoo Symphony, the Lansing Symphony Orchestra, the Ann Arbor Civic Orchestra and others, too numerous to mention.

There are student clubs and home ensembles.

There are a cappella choirs and vested choirs, junior, intermediate and senior; there are high school choirs, noted among them being the Highland Park Vested Choir and the English Singers, from the same school, under the direction of Roy Parsons.

Flint has wonderful music in its High School—vocal, choirs, bands and many wonderful groups. The same is true of Pontiac, whose High School band is excellent.

Ann Arbor has an outstanding School of Music, in connection with the University of Michigan there.

Michigan State College at East Lansing has a great musical set-up and is now housed in a beautiful new Music Building.

There is a Detroit Opera Guild, under the direction of Ida K. Cordes. Flint has Civic Opera.

Olivet College, Hillsdale College, Kalamazoo College, and practically all of the Michigan colleges have outstanding musical groups, orchestras and glee clubs. Olivet College has an annual broadcast over WWJ. Ypsilanti State Normal has a wonderful choir under the direction of Dr. Alexander.

The Michigan University band is one of the best in the United States.

The Interlochen Music School, held during the summer, on Lake Interlochen, under the direction of Dr. Joseph Maddy of the University of Michigan Music School, draws the finest instructors in the country. The Bay View Summer School, in Northern Michigan, draws hundreds of students. Fred Patton of the Michigan State College Music Department is prominent in the Bay View course.

The Waldenwoods Summer School of sacred music, under the direction of Nellie B. Huger and, by the way, a project of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs, is held at beautiful Waldenwoods, near Hartland, and attracts to its faculty men and women of national renown, such as Dr. H. Alexander Smith of Boston, Deane Shure, nationally known composer and director of Washington, D.C.; Arthur Croley, organ teacher from Fisk University, Dr. Westerman of Detroit, and Evan Edwards, choral director and master of interpretation, of Rome, N. Y. Miss Huger is the moving spirit of this unique school which celebrated 10 years of growth in the summer of 1940.

MINNESOTA

By Ethel Rose Weld

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Music holds an important place in Minnesota. Throughout the entire state numerous bands, orchestras, choral groups, and successful composers are to be found.

The leading symphony orchestra is the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Dimitri Mitropoulos. Annually this organization is heard in a series of concerts in Northrop Auditorium in Minneapolis. The world's best artists appear as soloists on its programs. The symphony was unusually well received when it went on tour during the 1940 season.

Another prominent Minnesota symphony is the Civic Symphony of Duluth under the direction of Mr. Paul Lemay. This group also presents prominent artists as soloists, and each year the new composition of a Minnesota composer is given a prominent place on the program.

Minnesota is proud of its world famous St. Olaf Choir under the direction of Mr. F. Melius Christiansen. This choir is made up of students at St. Olaf College at Northfield. Annually it goes on tour in various sections of the United States and twice it has gone to Europe. The Hamline University Choir directed by Mr. John Kuypers is another a cappella group which is receiving marked recognition because of its accomplishments. This choir also goes on annual concert tours.

The West High School Choir of Minneapolis is directed by Peter Tkash and has brought honors to Minneapolis in national competitions. The Concordia College Choir of Moorhead is another student group which tours annually and meets favor wherever presented.

The Nordic Choral Ensemble of Duluth is directed by Margrethe Hokanson, well known composer. This group sang for the crown prince and princess of Norway when they visited Duluth and was presented on an international broadcast in December, 1939. This choral organization will represent the Minnesota Federation of Music Clubs at the biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs in Los Angeles in June, 1941.

Numerous church choirs from all sections of the state are presented each season over Station WTCN of Minneapolis and St. Paul. Mrs. Paul G. Bremer, St. Paul organist and composer, selects and presents the choirs.

One major project of the Minnesota Federation of Music Clubs during the 1940-1941 season is the organization of community choruses. Every federated music club has been urgently requested to promote this endeavor, and as a result choruses and choirs have sprung up even in the small communities. At the annual convention in Virginia in 1940 a massed senior and also a massed junior community chorus were both given an important place on the program.

The St. Paul Civic Opera Association does much to create and foster an interest in opera. This organization also holds auditions for young singers and thus discovers new talent. The various opera chairmen of the music clubs promote the presentation of opera in their local communities and urge the public to support the Saturday broadcasts of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Minnesota also boasts of outstanding composers. The manuscript section of the Matinee Musicale of Duluth and the Schubert Club of St. Paul do much to acquaint the public with the work of these composers. Mr. Stanley Avery, Margrethe Hokanson of Duluth, and F. Melius Christiansen of Northfield are three leading state composers.

MISSISSIPPI

By Mrs. Robert C. Pitard

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The Mississippi Federation of Music Clubs, which has just completed its 24th year of service, was organized for the purpose of aiding and encouraging musical education and developing and maintaining high musical standards throughout the state. This organization consists of 175 clubs with a total membership of approximately 5,000.

Our annual Competitive Festivals reveal an abundance of the finest talent and many splendid instructors. The winners of these festivals are awarded scholarships to leading conservatories. A Student Loan Fund is maintained for the aid of worthy students of music. Several of our winners are successful concert artists and many of them are fine teachers and conductors.

Other organizations that are active and alert and are contributing magnificently to the musical development of Mississippi are: The Mississippi Band Association, Music Teachers Association, American Federation of Musicians, and the Music Section of the Mississippi Educational Association.

All of our colleges, both Junior and Senior, have strong music departments. Mississippi State College for Women, located at Columbus, has a student Symphony Orchestra composed of 75 members and conducted by Theodore Russell, Dean of the Music Department of this institution.

The Jackson Symphonic Ensemble of 25 pieces is directed by Robert Copley Pitard.

Musical centers of Mississippi are Jackson, Columbus, Hattiesburg, Meridian, Brookhaven and Vicksburg.

Chalmers Clifton and Walter Chapman, both nationally known musicians, are native Mississippians. A. Lehman Engle, distinguished young conductor and composer, now of New York City, is also a native of this state.

MISSOURI

By Erma Bellows Sanders

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Missouri has long placed unusual emphasis upon music. Recognition of its cultural value has resulted in a broad music program in schools and clubs and a high national ranking in this field.

In the high schools of Missouri will be found hundreds of bands, orchestras and a cappella choirs. Scarcely a consolidated school can be found which does not have a music supervisor. The entire state is served by county and rural music supervisors. A state supervisor directs the state program. A state band and orchestra association has an active membership composed of music supervisors.

From twelve thousand to fifteen thousand high school students participate in the school music contest each year. District contests, held annually in each of the five State Teachers Colleges, are followed by state contests at the University of Missouri in Columbia. Many schools of Missouri have carried off highest honors at national regional contests.

Springfield, Missouri, boasts the largest and oldest Boy Scout Band in the world. It has three hundred twenty-five members.

All of the colleges have fine music departments, and music majors from the State Teachers Colleges are in such demand that teaching positions are practically assured after graduation.

Missouri has a State Music Teachers Association and a State Federation of Music Clubs, each of which is affiliated with its respective national organization.

Seventy-one Senior and a hundred seventeen Junior Music Clubs belong to the State Federation. In the Student Division, which was just opened in 1940, there are already ten clubs.

Missouri has one of the finest state fair music programs to be found in the United States. Hundreds of young musicians, largely from the rural districts, go to Sedalia to enter the contests.

Many of the smaller cities have their own civic symphony orchestras, and two of the major symphonies are in Missouri. These are the St. Louis Symphony and the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra. St. Louis has also a permanent Grand Opera Association, and its Municipal Opera has become an institution known throughout the country.

Many of the smaller towns have annual artists concert series in addition to those given by local musicians.

Missouri has made valuable contributions to music through its native artists and composers. With its well-established program throughout the state, there is no doubt that it will continue to have a vital part in the advancement of good music in America.

MONTANA

By Forrest E. Wachs

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Within the past ten years Montana has made very rapid strides in the advancement of music. During that time, Prof. John Crowder, who is now Acting Dean of the Music School at the University of Montana in Missoula, has been active in the organization of the Montana Music Educators Association. This organization has inaugurated the music festival for high school music groups and soloists. This festival was held at the University in Missoula for several years, but due to the size of the 1939 event it was decided to hold only the solo and small ensemble work there, with the larger groups going to district meetings. Eighteen hundred youngsters were in attendance at the festival held in Missoula for 1940, with from twelve to fifteen hundred at each of the other five districts.

A most colorful band festival, for high school bands, has now become an institution for Havre, the largest city in Northern Montana. Over thirty bands gather here each May and participate in competition, both in playing and marching. This event brings thousands of people from all over the state, and the community looks forward to each festival with as much enthusiasm as some have in anticipating the coming of a fair. Prof. Charles Cutts of Billings, President of the Montana Music Educators Association, is the one who is largely responsible for all this activity for young musicians.

About eight years ago the Montana Federation of Music Clubs inaugurated the Competitive Festivals sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs. This Festival, too, has grown to such proportions under the able leadership of Mrs. Helen LaVelle of Butte that districting has become necessary. Unfortunately Mrs. LaVelle has had to retire from the work, but Miss Muriel Gene Straiton of Great Falls, who has charge of the Festivals for 1940, gives all promise of following in Mrs. LaVelle's footsteps.

At present there are four well organized choruses in the state. The Orpheus Male Chorus of Helena is under the direction of Mrs. Ione Peek, and the Apollo Male Chorus of Great Falls is directed by Mr. L. W. Upshaw, local secretary of the Young Men's Christian Asociation. Helena and Great Falls also divide the honors in the branch of women's choruses. Helena has the Monday Music Club Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Ray Church, while Great Falls has the Tuesday Music Club Chorus, whose director is Mrs. Arthur Barkemeyer. All choruses are fine organizations and serve their respective communities well.

At present Mr. Upshaw is working on the organization of a Civic Orchestra for Great Falls. The organization now has over sixty members and will be greatly increased when it begins to come before the public eye.

NEBRASKA

The music scene in Nebraska is one of ever-increasing activity. A glance at the cities of Omaha and Kearney furnishes proof of this.

The Tuesday Musical Club, the Morning Musicale and the Matinee Musical Club, as well as the University of Omaha, all contribute to the musical vitality of the state's principal city, Omaha, and therefore of the state as a whole.

During the past season, the Tuesday Musical Club, a non-profit organization of 1,500 members, brought five evening concerts to Omaha, in the Central High School Auditorium. The events included appearances of the St. Louis Symphony, under the baton of Vladimir Golschmann, and Risé Stevens, mezzo-soprano. Mrs. Roy Page has been president of the club for three years.

Under the auspices of the Morning Musicale, the Omaha Symphonic Strings, an ensemble of 18 young women and one man (bass) under the conductorship of Richard E. Duncan of the University of Omaha, made its bow, and promises to be one of Omaha's major contributions to the music world.

Monthly Young Artists programs, affording an opportunity for talented students to appear before the public, are offered by the Omaha Music Teachers Association, of which Edith May Miller is president.

Under the direction of Harold Cerny, the Kearney Symphony has completed its fifth season. Originally consisting of 20 players, the orchestra, which is under the auspices of the Nebraska State Teachers College, now numbers 70 members. Every year the Kearney Symphony tours the entire state of Nebraska performing in municipal and high school auditoriums.

NEVADA

Compared to many other states, Nevada is sparsely populated, and has long distances between its towns—but, proportionately considered, its musical activity is of amazing vitality.

The University of Nevada, in Reno, is the center for much of the state's music life. In addition to possessing a fine department of music the university has a small symphony orchestra of 35 pieces and two choral organizations. These groups, known throughout the state, are the University of Nevada-Community Little Symphony Orchestra, the University-Community Chorus, with 100 voices, and the University Singers.

The Nevada Community Concert Association, in Reno, is active in arranging concerts and recitals during the music season. Mr. Samuel Platt is president of the organization.

In the cities of Nevada, often separated by wide stretches of desert land, music education is stressed in the public school curricula. Such cities as Carson City (the state capital), Reno, Las Vegas, Elko and Eureka have Music Departments as part of their Boards of Education.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

By Mrs. Ella Lord Gilbert

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The progress of music development in New Hampshire is in a highly encouraging state. Choral groups, orchestras, string ensembles, bands, operatic groups, music study clubs, junior music organizations, school music groups and family groups have increased in numbers, proficiency and enthusiasm. There has been a decided upward trend for several years, and this is a healthy growth that speaks well for the future.

New Hampshire is fortunate to possess the MacDowell Colony at Peterborough, where Edward MacDowell composed many of his famous works. The Colony is sought by the best of American composers and musicologists every summer, as well as by artists in every field. The close association of these specialists in all the arts has a broadening influence on the entire state. Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, a native of New Hampshire, Marian Bauer, Mabel Daniels, Ethel Glenn Hier, May Strong, Roy Harris, Douglas Moore, Harold Morris, Wintter Watts, Powell Weaver, and many others have become familiar figures to a vast horde of Colony visitors. Mrs. MacDowell, who directs the destinies of the Colony, is a constant inspiration, and her name is a household word.

Two outstanding composers are Dr. Percy Goetschius and Edward Burlingame Hill, whose music and books are of world wide interest. Younger composers who have achieved recognition are Marjorie Goetschius and Walter Jenkins, both natives of Manchester. Harold Webster Cate has earned an enviable reputation among song writers.

As would be expected in a state where singing schools abounded from its earliest settlement, choral groups predominate. A chorus of women's voices is sponsored by the New Hampshire Federation of Women's Clubs. Under the baton of Mrs. William Chapman of Keene this chorus of over four hundred voices has done remarkable work and is of inestimable value in music development. A small chorus of women's voices deserving credit is that of the Music Lover's Club in Littleton. The Temple Choir of sixty men's voices, conducted by Harry C. Whittemore, is noted for artistic performance. Choirs of mixed voices under constant training for a number of years are the Wolfeboro Community Chorus, directed by Mrs. Kathleen Cunningham, who also directs the State Chorus of the New Hampshire Federation of Music Clubs; the Portsmouth Community Chorus with Norman Leavitt, conductor, and a chorus in Concord, famous for its fine tone quality, conducted by Mrs. Ruth May. There are many smaller choruses of fine caliber.

The State Symphony Orchestra, Earle V. Clay, conductor, has brought joy and inspiration to thousands of listeners, and a String Ensemble under the same leadership is in constant demand in a type of music little known here before. The Institute Orchestra of the Institute of Arts and Sciences has been under the leadership of Rudolph Schiller for thirty-three years. The Institute sponsors a Music Theory department under the direction of Maurice Hoffmann, Jr. Under the management of Albert L. Clough, the president, a series of artist concerts is presented every season.

The Currier Art Gallery, under the direction of Mrs. Maude Briggs Knowlton, also sponsors a series of artist concerts and lecture recitals every season.

The Seacoast Music Festival Association has brought the best artists and the best critics in the country to our shores. Founded by Mrs. Arthur L. Hobson, this association presents summer festivals on the Arthur L. Hobson estate at Little Boar's Head, and thousands of people gather there for two days of musical feasting in July of each year.

The New Hampshire Federation of Music Clubs exerts a wide and lasting influence through adult and junior organizations. Study clubs, choral clubs, and professional clubs, all combine to promote music, and lend their aid to every worthy musical cause when possible. Through the cooperation of state and city libraries many music departments have been inaugurated or improved. A chairman of Motion Picture Music is in close contact with the motion picture industry and keeps the clubs informed of important music picture releases. Research work is being done in American music, early American composers, and state composers. Radio programs are sponsored in the several radio stations. Music in rural communities is one of the prime interests. Extension work in many fields is being done through promotion of adult and junior clubs.

The New Hampshire Music and Allied Arts Extension Society has presented many artists in urban and rural communities under a cooperative plan. Directors ore Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, Rev. Edward A. Clark, Dr. Allen Eastman Cross, Mr. Joseph Epply, Dr. Percy Goetschius, Prof. Edward Burlingame Hill, Mrs. John F. Holmes, Mrs. Edward MacDowell, Dr. Curtis Hidden Page, Homer Saint-Gaudens, and United States Senator Charles W. Tobey. Dr. Leonard B. McWhood, now deceased, also was a director. The president of the two organizations above is Mrs. Ella Lord Gilbert, of Manchester.

A School of Music and Expression in Nashua, directed by Mrs. Ethel Blood Ingram, employs teachers of high standing and is the only school of its kind in the state.

Two summer music camps, Pine Peak at Groton, in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Griffiths and Geoffrey O'Hara, and the Chase Farm Colony at Whitefield sponsored by Lucy Chase Sparks, are of recent development and supply a much needed musical atmosphere in recreation. These camps are always ready to cooperate with all musical activities and thus do their part toward a bigger, better musical growth.

The Operatic Society of Manchester was organized in 1936 and has presented several operas successfully. There are one hundred and thirty members of the chorus and an orchestra of twenty-six pieces. Mr. Gerald Robert is the conductor and manager.

The School Music Festival Association is a state-wide organization of particular worth. Spring Festivals are held every spring in May, which draw thousands of young musicians and their parents. Experience in orchestral, choral and solo performance is provided these young people under excellent leadership. Mrs. Anna Musgrove Adams of Bristol is the president.

NEW JERSEY

By Mrs. Frank N. Garland

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

With the approach of 1941 and the reorganization of Music Departments and of musical activities in general throughout the state, New Jersey will present bigger and better programs to her audiences, adding new zeal to the cultural side of the music-loving people of her state.

New Jersey, lying between Pennsylvania and New York states, once had an idea that she could have music very easily by travelling a few miles to hear it, and although some music was in effect in the state for many years, it always seemed in its infancy, and never to grow up. Therefore, in earlier years, music was sparsely represented in New Jersey.

Choral societies and organ music, presented in concert, were the outstanding music projects in the last century.

But today we have symphonies, symphonic bands, opera societies, choral festivals (white and colored), young artists concerts and contests, institutes, music lectures, choruses, Radio Station WOR (the Bamberger Broadcasting System). New Jersey has achieved much and has much to tell. Composers are coming to the fore in this state and when the entire growth of music is examined, compositions comes before anything else, in the way of music. New Jersey is proud to claim winners of the National Atwater Auditions, and also in the Federation of Music Clubs Contests.

Scholarships are presented to the New Jersey State College for Women in New Brunswick by the Federation of Music Clubs and the Federation of Women's Clubs Music Department. The Trinity College of Music, London, England, holds yearly examinations in New Jersey, presenting certificates and diplomas as awards.

Each year the Bach B minor Mass is presented by the Bach Society in Newark.

The Griffith Foundation sponsors a winter series of vocalists and instrumentalists; also a piano series, lecture course, and contests. During the month of June the Essex County Symphony Society, sponsored by five outstanding citizens of Newark, presents four stadium concerts, in Newark.

All of the music in the state colleges is outstanding. Rutgers presents a winter series with outstanding artists. Howard McKenny, composer, is Head of the Music in Rutgers State College, New Brunswick. John Earl Newton, Chairman of Music at the College for Women, in New Brunswick, presents monthly programs of piano and vocal artists and also opera.

A group of very young musicians was desirous of playing together and having an amateur symphony; Mrs. Ludovic Conklin of Newark, a person to be greatly commended indeed on her vision and generosity, heard of these young people having no place to practice, and offered her home, where they might come once a week to rehearse. They do come, from far distances, to enjoy the kind thought of this lover of music and of mankind.

With the Newark Civic Opera Company, Montclair Operetta Company, and the Junior League of Newark presenting opera in public schools, New Jersey looks forward to increased opera activities.

Newark is especially honored to be the proud possessor of 50 symphonic recordings, donated by the National Committee in Washington to her library, for the free use of the public.

The Paper Mill Play House, Millburn, presents a summer and winter artist series of operettas and symphony concerts.

We have a very active unit of the Metropolitan Opera Guild in New Jersey. The following are all active musical organizations in the state:

Bach Society of New Jersey (Newark)—Rodney Saylor, Director.

Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra — Walter Kurkewicz, Conductor.

Elizabeth Philharmonic Society — August May, Conductor.

Glen Ridge Orchestra—Samuel Antek, Conductor.

New Jersey Symphony Orchestra — Dr. Frederick Weisman, Conductor.

Nutley Symphony Orchestra — Nicoa Cambourakis, Conductor.

Essex County Symphony Society—Alexander Smallens, Conductor.

West Orange Symphony Orchestra—Jennings Butterfield, Conductor.

New Jersey State Symphony Orchestra.

Y. M. H. A. Orchestra—Mark Silver, Conductor.

Montclair Orchestra — Emil Kahn, Conductor.

Hudson County Orchestra — Allen Brannigan, Manager.

Jersey City Philharmonic Orchestra—J. Randolph Jones, Conductor.

New Jersey Chamber of Music Society—Jack Seader, Director.

New Jersey Music Guild—John Cervasio, President.

Essex County Opera Company—Ralph Errelle, Director.

Guild of American Composers.

Montclair Operetta Club — Esther A. Seeds, Director.

American Institute of Music, Arts, and Drama—Ralph Erroli, Director.

New Jersey College for Women — Prof. John Earl Newton, Director.

Westminster Choir—Dr. John Finley Williamson, Director.

Apollo Club, Asbury Park.

Suburban Glee Club, Bloomfield.

Hackensack Women's Club.

Hazomir Choral Society — Mark Silver, Director (Y.M.H.A., Newark).

Orpheus Club — Frank Kasschau, Director.

Newark Music Festival Chorus — Frank Kasschau, Director.

Elizabeth Music Association — Miss Jane Whittemore, President.

Griffith Music Foundation — Mrs. P.

O. Griffith.

Newark Museum Concerts — Mrs. Edith B. Saylor, Director.

New Jersey State Teachers College Orchestra, Montclair—Emil Kahn, Conductor.

Steel Pier Opera Company — Jules Falk, Director.

Newark Colored Music Festival—Dr. Clarence White, Director.

Trenton Symphony Orchestra—Gulilelmo Sabatini, Conductor.

Choral Club of Summit.

Montclair Chamber Music Society—Mrs. Walter E. Lumbad, Director.

Community Concert Association of the Oranges—Mr. Everett Colby, Director.

Montclair A Cappella Choir—Carl F. Mueller, Director.

New Jersey Music Educators—Gertrude H. Hale.

Junior Auxiliary of the Music Educators Association of New Jersey.

Essex County Music Forum — Mrs. Fay Simmons, Davies, President.

Ben Ritmato Music Club—Miss Helen Kordys, President.

New Jersey Opera Association—William Spada, Director.

Orange Musicale Art Society.

Leonia Woman's Club Chorus—Miss Mildred Davies, Director.

North Newark Artists' Concerts — Charles Grant Shaffer, Director.

Arts High School Concerts—Harrison E. Webb, Director.

Princeton University Concert Series —Mrs. U. Vreeland, Chairman.

Vassar Club of Plainfield.

Rutgers University Concert Series—Howard D. McKinney, Director.

Paper Mill Play House—Frank Carrington.

New Jersey Federation of Music Clubs—Helen Wyeth Peirce.

Montclair Museum Artists Series — Sunday afternoon concerts.

New Jersey Chamber of Music Society, Montclair, Tuesday morning recitals.

In addition to leading this new group, Mr. Duncan conducted the University of Omaha Symphony. This orchestra is an institution of statewide repute.

Another innovation is the sponsorship by the Matinee Musical Club of the Omaha Symphonietta, consisting of 29 members, also under the conductorship of Mr. Duncan. The Matinee Musical Club also brings prominent artists to the city. Alec Templeton recently played at one of the programs, to a packed house.

Monthly Young Artists programs, affording an opportunity for talented students to appear before the public, are offered by the Omaha Music Teachers Association, of which Edith May Miller is president.

Under the direction of Harold Cerny, the Kearney Symphony has completed its fifth season. Originally consisting of 20 players, the orchestra, which is under the auspices of the Nebraska State Teachers College, now numbers 70 members. Every year the Kearney Symphony tours the entire state of Nebraska, performing in municipal and high school auditoriums.

Each of Omaha's five high schools presents varied musical programs. Our Saviour's Lutheran Church last winter presented, at Technical High School, Auditorium, F. Melius Christiansen and the St. Olaf Choir.

NEW MEXICO

Throughout New Mexico, concentration of music lovers and organizations in 1940 has been upon the Coronado Cuarto Centennial Celebration, in observance of the 400th anniversary of the entry of the Spanish explorer, Coronado, in what is now the American Southwest.

Cuarto Centennial pageants are being held in virtually every community of the state, with appropriate folk music emphasized. Music centers, in preparation for the statewide celebration, compiled folk music and other music of the past four centuries in New Mexico.

Assisting Sarah Gertrude Knott, director of the National Folk Festival, in arranging the musical features of the pageants were Grace Thompson, Head of the Music Department of the University of New Mexico, and Helen Chandler Ryan, Director of the State WPA Music Project.

Pageant productions were produced by Thomas Wood Stevens of California; execution of them was supervised by Jerome Cargill of New York. Director of the Coronado Cuarto Centennial is Clinton P. Anderson of Albuquerque.

Meanwhile, New Mexico's usual round of music activities continues. The Community Concert Association in Santa Fe presented a distinguished list of artists and orchestras last winter, including Simon Barer, Angna Enters and the Barrère Little Symphony. The Albuquerque Civic Symphony, led by Grace Thompson, conductor and founder, played to large audiences in its seventh season. Lawrence Tibbett, opening the Community Concert Association season in Albuquerque, sang to an audience of almost 3,000 at Carlisle Gymnasium.

Concerts were given by the Music Department of the Arsuna School of the Fine Arts in Santa Fe, under the direction of Maurice M. Lichtmann, head of the department.

Due to the illness of its conductor and founder, Sarah Hall Yott, the 35-piece Albuquerque Junior Civic Symphony temporarily suspended its activities this year, after a splendid six-year record.

An important music event in New Mexico is the annual Fiesta in Santa Fe, usually held around Labor Day, with Mexican orchestras playing, and with the singing of folk music forming a highlight of the gay program.

The New Mexico Federation of Music Clubs is contributing to the development and appreciation of music in our state. The present state president is Mrs. M. R. Jones of Albuquerque, and although there are only a few clubs their growth should be a vital factor in the state's musical progress.

NEW YORK

By Mrs. E. H. Cahill

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Symphony Orchestras: In New York City, the New York Philharmonic - Symphony Orchestra, John Barbirolli, conductor, plays at Carnegie Hall, in the winter season, and gives summer programs at Lewisohn Stadium, College of the City of New York, with various conductors and noted soloists;

The NBC Symphony Orchestra, Arturo Toscanini, conductor, at NBC Radio City Studios, gives weekly broadcasts during the winter season;

The National Orchestral Association, Leon Barzin, conductor, performs at Carnegie Hall during the winter season;

The City Amateur Orchestra, Judge Leopold Prince, conductor, plays at the Museum of Natural History Auditorium;

The New York City WPA Symphony Orchestra presents fine programs. Horace Johnson is supervisor of the New York City Music Project.

Other orchestras include:

Columbia University Orchestra, New York University Orchestra, Juilliard School of Music Orchestra and many good high school orchestras. The Philadelphia and Boston Symphonies visit New York City every winter, appearing in Carnegie Hall and the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

In Rochester, the Rochester Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Howard Hanson, conductor, performs during the winter season at the Eastman School Auditorium, and also broadcasts frequently.

Opera: In New York City, the Metropolitan Opera Association, Edward Johnson, general manager, presents operas at the Metropolitan Opera House, which is probably the leading opera house in the world today, with singers from all parts of the world and an orchestra of 90;

The La Scala Opera Company, Fortune Gallo, manager, has its spring season at the Center Theatre, Radio City, and also tours the United States;

The Juilliard Opera Company, at the Juilliard School of Music, Albert Stoessel, director, uses American singers. At Carnegie Hall, the Municipal Opera Company performs. It was recently formed, to give opera with American singers.

The Eastman School of Music Opera Department, in Rochester, trains American singers and produces opera. At Chautauqua, there is a summer season of opera, with Albert Stoessel as director.

Music Centers: In New York City, Town Hall, 123 W. 43rd St., is the leading hall for recitals; world-famous artists perform here during the season;

Carnegie Hall, Seventh Ave. and 57th St., is the leading hall for orchestral programs and choral programs; also, noted artists give recitals here;

Other auditoriums include: Carnegie Chamber Music Hall, Seventh Ave. and 57th St., for performances of chamber music groups; Steinway Hall, 113 W. 57th St., for recitals, chamber music and club meetings; Barbizon Plaza Hall, Sixth Ave. and 58th St., for recitals; the MacDowell Club, for recitals, chamber music and socials.

Hundreds of music schools, led by the Juilliard School of Music, give many scholarships to gifted young musicians throughout the country. Settlement schools in poorer sections of the city do similar work.

The Hotel Great Northern is the headquarters for the New York Federation of Music Clubs, of which Mrs. Edmund H. Cahill is president. Luncheon forums, with noted speakers, are given throughout the year. Conferences are held there.

In Rochester, the Eastman School of Music, endowed by George Eastman, gives many scholarships to gifted young Americans. Dr. Howard Hanson is director.

Outstanding Music Clubs and Musical organizations:

In Albany, the Monday Morning Music Club gives outstanding programs and engages noted artists. It has a Choral Group. The Syracuse Morning and Evening Musicales present a series of unusual concerts, with outstanding artists. Binghamton has a Harmony Music Club, which is the center of musical activities in the town, and gives monthly programs. There is an excellent Music Department in the Binghamton public schools.

The Watertown Morning Musicales bring noted artists to Watertown and sponsor a Choral Group.

On Long Island, Port Washington, Babylon, Hicksville, Jamaica, Brooklyn, Long Island City, Jackson Heights and Flushing all have excellent music clubs, orchestras and choral groups.

In New York City and throughout New York State, choral singing is very popular, in colleges, industry, clubs and churches.

Junior Music Clubs: There are many Junior Music Clubs throughout the state, especially among students of piano, violin, harp and dancing. Made up of members between the ages of 6 and 18, these clubs elect their own officers, and run their own affairs with the help of one advisor. Most of these clubs are affiliated with the New York Federation of Music Clubs.

In 1940, the federated Juniors of the New York City District gave two programs at the New York World's Fair.

Contests: Federation contests, both State and National, are held yearly throughout the state, in composition, piano, violin and voice for Juniors, Student Musicians (19-25) and Young Artists (21-30). Both National and State Federation money prizes are awarded, and the opportunity is given to appear before a select audience.

From May 16 to 20, 1940, the New York Federation of Music Clubs held a four-day American Music Festival and Convention in New York City, with contests and a Choral Concert in Carnegie Hall. Features of the festival included a luncheon forum, with noted speakers, and the first All-American Friendship Dinner, which brought together musical representatives of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Central America and South America.

The Naumburg Musical Foundation sponsors annual competitive auditions, the award being a debut appearance in Town Hall, with all expenses paid. The Naumburg Foundation was established in 1925 by Walter W. Naumburg, in memory of his father, Elkan Naumburg, New York patron of music.

The MacDowell Club, New York City, holds contests, and awards winners with a featured appearance before the club.

The above account presents but a panoramic, "bird's eye view" of the rich and colorful music life in New York State, scene of the greatest concentration of musical activities in the United States.

NORTH CAROLINA

By Mrs. W. H. Davis

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The Mozart Festival was founded in August, 1937, at Asheville, N. C., by Thor Johnson, and is an annual event. It has grown from a purely local project into an institution of nation-wide interest, with a Festival Guild of some hundred charter members to provide for its operation on a permanent basis.

The final concert of each summer's Festival is traditionally known as Opera Night, with the presentation of at least one of Mozart's larger dramatic operas. Other concerts include orchestral, chamber and vocal music, and bring to light many interesting works not a part of the usual repertoire. Outstanding items on the programs of the three past seasons include The Marriage of Figaro and Bastien and Bastienne, the Prague, G minor, and A Major (K.201) symphonies, the G minor Quintet, C Major (K.465) Quartet, and the Violin and Viola Concertante in E Flat.

The Festival Guild has as its chairman Mrs. W. H. Davis, state president of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs. The Festival Orchestra is conducted by Thor Johnson, Musical Director of the Festival. Mr. Johnson has recently been appointed conductor of the Grand Rapids, Michigan, Symphony Orchestra. Joseph DeNardo is associate conductor and Clifford Bair is in charge of opera production for the Festival.

The newly organized North Carolina Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Benjamin Swalin, of the music faculty of the University of North Carolina, is much encouraged by the cooperation it is receiving from over the state. This orchestra is made up of musicians from every corner of the state, and from intensive rehearsals is able to ascend the heights of musical achievements. The future of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra is very promising. Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, president of the organization, has the support of interested persons from all over the state and is much encouraged by their support.

There is a marked interest in symphonic bands, orchestras and choral groups among the colleges. Leaders in the state are the colleges of the University of North Carolina, with Dr. Glen Haydon, Dean High Altvater and Major C. D. Kutschinski. Among privately owned colleges in the state, the music departments have taken conspicuous places, Salem College with Dr. Charles Vardell, Jr., Greensboro College with Mark Hoffman, and Davidson College with James C. Pfohl.

For their work in church music and as pioneer music educators, Mr. and Mrs. Crosby Adams have been an inspiration to musicians and students throughout the country. Composers whose works have placed them in the front ranks are Lamar Stringfield (winner of the Pulitzer Prize in 1927 for his Southern Mountain Suite); Dr. Charles Vardell, who has recently been acclaimed for his Carolinian Symphony; Mrs. Crosby Adams for Studies in Hymnology, and many others. Dr. Nathaniel Dett, one of America's outstanding composers, is also director of the famous Negro choir of Greensboro.

North Carolina has achieved enviable reputation in the concert field. Among the singers are Norman Cordon, Lansing Hatfield, and Lucile Browning of the Metropolitan Opera Co., Wilson Angel, and Katherine Yarborough, of Wilmington, who has been acclaimed for her beautiful voice and in such roles as Aida.

During the past few years the State Federation of Music Clubs has forged ahead to take its place near the top of the list in the National Federation of Music Clubs. The twenty-five departments have been invaluable in developing America's musical resources. The federation is headed by Mrs. W. H. Davis of Asheville as state president. The first president, in 1912, was Mrs. A. C. Orndorff, of Charlotte. There are nearly 200 Senior and Junior clubs in the state, totaling over 3,000 members.

The immediate objective of public school music in the state is that every child should be taught the rudiments of music and should be able to read and sing at sight, and also to be given an opportunity to play in an orchestra or band. Public school music is taught in every elementary school. The Legislature has included song books for the grades as basic texts in the free textbooks provided by the state. At present there is no state music supervisor. President Dr. Glen Haydon of the North Carolina Music Teachers' Association has completed plans for giving credit for private study in piano and violin.

NORTH DAKOTA

By Mrs. B. H. Kroeze

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The National Federation of Music Clubs, although a young organization, has accomplished much in musical development in and for the State of North Dakota. There are now 24 Senior Clubs in good standing; six Student Clubs, and 36 Junior Clubs.

Every two years a State Convention is held, replete with many features of musical interest. Every music club in the state sends some musical number to represent the club, distinctive of its endeavors. Alternating with the Biennium, an Artists Contest takes place, consisting of student and junior contestants who come from all over the state to participate and to obtain inspiration by the work of other musicians of their own age and grade.

Many special efforts to raise the standard of music occur each year and to some extent are sponsored by the Federation. The main ones along this line are the Annual Grand Opera given by the Students' Chorus of Jamestown College, under the direction of Joseph Saylor Black, head of the Music Department of the College. Another is the Annual Tour of the state in Band Concerts under the direction of John E. Howard of the North Dakota State University. Also, there are tours by the Jamestown College Chorus, giving a diversity of musical numbers.

It is of value to realize that many of the senior clubs in the state stimulate music by buying for our high schools radios, records, and sheet music. In our larger cities artists courses are sponsored, and indiivdual artists invited. Young musicians are encouraged to attain distinction in further music study by Loan Fund grants where the talent warrants this.

Composers are coming to the attention of the public by some splendid productions. Chief among these composers are Miss Grace Watkins of Fargo and Ralph Travis of Jamestown, both graduates of Jamestown College, with graduate work in Columbia and Iowa University.

We feel that one of the greatest distinctions in the music history of the state is the fact that Mrs. John Alexander Jardine, of Fargo, has accomplished great things for music in the nation as well as in our own state. Her counsel and inspiration have been a source of great assistance in bringing our music interests to the high stage they occupy.

OHIO

By Bertha M. Herbruck

Ohio is known throughout the nation for her multitude of resources, not the least of which are her cultural interests and institutions. Here these can only be mentioned in the broadest sense of the term, for her cultural advantages, especially in music, are almost limitless.

Notable among these are orchestras, bands, clubs, choirs, singing societies, schools of music, colleges and universities, art museums, grand opera seasons, music at state and county fairs, as well as the facilities of major broadcasting stations.

Ohio is the home of two major Symphony Orchestras—the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Eugene Goossens and the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, Artur Rodzinski, Director. It is the home also of the Cincinnati May Festival, one of its oldest musical institutions with the world's greatest artists as soloists, and its Festival Chorus, augmented each season by a large Children's Chorus. The Metropolitan Opera Company's season of grand opera in Cleveland each year attracts thousands from neighboring states as does the Cincinnati Zoo Opera Season each summer.

Among recent developments in Choral Singing may be mentioned the Annual Bach Festival at Baldwin-Wallace College, Dr. Albert Riemenschneider, Director; the Children's Chorus, composed of one hundred and fifty children of employees of The Inland Manufacturing Company of Dayton, directed by Richard Westbrock; the Cincinnati Mothersingers, Mrs. Stanley L. Clark, founder, Dr. John A. Hoffmann, director. Dr. Hoffmann is also the director of the Cincinnati Madrigal Singers and Dean of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

The Cincinnati Conservatory Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Alexander von Kreisler is heard throughout the year on a nation-wide broadcast. The College of Music in Cincinnati presents its orchestra in broadcasts. The city of Cleveland boasts an all-women Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Hyman Schandler. In Dayton, Marion, Mansfield, Toledo, Youngstown, Columbus and in some of the smaller towns are to be heard symphony orchestras under very capable direction. Through the Federal Music Project and Works Progress Administration, civic orchestras are functioning in many cities throughout the state.

Free summer concerts are enjoyed by thousands of Ohio's citizens at the stadiums, band shells and parks. Dayton has recently dedicated, through the efforts of the Music Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, a new Municipal Band Shell, where thousands listen to band and orchestral concerts each week. The cities of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus and Toledo are noted for the music appreciation courses for school children in attendance at the symphony concerts. The state is proud to be one of eight to have a supervisor of music for the public schools, Miss Edith Keller, a member and district president of the Music Educators Association. Thousands of Ohio's school children each year enter the Competitive School Festivals to receive ratings for musical performance.

The compositions of many noted Ohio composers are heard on artist concerts and on all types of programs throughout the state. Dr. Edgar Stillman Kelley, who is called the dean of American composers, resides in Ohio and New York, occupying a chair at Western College for Women at Oxford.

Dedicated to the aid and sponsoring of American music and American artists are the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs, the Ohio Music Teachers Association, Choirmaster Associations, Guilds of Organists, Schools of Music, and musical fraternities in schools and colleges, as well as music departments of many other organizations.

Severance Hall in Cleveland, Emery Auditorium and Music Hall in Cincinnati, Stambaugh Auditorium in Youngstown, the Toledo Museum of Art Peristyle, and Civic Auditoriums in many cities house the concerts sponsored by women's groups, by civic music organizations, by music committees of chambers of commerce and by artist managers. The world's greatest artists are heard in Ohio each season at popular prices by tens of thousands of Ohio's music lovers.

OKLAHOMA

By Mrs. D. S. Popejoy

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

During the past few years we Oklahomans have been witnessing the intelligent development of our virgin resources of musical talent, which has been steadily increasing because of the efforts of our pioneer musicians who have placed our musical program upon a very firm foundation.

Now comes the golden opportunity for the Oklahoma musical organization to sponsor and aid in building still more improvements in this cultural program of our great state.

The record of accomplishments which has been attained by the musical organizations and music departments of our universities, colleges and public schools is most gratifying.

The Oklahoma Federation of Music Clubs held its 20th Annual Convention in Oklahoma City March 30 to April 2, 1940. This brought to our realization what an organization can do to bring the spiritualizing force of music to the inner life of Oklahoma.

What progress has been made by the federation is due to the combined efforts of the most efficient State Board, District officers and individual members, who have loyally supported the state president in the discharge of her duties.

The president of the State Federation is Mrs. Ernest Nelson of Ponca City. There are 239 music clubs in the state: 70 senior organizations, 14 student organizations, and 155 junior clubs—an imposing total evidencing the splendid work.

During the past two years an Educational Council has been formed which acts as an advisory board to assist the federation in all phases of development. Each university or college is represented on this council.

The Oklahoma Music Teachers Association re-elected Mrs. J. M. Roche as State President at the 10th Annual State Convention in Oklahoma City, Feb. 25 and 26, 1940, with outstanding artists as highlights of the convention.

In the business taken up, the matter of paramount interest to teachers over the state was the action taken pertaining to the certification of private teachers.

It was voted to require every active member of the O.M.T.A. to be an accredited teacher. Plans were made to enable teachers to secure their certificates in June, 1940.

Another organization which attracts much attention is the Oklahoma Symphony Orchestra, which is only three years old. Yet under the inspiring direction of Mr. Dean Richardson (State Director of the Federal Music Project), thousands of people are having the pleasure of hearing regular concerts, at which many noted national artists are being presented.

State tours are being made by this organization each year which makes it possible for everyone to hear and enjoy the symphony.

The Oklahoma universities and colleges are very active in training the musical talent which is being sent to them from all over the state each year. The series of concerts which are provided for the fine arts departments of these schools are also open to the surrounding territory, making it possible for all music lovers to attend.

The Oklahoma State Board of Education helps in carrying out an important musical program. High schools receive credit for work done in the music department. Some high schools have received national attention through the National Music Education Conference.

All of our musical organizations are becoming interested in carrying out an important rural music program, because in the opinion of many a great musical future lies in the rural communities.

An American Indian Music Club has been formed at Anadarko by the American Indian Exposition, which convenes annually in the month of August. This is for the encouragement and development of music talent and music education of the younger Indians. The object is to preserve the native music and dance forms in their primitive motives and interpretation as native "Music Folk Lore"; also, to educate the American Indian composers who may develop the folk music into larger forms and preserve their true interpretation in permanent music literature.

Mrs. W. A. Goforth of Tulsa is the National Recording Secretary of the National Federation of Music Clubs as well as a member of the Board of Directors.

OREGON

By Kate Dell Marden

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

In Portland:

1. Portland Philharmonic Orchestra, now in second season. Conductor, Leslie Hodge of San Francisco, protege of Alfred Hertz.

2. Portland Stadium Concerts (outdoor and very popular). Conducted by noted guest conductors. This year by Jacques Gerschkovitch, conductor of Junior Symphony.

3. Portland Junior Symphony, composed of 100 juniors up to the age of twenty-one years. Founded by Mary U. Dodge. Conductor, Jacques Gerschkovitch. This group has received international praise and publicity. Mrs. Robert Noyles, manager.

4. Council of Churches. Yearly presentation of oratorios and religious music.

5. Oratorio Semele, by Handel (1938). First presentation in west, given by combined federated choruses of Oregon under the auspices of Oregon Federation of Music Clubs. Directed by Albert E. Jones, State Choral Festival Chairman for Federation.

6. Excellent Music Departments in Reed College, Portland University, Marylhurst College, St. Mary's, Linfield College, State College at Corvallis, and Normal schools at Ashland, Monmouth and La Grande, and Parochial schools.

7. A Festival Chorus (1940)—combined student choruses of Portland University, Reed College, Willamette University (Salem), Marylhurst College, Linfield College (McMinnville), Pacific University (Forest Grove), under the direction of Father George Dumm, Portland University, State Student Advisor for Oregon Federation of Music Clubs. (All Federated Clubs).

8. A festival of music given at the Stadium by combined High Schools of Portland, bands, orchestras, dance and choruses being represented. Over 1,500 students. Direction of Chester Duncan, supervisor of music of Portland Public Schools.

In Eugene (Seat of University of Oregon):

Maintains a senior and junior symphony orchestra under the leadership of Theodore Kratt, Dean of Music of the University. A massed chorus of 400 voices produced Elijah by Handel. The music department of the University is very fine.

In Salem (State Capital):

Maintains the Philharmonic Orchestra and a fine department of Music at Willamette University. Salem has just presented a wonderful pageant depicting the founding of Salem by Jason Lee (1843), an early religious worker and, incidentally, the founder of Willamette University. This pageant had 3,500 participants, a chorus representing all the choirs of the city, bands, orchestras.

Departments of Music (Colleges) in:

McMinnville—Linfield College.

Corvallis—State College.

Forest Grove—Pacific University.

Ashland—Ashland Teacher's College.

(This city is receiving much publicity from its presentation of outdoor Shakespearian plays.)

PENNSYLVANIA

By Mrs. David V. Murdoch

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Mention of Pennsylvania to music lovers inevitably and rightly brings to mind the world - famous Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. Under the leadership for years of Leopold Stokowski, and now under the baton of Eugene Ormandy, this orchestra is everywhere known to be synonymous with perfect rendition of the masterpieces of music.

However, it would be unfair to the state of Pennsylvania as a whole, and to the great love of music shared by its residents, in urban and rural areas alike, to leave the impression that musical activity in the state stops with the Philadelphia Symphony. Actually, inspired by the tremendous artistry of the Philadelphia Symphony, the people of Pennsylvania have made of music something which is almost part of their daily lives—something which lives and breathes in the many forms of musical endeavor throughout the vast state.

One of the most important factors in this furthering of musical life and appreciation among the population of Pennsylvania is the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Clubs. At its twenty-second Annual Convention, held in Pittsburgh in the Spring of 1940, the following accomplishments of the Federation were proudly listed as proof that the state is in the forefront of a music-conscious America:

1. During the year before the state convention, eight new Senior Clubs, six Junior Clubs and two Student Clubs had joined the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Clubs. In addition, a half-dozen more Junior Clubs were ready to become affiliated with the organization.

2. Junior and Student development had developed so rapidly, and music club life, consequently, had been so stimulated, that many new choral groups had been formed, and the number of entrants in contests had greatly increased.

3. After six years of earnest effort by Mrs. Good, Mrs. McColl, Mrs. Rohrer and many others, the Federation's book, Music and Musicians of Pennsylvania, had been published by Theodore Presser.

4. Genuine folk music had become a most important topic of discussion in music education circles. The Federation had increased its understanding of and participation in such vital matters as music at state and county fairs, rural music, and music at schools and colleges.

The annual Bach Festival at Bethlehem is one of the major music events of Pennsylvania. The 1940 Bach Festival was held May 17 and 18, opening on the first day with a program devoted to four cantatas, and continuing on the second day with Bach's B minor Mass. This was the thirty-third presentation of the B minor Mass in Bethlehem's history.

The Bach Choir of 220 voices was directed by Ifor Jones, as were soloists and an orchestra consisting of members of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Each of the concerts, in line with the established custom at the Festival, was preceded by the rendition of Bach chorales by a choir of trombones played from the Chapel Tower.

These few points are, of course, sketchy; but they are an indication of the forward surge in musical activities throughout the state in recent years.

RHODE ISLAND

By Ada H. Miller

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The musical season for Rhode Island is dominated by the concerts presented by the Boston Symphony, and the concert of the Community Concert Series.

Added to these, there usually is a long list of musical events scheduled by the Providence Chorus, Festival Oratorio Society, the Catholic Choral Club, the Glee Clubs of Brown University and Pembroke College, the University Glee Club, the Verdandi Singing Society, the New England Opera Association, the W.P.A. Rhode Island Symphony Orchestra, and the Musical Art Quartet.

The recitals and programs sponsored by the different music clubs, the State Federation of Music Clubs, the public schools and individual artists insure a full musical program for Providence. Outside of Greater Providence, concert series are given in Pawtucket, Westerly, Woonsocket and Kingston.

Mr. John B. Archer, Director, presents the Annual Christmas Concert of the Providence Festival Chorus in January, and an out-door program in June.

Director William W. Deroin of The "Y" Oratorio Society presents two oratorios during the 1940-41 season, and the "Y" Singers likewise under Mr. Deroin's leadership, give an annual concert.

The Catholic Choral Club, founded and directed by Rev. Leo Rowlands, presents concerts.

The Verdandi Society conducted by Mr. Oscar Ekeberg (all members are of Swedish descent) gives several concerts annually -

The New England Opera Association is directed by Danilo Sciotti. Some leading parts and all of the minor roles and entire chorus and ballet, are composed of local artists. An Opera Guild had been formed with Mrs. Gilbert C. Carpenter as President.

The W.P.A. Rhode Island Symphony presents concerts in the Gilbert Stuart High School, Providence, Sunday Evenings, as well as many concerts in the outlying towns, conducted by Mr. Edouard Caffier. Many local artists appear with this organization.

The Brown University Glee Club is directed by Prof. Arthur Hitchcock, Pianist and Composer. The Pembroke Glee Club is directed by Mr. G. Richard Carpenter. These two Clubs (Brown University and Pembroke Glee Clubs) combine and usually give a joint concert.

The Brown-Pembroke Orchestra is conducted by Prof. Arlan Coolidge. Concert Series are given at Faunce House.

As a new venture, the Rhode Island School of Design presents a series of ten Sunday afternoon concerts during the 1940-41 season. These are to be held in the Museum of the School, arranged by Dr. Alexander Dorner, Head of the Museum, and employing local artists.

The Federation of Music Clubs consists of 50 Clubs. We help to sponsor the New England Opera Company, which is conducted by Maestro Danilo Sciotti; chorus and minor roles entirely by local talent. Stellar roles are sung by artists from Metropolitan and other New York opera companies.

Providence has a Rhode Island Symphony, sponsored by the State Department of Social Welfare, and a part of the Rhode Island Music Project, W.P.A. 65 members.

SOUTH CAROLINA

By Cornelia Greer Walker

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Like many states, South Carolina was peopled in the beginning by the Indian who chanted ritualistic songs and dances. All traces or influence of his music in the state are gone. Scarcely any music of the Catawba tribe on the Government reservation in South Carolina is found.

The Cavaliers came to South Carolina in the 17th century with their love of "merrie song and dance." Even today we feel their influence in both vocal and instrumental music.

In the upper and mountainous sections of the state we find definite traces of English, Scotch, and Irish ballads brought over by these early settlers. We derive our scales, the musical forms, etc., from them.

From records we find that the first opera in the United States was given in Charleston in 1703 (Sonneck) and "a consort, April 8, 1732, was given for the benefit of Mr. Salter on the harpsichord."

"The Society for the Preservation of Southern Spirituals" of Charleston, composed of native white musicians, seeks to preserve for posterity the spirituals of a century ago as sung by the Negroes in the South Carolina coastal region.

The native African brought with him an inborn sense of mystic rhythm and he readily absorbed the folklore of the early settlers. Modern civilization is largely developing the Negroes and, although they still retain their sense of rhythm, they are rapidly losing the ability to sing the native spirituals handed down to them by their ancestors of the rice fields. The only real Negro music in the state is their singing of the beautiful old spirituals in the far coastal regions untouched by modern civilization. A hundred spirituals were sung by a Negro woman cook at Murrel's Inlet and recorded last year.

Eugen Putnam, 1881-1930, native white composer of Gray Court, with the aid of an ex-slave made a set of pipes ("Quills"). "Quills" were used extensively as a musical instrument among the slaves and are made of reeds cut from the South Carolina canebrakes. This resulted in the Putnam piano composition, Quills Dance. He composed Humoresque, etc.

The South Carolina Branch of the National Federation of Music Clubs in twenty years of existence has done more, perhaps, than any other organization for the musical growth of South Carolina. Its 4,000 members stress recognition of American composers, American music, the chorus, orchestra, youthful artists, radio, public school music, financial aid to musical underprivileged, etc. This organization recently memorialized at Spartanburg a nineteenth century South Carolina singing master, William Walker, A. S. H. (Author of Southern Harmony), better known as "Singin' Billy." His Southern Harmony sold 600,000 copies and after 100 years is still used.

Other organizations interested in the musical development of the state are South Carolina Daughters of the American Revolution, South Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, South Carolina Department of the American Legion Auxiliary, South Carolina Teachers Association.

The following Colleges of Music give degrees leading to concert work and teaching:

Converse College, grand opera by music students; orchestra; M.M., Mus. B., and B.A. degrees with music major; RHO Chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda, National Honorary Music fraternity.

Winthrop College, magnificent new conservatory, only 100-piece Girls' Band in America; orchestra; B.S. and B.A. degrees with music major.

Coker College, Columbia College, South Carolina University, Woman's College of Furman University (Bach festivals), Newberry College, Erskine College, Lander College, Limestone College give degrees with music major.

Music in public schools, private teaching, school bands, orchestras, choirs, and choruses are vivified.

The Columbia Music Festival Association, with Symphony, College Chorus, Childrens' Chorus, and Shandon Choral Society under nation-wide broadcast, publicizes South Carolina musically.

There is no longer a dirth of native or adopted composers. Lily Strickland, native, and Ernst Bacon, adopted, stand out as most productive.

The state has undergone a renaissance in music.

SOUTH DAKOTA

By Bernice Remde

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Community musical organizations outside of schools and colleges in South Dakota include:

1. The Rapid City Choral Club, directed by C. S. Hempstead. Spring Concert 1940, Judas Maccabeus. Personnel: Men and women from all walks of life.

2. The Faulk County Chorus, Directed by Mr. and Mrs. Perry Clifford Cresbord. Annual Production of Messiah. Personnel: Rural men and women. Many drive thirty miles to rehearsals.

3. Elks Choruses and Bands. Located at Aberdeen and Sioux Falls. Personnel: Men of Elks Lodge.

4. Federated Music Clubs in Aberdeen, Sioux Falls, Pierre, Huron, Rapid City, Sturgis, Brookings, sponsors for Music Week programs, choir festivals, composers programs, symphony concerts, artist recitals.

5. Farm Organizations. Farm Women's Chorus, Brookings. 4-H. Club Music Programs, Brookings.

6. City Bands throughout the state. Many have extensive summer concert seasons.

Music in the Colleges of South Dakota may be summarized as follows:

1. University of South Dakota at Vermillion—Symphony Orchestra and Band, string quartet, glee clubs and choruses.

2. State College at Brookings—band and orchestra, light opera productions, choruses.

3. Northern State Teachers College, Aberdeen — production of Martha, Cavaleria Rusticana, symphony Orchestra and band.

Among the denominational colleges are fine Music Depts. both vocal and instrumental in Dakota Wesleyan, Mitchell; Huron College, Huron; Yankton College, Yankton; Augustana College, Sioux Falls, noted for its choir under the direction of Dr. Carl Youngdahl; Sioux Falls College, Sioux Falls, with A Cappella Choir, Directed by Lee Bright.

In the high schools soloists, bands, orchestras and glee Clubs compete in annual contests or appear in festivals under the direction of the High School Music Association.

Other organizations for the promotion of music are the Guild of South Dakota Composers, South Dakota Federation of Music Clubs, and the High School Music Asssociation.

South Dakota has a very large rural population. Several counties have music supervisors and many counties have permanent chorus organizations of grade school children.

Standard requirements for music in colleges and for public school teachers have been increased in the past year. Almost all schools, including rural one-room schools, have some music.

Music Centers in the state are Sioux Falls, Aberdeen, Rapid City, Mitchell and Huron.

TENNESSEE

By Mrs. Vernon Peters

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The Tennessee Federation of Music Clubs is a strong organization, leading in the musical development of the state.

As a result of the Federation's interest and influence for the teaching of music in the schools of the state, there is a great interest in the project.

A number of schools, colleges and universities have added music departments since the State Board of Education has required all students and teachers to take more hours in the study of public school music.

Summer Opera in Memphis has completed the most successful season in the three years of the opera productions. From of standpoint of attendance as well as financially, it has been a great success.

Miss Frances Greer of Helena, Arkansas, and Miss Ethel Taylor of Memphis have been the attractive stars, both girls from the south; and the supporting cast has been composed of young men and women from the Tri-States. This has added to the interest in the opera. The local talent that was trained and used put on a very splendid performance each evening. Don Gautier and Alexander Gray, two very popular artists with the Tri-States, sang leading roles in the operas.

The Cadek Civic Society of Chattanooga is one of the outstanding Choral Groups in the state and presents a very fine series of programs each season.

A Symphony Orchestra, young in years but rapidly growing in fame, is that of Memphis, directed by Professor Burnett C. Tuthhill.

One of the most unusual and enjoyable groups in the state is from Nashville, "The Old Harp Singers," organized and sponsored by Dr. George Pullen Jackson, internationally known for his research work in religious folk music.

This group presents programs in costume, the programs including sacred and secular folk music.

A season of grand opera was sponsored in Memphis the past season by the Beethoven Club of that city, the largest music club in the state, with Mrs. Roscoe Clarke as president.

School bands are growing in number, and many young people are enjoying the study of band instruments as a result.

Three hundred young people entered the Tennessee Federation of Music Clubs Competitive Festivals last season, which is an indication of great interest in good music among the youth of the state.

TEXAS

By Mrs. R. E. Wendland

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Texas is fast becoming music-conscious: she sings not only her cowboy songs, but also Wagnerian arias; she plays not only her breakdowns, but also Beethoven's Ninth Symphony; her children learn not only at the feet of colored mammies, but also at the feet of the maestros of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Much of the recent growth of interest in music in Texas has been the result of efforts of several music organizations, one of which, the Texas Federation of Music Clubs, this year celebrates its Silver Anniversary. The largest organization in the National Federation, it has 430 clubs, with a membership of approximately 10,000.

Among its activities, the Federation sponsors public school music, encourages creative music through its Composers' Guild, contributes to better church music through Church Music Forums and Choir Festivals, and holds Competitive Festivals for adults as well as junior and student groups. It publishes The Texas Music News, a monthly magazine with 6,000 circulation.

The Texas Music Teachers' Association numbers among its members the majority of the better music teachers of the state. Through its efforts, the standards of the music teacher have been raised noticeably. Through the Texas Music Festival, which this association sponsors, instruction of the private pupil has been somewhat standardized. An outgrowth of its work is a recent appointment by the Board of Education of a Committee on Applied Music, Mary Dunn of Lubback, Chairman. Its purpose is to provide public school credit to the pupil who does acceptable private work under accredited teachers. Clyde Garrett of Arlington is president of the Association and edits its publication, Southwestern Musician.

The Texas Association of Music Schools, with W. E. Jones of Texas State College for Women, Denton, as president, works toward higher standards in its field. Its emphasis upon orchestral and choral groups constitutes an interest-objective toward which music educators in the public schools and private studios may direct their pupils. Texans are proud of the new School of Fine Arts in their State University, with W. E. Doty as Dean.

Russell E. Shrader of Sweetwater is president of the Texas Music Educators' Association, composed largely of those who work with public school music—band directors, orchestra and choral conductors, and music supervisors. Through its annual clinics, conducted by nationally prominent authorities, and its competition festivals, it has raised to a commendable extent the quality of music in our public schools.

This interest generated through student days finds outlet in adult life in many splendid symphony orchestras in various Texas cities: The Dallas Symphony conducted by Jacques Singer, the Fort Worth by Brooks Morris, the Tyler and the Beaumont by Fritz Fall, the El Paso by Alpha Brown, the Houston by Ernst Hoffman, the Waco and the San Antonio by Max Reiter.

Texas appreciates good music, as is attested by the support she has given the Dallas Grand Opera Association, Arthur Kramer, president, in its presentation of the Metropolitan Opera Company in Dallas the past two years.

UTAH

By Mrs. Frank Johnson

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

We have only one professional orchestra in Utah, and that is in Salt Lake City. Mr. Gail Martin is the force behind the orchestra. Mr. Regnial Beales is the local conductor, but we have guest conductors whenever possible. In May, 1940, we had a splendid performance in Kingsbury Hall.

The McCurre School of Music and Art supports two symphony orchestras under the able direction of Dr. Frank Asper. One is composed of young artists and the other of students. They each give three concerts a year.

We have three outstanding University Music departments in Logan, Salt Lake and Provo. Each has a complete organization of symphony orchestra, band, glee clubs—men and women separate and together.

Utah is most outstanding in its chorruses. The most outstanding are the combined Associated Men's Glee Clubs of Utah and the Associated Ladies Glee Clubs. These organizations appear separately; once a year the men's groups jointly present some world-famous artist with them, and the women's groups do likewise.

The Latter Day Saint Church, known as the Mormon Church, encourages music in all in organizations. From the famous Mormon Tabernacle Choir and the Singing Mother organizations numbering into the thousands, they come together at the general conference in April of each year, and have a music festival of some nature.

In 1939, they gave The Creation, with action and costumes, and Ronald Peas as soloist. The choir sang while the action was pantomimed out in front.

Then, in June, the young people meet in convention and have another festival. This year (1940) they had a music clinic.

The Federation of Music Clubs helps young artists and gives an annual contest, besides assisting in contests for all musicians at the state fair.

Mr. H. Frederick Davis has charge of opera in Salt Lake City, and supervises a light opera in the summer and one grand opera in the winter season. Faust was given last winter with a large cast and orchestra.

We feel, considering its resources and its number of people, that Utah does more in fine music than any other group of people of the same size.

The Mormon Church sends out professional teachers in organ and conducting to make sure that in every little hamlet there are trained musicians in charge. Mr. Tracy Y. Cannon is in charge of this for the church.

The music teacher in every town in Utah is paid as much as or more than the principal. This teacher is the force in the town for a vigorous musical life.

VERMONT

By Martha Caine Bucklin

The highlight of the music year in Vermont is the annual Vermont Music Festival, which is held the first week of May in Burlington. The widespread and varied representation at this gathering, in which 2,500 boys and girls from all sections of the state participate, is an indication of the deep love of music shared by the people of Vermont.

In 1939 the Festival was changed from a two-day event to a three-day event, due to the large numbr of participants. The 1940 Music Festival was the sixteenth annual such program, and 65 schools were represented. Final concert of the Festival, with the newly selected All-State Orchestra and All-State Band performing, was held, as always, in the Memorial Auditorium.

The Vermont Music Festival was started in 1924 by this writer in Rutland, where the Festival was held annually through 1930, after which it was transferred by the Music Teachers Association to Burlington.

Other outstanding phases of Vermont musical activity include the Woodstock Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Alan Carter; the Rutland Community Concerts, under the guidance of Mrs. Walter Fenton; the course of instruction offered at the Week of Music at the Fletcher Farm, Proctorsville, under Walter H. Butterfield and under the sponsorship of the Fletcher family; and various choir and rural festivals throughout the state.

The Vermont Little Symphony Orchestra also exemplifies the state's deep cultural life. Just prior to Christmas, 1939, it took part in a presentation of The Messiah, with the Vermont Symphony Chorus of 75 voices, in the new Taft School Auditorium in Burlington.

The University of Vermont Glee Clubs and Choir present frequent programs.

The town of Bennington, site of Bennington College, is the scene of dance, music and drama performed by the students. During mid-winter, the students and teachers are away—doing research, composing, teaching; but during a good part of the rest of the year many special events are on the music calendar of the college.

VIRGINIA

By Mrs. George S. Hurt

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Twenty years ago, Mrs. James Proctor Brown of Bristol, Virginia, now of Chicago, Illinois, organized the Virginia Federation of Music Clubs in Roanoke, Virginia. Mrs. Brown was elected first state president. Others following were Mrs. Ernest Baldwin, Roanoke; Mrs. Malcolm Perkins, Richmond; Mrs. Sidney Small, Roanoke; Annabel Morris Buchanan, Richmond; Mrs. Vincent Hilles Ober, Norfolk; Mrs. Ralph Steele, Portsmouth; Mrs. Louis A. Dunlap, Pulaski; Mrs. George S. Hurt, Roanoke, and Mrs. Charles D. Townes, Waverly.

No organization has contributed more, directly and indirectly, to the musical development of Virginia than the Virginia Federation of Music Clubs.

The internationally known composer-pianist and leader in the Folk Song movement, John Powell, is the Federation's Honorary Patron. His wise counsel, whole-hearted support, superb vision and artistry have been a force in the Federation.

The Virginia Federation has given to the National Federation its present president, Mrs. Vincent H. Ober of Norfolk; Annabel Morris Buchanan, composer and an authority on folk music, who introduced folk music research into the National work; Mrs. Harrison Robertson of Danville, who served a number of years as chairman of religious folk songs and research and developed a deeper interest in our church music; Mrs. Lee Umberger of Wytheville, who instituted hymn playing contests in Virginia, to be adopted by the National; Mrs. Malcolm Perkins, who organized and federated the first County Club in the United States, an idea which was nationally adopted; Mrs. Sydney Small, who set a record in federating new clubs, who held the first State Junior Contest, and who served as president of Capitol District, as National Board Member and as National Junior Choral Chairman.

The Virginia Federation is active in sponsoring and promoting music festivals. The White Top Folk Festival, organized in 1931 and directed by Annabel Morris Buchanan and John Powell, held its ninth festival in August, 1940, under the direction of John Powell. Other festivals sponsored include the Massanetta Sacred Music Festival, the Crystal Cavern's Festival, the Choral Festival by Federated Choirs and Groups held at our state conventions and the Norfolk Choral Society of over 100 voices.

Through the cooperation of the Federation, Virginia is now one of the few states which has a supervisor of public school music. School bands and choral groups have been developed and each year regional Festivals and a State Festival are held.

The Federation holds a Competitive Festival for juniors each year and student musician and young artist contests every other year. Scholarships and student loans are available to worthy contestants.

Virginia has supported the winners of our National and State Young Artist Contests through engagements which totaled ten during the 1939-40 season.

Richmond, Norfolk and Roanoke have symphony orchestras. Many cities and towns throughout the state maintain a concert series, the result of the educational efforts of many music clubs. The two largest clubs, The Musicians Club of Richmond and The Thursday Morning Music Club of Roanoke, have been leaders in the musical development of their communities, instituting a concert series, staging light opera and opera programs, supporting state choral festivals and promoting civic symphony orchestras.

The Virginia Federation of Music Clubs has created and developed the present musical scene in Virginia.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

In addition to being the nation's capital, Washington, D.C., is also one of the major music centers of the United States.

The music season in the city is one of continual attractions of the first rank. The world's greatest vocal and instrumental artists, excellent chamber music ensembles, and symphony orchestras of world renown appear in this metropolis where the nation's laws are made.

Outstanding artists who recently have appeared in Washington include Lily Pons, who gives an annual Washington recital; John Charles Thomas; Robert Virovai, violinist; Sergei Rachmaninoff, pianist; Fritz Kreisler and Yehudi Menuhin, violinists; Kirsten Flagstad and Grace Moore, sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera Co.; Mischa Levitzki, pianist; Helen Jepson, Lawrence Tibbett, Nelson Eddy, Vladimir Horowitz, Richard Crooks, Jeanette MacDonald, Adolf Busch and Rudolf Serkin.

Both the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra and the New York Philharmonic-Symphony have performed here to capacity houses. Not to be outdone, Washington's own National Symphony Orchestra—the city's biggest musical organization—is in great demand not only at its local concerts in Constitution Hall, but also throughout the country, as is evidenced by the many successful tours it has made in different parts of the land.

Under the conductorship of Dr. Hans Kindler, the National Symphony has completed ten years of performances, during which its field of recognition and acclaim has constantly broadened. During the 1939-40 season, for example, the orchestra went on four separate tours—through New England in the fall; through West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania in January, and two trips later in the season through the southeast: Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. Everywhere the National Symphony Orchestra met with the highest praise.

The Washington Choral Society is one of the most active civic musical organizations in the capital. Under the leadership of Louis A. Potter, this group, consisting of 150 choristers, presents such works as the Brahms Requiem, Bach's St. Matthew Passion, Bach's Magnificat and his cantata, Sleepers Wake.

Through the Gertrude Clarke Whittal Foundation and the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation, outstanding chamber music programs are presented by the Library of Congress.

Having built up its membership from 45 musicians to almost 100 in a period of three years, the Washington Civic Symphony, under the baton of Dr. Kurt Hetzel, has become another important factor in the city's music life.

Other Washington presentations are offered by the Friday Morning Music Club and Howard University. Leading concert managers in the capital, who deserve much credit for bringing outstanding artists and group to the city, include Constance Albright Snow, Helen Fetter Cook, Mrs. Dorothy Hodgkin Dorsey and Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, whose Morning Musicales at the Hotel Mayflower attract large audiences, including many socially prominent persons.

WASHINGTON

By Mrs. Frank H. Ludwigs

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Washington State, far West, comparatively new, is outstanding in its recognition and application of the fine arts in everyday living. The Federation of Music Clubs, Washington State Music Teachers' Association, State Federation of Women's Clubs, various school systems and private teachers are largely responsible for the rapid and consistent development of music in the state.

The state boasts four large city symphonies, that in Seattle being considered a major one in this country.

Fine bands, orchestras, choruses in school and community are numerous. City and district festival plans have been successfully developed, and national music is everywhere accorded serious consideration.

There are three interesting opera companies in the state, among the few "intimate" opera companies of the English speaking world.

The list of Washington composers doing recognized work is a long one.

In an effort to develop more widespread appreciation of music in the churches a plan of state-wide Choir Festivals has lately been instituted. Annual religious musical features are numerous.

An attempt to make the entire state music-conscious has resulted in the formation of many music study clubs, choral and orchestral groups, in which adults as well as juniors participate. There are several oratorio societies, and the various nationalities have their singing groups.

Radio stations generally cooperate in the sending out of good music. Schools of higher learning through their music libraries assist clubwomen and others in research work for papers and for talks.

Both Community and Civic Concerts Associations have chapters in the state, and through them and local booking agencies the best in music is brought to the state.

Folk music research is going forward; an "honor roll" of the state's musical families has lately been compiled; student artist recitals are sponsored, and whenever possible young artists are programmed for a fee.

Many are the civic and philanthropic music accomplishments: purchasing of musical instruments for schools and individuals; concerts for shut-ins; programs for service clubs; varied community music activities; bringing of music into institutions, etc.

Washington State ranks first in education, so it is natural that music education should be outstanding. Music appreciation classes, especially in the rural schools, are conducted; through specialized efforts more widespread use is being made of the plan whereby school credits are given for outside music study under accredited teachers (this plan has been adopted by other states); school letters are now being given to students outstanding in the musical field; definite steps are being taken toward the securing of a State Supervisor of Music on the staff of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Orchestras of 1,200, and choruses of 2,500 school children have given excellent performances in the larger cities. District Festivals, competitive in the sense that the students compete against a standard of excellence, are held each year in all brackets of musical training; student musical groups in normal schools and universities travel extensively; a State Youth Orchestra is now contemplated.

Washington State likes to experiment, so recently a "Choral Clinic," which teachers from several western states attended, was held at one of the normal schools.

Music appreciation, understanding and application are widespread in Washington State because the feeling has been consistently built up that music is an understandable and an approachable art.

WEST VIRGINIA

By Mrs. Delbert T. Robinson

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

The work which the West Virginia Federation of Music Clubs has for some time been doing in helping to develop the musical life and activity of the state has, as its most recent, accomplishment, the annual Greenbrier Music Festival at White Sulphur Springs.

For more than a century, Greenbrier has been a famous resort. To its natural beauties were brought, in July, 1938, the first state-wide music festival, sponsored by the federation. Since then, the festival has been held each year.

Another significant indication of the vitality of West Virginia's music life is the existence of four important orchestras—the Wheeling Symphony Orchestra, the Huntington Symphony Orchestra, the Charleston Symphony Orchestra and the Clarksburg Symphony Orchestra.

The Wheeling Symphony participates regularly in the Ohio Valley May Festival, while the Charleston Civic Orchestra performs at the Charleston May Festival. All four orchestras give public concerts during the winter and spring seasons. The Huntington Symphony gave a full evening program at the 1940 Greenbrier Festival in August.

What an event like the Greenbrier Festival means, in terms of the cultural life of West Virginia, can best be gleaned from a summary of the programs of the festival. At the 1938 festival, for instance, which was held July 3 to July 6, as part of the celebration commemorating the 160th anniversary of the Greenbrier, the following were some of the highlights:

Mr. Lon Chassy, conductor of the Greenbrier Orchestra since 1928, was director of the festival. The West Virginia Federation of Music Clubs, through its president, supervised the contests to determine the three outstanding students in voice, violin and piano.

Musicians and students from every part of the state attended the gathering.

The Greenbrier Symphony Society, with Lon Chassy directing, gave a concert, one of the outstanding numbers of which was the tone poem for piano and orchestra, The Rhyme of the Ancient Mariner, by Gibson Morrisey, who is director of music at Blufield College and who is one of West Virginia's promising young composers.

In August, 1939, the second Greenbrier Festival was held, with similar success. Its significance, however, was even greater than that of the first one, since it marked a definite further step forward in the encouragement of West Virginia's musical talent and appreciation.

The third annual festival was held in August, 1940.

The organization of this annual event has proved to be the outstanding feature of the work of the West Virginia Federation of Music Clubs. Up to the present, the festival has been confined almost exclusively to programs by artists and musicians residing in West Virginia.

The Woman's Music Club of Morgantown sponsors recitals and concerts which draw enthusiastic audiences. This is one of the oldest clubs in the state, having been organized in 1904; it is also one of the largest, with a membership of close to 200.

The Chaminade Piano Sextette of Clarksburg, under the direction of Prof. C. C. Arms, gives splendid performances in the state. The group's six-piano renditions of Bach, Mozart, Brahms and Moussorgsky have won high praise.

Surely, with such rich examples of musical endeavor and activity, the musical future of West Virginia can truthfully be said to be stirringly promising.

WISCONSIN

By Mrs. Edwin C. Thompson

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Music is fast becoming an integral part of Wisconsin's home, church and community life, as evidenced by the ever increasing number of Federated Music Clubs and the increase in growth of musical organizations throughout the state.

The 1940-41 season opens with an increasing number of communities supporting concert series. Today scarcely an urban community in the state exists without some form of a musical series sponsored by the school, the church or civic groups. An increase in ticket sales for musical events speaks for the success of these ventures.

Duo-piano music has grown by leaps and bounds in Wisconsin. Hardly a Federated Music Club in the state exists that does not include at least one whole program of two-piano music in its yearly work. As a result of this awakening several brilliant duo-pianists are meeting with success in this field.

Choral music has had a phenomenal growth in Wisconsin the past two years. In addition to every music club having some form of choral ensemble, Wisconsin boasts some of the outstanding choral organizations of the nation, among which are both civic and student choruses. Foremost of the male organizations are the Lyric Male Chorus and the Symphonic Male Chorus of Milwaukee, the MacDowell Male Chorus of Appleton and the Cadman Chorus (women's voices) Milwaukee. Known from coast to coast are the student organizations: the Symphonic Singers of Stout Institute, Menomonie; the A Cappella Choir of State Teachers' College, Eau Claire; the Northland College Choir of Ashland and the A Cappella Choir of Sheboygan Vocational School.

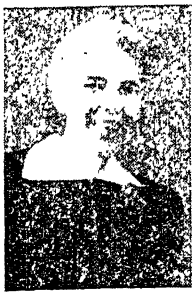
A real impetus was given orchestral music with the event of the W.P.A. Orchestras. Several cities are successfully continuing these musical organizations, especially Milwaukee, Madison and Eau Claire. However, it is the high schools throughout the state, with their school orchestras and bands, that are doing a magnificent piece of work not only in training the youth of the state in playing together and in appreciation of good music, but also in educating the people of their communities to a real appreciation of symphonic music.

Significant among out-of-school groups is the organization of young peoples' orchestras, bands and choruses. They are composed of young people who played in high school organizations and are now out of school. This gives these young people an opportunity to continue their musical participation. Milwaukee has two fine groups, a band and an orchestra, which hold regular practices and give two concerts a season.

Organization of the Milwaukee Sinfonetta Orchestra, and its two successful concerts late in the spring, promises to music-lovers and concert-goers of Milwaukee an opportunity to hear many small symphonic works seldom played by larger organizations.

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra's ten concerts during the winter in Milwaukee is as much a part of the musical life of Southern Wisconsin as of Chicago. The Northern part of the state enjoys each year a number of concerts by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, which is booked for several appearances this season again.

The University of Wisconsin's purchase of the Belgian String Quartette, which gave sold-out concerts at the University the past two seasons, is hailed with enthusiasm everywhere, not only on the campus in Madison but throughout the state, as the most significant musical event in years. The Quartette assures chamber music lovers the opportunity to hear this type of program each season as well as during the University's Musical Festival. The clinic for high school musicians and supervisors of public school music recently held its eleventh annual summer session on the campus in Madison.



Music teachers and music schools are reporting increased enrollment in all branches of music study this year.

The Wisconsin Federation of Music Clubs will again introduce in the Wisconsin Legislature a bill to provide the State Department as well as all counties with a Supervisor of Music.

The Milwaukee "All State" Musical Festival, held annually in July, is becoming an established institution in the summer life of Wisconsin, as is the Milwaukee Summer Series, "Music Under the Stars," held in the Blatz Temple of Music, featuring America's best known artists.

WYOMING

By Mrs. W. P. Enders

MEMBER STATE BOARD OF EDITORS

Wyoming, with her two major mountain ranges, vast stretches of plain and desert, bad lands with their yellow and purple colorings, and breath-taking natural phenomena, instills within the hearts of her people a longing for and understanding of music as deep as her mighty canyons. Music has been proven to be a vital part of the lives of the people in our largest towns and sparsely settled communities. With much determination and many sacrifices, lovers of music have built our musical activities to really outstanding proportions.

The five largest towns, scattered over the state, have developed their musical activities independently of each other, so that a state gathering is distinctive and enlightening. Casper, an oil town in the center of the state, has, perhaps, the largest Symphony Orchestra. It also has a Women's Chorus equal to any heard during National Festivals. Cheyenne, the state capital, has a Men's Chorus whose appearance is solicited in many other places than its home town, and many other musical organizations. Rock Springs, a mining and railroad center, is unique in its musical activities. Its Symphony Orchestra is well known. Its greatest effort has been to keep alive the music of the different nationalities included in the population. A few years ago a shawl pageant was given for a Girl Scout Assembly, with some forty nations represented. Each participant wore a shawl or cloak brought from her own country, and music of that country was played or sung, often by members of her family, as she paraded. Laramie is the home of our State University. A very excellent faculty is doing much to bring the standard of music to a high level and also create interest over the state by appearing in concert at many of our high schools. Sheridan is our largest, real stockman's town. It has a number of well-known artists who give of their time and talent to make for their town a most delightful musical atmosphere.

The progressive work done by our public schools is something of which we are justly proud. The rural schools teach music by the use of records with a day of massed choruses at the county seat. Almost all towns, many with less than three hundred population, have trained music instructors. They have bands, orchestras and glee clubs which participate in District Festivals, and those attaining an "excellent" or "superior" rating proceed to a State Festival. It is a real joy to the children taking part and to the listener when the final performance of the massed bands, orchestras and glee clubs takes place under the batons of notable directors brought in from nearby colleges and universities.

Praise is also due the leaders of the Rural Women's Clubs, which are sponsored by the Extension Department of the University of Wyoming. A great percentage of these women came from eastern states and from communities where they had had cultural advantages, and they were determined that their children should not miss their chance to acquire an appreciation of good music or develop any talent they might have.

In the writer's opinion, however, the outstanding achievement is the culmination of all the above activities in the public performances given by individuals, groups and entire communities during the National Music Week. The widespread interest and active participation of almost every community, large and small, have been promoted and directed by the Wyoming Federation of Music Clubs. The Federation has cooperated with every other organization by distributing literature, securing chairmen and contributing talent. Though small in membership, the Federation's enthusiasm, inspired by our National leaders, is slowly but surely developing a love and demand for good music "for all, at all times."

Music And The Radio

By LEONARD LIEBLING

UNTIL a few years ago, good music for the average American, spelled high society, boxes at the opera, long-haired pianists kissing the hands of bejeweled matrons, and dry-as-dust articles filled with peculiar words like fortissimo, lento, adagio, rubato, allegro con brio, etc. Music was regarded as the possession of the few, and was looked upon with distrust by the majority. High musical rating in a small American town was attained by the family who owned a John McCormack record and whose child played "The Happy Farmer" rebelliously on the piano.

However, along about 1920, a few mechanically inclined young men were utilizing their spare time putting together something they called a "radio." They claimed that you could actually hear somebody sing, speak or play a long distance off. Back in the early 1900's, they said Lee de Forest had experimented with Marconi waves, and had made a "broadcast" of Mme. Mariette Mazarin of the Manhattan Opera Company singing an aria from "Carmen." Then in January, 1910, microphones had been placed in the wings of the Metropolitan Opera, and the first operatic performance in the history of radio went out over the air, "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana," with Enrico Caruso singing the lead in the latter opera.

The war speeded up the progress of the new invention, but its unlimited possibilities as an educational and entertainment medium were not even faintly suspected. It was not until a Dr. Frank Conrad, radio experimenter from Pittsburgh, suggested varying the monotonous oral broadcast tests with the playing of phonograph records, that the idea took hold of bringing people entertainment via the air. In 1920, Station KDKA was founded by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, chiefly to advertise the manufacture of radio parts. They started broadcasting music and talk at certain given hours.

People became interested in the new machines and started buying them. Other stations sprang up here and there. In 1922, the first "commercial" program was put on the air by Station WEAF, to advertise a New York real estate company, and thus dawned the revolutionary process of commercialized broadcasting, and a new kind of entertainment.

Competition among the stations developed rapidly, and they were forced to study the public tastes and desires. At first they offered only jazz bands, small salon orchestras playing "semi-classical" music, and performers who wanted a chance to be heard. Serious musicians considered broadcasting beneath them, and they adopted the same attitude toward radio that the legitimate stage actors held toward the movies during the early days of films. Concert managers and great artists would have nothing to do with the new medium, prophesying the doom of true music if the "canned" variety gained the upper hand. Loudest in their protests were Fritz Kreisler and Serge Rachmaninoff, neither of whom has yet changed his opinion. However, a few men of vision, like Walter Damrosch, dreamed of what might eventually be accomplished by means of radio.

Broadcasting executives also were wary of giving the public too much "classical" music. They argued that the public was not prepared for it, and would be bored by it. Only seldom did programs of any cultural value go on the air. Two daring experiments in the early history of radio were a broadcast of "Aida" from the Kingsbridge Armory in New York and a symphony concert by the New York Philharmonic from the Hall of the College of the City of New York. Both times the large response was a signpost which could profitably have been followed by radio officials.

Gradually a few artists were inveigled into singing over the microphone and the barriers went down with a crash in 1926 when John McCormack and Lucrezia Bori made their first radio appearances.

With the formation of the two major networks, the National Broadcasting Company in 1926 and the Columbia Broadcasting Company in 1927, music took an ever widening place in radio, and with the years, has formed the tastes and standards of a whole new generation of music lovers. By dint of patience and persistence, and encouraged by an awakened public interest, men like Frank Black, of NBC, Howard Barlow of CBS and Alfred Wallenstein of MBS, saw to it that musical standards in radio rose higher and higher. They argued and fought with the broadcasting executives (who insisted that "the average intelligence of radio listeners is that of a child of ten") and finally quashed opposition to radio orchestras, opera companies, and renowned soloists. They held a high opinion of the American public's ability to listen, learn and enjoy, and in the past ten years their opinions have been triumphantly confirmed.

In 1930 the New York Philharmonic Orchestra went on the air for weekly broadcasts. Their Sunday programs were presented as given publicly in Carnegie Hall, and no concession was made by any of the conductors, beginning with Arturo Toscanini, to play down to the "average intelligence of a child of ten." Today it is estimated that the Philharmonic radio audience numbers close to twenty million people.

In 1930, the Metropolitan somewhat timidly consented to a broadcast of "Haensel and Gretel." Its success emboldened the institution to present weekly broadcasts of the Saturday afternoon operas, which it has done ever since. When Edward Johnson became general manager, so fully cognizant was he of the possibilities of radio that he inaugurated weekly talent auditions in 1936, from which eight winners and many runnersup have been chosen as permanent members of the company.

And in 1937, after much deliberation, NBC adjudged the American music loving public to have become of age, and founded the first full sized symphony orchestra specifically designed for radio, under the direction of Arturo Toscanini.

Because of his belief in and understanding of the new medium, in 1926 Dr. Walter Damrosch was made the musical director of NBC, a post he held for six years during which he sponsored only the best in music. With Julius Mattfeld, now Music Librarian of CBS, he founded the NBC Music Library, which today is one of the largest in the world.

In 1929, Dr. Damrosch started his famous NBC Music Appreciation Hour, a radio adaptation of his former Children's Concerts and music lectures. At present, the Hour reaches some 70,000 schools and an audience estimated at between six and seven million children.

In 1932, Damrosch was succeeded as director by Frank Black, who had served in almost every branch of music, including accompanying, transcribing, composing, conducting, orchestrating, piano playing, recording and broadcasting. Broadway producers knew him as one of the best musical comedy directors, and serious musicians recognized his abilities in the symphonic field. At present, everything pertaining to music at NBC is under Black's control. Education, entertainment, sustaining and commercial programs, music research, copyright, library, arrangers, copyists, the more than five hundred musicians that pass in and out of NBC daily, all are under him. Besides his executive duties, he finds time to direct the NBC String Symphony, a small string orchestra which he founded in 1933, and for which he has made excellent arrangements of piano, choral and string music. He also conducts on special broadcasts, was conductor of the RCA Magic Key series and is director of the Cities Service program.

Other prominent musical figures at NBC include Ernest La Prade, director of Music Research, who brought some of the foremost string ensembles to the air in the NBC Music Guild programs, and who founded the NBC Home Symphony; Thomas Belviso, chief of the Music Division; and Lewis Lane, who has built up a unique department for musical information, with over 75,000 items on file.

Chief musical mentor for the Columbia Broadcasting system has been Howard Barlow, now conductor of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra as well as the CBS Symphony. Barlow directed the first broadcast of CBS in 1927, when he played excerpts from Deems Taylor's "The King's Henchman." Since then he developed his 16-piece orchestra into the sixty-piece Columbia Symphony. He was one of the first men to play complete symphonies on the air. In his conducting and arranging of incidental music for the famous "March of Time" broadcasts, he evolved a new technique for such productions.

Davidson Taylor, music director of CBS for four years, stimulated an interest in unusual chamber music and American composers. He was chiefly responsible for one of the most progressive moves in radio, the formation in 1936 of the Columbia Composers' Commission. Feeling that radio, the most far reaching medium for introducing new music, owed a duty to the serious American composer, Columbia established a Commission to order music specifically for broadcasting. The first six composers chosen were Aaron Copland, Louis Gruenberg, Howard Hanson, Roy Harris, Walter Piston, and William Grant Still. The second Commission, the following year, named Quincy Porter, Robert Russell Bennett, Leo Sowerby, Jerome Moross, R. Nathaniel Dett and Vittorio Giannini. During the summer of 1938, Howard Barlow and the Columbia Symphony Orchestra also played works by unknowns, sent in response to an invitation by Barlow to submit manuscripts to him for performance. The music of at least two of these unknowns, William Shuman and Julia Smith has since been widely played.

When in 1936, the Mutual Broadcasting System was formed, Alfred Wallenstein, formerly first cellist of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under Toscanini, became musical director. Since 1933 he had been conducting a small chamber orchestra on WOR and featuring rarely heard string music. His goal on becoming music director of MBS, was to broadcast at least one program of good music daily, an ambition which he has almost succeeded in attaining. Among his most outstanding achievements in music broadcasting have been the performances with orchestra, chorus and soloists of all the Bach Cantatas; and all the Mozart piano concertos and that composer's operas. With Dr. Julius Coopersmith, eminent musicologist, he founded the WOR music library, now possessing the most comprehensive collection of string music in existence.

High on the list of those who have stimulated a demand for the best in music have been the music commentators. At least three have become positively identified with radio, Deems Taylor, Samuel Chotzinoff, and Milton Cross. Taylor, composer and writer who in 1936 became the commentator of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra broadcasts (as well as CBS Music Consultant) has made millions of friends with his non-pedantic but always informative comment on music and musicians. Samuel Chotzinoff, official commentator of the Toscanini concerts, and music consultant for NBS, displayed the same pointed and erudite style in his radio talks which he reveals in his critical columns as music critic of the New York Post. Milton Cross, well-known NBC announcer, second oldest man in radio in point of service, has made his chief fame as commentator for the Metropolitan Opera Broadcasts.

In the field of commercial broadcasts which take up approximately one third of radio time, the sponsored music programs have held a lighter appeal and the sustaining music programs have been more culturally valuable. However, broadcasts such as the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, because of their ability to pay large fees, have been chiefly responsible for bringing the best known artists to the air. The Voice of Firestone maintains permanent star soloists, with Alfred Wallenstein conducting a symphony orchestra. Other famous commercial hours which have sponsored only the best in music include the Philco, General Motors, Chesterfield, RCA Victor, Banks, Westinghouse and General Electric.

Sustaining music programs (that is, those put on by the network with no profit other than prestige value) still bulk largely over commercials both in quality and quantity of music. The New York Philharmonic, NBC Symphony Orchestra and Metropolitan Opera broadcasts are all sustaining, as well as the New Friends of Music, the Rochester Civic and Philharmonic Orchestras, the Library of Congress chamber music concerts, the Radio City Hall of the Air, Columbia Concert Hall, Wallenstein's Sinfonietta, and many others.

Network promotion of good music has inspired countless smaller stations to follow suit. Outstanding among them is New York's WQXR, originally founded by John Hagen as an experimental station. It devoted most of its time to broadcasting recordings, and since acquiring Eddy Brown, American violinist, as musical director, enjoys an enviable reputation for its high musical standards.

In a little less than twenty years, radio has become America's chief musical showcast. Today nearly every great artist appears at least once during the season on the air. Concert and operatic managers look to radio for some of their new talent. Serious as well as popular composers consider broadcasting a highly important performing medium for their work. And in millions of homes, radio has awakened and quickened an interest in music which shows itself in immeasurable ways. No longer do concert managers complain of "canned" music. Concert attendance, stimulated by radio listening has risen so sharply that 1939-40 was considered to have been the best attendance year in concert history. Phonograph record sales have gone up 500 per cent in the last decade. Music education in the schools is becoming of increasing importance and significance. Music in the home has revived to such an extent that hundreds of new music stores are opening all over the country. In 1937, Radio Guide, a popular national radio fan magazine, started a department called "The March of Music." Edited by Leonard Liebling, (critic, and Editor of the Musical Courier) it presents a weekly forcast of the best music heard weekly on the air, with opera libretti, history of music series, program annotations, and editorials on musical subjects. More books on music are being published and successfully sold than ever before.

No longer is music in America a mysterious and highly sacred possession of the few. Music today is shared alike by the laborer, the artisan, the clerk, the farmer and his wife, the financier, the leaders in business, music lovers and those who are rapidly becoming such. Man and maid, old and young, high up in the mountains, down in the valleys, from sea to sea, in cities, towns and villages, in hospitals and prisons, any place where there is a radio, are spending hours of delight communing with the enduring masterpieces, ideally performed. Thanks in monumental measure to radio, America is becoming a musical nation, and is building a sound and permanent musical tradition.

Music In The Films

By BRUNO DAVID USSHER

MUSIC in or for the films is as old as the "movies." In the beginning — half a century ago and for years afterwards—music was added more to cover up the noise of the projection machine than to provide emphasis of tempo, rhythm or emotion. Original music for American motion pictures is of much more recent date. It is a musical endeavor hardly exceeding the last ten years. Musically important scores are of even more recent date. The film industry of Hollywood, as a whole, always has realized the monetary, and in a growing degree, the artistic values of musical scores. Discriminating judgment as to choice of composers and of music, however, is still rare. Quantity and quality (or character) of music remains subject to absolute approval of the producer and director. While the artistic scope of film music is great, well-nigh unlimited, so are, as yet, the restrictions. Whereas before music had to drown the noise of technically inferior projection machines, producer-directors today are often afraid that the emotional appeal of the score might submerge that of the screen.

Any historic survey—even this "bird's eye view" of film music—would lead to false deductions unless facts and trends are stated with at least the above mention of circumstances conditioning them as is the case in Hollywood. It is significant that the artistic high tribunal of the screen, the "Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences" (combining the best and most serious minds) has been making annual awards for the outstanding achievements among actors, directors, producers, set designers, cinematographers and sound engineers since 1928, but only since 1934 has music been admitted as one of the categories of work and talent contributing to the value or success of a film. An official bulletin of the Academy listing awards in that year merely states with unrevealing terseness: "Best Scoring: 'One Night of Love.' Columbia Pictures Music Department." (This was Grace Moore's first opera film.) The reason why the Academy may have purposely omitted crediting individuals is that then, as now, in film music scores the composing, arranging, orchestrating may have been done by half a dozen men. For practical and personal reasons the proportion of work contributed by these individuals is rarely told. Often it would involve a nearly impossible amount of checking to establish the facts accurately. To this day, these musical "collectives" work on a mysterious basis, discussion of which has no room here, although a detailed film music chronicle should do so. The Academy does not take account of it either. Several years had to pass before the judges realized the fundamental difference between compiled scores containing large excerpts from popular-classics (such as in "One Night of Love" or "100 Men and A Girl"), and original scores written by one composer, while adaptations and arrangements of operettas, or "cavalcades," such as "Alexander's Ragtime Band" or "The Great Victor Herbert," should have been placed in musical classifications of their own. An historically more extensive study on this subject would have to go also into the as yet not wholly satisfactory methods of nominations and elections for music awards.

Max Steiner, a "veteran" film composer of ten years continuous "service," appears on the 1935 awards list with his original music for "The Informer." (The official classification still is merely "Best Scoring.") Incidentally Steiner wrote his first original score in 1930 for "Cimarron" at the same studio (RKO), but screen credits a decade ago did not make even a reference to the music. For 1936 the award winner is announced as Warner Brothers Music Department, Leo Forbstein, director, although the score of the picture, "Anthony Adverse," was composed by Erich Wolfgang Korngold, composer of the "Dead City" and other operas, who had been brought to Hollywood by the studio expressly for the purpose of composing film scores.

Stranger yet is the decision of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences music committee for the tenth anniversary year, a period rich in fine original scores, when the choice fell on Universal's "One Hundred Men and A Girl," in which Leopold Stokowski played himself, Deanna Durbin making her starring debut, the story (in timely manner) featuring an orchestra of "unemployed" musicians. Space is lacking to print the nominations of the ten best scores for that election, especially as neither the classification nor nomination system of the Academy is sufficiently comprehensive. Considering the amount and calibre of borrowed classics (such as Gounod, Bach, Berlioz, Wagner, Tschaikowsky, Mozart, Verdi, etc.), the decision of the committee was criticized, although the technical supervision of the score by Universal's music director, Charles Previn, found wide praise.

Accordingly the Academy took notice, and in 1938 Erich Wolfgang Korngold won the honors with his original score for Warner's "Adventures of Robin Hood." Alfred Newman received the prize in a new category (which should have been called "Adaptations" but which still perpetuated the listing of "best scoring") for his Irving Berlin cavalcade, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," a 20th Century Fox production.

Latest Academy music awards (made last March for the year 1939, awards always covering the previous calendar year), went to Herbert Stothart for an original score to MGM's "Wizard of Oz." Chief honor for "Best Scoring" went to Richard Hageman, Frank Harling, John Leipold and John Shuken in "Stage Coach," a Wanger Production. By strange coincidence, or inference, Harold Arlen won the "best song" prize with "Over The Rainbow" from "Wizard of Oz," being the composer of the music for the original stage show of that name.

All of this goes to show, and to record in these brief annals, that Hollywood's conception of what constitutes original music, adaptations, incidental music, orchestrations, is still unformed. For that matter, speaking of Herbert Stothart, principal staff composer at MGM, he figures on current lists with an MGM adaptation of Sigmund Romberg's "New Moon" and with an original score for MGM's "Susan and God."

Use of large orchestras playing "synchronization" of chiefly compiled scores had their beginnings about 25 years ago, one of the first notable examples being the score for Griffith's "Birth of a Nation" (1915). Among the first large scale scores especially composed for a picture is that by Mortimer Wilson in 1925 for Douglas Fairbanks' "Thief of Bagdad." That also was the year when William Fox, pioneer picture producer urged his chief engineer, Theodore W. Case, to continue experiments in the direction of recording the sound track on the celluloid film. In Chicago, Lee de Forest, inventor-engineer worked along similar lines. The laboratories of the Bell Telephone, American Telephone and Telegraph, Western Electric, Electrical Research Products (who recently came out with "stereophonic enhancements"), Radio Corporation of America, General Electric, Westinghouse and other laboratories were on the search for the talking and music-reproducing film which would not only permit a new proximity of synchronization between music and screen, but also make the music available wherever a town or an audience would support a showing of the film. The late spring and midsummer of 1926 brought the (Bell Telephone) "Vitaphone" which went begging among picture executives, until heard by the late Sam Warner (head of Warner Bros. who foresaw the future) and acquired national rights, William Fox putting forward the Fox Movietone. The "talkies" talked and sang then only part of the time.

A new era in sound films began with "The Jazz Singer," featuring Al Jolson's Mammy Songs. The premiere, October 7, 1927, in New York City, caused a furore. It revolutionized picture making (laid the foundations for the continued fortunes of Warner Brothers), opened new fields of expression, but resulted also in the disappearance of large orchestras in picture houses. By 1928, with the help of engineers from phonograph laboratories (Victor, Columbia, Edison), the squeaks and squawks gradually disappeared from the film sound track. Sigmund Romberg's "Nights in Vienna" set a new standard for Warners. Their First National Studio (1929) advanced standards with one of the first scores based on folk songs, that for "Divine Lady" (English songs and sea chanteys). The score is the work of three men, Cecil Copping, Herman Heller and Louis Silvers, the latter studio music director. The same year Jerome Kern's "Show Boat" was put on the screen by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, one of the best transpositions of musical comedies to the screen. A whole shelf of musical shows underwent such transfers, for better or worse ("Desert Song," "Singing Fool," "Rose Marie," "Student Prince," "No, No Nanette," "Rio Rita"). Much of the singing was bad. In 1929 Lawrence Tibbett started the procession of opera and concert celebrities to Hollywood singing in MGM's "Rogue Song." Grace Moore followed as "Jenny Lind," also an MGM production.

That new vogue for singing pictures and "musicals," however, did not last. These dramatically inferior pictures failed in popular appeal and revenue compared with the old smash-hit-presto-action "silents" where story and action did not come to a dead-stop to allow some one to warble. Marlene Dietrich's "Blue Angel" and Jan Kiepura's "City of Song," both importations, had foreign appeal and represented less investment to American exhibitors. If certain "musicals" were successful, then success was due to Paul Whiteman and the new jazz vogue (Universal's "King of Jazz"), to Maurice Chevalier and director Ernest Lubitsch for Paramount's "Smiling Lieutenant" (really Oscar Strauss "Waltz Dream," or Tibbett for his improved screen technic in MGM's "Cuban Love Song." These successes notwithstanding, Hollywood was ready to start another "cycle." It is supposed to move in "cycles." The first period of "musicals" was over. Music was frowned upon by executives unable to explain losses. The so-called screen epics were dished up in new form, at first with a minimum of background music.

Those early 1930s found the screen in a stage of general experimentation. Thespians and playwrights of the silent days had conquered the multitudes through that medium. The merciless sound of the talkies echoed through the clayfeet of some of these colossi. Technically the "talkies" were improved rapidly. New musical possibilities began to loom, and with them copyright problems. The major studios effected combinations with music publishers, set up their own publishing subsidiaries as the "theme song" grew into a song-hit and dance industry, which, by means of radio and phonograph records proved profitable. Song writers were imported from New York's Broadway, also arrangers, orchestrators and directors. The directors also turned composers, some by talent, some by necessity. Orchestra leaders from key city theaters belonging to large theater cities who had proven themselves good showmen in the days of synchronizing the "silents"—the work frequently done by technically better equipped aides — found themselves in Hollywood to organize music departments. Today they include some of the best melody makers of the country in the popular field, while employing fairly steadily an elite corps of approximately 500 scorers, arrangers, orchestrators, coaches, style specialists, recording directors, not counting copyists, instrumentalists for every conceivable and inconceivable orchestration, plus chorus singers and sound engineers doing wonders with microphones.

Music departments, before long, grew into production units demanding considerable administrative organization when background music and songs had to be provided simultaneously for as many as fifteen productions. The result was that the directors of music at the big studios more and more turned into production administrators, advisors and observers relegating the writing of music and the recording to men not burdened with the working out of budgets and production time tables. Today Alfred Newman (20th Century Fox), Charles Previn (Universal) and Marvin Hatley (Hal Roach) are among the few music department heads at important studios who are engaged regularly in composing scores while serving as executive division heads. Some of the other department heads take charge of recordings as conductors, but on the whole, they only help to plan a score, serve as liaison between producer-directors and composers, and as arbitrators on technical questions for their own staff. Besides the three mentioned, Hollywood's music departments today are managed at Columbia by Morris Stoloff; at Disney's by Lee Harline, at Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer by Nathaniel Finston, at Paramount by Louis R. Lipstone, at RKO by Dave Dreyer. They have brought to Hollywood a Jerome Kern, Oscar Strauss, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin, the Romberg's, Friml's, Youmans — to mention but a few. They have enlisted the invention of an Ernest Toch and Deems Taylor, of a Richard Hageman and Frank H. Harling, of Erich Wolfgang Korngold, Robert Russell Bennett, of Aaron Copland, Werner Janssen, Louis Gruenberg, Kurt Weill, George Antheil, Dmitri Tiomkin. The near future may well bring illustrious additions such as Igor Stravinsky, Arnold Schoenberg and Italo Montemezzi (now living in Hollywood), while plans are under way to engage Arthur Bliss and Darius Milhaud, now located at Berkeley and San Francisco, hence within easy reach. If certain plans mature, to this group of eminent newcomers may be added also Paul Hindemith, Hans Eissler and Jaromir Weinberger, while Robert Stolz and Emerich Kalman of European operetta fame have already been assigned to musical comedy scores by Universal. Benjamin Britten (of England) is another newcomer.

Hollywood is then in the midst of another "cycle," a cycle characterized by musically more and more significant as well as extensive background scores. The pioneer work for this advance of film music has been done by a small group of studio staff composers, who, despite the steady burden and rush, have greatly advanced methods of production and standards of music. Film music is a compound product, if only the fact be taken into account that composers seldom have time to more than indicate the kind of orchestration intended, a detail task of great importance then carried out by a Russell Bennett, Hugo Friedhofer, Heinz Roemheld, Ray Heindorf, John Leipold, George Bassman, Cecil Copping, Herman Hand, Lucien Calliet and a hundred others, who, to define the extent and rights of their work, in 1939 formed the ASMA or the American Society of Musical Arrangers, a name which, for brevity's sake only omits the word orchestrators.

Among those studio staff composers who carried the torch of music during many a musical dark night in Hollywood, foremost mention goes to Max Steiner (now with Warners), Hans Lange (formerly with 20th Century Fox, author of a text book of film music composition), Alfred Newman, now at Fox, but associated with United Artists, Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer and RKO. Thanks to men like these, film music commenced to come of age about five years ago. Studio records are scattered, often incomplete. In an industry so huge and active the entry of Leopold Stokowski in 1937, conducting the Philadelphia Symphony in the Bach D-Minor Toccata, shown and heard in Paramount's "Big Broadcast of 1937" or Jascha Heifetz playing in Goldwyn's "They Shall Have Music," were but incidents classed as "production features." While dance-songs taken from film scores have been a steady source of material for makers of phonograph records, many a worthwhile sequence from important background scores, has remained in manuscript and lies dormant in the fireproof film track vaults of the different studios. The literature of film scores, some only dramatically (filmically), some musically worthwhile, some meeting both requirements, is too large for more than a mere mention of titles and a full listing of these has not been attempted for practical reasons. Outstanding achievements in this field must then be abbreviated by only giving the name of the composer and title of the score, as it would lead too far to indicate for instance such facts as "Gone With the Wind" being the longest original score, "Stage Coach" one of the folkloristically most important (based on 17 American tunes), "Four Wives" containing a seven-minute tone-poem. The following list of names and titles covering the last half dozen years may, it is hoped, prove indicative:

George Antheil (Paramount) "Plainsman," "Make Way for Tomorrow," "Buccaneer" (now working at a score for "Before I Die" at Columbia).

Scott Bradley—"Peace on Earth" and "The Goldfish" and numerous cartoon scores for MGM.

Anthony Collins—(RKO) "Nurse Cavell," "Swiss Family Robinson," "Irene."

Aaron Copland — (Hal Roach) "Of Mice and Men," (Sol Lesser) "Our Town."

Adolf Deutsch — (Warners) "The Great Garrick," "Valley of the Giants," "Three Cheers for the Irish."

Richard Hageman—(Paramount) "If I Were King," "Rulers of the Sea," (Wanger) "Stage Coach," "Long Voyage Home," (Columbia) "Howards of Virginia."

Marvin Hatley — (Hal Roach) "Captain Fury" and "Topper Takes a Trip" (with Heinz Roemheld).

Werner Heyman—(MGM) "Ninotchka."

Frederick Hollander — (Paramount) "Midnight," "Invitation to Happiness," "Angel."

Werner Janssen—(Paramount) "General Died at Dawn," (Wanger) "Blockade," "House Across the Bay."

Samuel Kaylin — (Fox) "Five of a Kind," "On Their Own."

Erich Wolfgang Korngold — (Warners) "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Anthony Adverse," "Prince and the Pauper," "Robin Hood," "Juarez," "Elizabeth and Essex," "Sea Hawk."

Louis Levy — (MGM) "Goodby Mr. Chips," "Citadel."

Alfred Newman—(Goldwyn) "Wuthering Heights," "They Shall Have Music" (with Heifetz), (RKO) "Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Gunga Din."

Louis Silvers — (Fox) "Lloyds of London," "Seventh Heaven," "Young Mr. Lincoln."

Frank Skinner — (Universal) "Mad About Music," "The Sun Never Sets."

David Snell—(MGM) "The Women."

Max Steiner—(RKO) "The Informer," 'Symphony of Six Million," (Warners) "Zola," "Magic Bullet," "Dark Victory," "Old Maid," "Four Wives" (containing 7 minute tone-poem), and (Selznick) "Gone With the Wind."

Herbert Stothart—(MGM) "Of Human Hearts," "Balalaika," "Marie Antoinette," "Susan and God," "New Moon," "Firefly," "Edison the Man."

Dmitri Tiomkin — (Columbia) "Lost Horizon," (MGM) "Great Waltz," (Universal) "The Road Back."

Ernest Toch — (Paramount) "Peter Ibbetson," "Cat and the Canary," "Dr. Cyclops," "On Such a Night," "Ghost Breakers."

Edward Ward — (MGM) "My Son, My Son," "The Women,"

Franz Waxman — (MGM) "On Borrowed Time," "A Christmas Carol," "Honolulu," "Florian," (Selznick) "Rebecca."

Roy Webb — (RKO) "Love Affair," "Stage Door," "Abraham Lincoln in Illinois."

Victor Young — (Paramount) "The Light That Failed," "Gulliver's Travels," "Wells Fargo."

Fully as many names could be added for men who have collaborated on films for which they have written one or several reels of music, the total score being in instances the work of six composers. Much clever cartoon music has been written without screen or public credit being given. This will change in years to come. It will change thanks to the film music appreciation courses recommended for high schools by the National Education Association and the Music Educators National Conference. Music may not always be "heard," yet it will be felt emotionally. As a taste-forming influence, as an outlet for American composers before a public counted in millions, not in thousands, it is of an importance not to be underestimated. Cognizance of these facts has been taken by the National Federation of Music Clubs which is planning a series of film music awards for next year. Films can be strong dramatically. They will be stronger with the aid of music.

Music has charms to soothe the savage breast,
To soften rocks, or bend a knotted oak.
I've read that things inanimate have moved,
And, as with living souls, have been informed
By magic numbers and persuasive sound.
—William Congreve

Opera in America

By PITTS SANBORN

ACCORDING to the records, the first opera ever given in New York was "The Beggar's Opera." That happened in 1750, and opera there is still begging. For opera in the United States has never been guaranteed by government subsidy, as has commonly been the case on the European continent. Either the adventurous individual manager or firm of managers has gambled on making money through operatic production, or else opera has received its subsidy from a wealthy "angel" or a group of interested citizens. In spite of noteworthy exceptions, the story of operatic production in this country has largely proceeded to a running counterpoint of financial loss.

Yet, apparently, on that account it has not been any the less glamorous. The desire of the moth for the star is eternal. Flame may consume but not terrify. Though the tower be grimly dark when Childe Roland arrives, how was he to guess? It might have been turning, turning in mazes of heat and sound. If ever there has been a grand emprise, it is this impresario business. And thanks to the daring of its deeds, opera in this country stems from a long way back.

The date 1750 for a first operatic invasion is reasonable enough when we recall that opera itself crystallized only in 1600 and then consider in turn the stages of its history in Europe during the next century and a half, the make-up of the population and the several modes of life in the American colonies, and, above all, the difficulty and danger of transatlantic travel, for the first operas presented here had to be brought from overseas.

"The Beggar's Opera" arrived in the New World only twenty-two years after the original production in London. Already the "ballad opera," of which Gay's "Newgate Pastoral" was the best, if not the first, example, had become the rage in England, casting the imported Italian opera into limbo for several decades. Transported to the American colonies, the Gay creation, with its attractive ballad numbers and its sharp vein of satire, caught on well enough to encourage the importation of other ballad operas. In the course of the next seventy-five years the vogue of the species in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston gave currency to "Love in a Village," "The Duenna," "Clari, Maid of Milan," "No Song, No Supper," etc. There were even operas of American authorship, one of them rejoicing in the very indigenous name of "Tammany."

Before the end of the eighteenth century, however, Italian opera had successfully reasserted itself in London and though it was still a stranger to this country, there were already intimations that it might not remain so. Adaptations, in English, of operas from the continental countries made their appearance. For one, Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" is said to have been presented in New York in 1799 as "The Follies of a Day."

Apparently the importation of authentic opera in a foreign tongue dates from 1791 when a French company visited New Orleans, and in 1808 one Croquet opened a theatre in New Orleans for the production of opera, drama, and ballet. French was again the language of the opera, and the artists were brought chiefly from Paris. Thus was established the long tradition of French opera in New Orleans, which was interrupted by the burning of the French Opera House on December 4, 1919. The "Let there be light" of opera in the United States came, however, with the arrival of Manuel Garcia's troupe in New York early in November, 1825, and the opening of a season of Italian opera that was to last for ten months. Consequently November 29, 1825, marks the beginning of an era in our musical history, for on that evening Rossini's "Barber of Seville," not adapted and denatured in the ways of English ballad opera, but authentically performed in its original Italian, triumphed in New York's old Park Theatre.

In the course of the ensuing ten months, eight more operas were performed by the Garcia troupe, including notably Rossini's "Tancredi," "Otello," and "La Cenerentola" and Mozart's "Don Giovanni." Naturally the company was dominated by the Garcia family, and if Manuel, Sr., was a little beyond his prime, though still a great artist, his daughter Maria, the Rosina of the opening performance, was not yet eighteen. As Mme. Malibran she, of course, was destined to make for herself within the next twelve years one of the greatest names in operatic history.

The success of this ten-month season established Italian opera in New York and paved the way for its introduction into other important American cities. Philadelphia, in particular, took to it. Opera in French, of which northern cities had had a taste thanks to the readiness of the singers at New Orleans to go afield, secured its place in the picture, and in the middle forties New York had a taste of opera in German. It should not be assumed, though, that opera in the vernacular had been smothered by the Continental invasion. Thus Balfe's long popular "Bohemian Girl," in the inimitable and excruciating English of its librettist, Alfred Bunn, flew conspicuously the banner of the native tongue when introduced at the Park Theatre, New York, on November 25, 1844!

A milestone in our operatic story was the founding of the New York Academy of Music, which opened with Bellini's "Norma" on October 2, 1854, Giulia Grisi and Mario heading the cast. Here opera found a more suitable abode than in the various theatres it had previously occupied in New York, and the rise of the transatlantic steamship encouraged the foremost European singers to visit this country. It also made it easy for singers of American birth to go to Europe for training and experience. When, opening on October 22, 1883, the Metropolitan Opera House, which soon supplanted the Academy, moved New York's opera centre a good deal farther uptown, the city could afford to survey its operatic history with pride.

In the decades since the arrival of the Garcia troupe New York had not only made the acquaintance of a generous portion of the Italian and French repertories, but opera in English had been tried in real earnest and with good results, and the then debatable Wagner had taken a firm hold. "Tannhäuser" was introduced to New York (not at the Academy, but at the Stadt Theatre), in 1859, seventeen years before it was presented in London and "Lohengrin" (Stadt Theatre) in 1871, four years before London. New York also heard "Die Walküre" at the Academy as early as April 2, 1877, less than eight months after the initial "Ring" cycle at Bayreuth.

If New York may be regarded as America's focal point operatically, these decades witnessed an increasing currency for opera the country over. The radiation had got to San Francisco before 1860, and naturally Philadelphia, Boston, and Chicago, especially Philadelphia because of its early primacy, had been subsidiary focal points, thanks to longer sojourns by the companies that travelled from New York and occasionally from New Orleans. Still, the most important milestone was attained with the opening of New York's Metropolitan Opera House ("Faust" was the opera, with Italo Campanini as Faust and Christine Nilsson as Marguerite).

Even if social display had as much to do with the founding of the house as love of opera, eventually its existence came to depend not on society, which had taken another course, but on the following the operas themselves could command. The years between the historic opening of the Metropolitan and the outbreak of the World War saw one management follow another, opera in Italian yield to opera in German, and that in turn to opera in the original tongues (largely through the influence of the linguistic de Reszké brothers in the 1890's); a growing emphasis on ensemble and scenic production (a worthy effort, if not always fruitful), and a change in the popular attitude, which tended to look on opera less as a rich diversion than as a cultural need.

In the course of these years, too, Boston had for a time an opera company that gave many noteworthy performances and Oscar Hammerstein's brilliant entry into the field at his Manhattan Opera House, New York, provided for four years a formidable rival to the Metropolitan. Upon Hammerstein's selling out to the Metropolitan his tradition was carried on in Philadelphia (for a time) and Chicago. Nor should one overlook the ambitious American Opera Company, giving its performances in English, over which Theodore Thomas presided in the 1880's.

In spite of certain difficulties about artists and repertory, the established companies in New York and Chicago carried on through the World War, and in the case of the Metropolitan, when the great depression overtook the country in 1930, a long term of unprecedented operatic prosperity had resulted in a money surplus on hand that proved invaluable in the face of slump and panic. When that was exhausted came the inevitable appeal to the public for funds with which to continue, private sponsorship having fallen upon evil days. A measure of popular response, together with aid from the Juilliard Foundation, have kept the Metropolitan functioning to date. A second drive for the benefit of Metropolitan Opera was undertaken in the winter and spring of 1940.

The change in the position of opera in this country, a change whose gradual march many had long failed to recognize, has been made clearly manifest by these drives. The appeal to the public has had as its sole argument the preservation of a great cultural institution for the common good. No cynic has ventured to suggest that the Metropolitan might be perpetuated as a home of relatively harmless entertainment, let alone that it deserves a place in the sun and moon as a parade ground for bejewelled audiences! In these serious times jewels and parade are out and for entertainment we crave the spice and glamor of the night clubs. Opera, harboring no desire to compete with their species of blandishment, falls back on its artistic appeal as music and spectacle. An important element of culture, opera must never be allowed to wither and die. Rather, according to the contention of its staunchest partisans, it has become a civic requisite and must soon be a matter of civic devotion and pride.

The very prevalence of the word "civic" in every kind of operatic propaganda in this country is significant. It has figured repeatedly in the nomenclature of opera in Chicago, and an organization which flourished from 1924 to 1930, whose demise is still regretted and whose influence should not be underrated, the Philadelphia Civic Opera Company, gave the word a big impulse. This company, by the way, in receiving a grant from the city of Philadelphia, was said to furnish the first case on record in the United States of opera aided by any form of government. The spread of the civic idea operatically, whether the word itself appears or not, may be seen in the rise of an operatic establishment in San Francisco which can boast a permanent local chorus, trained the year round for the annual season in the autumn, and which makes use of the local symphony orchestra.

The civic idea also enters in one way or another into the special operatic performances that take place, and have done so for a number of years, in Philadelphia, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles, etc. Nor has it been absent from seasons or series given out of doors at Ravinia Park, near Chicago, and at the Cincinnati Zoo, as well as in St. Louis, Philadelphia (the Dell), and New York's Lewisohn Stadium. Whether or not the outcome of opera as a civic movement will be sponsorship, wholly or in part, by government of one form or another, remains to be seen. Yet for a long time there actually has been discussion of the advisability of a nationalized opera, as well as of the addition to the national cabinet of a Department of Fine Arts, which, of course, would take music under its aegis. Arguments pro and con have been earnestly advanced.

Related closely to the question of sponsorship by government is the question of language. Where opera is official, should it not be sung in the language of the country — in our case English? Advocates of opera in English maintain that opera takes root as an indigenous plant only where it is presented in the language of the people; otherwise it remains an exotic. And they point to Italy, Germany, France, Russia as countries where opera has long been a staple product because sung in the vernacular. On the other hand, many opera-lovers believe translation is treason and that every opera loses something essential when the words used are not those that the composer set. Obviously, much is to be said on both sides.

From this brief survey it is evident that operas in English has existed here from the beginning of our operatic history, though some badly informed folk suppose it to be a comparatively new thing.

Clara Louise Kellogg, a distinguished American soprano, did yeoman service for opera in English in the 1870's when she headed a company of her own. For instance, she it was who first gave Wagner's "Flying Dutchman" over here and in an English translation, which she herself had supervised with a view to making the translated text suitable and singable. Then, in the following decade, we have the example of the American Opera Company.

Moreover, in the course of the last thirty years New York's Metropolitan has not only staged a number of native American operas in English and produced Weber's "Oberon," which was composed for London to an English text, but has experimented at different times with standard European works rendered into English (for instance, Wagner's "Parsifal," "Tristan und Isolde," and "Lohengrin"). But only in the case of "The Bartered Bride" did the translated opera really catch on, and that not for very long.

Still, even those who stick stoutly to their preference for all opera in the original tongues have asked whether it would not be better to have Russian or Czech operas, for instance, which can be done in the original only by special companies, sung in houses like the Metropolitan in English rather than in German, Italian, or French, and indisputably there is logic in their question.

The experience of Colonel Henry W. Savage, who early in this century took opera in English, including even "Parsifal," all over this country, deserves study and also that of Fortune Gallo, who for nearly a quarter of a century has been giving opera far and wide in Italian, plus some French and a little English and German. And there have been other ventures worth study, such as those of the Aborn Brothers and William Wade Hinshaw (with and without the Society of American Singers) all devoted mainly to opera in English. For popular reaction has not yet demanded opera in the vernacular and supported it in an imperative way. However, there may come a turning, and the nation-wide interest in opera, which seems to be on the increase, will probably solve within a few years the problems of sponsorship and language that are now under discussion.

When I hear music I fear no danger, I am invulnerable. I see no foe, I am related to the earliest times, and to the latest.
—Thoreau.

Choral Music in America

By NOBLE CAIN

THE tempo of modern life has become such that we in this country are accustomed to phenomena, often beholding them without an expression or feeling of any sort of amazement. Phenomena have presented themselves in the fields of Industry, Science, Politics and the Arts, particularly since the turn of the century. Until that time, things were in a somewhat slow transitional stage. After that, things began to happen! It was as if seeds had been sown in fertile fields and had laid sleeping away the years and stirring within themselves the germs of life about to break forth. Then the crop began to spring up and to ripen, and what a harvest soon appeared! The so-called "horse and buggy" days were, in fact, this peaceful, lazy, germinating period of American life. Our fathers of that period were not so extremely far removed from the days and ways of their early colonial and pioneer manners and customs.

For at least two hundred years American life went along pretty much the same, except for the widening horizon, and here and there a stray, albeit important, invention, such as the steamboat and the railroad, to help that widening. Although major improvements in living were thus made possible by the advances of Science, these advances had taken place much less frequently than since 1900, when the world has been literally overwhelmed by the multiplication and fruition of ideas which were started prior to that time. In other words, the country was prepared, as a field is prepared, for the crop.

This same phenomenal development is now beginning to be felt strongly in the field of the Arts. American music is just beginning to be written. This is as it should be, since development of the Arts follows social and political fruition and often overlaps a succeeding period of social and political stagnation or abuse.

In fact it may be said, as a general inference, that development in the Arts follows, rather than coincides with, general advancement in other fields. It is as if Man attains much in the way of leisure and luxury before he has time or inclination to turn his attention to means of enjoying that leisure. On the creative side, or viewed from the standpoint of the composer, the lag is usually greater because it takes time for the elements which go into creation or recreation to seep through the mass of characteristics that have gone into the composers' make-up during the "pre-leisure" days. This is commonly called "background" of the composer. Thus, he begins to write and throw back in retrospective, so to speak, the musical forms of things inculcated into his being. Viewed in such a light, American composition of good musical works is just beginning. A certain freedom from the influences of the crazy European structures of the extremists in music is beginning to manifest itself. Things are beginning to be American, with a certain definite stamp as such, and not imitations of or followings after the exotic, using the word in the literal sense.

In this expression of Americanism in music is to be found the outpourings of American spirit on the part of the composer and of the public which uses music. In the choral field perhaps more than in any other branch of music, a great development is taking place. This is because the general public which cannot perform on individual instruments to any great extent, being engrossed in business and profession, has found that it can, without any great amount of training, take part in choral units quite satisfactorily. The human voice is an instrument which everyone possesses. It expresses the person himself. Be he ever so humble or retiring or apologetic with respect to his musical abilities, he feels quite bold when singing with a group of others like himself. He knows that to attempt any sort of solo would be out of the question; he is not prepared along those lines. But he can rest quite comfortably within a group of singers, knowing that he will not be singled out for either applause or abuse as a good or bad performer. He feels that his voice will not be heard above the general ensemble. He likes this hiding, as it were, behind the voices of the whole mass of singers. Here he can open his mouth more or less in safety and throw his whole soul into the sounding of tones that are borne on the wings of good texts, be they serious or light. He needs no instrument of reeds and valves to play with. This would be actually a secondary manner of expressing his feelings. The instrument which he uses is himself! It is primary and direct.

Having discovered this personal "employment" in choral music the average man or woman is turning it into enjoyment. By increasing thousands they are singing in choirs, glee clubs, community choruses. Notably in the schools has a great change come about. A few years ago the average high school was content with a "glee club" which gave an annual operetta of the Gilbert and Sullivan type or sang a few popular ditties for the amusement of the student body in assemblies. The music which was used was limited to many of the more or less dressed up tunes from light operas, folk songs, chanteys, and other similar types. Every school song book contained just such material.

Now we have in even the smallest rural districts, not as an exception, but as a general rule, choruses and choirs, mixed, boys, girls, quartets, ensembles, singing the music of the masters and demanding more and more the music from their own American composers who are learning how to write for them and to furnish them material having in it the tang of this particular American life. School song books are still in use for class work, but the general trend is toward standard chorus material in sheet music form which the members of the group may have as their own personal property and keep as an addition to the personal library. Pride in accomplishment of singing such material is a strong factor in determining the advancement that is taking place.

By the thousands, schools, high schools and colleges, are staging great music festivals at which come together choral groups of staggering proportions to blend voices in the massed singing of songs which they have prepared in advance of the occasion. Parents of the older generation look and listen. They are amazed at what the youngsters are doing. Many decide that they themselves will join such an organization if they can locate one. Again, those students who graduate are pouring into the social body and looking for a place to continue the work which they have done in the schools. Thus, and as a result of these activities, is set up a demand for community choirs, choruses, and associated singing groups.

Now, in practically every city and in even the smaller villages may be found a choral group, banded together to sing material often remembered from recent schools days. In the rural districts many of the State Universities have gone into the field and enrolled choruses of farmers and their wives who meet once per week to sing their songs, later coming together at some central point under good direction, to sing en masse and to know the spiritual stimulation which comes to them by thus joining with hundreds of others in lifting up the heart in song. This rural music movement is gaining ground at an astonishing rate of speed. County and State music festivals of adults, separate and aside from the school festivals, are being held in every State. Political leaders are realizing the potential power inherent in such group meetings and are beginning to support such projects with good American cash. The argument seems to be that we have built up material advantages without quibble. Our parks are an admitted accessory to good social organization. Why not have music to go with those parks? No sooner said than done—and we are seeing recreation and amusement money being spent for building up the spiritual and artistic advantages in addition to the material. This element of American life is one of the most encouraging aspects of the prospects for a good future. No wars, revolutions, and other social troubles can exist for long when the people are singing together!

Thus choral music is coming into its own. "I hear America singing" wrote Walt Whitman. His dreams are becoming realities. A phenomenon is here! We see it and perhaps do not recognize it. A country in which increasing thousands and even millions sing.

Thus America is becoming a singing nation, not as soloists, but as individual parts of a great democratic mass. The old days are over. A new world is calling. The singing millions are a powerful influence for the bringing of "good will toward men and peace on earth."

Symphony Orchestras in America

By LINTON MARTIN

TODAY the symphony seasons of the great orchestras in America have become big business as well as a most impressive and highly perfected form of instrumental musical expression, representing a cultural and artistic asset of incalculable value. According to an Associated Press survey, it has been estimated that the sixteen principal symphony orchestras of the country now spend a total of nearly $5,000,000 annually. This amount does not include the budgets of numerous good orchestras of secondary rank, functioning in virtually every city in the United States having a population of 50,000 or more.

Yet the striking advance in the number and quality of symphony orchestras, which is also the story of the personalities and powers of conductors concerned, is really relatively recent. Some of them that have attained assured place came into existence after the turn of the century, though most of these had predecessors of one sort or another in the humble and uncertain beginnings of our orchestral history. Even the Philharmonic Symphony Society of New York, the oldest actual symphony orchestra in America, and the third oldest in the world, was founded in 1842, as a result of the enterprise and determination of Ureli C. Hill, and one of the three conductors who functioned at the first concert in Apollo Hall on Dec. 7, 1842. His co-conductors on that historic occasion were H. C. Timm and D. Etienne, and the orchestra comprised 52 members.

Despite the flourishing condition of our symphony orchestras at the present, and their almost mushroom growth in cities of less than the first class, enjoyment and understanding of the rich orchestral repertoire only came as the result of a laborious battle on the part of pioneers on the podium, who were obliged to introduce high standards almost by stealth. One of the most important, if not the most important of these pioneers, was Theodore Thomas, whose Coast-to-Coast tours with his orchestra during the decade from 1869-78 exerted a wide influence upon the formation of good taste. But even then, Thomas had to smuggle single movements of standard symphonies and classical overtures on his program between light dances and purely popular numbers, and his introduction of new works was often the signal for angry and audible opposition. Yet Thomas doggedly made headway, and it was undoubtedly he who played a prominent part in making Wagner, Brahms, Berlioz and Liszt popular in various cities before he became permanently identified with Chicago in his symphonic ministrations.

The real foundational work for the orchestras of today, however, may be found in the earlier years of the Nineteenth Century. The Musical Fund Society of Philadelphia, of which the famous Philadelphia Orchestra is a lineal descendant, was started in 1820. There are records of a Philharmonic Society of Boston as early as 1799, begun in a small and obscure way by one Gottlieb Graupner, but which blossomed more ambitiously under his direction in 1810 and continued until 1824, when its personnel had reached the impressive total of sixteen musicians. Tours of the Germania Orchestra from 1848 to 1854, as well as visits of Joseph Gung'l in 1849, and the French conductor, Louis Antoine Jullien, and his orchestra in 1853, also helped to stimulate orchestral interest.

Whether or not James Gibbons Huneker was a bit extravagant in declaring, years ago, that the history of music in America is the history of the New York Philharmonic, it is indisputable that the orchestra, as the dean among all surviving symphonic bands, has a record of notable activities and achievements at its various concerts and under a long line of conductors, even though its early years were devoid of artistic and financial success. At that first concert on Dec. 7, 1842, U. C. Hill conducted the Beethoven Fifth Symphony, Timm wielded the baton for an Overture in D, by Kalliwoda, Etienne directed for Weber's "Oberon" Overture. From a nucleus of 52 players, the orchestra had grown to 67 in 1854, and 99 in 1867, just a few under its present size. Early conductors of the Philharmonic, besides those named, included W. Alpers, G. Loder, L. Wiegers, A. Boucher, Theodore Eisfeld and Carl Bergmann. When Bergmann resigned, defeated, in 1876, he was succeeded by Theodore Thomas, and Adolf Neuendorff replaced him the following year. Thomas returned in 1879 and from then until 1891, when he went to Chicago, developed the Philharmonic into a notable symphonic organization.

Conductors that followed were: Anton Seidl, 1892-98; Emil Paur, 1898-1902; Walter Damrosch, 1902-03. Guest conductors who appeared during the next three seasons were Edouard Colonne, Gustav Kogel, Henry J. Wood, Victor Herbert, Felix Weingartner, Wassily Safonoff, Richard Strauss, Karl Panzer, Max Fiedler, Ernst Kunwald and Fritz Steinbach. Regular conductors were resumed in 1906 with Safonoff until 1909; Gustav Mahler, 1909-11; Josef Stransky, 1911-23 (when it slumped artistically). But, after the absorption of Artur Bodanzky's National Symphony in 1922, he shared the podium with Stransky and Mengelberg, the latter remaining as conductor until 1930. During this period, conductors who appeared as guests or regular associates were Willem van Hoogstraten, Igor Stravinsky, Wilhelm Furtwangler and Arturo Toscanini, who first appeared as guest in the season of 1926-27. Then came Mengelberg, Toscanini, Sir Thomas Beecham and Bernardino Molinari, 1927-28; Toscanini, Mengelberg, and, as guests, Honegger, Krauss, Reiner and Gabrilowitch, 1928-29. Toscanini reigned as chief conductor from 1927 to 1936, other guests during that time being Hans Lange, Bruno Walter, Issay Dobrowen, Beecham, Respighi, Golschmann, Rodzinski, Chavez, Enesco. In 1937 John Barbirolli was appointed chief conductor, with Rodzinski, Chavez, Enesco, Stravinsky appearing as guests or associates. Besides the National Symphony, the Philharmonic has absorbed the City Symphony, American Orchestral Society, and the New York Symphony.

When Dr. Leopold Damrosch founded the New York Symphony Society in competition with the Philharmonic under Thomas, a spirited rivalry developed. Upon his death in 1885, he was succeeded by his son, Walter, who remained in charge until the merger with the Philharmonic in 1928. The orchestra was reorganized in 1903 by Harry Harkness Flagler, who subsequently became its sole guarantor, and in 1920 personally financed a European tour—the first ever made by an American orchestra. Guest conductors have been Weingartner, Rubinstein, Tchaikovsky, Paderewski, Saint-Saens, Rachmaninoff, Vincent D'Indy, Fritz Busch, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Maurice Ravel, Enrique Arbos, Albert Coates, Bruno Walter, Golschmann, Goossens, Klemperer.

The justly celebrated Boston Symphony Orchestra, which today has resumed a pre-eminent position as a great virtuoso band under the direction of Serge Koussevitzky, was founded in 1881 through the generosity of Colonel Henry Lee Higginson, a Boston banker and art patron. With George Henschel as its first conductor, and the personnel consisting of 60 players, the orchestra gave its first concert on October 22, 1881. Henschel continued until 1884, when he was succeeded by Wilhelm Gericke in 1884, who remained until 1889. From that year until 1893, the orchestra blazed with unprecedented brilliance under the virtuoso and compelling genius of Artur Nikisch, one of the first of the so-called "prima donna" school of conductors, and one of the first to conduct without score. Emil Paur followed him, 1893-98, and Gericke returned, 1898-1906. Karl Muck led for one season, then came Max Fiedler, 1908-12. With the return of Muck, from 1912 until he was arrested as an "enemy alien" in the spring of 1918, the orchestra achieved an impressive prestige and a legendary lustre which disintegrated in the years that followed, until it was restored from the time Koussevitzky was appointed in 1924, since which time he has carried the chief burden of each season. Intervening conductors were Henri Rabaud, one season; Pierre Monteux, five; and varied guests.

The Philadelphia Orchestra, which reached Olympian heights under the dynamic direction of Leopold Stokowski, was founded in 1900 with Fritz Scheel as first conductor. In that first season, thanks to the efforts of Dr. Edward I. Keffer and Mrs. Alexander Cassatt, 80 musicians, largely recruited by Scheel from an outdoor group he had conducted at an amusement park, gave two concerts. As the result of a guarantee fund sponsored by the Musical Fund Society, the first concert was given on Nov. 16, 1900, and on May 17, 1901, the Philadelphia Orchestra Association was formed with Alexander van Renssaeler as first president. Scheel conducted the first six seasons, until shortly before his death on March 13, 1907, following a mental ailment, and in that time Felix Weingartner and Richard Strauss appeared as guests. Carl Pohlig was conductor 1907-12, when he was succeeded by Leopold Stokowski. In the years that followed Stokowski made exceptional history, bringing the orchestra to a high peak of perfection and introducing many novelties and innovations, the latest being a sensational and drastic reseating of the orchestra, with the brasses and woodwinds at the front, and the strings at the rear, in the season 1939-40. In recent seasons Stokowski has largely withdrawn, appearing for only a few weeks, the most of the concerts have been conducted by Eugene Ormandy, who became chief resident conductor in 1936, following intermittent appearances earlier. Guest conductors have included Fritz Reiner, Pierre Monteux, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Georges Enesco, Arturo Toscanini, Bernardino Molinari, Issay Dobrowen, Sergei Rachmaninoff, Igor Stravinsky, Carlos Chavez, Ottorino Respighi, Ernest Schelling. Saul Caston, first trumpet player, is associate conductor. In 1918 Edward Bok sponsored and was chief contributor, as "The Unknown Donor," to a Million Dollar Endowment Fund.

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra was founded in 1891 by Theodore Thomas. A guarantee fund of $50,000 was raised for this purpose. It was originally called the Chicago Orchestra, but after fifteen years was renamed the Theodore Thomas Orchestra. In 1912 the present name was adopted. When Thomas died on Jan. 4, 1905, he was succeeded by Frederick Stock, who had been first viola player and was assistant conductor on tour since 1899. Stock has the longest record among conductors still active, and the Chicago Symphony is the third oldest orchestra in the country.

Other leading American orchestras, with, respectively, the year they were founded or organized on their present basis, and the original and current conductors, include: Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, 1895, Frank Van der Stucken, Eugene Goossens; San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, 1911, Henry Hadley, Pierre Monteux; Cleveland Orchestra, 1918, Nikolai Sokoloff, Artur Rodzinski; Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, 1903, Emil Oberhoffer, Dimitri Mitropoulos; St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, 1907, Max Zach, Vladimir Golschmann; Detroit Symphony Orchestra, 1914, Weston Gales, Franco Ghione with Victor Kolar; Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, 1919, Walter Henry Rothwell, Otto Klemperer; Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, 1923, Albert Coates with Eugene Goossens, Jose Iturbi; Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, 1895, Frederic Archer, Fritz Reiner; Kansas City Philharmonic, 1933, Karl Kreuger; Washington, D. C., The National Symphony Orchestra, 1931, Hans Kindler; Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, 1930, Ferdinand Schaefer, Fabian Sevitzky; Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, 1916, Gustave Strube, Werner Janssen; Portland Symphony Orchestra, 1899, Charles L. Dierke with David C. Rosenbrook, Willem van Hoogstraten upon temporary suspension in 1938; Seattle Symphony, 1906, Michael Kegrize, Nikolai Sokoloff. The National Broadcasting Symphony Orchestra was started in 1937 by the Radio Corporation of America, especially for radio concerts under the direction of Arturo Toscanini, and has continued since then on a full seasonal basis of Saturday night concerts with various associate conductors as well.

Besides the audiences that attend concerts of the above orchestras, it is estimated that the Sunday afternoon broadcasts of New York Philharmonic concerts, and the NBC broadcasts are heard by more than 10,000,000 listeners for each series.

Bands in the United States

By PETER BUYS

HISTORY of the early days of our Republic reveals little regarding the so-called "windband." Considering general conditions of the country at that time it is safe to assume that there was little, if any serious effort put forth along that line. True, we find in the early military records that "at a great banquet given by George Washington at Fort Clinton on May 31, 1782, military music was played." Also during recruiting days in 1798 the band of the U. S. Marines was accorded an enthusiastic reception while playing near the City of Washington. However, when we find the records further revealing that the bands of the Army at that time consisted of fifers and drummers, we must conclude that the above mentioned events refer to entertainment provided by what we, today, consider drum-and-fife corps.

A more definite musical organization is recorded in 1800. On August 21 of that year the U. S. Marine Band played a concert at the Marine Camp, which was located close to Washington. The personnel of the band consisted at that time of 2 oboes, 2 clarinets, 2 French horns, a bassoon and a drum.

The archives of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., record in all seriousness that "on this day one Herman Bruno was enlisted. He shall be paid nine dollars per month provided he study the bass drum. He is to receive ten dollars per month upon the completion of his course, and one dollar additional when he should be called upon to play any other instrument."

The above gives us a fair idea of the status of the military bands at the beginning of the 19th century, and the military bands were the only bands in the country as far as the records reveal.

In 1821 there was established by Act of Congress, a "band of music" at the West Point Military Academy which was to function as a separate unit. The musicians to be regularly enlisted in the U. S. Army.

This pioneer musical work done by the military had a beneficial effect upon future appreciation of band music by the people, especially since the bands were not only employed for military functions, but played concerts for the entertainment of the troops as well as the civilian population.

As bandsmen left the service to return to civilian occupations in their respective communities, they brought with them a keen interest in band music. This, together with large increases in emigration from European countries, which undoubtedly brought musicians as well as others, had a great deal to do with the early attempts to organize "windbands" (a misnomer if there ever was one). These attempts resulted in bands, good, bad and indifferent, but at any rate there was a decided increase in public interest in band music.

When Patrick S. Gilmore, in 1859 started his now famous tours through the United States with a band of really competent musicians, the country was somewhat prepared to listen to serious music, well performed in the concert hall. This appears to have been the beginning of a wave of enthusiasm for band-music in the United States, and when the ingenuous and scholarly John Philip Sousa took up where "Pat" Gilmore left off, the general public was ready to reward the beloved John Philip with general approval and support such as have never been experienced by any musician in this country or elsewhere.

This public enthusiasm resulted in the organization of bands in many communities all over the United States. Great industrial and commercial concerns found it wise to maintain musical organizations which frequently played for their large working forces. Enthusiastic public interest encouraged municipalities to give financial support to bands which performed for the enjoyment and edification of the population.

This stimulus had a very beneficial effect upon the manufacturing of band instruments in this country, which was first undertaken on a commercial basis about 1860. Many improvements on the instruments provided further encouragement for the performer, and the band instrument industry now enjoys a most enviable record for innovations, inventions, and general progress on musical instruments, developed through these many years.

In 1874, two years after the firm of Carl Fischer, Inc., was established, they undertook the publication of band music. This appears to be the first time that printed music was issued by an American firm in the customary and accepted manner. Before this time most of the music used by the band was in manuscript. Printed music for a few band instruments appeared as early as 1810, but all the parts were then printed in the one score.

The military kept step with the developments in bands and band music. In fact upon many occasions the services set the pace for the whole band movement. Came 1917, and the entrance of the U. S. in the World War. There were, of course, great musical activities by the armed forces and many bands were organized for the duration of the war. As the war ended most of the military bandsmen returned to their respective communities with a better understanding of, and more interest in bands. This would have meant a great step forward under normal conditions, but unfortunately conditions soon became abnormal. The aftermath of the war brought the well-known and lamented depression. Civilian bands, especially the industrial and commercially supported organizations, went by the board in great numbers. These bands were dealt a stunning blow and they really have not entirely recovered from the shock.

At this time the regular Army established its fine U. S. Army Band and the Navy a great organization of seventy-five men as well, known as the U. S. Navy Band. Both are located in Washington where also the famous Marine Band is stationed.

The civilian bands have staged a remarkable come-back during the last decade and in time they will undoubtedly regain all, and more, than they have lost. However, their programs must be of a much higher calibre, musically, than before the World War. The reason for this can be found in the general improvement in the musical "taste" of our people, which is largely due to the perfection of mechanical sound-producing innovations, with which the modern band must be able to compete successfully in intonation, balance and general musical interpretation.

Following the War another enterprise in the band field — the school band — made its appearance. While some efforts had been made here and there before, the school band movement did not hit its stride until about 1919, and what strides they have turned out to be. State after state has inaugurated the study of instrumental music in its public schools. There is only a small number of states in the union where instrumental music is not taught on the same basis as the major subjects. Educators have seen the light and are convinced that, whatever the cost of instrumental instruction, the money is well spent.

The growth of this magnificent movement is little short of phenomenal. From a modest beginning twenty years or so ago, this work has grown so enormously that this year there are in the public schools and colleges of the United States more than fifty thousand bands where some 2,500,000 youngsters are initiated into the fine art of performing on musical instruments, under capable instructors. This great work is being done principally for the cultural and ethical effects it has on young America. Sincere efforts are being made constantly to discourage the student from entering the musical profession which is already much overcrowded.

Several Bandmasters' Associations are doing their full share in promoting good band music in the United States. The American Bandmasters' Association, an organization of nationally known band leaders, has, during the eleven years of its existence, left a strong and beneficent impression upon musical America. It inaugurated a standard instrumentation for the concert band which has proven to be a milestone in the history of the modern band. There is also the National School Band Association which consists largely of music educators of the public schools and colleges. Many states have their own Bandmasters' Associations, some of which have done remarkable work for the promotion of better bands and band music.

To sum it all up, since the days of George Washington, the band, which is by far the youngest of the musical ensembles, has made almost unbelievable strides. This is quite evident when one hears some of the excellent organizations present original band compositions and transcriptions of symphonic proportion and construction. There are today very few compositions by the masters that cannot be performed by the many good bands in an entirely satisfactory manner.

At present there are five outstanding bands of about seventy-five men each employed by the three services of the United States, playing not only for the military functions but performing excellent concerts of the best of music for the edification and entertainment of the American public. Some of these organizations have a personnel versatile enough to form a complete and competent symphony orchestra. In addition to this there are 343 more bands in the three branches of the United States service.

Municipally supported bands have staged a splendid come-back and many are again functioning over all the states. According to a survey made a few years ago, it was found that at that time at least 700 civilian bands were operating with financial support of their respective municipalities and that over one million dollars was spent annually for this form of entertainment. These figures have increased considerably since the survey was made.

We have also a few fine bands supported by musically minded philanthropists of which the Goldman Band of New York City is a shining example. Many communities can again boast of really good bands which are not so much interested in the financial returns for their members as in the pleasant occupation of making music for fun.

Last but not least there is the school band movement, gigantic in size and magnificent in purpose, making young America music-minded, which is another way of saying clean-minded.

In band music we are again doing things on a large scale. This is probably because we are a large country and think in large terms. A great deal of time is given to musical enterprise and over a billion dollars is being spent for it annually according to reports of the music industry. There is, however, no question as to whether the money is well spent if we derive a measure of happiness and cultural benefit from it, and this appears to be unquestionably true.

It is then quite evident that the band movement has kept step with improvements made by other musical ensembles in the United States. The progress of the band in general is assuming a very lively pace, due in no small measure to the public-school band activities. A "Musical America" does not appear to be an idle dream any longer.

Church Music in America

By
REV. OSCAR A. RAUSCHELBACH

LET us go back to the Puritans. Everything was short and snappy with them. For instance, the title of their hymn book was "The Booke of Psalms collected into English Metre by Thomas Sternhold, John Hopkins and Others Conferred with the Hebrew; with apt notes to sing them withall; set forth and allowed to be sung in all churches of the People Together, before and after Morning and Evening Prayer; as also before and after Sermon, and moreover in Private Houses for their godly Solace and Comfort, laying apart all ungodly Songs and Ballads, which tend only to the Nourishment of Vice and Corrupting of Youth."

And the New England Sunday Services! What endurance these first American church attendants had. A blast on a conch shell or trumpet called them to the church at nine o'clock. (Sometimes drums were used or a flag was displayed.) In the barren unheated building they would sit erect on hard, straight-backed benches. The deacon stood in front of the congregation and drew attention by a rap of his knuckles. Whatever tone he would sing set the pitch for the psalm of the day (oftimes too high or too low, which frequently resulted in false starts). Just as often as not the melody he would choose for this psalm was most inappropriate. The custom of taking the psalm from the book in rotation usually resulted in the psalm having no relation, whatsoever, to the subject of the sermon. Even when it did fit the sermon, a peculiar method of "deaconing" brought about odd results. The deacon sang as much of a line as he pleased, frequently breaking in the middle of a sentence. The congregation repeated exactly what he sang. He might "deacon" out the ending of one line and the beginning of the following, as for instance, "The Lord is God. He is not"—the congregation enthusiastically repeating the same sentiment, not realizing what heresy they were proclaiming. Contradictions of this kind happened regularly, we are told by commentators of that time.

Since the deacon was selected not for his common sense, theological or musical knowledge, but more often for his lung power, we can easily understand this. But why criticize the poor deacon when we see what "stiff" hymns he had to work with? In the "Bay Psalm Book," published in 1640 (by the way, the first book of any kind to be printed in the new world) we find among others this hymn known today as "Beside The Waters of Babylon." The Puritans would sing this according to the tune of Old Hundred: "The rivers on of Babilon, There when wee did sit downe, Yea, even then we mourned when, We remembered Sion." Another hymn (based on the 23rd psalm) read: "The Lord to mee a shepherd is, Want therefore shall not I, He in the folds of tender grasse, Both cause mee downe to lie. To waters calm mee gently leads, Restore my soul doth hee, . . . etc."

However stilted as the words of these hymns were, they were beautiful compared to the vocal renditions. We are told that frequently members of the congregation stuffed cotton in their ears during this singing until the beginning of the sermon. This 1640 edition of the "Bay Psalm Book" had no notes. In 1647 a new edition of this book was printed. This had crude staffs a full line at a time; but there were no measure divisions to guide the congregation. Besides, most of the church elders opposed singing from this book because "it was not divinely inspired." Many a year passed before it was generally adopted. But, nevertheless, these Puritans deserve much credit. They, at least, did sing. In the churches they had left in Europe, all congregational singing was frowned upon; true Christians "made melody only in their hearts."

During the next 60 years we could expect great strides in church singing. In 1712, the Reverend John Tufts published "A Very Plain Easy Introduction To The Whole Art Of Singing Psalm Tunes," containing 37 tunes. He wrote the names of the notes instead of the notes themselves on the corresponding lines of the staff. The Reverend Thomas Walter published the first music written with lines to mark off the measures. In 1723, this appeared in the New England Chronicle: "Truly, I have a great jealousy that, if once we begin to sing by note, the next thing will be to pray by rule; and then comes Popery." The Reverend Thomas Symmes lists many objections to singing "by note." Just a few:—"Note singing is said to be a contrivance to get money" (the root of all evil), or, "They're a company of Young Upstarts that fall in with this way and set it forward, and some of them are lewd and loose persons." Another, 'Note singing is a needless way, since our good Fathers that were strangers to it are got to Heaven without it." And, 'It gives disturbance, roils and exasperates men's spirits; grieves sundry good people and causes them to behave themselves indecently"; and, "The names given to the notes are baudy and blasphemous."

James Lyon hoped that his "Urania" (1761) would give stimulus to the development of American church music. Josiah Flagg was of help with a hymn book in 1770, but the real champion of American church music came upon the scene at this time. William Billings (1746-1800) gave the appearance of anything but a champion. A tanner by profession, he was crippled in more than one way: blind in one eye, lame in one leg, one arm withered. This disfigured dwarf, possessed by tremendous enthusiasm for church music, was the founder and director of the Stoughton Singing Society. He published among many other books "The New England Psalm Singer." In his modest way he describes this book as follows: "My New England Psalm Singer has more than twenty times the power of the old slow hymn tunes; each part straining for mastery and victory, the audience entertained and delighted; their minds surprisingly agitated and extremely fluctuated, sometimes declaring for one part, sometimes for another." But the healthy common sense of this untaught composer succeeded, where much better musicians had failed. For instance, he dared oppose the seemingly unimpeachable custom of "deaconing" with the statement: "'Tis insulting to have the lines read in this way (deaconing), for it is practically saying, 'We men of letters, you ignorant creatures.'" His "Fuguing tunes" were more masterful than those of the previous composers; but of rules of harmony, Billings knew next to nothing. Just like quantity made up for quality in the "deaconing," so Billings made up in enthusiasm what he lacked in knowledge.

Billings also deserves credit for popularizing, to a certain degree, public sacred concerts. The first concert was performed in the New World in 1731. That this concert was not a welcome success can be seen from the fact that the God-fearing citizens protested against the repetition of such performances as "tending to discourage industry and frugality, and greatly increasing impiety." Just as vocal music had a hard struggle for many years, so instrumental music in church service was anything but welcome. One of the Rev. Thomas Symmes' objections had been: "Note reading is introductive of instrumental musick." When a "sacrilegious foreigner" smuggled his 'cello into the choir loft and played a soft obbligato, the Elders said, "Satan came also amongst us with this fiddle as big as a hog's trough." Instruments of all kinds were prohibited in church services. However, Thomas Brattle in 1713 presented an organ to the Brattle Square Church in Boston. The "righteous pillars" of the church vehemently refused this "devilish instrument." The poor homeless instrument made several vain attempts to get a roof over its head. Finally, some good-hearted soul at the Queen's Chapel accepted it, but he actually had to leave it in the storeroom for seven months before the storm calmed down and the congregation assented to its installation. Not until 1790 did the Brattle Church accept an organ. Many more very interesting incidents in this long conflict in American church music between the new and the old could be related, but on to the "now" of church music.

Contrast church music as above depicted to the church music of today. To be sure, Utopia has arrived as little in the realm of church music as it has in either concert or opera. Nevertheless, there are but a few churches in the United States which are devoid of a choir and an organ, and in all metropolitan centers, at least, the dignity of the service is emphasized in liturgical music, which deepens the spirituality of worship. How much qualitative musical development can be found in the churches is revealed by the well-known St. Olaf Lutheran Choir of Northfield, Minnesota, under the direction of Dr. F. Melius Christiansen and the Westminster Choir, directed by John Finley Williamson.

An interesting phase in modern choral music has been the growth of large a cappella choirs. An excellent example of a lay a cappella group is the Chicago A Cappella Choir conducted by Noble Cain.

Composition has not been neglected. The a cappella movement has brought about much richer and fuller mechanics, since true a cappella music should be at least 8 to 12 parts. With this movement, a literature has been created in direct connection with the immortal master works of the 15th and 16th centuries when the great chapel masters and choir singers in the Flemish country and in Italy wrote the magnificent motets and masses. Although the names of Josquin, Palestrina and William Byrd had disappeared completely from cathedrals and temples for decades and centuries, there is many a congregation today which listens in pious devotion to the music created in a time in which composing secular music was an unknown or cursed activity.

Look into grandmother's cabinet and compare her hymnal with the one that you use and see how much more carefully the musicians have selected from the vast storehouse of sacred melodies. There is no longer one-sided emphasis upon the sentimental — harmonizations are more original and obey better standards of musicianship, and in regard to performance, dynamic nuances are observed with greater subtlety and accuracy.

There is no question that the present situation of church music represents a departure from rigid conventionalism of the past and that the American church music is on its way to become a field of its own, tending toward new ideas. The fact that public school music has made such tremendous strides in the last 10 or 15 years also gives us a more roseate prospect for the church music of the future, since the school children with more knowledge of music will be the material of which church musical organizations will be composed.

Many auxiliary sources have helped this evolution of church music, such as the spiritual, the revival hymn, and the foot-tickling gospel hymn—an evolution which must make us hopeful. Such an improvement of church music serves three-fold interests. In the first place, it deepens the worship of the 20th century man, (2) it heightens the standards of music and lifts sacred singing and music to the level of other branches of music, and (3) it creates new opportunities for the composer.

The church, in addition to the school, is the place from where new music should emanate, for it is here that the composer has a chance to reach a great multitude.

Popular Music in America

By PAUL EDUARD MILLER

THE production of jazz music in America is "Big Business." As a financial enterprise involving music, its success is without parallel. As entertainment for the masses, its magic is indisputable. As a form of art, its boasts are in vain.

Millions of people spending millions of dollars; thousands of jazz bands playing tens of thousands of tunes; millions of shuffling feet and millions of applauding hands all beating to the never-ending rhythm of jazz—lay them end to end and they form a colossal dollar sign representing one of the most lucrative industries in America.

Since 1923 radio networks have paid to the American Society of Composers, Artists and Publishers a combined total of twenty-six millions of dollars for the privilege of broadcasting popular music. From $9,750 in 1923, the yearly figure increased to $4,140,000 in 1939. It is not unusual for ranking bandleaders to gross a quarter million dollars a year.

In his non-professional moments, almost any successful bandleader will frankly admit that the important aspects of jazz are mercenary rather than musical. The top of the ladder gleams with shining gold and richly-lined pockets. That honest musical achievement may prove a real handicap enroute to the top is demonstrated by the fact that there are jazz artists—even famous ones—living on a hand-to-mouth basis. The farseeing musician, like the society surgeon, is usually all too willing to forego the thrill of research and creative endeavor in order to provide himself with blessings designed to enrich the external man, and it is not at all surprising to find that many a musician is a better businessman than he is a horn-player and proud of it.

Those who are members of the great jazz bands of today receive by way of remuneration between one hundred and five hundred dollars per week. In spite of these attractive salaries, most popular orchestras suffer from constant changes in personnel. This is due partly to the particular organization's vogue with the public, and partly to the temptation to climb to the top as expeditiously as possible. Musicians move with the times and cast their lot where the economics—and, to a lesser degree, the atmosphere—are best.

The general notion that nobody knows what the public wants is considerably on the side of error. The history of popular music has proved that many bandleaders, singers and entertainers have a startlingly shrewd conception of what the public wants. Paul Whiteman, who just retired after twenty-five years as a bandleader, is a good example. Ted Lewis, Fred Waring, Guy Lombardo, Wayne King, Tommy Dorsey, Ray Noble, Benny Goodman, and Glenn Miller are others. These men soon discovered that the quality of the music had no direct relation to the applause and monetary approval of the great mass of the people.

The radio, like the kitchen clock, accompanies man in his actions with a monotony that has become so regular as to be unnoticed, and the number of things engaged in by the average American while being variously serenaded by the latest popular tunes, is truly astonishing. With comparative ease he can read the papers, argue with his wife, write letters to his mother in Baraboo, play contract, guzzle beer, discuss the political scene, dress for church, shave his beard, criticize his offspring; his wife can sew for bazaars, order the groceries, argue with salesmen, bake blueberry pies, read a fashion magazine, or entertain the Watertown Attic Angels with coffee and cake; his daughter can take a bubble bath, turn up a hem, give herself a mud pack, practice her shorthand lessons, engage in a courtship, and even consent to be married—all against a background of ceaseless 4/4 tempo steadily emanating from the faithful box filled with magical tubes.

The main function of jazz, then, is to entertain — directly or unobtrusively. But over and above its commercial and entertainment aspects, jazz has developed the performance standards of all popular music. It has contributed much to raising the levels by which performance is judged.

Practically all the name bands today are highly competent, well-rehearsed groups. The best of them have attained a high degree of proficiency with regard to instrumental techniques. Even symphony musicians have marveled at the virtuosity found in the recorded versions of, for example, Art Shaw's Streamline, Harry James' Flight of the Bumble Bee, Sidney Bechet's Summertime and Dear Old Southland, Art Tatum's Elegy, Benny Goodman's Sing Sing Sing, Juan Tizol's Pyramid, and Coleman Hawkin's Heartbreak Blues. Examples of ensemble virtuosity are to be found in many records by Duke Ellington, Raymond Scott, Ray Noble, Jimmie Lunceford, and Hal Kemp.

The sheer brilliance of such performances must inevitably have left its mark on critical standards of judgment. Slow as most audiences are to detect flaws in technique, I think that it safely can be said that no band which performed incompetently could long hold the public favor.

Wayne King may be ridiculed by the hot fan, but there is no gainsaying the fact that he plays waltzes prettily and gracefully. Guy Lombardo's clichés and his brother Carmen's tremulous vocalizing may not strike the fancy of a music lover who likes Brahms' First, but there is no denying that the Lombardo brothers have acquired competency of a high order in their particular endeavors. Comments of a similar nature might be made about Kay Kyser, Orrin Tucker, Freddy Martin, Glenn Miller, Dick Jurgens, and many, many others.

Whatever the popular band leader has striven to do, he has done well. For this the public pays handsomely, and can hardly be laid to the leader's discredit that, once having discovered a formula that clicks with the public, he continues to use it for financial gain.

On the creative side, jazz can make few claims. That serious composers have been influenced by jazz rhythms is now axiomatic. There can be no doubt that the fresh spirit of the jazz of the 1920's gave such composers a novel springboard from which they leaped to fresher classical waters. By now, however, the influence of jazz has worn itself out. This leaves it with but one artistic accomplishment—the kind of music that is known to the connoisseur as hot jazz. How does hot jazz differ from other types of jazz? Principally through the freer and more frequent use of tempo rubato, and in the unshackled spirit in which this tempo is interpreted. Secondarily, it differs in its fiercer and more intense valuation of the polyrhythms of both the section and solo parts of the orchestra. A third difference may be detected in its more radical use of dissonances and polytonal harmonies.

Unfortunately, very little good hot jazz has been or is being written and played. The obstructions which bar the way to a better quality of hot jazz consist, briefly, of a need for (1) a more honest artistic idealism; (2) a recognition of the necessity for more knowledge and discipline; (3) a consciousness of the broad outlines of musical form and design; and (4) imaginative originality of a genuinely creative nature.

From a technical point of view, feeling, rhythm, emotional expression are merely the counterparts of a greater, more important concept—the desire, the necessity, for the composer of hot jazz to express himself with clarity and intelligibility. Since intelligibility depends mainly on principles of structure, it becomes evident that the design or pattern of a musical composition is of prime importance. It is the form, the design, the pattern of the music—be it hot or classical—which enables its listeners to grasp its content, its meaning. To put it another way, what the classical artist learned centuries ago—that great music is a subtle mingling of mastery of design and technique of expression—this the hot jazz composers have not yet fully realized.

The most significant and interesting trends in hot jazz have been developed by men such as Duke Ellington, Raymond Scott, Fabian Andre, Alec Wilder, Alan Shulman, Zilner Randolph and Morton Gould. In their hands, and in the hands of other jazz composers of the same artistic standards, lies the future development of qualitative hot jazz.

Military Music In America

By WILLIAM CARTER WHITE

THE first American military band, of which records are available, was established in Boston in 1773 by Josiah Flagg (1738-1794), a composer, performer, and concert manager. The band was augmented by vocalists and the entire ensemble consisted of fifty members. Mr. Flagg's efforts were not appreciated, however, because all forms of instrumental music, even as an accompaniment to the most orthodox tunes, was at that time looked upon with disfavor by the general public, the singing of hymns and psalms in the churches being the only music accepted in a tolerant spirit.

This prejudice can be better appreciated and understood when the strictness of the religious beliefs of the early Puritans of Boston, and the Pilgrims of Plymouth, is taken into consideration. Although differing on many points of doctrine, they were firmly united in the belief that music produced from a fiddle, flute, or horn was worldly and had no place among God-fearing people.

From the foregoing, as well as from the fact that pioneer conditions of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries were not conducive to artistic life, it is quite evident that any real progress in music was seriously hampered. It also gives some credence to Ritter's statement in Music in America which reads: "In the first one hundred and fifty years of the existence of the New England colonies, musical culture stood on as low a degree as it held among the Gauls and the Alemanni in the seventh century."

In the Virginian colonies there seems to have been more freedom of thought and practice, although exact data are not available. There are no records of concerted performances, although the spinet, and the flute (which was considered a gentleman's instrument), was in general use there.

There is no doubt that Josiah Flagg's endeavor, unpopular as it may have been at the time, gave stimulus to the promotion and practice of band music generally, and, so far as careful research serves—if we except the bands of two British regiments from Halifax, Nova Scotia, stationed at Boston from 1768 to 1770 — appears to be the pioneer organization in concerted performance of military band music in America.

The first musicians used in an American Army were the fifers and drummers of the Revolutionary War. These were led by a fifer-major and a drummer-major, and furnished martial music for all military formations and ceremonies.

The earliest record of the forming of military bands of music in America may be found in the "Laws for the Regulation and Government of the Militia of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts," which reads: "Passed by Act of Congress, May 8, 1792, and amended by Act of March 2, 1803, Section XIV. Be it further enacted that each brigadier general or commanding officer of brigade be authorized, by voluntary enlistment, to raise and organize a band of music in each brigade and when so raised to issue warrants to them accordingly."

The modern American military band, however, the band as we know it today, is the product of an evolution which has been going forward since the early days of the nineteenth century. It began with a very small combination of instruments consisting, generally, of two clarinets, two flutes, two oboes, two bassoons, two French horns, (without valves), one bugle, one trombone and one snare drum. This instrumentation, patterned after the early military bands of Europe, endured for a quarter of a century or more, when the trend toward brass bands (without reed instruments or flutes) brought a complete change in instrumentation as well as in the style of band playing.

For a time (about 1826-1830) bands were classified as "Monkey Bands" and "Cornet Bands." Monkey bands contained key-bugles, drums and fifes; but due to this very simple combination, and lack of tone color, or quality, such bands were suitable only for marching purposes. The cornet bands (certainly a misnomer because the cornet had not been invented at that time) consisted of about fifteen pieces; namely, one B flat key-bugle, two E flat key-bugles, one E flat trumpet, two French horns without valves, one post horn (forerunner of the modern cornet), two slide trombones, one bass trombone, two opheclides, one serpent, one snare drum, one bass drum and cymbals. This instrumentation was satisfactory only for the performance of quicksteps, slow marches, and the simple songs or ballads of the period.

In the 1850's, three leaders of outstanding ability in the military band field were C. S. Grafulla of the New York Seventh Regiment Band (Militia), Thomas Coates of Easton, Pennsylvania, and Allen Dodworth of New York. These progressive men began to make improvements in the instrumentation of bands by discarding the key-bugles, opheclides, and serpents, and adopting the then modern cornet and other brass instruments with valves and pistons, combining with them into one playing group such instruments as flutes, clarinets, oboes, bassoons, and percussion. This combination of instruments, intended to establish an ensemble that would produce effectively not only martial music, but music of the better class, it proved to be highly successful and served to revolutionize military band performance, elevating it to a much higher plane than formerly obtained, and attracted the attention of prominent musicians toward the military band as a possible medium for the interpretation of serious music.

Since the days of the Civil War, military bands, such as Gilmore's Twenty-second New York Regiment, Sousa's, Carter's, Missud's Salem Cadet, Brooke's Chicago Marine band, Pryor's, and more recently Goldman's of New York, and the nationally famous Army, Navy, and Marine Bands of Washington, D. C., have made rapid and successful strides, bringing the erstwhile neglected military band into its rightful place in the realm of music.

The Song Of The Cowboy

By ALICE GIDEON WHITMIRE

THE merit of the cowboy song as a musical form and its relative place in the musical folk lore of America, may as yet be a controversial question but as to its wide popular appeal, there is no doubt. Its continued use and demand for radio programs, its imitation by popular song writers, and the beginning of its use in the pattern of more serious music, speak for the place it already has found in the heart of America.

As the stories of our West have rooted deep in the American mind the romance of the early cattle country with its wide ranges, its trails and herds, its roundups and cowboys, so have the cowboy folk songs which are a product of that life, crystallized that romance and life in melody and meter, and are unfolding a distinct musical experience and idiom in the musical life and development of America.

Working and living on lonely frontiers, in vast solitudes, impelled to find his joy and recreation within himself, sensitive to the expansive freedom of his work, the cowboy transmuted these moving forces into the lore and story of the cattle land. Drifting from one "outfit" to another, from the plains of Texas to the mountains of Wyoming and Montana, it was but natural that his songs were a genuine expression of group activity and contribution and that the song grew as it traversed the ranges from the South to the North, and varied in melody and version, as is true of all folk music.

The cowboy moved in a realism of hard work, but it was a realism sanctified by the beauties of far-flung mountains and valleys, star-studded skies, and impelled by the mighty forces moving a nation. The challenge to every man to seek his own equality made him scorn hypocrisy and treat with contempt those artificial puppets of evaluation shackles forged of Old World concepts. Independence and self-reliance taught him to glorify work. Simple living and a happy freedom developed a wit and humor ever uppermost to meet the rigorous difficulties of his work. Simple as any folk, sensitive to the ideals moving a people, released by the idea of freedom, forced to create his own entertainment, it was inevitable that the cowboy find expression in a musical form. Witty, dramatic, humorous, adventurous, sorrowful, it came forth in story or ballad form (the story of more importance than the musical idiom which he either used or created). And because the cowpony was so essentially a part of his life and his work and early won his way into the respect and affections of the cowboy, the pony rhythm beat its pattern into every tune which went through the cowboy's hand.

The end of the day found the cowhand around the campfire or huddled around the cook's stove, telling tales of cattleland and legends of the frontier. So it was natural that he add his own colorful adventure and heroism, his own pranks and yarns to this lore and that they soon fall into the meter of verse and song. The cowboy loved to play pranks on his fellows, to "job" others in the outfit, he loved to tell a story, to embellish it and to outtell the tales of those who drifted into his camp. The urge to relate all happenings in story form is the key to the cowboy's song. The story was the thing, the tune often but a simple rhythmic line upon which to hang his words. Often the same tune served for different ballads and quite often the words have to be bunched much as cattle into a herd or strung out, as cattle on the trail, in order to fit the melody.

In the telling of his story in song, the cowboy, was without doubt influenced by the mountaineer ballad heritage of our Anglo-Saxon forefathers. As it trekked from the Atlantic across mountain and plain to spring forth in mountaineer ballad, so too did it spring forth in cowboy ballad, each dressed in the garb of individual frontier experience. Perhaps because of a common American heritage, because in an alchemy of frontier simplicity and hardihood they both came forth, (aside from the infiltration of mountaineers among the Westerners) there is distinguishable a common sentimental flavor, a yearning, often a weird and haunting melody or call, and even a common phraseology.

The cowboy ballad is his most characteristic contribution to our world of music. All things worked together to make it so, his life, his work, the panorama of his activity and his Anglo-Saxon heritage.

However he left his mark upon other forms of American music, for whatever material came into his hand he branded it as his own. For while the Square Dance, often called a cowboy dance, is a product of all American frontiers and is traceable to the "Sir Roger De Coverly" of England and to the Virginia Reel of Colonial times, yet for his dance, he made up his own calls out of the activities and vernacular of the cow camp and roundup. "Leather Breeches," well known the country over, may have referred to the deerskin dress of our pioneers, but it also suggests the chaps of the cowhand. "The Arkansas Traveler," another favorite square dance, is, sometimes in Wyoming, referred to as "Hell Among The Yearlings." The Square Dance calls in "The Cowboy's Christmas Ball," are typical. "You maverick jine the roundup," and "Big Boston lead the trail herd through little Pitchfork's range," could come from nowhere else but the cow country.

To these dance tunes the cowboy gave new individuality. Often given before the roundup by the owner of the outfit or by some neighboring cowman as the outfit moved through his range, these cowboy dances broke the endless work from daylight till dark with the cowboy's chief form of social activity. There with fiddle and harmonica he recreated his own songs into two-steps or waltzes, dances popular in his day, and stepped off polkas, schottishes and square dances to the hilarity of calls revamped in his own vivid language.

While the radio has associated the guitar with the cowboy song, it is true that, except in the Southwest where the Spanish influence was more felt, the cowboy did most of his singing unaccompanied and the instrument closer to his heart was the harmonica. With it he could find expression for his mood no less than he could with his song. His tunes became "songs without words" and in playing them he put a depth of feeling which the words but stanched. The harmonica he could carry with him, on the range, to town, on the trail, to the dances, to companion himself or his fellows whenever occasion demanded. At the dances, the harmonica, no less than the fiddle, furnished the music, and in different tempos were heard the cowboy songs turned into dance tunes. "Trail To Mexico" and "Curly Joe" made good waltzes and "The Cowboy's Lament" and "Red River Valley," made rollicking two-steps. The most outstanding of such tunes is "Old Paint" whose vocal version finds its greater beauty in the instrumental waltz version as found played by a cowboy of Wyoming. He in turn had learned it from an old fiddler who lived down on Powder River. In this instrumental expression of "Old Paint" on the harmonica is heard the inspiration of a true art form, for the deepest beauty and response to the setting of the cowboy's life is reflected.

Typical in the cowboy song is another unique form of expression, his calls to the cattle as he pushed them along the trail or yelled them up out of the draws and down the coulees. It is found in the refrain, "whoopee, ti yi yippy yippy ya," in "The Old Chisholm Trail" and "Get Along Little Dogies." Wherever bawling cattle were worked, held, or trailed, here could always be heard the short staccato or drawn-out yell scaring the cattle along. It is doubtful whether the refrain is a true imitation of an almost inimitable call, but rather a suggestion of those calls which only cowhands of long experience behind cattle can execute. It is well, though, that it is inculcated in his song, as it perpetuates a form, without which any expression of the cowboy's work would be incomplete.

Out of the work of each day, work with the cattle, whether on the roundup or trailing his herd from one range to another, came the color and character of his song. Up with the dawn topping off his pony, riding out on circle, moving the cattle down to the mouth of the creek, the day's roundup worked, calves branded, beef cut out for shipment, then standing guard to hold the herd at night under a starlit friendly sky, this was his experience on the range which gave birth to his songs. In the dust of bawling milling cattle he sweated and worked, over rough hills and coulees with reckless daring he rode circle on half-broke broncs, with patience and skill, his best-trained cowpony under him, he roped and cut out, and at night with the most faithful, he stood guard.

Whatever the elements in which his work found him (the heat of the summer sun, storms of rain and snow, whether the night guard found him drinking in the beauties of a roofless world or standing with the cattle, their backs to the winds when snow or rain spit over the landscape) through it all the cowboy's profanity, roughness, and gay good humour top it all and is reflected in his song.

The long treks up the old Chisholm Trail, epical of cattle and cowboys, trailing the cattle to Wyoming and Montana for grass or to some point for shipment, gave rise to many an adventure and heroic tale which later were told in song. Night after night on the trail, week after week, holding thousands of cattle together, trailing by day, bedding down at night, the cowboy's chief job to hold the herd, stampeding cattle was most to be guarded against. But thirst for water, the smell of rain in the wind or a river ahead would often start them running, a thunder storm with lightning and balls of fire playing across their horns and down their backs, would start them with fury and they would rise up in the darkness and start running. Sudden movements and noises of the night guard, the flapping of a slicker or sudden movement of a pony would startle and start them. Then it was the mettle of both cowboy and pony was tried. Life was endangered and often lost in riding to turn them and get them to milling. In the after-story a new song was born.

Thus came the stories of his ballads. As to the tunes, let a cowboy who worked over the ranges of Wyoming tell it in his own words. "Most old cowboy songs are stories of their own experiences, and the tunes, handed down from the past or picked up off the range. There were a lot of sounds to be picked up on those prairies when a feller rolled his bed out with nothin' but the north star for a windbreak. He'd lay there and listen. Or when workin' he'd go out and round up a bunch of them sounds and as he jogged along with them, he'd pick up a few more and drop a few back until he had them trailin' into a tune for his story."

He did use old tunes which already had trekked westward with the pioneer as is true of "The Red River Valley," the original coming from east of the Alleghenies. He used the melodies of familiar tunes such as the melody for "The Cowboy's Dream" which is almost always sung to the tune of "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean." There were others which showed the influence of the plaintive creations of the mountaineer folk song. Such is "Utah Carroll" in the phraseology of its beginning as well as its tune. For sheer beauty of original creation whose depth of feeling reveals the inspiration of vast solitudes and lonely frontiers, tunes "picked up off the range," "Home On the Range," "Old Paint," and "Trail to Mexico" are exquisite in haunting melody and mood. "Old Paint" the instrumental pattern of which came to fruition in the Wyoming version as a waltz, shows the cowboy's adeptness in recreating his tunes for his dances, for the six-eight rhythmic pattern is definitely set to three-four time. Also it shows the influence of the topography of the land, as one folk song authority has said accounts for the varied melodic lines of the same tune, for "Old Paint" of the Northwest mountain and hills has a greater variety of melodic line than the more monotonous tune of the Southwest or Texas version.

"The Old Chisholm Trail" of wide appeal is perhaps the most epical of the cowboy songs. Born of his experiences on the long trail called the Chisholm trail, it runs the whole gamut of the cowboy's work and characteristics and symbolizes his life on the range. His glory in his own ability, his gay wit and humor, his grief with the cattle, his horse, his food, his raiment, laughing at difficulties overcome, his playfulness, stampeding cattle, storms, rain, snow, love of his trappings, and his irresistible oneness with the life of the big outfits, all this the song relates. Pony rhythm accelerates and measures the story and seemingly unrelated incidents are bound together in gayety of rhythm matching a gayety of mood.

"Whoopee Ti Yi Yo, Get Along Little Dogies," another favorite, has an entirely different mood, has a plaintive melody, as though the cowboy were thinking of his hard work and grief with the cattle. It must have come from him when the trail seemed long, hot, and weary. The pony rhythm is slow and beats its pattern to a slower tempo.

The perils of the stampede give us the heroic stories of "Little Joe the Wrangler," and "Utah Carroll." Their tragedy blends the primitive love for the dramatic and tragic with the frontier instinct to lift work well done into the realms of the heroic. "Zebra Dun," wherein the stranger rides old Dunny, an outlaw, thereby reversing the cowboy's contempt for an "educated feller," illustrates that sturdy fiber in American growth which has striven for fair play in measuring a man on merit or on a "what can you do" basis rather than on standards of wealth or birth.

The naive pathos in "When the Work's All Done This Fall," reveals a tenderness characteristic of frontier roughness and crudeness. In "Home On the Range" there is beauty of sentiment, of description, and deep-seated love of home. And in "Old Paint," where he gathers his sole possessions, his Old Paint and his pack horse, Old Sam, and his bed, and starts off for another range, there is eloquence of simple tastes and pure love set in a wide expanse of freedom.

While the cowboy song was practically the same in the cattle country of both North and South, the versions of the same song varied no little. Quite often a minor tune was used in the Southwest where in the Northwest a more virile major tune was sung. "The Old Chisholm Trail" has the minor, in Texas, a major tune in Wyoming. This is also true of "Bury Me Not On the Lone Prairie." No doubt the minor was the result of Spanish influence in the Southwest. The Spanish is also shown in the tragedy of "Curly Joe," for no American frontier concept tolerated the caste barrier which caused Joe's death.

One cowboy waltz, called "Charlie Knapp," has been played with "Old Paint" at the dances and may be classed as a folk contribution. It has the pony rhythm and lonely mood but it seems to have sprung forth purely as an instrumental melody for no words have been found which belong to it. Charlie Knapp may have been the original player or the name of a favorite cowpony.

Rooted deep in the consciousness of America is the character and symbolism of frontier life, and crystallized in colorful form in the life of the cowboy, is it too much to see in these musical forms of his folk contribution, the pattern for great American art forms, in song and symphony? Already the radio has popularized his song, song writers have imitated it, one fine effort to express it in symphonic form has but recently been given the American people over the air, and its satisfying beauty points to future attempts by American composers. I refer to Roy Harris' "Folk Song Symphony," in which he used the "Dying Cowboy" and "Old Paint" as parts of his Suite, symphonic orchestrations with chorales of each song.

Perhaps the cowboy songs will inspire themes for more American symphonies and other music forms, themes beaten out to the rhythm of the cowpony moving through vast solitudes of beauty of the great West.

A Panorama Of Negro Music

By WILLIAM C. HANDY

OUT of the tribe of Ham, from the jungles of Father Africa, through the shackles of the Blackbirders and slave traders, the Negro, long since, arrived on the modern stage and concert platform. In America, the pilgrimage started when the Negro first fitted Biblical stories to his musical improvisations.

For more years than the writer cares to recall, he has watched and participated in the scenes which have turned the earlier spirituals and their interpreters into the light and serious music and musicians of an oppressed race.

It was in 1871 that the now famous Fisk Jubilee Singers of Nashville, Tenn.—the seat of the earliest development in Negro music — were suffering many indignities and meeting with many handicaps. Under the sympathetic management of George L. White, a white gentleman, this organization progressed and paved the way for many others called Jubilee Singers. It was through the influence of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and Dr. T. DeWitt Talmadge that the Fisk Singers first left the Southland, came North, and arrived in New York. There it was that they gained recognition and conditions changed for the better for them.

Following this, when Boston was celebrating the Union's victory of the Civil War with Patrick Gilmore's band firing cannons in tempo with the bass drum, climaxing the festival with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," the voices of the Fisk Jubilee Singers soared in triumph. From then on, this choir of Negro voices was in demand. It was heard throughout Europe, even in command performances before crowned heads.

When I was seven years of age, I became a pupil in a music class conducted by Y. A. Wallace, a member of Fisk's first graduating class. Wallace walked one hundred and twenty miles from Nashville to Florence, Alabama, my home town, to teach. After training eleven years, there and elsewhere, in the fundamentals of music, my understanding of tonality became so acute that it was not difficult for me to sense the difference between that which is actually Negro music and music emanating from other sources. Cultivation of this sense finally led to the creation of "the blues."

Back in the early eighties, every town had its curbstone and barber shop quartets. Before the nineties, the quartet in which I sang was harmonizing many of the songs that came from the London music halls. We specialized in those of Irish, Scotch and German origin, because they were in vogue. But, when we sang the plantation songs of the white Stephen C. Foster and the colored James Bland, based on Negro life, we received our heartiest receptions. These were the songs which brought sympathetic understanding.

At that time songs of the sea, as exemplified in "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," were also very popular. It is not strange, therefore, that Gussie L. Davis, a Negro, wrote a sea song "The Lighthouse by the Sea." In his day, Davis was one of America's prolific writers of descriptive songs. His "Fatal Wedding" achieved a success second only to that of Charles K. Harris' "After the Ball" during the Chicago World's Fair of 1893.

About this time, colored minstrel shows were enjoying great popularity. They featured many songs besides the compositions of Bland and Foster which still ring in my ears but were probably never published. From these minstrels, we learned much about singers and song creators whose names are now forgotten. Memory now brings back such names as Wallace King, the greatest Negro tenor of his time, who devoted his major efforts to the interpretation of grand opera and other serious music, and Elizabeth Taylor Greenfield known as the "Black Swan," a native of Natchez, Miss., of whom it was said: "The compass of her marvelous voice embraces twenty-seven notes, reaching from the sonorous bass of a baritone to a few notes above even Jenny Lind's highest."

Toscanini, speaking of today's Marian Anderson, said, "That here is a voice that one hears only once in a century." The same must have been true of the "Black Swan" a century ago.

When I was a youngster, I joined my home town band and played alto horn just about the time "Ta-ra-ra-boom De Aye" was first published. I cite this song because it was credited to a white composer who some years later told me that he had first gotten it from a colored piano player and drummer in the red light district in St. Louis.

Possibly it was false pride that years ago restrained Negro composers of ability to write down such ditties as the one I have mentioned and "Looking For the Bully of the Town." I first heard roustabouts sing the latter on the Mississippi levee. Later it was introduced by the white coon-shouter, May Irwin, as the original composition of a white song writer.

Fortunately, Negro composers finally broke down their inhibitions and then the world became the recipient of lyrics and melodies from the pens of J. Tim Brymn, composer of "Please Go 'Way and Let Me Sleep," Shelton Brooks who wrote "Some of These Days" and "Dark Town Strutter's Ball," Will Marion Cook who scored many of the Williams and Walker shows, Cole and Johnson who wrote "Under the Bamboo Tree" and many others.

The spirituals, which in the earlier minstrel days had been converted into dances and jubes, were given dignified arrangements by many Negro musicians including Harry T. Burleigh, composer of "Deep River," J. Rosamond Johnson, John Work and R. Nathaniel Dett. To my mind, Mr. Dett's "Listen to the Lambs," as sung by the Hampton Singers, is an unexcelled example of the Negro spiritual.

In the current century, Hall Johnson's Choir spotlighted a further development in the work begun by the Fisk Jubilee Singers. The efforts of this choir enjoyed its fullest fruition in the production of the long-run "Green Pastures." It should also be remembered that Radio City Music Hall was inaugurated with a choir of one hundred voices from Tuskegee, under the direction of W. L. Dawson. Nevertheless, the largest choirs to sing spirituals that I have ever heard performed under the batons of James Mundy and J. Wesley Jones of Chicago. Each of these choirs comprised one thousand voices.

As far back as 1820, theatre goers had seen the type of shows later called musical comedies, in which Negro performers pioneered. Nineteenth century sepian musicals included Sam T. Jack's "Creoles"—1890; S. H. Dudley's "Smart Set" — 1896; Ernest Hogan's "Rufus Rastus" in collaboration with Joe Jordan; Cole and Johnson's "A Trip to Coontown" and Williams and Walker's "Sons of Ham"—1899.

The current century ushered in "Bandanna Land" written by Rogers and Shipp — 1907-'09 with music by Will Marion Cook who also wrote the music for Williams and Walker's "In Dahomey"; "Put and Take" by Spencer Williams, Perry Bradford and J. Tim Brymn; "Runnin' Wild" for which Jimmy Johnson wrote the music and R. C. McPherson the lyrics; "Strut Miss Lizzie" and several other productions to which Creamer and Layton of "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans" fame contributed and appeared in; the ultra-successful "Shuffle Along," with music and lyrics by Noble Sissle and Eubie Blake, starring the inimitable Florence Mills, and a series of Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds" which spotlighted Adelaide Hall and Ada Ward, those two great Negro delineators of popular songs.

One also recalls Donald Hayward's "Africana," starring Ethel Waters and "Hot Chocolates," written by Thomas "Fats" Waller and Andy Razaff. This revue ran simultaneously with "Bomb ola," featuring the ivory-complexioned Isabel Washington, lyricized and musicalized by two white men, D. Frank Marcus and Bernard Maltin, but orchestrated by the redoubtable J. Tim Brymn. It was Brymn who conducted the first World War's Black Devils Band, following the death of James Reese Europe. Europe will be remembered as the orchestra leader who set the dance tempi for the night club activities of Vernon and Irene Castle, previous to his joining the colors in the first World War.

Currently, the Cotton Club shows of New York's most famous sepian-entertainment rendezvous are almost institutional in character.

During this century, many white musical comedies, as well, have featured Negro talent, as a result of splendid prior performances in Negro comedies. It should also be noted that Will H. Vodery arranged the orchestrations for Flo Ziegfeld's "Follies" for a period of twenty-one years. As a matter of fact, the world of orchestrators has been enriched by the work of such arrangers as Dave Peyton of Chicago, Charles L. Cooke, who was with J. H. Remick & Company for years, and numerous others.

Many followers of the concert stage will remember the names of Madam Selika, Anita Patti Brown, Florence Cole Talbert, Abbie Mitchell and Sidney Woodward. They were the Marian Andersons, Dorothy Maynards, Jules Bledsoes, Roland Hayeses and Paul Robesons of yesteryears.

It was Scott Joplin, called the ragtime king, because of his "Maple Leaf Rag" and other difficult compositions of the early twentieth century, who blazed the trail for a new musical form that was to come from my pen and was soon known as "the blues." At that time in my career, I and my band were featuring "indigo" music in Memphis. The present generation is still familiar with my first successful effort as a song writer, "Memphis Blues"; in particular that phrase in its lyric about "the fiddler there who always slickened his hair."

It was this tune, and later "St. Louis Blues," which ushered in the jazz era; and it was James Reese Europe, heretofore mentioned, along with his jazz band, who were the first to make a recording of "Memphis Blues." Soon the Creole Band of New Orleans featured "blues" in vaudeville. Other bands quickly got in line and copied their style.

Song writers like Spencer Williams and Maceo Pinkard got to work supplying the demand from publishers and phonograph companies for "blue" music. A deluge of compositions followed. Their titles would fill a volume.

In time, through radio and records, such famed names as Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway, Louis Armstrong, Jimmy Lunceford, Count Basie, Fletcher Henderson and Erskine Hawkins and their bands established themselves as household words.

Around 1919 Mamie Smith became the first colored girl to record "blues songs." She was followed by the other Smiths—Bessie, Clara and Trixie. Alberta Hunter, Lucile Hegamin and Ethel Waters were among others who also achieved tremendous success in such recordings.

From the inception of "blues," I captained my own publishing organization. Clarence Williams and Perry Bradford headed theirs. Notwithstanding, we were not the first Negro music publishers. Actually, it was the Gotham Attucks publishing firm which, during the early part of this century, published many songs featured in the list of musical comedies herein contained.

Even before this, the Pekin Publishing Company of Chicago had issued many songs written by Negro creators, and it was at the Pekin Theatre that S. Coleridge Taylor, the great English Negro composer, was first presented to America. Indeed, that same theatre introduced many of the greatest Negro composers, musicians and actors.

The radio of recent years has highlighted such well known quartets as the Southernaires, Mills Brothers and the Charioteers. It established such successful female harmonizing trios as the Dandridge Sisters and Peters Sisters, and such songstresses as Ruby Elzy, Ella Fitzgerald and Maxine Sullivan, as well as the Juanita Hall Choir —all these and more of their race have reached high places through the medium of broadcasting.

Gershwin's opera "Porgy and Bess" afforded transcendent roles for those finely-equipped singers, Todd Duncan and Ann Brown. Nevertheless, despite the success of this current generation of Negroes in the world of music, it must not be forgotten that as early as 1800, Negroes in Philadelphia, Boston and New Orleans had studied abroad and written and sung music in classical forms.

At this writing, there is an organization known as the National Association of Negro Musicians which is teaching this generation the best in classics. That is why I feel, under present economic conditions, the American public should restrain its demands for compositions of the "Flat Foot Floogie" school from the Negro, and accept the modern Negro as the serious musician he wants to and can be. Indeed, music lovers of every color and creed may now share in the pleasure of listening to the symphonies of Mrs. Florence Price, Dr. Charles L. Cooke, James P. Johnson and William L. Dawson, whose works have been performed by great American symphony orchestras, as well as the works of William Grant Still which have not only been performed in America but also in Europe.

The modern Negro musician and singer has not lost his race's sense of humor. Nevertheless, he feels the time has come when he should be appreciated for talent of a more serious nature which he is anxious to reveal.

Music is the common tie between races and nationalities, and recognizes no caste. —Jacques L. Gottlieb.

The Role of the Negro in American Music

By TODD DUNCAN

THE role of the Negro in American music life of today can best be grasped by the mention of a few outstanding names. One does not dare to make out a list of the top ten American concert singers without including the name of Marian Anderson. It appears that we may include the name of the new and brilliant soprano, Dorothy Maynor. William Grant Still and Harry T. Burleigh hold an enviable place among the composers, while the popularity of the Southernaires and the Wings Over Jordan groups establishes them as institutions in the field of radio entertainment. One reads of the acclaim of such dance orchestras as those of Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway, Noble Sissle, Jimmy Lunceford and numerous others. It is most significant that during this season of the New York Lewisohn Stadium concerts, Negro artists drew the largest crowds. The appearance of Marian Anderson brought out twenty-three thousand, while Anne Brown, the writer and the Eva Jessye Choir sang to twenty-two thousand. We are told that Paul Robeson drew the largest crowd at the Hollywood Bowl during the present season.

But the previous statements do not tell the whole story, for there are many others in all spheres of music who are "ready," but they cannot get ahead. One difficulty which faces the American Negro artist who desires to secure for himself a wide audience in the field of serious music is that of finding an avenue which is not marked by the obstacles especially to be encountered by the members of his race. It is all right to say that if he is a good enough artist the problem is self-solvent. Unfortunately, it is not as simple as that. Once in a generation, and then largely as a matter of good luck, a Negro artist may achieve the desired goal simply on the basis of merit without influence. The rarity of such cases, however, points out the difficulty. Certainly, it is not because there is any lack in the number of those who have the talent, training, and the desire.

It is well known that Marian Anderson had already achieved a great artistic height before she went to Europe. It was not until she had achieved great fame throughout the continent of Europe that there was sufficient demand for her services in America to justify her appearance over here. Further, one cannot ignore the importance of the situation and the scene before the Lincoln Memorial in the Nation's Capitol some two years ago which sent Miss Anderson's name to all corners of the earth. It is too much to expect all young, aspiring and talented Negroes to pattern their careers after Miss Anderson, for all goals are not reached as was hers.

The writer has come in close contact with hundreds of gifted students who were told (back home) that they possessed fine voices. They therefore have spent four to six years in our Universities and private studios at great sacrifice to themselves and hard working parents. They have learned to sing or play beautifully according to accepted traditions. And now they are informed by their learned professors and critics that they have much to offer to the world. The majority of the recent Negro graduates of such schools as the Juilliard, Eastman, Oberlin, and Howard University are told this every year upon graduation, but they are disillusioned. However, we must acknowledge the real situation as our young disappointed friends find it.

What next, then? Five or six more years are spent in trying to make eight to ten dollars a week in order to pay for further lessons with a "renowned" teacher. Some few find positions in the public schools; some set up private studios; a small number wait for an occasional Colored show on Broadway in order to sing in the chorus, while a vast majority of these talented, music-degreed unfortunates patiently or impatiently wait longer to become Marian Andersons or Roland Hayes'. Others are found on the WPA music projects; still others may be successful in procuring a job as maid, porter or waiter. It is significant to read enlightening articles in the papers in regard to the "Singing Maid," or the "Red Cap" with the unbelievably beautiful voice.

In the case of the talented Negro, whose ambition is to secure a wide audience in the serious field, it is not only necessary for him to have outstanding ability and training, but he must, in addition, avail himself of any legitimate medium, however unorthodox, by means of which his talent may become known. He cannot afford to overlook or to decline to enter any door which may lead to the achievement of his goal. Even as eminent a musical artist as Paul Robeson was unable to achieve the momentum necessary for a climb to the heights until after he had consented to appear in a role in a Ziegfeld musical comedy. The writer refers to his appearance in "Show Boat." It was his singing of Jerome Kern's Old Man River which took London by storm and provided Mr. Robeson with the magic key, namely the commercial value, with which to unlock the doors leading to the upper strata.

The need to avail one's self of unorthodox media in order to crash through is not entirely confined to the Negro. Many white artists have, at various times in the course of their career, also felt the same need. As is well known, Grace Moore, Gladys Swarthout and even Lawrence Tibbett have entered or re-entered, as the case might have been, the sacred portals of the Metropolitan Opera due to the increased values resulting from their appearances in motion pictures or other popular media.

Certain composers are contributing their share to help solve this problem by writing music on Negro themes and Negro Life. William Grant Still, Clarence Cameron White, Nathaniel Dett and Lawrence Freeman are examples of inspired men who have set themselves to this task. All musical America is familiar with George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" and the writer shall always consider himself the instrument of great good fortune that Mr. Gershwin selected him as the protagonist of his leading role therein. The same thing is true of the brilliant soprano, Anne Brown, and the other distinguished artists chosen by Mr. Gershwin to sing in his folk opera.

Another composer of ability who has done some splendid things in the field of composition, namely Vernon Duke, has elected to pursue the stage of the musical theatre as a show window in which to display his better work. Under the name of Vladimir Dukelsky, Mr. Duke is already well known for numerous compositions of the better class, particularly ballets for the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. At the moment, Mr. Duke is at work writing the score of a musical fantasy now called "Little Joe," the production of which is planned for the coming season. It will give a magnificent singer and actress another opportunity for the display of her talents —Miss Ethel Waters. Mr. Duke has written a score of excellence and beauty and the writer has been honored by a request from him to sing the leading male role.

The statement bears repetition that the Negro is accepted, heard and applauded for his music, that he has stepped forward in certain fields, due mainly to the few internationally known names of his group. But this is not enough, for there are those who, by necessity, must change their point of view. We can safely predict that the hundreds of young and prepared but idle musicians of this minority group will emerge anew in the music life of America. By their music in the concert halls, dance halls, radio and stage they will tell a new story in a bold medium. These singers and actors will not only possess all the old flavor that has endeared them to the millions of concert and theatre-goers as well as radio listeners; but they will represent the beginning of a New American music—revolutionary and confident, "pouring old wine into new bottles."

Music In The Middle West

By FREDERICK A. STOCK

THE task of presenting in print a considerable amount of vocabulary concerning the development of music in the middle west, with Chicago as its center, becomes rather mountainous when one regards the wealth of material at hand, as well as the ever-present temptation to quote names, facts and dates that quickly come to mind. However, with all this data already well known to the public, there still remain two outstanding factors that should welcome discussion,—first of all, the amazing strides that music in all its branches has made during the past fifty years, and second, the recognition and importance given the American composer.

Some years ago it would have seemed quite simple to speak of such a great advance in the interest of our youngest art, but today that is no longer such a simple problem. We find, for instance, orchestras of fine caliber all over the country, presenting a season of concerts, with programs representing a well selected cross-section of the classics and modern repertory. In addition to this, there are choral groups, chamber music organizations, student orchestras, music camps and bands. Even the smallest rural community boasts at least a band, and it has been my good fortune to watch, over a period of years, a number of such meager beginners form the nucleus of larger and more important groups, with the eventual blossoming forth of an orchestra, which, while it cannot be hailed in terms of an outstanding symphonic organization, can still be considered adequate.

There is a valid as well as interesting reason for this transition from the village band to the symphony orchestra. Let us take, for example, some imaginary community in the middle west, a typically thriving village. There is the usual high school band, which rehearses regularly and plays for all sorts of local festivities and occasions. This band is soon augmented by a chorus, and the combined activities are enthusiastically encouraged by surrounding communities. Before long there appears, from some larger center, an ambitious young conductor, who has had his training in one of our many fine schools. And now, no longer content with the tunes of the band, bolstered up by an ever-growing population, spurred on by competition from a larger city that boasts a real orchestra, they all get busy and establish one of their own. Granted that many of these "orchestras" deserve such a title in name only, and not by actual merit, yet it is not long before they either prove their worth or else fall by the way-side.

However, even though some fail, artistically or financially, the endeavor has nevertheless created an interest in and an appetite for the better things in music. No community that has had even a small orchestra, will ever again be content with just a mediocre band. We may still be able to list but a mere handful of truly great orchestras; there will always remain only those few because they are geographically and commercially located in the right places. But today we must reckon with the tremendous interest that is being created by newly organized symphonic groups.

One cannot dwell for long on this phase of our musical growth without calling to mind the fore-sight of one man—Theodore Thomas. It was he who saw in Chicago, not so much an opportunity to found a new orchestra for himself, as to prove that the middle west held enormous possibilities for further development. Thomas expressed himself occasionally, not often by any Development of music and composers means, being a man of philosophical reticence, about Chicago's musical receptivity. He could even wax enthusiastic about the success of his programs.

"To think," he used to say, "that this city, which sprang up from swamp and prairie seventy years ago, now has the makings of a fine art institute, a formidable public library, fine schools, two universities, and last but not least, a symphony orchestra of first rank, that is indeed a source of gratification and wonderment." Chicago's progress along the lines of musical endeavor always kept on an even keel with the unparalleled development of its material resources, its commerce, industries, social welfare, and all that contributes towards civic growth and enhancement.

Along with this movement for more, —and especially for better music, there appeared a very shy, at first uncertain young muse, known as the American composer. In digressing for a moment, it might be interesting to note that while at first the Russian composers found themselves so strongly influenced by whatever came from western Europe it took the younger element among them to liberate their art and create something outstandingly their own. I believe that the same experience is coming to our own writers of today. There is of course always the argument that there never was such a thing as an American school of music. We find that painting, sculpture, architecture, were given due credit for their own train of thought and originality because they were able to depict the true American scene. The poet sang of the early struggles of the Pilgrims, or of Indian lore; the American school of painting has undergone a constant change; the American architect created the sky-scraper, something which is so typical of this country, and often a thing of grandeur and beauty.

At the same time, the American composer remained the stepchild, while other artists received recognition and acclaim the world over. His contributions were long neglected, partly because it was so easy to make a sure-fire success with the well-established repertory, and also because it was simpler to sit back and wait for some one else to unearth his creations and give them a hearing. But today, the writer of symphonic music especially, and of opera as well as all the other branches of music, has definitely made a name for himself. He is here to stay. Nowadays conductors no longer find it necessary—not to say impossible—to secure their novelties from abroad, for there is a wealth of material right here.

I am determined to hold fast to my original plan not to mention names. One has only to scan the past seasons' programs of musical organizations throughout the country, in order to find the American composer everywhere well represented. Nor does the old custom prevail of giving an American novelty one hearing, only to allow it to gather dust in the library. The compositions of most of our contemporary writers are of such undeniable importance that they merit repeated hearings. They "have something to say." Their form, construction, as well as execution of original ideas are most encouraging.

It is very much to be hoped that the former idea that "something should be done for the American composer," is a thing of the past. He is very much alive and needs no other schools, "influences" nor outside incentives for his inspirations. He has grown up to be a formidable factor in the art life of his own land. His success lends vivid color to the belief that America will, in days to come, assume world leadership in all matters artistic and cultural.

Music is the fourth material want of our natures—first food, then raiment, then shelter, then music.

—Bovee

Music In The Southland

By H. KNOX SPAIN

CONCERT presentations in the Southland balances brilliantly with all the other sections of the country. Its musical capitals turn to box-office attractions just as the musical capitals of the North, the East and the West. The Southland does not have a New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Washington and San Francisco to estimate statistics on long seasons, but it has a Richmond, Norfolk, Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga, Charlotte, Asheville, Spartanburg, Savannah, Jacksonville, and Miami taking their music seriously with a rare discrimination for hearing the best, whether box-office attraction or the lesser glamorous "star."

In this somewhat brief, impersonal, survey of the concert situation in the Southland, the records of Virginia, the two Carolinas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida are brought to this writer's notice.

The Southland's concert management may be traced from that gala evening in 1732, when Charleston, South Carolina, advertised in the local newspaper its first public concert. For years that event was recorded as the first public concert ever presented in the United States. But Boston, Massachusetts, has challenged that boast, claiming a concert presentation four months preceding the South Carolina event. Yet some Charlestonians hold claim to being founders of the concert business in the United States.

Although the history of concert presentations from then to now (1732 to 1940) is brimming full of vital statistics, progress in artistic taste and changes in methods of program giving, and should have notice here, the concern of this article is today's concert situation.

The business of selling concerts in the Southland is under the direction of music club presidents as a non-profit club activity and groups of men and women styled as local impresarios in the game for profit. Both groups have learned by the experience of the ups and downs of the scale of balancing the budget that the audiences want the world's best singers, instrumentalists, symphony orchestras, choral and string ensembles.

The Southland concert manager is always confronted with a rather peculiar complex of the ticket subscriber. For instance, they do not want to hear Lily Pons because they have heard her before; or they do not want to hear Jussi Bjoerling because they have never heard him before. And although the concert subscriber glibly declares an appreciation of good music, the arguments at the ticket booth would indicate that, in many cases, the attraction is the personality of the artist and not the good music.

During the last couple of decades the concert managers and club presidents have had their battles for artistic standards and financial success. Some eighteen years ago the Southland was presenting concerts with rather doleful results. Managers of artists in the East, hastening assistance conceived the idea of pooling dates, thus putting an artist on circuit throughout the territory. But the Southland would not stand for this system. Each town wanted independence in selecting the artists. The plan was rejected before it was given a fair trial.

A little more than ten years ago, Civic Concert Service of Chicago and the Community Concert Service of New York solved the Southland's problem. Both plans attracted the club presidents. Subscribers liked the plan. Local impresarios disliked the plan. But it was that something different in the way of assuring the size of the audience. Some of the original communities adopting the plan are still directing the concerts under either Civic Concerts or Community Concerts. Other communities did not like the closed membership plan and abandoned it after a three or five year trial. For the small towns the Cooperative Concert Service has been a valuable factor in building for the permanency and high standards otherwise not attainable.

The National Federation of Music Clubs through the state federated clubs and its affiliated music clubs, holds a strong influence over many communities, large and small, in the Southland in the presentation in concert of young artists who have won in national contests. The Schubert Memorial, cooperating with the National Federation of Music Clubs, is another influence toward the success of the concert business in the Southland. Local chapters of the American Guild of Organists, in recent years, have successfully established themselves as impresarios presenting American and European concert organists.

Now in 1940, club presidents and local concert managers are triumphantly facing their audiences with the declaration of battles won in high standard of concert artists, with their programs of world's greatest composers (ancient and modern), and large gains on the financial sheets.

Audiences of the Southland are good listeners. They meet the artist with unrestrained enthusiasm. The impresarios point with equal pride to his concert stars and his vast audiences.

Cooperating toward the success of the concert business in the Southland are Columbia Concerts Corporation of the Columbia Broadcasting System and NBC Artists Service.

Sets of concerts, local and imported, are supported by season ticket subscribers, varying in prices from $20.00 to $2.50, in rare cases as low as $1.50; single tickets $7.50 to $1.00; memberships, $15.00 and $2.50. For orchestral organizations, for local advancement, patrons generally give $100.00 and special contributions at $1,000 and $2,500.

A bird's-eye-view of the south's musical capitals is a confirmation of the sound financial and artistic basis upon which the concert situation is established.

In Virginia, there is Richmond with its course of glamor artists, the Musician's Club Course. Several years ago Richmond had its own symphony orchestra giving an annual series. But now the orchestral course consists of five or six concerts annually by the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D. C.

Norfolk has three organizations riding the crest of expanding interest, the Norfolk Orchestral Association presenting its twenty-year old Symphony; the Community Concert Association giving topflight music for the city; and the William and Mary Concert Series presenting the best of the great artists. Estimated attendence at 1,250 to 2,000.

The Community Concert Association holds sway in Roanoke, important on the current listing was the Cincinnati Symphony. The Thursday Morning Music Club sponsors the set of concerts of the Roanoke Symphony.

In Kentucky, Louisville and Lexington put over their concerts via the Community Concert Association plan. These two towns and Covington have their own symphony orchestras. Club presidents and heads of school and university music departments have successful series. Covington's Civic concerts, staged weekly in an open-air amphitheater, drew a 40,000 audience last summer.

The increasing interest and support of music lovers in the Duke University, Chapel Hill, North Carolinas concert course has suggested the use of the new indoor stadium (10,500 seats) for concerts next season. The 1940 season was the beginning of Duke's second decade of its concert course and the most favorable patronage in its history. Every seat of the hall, the capacity a little less than 2,000, was reserved to hear the Don Cossack Male Chorus, Yehudi Menuhin, Lawrence Tibbett, Artur Rubinstein and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Other cities in North Carolina vital in concert giving are Charlotte, Asheville and Winston-Salem. Charlotte has its Community Concert Association and Charlotte Symphony Society, both enlarging their membership this season to such an extent that concerts have been moved from smaller halls to the Armory Auditorium with a seating capacity of more than 3,000. The Charlotte Symphony, nine years old, gives five annual concerts. Asheville's annual Mozart Music Festival held in August, founded in 1937, is leaving the small confines of a hotel ball room to the newly constructed Auditorium of 5,000 seats. The festival is annually sponsored by the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs. Winston-Salem has a set of three concerts, successfully managed by the Civic Music Association.

In South Carolina, the great successes in concert management and record attendance are centered in Columbia, Spartanburg, Charleston and Greenville. Columbia hears the world's greatest artists under the directorship of the Columbia Music Festival Association, now in its seventh year. A financial and artistic pride of the city is the Southern Symphony Orchestra, with a personnel of local and imported instrumentalists. Spartanburg for many years has been famed for its annual Music Festival importing from the famed listing of American and European artists. But two years ago, discovering its wealth in resident artists of national acclaim, the directors decided to adopt the policy of building its festival program through local enterprise and talent. The first year had its burdens but the second year was an outstanding success. The city also has a Civic Concert Course. Few of the smaller cities on the Eastern seaboard enjoy a more distinguished musical season than Greenville. The events are managed through the Community Concert Service of New York sponsored by the local association, presenting such artists as Joseph Knitzer, Helen Jepson, the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, Guiomar Novaes. Concerts are also given by the Greenville Symphony Orchestra. Charleston has its brilliant series by the Community Concert Service and also the Charleston String Symphony, the latter being a local organization.

Miami, Jacksonville, Daytona and Winter Park, Florida's musical capitals, have brilliant sets of concerts. Miami boasts a national reputation with its University of Miami Symphony Orchestra concerts. The Civic Concert Series has a waiting list, for the largest auditorium in the city cannot contain the large number who wish to enjoy the artists brought by this organization. In Jacksonville the concerts are under the profitable management of the Civic Music Association. Daytona always has its Nelson Eddy or Grace Moore. This year was not as successful as former years. Winter Park is famed for its annual Bach Festival and Symphony Orchestra of Central Florida, always with fully subscribed series.

In Georgia, Atlanta has its All Star Concert Series, Atlanta Music Club Series, the Metropolitan Opera Company and the Atlanta Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. Success for 1940 was a record breaker. The All Star series at the City Auditorium filled the house of more than 5,000 seats for each of its seven attractions, and the Metropolitan Opera at the same place held the same capacity record for each of the three operas. The Atlanta Music Club series filled its auditorium of 750 seats for each of its four concerts. The local symphony played also to a capacity house. Macon has a set of Civic Concerts, generally subscribed to auditorium capacity. Rome has a set of three or four concerts, artists of national fame. These concerts are given on the non-profit plan and generally break even. Savannah boasts with much success a sets of concerts with such artists as Jose Iturbi, Kirsten Flagstad, Helen Jepson, Nino Martini and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Tennessee is famed for the concert presentations in Nashville, Memphis and Chattanooga. Nashville has its 2,000 subscribers in the Community Concerts Association, affiliated with Columbia Concerts, presenting box-office artists; also the set of concerts presented by the Nashville Little Symphony. Memphis sponsors with acclaim the Memphis Symphony, the Civic Concert Series and this season added another success in the presentation of the San Carlo Opera Company. Chattanooga's successful seasons for a number of years have been managed by the Community Concert Service. The Chattanooga Civic Chorus, in its tenth season, gives a brilliant three-performance May Music Festival, importing soloists from New York and featuring opera or oratorio. The Chattanooga Symphony Orchestra, personnel of advanced amateurs and professionals, presents a profitable set of concerts.

In Alabama, the Birmingham Civic Symphony Orchestra, in its eighth year, not only appears successfully in its own town but tours the entire state. A course of glamor artists is under the management of local impresario. Mobile's All Star Concert Series is popular and profitable.

Jackson, Mississippi, has 1,500 members in the Community Concerts Association, presenting such artists as Nino Martini, Vienna Choir Boys, Jooss Ballet and the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Down in Louisiana, New Orleans has the Metropolitan Opera Company in four operas; the Orchestra Series, sponsored by the Philharmonic Society offering such organizations as the St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia Symphony Orchestras; and a galaxy of stars of concert and operatic fame. Baton Rouge has for a number of years been successful in its presentations through the plan of the Community Concerts Service. Shreveport also enjoys profitable seasons via the plan of the Community Concerts Series.

Many of the colleges, schools and universities have entered the non-profit concert business of offering renowned artists as an educational series. With these are the glee clubs, civic clubs and music clubs presentations adding vitally to the concert situation in the Southland.

America's Voice In Symphonic Music

By LEONARD LIEBLING

IN 1776 the United States of America declared its spiritual and political independence. But it has taken almost a century and a half for us to declare our artistic independence. Only during the past twenty years or so have we really awakened to the fact that we own an artistic heritage and expression quite as unique and original as any other country. In architecture, engineering and industrial design we lead the world; and in music, have created a recognizable language which sends the musical voice of America over all the five continents.

The Puritans landed with a cargo of hymns in 1620. The Indians met them with unharmonized, rhythmic chants and drumbeats. Later, in the South, the Negro wailed out his homesickness for the jungle, and plunged from despair into either religious ecstacy or violent hilarity, tapping out queer but novel rhythms with his bare feet on the cabin boards.

The frontiers of the New World opened, and Germans, Swedes, Italians, Spaniards, Frenchmen, Russians, filled the air with songs. From Coast to Coast the amalgam of races became "American" and developed its own musical voice. Out of the hymns, the chants and the wails grew a slowly increasing volume of folk music. But in the big towns, the leisured classes, to whom the bulk of the people looked for their culture, were avidly listening to the symphonic works, chamber music, operas, art songs and solo instrumental compositions of the European masters. Young American musicians who could afford it, began to make study tours across the sea to sit raptly at the feet of its eminent teachers. Bach, Handel, Mozart, Haydn, Beethoven, Schubert had passed on, but the royal line still reigned with monarchs Mendelssohn, Schumann, Liszt, Verdi, Wagner, and the young Richard Strauss.

Americans brought back what they had heard and learned abroad, and in the new land the cultured music of Europe, and even its popular output, flourished to the fullest extent. Here and there a timid American composer ventured to write an ambitious symphonic work or an opera, but none of his countrymen ever admitted it to be in the same high class with the importations from Europe.

In truth, the music composed by the earlier Americans had no indigenous character and could have been created anywhere. Out of all those efforts only a single strain of pure native melody emerged. Stephen Foster, far removed from European musical sophistication, possessing only elementary knowledge of harmony, and none of counterpoint or construction, gave his people the first music that truly voiced American life, thought and sentiment. Men sat around campfires, singing and strumming "Oh, Susanna." Gentlemen in high hats and handle-bar moustaches came home from the minstrel shows humming "Camptown Races." And in the evenings, families gathered around melodeons or ancient square pianos, for communion with the Schubert and Mendelssohn songs but also with the simple heart ballads, "Old Folks At Home," "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground." It was quite natural for them to group Foster with Schubert and Mendelssohn.

Twelve years after Stephen Foster was found wounded to the death, penniless, a victim of drink, in a cheap New York rooming house, John Knowles Paine, the composer of the first serious American symphony, heard his work premiered by the Theodore Thomas Orchestra at Boston in 1876. Previous to Paine's emergence with this magnum opus, American composers had busied themselves chiefly with unpretentious ballad operas or instrumental concertos. A few wrote sonatas or chamber-music. All of them had no recognition from the Government, as composers did in Europe. True, George Washington attended operas and concerts, and his step-daughter Nellie Curtis took lessons on the harpsichord and often played for the President at Mount Vernon, but the Father of His Country looked upon music only as his private enjoyment.

William Henry Fry (1813-1864) was the composer of the first American opera performed in public ("Leonora," in 1845). Ten years later George F. Bristow wrote his "Rip Van Winkle."

Paine's pioneer symphony was based on the European form and general "classical" lines, although "symphonies" (really inorganic suites) had previously been produced by some of our native composers.

The year of Paine's birth, 1839, was still a primitive time in America, musically speaking. One has only to read an advertisement in the New York Herald of that day, which told that "A musical party will meet this evening at 8 o'clock, at Davies' Hot Pie House, No. 14 John Street. A professor will preside at the Piano Forte. Admission 12½ cents."

Paine was better than his immediate predecessors, for he had studied in Germany and took Schumann and Mendelssohn as models. His most telling achievements were as a teacher, for he taught Foote, Converse, Carpenter, Daniel G. Mason and many others who rose to fame, and he also held the first chair of music in an American college (Harvard) and inaugurated the initial collegiate music course.

Symphonic successors and contemporaries of Paine in New England (who also bowed to European styles) were Chadwick, Gleason, Parker, Loeffler, Mrs. Beach; and New York had MacDowell, Huss, Goldmark, Stillman-Kelley, Hadley, Daniel G. Mason and numerous others. None of them expressed anything recognizably American, but all wrote worthy music skillfully orchestrated.

Of the group nearer our own time, some of them still active, there may be mentioned Schelling, David S. Smith, Charles T. Griffes, Deems Taylor, Edward B. Hill, DeLamarter, Moore, Randall Thompson, Hanson, Harris, Whithorne, Gruenberg, Copland, Sessions, Ives, Ruggles, Still, Sowerby, McDonald, Josten, Janssen, Cadman, Piston, Powell, Jacobi, Carl Morris. (This list is merely suggestive and not a complete roster of all our talented composers who know their craft and practice it intelligently.) However, some of their music is characteristically American only when it is themed on folk material of our soil, or borrows rhythms, harmonies, colorings and instrumental effects from the domain of ragtime or jazz. Significantly enough, the most successful of such transplantations came from the pen of a writer of popular music, George Gershwin, with his "Rhapsody In Blue," the opera "Porgy and Bess," and the "Concerto in F," for piano and orchestra.

Just here is the spot to revert to the beginning of this essay, and to wonder whether the true musical voice of America is perhaps that of the best of our popular output. It is the voice of Broadway, or even Tin Pan Alley if you like, but it is heard around the world, performed everywhere on the civilized globe, universally praised and liked, and has swept the popular songs of Europe out of the repertoire in this country. The entire history of our light music is as exciting as it is fascinating, from the early pieces of minstrelsy; the "Listen to the Mocking Bird" days; the sentimental "story" songs like "Break the News to Mother"; the Sousa marches; to the clever and catchy writing of Berlin, Handy, Kern, Gershwin, Porter, Rodgers, and other successful ones. Alien influences are undeniably evident even in our popular issues, but they have been melted into a new kind of music, just as our alien populations have been melted into a new race. That it is American, no one would venture to deny.

The one fact remains that our earlier serious and seriously considered composers seemed mostly to have had their eyes and ears turned toward Europe, and their heads bowed in reverence to its musical giants. Only very little of the inspiration of nineteenth century composers had to do with the brash, crude, colorful America growing up around them. Pre-Revolution periods, the Revolution itself, the Gold Rush, Civil War, the accession of the industrial robber barons, the fight for power and wealth, everything that was America historically, socially, politically, romantically, dramatically, is strikingly absent from the former American symphonic publishments. The cowboy ballads, Negro spirituals, hillbilly songs, Yukon melodies, and even the sugary tunes like "By the Banks of the Wabash" and "Nellie Was a Lady," today seem much more characteristic of their periods in America than the sonatas, symphonies and oratorios so painstakingly contrived by the serious composers of the same eras.

The upheaval of long-held beliefs during and after the World War began the real musical revolution in America, and European happenings of the past few years further fanned the spread of our artistic revolt. Since about 1925 younger symphonic composers have formed something of a liason with their popular colleagues, thereby shedding self-consciousness, ditching foreign domination, and striving less to follow the international fashions than the American manner. Consequent warmth, sincerity and clarity became a part of our symphonic writing. Radio and films had much to do with that, for the millions of auditors are not academic or ultra-advanced, and so the upper crust of composers had to mellow, turn to tune, and make their orchestrations clearer and more accessible to the average listeners.

One parting thought, European musical refugees crowd our land, many of them important composers now teaching here. What will be the influence on their pupils? It is safe to say that the young creators will not again lean on foreign tonal speech and facture, but will acquire the admirable outward technique of their masters, and tonalize the history, feelings, and ideals of this, our own America. At least, that is the sincere belief and fervent hope of the writer of these lines.

Music is almost all we have of heaven on earth. —Addison

Opera: Past, Present and Future

By OSCAR THOMPSON

OPERA is always dying. From about 1600, the year of the first publicly performed representative of the species, there have been those who could concede no future to the lyric drama. The crepehangers have existed in every past age and era, as they exist today. And we may be certain that they will be with us tomorrow. Yet if any one could have looked into a crystal globe at any time between the advent of Peri's "Euridice" (the work generally looked upon as the first opera) and so recent a time as the middle of the last century, he would have had cause to marvel at the operatic developments that would have loomed ahead.

As the present of opera is chiefly an amplification and redirection of its past, so its future will be recognizably an outgrowth of our current repertoire. There has never been a revolution in opera, but only variation in its type, with differing stresses on elements that have been basic in it from its beginnings. Styles there have been, and so-called reforms, but the "synthesis of the arts" that called for much spilling of ink in Wagner's day is older than opera. Since it found manifestation in court spectacles and even religious plays before the Florentine camerata created opera, there need be no surprise in finding some sort of synthesis of the arts in very early examples of the new form.

After all, what could such a synthesis for stage purposes consist of, save some combination of the musical, the poetic, the oratorical, the dramatic, the pictorial, the plastic, the mimetic and the kinetic, uniting in one representation elements designed to give pleasure or stimulation to the ear and the eye. Only by the addition of perfumes (or "characteristic odors") such as the composer Alexander Scriabin had thought of releasing in the concert hall at projected performances of his "Prometheus," could this synthesis be made to include anything additional that would be basic, rather than merely a variation on what always had been. All opera is a synthesis, though whether it is good synthesis or bad synthesis, or whether some elements of the synthesis are so favored as to subordinate others, is of course an open question for any given work.

Gluck, the first of the great reformers, did not re-make opera. He came upon the scene at a time when the musical element in the synthesis had become so dominant that historians, not altogether justly, have referred to the operas of that era as "concerts in costume." But the other elements remained. Handel's operas, the greatest of that time, had drama, of a kind. They were settings of literary texts, they were pictorial, they made use of the dance. The poet, the painter, the choreographer, as well as the stage technician and the musician, had a hand in their preparation. Every fundamental that opera possessed before or after (if we except the motion picture, which has been used as an adjunct to stage depiction in a few modern works like Milhaud's "Cristophe Colomb") was to be found in some aspect or degree in the typical Handel opera of the middle seventeen hundreds, the time when the "concert in costume" was in the prime.

Gluck's avowed aim was to make the music of opera the handmaiden of the text, but of course the music remained. His "reforms" were a matter of readjusting the relative weight and proportions of the different elements, and he did not bring into opera anything that was not there before.

Substantially the same must be said for Wagner, who swept away much that was merely ornamental, particularly as it pertained to the exploitation of beautiful voices, and gave to the orchestra a greatly increased importance, not only musically but dramatically. He has been criticized for not achieving his vaunted synthesis. But his failure, if it was a failure, was precisely that of those who had preceded him, in that it had to do with the relative dominance or subordination of those elements which he combined with the musical to make up the altered form of stage represenation that was called music drama to distinguish it from opera. Today, music drama can be thought of only as a subdivision of opera. It was not a new form; it merely mixed the ingredients differently, according to a differing conception of what constituted an effective and artistic representation in the theatre.

Since Wagner's time, operatic theory has been more radical than operatic practice. A few highly individual works stand out, but it cannot be said that any one of them has influenced its era as Gluck's operas or Wagner's music dramas influenced theirs. Strauss's tone poems have been of more moment as models for other composers than his stage works. Though Debussy may be said to have shaped the course of music in the first quarter of the twentieth century more than any other composer, his "Pelléas et Mélisande" has remained an essentially individual and isolated work rather than one that has set the pattern for an epoch of opera. Of "Pelléas" has been said what was said of Mussorgsky's "Boris Godunoff," of the Wagnerian music dramas, of Gluck's "Alceste" and of the Florentine operas of the first sixteen hundreds, that it gave the values of speech to the musical utterance. But that, as the backward succession of the operas just named would indicate, is nothing revolutionary. To the contrary, it was the goal of the stile parlante of the early Italians, who began with the notion that they were bringing back to currency the essentials of the Greek tragedy of antiquity.

Another achievement in kind is to be found in the Strauss "Elektra," which, different as it is in feeling and treatment from the Debussy "Pelléas," builds its musical structure on a drama that would seem, in theory, to take precedence over the music; though in actual performance the music of no really important operatic work is ever content to play second fiddle. From the beginnings of opera there has been a struggle for dominance between word and note, text and setting. The Florentines, believing that Greek drama was sung, conceived opera as a sung play, or, perhaps more properly, a sung poem. So composers began with the idea that the music of opera was there to enhance the text rather than for its own sake. In the next half century, music "took over." Opera came to be looked upon as a musical form, though one designed for the theatre instead of the concert room. Gluck and Wagner threw their influence in the direction of the original ideal, but in so doing wrote music which was of itself so influential that it overshadowed their drama in importance. The pendulum has swung between the two extremes — music for the play's sake and music for the music's sake — throughout the history of opera, and doubtless will continue to swing.

But the lesson to be drawn from this centuries-old conflict would seem to be that the determining factor in the continuing life of any given work is its music. The strength of the book and of other elements in the so-called synthesis — including the spectacular — is contributive rather than decisive. There are instances of works like Verdi's "Il Trovatore" and "La Forza del Destino" in which the stage action baffles the run of opera-goers, but which still have won and retained popularity because of their music. It would be difficult to name any opera with inferior music that has had lasting success because of the excellence of its book. The conclusion that must be reached is that the music is vital, whereas all other elements are secondary, even though in many instances they may be of considerable importance.

The reason for this is not far to seek. Music builds affection through repetition. Ordinarily, plays are experienced but once, or only a relatively few times in a lifetime. Even with Shakespeare, as compared to Wagner, the same person may have seen "The Tempest" only two or three times and have heard "Die Meistersinger" twenty times — that is, if he has been lucky enough to be within reach of annual performances. The point is that the opera lover does go back, again and again, to hear the works he knows and loves, in a way that scarcely obtains for his patronage of plays. In drama is the element of surprise. That element is lost, of course, for the action of an opera that is seen not once or twice, but many times. The seasoned lover of opera either knows the action so thoroughly that he can tell you in advance precisely what the plot is, or he is indifferent to it. In either case it is the music that draws him back to the opera house — either the music for its own sake, as in some operas, or because the effect of the drama is felt through the music, as in some others.

Unlike the run of plays, an opera heard for the first time or second time may have but partly communicated its appeal. Only at the fifth or the tenth hearing may that appeal have reached its maximum, because only then has the listener fully grasped or come fully under the sway of the music. Once the music of an opera is in his blood, so to speak, he goes back to it year after year, enjoying its repetition as the lovers of symphony or chamber music enjoy repetitions of their favorite works in those fields. The pleasure of repetition has long been recognized as basic in the appeal of music. And opera, as a musical form, has reached its distinctive place because of the manner in which that appeal of repetition has been made active in the musical theatre, as distinct from the spoken theatre. In the latter, various dramatic considerations, including the element of surprise, assume an importance that they cannot have in a form of representation that for so many listeners deals with what is already familiar.

Hence, the new opera, heard for the first time, may mistakenly be judged too much on the basis of the dramatic merits of the libretto, and too little on the lasting qualities of the music. Though the time may not yet have arrived for a final verdict on its music, as music, Alban Berg's "Wozzeck" may supply an instance in point. In the years immediately following the last Great War it was acclaimed in some quarters as a masterpiece. But it never really attained a foothold in the continuing repertoire of the opera houses of the world and today it is no where performed. Why should it have dropped out so completely after having attracted so much interest and occasioned so much comment? The answer, apparently, is that, in spite of its unusual dramatic impact (the cry of "morbidity" and "decadence" raised against it need not detain us here), its music failed to win and build affection. Perhaps the opportunity for it to do so was too slight. Perhaps those who could grasp its musical idiom at first hearing were too few. But in any case there was nothing to indicate that the commonalty of experienced opera-goers would be drawn back to it for the sake of its music after the drama had become an old story.

"Wozzeck," like "Pelléas et Mélisande," was a setting of a play and its music was to be thought of, at the outset, as a tonal envelope for that play, rather than as something existing primarily for its own sake, after the fashion of the music in some of the older operas. But all experience seems to show that an opera or music drama either lives on because of its music or it dies. Whether "Wozzeck" already is moribund, or whether at some future time it will assert a musical appeal that will reach beyond its first limited coterie, is for time to tell. Much that was said either for or against it was said also of "Pelléas et Mélisande" — also of "Boris Godunoff" and the Wagnerian works — but it has to be remembered that these works endure, not because of their impact as dramas aside from their music, but because their musical appeal has built and held a following for which their drama is an old and familiar story.

All of this unquestionably has a bearing upon the opera of the future. If there is no such thing as a revolution in opera, but only a considerable variation in the treatment of its essentials, the composers of tomorrow, like those of today and yesterday, will pattern after the existing models which conform best to their artistic credos. Mozart, who had no theories, took the current forms and wrote a succession of masterpieces. Wagner, more revolutionary in words than procedure, strove heroically to create new patterns and also wrote a succession of masterpieces. Today it is out of the question to write like Mozart (there is as much of Bellini as there is of the Salzburg genius in Wolf-Ferrari's "Mozartean" "Secret of Suzanne"), but the world of music, in spite of the self-deception of some of the "moderns," has never really emerged from the shadow of Wagner. The Strauss music dramas are Wagnerian — even "Rosenkavalier," in which the composer professedly sought to write with the simplicity and directness of Mozart. Debussy revolted against Wagner, whose leading motive system, particularly in "The Ring," he held up to ridicule. "Pelléas" was a product of that revolt. Yet it has representative themes that correspond in their much more evanescent way to Wagner's, and the individuality of his work is less that of conception than it is of harmonic structure and musical personality.

Where, then, among the operas current today is the composer of tomorrow to find the models that will serve as his points of departure? At the moment, there is little to direct him to "Wozzeck," which might have been the work of first mention in the last nineteen twenties and first thirties. If it is possible to find a moral in the present dessuetude of that once controversial novelty, it is that the opera of the present, and, on the basis of all past experience, the opera of the future, is not the opera which is first and foremost a play, to be experienced as a play is experienced, with the music either secondary or lacking in the qualities that give it a direct appeal as music. If other examples of the same consideration are needed, an American work, "The Emperor Jones," by Louis Gruenberg, is a handy one. In it, dramatic considerations overwhelm the musical. The composer who hitches his musical wagon to a dramatist's star must expect defeat unless by the power or charm of his music he, in turn, makes of the dramatist a contributive factor rather than a lord and master. In his "Tosca," Puccini achieved precisely the transference of the center of gravity from the play to the music that is necessary when an opera is founded on a successful drama. "Tosca" is an example of how a good play can be also a good libretto. But it is the music of Puccini's score, not the well-worn melodrama derived from Sardou, that counts for those who are hearing "Tosca" for the tenth, twentieth or thirtieth time. And it is always to be remembered that an opera that cannot be heard repeatedly is a failure.

Does "Pelléas et Mélisande" supply the model that "Wozzeck," on the foregoing assumption, does not? Much more than "Tosca," it is the realization in terms of music of what the original play was in words. The essential difference between "Tosca" and "Pelléas," aside from that which is inherent in the musical idioms and personalities of the composers, is that Puccini wrote the equivalent of the old Italian set numbers for the voices, whereas Debussy contrived to adhere throughout to a conversational basis for his word setting. Each composer in his way was a master of that art of orchestration which took on a greatly increased importance after Wagner, though one has only to go back to Mozart to find operas more "symphonic" than theirs. Puccini, indeed, had little of symphonic web, his instruments being called upon to do much the same things that the voices do. Debussy's orchestra, on the other hand, provided atmosphere and background for the stage personages and their story. Neither made of the orchestra the protagonist of the drama, as Wagner and Strauss at times did. Debussy's word-setting was essentially French. Above all things, he wished to represent in his music the undulatory character of the French language, as distinct from the heavy accents of the German. The word setting of Puccini, though much more melodic in the everyday meaning of the term, is perhaps equally successful in the naturalness of its effect.

Only Ravel in his "L'Heure Espagnol" has contributed to operatic literature a fairly successful work that would seem to carry on the Debussy procedure, making due allowance of course for distinct differences between the two musical personalities, as well as between their subjects. Puccini was far less individual as a technician than Debussy. His word setting stemmed from that of the late Verdi, Ponchielli and other Italians. But he proved that the "set number" was by no means out of place in the post-Wagner world and it is to be assumed that his influence will be a strong one on the continuing line of Italian opera. Experience again has indicated that the musical appeal of the Puccini operas — narrow as is their musical expression — has assured for them a future that would appear to be denied to Pizzetti's "Fra Gherardo," a very able work representative of the theory that the music of opera exists for drama's sake.

From the late Verdi of "Otello" and "Falstaff" stems Montemezzi's "L'Amore del Tre Re," which mistakenly has been termed Wagnerian. In spite of its weak third act, it can be said to typify much that represents the best modern thought about retention of the lyric line of old Italian opera at the same time that an increased importance is given to the orchestra. The score of this opera is, in a sense, a symphonic one. There is an orchestral web which, if not of the weight or dominance of the web of a Wagner or a Strauss score, is still to be differentiated sharply from the accompaniment-figurations of older Italian opera and the orchestral amplification of the vocal line in the Puccini operas. Though this Montemezzi work seems never to have achieved elsewhere the same popularity that it attained in its first years in America, and though it may be, as some contend, a work of waning appeal, it is conceivable that in type it represents one phase, at least, of the opera of the future. By extension, that would mean that the later works of Verdi will continue to be a strong influence; along, no doubt, with those of Wagner and possibly Strauss and Debussy.

Of the crop of operas which most strikingly represented the modernists of the post-war years, little need be said, since they have not held the stage and their several trends would appear already to have been abortive. The spirit of the comic strip actuated many of these, particularly in Germany, where "Opergroteske" made almost a burlesque house of the operatic institution. Krenek's "Jonny Spielt Auf" reached America. Hindemith's exceedingly clever "Neues vom Tage" might have had a temporary place on this side, if it could have been heard in translation, so that its broad and racey comedy would not have been lost on uncomprehending ears. But there was more of "idiom" in these works than of musical juice. And the comedy that endures — Smetana's "Bartered Bride," for example — does so for the same reason that tragic opera endures. That reason is to be found in the enduring appeal of its music, which continues to build affection after the comedy of the work has become so familiar as to be funny chiefly in retrospect. To the extent that it could rival "The Bartered Bride" in musical appeal, the very entertaining "Schwanda" of Jaromir Weinberger could be said to merit a continuing place in the international repertory. For America, it too should have been translated, since much of its drollery failed of the effect on our audiences that it had upon those of Central Europe. This should not be construed, however, as an indiscriminate bid for translations.

As further experimentation adds to the practical experience of giving opera in the vernacular, there may well be a growing feeling that on both sides of an old dispute there has been a deal of dogmatic thinking and talking and that it is just as well we have not "settled" so complicated an issue on any theoretical basis.

There are operas — and operas. In some, particularly those of humorous text, it is really important to understand the words, though of course that is almost out of the question except in a relatively small theatre. In others, those of large line and broadly pictorial action, which are properly the business of the largest houses, the average opera patron is in no need of such detail, particularly if he has familiarized himself with the libretto in advance, or is hearing the work for the tenth rather than the first time. Questions of the actual harm done to musical aspects of a work when one set of words is substituted for another need not be debated here. Involved are aesthetic considerations which may or may not transcend practical questions of success in the theatre. But to insist on translation of the words of a heavily scored music drama for the reasons which might make it altogether desirable that a lightly scored comedy be translated becomes a matter of dogma. If Europe has settled the problem of opera in the vernacular in one way, America may prefer to settle it in several ways. Our progress may be along the lines of selective opera, so far as translations go.

Always there are those who would "reform" opera by making it something else. Again experience proves that they are wrong. Opera must remain opera, whether it be called by that name or some other such as music drama, Singspiel, musical romance, play with music, or lyric tragedy. Among those who are the most wrong are the partisans of the spoken theatre who conceive it their duty to try to make opera over in the image of their quite different medium. In their contempt for the "conventions" of opera, they would merely substitute, if they had their way, the conventions of the dramatic theatre. Whenever they touch opera they seem to forget that it is the music that is fundamental, and that any treatment whereby the music is in any way dislocated or clouded by an effort to make the action conform to current practices of the play world, results in a loss of effectiveness for opera as opera. They assume opera to be primarily a form of theatrical entertainment, without giving sufficient heed to the very important consideration that it also (and perhaps preponderantly) is a musical form, like the symphony, the string quartet, the oratorio and the cantata.

Of the many pitfalls that beset those who would deal "realistically" with the "synthesis," none is greater than that into which the reformer who is almost excusively a man of the theatre (and not at all a musician) is likely to stumble. Opera has developed its own conventions largely because they concede to music the right of way that it must have; not to the elimination of the other elements that serve both an art and an entertainment purpose, but to their restriction in what is basically a musical scheme.

Wagner could not rid the "Ring" of the conventions that are more readily discernible in "Rigoletto." As long as the text is to be sung, and as long as it is to be heard in conjunction with an orchestra, so that musical patterns are being projected — and without these musical patterns we would not have opera — the conventions that are right for opera are those which enhance rather than handicap its musical appeal.

There are good, bad and indifferent technicians in opera as there are in the spoken theatre. But the technique of the one is not the technique of the other. The "play with music" is not the opera of the future, since it would have the weakness of placing the greatest reliance on that which is the least likely to withstand repetition—the text and the action. Opera, with its raison d'etre being the continuing appeal of its music, as united with but ruling over the other elements of the synthesis, will remain opera.

And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day
Shall fold their tents like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away.

—Longfellow

Women As Musicians

By ERICA MORINI

THE history of women in music is one of continual uphill struggle. Now, at last, when we have earned the right to share the platform with players of the other sex, it is a victory we must prize jealously.

As a violinist rather than, for example, a singer or a pianist, it is inevitable that I should feel particularly strongly about the question. For it is only during the past fifty years that female violinists have been free to practice their art without censure, and certainly before that it was rarely if ever that they received critical consideration equal to the sort accorded their male colleagues. This, although one of the greatest composers of violin music, Mozart himself, averred that women have more innate capacity for stringed instrument playing than men, both because of the delicacy of their touch and the easier access to their emotions.

That female violinists have been especially susceptible to critical attack does not lessen the circumstance that distaff-side musicians in every sphere have been the victims of prejudice down through the centuries. In ancient times, it is true, women did play a part in communal music making. At the time of my first concert appearances in London, I saw, for example, some extremely interesting Egyptian paintings in the British Museum, depicting women playing on stringed and wind instruments. The Greeks, one recalls, erected a temple to the flautist, Lamia. During the Middle Ages, however, the position of women sank very low, and their contributions to music became non-existent.

When women gained some degree of independence in Renaissance times, the prejudice against their sex in music persisted — an attitude that to me always seems ideally reflected in the speech Shakespeare gives to one of his characters. "Will my daughter prove a good musician? I think she'll sooner prove a good soldier." The view that the "weaker sex" could not hope to excel in any of the arts was one that lingered for a long time, and was expressed by a writer of a period as late as Ruskin's, who says, "It is the province of man to create and of woman to praise." Such geniuses as George Sand and George Eliot were obliged to take masculine pen names to escape prejudgment of their work. Fanny Hensel, sister of Felix Mendelssohn, was a composer of great promise, but her illustrious brother dissuaded her from publishing her songs under her own name on the ground that it was "unfeminine." Some of her creations appear under his signature in "Songs Without Words."

Until the recent general emancipation of women, when they became able to support themselves, few women had control of money; therefore the plan for their musical education was invariably laid out by men. Serious musical education was virtually closed to them. Elementary instruction was given women in the harpsichord, later in the piano, in order to prepare them for using music as a pastime. Any other use of music was considered "unwomanly." As late as 1856, when Elizabeth Stirling submitted her exquisite "CXXX Psalms for Five Voices and Orchestra" to Oxford University, her work was lauded, but her application for a degree was rejected "for want of power to confer same on a woman."

If other female musicians found the path hard, women whose talent and sympathies attracted them to the violin had to travel an inordinately rocky road. In two and a half centuries, from 1610 to 1850, a survey has discovered only seventy-three known female violinists! In 1770, one of this handful of courageous spirits, Mara Schmelling, gave a series of violin recitals in London, only to fail publicly and be reproved socially simply because the violin was considered unsuitable for a woman. One dissenting voice alone was raised, when a single critic wrote apropos of the fiasco, "We cannot but regard the exclusion of females from the violin as a prejudice and nothing but a prejudice."

This forward-looking protest has been corroborated by future events, and today no one questions whether it is feasible for women to have the technical virtuosity and aesthetic equipment of male musicians. Yet one must realize that the disapproval of feminine performers usually has been a matter independent of the respective capacities of men and women. As Sophie Drinker writes, "The extent to which women take part in the musical activities of civilized people seems to be largely dependent upon . . . taboos and customs . . . and not so much . . . on their inherent abilities."

In the middle of the last century, two artists appeared upon the musical horizon to begin the revolutionizing of popular attitudes towards women in music. They were Teresa and Maria Milanollo, whose achievements were so dazzlingly brilliant that people could not escape the admission that women might attain distinction as violinists after all. Their success led to the emergence of other women who established themselves as recognized violin performers: Wilma Neruda in England; in America, Camilla Ursa and later Maud Powell — whose exquisite Guadagnini violin was, incidentally, conferred upon me on my sixteenth birthday by the jury of musical experts serving as executors of her will which called for the bequeathal of the instrument "to the next great woman violinist."

Once under way, the musical progress of women was accelerated. In 1871, the old Steinway Hall in New York was the setting for the first performance by a professional female orchestra in America. Five years later, 1876, was an epochal date in the history of women in music. Germany had its first female Royal Professor at Dresden's School of Music. The English High School of Music first admitted woman violin students, and the Royal Academy and Cambridge University began for the first time to offer musical degrees to women. In the same year, before the Philadelphia Centennial Congress, Fanny Ritter read a paper on "Woman as a Musician"— in all the centuries-old history of music, the first study of this kind to be made!

The prejudice that had been accumulating for hundreds of years did not, of course, die out at once. In 1892, Anton Rubinstein, in "A Conversation on Music," sneered at woman's musical ability and professed to see in the increase of women as composers and instrumentalists the signs of the downfall of music. When in 1902, the Fadettes, first American native female orchestra, was founded, the members of the Boston Symphony who had been their instructors were criticized for encouraging competition with male musicians. Two years later, when the Musicians' Union first admitted women to its ranks, there were many protests. Gustave Kerker wrote, "The Musical Union is making a great mistake. Women musicians may be all right, but they don't belong with men."

In the early stages of my own career, I have personally experienced the weighting of the scales against violinists in skirts. When my father first took me to the Vienna Conservatory to apply for admission, the secretary made out the card for the piano course, and when told that I wanted to enroll in the violin class, he declared that it was out of the question. I tried for admittance several times, but was consistently refused, until a friend persuaded the great Sevcik to hear me, and he took me under his professorial wing.

Later, during the War, when I found myself in need of money to continue my lessons, I applied for a State Prize. Playing in a public competition, I was voted the award. Before I was able to collect it, however, it was pointed out that the wording of the terms of the award specified its being given "to the man who—" and for this reason the Prize Committee felt itself obliged to withhold the bestowal.

Another experience which in the light of retrospection has its amusing aspects but at the time it occurred seemed dreadfully serious, took place when I returned to America only a handful of years ago, after several years' absence. Since I had appeared on several tours here as well as abroad, my manager did not find it necessary to mention the fact that I was a woman to people who were in a position to engage me, but merely showed them my notices which spoke of me not as a female violinist, but merely as a violinist. The local concert manager for an important city in the Midwest, sent East a contract in which I was named as Eric Morini. My New York representative, considering this a mere typographical error, did not bother to make a correction. When the first pictures of me were sent to the local impresario for publicity and he realized I was of the sex to which he had a prejudice as violinists, he insisted on cancellation of the contract! Even this hard-headed gentleman seems to have come around, however, for after my most recent tour of this country, the first letter my manager received asking for a booking quotation, bore his signature, and in it my name was spelled with the final "a" intact.

Yet even into the present decade echoes of the musical battle of the sexes intrude themselves. Jose Iturbi flared into the headlines a few years ago when he declared—in spite of the fact that his sister Amparo is a distinguished pianist and frequently his co-recitalists — that women were functionally incapable of making great music. The opposing side of the controversy was speedily taken up by Antonia Brico, director of an all-woman orchestra, and Eugene Ormandy, whose Philadelphia Orchestra numbers many feminine players in its ranks, who amid a storm of public furore obliged Iturbi to qualify if not altogether retract his allegations.

Nowadays, fortunately, such outbursts are extremely infrequent and sporadic. I am convinced, moreover, that our generation will witness the last vestige of prejudice against women musicians lifted, will see women eager to be judged not as women but as artists, and critics willing to consider them as such. That stage has virtually been reached in this country, if not in other parts of the world, where many other rights women fought to acquire are being sacrificed on the altar of barbarism. In the free atmosphere of democracy, we have equal opportunities and impartial observation, and here at last we are encouraged to see a centuries-old question on the verge of being resolved.

Sacred Music On The Radio

By LOWELL PATTON

A WELL-KNOWN prelate recently said "now more than ever we Americans realize that a free radio is another jewel in America's golden crown of precious freedoms." It is this same precious freedom which permits not only the broadcasting of sermons and messages concerning all faiths, but also the divers sacred music of all denominations and creeds.

Although the Lord worked six days and rested on the seventh, there are few days of rest for the hosts of musicians who help carry on His work, vocally and instrumentally. As a matter of fact, these musicians are confronted with no little work on the seventh day, following six days of arduous labor in preparation for the Sabbath, as well as their contributions between Sunday and Monday.

In America, the radio reaches the largest cities to the smallest hamlets. In every community, human beings are seeking God — despite pressing problems, rich and poor have an inherent desire for religious expression. Regardless of creed or approach, if such expression can be found, one is fulfilling a rightful mission.

Although sacred music quickly found its way to the ether in the earlier days of broadcasting, it has, nevertheless, attained a new zenith of interest during the more recent troubled days behind us, as well as in anticipation of the "come what may" before us.

For the most part, in times gone by, the orthodox music of the Church, the Cathedral and the Synagogue was confined to programs prompted by the shepherds of religious sanctuaries. Hymn and psalm singing were primarily the major musical attempts on such broadcasts. That there is and was a certain spiritual value to such programs, cannot be denied.

Notwithstanding, the cultural aspects are a matter for further consideration, because sacred music obviously falls into as many sub-categories as any other type of music. Among these sub-categories may be found the wheat and the chaff — the gold and the dross.

For examples of the gold and the wheat, one may turn to the masses of the European masters. In so doing, however, one must realize that these works are, in most instances, too long for radio presentation. Fortunately, many of the shorter, less creed-bound, sacred cantatas have, over a period of years, received performance and attention.

Despite the fact that the oratorio, which is possibly the most compelling form of religious music, has been confronted with the limitations of time imposed by the radio schedules, excerpts from such works have gilded the networks on numerous occasions.

The oratorio, based on religious or sacred subjects, reached its earliest perfection at the hands of J. S. Bach. The narrative usually told of the Passion of Christ. Among Bach's greatest creations were The Passions according to St. Matthew and St. John. The form of the oratorio was next brought to its highest perfection by George Frederick Handel whose first oratorio, Esther, was first performed in England in 1732. The Messiah, Judas Maccabaeus, Samson and Israel in Egypt are now considered the greatest of Handel's works. After Handel's death, Joseph Haydn's Creation and The Seasons, composed in the late eighteenth century, achieved and still retain a degree of eminence, while Saint Paul and Elijah, nineteenth-century works of Mendelssohn, have held their places in the firmanent of religious music because of the undying qualities of their musical characterizations.

Rossini, Verdi and numerous other master composers of the Italian school have, of course, contributed voluminously to the literature of religious music, and the Gregorian and other chants of earlier historical days remain supreme with those denominations which still turn to the mother Latin tongue.

Undoubtedly, such compositions represent important contributions to music, and I am not unmindful of their importance. It is, notwithstanding, the writer's opinion, with all deference to the composers aforementioned along with Saint-Saens, Beethoven, Mozart, Brahms, Franck, Purcell, Tchaikovsky and numerous other religiously-inspired and inspiring composers, that the call of the moment demands simplicity in radio broadcast of sacred music.

It is true that the radio audience has currently available such sectarian programs as those fostered by New York's Riverside Memorial Church, Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, Temple Emanuel and the Catholic Hour, while every major chain and station also sustains its own programs of sacred music. Regardless, the non-sectarian formula primarily appeals to the writer.

When I came to the National Broadcasting Company in 1930, the beginning of the depression, I was asked what I could offer America by means of radio to offset the psychology of the troubled times. The question was pointedly put to me. It involved what I could do to broaden the scope of acceptance of religious music.

"A Song For Today," the program which NBC broadcast for two years thereafter, was the answer. On these broadcasts, I presented a new song daily; not a song of the old-time revival or gospel type, but a song, nevertheless, of non-sectarian qualities, created to appeal to young and old alike. As a matter of fact, in each and every one of the songs I wrote, I aimed to tell a complete story, based on experience. From my point of view, no other type of song, sacred or not, is worth a tinker's dam.

Within the very week in which this article is being written, the American Choral Festival, under the direction of Alfred Wallenstein, presenting such notable soloists as Hardesty Johnson, tenor, Raoul Nadeau, baritone, Jean Merrill, soprano and Martha Lipton, contralto, broadcast a performance of David Stanley Smith's the Rhapsody of St. Bernard. It was a thrilling presentation, musically and psychologically acceptable, I am sure, to those of any creed. I am hoping that many more fine sacred cantatas, written by Americans, will find their way to the air waves in the very near future. Music of such spiritually uplifting quality is food for the soul, solace for tired nerves.

Whether we are to become brothers in peace or brothers under arms, it is my hope that the major portion of sacred music on the radio will, in time, wear as creedless a cloak as possible and, in that way, be instrumental in playing its part in the creation of a new "Brotherhood of Man" in America.

The Amateur Musician

By LEOPOLD PRINCE

No numerical census of amateur musicians is available, but sound mental speculation would justify an estimate of many millions of non-professional musicians in this country. School orchestras and bands are estimated at a total of some 85,000, with a total membership in excess of 1,500,000. There are also to be considered the amateur choral, oratorio, symphonic and community singing societies, instrumental and singing groups in the industries, in fraternal lodges and in athletic and social clubs. Nor ought we overlook the unsung millions of amateur singers not identified with groups but who are nonetheless consistent customers of the sheet music and record stores and whose art is enjoyed in the privacy of numberless American homes and firesides.

The sum totals involved in amateur music are indeed impressive. Estimates of private endowments for the encouragement of music study and appreciation run as high as $150,000,000 annually. Of the many thousands of American towns and cities, very few are without organizations specializing in the work of supplying a musical background to the community. These, in turn, take their cue from the state or national organizations which co-ordinate and implement the surge of local and national musical events. At the forefront are the two most dynamic institutions, namely, the Educators National Conference, of which C. V. Buttelman is Executive Secretary, and the National Bureau for Advancement of Music, of which C. M. Tremaine is director, and which has brought to realization the annual Music Week on a national scale.

There are 700 State Music Week Chairmen. Forty-five state and territorial governors have issued formal Music Week Proclamations or public statements to the press. Two hundred mayors issued proclamations in 1938 for the 1939 Music Week. Three hundred thirty-four newspapers made editorial comment on observances of Music Week. These proclamations and nationwide interest are in response to public enthusiasm for a simultaneous annual jubilee in honor of the universal art of music. This spontaneous cooperation of the music-minded masses from Maine to California, and from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico symbolizes the fascination of music over human emotions and consciousness. Under the personal signature of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mr. Tremaine received a letter from the White House, dated March 20, 1939, which ends with the paragraph, "I believe that this is an important and vital movement and I urge all communities to give hearty support to the observance of National Music Week, May 7-13, 1939."

The celebration of the first Music Week on a national scale occurred in 1924. President Calvin Coolidge accepted the Honorary Chairmanship of the event and continued as such chairman during his regime. The succeeding presidents, Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt, followed what has now become a custom and which is bound to develop into a tradition.

The NBAM was organized in 1922. In 1935 the Bureau gave 5,128 certificates to winners of musical contests in which over 100,00 children competed. Certificates went into 1200 different communities. It has introduced Music Week into 2,000 towns and cities. It has led in the work of introducing music in hospitals, orphan asylums, homes for the aged, and in prisons and mental hospitals. It has cooperated with the public school music supervisors, parent-teachers associations, musical and non-musical groups, Chambers of Commerce, churches, libraries, and industries in fostering musical activity. The National Bureau holds as one of its chief objectives the discovery and encouragement of American composers.

From the above general background throwing light upon the obscure millions interested in music as a study, hobby and avocation, we turn our attention to the aims, opportunities and aspirations of the amateur musician. Let not the word "amateur" be permitted to convey the idea of a lower degree of talent, or ability, for among those are found the Dvoraks (truck gardeners), and Borodins (chemists) and Rimsky-Korsakoff's (naval officers) and the frequent "discoveries."

As director of the City Amateur Symphony Orchestra of New York, consisting of 110 "amateur" players, I have received praise for the organization from eminent musicians as well as from non-musicians, including a letter from Professor Albert Einstein, who wrote:

March 2, 1938

Justice Leopold Prince
Municipal Court
8 Reade Street
New York, N. Y.
My dear Judge Prince:

Aside from the marvelous exhibition of the Mozart Concerto played by the young pianist, Frances Sachs, your concert was an astonishing achievement. While listening in, I was at no time made to realize that amateurs were performing.

I congratulate you on your work, which I regard very high as an educational accomplishment.

Friendly greetings from Yours,
Albert Einstein"

In the city of New York there are a number of such orchestras as, for instance, the Doctors' Symphony Orchestra, A. W. Binder, director; Bronx Y. M. H. A. Symphony Orchestra; Ethical Culture Symphony Orchestra and others, all composed of players who pursue non-musical professions and businesses. These orchestras also afford a much needed opportunity for practice and self-expression.

Advanced pupils of eminent musical pedagogues and of music schools often obtain their opportunity for public appearance in our Orchestra, both as soloists and in ensemble playing. Soloists, vocal and instrumental, appear at each of the fifteen yearly concerts of the City Amateur Symphony Orchestra and these concerts are broadcast over WNYC. The need for such organizations is apparent from the long waiting lists of musicians eager to be qualified and given the coveted opportunity. These orchestras also supply a "proving ground" for the future members of the major orchestras. Two of our players have recently been taken over by the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, and others of our former players are with various orchestras in the United States.

It is inevitable that the large scale indoctrination of music endows a large portion of our masses with musical knowledge, skill and appreciation. But a handful pursue music professionally as against the great numbers to whom it supplies an absorbing hobby and avocation. Hence the amateur glee clubs, chorals, amateur bands and orchestras which afford an outlet for such amateur talent, present also an excellent opportunity for social contact of those of a kindred culture as well as a causeway for a musical career for those whose special skill and ambition so qualify them. Thus the amateur orchestral and choral organizations hold out the sole opportunity for self-expression and public appearance and the incentive for continued practice and interest.

It may well be said that the entire musical structure of our nation rests upon the amateur musician as a sub-structure; for it is largely the amateur musician who is at the forefront of local musical activity and in the front line at the box office. It is the amateur musician who collects recordings, evaluates ancient and modern composers and their music, leads discussions about Stravinsky, Hadley and Gershwin and what is forthcoming over the radio networks. It is the amateur who obliges the local committees, the church and the forum by singing and playing for the enjoyment of the assembly and the replenishment of church and charitable bank balances.

Modern Harmony

By TOM TIMOTHY

THIS article is neither meant to condemn the orthodox and conventional system of harmony, nor to present a complete treatise on the subject of modern harmony, but merely to offer the highlights of some changing trends in music.

Throughout musical history, there has been a continual resentment against any departure from the orthodox and conventional treatment of the existing musical patterns. In other scientific fields, there has always been a movement ahead, and the practitioners of these different sciences were always ready to welcome any theory that might result in advancing their work. Music is also a science, and, as such, should be treated in the same manner. Of course, music is not as tangible a science as medicine, for instance, but it is no less an exact one. Its conditions are realized more from instinct, probably, than from pure logic, but the fundamental elements are as definite and exact as in any other field of science.

Music is a heritage that has been handed down to us and upon which we have made the necessary developments and extensions so as to have it conform to the present day environment. It is to be expected that many of the present day treatments are not discussed in many textbooks that are in use, because at the time these textbooks were published, recent innovations had not been established. There are theories present today relating to harmony, counterpoint, orchestration, and rhythmical designs that did not exist thirty years ago.

For example, the usage of 9th chords in succession is a common device today, whereas, according to the older forms, the 9th chord should be resolved carefully before proceeding to another such chord. Then there is the use of the 11th chord. The only manner in which this chord could be produced academically is in the form of a suspension which of course would have to be introduced and resolved carefully. The new treatment is to use such chords freely, without any preparation, and if desired, a continual succession of these chords is permissible.

The use of the chord with added 6th is a common practice at this time, but yet it is not allowed in most systems of harmony. It is considered as being an unresolved appogiatura. Another modern idiom is to perform the suspension at the perfect cadence, whereby the 5th of the dominant chord is suspended into a tonic chord and left unresolved. This is extremely objectionable from the theoretical viewpoint, as the contention is that all such dissonant intervals demand a resolution. On paper, of course, the suspended tone will never resolve itself. But, when the tones are put into vibration, the other and stronger intervals of the tonic chord have the power to overcome the suspended tone so that the resolution is heard. The theory surrounding this unusual action is that the suspended tone is resolved through "evaporation." Maurice Ravel made frequent use of this design. As far as that goes, Luigi A. Sabbatini, in 1775, advocated the use of the chord with the unresolved suspension and also caused great consternation among the theorists by inverting the chord of the 9th so that the root of the chord appeared in the position above the 9th, which of course goes against the theoretical presentation.

There may be a good reason for modern treatments of harmony being subjected to so much adverse criticism because the treatments are comparatively recent as far as the history of music is concerned. For example, at the turn of the century, Guiseppe Verdi had been dead but a few years. The well-known opera, Madame Butterfly, by Giacomo Puccini, had just been completed. Claude Debussy was just coming into prominence. Arnold Schönberg, who has often been called the "father of atonality," had not yet begun to compose his famous Verklärte Nacht, which has done very much to upset many hardfast and conventional rules of harmony. Another well-known genius in the musical field, Igor Stravinsky, was still studying orchestration with Rimsky-Korsakov.

It would be futile to continue with the listing of well-known composers who did much to bring the modern trend into existence during the last quarter of a century, because the list is well-nigh inexhaustible. Modern music cannot be dismissed as being undesirable just because it employs a system that was not used in the eighteenth century. We might just as well refuse to use electric lights, automobiles, airplanes, radios, and many other modern conveniences on the grounds that our forefathers got along very well without them.

Music is a natural phenomenon, and, as such, it must follow laws of nature. Nothing stands still in nature. There is a continual advance. To remain placid is to become stagnant. Those great geniuses that did so very much to develop music and to bring it up to its present standard were just as severely condemned by their contemporaries as the present day writers are condemned by the advocates of the older types of music. Beethoven's Fifth Symphony shocked the audiences with its dissonant harmonies. Of course, in listening to this masterpiece today, there is not evidence of any extreme dissonance because our ears are attuned to these harmonies, through evolution. Stravinsky's first concert was hissed and booed and was considered an insult to the musical intelligence of the audience. Richard Wagner is spoken of very highly in these times, but in his own time, he was practically an outcast in musical circles. Even to this day, there is a continual controversy regarding the legitimacy of Debussy's compositions.

In twenty-five years or thirty years from now perhaps, some of the present day composers who are considered to be so radical, will in turn be recognized as great artists, and then, no doubt, there will be the same old objection against the new and different treatments by the musical pioneers of that future period.

America Likes Band Music

By CAPTAIN EUGENE LaBARRE

DOWN through the ages, it has been the fore-runner to the modern band that has trumpeted war and heralded peace. The beating of the drums and the melodious quick-stepping inspirations of unmuted wind instruments have compelled vast millions to keep in cadence with them.

As a youngster, wherever and whenever there was a parade in your town, you broke into a run in order not to miss both hearing and seeing the band heading it. It was the band that set your blood racing and your heart pounding particularly when it was thundering a rousing march, such as one of those written by the immortal Sousa.

In years gone by, the band was the lure which led to the village green. In later years, the great public parks and music lyceums became the settings for bands of the new order.

Perhaps the progress of band music in America was note quite as rapid as that which took place in Europe many, many years before these turbulent times. Europe in its calmer days had many excellent concert bands in the top brackets of musical and artistic acceptance. Among the most outstanding organizations of this type were the Grenadier Guards Band of London, the Garde Republicane Band of Paris and, more recently, some of the bands of Italy's after work project including the Chieti Band which came to this country during the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. All these organizations have been sources of national pride in their various countries.

Since the disbanding of the world famous Sousa Band in 1933, due to the death of its great leader, several bands comparable with the greatest in Europe have sprung up in America. Nevertheless, there is still an urgent need for the establishment of more American bands to equal if not eclipse foreign organizations.

I do not know how close the clouds of war are hovering over this nation. That there are clouds, none can deny. And band music may again play a major role in time of national emergency. In order to supply an ideal and "pattern" for the boys and girls who are playing in our school bands, bands and the best bands that it is possible to put together, are needed. Other amateur musicians, including many participating in such organizations as those of the American Legion, colleges, fraternal, industrial and municipal units need the inspiration which only truly great bands can give them.

The number of children who are currently playing instruments in school bands is approximately six million. This number is constantly increasing as more schools add music studies to their curricula. Adding these youngsters to the other amateur musicians aforementioned, together with their families, friends and other followers of band music, represents approximately forty per cent of the population of America to whom good band music has a direct appeal.

It is unfortunate that sponsors of radio programs have neglected the vast band-loving public. This, in part, may be due to cost, although the employment of many name stars on numerous programs somewhat denies it; so does the fact that large symphonic orchestras are heard almost daily on the air. Adherents of symphonic music will undoubtedly contradict me, but, in my belief, the appeal of the symphony orchestra compared with that of the band is negligible as far as the masses are concerned.

Nine out of ten persons I meet voice their preference for band music, because they understand and enjoy it best. Band renditions of rousing marches, light classics, musical comedy excerpts and characteristic novelty numbers, are not too deep for the average citizen.

Up to seven years ago, until the death of John Philip Sousa, his great organization toured the United States and Canada, year after year, constantly breaking box office records. The band even carried on through the first years of the depression by paid admissions from the public. Although it may be hard for some to swallow, it is, nevertheless, true that during the same period numerous symphony orchestras were tottering and would have fallen, had it not been for the subsidies of a few wealthy persons.

Today, however, while many large orchestras are sponsored on the air, the more popular concert band is outside looking into the windows of the radio studios given over to commercial programs, wanting to come in because it realizes how well it could cooperate in the selling of American products. Indeed, I am certain that the first sponsor of a great concert band will command nation-wide interest and build an inestimable amount of good will.

I love a band and I know all America loves one. My experience as director of the World's Fair Band in New York, during its 1940 season, confirmed that knowledge. Many visitors to the Fair —from as far west as majestic Oregon, as far east as the borders beyond our own United States, and from across the seas — found great pleasure in "The Symphony to Swing Concerts" which the band played daily.

Pointing out a definite weakness relative to bands, it might be said that with few exceptions, American concert bands have not progressed with the times. The masses have learned the difference between smooth, musical sounds and ear-splitting noises. In attending concerts, they are no longer satisfied with loud, high-sounding music which was primarily designed for outdoor military purposes, as indicated in the standard band arrangements played by old-fashioned bands.

The bands which are today being favorably accepted have altered their instrumentations and have revoiced their arrangements so as to eliminate harshness.

The use of clarinets, playing in the extreme high register with florid embellishments, causing bad intonation of the entire ensemble, is a factor which has been and must continue to be overcome to popularize band music. The over-blowing of brass instruments must be eliminated to avoid the reputation of being boisterous and unrefined.

Only a band equipped with proper arrangements and an instrumentation creating proper balance can be made to sound as smooth as a symphony orchestra. America needs and wants more of that type of band; and, what America needs and wants, she will get.

Listen to all music in the same spirit. Give it all an equal chance. Don't force yourself to hear the things you are sure you don't like, but don't go on listening to cheap stuff after it has begun to bore you. If you like a tune, don't be ashamed to say so. If you change your mind later, that is your privilege. Don't worry about your musical taste. It will develop normally if you hear enough music, both good and bad. Form your own opinions and use your own ears.—Sigmund Spaeth.

CONTEMPORARY LITERATURE ON MUSIC

A CLASSIFIED COMPILATION OF THE MOST IMPORTANT BOOKS IN ALL BRANCHES OF MUSIC PUBLISHED IN THE LAST FIVE YEARS.

THIS LIST OF MORE THAN SIX HUNDRED BOOKS IN ALL BRANCHES OF MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE EMBRACES THE ESSENTIAL PUBLICATIONS FROM APPROXIMATELY SEPTEMBER, 1935, TO AUGUST, 1940. HERE IS FURNISHED A SURVEY OF RECENT LITERATURE ON MUSIC DIVIDED INTO VARIOUS CATEGORIES SO THAT BY A MINIMUM OF EFFORT BOOKS OF PARTICULAR CLASSIFICATION MAY BE FOUND. VOLUMES OF HIGHLY SPECIALIZED NATURE HAVE BEEN EXCLUDED. MUSICOLOGICAL MATERIAL WAS INCLUDED IF IT DEALT WITH A TERMINOLOGY UNDERSTANDABLE TO THOSE WHO HAVE NOT ENJOYED EXTENSIVE MUSICAL TRAINING OR, AS IN SOME CASES, IN WHICH THE TERMINOLOGY APPLIED WAS EXPLAINED AND GENERALLY COMPREHENSIBLE. AS FAR AS THE CLASSIFICATION INTO TEN DIFFERENT CATEGORIES IS CONCERNED, THE READER WILL OBSERVE THAT IN MANY CASES THE LISTING WAS ARBITRARY; BIOGRAPHIES FREQUENTLY INCLUDE ANALYTICAL EVALUATIONS AND MONOGRAPHIES, FOR INSTANCE ON ORCHESTRA AND CONDUCTING, IN GENERAL DO NOT DISPENSE WITH AESTHETIC CONSIDERATIONS.

THE COMPILATION IS CONFINED TO VOLUMES IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; A FEW BOOKS TRANSLATED INTO ENGLISH WHICH FITTED INTO THE GENERAL POLICY HAVE BEEN CLASSIFIED.

THIS SECTION, DEMONSTRATING THE GREAT AMOUNT OF BOOKS WHICH HAVE BEEN PUBLISHED IN AMERICA DURING THE LAST FIVE YEARS, IS SPLENDID TESTIMONY OF THE EVER-INCREASING DESIRE OF THE AMERICAN MUSIC-LOVER TO KNOW MORE ABOUT THE TONAL ART.

CLASSIFICATIONS

1. Biographies.
2. Analysis, appreciation, history, and aesthetics of music.
3. Orchestra, string ensembles, bands, instruments, conducting.
4. Vocal music, folk music, art music, sacred music.
5. Opera, serious and light, and oratorio.
6. The dance.
7. Popular music.
8. Piano literature.
9. Miscellaneous.
10. Dictionaries and encyclopedic volumes.

BIOGRAPHIES

Albrecht, Otto E.
Francis Hopkinson, musician, poet and patriot. (Reprinted from the Library Chronicle of the University of Pennsylvania, Vol. 6, No. 1, March 1938) 15 p. Philadelphia: The Author, 1938.

Anderson, William Robert
Haydn. (Novello's biographies of great musicians. General editor, William McNaught) London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Arvey, Verna
William Grant Still. With an introduction by John Tasker Howard. (Studies of contemporary American composers) 48 p. New York: J. Fischer & Bro., 1939.

Bacharach, Alfred Louis, ed.
Lives of the great composers. By various authors. With an introduction by H. C. Colles. 658 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. (American ed.)

Bacharach, Alfred Louis
Lives of the great composers. By various authors, with an introduction by H. C. Colles. 658 p. London: Victor Gollancz, Ltd.

Bachmann, L. B.
The heart ever faithful. The story of John Sebastian Bach. Translated by K. T. Stephenson. 440 p. London: G. E. J. Coldwell.

Basch, Victor
Schumann, a life of suffering. Translated from the French by Catherine Alison Phillips. vii, 243 p. New York: Tudor Publishing Co., 1936, (Cheap edition).

Bates, Helen Dixon
Francis Scott Key. 118 p. New York: Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., 1936.

Bates, Ralph
Franz Schubert. 171 p. London: Peter Davies, Ltd., 1934.

Bates, Ralph
Franz Schubert. 166 p. New York: D. Appleton-Century Co., Inc., 1935. (American ed.)

Bekker, Paul
Richard Wagner: his life in his work. Translated by Mildred Mary Bozman. 522 p. London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Berlioz, Hector
Memoirs of Hector Berlioz, from 1803 to 1865, comprising his travels in Germany, Italy, Russia, and England. Translated by Rachel (Scott Russell) Holmes and Eleanor Holmes. Annotated, and the translation revised, by Ernest Newman. xxiii, 533 p. New York: Tudor Publishing Co., 1935 (Cheap edition)

Blom, Eric
Mozart. (The Master Musicians. New series, revised and edited by Eric Blom.) 388 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. (American ed.)

Blom, Eric
Schubert. (Novello's biographies of great musicians, general editor, William McNaught) London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Blumenthal, George
My sixty years in show business; a chronicle of the American theater, 1874-1934, as told to Arthur H. Menkin. xiv, 336 p. New York: F. C. Osberg, 1936. (Numerous chapters devoted to opera)

Bonavia, Ferruccio
Mozart. (Novello's biographies of great musicians, general editor, William McNaught) London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Bourman, Anatole and D. Lyman
The tragedy of Nijinsky. xx, 291 p. New York: McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., 1936.

Bowen, Catherine Drinker, and Barbara von Meck
Beloved friend; the story of Tschaikowsky and Nadejda von Meck. 484 p. New York: Random House, 1937.

Bowen, Catherine Shober Drinker
Free artist. The story of Anton and Nicholas Rubinstein. xi, 412 p. New York: Random House, 1939.

Brennecke, Ernest, Jr.
John Milton the elder and his music. (Columbia University Studies in Musicology) xiii, 224 p. New York: Columbia University Press, 1938.

Brentnall, Thomas
My memories. Being the reminiscences of a nonagenarian. 320 p. Melbourne: Robertson & Mullens.

Brockway, Wallace & Herbert Weinstock
Men of music. Their lives, times and achievements. xviii, 613 p. New York: Simon and Schuster, 1939.

Buhrman, T. Scott
Bach's life chronologically as he lived it. 54 p. New York: Organ Interests, Inc., 1935.

Burch, Gladys & John Wolcott
A child's book of famous composers. 184 p. New York: A. S. Barnes & Co., 1939.

Burk, John Naglee
Clara Schumann. A romantic biography. ix, 438 p. New York: Random House, 1940.

Busoni, Ferruccio Benvenuto
Ferruccio Busoni: Letters to his wife. New York: Longmans, Green & Co.

Calvocoressi, Michel D. & Gerald Abraham
Masters of Russian music. 511 p. New York: A. A. Knopf, 1936 (American ed.)

Calvocoressi, Michel D. and Gerald Abraham
Masters of Russian music; biographical studies of the great Russian composers, with portraits. 511 p. London: Duckworth & Co., Ltd., 1936.

Carpenter, Charles Kynett
French factors in Beethoven's life. 17 p. New York: American Society of the French Legion of Honor, 1935.

Chaliapin, Feodor
Chaliapin, man and mask; forty years in the life of a singer. Translated from the French for the first time by Phyllis Megroz. xxiv, 358 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1935 (New ed.)

Chamier, J. Daniel
Percy Pitt of Covent Garden and the B. B. C. With an introduction by Henry J. Wood. 248 p. London: Edward Arnold & Co.

Clark, Barrett Harper
Great short biographies of modern times, the seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries; a collection of short biographies, literary portraits and memoirs chosen from the literatures of the modern world. New York: Albert and Charles Boni, 1933. (Includes Mozart, by Stendhal; Berlioz, by Rolland.)

Clemens, Clara
My husband Gabrilowitsch. 351 p. New York and London: Harper & Brothers, 1938.

Coates, Henry
Palestrina. (The Master Musicians series, revised and edited by Eric Blom) London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Cooper, Martin
Georges Bizet. London: Oxford University Press.

Cooper, Martin
Gluck. With a preface by Edward J. Dent. 293 p. London: Chatto & Windus.

Cunliffe Owen, Sidney
Gentlemen! Old Bach is here; thirty-one Leipzig variations on the theme of John Sebastian Bach. 281 p. London: Hutchinson & Co., Ltd., 1936.

Davenport, Marcia
Of Lena Geyer. 473 p. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1936.

DeJarnette, Reven S.
Hollis Dann. His life and contribution to music education. (The New Laurel Library, Peter W. Dykema, general editor) xii, 157 p. Boston: C. C. Birchard Co., 1940.

Delaplaine, Edward S.
Francis Scott Key. Life and times. xiv, 506 p. Brooklyn: Biography Press, 1937.

Delius, Clare
Frederick Delius. Memories of my brother. 276 p. London: Ivor Nicholson & Watson, 1935.

Dent, Edward Joseph
Handel. 142 p. London: Duckworth, 1934.

Dole, Nathan Haskell
Famous composers. Fourth edition, with an appendix by David Ewen. xi, 866 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1936.

Dunhill, Thomas F.
Sir Edward Elgar. 210 p. London: Blackie.

Einstein, Alfred
Gluck. Translated by Eric Blom. (The Master Musicians. New Series, revised & edited by Eric Blom.) 238 p. London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Ekman, Karl
Jean Sibelius. Translated by Edward Birse, with a foreword by Ernest Newman. New York: Alfred A. Knopf (American ed.)

Ekman, Karl
Jean Sibelius: His life and personality. With a foreword by Ernest Newman. 270 p. London: A. Wilmer.

Elliott, J. H.
Berlioz. (The Master Musicians series, revised and edited by Eric Blom) London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Evans, Edwin
Tchaikovsky. (The Master Musicians. New Series, revised and edited by Eric Blom) 236 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. (American ed.)

Evans, Edwin
Tchaikovsky. (The Master Musicians. New series, revised and edited by Eric Blom.) London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Farrar, Geraldine
Such sweet compulsion. The autobiography of Geraldine Farrar. xii, 303 p. New York: The Greystone Press, 1938.

Fellowes, Edmund Horace
William Byrd. Third edition, 273 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1936.

Fenby, Eric
Delius as I knew him. London: G. Bell & Sons, Ltd.

Finck, Hermann
My melodious memories. 304 p. London: Hutchinson & Co., Ltd.

Flower, Newman
Franz Schubert, the man and his circle. xiii, 369 p. New York: Tudor Publishing Co., 1936. (Cheap ed.)

Franko, Sam
Chords and discords; memoirs and musings of an American musician. 186 p. New York: The Viking Press, 1938.

Fuchs, Carl
Musical and other recollections of Carl Fuchs, 'cellist. 131 p. Manchester: Sherratt & Hughes 1937.

Geiringer, Karl
Brahms: his life and work. Translated by H. B. Weiner and Bernard Miall. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Co., 1936. (American ed.)

Geiringer, Karl
Brahms: his life and work. Translated by H. B. Weiner and Bernard Miall. 352 p. London: Allen & Unwin, Ltd.

Goss, Madeleine
Deep-flowing brook. The story of Johann Sebastian Bach. 239 p. New York: Henry Holt and Co., 1938.

Goss, Mrs. Madeleine Binkley
Bolero. The life of Maurice Ravel. x, 303 p. New York: Henry Holt and Co., 1940.

Gotch, Rosamund Brunel
Mendelssohn and his friends in Kensington; letters from Fanny and Sophy Horsley, written 1833-36. 289 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1934.

Grace, Harvey
Bach. (Novello's biographies of great musicians, general editor, William McNaught) London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Gray, Cecil
Sibelius. Second edition. ix, 224 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1934.

Greene, Harry Plunket
Charles Villiers Stanford. 287 p. New York: Longmans, Green & Co. (American ed.)

Haldane, Charlotte
Music, my love! One listener's autobiography. 245 p. London: A. Barker, Ltd., 1936.

Hamilton, Cosmo
Discord & harmony. A romance in which is dramatized something of the characters, the work and the quarrels of Gilbert and Sullivan. 239 p. London, Toronto: W. Heinemann, Ltd., 1938.

Handel, George Frederick
The letters and writings of George Frederick Handel. Edited by Erich H. Müller. vii, 98 p. London: Cassell and Co., 1935.

Haraszti, Emil
Béla Bartók: His life and works. Translated by Dorothy Swainson and the author. 104 p. Paris: The Lyrebird Press, 1938.

Harsányi, Zsolt
Immortal Franz. The life and loves of a genius. Translated from the Hungarian by Lynton Hudson. 486 p. New York: Frederick A. Stokes & Co., 1937. (Published in England as "Hungarian Melody.")

Harsányi, Zsolt
Immortal Franz. The life and love affairs of Franz Liszt. Translated from the Hungarian by Lynton Hudson. 486 p. New York: Blue Ribbon Books, 1939.

Haskell, Arnold Lionel David
Diaghileff. His artistic and private life. In collaboration with Walter Nouvel. xxxii, 359 p.

New York: Simon and Schuster, 1935.

Henderson, A. M.
Musical memories. 143 p. Glasgow: Grant Educational Co.

Herriot, Edouard
The life and times of Beethoven. Translated by Adelheid I. Mitchell and William J. Mitchell. 399 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1935.

Heylbut, Rose
Like softest music; love stories of famous composers. With an introduction by Richard Crooks. xvii, 300 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1936.

Hill, Ralph
Liszt. (Great Lives series.) 144 p. London: Duckworth & Co., Ltd.

Holland, Arthur Keith
Purcell. (Novello's biographies of great musicians. General editor, William McNaught) London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Hollins, Alfred
A blind musician looks back. 478 p. London: W. Blackwood & Sons, Ltd.

Holst, Imogen
Gustav Holst. With a note by R. Vaughan Williams. 200 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Homer, Sidney
My wife and I. The story of Louise and Sidney Homer. xiii, 269 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1939.

Howard, John Tasker
Ethelbert Nevin. xiv, 423 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1935.

Huneker, James Gibbons
Intimate letters. Collected and edited by Josephine Huneker. With a foreword by Benjamin DeCasseres. 322 p. New York: Liveright Publishing Co., 1936.

Jacobs, Robert
Wagner. (The Master Musicians. New Series, revised and edited by Eric Blom.) London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Jacobs, Robert L.
Wagner. (The Master Musicians. New Series, revised and edited by Eric Blom.) 242 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. (American ed.)

Jarosy, Albert
All change here; an eccentric biography. 304 p. London: Longmans, Green & Co., Ltd.

Johannes Brahms
The story of a great composer who was called one of the Three B's (Bach-Beethoven-Brahms). (Child's own book of great musicians) 15 p. Philadelphia: Theodore Presser Co., 1938.

Johansen, David Monrad
Edvard Grieg. Translated from the Norwegian by Madge Robertson. vii, 400 p. Princeton: Princeton University Press; New York: American-Scandinavian Foundation, 1938.

Jones, Howard Mumford
The harp that once—; a chronicle of the life of Thomas Moore. xvi, 365 p. New York: Henry Holt and Co., 1937.

Kastendieck, Miles Merwin
England's musical poet, Thomas Campion. 203 p. New York: Oxford University Press, 1938.

Kaufmann, Schima
Mendelssohn, "a second Elijah." xiii, 353 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1934.

Kolb, Annette
Mozart. With an introduction by Jean Girardoux. Translated by Phyllis and Trevor Blewitt. 381 p. London: Victor Gollancz.

Kracauer, S.
Orpheus in Paris. Offenbach and the Paris of his time. Translated from the German by Gwenda David & Eric Mosbacher. xiv, 373 p. New York: A. A. Knopf, 1938. (American edition)

Krishna Iyer, E.
Personalities in present day music. xxii, 90 p. Madras: Rochouse and Sons, 1933.

Lehmann, Lotte
Eternal flight, 265 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1937.

Lehmann, Lotte
Wings of song; an autobiography. Translated from the German by Margaret Ludwig. 252 p. London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trubner & Co.

Lehmann, Lotte
Midway in my song. The autobiography of Lotte Lehmann. ix, 250 p. Indianapolis, New York: The Bobbs-Merrill Co., 1938. (American edition; title of English edition, "Wings of Songs")

Levant, Oscar
A smattering of ignorance. 267 p. New York: Doubleday, Doran & Co., 1940.

Liebenam, Lore
G. F. Handel and Halle. In memory of the 250th anniversary of the composer's birth. Halle: Deutsch - Englischer Kultur-Austausch, 1935.

Lightwood, James Thomas
Samuel Wesley, musician. The story of his life. London: Epworth Press.

Lockspeiser, Edward
Berlioz. (Novello's biographies of great musicians. General editor, William McNaught) London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Lockspeiser, Edward
Debussy. (Master Musicians series, revised and edited by Eric Blom.) 292 p. London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Lyle, Watson
Rachmaninov. A biographical sketch. 247 p. London: William Reeves.

Mannes, David
Music is my faith. An autobiography. 270 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1938.

McCall, A. D.
Adventures with music and musicians. Chapel Hill: University of North Carolina Press, 1935.

McCord, David Thompson Watson
H. T. P.: portrait of a critic. viii, 25 p. New York: Coward-McCann, Inc., 1935.

Meynell, Esther
Bach. 136 p. London: Duckworth, 1933.

Miller, Jewell
Polonaise militaire; the life and work of Frédéric Chopin. A dramatic poem in three parts. 128 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1936.

Morneweck, Mrs. Evelyn Foster
The birthplace of Stephen C. Foster as recorded by his father, mother and brother and other contemporary authorities. 39 p. Detroit: Privately Printed by the Author, 1936.

Mowat, R. B.
Jean-Jacques Rousseau. 368 p. London: Arrowsmith, 1938.

Mozart, Wolfgang Amadeus
The letters of Mozart & his family. Chronologically arranged, translated and edited with an introduction, notes and indices by Emily Anderson. With extracts from the letters of Constanze Mozart to Johann Anton André translated and edited by C. B. Oldman. 3 vol. London: Macmillan and Co., Ltd., 1938.

Mozart, Wolfgang Amadeus
Letters of Mozart. Edited by Hans Mersmann. Translated by M. M. Bozman. (Aldine Libary, No. 7) 278 p. London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Murdoch, William
Chopin: his life. 410 p. London: J. Murray, 1934.

Murdoch, William
Chopin: his life. xvi, 410 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1935. (American ed.)

Newman, Ernest
The man Liszt; a study of the tragi-comedy of a soul divided against itself. xxii, 313 p. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1935. (American ed.)

Newman, Ernest
Wagner as man and artist. xv, 399 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1937.

Newman, Ernest
The life of Richard Wagner. Volume two: 1848-1860. xx, 619, xxviii p. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1937.

Newmarch, Rosa
Jean Sibelius. (A short story of a long friendship) 131 p. Boston: C. C. Birchard Co., 1939.

Nicotra, Tobia
Arturo Toscanini. Translated from the Italian by Irma Brandeis and H. D. Kahn. 236 p. New York: The Sun Dial Press, Inc., 1938. (New ed.)

Niemann, Walter
Brahms. Translated by Catherine Alison Phillips. xiii, 492 p. New York: Tudor Publishing Co., 1937. (Cheap edition)

Nijinsky, Vaslav
The diary of Vaslav Nijinsky. Edited by Romola Nijinsky. xvii, 187 p. New York. Simon and Schuster, 1936.

O'Donnell, Josephine
Among the Covent Garden stars. Foreword by Sir Thomas Beecham. 295 p. London: Stanley Paul & Co., Ltd., 1936.

Paderewski, Ignace Jan & Mary Lawton
The Paderewski memoirs. x, 404 p. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1938.

Parry, Charles Hubert Hastings
Studies of great composers. 20th edition. vi, 376 p. New York: E. P. Dutton and Co., 1934.

Pearson, Hesketh
Gilbert and Sullivan; a biography. 317 p. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1935. (American ed.)

Pearson, Hesketh
Gilbert and Sullivan. London: H. Hamilton, 1935.

Pearson, V.
Master musicians. 78 p. Boston: Christopher, 1934.
Peter Ilyitch Tschaikowsky. The story of a little boy who used to imitate the tunes of a musical clock on the piano. (Child's own book of great musicians) 15 p. Philadelphia: Theodore Presser Co., 1938.
Portraits of great composers, with biographical sketches. Twenty duotone etchings. 40 p. Chicago: Hall & McCreary Co., 1936.

Powell, Mrs. Richard
Edward Elgar: Memories of a variation. 99 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Priestley, John Boynton
Midnight on the desert; a chapter of autobiography. 312 p. London: William Heinemann, Ltd., 1937.

Ratter, Magnus C.
Albert Schweitzer. 260 p. London: Allenson & Co., Ltd., 1935.

Reed, William H.
Elgar as I knew him. 223 p. London: Victor Gollancz, Ltd., 1936.

Reed, William Henry
Elgar. (The Modern Musicians series, edited by Eric Blom) 215 p. London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Reis, Claire
Composers in America; biographical sketches of living composers with a record of their works, 1912-1937. 270 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1938.

Riesemann, Oskar von Moussorgsky. Translated from the German by Paul England. ix, 412, xvii p. New York: Tudor Publishing Co., 1935. (Reprint.)

Riezler, Walter
Beethoven. With an introduction by Wilhelm Furtwängler. Translated by G. D. H. Pidcock. 312 p. London: M. C. Forrester, 1938.

Robertson, Alec
Brahms. (Novello's biographies of great musicians. General editor, William McNaught) London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Rolland, Romain
Beethoven the creator. The great creative epochs: I, from the Eroica to the Appassionata. Translated by Ernest Newman. 432 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., 1937.

Samaroff Stokowski, Olga
An American musician's story. 326 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1939.

Schwimmer, Franciska
Great musicians as children. ix, 238 p. New York: Doubleday, Doran & Co., Inc., 1938.

Scott, Marion M.
Mendelssohn. (Novello's biographies of great musicians, general editor, William McNaught) London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Seligman, Vincent
Puccini among friends. xiii, 373 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1938. (American edition)

Sessions, Ruth Huntington
Sixty-odd; a personal history. xiv, 429 p. Brattleboro, Vt.; Stephen Daye Press, 1936.

Sitwell, Sacheverell
Liszt. Boston: Houghton, 1934. (American ed.)

Sitwell, Sacheverell
La Vie Parisienne; a tribute to Offenbach. 108 p. London: Faber & Faber, Ltd.

Slezak, Leo
Song of motley. Being the reminiscences of a hungry tenor. 302 p. London: William Hodge & Co., Ltd.

Smith, Kate
Living in a great big way. xiii, 230 p. New York: Blue Ribbon Books, 1938.

Smyth, Ethel
As time went on. London: Longmans, Green & Co., Ltd., 1936.

Speyer, Edward
My life and friends. With a foreword by H. C. Colles. 238 p. London: Cobden-Sanderson, Ltd.

Starkie, Walter
Don Gypsy; adventures with a fiddle in Barbary, Andalusia and La Mancha. 525 p. London: J. Murray.

Stebbins, Lucy Poate & Richard Poate
Enchanted wanderer. The life of Carl Maria von Weber. xi, 345 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1940.

Stefan, Paul
Arturo Toscanini. With a foreword by Stefan Zweig. Translated by Eden and Cedar Paul. 126 p. New York: The Viking Press, 1936.

Stravinsky, Igor
Stravinsky. Autobiography. New York: Simon and Schuster, 1936. (American ed.)

Stravinsky, Igor
Chronicle of my life. Trans- London: V. Gollancz, Ltd.
lated from the French. 286 p.

Tapper, Thomas
Edward MacDowell. The story of an American boy whose music is known all over the world. (Child's own book of great musicians) 16 p. Philadelphia: Theodore Presser Co., 1938.

Tinyanova, Helen
Stradivari, the violin-maker. (From the Russian, rewritten in English by Charles Angoff) 99 p. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1938.

Thompson, Oscar
Debussy, man and artist. xi, 395 p. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co., 1937.

Thorndike, Arthur Russell
Children of the garter. Being the memoirs of a Windsor Castle choir-boy during the last years of Queen Victoria. xi, 224 p. London: Rich & Cowan, Ltd., 1937.

Törne, Bengt de
Sibelius: a close up. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Co. (American ed.)

Toye, Francis
Rossini; a study in tragi-comedy. xvii, 269 p. New York: A. A. Knopf, 1934. (American ed.)

Turner, Walter James
Berlioz: the man and his work. viii, 374 p. London: J. M. Dent and Sons, Ltd., 1934.

Turner, Walter James
Mozart, the man & has works. xiii, 458, vi p. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1938. (American edition)

Unthan, C. H.
The armless fiddler. A pediscript. Being the life story of a vaudeville man, with a preface by J. Malcolm Forbes. 287 p. London: Allen & Unwin, Ltd.

Upton, William Treat
Anthony Philip Heinrich. A nineteenth century composer in America. xiv, 337 p. New York: Columbia University Press, 1939.

Victorian swansdown; extracts from the early travel diaries of John Orlando Parry, the Victorian entertainer. Edited by Cyril Bruyn Andrews & John A. Orr-Ewing. xxiii, 244 p. London: J. Murray, 1935.

Wagner, Richard
The letters of Richard Wagner. Selected and edited by Wilhelm Altmann, translated from the German by Mildred Mary Bozman. 2 vol. London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd. (Cheap ed.)

Walter, Bruno
Gustav Mahler. Translated from the German by James Galston. 160 p. London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co.

Walters, Raymond
Stephen Foster, youth's golden gleam. A sketch of his life and background in Cincinnati, 1846-1850. 160 p. Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1936.

Weingartner, Felix
An autobiography. London Hutchinson & Co., Ltd., 1936.

Weingartner, Felix
Buffets and rewards; a musician's reminiscences. English translation by Marguerite Wolff. 383 p. London: Hutchinson and Co., Ltd., 1937. (Previously announced as "An Autobiography.")

Westrup, J. A.
Purcell. (The Master Musicians series, revised and edited by Eric Blom.) 323 p. London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Wheeler, Benson & Claire Lee Purdy
My brother was Mozart. 209 p. New York: Henry Holt and Co., 1937.

Wheeler, Opal & Sybil Deucher
Joseph Haydn, the merry little peasant. 118 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1936.

Wheeler, Opal & Sybil Deucher
Sebastian Bach, the boy from Thuringia. 126 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1937.

Wheeler, Opal & Sybil Deucher
Franz Schubert and his merry friends. Illustrated by Mary Greenwalt. 124 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1939.

Wiener, Hilda
Pencil portraits of concert celebrities. With biographical sketches by D. Millar Craig. London: Sir I. Pitman & Sons, Ltd.

Williams, Charles Francis Abdy Handel. (The Master Musicians. New series, revised and edited by Eric Blom) 276 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. (American ed.)

Wood, Henry Joseph
My life of music. With an introduction by Sir Hugh Allen. 495 p. London: Victor Gollancz, Ltd., 1938.

Wotton, Tom
Hector Berlioz. xii, 224 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1935.

ANALYSIS, APPRECIATION, HISTORY AND AESTHETICS OF MUSIC

Abraham, Gerald
Studies in Russian music; Rimsky-Korsakov and his contemporaries. 355 p. London: W. Reeves, Ltd., 1935.

Abraham, Gerald
This modern stuff. Preface by Sir Walford Davies. London: Duckworth & Co., Ltd., 1939.

Abraham, Gerald
A hundred years of music. 375 p. London: Duckworth & Co., Ltd.

Abraham, Gerald
Chopin's musical style. 116 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Abraham, Gerald
On Russian Music. London: William Reeves.

Adler, Laurence
New values in music appreciation. Foreword by Howard Hanson. 80 p. New York: Roerich Museum Press, 1935.

Allen, Warren Dwight
Philosophies of music history. xxiii, 382 p. New York: American Book Co., 1939.

Armitage, Merle
George Gershwin. With articles by Paul Whiteman, Olin Downes, Walter Damrosch, George Gershwin, Merle Armitage, Otto H. Kahn, Arnold Schoenberg, William Daly, Harold Arlen, Oscar Hammerstein II, Isamu Noguchi, David Ewen, Nanette Kutner, Lester Donahue, Isaac Goldberg, Erma Taylor, Gilbert Seldes, J. Rosamond Johnson, Rudy Vallee, Leonard Liebling, Alexander Steinert, Albert Heink Sendrey, Jerome Kern, Dubose Heyward, Henry A. Botkin, Sam H. Harris, Rouben Mamoulian, Eva Gauthier, Ferde Grofe, Louis Danz, Todd Duncan, Beverly Nichols, Irving Berlin, S. N. Behrman, George Antheil, Ira Gershwin, Serge Koussevitzky. 252 p. New York: Longmans, Green & Co., 1938.

Armitage, Merle, ed.
Schoenberg. A symposium. New York: G. Schirmer, Inc.

Armitage, Merle, ed.
Igor Strawinsky. A collection of articles and critiques, with camera studies by Edward Weston. New York: G. Schirmer, Inc.

Baker, Ellen Friel
The wonderful story of music. ix, 326 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1938. (Reprint)

Barbour, Harriet Buxton, and Warren S. Freeman
A story of music. x, 272 p. Boston: C. C. Birchard and Co., 1937.

Barnes, Edwin Ninyon Chaloner
American women in creative music. Washington, D. C.: Music Education Publications, 1936.

Barnes, Edwin Ninyon Chaloner
Should Lowell Mason come to town; a century of music in public education, 1838-1938. Fourth of the Tuning in on American Music series. 52 p. Washington, D. C.: Music Education Publications, 1938.

Barry, K.
Music and the listener; a guide to musical understanding. 126 p. Melbourne: Robertson & M., 1934.

Bauer, Marion
A summary of Twentieth Century Music, How it Developed —How to Listen to it. Suggested topics for discussion and material for musical programs. 39 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1935.

Bauer, Marion & Ethel Peyser
How music grew, from prehistoric times to the present day. With an introduction by William J. Henderson. Completely revised edition. xix, 647 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1939.

Bernstein, Martin
An introduction to music. 396 p. New York: Prentice-Hall.

Bissell, Lillian L.
Music in cultural education. 111 p. Hartford: Press of Finlay Brothers, 1934 (i.e. 1937).

Boas, George
A primer for critics. viii, 153 p. Baltimore: The Johns Hopkins Press, 1937.

Brawley, Benjamin
The Negro genius; a new appraisal of the achievement of the American Negro in literature and the fine arts. xiii, 366 p. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co., 1937. (Important references to music and musicians.)

Buck, Percy Carter
The scope of music. Second edition. 135 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1938.

Burney, Charles
A general history of music, from the earliest ages to the present period (1789). With critical and historical notes by Frank Mercer. 2 vol. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Co., 1935. (American ed.)

Burney, Charles
A general history of music. With critical and historical notes by Frank Mercer. 2 vol. London: G. T. Foulis & Co., Ltd., 1935.

Clarke, Eric Thacher
Music in everyday life. 288 p. New York: W. W. Norton and Co., Inc., 1935.

Cooke, James Francis
Standard history of music; forty-three lessons in the development of musical art, adopted for beginners, musical clubs, private teachers, class work and general reading, including an appendix upon club organization and management, together with a map of musical Europe. Latest revised and enlarged edition. 321 p. Philadelphia: Theodore Presser Co., 1936.

Coolidge, Arlan R.
A guide for listening. 111, 5 p. Providence, R. I.: The Author, 1938.

Coolidge, Arlan Ralph
A guide for listening. Revised 1939. 181 p. Providence, R. I.: The Author, 1939.

Copland, Aaron
What to listen for in music. xiii, 281 p. New York: Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., 1939.

Copland, Aaron.
Study outline for use with Aaron Copland's What to Listen for in Music. Ninth book in the course of study prepared by the National Federation of Music Clubs. 32 p. New York: Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., 1939.

Culpepper, A. M.
Music appreciation; a workbook for students. 185 p. University, La.: Louisiana State University Press. 1937.

Davies, Henry Walford
The pursuit of music. x, 432 p. New York: Thomas Nelson & Sons, 1936. (American ed.)

Davison, J. W.
Frederic Francois Chopin. Critical and appreciative essay. London: W. Reeves.

Despard, Mabel H.
The music of the United States, its sources and history. A short outline. 94 p. New York: J. H. H. Muirhead, 1936.

Detheridge, Joseph.
Chronology of music composers. Foreword by Sir Granville Bantock. Part I: From the year of birth 820 to 1810. Part 2: From 1810 to the present time. 2 vol. Birmingham (England): The Author.

Dickinson, Alan Edgar Frederic
The art of J. S. Bach. 296 p. London: Duckworth & Co., Ltd.

Earhart, Will
The meaning and teaching of music, xii, 250 p. New York: Witmark Educational Publications, 1935.

Einstein, Alfred
A short history of music. Translated from the German. (Second American edition, revised and enlarged, with 39 musical examples added) xi, 438, 12 p. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1938.

Elliot, John Harold
A first glimpse of great music. Being a few suggestions and generalizations compiled for the use of the "plain man." 128 p. Philadelphia: D. McKay Co., 1931.

Elliot, J. H.
Music—and how to enjoy it; a book for wireless and other listeners. 128 p. London: Blackie & Sons, 1934.

Elson, Arthur
The book of musical knowledge. 609, 14 p. New York: Tudor, 1934. (New ed.)

Elwes, Hervey
Thought on music. 216 p. London: The Gramophone. (Cheap ed.)

Erskine, John
A musical companion; a guide to the understanding and enjoyment of music. xvi, 516 p. New York: Alfred A. Knopf,

1935. (American ed. of A. L. Bacharach's The musical companion, 1934.)

Ewen, David
Composers of today; a comprehensive biographical and critical guide to modern composers of all nations. xii, 314 p. New York: The H. W. Wilson Co., 1934.

Ewen, David
Composers of today; a comprehensive biographical and critical guide to modern composers of all nations. Second edition. xii, 332 p. New York: The H. W. Wilson Co., 1936.

Ewen, David
Composers of yesterday; a biographical and critical guide to the most important composers of the past. x, 488 p. New York: The H. W. Wilson, 1937.

Ewen, David
Twentieth century composers. x, 309 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1937.

Ewen, David
Men and women who make music. xiv, 274 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1939.

Ewen, David
Pioneers in music. viii, 280 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1940.

Ewen, David & Frederic Ewen
Musical Vienna. 321 p. New York: Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., 1939.

Feldman, Harry Allen
Music and the listener. 205 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1939.

Ferguson, Donald N.
A history of musical thought. x, 563 p. New York: F. S. Crofts & Co., 1935.

Finney, Theodore M.
A history of music. xi, 635 p. New York: Harcourts, Brace and Co., 1935.

Forsyth, Cecil
A digest of musical history. Revision of chapters XXIX-XXXVI by Ernest C. Krohn. 196 p. St. Louis, Mo.: Art Publication Society, 1938.

Foss, Hubert James
Music in my time. London: Rich & Cowan, Ltd. (Cheap ed.)

Foulds, John H.
Music today. Its heritage from the past and legacy to the future. 391 p. London: Ivor Nicholson and Watson, Ltd., 1934.

Fox Strangways, Arthur Henry
Music observed. With a preface by Steuart Wilson. 235 p. London: Methuen & Co., Ltd., 1936.

Fry, John Hemming
The revolt against beauty; the source and genesis of modernistic art. xi, 212 p. New York, London: G. P. Putnam's & Sons, 1934. (Chapter on music and the dance.)

Gamba, Charles
Music and Italy. Preface by E. S. Craft. 60 p. Perth (W. Australia): Paterson, 1936.

Gibbs, Cecil Armstrong
The trend of modern music. (Royal Institution of Great Britain, weekly evening meeting, Friday, March 25, 1938) 23 p. London: The Institution.

Gilman, Lawrence
Toscanini and great music. xiv, 202 p. New York: Farrar & Rinehart, Inc., 1938.

Gheon, Henri
In search of Mozart. Translated by Alexander Dru. 366 p. London: Sheed and Ward, Ltd., 1934.

Glyn, Margaret H.
Theory of musical evolution. xviii, 315 p. London: J. M. Dent and Sons, Ltd., 1934.

Goetschius, Percy
The structure of music. 170 p. Philadelphia: Theodore Presser Co., 1934.

Goulet, Sister Anna
A pageant of our musical heritage. 91 p. St. Paul, Minn.: The College of St. Catherine, 1936.

Gray, Cecil
Predicaments, or Music and the future; an essay in constructive criticism. 298 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Greene, Theodore Meyer
The arts and the art of criticism. xxx, 690 p. Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1940.

Gunn, Glenn Dillard
Music: its history and enjoyment. xiv, 349 p. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1939.

Hadow, William Henry
Studies in modern music. 2 vol. London: Seeley, Service & Co., Ltd., (Pocket ed.)

Hale, Philip
Great concert music. Philip Hale's Boston Symphony programme notes. Historical, critical and descriptive comment on music and composers. Edited by John N. Burk. With an introduction by Lawrence Gilman. xix, 400 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1939.

Hale, Philip
Philip Hale's Boston Symphony program notes. Edited by John N. Burk, with an introduction by Lawrence Gilman. New York: Doubleday, Doran & Co.

Hall, Leland
Listeners' music, vii, 222 p. New York: Harcourt, Brace & Co., 1937.

Hamilton, Clarence Grant
Outlines of music history. Revised and enlarged. xxxix, 308 p. Boston: Oliver Ditson Co., 1936.

Hare, Maud Cuney
Negro musicians and their music. xii, 439 p. Washington, D. C.: The Associated Publishers, Inc., 1936.

Harrison, Julius Allen Greenway
Brahms and his four symphonies. xii, 312 p. London: Chapman & Hall, Ltd., 1939.

Henry, Leigh
The story of music. What music means and how it grows. 200 p. London: S. Nott, 1935.

Howard, John Tasker
Our American music, three hundred years of it. (Revised edition) xxiii, 743 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1939.

Howes, Frank
A key to the art of music. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co. (American ed.)

Johnson, Gerald W.
A little night-music; discoveries in the exploitation of an art. x, 125 p. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1937.

Johnson, William W.
Intelligent listening to music. xxii, 191 p. London: Sir I. Pitman & Sons, Ltd., 1939. (New edition)

Jose, Everard
The significance of Elgar. 29 p. London: Heath Cranton, Ltd., 1934.

Josef Holbrooke
Various appreciations by many authors. 188 p. London: Rudall Carte & Co., 1937.

Kaufmann, Helen L.
From Jehovah to jazz; music in America from psalmody to the present day. xiii, 303 p. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co., 1937.

Kaufmann, Helen L.
You can enjoy music. The materials of music, its tools of expression, composers and their works. 324 p. New York: Reynal & Hitchcock, 1940.

Kaufman, Schima
Everybody's music. Published with the cooperation of the Columbia Broadcasting System. xvi, 320 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell, 1938.

Kinscella, Hazel Gertrude
Around the world in story; stories in music appreciation. Book six. Foreword by Frances Elliott Clark. x, 438 p. New York: The University Publishing Co., 1935.

Kinscella, Hazel Gertrude
Music in the air. Foreword by Dr. Walter Damrosch, introduction by Dr. Daniel Gregory Mason. xv, 436 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1937.

Kinscella, Hazel Gertrude
Folk tales from many lands. Stories in music appreciation. x, 246 p. New York: The University Publishing Co., 1939.

Kolodin, Irving, Editor
The critical composer. The musical writings of Berlioz, Wagner, Schumann, Tschaikovsky, and others. vi, 275 p. New York: Howell, Soskin & Co., 1940.

Koussevitsky, Serge
Poetry and music, musical interpretation, and some remarks about American orchestras. (Reprint from the Proceedings of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, vol. 73, no. 1, September 1938) 4 p. Boston: The American Academy of Arts and Sciences, 1938.

Krenek, Ernst
Music here and now. Translated by Barthold Fles. 306 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1939.

Lambert, Constant
Music ho! A study of music in decline. London: Faber & Faber, Ltd., 1937. (Cheap ed.)

Lambert, Constant
Music ho! A study of music in decline. 342 p. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. (American edition).

Landormy, Paul
A history of music. Translated, with a supplementary chapter on American music, by Frederick H. Martens. With a final chapter, 1922-32. x, 405 p. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1934.

La Violette, Wesley
Music and its makers; the story of musical expression. (University of Knowledge. Glenn Frank, editor-in-chief) 384 p. Chicago: University of Knowledge, Inc., 1938.

Legat, Nikolai Gustavovich
The story of the Russian school translated with a foreword by Sir Paul Dukes. 87 p. London: British Continental Press, Ltd., 1932 (An account of the Russian ballet.)

Leichtentritt, Hugo
Everybody's little history of music. English translation by Arnold Elston. 61 p. New York: Associated Music Publishers, Inc., 1938.

Leichtentritt, Hugo
Music, history, and ideas. xxv, 292 p. Cambridge, Mass.: Harvard University Press, 1938.

Locke, Alain LeRoy
The Negro and his music. 142 p. Washington, D. C.: The Associates in Negro Folk Education, 1936.

Lynch, Virginia & Edna Vance Hamilton
Music and musicians. viii, 201, 12 p. New York: Allyn and Bacon, 1939.

MacPherson, Stewart
Cameos of musical history. 209 p. London: Winthrop Rogers Edition, 1937.

Maine, Basil
The glory of English music. 142 p. London: Wilmer.

Mann, Thomas
Freud, Goethe, Wagner. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1937. (Lectures delivered at the New School for Social Research.)

Martyn, Eva E.
Notes on music and musicians. 50 p. Philadelphia: Dorrance and Co., 1938.

Mason, Daniel Gregory
From Grieg to Brahms. x, 259 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1936. (Re-issue)

Mason, Daniel Gregory
Music in my time, and other reminiscences. 409 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1938.

McKinney, Howard Decker, and William Robert Anderson
Discovering music; a course in music appreciation. xvii, 334 p. New York: American Book Co., 1934.

McKinney, Howard Decker & William Robert Anderson
Music in history. The evolution of an art. xi, 904 p. New York: American Book Co., Co., 1940.

McLay, R. E.
Appreciation of music. 165 p. London: Whitcombe & Tombs, Ltd.

McNaught, W.
Modern music and musicians. London: Novello and Co., Ltd.

Moore, Douglas Stuart
Listening to music. Revised edition. xi, 301 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1937.

Moore, Earl V.
Syllabus of outline and material for introduction to musical literature. Ann Arbor, Mich.: Edwards Bros.

Morris, Reginald Owen
The structure of music. xii, 124 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1935.

Music Appreciation and History of Music; a lecture-laboratory course in the art of listening for university, college, clubs, home groups, or individual study with or without a teacher. Foreword by Frances Elliot Clark. 107 p. Camden, N. J.: RCA Victor, Educational Department, 1935.

Myers, Charles Samuel
In the realm of mind; nine chapters on the applications and implications of psychology. 251 p. Cambridge (Eng.): The University Press, 1937. (Includes "The psychology of musical appreciation")

Myers, Rollo H.
Music in the modern world. 210 p. London: Edward Arnold.

Nef, Karl
An outline of the history of music. Translated by Carl F. Pfatteicher. xvi, 386 p. New York: Columbia University Press, 1935.

Newmarch, Rosa
The concert-goer's library of descriptive notes. Volumes II, III. London: Oxford University Press, 1929-'30.

Newmarch, Rosa
The concert-goer's library of descriptive notes. Complete edition. viii, 134 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1936.

NBC music appreciation hour, conducted by Walter Damrosch, 1936-37. Instructor's manual prepared by Lawrence Abbott. Student's notebook (series A-D) prepared by Charles H. Farnsworth and Lawrence Abbott. 5 vol. New York: National Broadcasting Co., 1936.

The NBC music appreciation hour. Eleventh season: 1938-1939. Conducted by Walter Damrosch. Instructor's manual prepared by Lawrence Abbott. Student's notebook (series A, B, C, D) prepared by Charles H. Farnsworth and Lawrence Abbott. 5 vol. New York: National Broadcasting Co., Inc., 1938.

NBC music appreciation hour. Conducted by Walter Damrosch. 1939-1940. (Teacher's guide and student's worksheets). 4 vol. New York: Published by Columbia University Press for the National Broadcasting Co., 1939.

Oberndorfer, Anne Shaw Faulkner
What we hear in music; a course of study in music appreciation and history for use in high schools, normal schools, colleges and universities. Also for special courses in conservatories, music clubs, and the home. Tenth revised edition. 661 p. Camden. N. J.: RCA Manufacturing Co., Inc., Educational Department, 1936.

Osborn, Alonzo Stanley
Centuries of progress in music. 378 p. Ann Arbor, Mich.: Edwards Brothers, Inc., 1937.

Parkhurst, Winthrop
The anatomy of music. The essentials of music; a complete popular outline of musical theory. 200, xi p. New York: The Sun Dial Press, Inc., 1938.

Perham, Beatrice
Growing up with music. Complete edition. Book 2, 126 p. Chicago: Neil A. Kjos Music Co., 1938.

Rayner, R. M.
Wagner and "The Mastersingers." 276 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1939.

Redfield, John
Music, a science and an art. 307, xxiii p. New York: Tudor Publishing Co., 1935 (New edition)

Robertson, Dora H.
Sarum Close. A history of the life and education of the cathedral choristers for 700 years. 380 p. London: Jonathan Cape.

Rosenfeld, Paul
Discoveries of a music critic. x, 402 p. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Co., 1936.

Rosenwald, Hans
Handbook of music history; With a foreword by Leonard Liebling. A complete history of music from its beginnings to the present day in question and and answer form arranged in chronological order. 121 p. Chicago: Lee Stern Press, 1940. (Second edition)

Rubel, Edith
The merry muse; heydays of music and art. With pictures by Harvey Peake. vii, 144 p. New York: G. Schirmer, Inc., 1937.

Samaroff Stokowski, Olga
The magic world of music; a music book for the young of all ages. 197 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1936.

Saminsky, Lazare
Music of our day. Essentials and prophecies. New enlarged edition. xxvi, 390 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1939.

Sanborn, Pitts
Beethoven and his nine symphonies. (Written for and dedicated to Radio Members of the Philharmonic - Symphony Society of New York) 28 p. New York: The Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York, 1939.

Schnabel, Artur
Reflections on music. 63 p. New York: Simon and Schuster, 1934. (American ed.)

Scholes, Percy Alfred
The Puritans and music in England and New England; a contribution to the cultural history of two nations. xxii, 428 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1934.

Scholes, Percy Alfred
Music appreciation, its history and technics. Edited for American readers by Will Earhart. xix, 380 p. New York: M. Witmark & Sons, 1936. (American ed. of "Music: the child and the masterpiece.")

Scholes, Percy Alfred
The Oxford companion to music. Second edition, with bibliography. Self-indexed and with a pronouncing glossary. London: Oxford University Press.

Scholes, Percy Alfred
The Radio Times music handbook. Third edition. 144 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Schwerké, Irving
Views and interviews; twenty-seven studies on music and musicians. Foreword by Leonard Liebling. 3rd edition. ix, 214 p. Paris: Impr. des Orphelins-Apprentis d'Auteuil, 1936.

Shaw, George Bernard
London music in 1888-89 as heard by Corno di Bassetto (later known as Bernard Shaw), with some further autobiographical particulars. 439 p. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co., 1937.

Smith, Melville, and Max T. Krone
Fundamentals of musicianship. Book I. xiv, 197 p. New York: Witmark Educational Publications, 1934.

Smith, Melville, and Max T. Krone
Fundamentals of musicianship. Book II. ix, 176 p. New York: M. Witmark & Sons, 1937.

Smith, Melville; Max T. Krone & Myron Schaeffer
Fundamentals of musicianship. Abridged edition. Book II. xi, 133 p. New York: M. Witmark & Sons, 1940.

Sorokin, Pitirim S.
Fluctuation of forms of art (painting, sculpture, architecture, music, literature, and criticism). (Social and cultural dynamics, Vol. I.) xxi, 745 p. New York: American Book Co., 1937.

Spaeth, Sigmund Gottfried
Stories behind the world's great music. xiv, 373 p. New York: Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., 1937.

Spaeth, Sigmund Gottfried
The art of enjoying music. xiv, 451 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1938. (New edition)

Spalding, Walter Raymond
Music: an art and a language. (Augmented and revised edition) 350 p. Boston: The Arthur P. Schmidt Co., 1939.

Speirs, J. B.
How music grew. Montreal: Renouf Pub. Co., 1933.

Stevens, Mother Georgia
Keys to Music-Land. With a Gregorian chant supplement. 156 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1938.

Stokowski, Olga Samaroff
The layman's music book. 293 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1935.

Sullivan, John William Navin
Beethoven, his spiritual development. 256 p. Toronto: Nelson, 1934. (Canadian ed.)

Taylor, Charles Forbes
Up to now; a story of crowded years. 140 p. New York: Fleming H. Revell Co., 1938. (Music and evangelism)

Taylor, Deems
Of men and music. xviii, 318 p. New York: Simon and Schuster, 1937.

Taylor, Deems
The well tempered listener. xvi, 333 p. New York: Simon and Schuster, 1940.

The International Library of Music for Home and Studio. Music literature. Volume I: The history of music—critical and biographical sketches of the epoch makers of music from the pre-classical period to the modern era. Volume 2; The modern and contemporary schools—national groups; pronouncing dictionary of musical terms, biographical dictionary of musicians. 2 vol. New York: The University Society, 1936. (New edition)

The New Friends of Music
Publications of the New Friends of Music. Johann Sebastian Bach: The six Brandenburg concertos. Ludwig van Beethoven: The sixteen string quartets and "Grosse Fuge." (Program book 1938-1939. Volume I.) 53 p. New York: Columbia University Press, 1938.

Thompson, Oscar
How to understand music. 347 p. New York: The Dial Press, 1935.

Thompson, Oscar
Tabulated biographical history of music. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Co., 1936.

Thomson, Virgil
The state of music. 250 p. New York: William Morrow and Co., 1939.

Tovey, Donald Francis
Essays in musical analysis. Volume V: Vocal music. vi, 256 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1937.

Tovey, Donald Francis
Essays in musical analysis. Volume VI: Miscellaneous notes, index and glossary. London: Oxford University Press, 1939.

Trend, John Brande
Manuel de Falla and Spanish music. New York: A. A. Knopf, 1935. (New ed.)

Turner, Walter James
Music. An introduction to its nature and appreciation. London: Sir I. Pitman & Sons, Ltd., 1936.

Van Dieren, Bernard
Down among the dead men, and other essays. x, 270 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1935.

Vaughan Williams, Ralph
National music. ix, 146 p. New York: Oxford University Press, 1934.

Viney, Basil
From Monteverdi to Sibelius; a short history of music for all lovers of the art. London: H. R. Allenson, Ltd.

Wedge, George Anson
The gist of music; a ready key to musical understanding and enjoyment. ix, 123 p. New York: G. Schirmer, Inc., 1936.

Whelbourn, Herbert
Standard book of celebrated musicians, past and present. xiii, 305 p. Garden City, N. Y.: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1937.

White, R. T.
Music and its story. Edinburgh: Cambridge University Press, 1935.

Yasser, Joseph
Future of tonality; tonality and atonality as synthesized by supratonality. London: Williams and Norgate, 1934.

Young, Percy M.
Pageant of England's music. 166 p. London: W. Heffer & Sons, Ltd.

Zanzig, Augustus Delafield
Roads to music appreciation. A guide to listener and to teacher or leader. 36 p. New York: National Recreation Association, 1939.

ORCHESTRAS, STRING ENSEMBLES, BANDS, INSTRUMENTS, CONDUCTING

Aulich, Bruno & Ernst Heimeran
The well-tempered string quartet. A book of counsel and entertainment for all lovers of music in the home. The English translation by D. Millar Craig. 135 p. New York: The H. W. Gray Co., Inc., 1938.

Bennett, Irene
Craft and music. The making and playing of bamboo pipes and recorders. With a foreword by Sir Adrian Boult. 54 p. Leicester: Dryad Press.

Berlioz, Hector
The conductor. The theory of his art. Translated by John Broadhouse. 63 p. London: W. Reeves.

Biart, Victor
The symphonic guide; a series of descriptive and analytical pamphlets on great orchestral works.
No. 1: Weber, Overture to Der Freischuetz.
No. 2: Weber, Overture to Oberon.
No. 3: Rimsky-Korsakoff, Scheherazade.
No. 4: Tchaikovsky, Nutcracker Suite.
Four volumes. New York: V. Biart, 1934.

Biart, Victor
The symphonic guide; a series of descriptive and analytical pamphlets on great orchestral works. No. 5: Ludwig van Beethoven, Symphony No. 5, C minor. 24. p. New York: The Author, 1937.

Bowen, Catherine Drinker
Friends and fiddlers. 261 p. Boston: Little, Brown and Co., 1935.

Downes, Olin
Symphonic masterpieces. xix, 294 p. New York: The Dial Press, 1935.

Ewen, David
The man with the baton; the story of conductors and their orchestras. With an introduction by Serge Koussevitzky. 374 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1936.

Ewen, David
The man with the baton; the story of conductors and their orchestras. 374 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1937. (New ed.)

Giles, Ray
Here comes the band; the story of bands and band instruments. x, 205 p. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1936.

Gilman, Lawrence
Stories of symphonic music; a guide to the meaning of important symphonies, overtures, and tone-poems from Beethoven to Debussy. xvii, 359 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., 1937.

Goepp, Philip Henry
Great works of music (Symphonies and their meaning). New York: Garden City Publishing Co.

Goldman, Richard Franko
The band's music. (Foreword by Percy Grainger) xviii, 442 p. New York: Pitman Publishing Corporation, 1938.

Grant, Margaret & Herman Strecker Hettinger
America's symphony orchestras and how they are supported. 326 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1940.

Haggin, B. H.
A book of the symphony. New York: Oxford University Press.

Hind, Harold Charles
The orchestra and its instruments; the compass and distinguishing features of each instrument. With a preface by Sir Henry J. Wood and "Orchestral Instruments" by Edwin Evans. 35 p. London: Hawkes and Son, Ltd., 1936.

Miessner, William Otto
A guide to symphonic music. Development of the symphony. A textbook for students and lovers of music containing the principal themes of masterworks in actual notation, together with brief analytical notes on their structural form and emotional appeal. Accompanied by two study aids: Miessner theme finder, charts for use of the translaphon. 90 p. New York: Silver Burdett Co., 1936.

Newman, Ernest
Symphonies and ballets; a series of five articles reprinted from the London Times. 16 p. London: The Times.

O'Connell, Charles
The Victor book of the symphony. Foreword by Leopold Stokowski. xviii, 530 p. New York: Simon and Schuster, Inc., 1934.

Schmid, Adolf
The language of the baton. Book I. New York: G. Schirmer, Inc., 1937.

Schwartz, H. W.
The story of musical instruments. From shepherd's pipe to symphony. xii, 365 p. New York: Doubleday, Doran & Co., 1938.

Shepherd, Arthur
The string quartets of Ludwig van Beethoven; historic and analytic commentaries. 91 p. Cleveland: Horace Carr, 1935. (1938?)

Shore, Bernard
The orchestra speaks. 218 p. London: Longmans, Green & Co., Ltd., 1938.

Spaeth, Sigmund Gottfried
Great symphonies. How to recognize and remember them. xiv, 361 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., 1936.

Stratton, George and Alan Frank
The playing of chamber music. 79 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1935.

Sutherland, Margaret
How to make pipes, with tunes for pipers and small percussion band. 36, 21 p. Paris: Editions de l'Oiseau Lyre, 1935. (Text in English, French, Italian, German, and Japanese.)

The NBC Symphony Orchestra. Introduction by Hendrik Willem van Loon. History of orchestra and biographies of conductors by Walter E. Koons. Biographies of personnel by Philip Kerby. Charcoal portraits by William Haussler and Sydney Desfor. 120 p. New York: National Broadcasting Co., 1938.

Tobitt, Janet E.
Shepherds' pipes. How to make them and play them. 13 p. New York: Girl Scouts, Inc., 1935.

Weingartner, Felix
On the performance of Beethoven symphonies. New York: E. F. Kalmus. (American ed.)

Young, T. Campbell
The making of musical instruments. London: Oxford University Press, 1939.

Zanzig, Augustus D.
Starting and maintaining a community orchestra. Foreword by Ernest La Prade. 50 p. New York: National Recreation Association, 1940.

VOCAL MUSIC, FOLK MUSIC, ART MUSIC, SACRED MUSIC

Barry, Phillips
Folk music in America. Introductory essay by George Herzog. American Folk-Song Publications, 4, edited by George Herzog and Herbert Halpert. Issued by Folk-Song and Folklore Dept. xiii, 113, xiv-xx. New York: Works Progress Administration, Federal Theatre Project, National Service Bureau, 1939.

Bruce, Robert
So you want to write a song. Introduction by Arthur Schwartz. 90 p. Brooklyn: P. L. Schwartz, 1935.

Crawford, Benjamin Franklin
Our changing hymnology, as revealed in the hymn books of the Methodist Episcopal Church. 46 p. Carnegie, Pa.: Carnegie Church Press, 1938.

Davies, Henry Walford and Harvey Grace
Music and worship. 255 p. New York: The H. W. Gray Co., 1935.

Drew, W. S.
Singing: the art and the craft. 177 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Eustis, Morton
Players at work; acting according to the actors. With a chapter on the singing actor by Lotte Lehmann. 127 p. New York: Theatre Arts, Inc., 1937.

Geller, James J.
Famous songs and their stories. viii, 248 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1940. (Cheap edition).

Gordon, Robert Winslow
Folk-songs of America. Sponsored by Joint Committee on Folk Arts, W. P. A. Issued by Folk Song and Folklore Department, Herbert Halpert, supervisor. 110 p. New York: National Service Bureau, WPA Federal Theatre Project, 1938.

Henderson, William James
The art of singing. Introduction by Oscar Thompson. xviii, 509 p. New York: The Dial Press, 1938.

Jackson, George Pullen
Down-East spirituals and others of olden times. Three hundred songs supplementary to the author's "Spiritual folk-songs of early America." 330 p. New York: J. J. Augustin.

Johnson, J. Rosamond
Rolling along in song; a chronological survey of American Negro music, with eighty-seven arrangements of Negro songs, including ring-shouts, spirituals, work songs, plantation ballads, chain-gang, jail-house, and minstrel songs, street-cries, and blues. 224 p. New York: The Viking Press, 1937.

Kalmar, Bert, and Harry Ruby
The Kalmar-Ruby song book. With reasonably accurate dissertations by Franklin P. Adams, Robert Benchley, Irving Berlin, Marc Connelly, Moss Hart, Ben Hecht, Nunnally Johnson, Groucho Marx, James K. McGuinness. 111 p. New York: Random House, 1936.

Kerr, Phil
Music in evangelism. A handbook of information for evangelists, gospel singers, church musicians, choir members, song directors, and all others interested in Christian music. 242 p. Glendale, Calif.: Gospel Music Publishers, 1939.

Key, Pierre
This business of singing. 128 p. New York: Pierre Key Publishing Corp., 1937.

Lahee, Henry Charles
Famous singers of to-day and yesterday. New revised edition. ix, 421 p. Boston: L. C. Page and Co., 1936.

Lightwood, James T.
Hymn tunes and their story. London: The Epworth Press, 1934. (New ed.)

Lomax, John A., and Alan
American ballads and folk songs. With a foreword by George Lyman Kittredge. xxxv, 625 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1934.

Moerner, Otto William
Better music in the church. C. A. Bowen, general editor. 128 p. Nashville, Tenn.: Cokesbury Press, 1939.

Ninde, Edward S.
Nineteen centuries of Christian song. Foreword by Mary Ninde Gamewell. 142 p. New York: Fleming H. Revell Co., 1938.

Phillips, C. S.
Hymnody, past and present. 301 p. London: Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge.

Piggott, H. E.
Songs that made history. 77 p. London: J. M. Dent and Sons, Ltd.

Porter, E. G.
The songs of Schubert. 159 p. London: Williams & Norgate, Ltd.

Pushee, Ruth
Music in the religious service. 91 p. New York: Fleming H. Revell Co., 1938.

Richardson, Norman E.
The use of music in public worship. 15 p. Chicago: Presbyterian Theological Seminary, 1937.

Rudin, Cecilia Margaret
Stories of hymns we love. 60 p. Chicago: J. Rudin & Co., Inc., 1934.

Spaeth, Sigmund Gottfried
Barber shop ballads and how to sing them. xvi, 125 p. New York: Prentice-Hall, Inc., 1940.

Stanley, Douglas
The science of voice. An application of the laws of acoustics, anatomy, physiology and psychology to the problems of vocal technic, including sections on music and interpretation, acoustics, advice to those interested in the radio and talking movies, and descriptions of original researches. With a section on interpretation and musicianship by Alma Stanley and a section on physical principles by Stanley Watkins and three appendices outlining the developments of the last decade. Third edition (revised and enlarged). xii, 384 p. New York: Carl Fischer, Inc., 1939.

Surette, Thomas Whitney
Songs from many lands. Illustrations by Gertrude Herrick Howe. Edited by the Association for Childhood Education. 82 p. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co., 1937.

Thompson, Oscar
The American singer. New York: The Dial Press.

Upton, William Treat
A supplement to Art-Song in America 1930-1938. 41 p. Philadelphia: Oliver Ditson Co., 1938.

Vale, Walter S.
Tone production in the human voice; a handbook for singers, clerical and lay. 60 p. London: The Faith Press, Ltd.

Van Loon, Hendrik Willem & Grace Castagnetta
Folk songs of many lands. 96 p. New York: Simon and Schuster, 1938.

Walsh, Gertrude
Sing your way to better speech. A jingle sequence for the improvement of articulation and rhythm in speaking. Music arrangements by Roger Boardman, illustrations by Lena Rue. 209 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1939.

Williams, Iolo A.
English folk song and dance. Introduction by Sir John Squire. 200 p. New York: Longmans, Green and Co.

Wolfe, Jacques
Great songs made simple; twenty-five musical pieces with progressive historical and biographical narratives by Arthur Wallace Hepner. Foreword by Lawrence Tibbett. 51 p. New York: G. Schirmer, Inc., 1936.

OPERA, SERIOUS AND LIGHT, AND ORATORIO

Annesley, Charles
Home book of the opera, including The Standard Opera Glass. Detailed plots of the celebrated operas, with critical and biographical remarks and dates. Introduction by Olin Downes. 717 p. New York: The Dial Press, Inc., 1937.

A Savoyard Chaplet. Issued, with original contributions by Christopher Morley, Isaac Goldberg, Odell Shepard, William Danforth, William Lyon Phelps, Carroll A. Wilson and others, on the occasion of an exhibit of Gilbert and Sullivan material from Mr. Wilson's collection at the Olin Memorial Library, Wesleyan University, April 25th to June 20th, 1937. (About Books, Vol. 7, No. 4) 44 p. Middletown, Conn.: Wesleyan University, 1937.

Authentic libretti of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. With a foreword by Frederick Hobbs. Including famous musical selections and original "Bab" illustrations drawn by Sir W. S. Gilbert. 202 p. New York: Crown Publishers, 1939.

Bekker, Paul
The changing opera. Translated by Arthur Mendel. 319 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1935.

Buick, Thomas Lindsay
Elijah. The story of Mendelssohn's oratorio. viii, 107 p. London: Thomas Avery & Sons, 1935.

Dunn, George E.
A Gilbert and Sullivan dictionary. 175 p. London: Allen & Unwin, Ltd., 1936.

Funk, A.
Tales from the operas (Knoch's Opera guide). Contains over two hundred and fifty descriptions of celebrated operas with short biographies of their composers. viii, 559 p. Vienna: W. J. Knoch, 1936. (Supplement, 26 p.)

Gagey, Edmond McAdoo
Ballad opera. ix, 259 p. New York: Columbia University Press, 1937.

Gilman, Lawrence
Wagner's operas. xix, 268 p. New York: Farrar & Rinehart, Inc., 1937.

Halton, Frederick Joseph
The Gilbert and Sullivan operas. A concordance. Foreword by Rupert D'Oyly Carte. 183 p. New York: The Bass Publishers, 1935.

Heylbut, Rose and Aimé Gerber
Backstage at the opera. ix, 325 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1937.

Hipsher, Edward Ellsworth
American opera and its composers; a complete history of serious American opera, with a summary of the lighter forms which led up to its birth. 478 p. Philadelphia: Theodore Presser Co., 1934.

Howes, Frank & Philip Hope-Wallace
A key to opera. 248 p. London: Blackie.

Kobbé, Gustave
The complete opera book; the stories of the operas, together with 400 of the leading airs and motives in musical notation. xxii, 993 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1935. (Revised ed.)

Kolodin, Irving
The Metropolitan Opera, 1883-1935. Introduction by W. J. Henderson. xix, 589 p. New York: Oxford University Press, 1936.

Kolodin, Irving
The Metropolitan opera, 1883-1938. Revised and enlarged edition. 650 p. New York: Oxford University Press, 1939.

McSpadden, Joseph Walter
Opera synopses. Introduction by John Tasker Howard. Fifth edition, revised and enlarged. xviii, 493 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1934.

McSpadden, Joseph Walker
Light opera and musical comedy. xxi, 362 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1936.

Melitz, Leo
The opera goer's complete guide, comprising two hundred and sixty-eight opera plots with musical numbers and casts. Translated by Richard Salinger. Revised and brought up to date after consultation with the librarian of the Metropolitan Opera Company by Louise Wallace Hackney. xix, 572 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1936.

Mendelsohn, Felix
The story of a hundred operas. xi, 332 p. New York: Grosset & Dunlap, 1940.

Newman, Ernest
Stories of the great operas and their composers. 322, 335, 371 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., 1935. (Reprint in one vol.)

Opera Cavalcade. The story of the Metropolitan. 68 p. New York: The Metropolitan Opera Guild, Inc., 1938.

Peltz, Mary Ellis & Robert Lawrence
The Metropolitan Opera guide. The standard repertory of the Metropolitan Opera Association, Inc., as selected by Edward Johnson, general manager. Illustrated by Alexandre Serebriakoff. 512 p. New York: The Modern Library, 1939.

Rickett, Edmond W. & Benjamin T. Hoogland
Let's do some Gilbert & Sullivan. A practical production handbook. With illustrations by W. S. Gilbert. xi, 238 p. New York: Coward-McCann, Inc., 1940.

Rous, Samuel Holland
The Victor book of the opera; stories of the operas with illustrations and descriptions of Victor opera records. Ninth edition. 526 p. Camden, N. J.: RCA Manufacturing Co., Inc., 1936.

Sanborn, Pitts & Emil Hilb
The Metropolitan book of the opera. Synopses of the operas. Biographical sketches. Preface by Edward Johnson. xxii, 396 p. New York: Simon and Schuster, 1937.

Short Stories of Italian Grand Opera. Volume I. Contents: Rigoletto, La Gioconda, L'Oracolo, Aida, Norma. 16 p. New York: The Night and Day Press, 1937.

Taubman, H. Howard
Opera front and back. x, 388 p. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1938.

Teasdale, May Silva
20th century opera at home and abroad. 1900 through season 1937-1938. Nationality and character, time and place of pre-miéres, arranged chronologically. With principals of casts in the United States. 240 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1938.

The authentic librettos of the French and German operas. Carmen, Faust, Manon, Tales of Hoffmann, Lakmé, Hansel & Gretel, Romeo & Juliet, Fidelio, The Magic Flute, Mignon, Samson & Delilah, The Bartered Bride. Complete with English and French or German texts and music of the principals airs. 504 p. New York: Crown Publishers, 1939.

The Beggar's Opera, the burlesque, and Italian opera. (Reprinted from "Music and Letters," April, 1936.) 13 p. London: "Music and Letters," 1936.

The Victor book of the opera. Stories of the operas with illustrations and descriptions of Victor opera records (Tenth edition, revised by Charles O'Connell) 531 p. Camden, N. J.: RCA Manufacturing Co., Inc., 1939.

Untermeyer, Louis
The last pirate; tales from the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. 319 p. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Co., 1934.

Weber, Henriette
The prize song; stories of famous operas. Foreword by Dorothy Lawton. 272 p. New York: Oxford University Press, 1935.

THE DANCE

Alford, Violet, and Rodney Gallop
The traditional dance. London: Methuen & Co., Ltd.

Armitage, Merle
Post-caviar. Barnstorming with Russian grand opera. 210 p. New York: Longmans, Green & Co., 1939.

Beaumont, Cyril William
Michel Fokine and his ballets. 170 p. London: C. W. Beaumont, 1935.

Beaumont, Cyril William
Complete book of ballets; a guide to the principal ballets of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. xxiv, 900 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1938. (American edition)

Deakin, Irving
To the ballet! An introduction to the liveliest of the arts. With a foreword by John Van Druten and a preface by S. Hurok. 173 p. New York: Dodge Publishing Co., 1935.

Goode, Gerald
The book of ballets, classic and modern. Introduction by Leonide Massine. 31 colored illustration. By Matisse, Picasso, Berard, etc., 200 halftone illustrations. x, 246 p. New York: Crown Publishers, 1939.

Haskell, Arnold Lionel
Balletomania; the story of an obsession. xix, 359 p. New York: Simon and Schuster, 1934.

Haskell, Arnold Lionel David
The balletomane's scrapbook. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1936. (Photographs of Colonel de Basil's Russian Ballet.)

Haskell, Arnold Lionel
Ballet panorama. An illustrated chronicle of three centuries. 120 p. London: B. T. Batsford, Ltd.

Haskell, Arnold Lionel David
Prelude to ballet; a guide to appreciation. 120 p. London: Thomas Nelson & Sons, Ltd.

Howard, Ruth Eleanor
The story of the American ballet. 30 p. New York: Ihra Publishing Co., 1936.

Kirstein, Lincoln
Dance; a short history of classic theatrical dancing, with 123 illustrations. ix, 369 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1935.

Lieven, Peter Alexandrovitch
The birth of Ballets-Russes. Translated by L. Zarine. 377 p. London: Allen & Unwin, Ltd., 1936.

Lifar, Serge
Ballet traditional to modern. Translated by Cyril W. Beaumont. 302 p. London: Putnam.

Magriel, Paul David
A bibliography of dancing. A list of books and articles on the dance and related subjects. First supplement, 1936-1937. 41 p. New York: The H. W. Wilson Co., 1938.

Magriel, Paul David
A bibliography of dancing. Second cumulated supplement, 1936-38. New York: The H. W. Wilson Co., 1939.

Martin, John
American dancing. New York: Dodge Publishing Co.

Martin, John
Introduction to the dance. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1939.

Porter, Evelyn
Music through the dance; a handbook for teachers and students, showing how musical growth has been influenced by the dance throughout the ages. With dance examples specially contributed by Marjorie Woolnoth and an arrangement of the Greek dance by Ruby Ginner, 156 p. London: B. T. Batsford, Ltd., 1937.

Sachs, Curt
World history of the dance. Translated by Bessie Schonberg. xii, 469 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1937.

Selden, Elizabeth
The dancer's quest; essays on the aesthetics of the contemporary dance. xv, 215 p. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1935.

Stokes, Adrian
To-night the ballet. 135 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1935. (American ed.)
To-night the ballet. 135 p. London: Faber & Faber, Ltd.

Stokes, Adrian
Russian ballets. 213 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1936.

Ware, Walter
Ballet is magic; a triple monograph: Harriet Hoctor, Paul Haakon, Patricia Bowman. 52 p. New York: Ihra Publishing Co., 1936.

POPULAR MUSIC

Armstrong, Louis
Swing that music. With an introduction by Rudy Vallee. Music section edited by Horace Gerlach. xii, 136 p. New York: Longmans, Green and Co., 1936.

Delaunay, Charles
Hot discography. Forewords by Hugues and Lucienne Panassié and Henri Bernard. Translated into English by Ian Munro Smyth. 271 p. Paris: Jazz Hot, 1936.

Goodman, Benny & Irving Kolodin
The kingdom of swing. 265 p. New York: Stackpole Sons, 1939.

Haddon, Archibald
The story of the music hall from cave of harmony to cabaret. 203 p. London: Fleetway Press, 1935.

Hibbs, Lester
Twenty-one years of swing music. 70 p. London: English Brunswick Record Co., 1937.

Hobson, Wilder
American jazz music. 230 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1939.

Jacob, H. E.
Johann Strauss, father and son: A century of light music. 432 p. New York: William Salloch Books, 1939.

Lee, George Washington
Beale Street, where the blues began. Foreword by W. C. Handy. 296 p. New York: R. O. Ballou, 1934.

Miller, Paul Edward
Down Beat's Yearbook of swing. Introduction by Fletcher Henderson. 183 p. Chicago: Down Beat Publishing Co., 1939.

Nelson, Stanley R.
All about jazz. With a foreword by Jack Hylton. 190 p. London: Heath Cranton, Ltd., 1934.

Panassié, Hugues
Hot jazz. With revisions and additions. New York: M. Witmark & Sons, 1936.

Sargeant, Winthrop
Jazz, hot & Hybrid. 234 p. New York: Arrow Editions, 1938.

Spaeth, Sigmund
The facts of life in popular song. 148 p. New York: Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book Co., 1934.

Teetgen, Ada B.
The waltz kings of old Vienna. 256 p. London: Herbert Jenkins, Ltd.

Williams, Ralph Rex
How to build a dance band and make it pay. Edited by Glenn Burrs. xv, 188 p. Chicago: Down Beat, 1940.

Witmark, Isidore & Isaac Goldberg
From ragtime to swingtime. The story of the House of Witmark. 480 p. New York: Lee Furman, Inc., 1939.

PIANO LITERATURE

Blom, Eric
Beethoven's pianoforte sonatas discussed. 251 p. London: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

Cortot, Alfred
Alfred Cortot's studies in musical interpretation. Set down by Jeanne Thieffry, translated by Robert Jaques. With a foreword by Alfred Cortot. 279 p. London: Harrap & Co., Ltd.

Evans, Edwin
Handbook to the pianoforte works of Johannes Brahms. 327 p. London: W. Reeves.

Garroway, Will
Pianism. Foreword by Merle Armitage. 204 p. New York: Carl Fischer, Inc., 1939.

Hipkins, Edith J.
How Chopin played. From contemporary impressions collected from the diaries and notebooks of the late A. J. Hipkins. 39 p. London: J. M. Dent and Sons, Ltd.

Kastner, Rudolf
Beethoven's piano sonatas; a descriptive commentary on the sonatas in the light of Schnabel's interpretations. 55 p. London: W. Reeves, 1935.

Leichtentritt, Hugo
The complete pianoforte sonatas of Beethoven. Analytical notes. 16 p. New York: Artcraft Litho & Printing Co., Inc., 1936.

Lockwood, Albert Lewis
Notes on the literature of the piano. xx, 235 p. Ann Arbor: University of Michigan Press, 1940.

MacPherson, Stewart
Bach's forty-eight preludes and fugues. A commentary. 2 vol. London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

Matthay, Tobias
On colouring, as distinct from tone-inflection. A lecture. London: Oxford University Press.

Matthay, Tobias
Piano fallacies of today. 45 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Murdoch, William
Brahms. With an analytical study of the complete piano works. 394 p. London: Rich & Cowan.

Perry, Adelaide Trowbridge
Compendium of piano material. Second edition, revised and augmented. A book of reference for institutional departments of piano, private piano teachers, public school teachers of piano, music history classes, appreciation classes, public libraries, music stores, music clubs, moving picture studios, radio stations. 151 p. Los Angeles, Calif.: Trowbridge-Perry Publications, 1939.

Porte, John F.
Chopin, the composer and his music; an analytic critique of famous traditions and interpretations as exhibited in the playing of great pianists past and present. 193 p. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1935.

Schauffler, Lawrence
Piano technic; myth or science. 123 p. Chicago: Gamble Hinged Music Co., 1937.

Westerby, Herbert
Liszt, composer, and his piano works. Descriptive guide and critical analysis, written in a popular and concise style. xxii, 336 p. London: W. Reeves, Ltd., 1936.

Wier, Albert Ernest
The piano. Its history, makers, players and music. viii, 467 p. New York: Longmans, Green and Co., 1940.

Wilkinson, Charles W.
How to play Bach's 48 preludes and fugues. 135 p. London: William Reeves.

MISCELLANEOUS

Agate, James Evershed
First nights. 311 p. London: I. Nicholson and Watson, 1934. (Chapter on musical comedy.)

Alda, Frances
Men, women, and tenors. 307 p. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Co., 1937.

Anderson, William Robert
Music as a career. 276 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1939.

Armsby, Leonora Wood
Musicians talk. Preface by Olin Downes. xiii, 242 p. New York: Dial Press, Inc., 1935.

Arnheim, Rudolph
Radio. 296 p. London: Faber and Faber, Ltd., 1936.

Bacharach, Alfred Louis, editor.
The musical companion. By various authors. 752 p. London: V. Gollancz, 1940. (Cheap war edition)

Barnes, Harry Elmer
An intellectual and cultural history of the western world. xx, 1250 p. New York: The Cordon Co., 1937. (Martin Berstein contributing author for music)

Block, Martin
Gypsies: Their life and their customs. London: Methuen.

Burch, Gladys & Helmut Ripperger
The music quiz. (A classics-to-swing game) 166 p. New York: Stackpole Sons, 1938.

Cammeyer, Alfred
My adventuresome banjo. xv, 335 p. New York: A. D. Cammeyer, 1935. (American ed.)

Cantril, Hadley, and Gordon W. Allport
The psychology of radio. x, 276 p. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1935.

Carpenter, Charles Kynett
Disease—or defamation (The deafness of Beethoven). Reprinted from Annals of Otology, Rhinology and Laryngology, December 1936, 13 p. New York: The Author.

Cernikoff, Vladimir
Humour and harmony. 308 p. London: Arthur Barker, Ltd., 1936.

Chandler, Albert R.
Beauty and human nature; elements of psychological aesthetics. (The Century psychology series) viii, 381 p. New York: D. Appleton-Century Co., Inc., 1934. (3 chapters on music.)

Chavez, Carlos
Toward a new music; music and electricity. Translated from the Spanish by Herbert Weinstock. 180 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1937.

Cohen, Harriet
Music's handmaid, 160 p. London: Faber and Faber, Ltd., 1936.

Coleman, Satis Narrona
Creative music in the home. Music stories. How to make instruments, how to play them, and many tunes to play. 403 p. New York: The John Day Co., 1939.

Cooke, James Francis
Musical travelogues; little visits to European musical shrines. 333 p. Philadelphia: Theodore Presser Co., 1934.

Crown and empire. The coronation of King George VI, May 12, 1937. 226 p. London: The Times Publishing Co., Ltd., 1937. (Includes "Music of the coronation," by H. C. Colles)

Diserens, Charles Murdock & Harry Fine
A psychology of music. The influence of music on behavior. 405 p. Cincinnati, O.: The College of Music, 1939.

Downs, Harold
Theatre and stage; a modern guide to the performance of all classes of amateur dramatic, operatic and theatrical work. Assisted by well-known authorities and celebrities in the theatrical world. 2 vol. London: Sir I. Pitman & Sons, Ltd., 1934.

Driver, Ann
Music and movement. 122 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Emil-Behnke, Kate
The technique of good speech. 256 p. London: J. Curwen & Sons, Ltd.

Evans, Etelka
Edward MacDowell and the Peterborough colony. 12 p. Cincinnati: E. Evans, 1934.

Ffrench, Yvonne
News from the past, 1805-1887; the autobiography of the nineteenth century. Being a miscellany of newspaper accounts of wars, riots, coronations, murders, conspiracies, scandals, fashions, shipwrecks, sporting events, reforms, inventions, &c., &c., interspersed with contemporary opinions of the great writers, musicians and actors of the period. 656 p. New York: The Viking Press, 1934.

Floherty, John Joseph
On the air; the story of radio. 99 p. New York: Doubleday, Doran & Co., Inc., 1937.

Fogerty, Elsie
Rhythm. 245 p. London: Allen & Unwin.

Ford, Theodore P.
God wills the Negro. An anthropological and geographical restoration of the lost history of the American Negro people, being in part a theological interpretation of Egyptian and Ethiopian backgrounds. Compiled from ancient and modern sources, with a special chapter of eight Negro spirituals. 159 p. Chicago: The Geographical Institute Press, 1939.

Gelzer, Jay
Prima donna. 285 p. London: D. Archer.

Gillis, Adolph and Roland Ketchum
Our America; a survey of contemporary America as exemplified in the lives and achievements of twenty-four men and women drawn from representative fields. xxviii, 427 p. Boston: Little, Brown, and Co., 1936. (Includes Deems Taylor)

Goode, Kenneth M.
What about radio? viii, 255 p. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1937.

Gordon, Edgar Bernard & Irene Curtis
Music for youth. Chicago: A. Whitman and Co.

Granger, Alfred
The spirit of Vienna. xiv, 215 p. New York: Robert M. McBride & Co., 1935. (Chapters on culture and music.)

Greenleaf, Walter James
Music. (Guidance leaflets. U. S. Department of the Interior, Office of Education) ii, 15 p. Washington, D. C.: U. S. Government Printing Office, 1934.

Griswold, Frederic Howard
Creative power. The phenomena of inspiration. An inquiry into the practical methods used by men of genius in developing original ideas. 176 p. Philadelphia: David McKay Co., 1939.

Growing opinions; a symposium of British youth outlook, edited and designed by Alan Campbell Johnson, with a preface by J. B. S. Haldane. xvii, 255 p. London: Methuen & Co., Ltd., 1935. (Chapters on music and the theatre.)

Gurman. Joseph, and Myron Slager
Radio round-ups; intimate glimpses of the radio stars. 109 p. Boston: Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., 1932.

Harrison, Sidney
Music for the multitude. With an introduction by Sir Robert Mayer. 383 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1940. (American edition).

Homburg, Robert
Legal rights of performing artists. Translated and annotated together with an addendum by Maurice J. Speiser. vii, 184 p. New York: Baker, Voorhis & Co., 1934.

Howard, John Tasker, and Eleanor S. Bowen
Music associated with the period of the formation of the constitution and the inauguration of George Washington. With a preface by Hon. Sol Bloom. 35 p. Washington, D. C.: United States Constitution Sesquicentennial Commission, 1937.

Hurston, Zora Neale
Mules and men. With an introduction by Franz Boas. Philadelphia: J. P. Lippincott Co. (Includes music.)

Huxley, Aldous Leonard
Essays new and old. (Chapters on the ballet, Scriabine, and popular music) 306 p. New York: The H. W. Wilson Co., 1932.

Jeans, James
Science & music. x, 258 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1937. (American ed.)

Johnson, William W.
So this is music! 195 p. London: Pitman.

Jones, Isabel Morse
Hollywood Bowl. Foreword by Merle Armitage. iii, 203 p. New York, Los Angeles: G. Schirmer, Inc., 1936.

Kicq, Léopold
For all instrumentalists. Translated by Reid Maccallum. 124 p. London: Bosworth & Co., Ltd.

Kiesling, Barrett C.
Talking pictures; how they are made, how to appreciate them. xi, 332 p. Richmond, New York: Johnson Publishing Co., 1937.

Kinne, Marion
How to develop a musical memory. Philadelphia: The Author, 1935.

Komisarjevsky, Theodore
The theatre and a changing civilization. xiv, 183 p. London: John Lane, 1935.

Lawson, Elizabeth
Music in the Young Women's Christian Association; a guide to program planning. 104 p. New York: The Womans Press, 1934.

Lloyd, Llewelyn Southworth
The musical ear. 112 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Lloyd, Ll. S.
Music and sound. With a foreword by William Bragg. 181 p. London: Oxford University Press.

London, Kurt
Film music. With a foreword by Constant Lambert. 280 p. London: Faber & Faber, Ltd.

London Music Festival
The festival book. A complete guide and the programmes. (April 23rd-May 28th) 120 p. London: Office of the Festival, 1939.

Mackenzie, Compton
A musical chair. 303 p. London: Chatto & Windus.

Mackinnon, Lilias
Musical secrets. 95 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Mackinnon, Lilias
Music by heart. 141 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Matthay, Tobias Augustus
The act of musical concentration. The fourth of six psychology lectures for music-makers. 35 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1934.

Maynard, Lorraine
Genius in chrysalis; locked doors on greatness within. With an introduction by David Seabury. xv, 184 p. New York: Longmans, Green and Co., 1936. (Includes Robert Schumann and Isadora Duncan.)

McCusker, Honor
Fifty years of music in Boston. Based on hitherto unpublished letters in the Boston Public Library. 47 p. Boston: Boston Public Library, 1937.

McNally, William James
Prelude to exile. A play in three acts. 183 p. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1936. (On Richard Wagner.)

Meier, Nellie Simmons
Lions' paws; the story of famous hands. Preface by William Benham, introduction by Meredith Nicholson. 160 p. New York: Barrows Mussey, 1937. (Includes musicians)

Miller, Dayton Clarence
Anecdotal history of the science of sound. To the beginning of the 20th century. xii, 114 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1935.

Mörike, Eduard
Mozart on the way to Prague. Tr. from the German by W. and C. A. Phillips. 104 p. New York: P. Smith, 1934.

Muller, Joseph
The Star Spangled Banner, words and music issued between 1814-1864; an annotated bibliographical list with notices of the different versions, texts, variants, musical arrangements, and notes on music publishers in the United States. Illustrated with 108 portraits, facsimiles, etc. 223 p. New York: G. A. Baker & Co., Inc., 1935.

Mursell, James L.
The psychology of music. 389 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., 1937.

Music of the Gold Rush Era. Cornel Lengyel, editor. Works Progress Administration, Northern California, San Francisco. History of music project. Prepared with assistance of the Works Progress Administration of California; sponsored by the City and County, San Francisco. (History of music in San Francisco series, volume one: January, 1939) 212 p. San Francisco: Works Progress Administration, Northern California, 1939.

National Broadcasting Company, Inc.
Broadcasting. 4 vol. New York, Washington: National Broadcasting Co., Inc., 1935. (Vol. 2: Music, literature, drama, art.)

Neilson, William Allan, editor
Roads to knowledge. New and enlarged edition. viii, 419 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1937. (Includes "Music" by Roy Dickinson Welch)

Nicoll, Allardyce
Film and theatre. ix, 255 p. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 1936.

Oldman, Cecil Bernard
Collecting musical first editions. (Aspects of book collecting) 32 p. London: Constable, 1938.

On Going to College. A symposium. 298 p. New York: Oxford University Press, 1938. (Contains "Music," by R. D. Welch)

O'Neill, F. R.
The relation of art to life; a sketch outline of an art philosophy. 232 p. London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trubner & Co.

Overmyer, Grace
Government and the arts. 338 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1939.

Peskett, S. J.
This music business. 127 p. London: Butterworth & Co., Ltd., 1934.

Petulengro
Gypsy fiddler. Edited by W. B. O'Hanlon. 278 p. New York: Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1936. (American ed.)

Peyser, Ethel
The book of culture; the basis of a liberal education. 780 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1936. (Music: p. 275-362)

Peyser, Ethel
The house that music built. Carnegie Hall. xiii, 371 p. New York: Robert M. McBride & Co., 1936.

Playtime in Russia, by various authors. Edited by Hubert Griffith. vii, 249 p. London: Methuen & Co., Ltd., 1935. (Chapters on music and the ballet.)

Podolsky, Edward
The doctor prescribes music. The influence of music on health and personality. 134 p. New York: Frederick A. Stokes Co., 1939.

Price, Lucien
We northmen. 392 p. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. (Numerous references to musicians)

Rattray, R. F.
Bernard Shaw: a chronicle and an introduction. 255 p. London: Duckworth, 1934 (Discusses Shaw and music.)

Renascent Mexico. Edited by Hubert Herring and Herbert Weinstock with an introduction by Ernest Gruening. 232 p. New York: Covici - Friede, 1935. (Chapter on music by Carlos Chavez.)

Rowley, Alec and J. Raymond Tobin
Graded tests in practical musicianship and musical initiative. In 3 books. London: J. Williams, Ltd., 1937.

Schwezoff, Igor
Russian somersault. 414 p. New York: Harper & Brothers.

Scott, Cyril Meir
An outline of modern occultism. viii, 239 p. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 1935. (With allusions to music.)

Seymour, Harriet Ayer
How to use music for health. 16 p. Larchmont, N. Y.: The Author, 1939.

Siegmeister, Elie
Music and society. 63 p. New York: Critics Group Press, 1938.

Sieveking, L.
The stuff of radio. 416 p. London: Cassell & Co., 1934.

Spaeth, Sigmund
Music for everybody. New York: Leisure League of America, 1934.

Spaeth, Sigmund Gottfried
Music for fun. xiii, 259 p. New York: Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., 1939.

Stearns, Harold E., editor
America now; an inquiry into civilization in the United States by thirty-six Americans. x, 606 p. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1938. (Includes "Music" by Deems Taylor)

Stevens, Stanley Smith & David Hallowell
Hearing, its psychology and physiology. xv, 489 p. New York: John Wiley & Sons, 1938.

Taubman, Hyman Howard
Music as a profession. xii, 320 p. New York: C. Scribner's Sons, 1939.

Taylor, Alison
Music in the air. 316 p. London: J. Murray, 1934. (Cheaper ed.)

The magic of music; an anthology for music weeks and days. Music week, its origin and observance; musical memory contests, games and entertainments; music study; the music sure; stories; plays; with an anthology of the best prose and verse on music from Plato to Millay. Compiled and edited with a preface by Robert Haven Schauffler. xxii, 387 p. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co., 1935.

The New Musical Educator, by Eighteen Authors. Edited by Harvey Grace. 4 vol. London: Caxton Publishing Co., Ltd.

Tovey, Donald Francis
Normality and freedom in music. Lecture, delivered in the Sheldonian Theatre, May 20, 1936. 39 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1936.

Ukers, William Harrison
All about coffee. 2d edition. xiv, 818 p. New York: The Tea & Coffee Trade Journal Co., 1935. (Discusses music and coffee.)

Van de Wall, Willem
The music of the people. vii, 128 p. New York: American Association for Adult Education, 1938.

Walton, Alexander
Architecture and music; a study in reciprocal values. 33 p. Cambridge: W. Heffer and Sons, Ltd., 1934.

Weybright, Victor
Spangled Banner; the story of Francis Scott Key. xi, 307 p. New York: Farrar and Rinehart, Inc., 1935.

Whitmer, Thomas Carl
The art of improvisation; a handbook of principles and methods for organists, pianists, teachers and all who desire to develop extempore playing, based upon melodic approach. 72 p. New York: M. Witmark & Sons, 1934.

Williams, D. E. Parry
A music course for students entering for school certificate and others. Preface by F. H. Shera. 243 p. London: Oxford University Press.

Willson, Meredith
What every young musician should know. (A concise and modern volume revealing the inside of radio musical technique) 40 p. New York: Robbins Music Corporation, 1938.

DICTIONARIES AND ENCLOPEDIC VOLUMES

Bacharach, Alfred Louis
The musical companion; a compendium for all lovers of music. 751 p. London: Victor Gollancz, Ltd., 1934.

Cummings, William H.
Dictionary of musicians. New and revised edition. London: Novello and Co., Ltd., 1934.

Hughes, Rupert
Music lovers' encyclopedia. Containing a pronouncing and defining dictionary of terms, instruments, etc., including a key to the pronunciation of sixteen languages, many charts; an explanation of the construction of music for the uninitiateed; a pronouncing biographical dictionary; the stories of the operas; and numerous biographical and critical essays by distinguished authorities. Completely revised and newly edited by Deems Taylor and Russell Kerr. xxv, 877 p. New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., 1939.

Hughes, Rupert
The biographical dictionary of musicians. Completely revised and newly edited by Deems Taylor and Russell Kerr. Over 8500 entries together with a pronouncing dictionary of given names and titles and a key to the pronunciation of sixteen languages. 481 p. New York: Blue Ribbon Books, Inc., 1940.

Kinsky, Georg
A history of music in pictures. With an introduction by Eric Blom. London: J. M. Dent and Sons, Ltd.

Newmarch, Rosa
The concert-goer's library. Volume 5. 98 p. London: Oxford University Press, 1938.

Parkhurst, Winthrop & L. J. de Bekker
The encyclopedia of music and musicians. 662 p. New York: Crown Publishers, 1937.

Satcher, Herbert Boyce, compiler
A bibliography of church music and allied subjects. 24 p. Philadelphia, Pa.: Published by the Commission on Music of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, 1937.

Slonimsky, Nicolas
Music since 1900. xxii, 592 p. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., 1938. (Second edition)

Terry, Edward M.
A Richard Wagner dictionary. 186, 34 p. New York: The H. W. Wilson Co., 1939.

The Music Lover's Miscellany. Selected and edited by Eric Blom. 662 p. London: Victor Gollancz, Ltd.

The Scholes music handbook. Being a complete book of reference giving both meaning and pronunciation of the technical words found in programs and in program notes. Edited for American readers by Will Earhart. xxx, 101 p. New York: M. Witmark & Sons, 1936. (American ed. of "The Radio Times music handbook.")

Thompson, Oscar, editor
The International cyclopedia of music and musicians. 2287 p. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co., 1939.

Upton, George Putnam, and Felix Borowski
The standard opera and concert guide. Revised and enlarged. New York: Halcyon House, 1936.

White, F.
Dictionary of musical terms. London: G. Routledge and Sons, Ltd., 1934.

Who's who in radio; a review of American broadcasting personalities. 144 p. New York: Distinctive Radio Publications, Inc., 1936.

Wier, Albert Ernest
The Macmillan encyclopedia of music and musicians. 2089 p. New York: The Macmillan Co., 1938.

Zorn, Ray H.
A guide to the music publishers. Check list of music publishers of U. S. A. and British Empire, notes on music markets, helps for amateur songwriters, classified buyers' guide, etc. (New 1939 edition) 37 p. Troy Grove, Ill.: Rayco Publications, 1939.

Music Copyright Simplified

By OTTALIE MARK

Question: What is meant by "Copyright?"

Answer: Copyright is the ownership which an author has in his intellectual creation. It involves the right of publication and reproduction of works of art or literature, which the law recognizes and protects. The law does not protect ideas unless they are expressed in writing, music or other tangible form.

Question: To what extent is an author or composer protected in the product of his intellect or genius?

Answer: The author or composer has the exclusive right to the publication, performance and reproduction of the product of his intellect or genius, but cannot prevent the public from making use of such product privately. Words and titles are not protected by copyright.

Question: Has the copyright owner any control of the tangible product?

Answer: No, the ownership of a copyright is distinguishable from the physical object. The owner of a copyright of a song or musical play has no right or ownership in the sheet music or the book containing the play. These may be bought or sold without reference to the copyright owner, just as cellophane or a zipper may be bought or sold, without obligation to the owner of the patent.

Question: Has the author or composer rights in his intellectual product recognized outside of the copyright law?

Answer: There is also what is known as "common law," which protects an author or composer in his product, before publication. In that case he may, if he chooses, permit his music, lyrics, score, or book to remain unpublished, and the law will protect him in his exclusive right therein. He may also apply for a copyright for "unpublished works" and likewise enjoy a monopoly therein. But this protection, whether under common law or under such copyright, is immediately extinguished upon publication, when all rights are lost, unless a new copyright is obtained, or unless such publication is unauthorized by the owner. A limited publication, however, does not destroy the common law copyright.

Question: May an author or composer sell or assign his product?

Answer: An author or composer may:

(a) Sell his manuscript entirely, including the privilege to apply for copyright.
(b) Sell or assign special rights therein, such as dramatic and performance rights.
(c) Grant performance and other special licenses.
(d) Mortgage or pledge the copyright.
(e) Sell or assign unreservedly his entire right, including the privilege of securing copyright by the purchaser, but may reserve special rights such as, for instance, moving picture rights, or rights of performance in a designated state, country or section.
(f) Dispose of the copyright in his will.

Question: Is a copyright subject to seizure by creditors?

Answer: A copyright has all the characteristics of any other property and is subject to seizure by creditors. His unpublished manuscript may not be so seized, regardless of its great value, without his consent. The transfer of unpublished works does not pass the common law copyright. The author may transfer possession of the manuscript and retain or assign to another his common law rights therein, or he may make the transfer and reserve the common law copyright himself and later apply for statutory copyright.

Question: Is a personal photograph protected?

Answer: An unpublished photograph is protected under the common law. In addition, some of the States have special enactments such as in the State of New York which impose severe liabilities for the publication of a photograph without the (written) consent of the owner. And the permission of an occasional special publication by the owner of the photograph will not convert it to the status of a "published" photograph so as to make it free to others.

Question: May a photograph be copyrighted by registry?

Answer: The owner of a personal photograph may apply for copyright registry, upon a form supplied by the Register of Copyrights. Notice of copyright and ownership must appear upon the photograph. Where the photograph is taken at the expense of the photographer and consent given him to do so, not the person of whom the photograph is taken but the photographer is entitled to copyright.

Question: What characteristics or qualities must an intellectual work have to be copyrighted?

Answer: To be copyrightable, the intellectual product must be:

(a) In visible or intelligible form. Music on a sound track or record does not meet the requirements for copyright purpose.
(b) Originality, in the sense that it is a product of the author's own effort. All of the component parts of a work need not be original. A composer may draw from all common and available sources to construct the new pattern or substance of his work, but he may not merely copy existing material. Nor may he make use of such material by merely colorable changes; nor may he make a compilation of old material and claim originality. However, if a composer or author devises a new plan, pattern, or arrangement in the use of existing materials, the result is copyrightable, if free from infringement upon earlier copyrighted work. Where a composition includes old material, his copyright gives him no monopoly on such integrated material used by him, although the arrangement, pattern, and additional material are protected.

Question: What is meant by dramatico-musical compositions?

Answer: Dramatico-musical compositions are such products as operas, operettas, musical comedies, sketches, recitations and presentations with musical interpolations.

Question: How are such compositions registered?

Answer: Music with or without words is classed as a musical composition; but words alone must be copyrighted as a book.

Question: Are pictures and cuts in a composition or book protected by the copyright?

Answer: Where the pictures and cuts are themselves copyrightable, they will be protected as part of the copyrighted work.

Question: Are musical "revues" copyrightable?

Answer: Musical "extravaganzas" consisting of a melee of novel arrangements, adaptations, dramatizations, and new patterns of earlier works are copyrightable as "new works," although the component parts may not separately be copyrightable.

Question: What is the meaning of "public domain" or "free" music?

Answer: "Public domain" or "free" music consists of music that has become part of the "spoils of time,"—where it has existed before the copyright laws; or where copyrights have expired; and such as have failed of proper registry. The performance of such music is free to all.

Question: What is meant by unfair competition as applied to music copyright?

Answer: A rival publisher may have full right to the publication and exploitation of free or "public domain" musical works, yet may be restrained by a competing publisher for copying the plan, pattern, ideas, and general presentation originated by such competitor.

Question: May an owner of copyright discriminate by restricting the sale and the use of his compositions?

Answer: In the present state of the law, the owner of a copyright may sell or refuse to sell as may suit his judgment or caprice. He may charge more to one than to another; he may restrict the use of his work in point of time, when and how long it may be used, and as to persons by whom it may be used, or he may withdraw its use entirely. In that respect copyright protection appears to grant rights, privilege, and immunities not enjoyed by any other commodity, in that the product of the author and composer is held to be outside of the laws affecting interstate commerce. It is this writer's opinion, however, that if the situation were more properly presented to the courts, that the tangible product of the author and composer in the form of sheet music, scores, records, sound track and films would be declared to be subject to the interstate commerce laws and discriminations prohibited.

Question: May any person make arrangements, dramatizations, or other adaptations of copyrighted works?

Answer: The copyright owner alone has the right to make arrangements, dramatizations, and adaptations of such works; and none other may make such use of such works or any part thereof without his consent.

Question: Who may obtain a copyright?

Answer:

(a) The author or composer is entitled to apply for copyright registry, provided he is a citizen of the United States; or if a resident of the United States at the time of publication of his composition; or if he is a citizen of a country which grants similar rights to citizens of the United States.

(b) The owner of the composition is also entitled to apply for copyright protection, if his ownership is derived by purchase or otherwise from an author or comcomposer qualified to obtain a copyright.

(c) The heirs, executor, administrator or assign of the author may likewise apply for copyright.

Question: How is a copyright obtained?

Answer: Appropriate forms for application for copyright are supplied by the Register of Copyrights, Washington, D. C., upon written request. Requests for such forms should be by designation, as follows:

Form E—New musical composition published for the first time.

Form E1—Musical composition republished with new copyright matter.

Form E2—Unpublished musical compositions.

Form U—Notice of use of music on mechanical instruments.

Form A1—Published words of a song.

(a) Unpublished musical compositions are such as are in manuscript form and which have not been reproduced in copies for sale or have not been publicly distributed. One complete copy of such unpublished song (including words) or composition should be deposited with the Register, together with the form properly filled out and a fee of $1.00.

(b) Two complete copies of a published song or composition must accompany the application, properly filled out, together with a money order or certified check for $2.00. A Notice of Copyright should appear on each printed work stating: "Copyright 19__ (the year of publication), by _____ (name of composer or owner).

(c) Application must be addressed to: "Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C."

Question: What is the result if the above formalities are neglected?

Answer: Upon failure to make such deposit of copies, the Copyright Office may demand same and may assess a fine of $100.00; a fine twice the retail price of the best edition of the work; and a forfeiture of the copyright itself. No suit of infringement can be maintained until such deposit has been made. Omission of notice of copyright on the published work showing the name of the copyright owner and the year of copyright, renders the copyright void and the work becomes "public domain."

Question: What are the principal differences between common law protection and statutory copyright?

Answer:

(a) The common law protection is perpetual; registration is limited to 28 years.

(b) Common law rights take flight upon publication; statutory rights commence upon publication.

(c) Under common law rights the author has a complete monopoly; under registration, the author has an exclusive privilege, short of monopoly.

(d) Common law rights protect only unpublished works; the copyright law protects both published and unpublished works.

Question: Where may a work be published to bring it within our copyright laws?

Answer: Publication in a foreign country is as effective as publication in the United States. Upon such publication, anywhere, the common law rights are lost and unless registry is effected here, the work becomes "public domain" and free to the public.

Question: Who has the right of renewal of a copyright upon expiration and what formality is required?

Answer: Only the original author or composer, his executors and legal heirs, may apply for renewal. Such right of renewal may be assigned, but the assignee of the copyright has no right to renewal. Application for renewal must be made within the last year prior to expiration of the copyright term.

Question: Are there any exceptions to this rule?

Answer: The sole exception to this rule is the right of an owner of a copyright who had employed the author or composer and the creation resulted under such employment. For instance, where a composer sells or assigns his product, the assignee's or purchaser's rights extend only to the first term; but where the owner had employed (hired) the composer, the employer and not the composer has the right of renewal.

Question: What special rules of law govern mechanical reproductions of music?

Answer: The owner of a copyrighted musical composition has the exclusive right to perform it publicly for profit and retains control of the right to manufacture music rolls, recordings, sound track and other devices and parts to reproduce his composition; but if he chooses to mechanically reproduce it, or permit another person to do so, or knowingly acquiesces in such use by another, then any other person may make similar use of the copyrighted work, upon payment of a royalty of 2 cents per record, roll or other reproducing unit. Whoever intends to make use of a copyrighted composition for mechanical reproduction must serve notice on the copyright owner by registered mail and also must file notice, accompanied by a fee, in the Copyright Office. Failure to serve such notices will subject such user to a fine not exceeding three times the royalties, in addition. To protect his right to royalties, a copyright owner may require the manufacturer to produce a report under oath on the 20th of each month of the number of reproducing parts manufactured during the previous month and the royalty shall be due at 2c each record on the 20th of the next succeeding month. In case of failure of such user to pay such royalties to the copyright owner within 30 days after demand in writing, the user becomes liable to the copyright owner for the cost of suit, attorney's fees and an additional sum not to exceed three times the amount of royalty due. The copyright owner is also required to file notice and fee in the Copyright Office of his own intention to make mechanical reproductions.

Question: Does the provision for a 2c royalty on each mechanical reproduction of a copyrighted composition also apply to copyrighted unpublished works?

Answer: The 2c royalty provision applies only to works both copyrighted and published after March 4, 1909. Upon payment of the 2c royalty for each reproducing part, record, roll or unit, it becomes thereafter free of all royalty and may be used freely, excepting for general public performance or broadcast.

Question: How may a statutory copyright be lost?

Answer: Statutory copyright once secured may be lost by publishing copies or reprints without notice of copyright, and this even if published abroad. It is not lost if such reprints are distributed as sample copies. It may be lost if the notice of copyright is defective. Accidental omission of the notice from some of the copies will not invalidate the copyright. Where the notice appears on the last page of a book instead of the title page, the copyright fails. Where a dramatico-musical composition is published with proper notice of copyright and later one of the songs is separately published, the copyright of that song fails, even though the notice of copyright of the book is reprinted thereon, for the reason that copyright protection cannot be claimed under the original copyright, but the song itself must be separately registered.

Question: Must all who use copyrighted compositions pay royalty?

Answer: Private use of copyrighted composition and public use, if not for profit, involve no liability to pay royalty. Only those who make use of such musical compositions publicly for profit must comply with the various copyright laws.

Question: What are examples of public use for profit?

Answer: Public performance for profit for which royalties must be paid are:

(a) Radio broadcasting;

(b) Hotels which supply their patrons with receiving devices attached to a master receiving set;

(c) Halls, theatres and other places where the public is invited and where admission is charged;

(d) Restaurants and places where food or drink is served to the paying public.

Question: Are compositions of foreign countries protected by copyright in this country?

Answer: Where United States citizens are accorded similar rights in a foreign country, citizens of such country may apply for copyright registry of their compositions here. But copyright must be obtained in this country within a resaonable time after publication abroad and our laws must be followed in the same manner and to the same extent as in the case of domestic compositions. Where such reciprocity is agreed upon, the President of the United States makes a Proclamation and such Proclamation has been made and is now effective on behalf of practically all civilized countries of the world.

CLASSIFIED DIRECTORIES

Classified Directories

ACCOMPANISTS AND COACHES

Anderson, Jane
4414 N. Paulina St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Longbeach 4166

Ardin, Leon

Arneke, Arthur H.
1328 E. Albion St.,
Milwaukee, Wis.
Tel: Be. 1218 R.

Berl, Paul
8 W. 47th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-9470

Bos, Coenraad V.
Hotel Wellington,
7th Ave. & 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-3900

Brown, Jeane
WOWO-WGL,
Ft. Wayne, Ind.
Tel: A-2136

Buratti, Armando
56 W. 68th St.,
New York City

Campbell, Gordon
626 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

CHASE, KATE FOWLER
600 W. 116th St.,
New York City
Tel: Mo. 2-6929

Coen, Lina
308 W. 97th St.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-1473

DAVIS, MILDRED
162 E. Ontario,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 3580

Dellers, Walter
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3883

DEL TERZO, EMILIA
816 Carnegie Hall,
7th Ave. & 57th St.,
New York City

DOBSON, EDITH HEFFNER
605 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4831

DU MOULIN, ROSE LYON
607 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Eisler, Paul
144 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-2057

FREUND, HELEN BROWNE
1018 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3480

Giroux, Paul Henri
Station KTAR
Phoenix, Ariz.
Tel: 4-4161

GREVER, MARIA
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1250

Griffith, Chauncey Laurie
330 Webster Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lincoln 0172

Guenther, Felix

Hanson, Betty Runyon
963 Cuyler Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Bittersweet 7069

Harris, Irene Leftwich
855 Piedmont Ave., N. E.
Atlanta, Ga.

Haynes, Zola
514 Main St.,
Lafayette, Ind.
Tel: 7919

Heim, Leo
500 Kimball Hall
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

HELLER, ADOLPH
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Herbert, Oliver Leo
50 W. 67th St.,
New York City

HILL, ROBERT PAYSON
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6700

JACQUET, H. MAURICE
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-0788

Kagen, Sergius
Juilliard Graduate School
130 Claremont Ave.,
New York City

Kimberly, Mae Eleanor
422 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 6062

La Forge, Frank
1100 Park Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Atwater 9-7470

Lawver, Aloha Studier
627 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7282

Leaman, Harold
Radio Station WICA
Ashtabula, Ohio
Tel: 1211

Lehmann, Fritz
Hotel Ansonia
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300

MAC DONALD, AMANDA
911 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4282

MARTENS, VIOLET
621 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Illinois
Tel: Wabash 9279

McArthur, Edwin
c/o NBC Artists Service
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York City

Miquel, Pablo
157 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-5051

Murdoch, Martha Myers
5914 Wellesley Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

ODIERNO, EMILIA VERGERI
2646 Broadway,
New York City

Paeff, Sara
212 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-0546

PAGANUCCI, ANTHONY
853 Carroll St.,
Brooklyn, New York
Tel: Nevins 8-3840

Post, Dorothy Belyea
707 Sierra St.,
Reno, Nev.
Tel: 8696

Potter, Harrison
One University Pl.,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-1773

Poynor, Virgia
College of the Ozarks,
Clarksville, Ark.
Tel: 14

QUILLIAN, JAMES
200 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-2000

Raucheisen, Michael

ROBBINS, MAY
327 W. 56th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-8882

ROCHE, JAMES MAXWELL
58 W. 68th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-7443

ROUNDS, ERMA
Chicago Conservatory of Music
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

ROXAS, EMILIO A.
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-3995

Rupp, Franz
c/o NBC Artists Service
RCA Bldg.,
New York City

Sandor, Arpad
136 W. 55th St.,
New York City

Schmitt-Fabri, Ludwig
1425 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2634

SCIARRETTI, ALBERTO V.
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Strasfogel, Ignace
c/o New York Philharmonic-
Symphony Orchestra
New York City

TAUBMAN, LEO
52 W. 84th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-2985

Tiffany, Marie
131 E. 66th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-7841

TILLMAN, ELIZABETH
1870 Murphy Ave., S. W.
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Raymond 5421

Trebing, Mrs. Emile
c/o School for the Blind
Little Rock, Ark.
Tel: 3-5194

TRENDLER, ROBERT
75 E. Wacker Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dearborn 1714

Tupper, Virginia Gatewood
243 King St.,
Charleston, S. C.

Van Dyne, Wayne
154 E. Erie St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 1171

Webber, Amherst

Wilson, Harlie E.
54 Clarke St.,
Burlington, Vt.
Tel: 2501

Wirsen, Edith Claudia
530 N. Orlando Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Whitney 8196

Wyckoff, Leah Ehrich
45 E. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-6800

AUTHORS

Abraham, Gerald
Bauer, Marion
Bellamann, Henry Hauer
Brant, LeRoy Verne
69 N. 8th St.,
San Jose, Cal.
Tel: Ballard 3
Burrowes, Katharine
Cheatham, Catharine Smiley
Coons, Oscar
De Schloezer, Boris
Diller, Angela
Diller-Quaile School of Music,
New York City
Doring, Ernest N.
1322 Hinman Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: Greenleaf 6027
Dounis, D. C.
Downes, (Edwin) Olin
c/o New York Times,
New York City
Duncan, William Cary
Mt. Pleasant St.,
North Brookfield, Mass.
Tel: 2655
Earhart, Will
School of Music,
University of Pittsburgh
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Eberhart, Nelle Richmond
3059 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kedzie 3681
Einstein, Alfred
Smith College,
Northhampton, Mass.
Ewen, David
551 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Fairchild, Frank Leslie
Sprague Meter Co.,
Bridgeport, Conn.
Farnsworth, Charles Hubert
Thetford, Vt.
Feldman, Harry Allen
245 W. 107th St.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-0983
Finney, Theodore M.
University of Pittsburgh,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Ma. 3500
Flock, Salle
c/o Izler Solomon
4450 N. Magnolia,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Sunnyside 8056
Forsyth, Cecil
Gehrkens, Karl Wilson
Oberlin College
Oberlin, O.
Tel: 5184
Gillespie, Marian
44 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 2-8060
Goldman, Edwin Franko
The Goldman Band
194 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Graf, Max
Hanks, Howard
American Conservatory
Kimball Bldg.
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
HARDING, WILL A.
Sherwood Music School
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
Harris, George Wesley
Haydon, Glen
University of North Carolina,
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Tel: 3226
Henry, Hugh Thomas
Hinman, Florence Lamont
Lamont School of Music,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Ta-6269
Hood, Marguerite Vivian
Radio Station KFPY,
Spokane, Wash.
Howard, John Tasker
Howes, Frank
Hughes, Rupert
Kastendieck, Miles
Brooklyn Eagle,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Main 4-6200
Keller, Edith M.
State Department of Education,
Columbus, O.
Tel: Main 1265 Ext. 428
Koons, Walter E.
Lahee, Henry Charles Lederman, Minna
Lehmann, Friedrich Johann
Leichtentritt, Hugo
993 Memorial Dr.,
Cambridge, Mass.
Tel: Trowbridge 9050
Lert, Ernest Joseph Maria
305 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-4239
Levant, Oscar
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Liebling, Leonard
Hotel Buckingham,
101 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Lockspeiser, Edward
Logan, Josephine Hancock
1150 Lake Shore Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Manchester, Arthur Livingston
Marcus, D. Frank
564 83rd St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Marshall, John Patton
Mason, Daniel Gregory
Mattfeld, Julius
MILAM, LENA
1693 Pennsylvania Ave.,
Beaumont, Tex.
Tel: 590
Miller, Paul Eduard
2208 Cleveland Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Morgan, Tali Esen
Morris, Reginald Owen
Murdoch, William
c/o George Leyden Colledge
RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Newman, Ernest
Newmarch, Rosa
Oberndorfer, Anne Shaw Faulkner
Webster Hotel,
2150 Lincoln Park West,
Chicago, Ill.
O'Hara, Geoffrey
58 Park Avenue
Bronxville, N. Y.
Ortmann, Otto Rudolph
Page, Nathaniel C.
Pannain, Guido
Perfield, Effa Ellis
103 E. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Sacramento 2-4859
Perkins, Francis D.
New York Herald Tribune,
New York City
Perry, Rob Roy
2410 Walnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rit. 9833
Quinn, Alfred Price
213⅛ N. Alvarado,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Reis, Claire R.
Richardson, A. Madeley
127 W. 15th St.,
New York City
Rolland, Romain
ROSENWALD, HANS
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830
Saerchinger, Cesar
Schauffler, Robert Haven
Schwartz, H. W.
Schwartzenstein, Sigmund
c/o Benson Conservatory of Music,
8215 20th Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Beachview 2-6080
SCIAPIRO, MICHEL
878 West End Ave.,
New York City
Simon, Robert A.
Smith, Leo
Sohn, Joseph
Spain, Helen Knox
Piedmont Hotel,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Main 3024
Spalding, Walter Raymond
Stefan, Paul
Stephens, Percy Rector
Stokowski, Olga Samaroff
Juilliard Graduate School,
130 Claremont Ave.
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3302
Tapper, Thomas
Thompson, Oscar
Musical America,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-0522
Tweedy, Donald Nichols
UNKALUNT, PRINCESS ATALIE
316 E. 58th St.
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-8052
Ussher, Bruno David
6122 Scenic Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Van Vechten, Carl
Von Unschuld, Marie
Wedge, George Anson
120 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-9336
Weinstock, Harold
19 E. 48th St.,
New York City
Welch, Roy Dickinson
141 McCormick Hall,
Princeton, N. J.
Tel: 2300 Ext. 254
Weld, Ethel Ross
2030 2nd. Ave.,
Hibbing Minn.
White, William Braid
5149 Agatite Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 5980
Whitmer, Thomas C.
WHITMIRE, ALICE GIDEON
Seward School
4600 S. Hermitage,
Chicago, Ill.
Wier, Albert E.
Williamson, Alix B.
67 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Tel: Vanderbilt 6-1466
WOLFE, LILLIAN REZNIKOFF
1379 Union St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: President 4-1270
Wolff, Werner
Zorn, Ray H.
Rayco Publications,
Box 626,
Troy Grove, Ill.

BANDMASTERS

Bachman, Harold Burton
Director, University of Chicago Band,
30 E. Adams St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Bainum, Glenn Cliffe
Director, Northwestern University Band,
Fisk Hall,
Northwestern University,
Evanston, Ill.
Bartow, William N.
248 Sylvania Place
Westfield, N. J.

Beeler, Walter Roy, Conductor
Ithaca College,
Ithaca, N. Y.

Benter, Lieut. Charles
Leader, U. S. Navy Band,
Washington, D. C.

Bergeim, Joseph
Director, North Division High School Band,
3010 N. Ninth St.,
Milwaukee, Wis.

Bickett, Will H.
Director Stanford University Band,
1212 Market St.,
San Francisco, Cal.

Branson, Capt. Taylor
Leader, U. S. Marine Band,
Marine Barracks,
Washington, D. C.

Branson, Capt H. C.
Director, Kable Bros. Co. Band, 129th Infantry Band,
Branson's Rockford Band,
Tebola Shrine Band, Rockford, Ill.
Mount Morris, Ill.

BUYS, PETER
Municipal Bandmaster
Hagerstown, Md.

Chenette, Clate W.
Director, Ames Municipal Band,
824 Duff Ave.,
Ames, Iowa

Chenette, Major Ed
Lake Hamilton, Fla.

Christensen, Carl
Dept. of Music,
South Dakota State College,
Brookings, S. D.

Christiansen, N. W.
Dept. of Music,
Utah State Agricultural College,
Logan, Utah

Clarke, Herbert L.
Director, Municipal Band,
245 Prospect Ave.,
Long Beach, Cal.

Cline, J. DeForest
Division of Music,
Colorado State College of Education,
Greenley, Colo.

D'Anna, Dr. Edward Director, Carborundum Company Band,
Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Darcy, Capt. T. F., Jr.,
Leader, U. S. Army Band,
Washington, D. C.

Dhossche, Ralph 1616 Roberts Ave.,
Beaumont, Texas

Di Ciano, John
Oak Park, Ill.

Dunn, Col. Richard J.
Bandmaster, A. & M. College of Texas,
Box 272,
College Station, Texas

Dvorak, Ray F., Band Director
University of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wisconsin

Egner, Lieut. Philip 57 Warrington Place,
East Orange, N. J.

Fillmore, Henry
Fillmore Music House,
528 Elm St.,
Cincinnati, Ohio

Frantz, Elmer Joseph, Conductor
609 Clinton St.,
Arkadelphia, Ark.

Frey, George O.
Dept. of Instrumental Music,
Girard College,
105 E. Upsal Street,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Gagnier, Dr. J. J., Musical Dir.
Canadian Broadcasting Corp.,
Quebec Division,
10788 St. Hubert St.,
Montreal, Quebec, Canada

Gault, Arthur D.
4942 Radford Ave.,
North Hollywood, Cal.

Glover, Ernest N.
Assistant Conductor, Armco Band,
Box 368,
Middletown, Ohio

GOLDMAN, EDWIN FRANKO
Conductor, The Goldman Band,
194 Riverside Dr.,
New York City

Grabel, Victor J.
University of Tulsa,
Tulsa, Okla.

Griffith, Sidney R., Musical Director
Box 733,
Lexington, Kentucky

Harding, Dr. A. A.
Band Director, University of Illinois,
Urbana, Ill.

Harner, Paul Abraham, Conductor
401 E. Hanover St.,
Hanover, Pa.

Harper, James C.
Band Director, Lenoir High School,
Lenoir, N. C.

Harris, Samuel Swampscott, Mass.

Hayward, Capt. R. B.
133 Lakeshore Rd.,
Humber Bay, Ontario, Canada

Heney, Edward J., Conductor
Orlando Senior High School,
Orlando, Fla.

Hickernell, Ross, Conductor
Dana's Musical Institute,
Warren, Ohio

Hindsley, Mark H.
Assistant Band Director,
University of Illinois Band Bldg.,
Urbana, Ill.

Howard, G. S.
Director, Instrumental Music,
State Teachers College,
Mansfield, Pa.

Hurt, Col. George E.
Band Director, University of Texas,
Austin, Texas

Irons, Col. Lieut. Earl D.
Bandmaster, North Texas Agricultural College,
Arlington, Texas

Killgrove, William, Conductor
4304 S. Figueroa St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

King, Karl L.
Director, Fort Dodge Municipal Band,
Fort Dodge, Iowa

Kooyman, Simon
Musical Director, Public Schools,
Clarksdale, Miss.

Kraushaar, O. J.
c/o G. Conn, Ltd.,
Elkhart, Ind.

LA BARRE, CAPT. EUGENE,
Conductor,
39 E. Broadway,
Long Beach, N. Y.

Landers, Major G. W.
George Landers Music Co.,
Clarinda, Iowa

Lhotak, Capt. Ferd R.
Band Director, Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, Pa.

Maddy, Dr. Joseph E.
Department of Music,
University of Michigan,
Box 608,
Ann Arbor, Mich.

Mantia, Simone
Asbury Park, N. J.

McAllister, A. R.
Band Director, Joliet Township High School,
Joliet, Ill.

McClure, Marion Booth, Conductor
Hardin-Simmons University,
Abilene, Texas

McCracken, Everett M.
Waco, Texas

McKenna, James B.
Director, Highlands High School Band,
52 Indiana Ave.,
Fort Thomas, Ky.

Mear, S. E.
Bandmaster, State Teachers College,
Whitewater, Wis.

Michelsen, Peter
Director of Music,
Central State Teachers College,
Stevens Point, Wis.

Missud, Jean M.
Director, Salem Cadet Band,
Salem, Mass.

Moore, E. C.
Supervisor of Music, City Schools
416 E. Circle St.,
Appleton, Wis.

Morris, Alexander C.
93 Shipwright St.,
Annapolis, Md.

Moses, Dr. Everett A.
Conductor, Moses and His Band,
Box 550,
St. Petersburg, Fla.

Muller, Robert Bandmaster, 6th F. A.,
Fort Hoyle, Md.

Murdoch, Lieut. W. M.
Director of Music,
206 Sincoe St.,
Toronto, Ontario, Canada

O'Callaghan, Col. W. J.
3251 Washington Blvd.,
Cleveland Heights, Ohio

O'Neill, Capt. Chas.
c/o State Teachers College,
Potsdam, N. Y.

Overgard, Graham T., Conductor
Wayne University,
Detroit, Mich.

Pfohl, James C.
Director of Music,
Davidson College,
Davidson, N. C.

Prescott, Gerald R.
Director of Bands,
University of Minnesota,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Pryor, Arthur, Sr.
Director, Arthur Pryor and His Band,
306 Asbury Ave.,
Asbury Park, N. J.

Putnam, Dr. C. S.
Director of Music,
N. D. Agricultural College,
Fargo, N. D.

Resta, Lt. Francis E.
Teacher of Music,
U. S. M. A.,
West Point, N. Y.

Restorff, Henry J.
218 E. 1st St.,
Jacksonville, Fla.

Revelli, William
Band Director, University of Michigan,
Ann Arbor, Mich.

Richards, John J.
Director, Municipal Band,
Sterling, Ill.

Rider, Albert W., Conductor
Dearborn High School, Dearborn, Mich.

Rush, Ralph E.
Director, Heights High School Band,
Cleveland Heights, Ohio

Sachs, Henry E.
Director, Denver Municipal Band,
Denver, Colo.

Schaefer, A. H.
Director, WLW Radio Band,
2847 May St.,
Cincinnati, Ohio

Sartell, Erwin, Conductor
318 Milton Ave.,
Janesville, Wis.

Simon, Dr. Frank Director, Armco Concert Band,
Box 368,
Middletown, Ohio

Stannard, Capt. W. J.
Leader, U. S. Army Band,
4309-12th St., N. E.,
Washington, D. C.

Stewart, Carleton
Director of Music, Public Schools,
Mason City, Iowa

Thiele, C. F.
Waterloo Music Co.,
Waterloo, Ontario, Canada
Treloar, Samuel H.
Bandmaster, Butte Mines Band,
2119 Oak St.,
Butte, Mont.
Tyler, George H.
Assistant Conductor, Long Beach Municipal Band,
Long Beach, Cal.
Vandercook, H. A.
Vandercook School of Music,
1652 Warren Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Verren, William Thomas, Conductor
Thomasville High School,
Thomasville, Ga.
Verweire, John L.
Bandmaster, Fort Wayne, Indiana, News-Sentinal, 1227 Kinsmoor Ave.,
Fort Wayne, Ind.
Victor, Meyer, Conductor
Goodman, Wis.
Vocelka, Ernest Charles
Director of Band and Orchestra,
Shenandoah, Iowa
Walker, Vesey, Conductor
2324 W. 7th St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Welke, Walter Carl, Conductor
University of Washington,
Seattle, Wash.
Wells, Joseph William Conductor, City Schools,
Clifton, Ariz.
WHITE, WILLIAM CARTER, Conductor
Fort Jay,
New York City
Wiley, D. O.
Director, Texas Tech Band,
Texas Tech College,
Lubbock, Texas
Williams, Ernest
Ernest Williams School of Music,
153 Ocean Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Zimmerman, Capt. John S. M.
Director, U. S. Soldiers' Home Band,
Washington, D. C.

BARITONES

Abernethy, Emerson
4757 Sheridan Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Long Beach 0132
Albano, Edward
152 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-2331
Amato, Pasquale
Ashcroft, Earl
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Baer, Frederic
Baklanoff, Georges
Barclay, John
Barker, O. Stuart
Chicago Conservatory,
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
Barlow, Leland
Dakota Wesleyan University,
Mitchell, S. Dak.
Tel: 3743
Barnhart, Harry Horner
Barr, Stewart
One 5th Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Spring 7-7000
Barrie, Clyde
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Bauman, Mordecai
200 W. 16th St.,
New York City
Beeler, Walter Roy
Ithaca College,
Ithaca, N. Y.
Berardinelli, Nicola Orlando
1018 Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Berglund, Joel
c/o Metropolitan Opera Assn., Inc.,
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Blanchard, Henry 557 E. Gates St.,
Roxborough, Philadelphia, Pa.
Bockelmann, Rudolph
Boltenstern, Russell E.
402 W. Center St.,
Cambridge, Ill.
Tel: Black 100
Bonanno, Raoul Spoleti
2827 Euclid Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio
Bonelli, Richard
c/o Metropolitan Music Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
BOORAS, MINAS
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6167
Bornes, James Foster
Duke University
Durham, N. C.
Tel: F-131
Bowers, William 262 Decatur St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
BROWNLEE, JOHN
c/o Haensel and Jones
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Busch, Berthold
60 S. 11th St.,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Atlantic 6489
Carboni, Mario Pietro
Carboni School of Vocal Art,
431 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Carreiro, Theo S.
12 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 2728
Carter, Elwyn
c/o Willard Matthews
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 4-0754
Chalmers, Thomas Hardy
Chapman, Frank
c/o NBC Artists Service
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8300
CHESNAIS, VICTOR
420 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2584
Cordon, Norman
c/o Haensel & Jones
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Crabbe, Armand
Crawford, Robert
c/o Vera Bull Hull
101 W. 55th St.,
New York City
CZAPLICKI, GEORGE
814 N. Ashland Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Monroe 1761
Darcy, Emery
1811 Taft Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Darwin, Glenn
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Defrere, Desire
de Gogorza, Emilio Edoardo
DE LOACHE, BENJAMIN
34 Gramercy Park
New York City
DE YOUNG, RICHARD
721 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 2338
Dickson, Donald
National Broadcasting Co.
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Duey, Phil
14 Knollwood Dr.,
Larchmont, N. Y.
Tel: Larchmont 2433
Dufranne, Hector
DUNCAN, TODD
c/o Musical Artists Bureau,
312 Manhattan Ave.,
New York City
Eddy, Nelson
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
EDKINS, J. ALDEN
410 East 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Wickersham 2-8694
Englander, Lester
1222 Spruce St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Evans, Wilbur
113 W. 57th St.,
New York, N. Y.
Falkner, Keith Fardulli, Jean
c/o William Neil,
621 W. Delaware Ave.,
Buffalo, N. Y.
Fear, Arthur
Finger, Otto John 318 W. Saratoga St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Tel: Mulberry 3197
Flanagan, William Lyle Patrick
914 Walnut St.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 3-7147
Frigerio, Claudio
Gabor, Arnold
221 W. 82nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-7377
Galeffi, Carlo
Gange, Fraser
Garrett, A. Howard
Gauld, Carlton
Gilly, Dinh
GODFREY, ARTHUR
808 Earle Bldg.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Metropolitan 3200
Gorin, Igor
c/o Evans and Salter,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Gracey, Stuart
49-06 39th Ave.,
Woodside, N. Y.
Tel: Newtown 9-0118
Graham, George
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830
Graham, Ross
Hotel Wellington,
New York City
GRANVILLE, CHARLES NORMAN
701 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 4200
GRIFFIN, GEORGE
National Broadcasting Co.,
New York City
Gurney, John
National Broadcasting Co.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8300
Habich, Eduard
HADLEY, GRANT
Millikin Conservatory of Music,
Decatur, Ill.
Hale, Richard
HARRELL, MACK
162 W. 56th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-7534

Harrison, Theodore
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Hatfield, Byron
16 Gramercy Park,
New York City

Hatfield, Lansing
c/o Arthur Judson
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Herrick, John
134 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-6883

Hewitt, Lee
5346 Cornell Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Plaza 5400

HILL, BARRE
University of Oklahoma,
Norman, Okla.
Tel: 900

Hoffman, John D.
2½ Auburn Ave.,
Sylvania, Ga.
Tel: Jackson 0674

Hoffmeister, Leon Abbott

Howland, William Arthur
52 Putnam
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2870

Huehn, Julius
c/o Haensel & Jones
113 W. 57th St.
New York City

Hunt, Arthur Billings
156 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 2-4937

Hunter, Raymond Otis
812 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-0924

Interrante, Giuseppe
12 W. 45th St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 2-0300

Jackson, Archibald C.
52 Putnam Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.

Janssen, Herbert
NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City

Jones, Archie Neff
University of Idaho,
Moscow, Idaho

JONES, J. WESLEY
4100 South Parkway,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Atlantic 4095

KAINS, SHERWOOD
University of Cincinnati,
Cincinnati, O.
Tel: University 8000

Kemper, Jimmy
The Van Dyke,
175 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 4-1422

KENNEDY, STEVEN
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-1962

Kent, Arthur
c/o Ray Halmans
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Kerrigan, Jack
914 Walnut St.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 3-7147

Kirbery, Ralph
c/o Leo Feist,
1620 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2939

KLAMROTH, WILFRIED
1047 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-4259

Knepper, Martin D.
911 Flatbush Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Koch, Raymund
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

Kurtz, Gail M.
610 S. Van Ness Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

La Berge, Charles L.
500 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Land, Harold Green Gables,
North Broadway,
Yonkers, N. Y.

Lanham, McCall
110 W. 96th St.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-4454

Larson, Herman
NBC,
Chicago, Ill.

Lawrence, Charles Wilson
University of Washington,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Melrose 0630

Lee, Bob
600 Leif Eirrikson Dr.,
Decorah, Iowa
Tel: 690

Lewis, Walter WTNJ,
Trenton, N. J.

Liebling, Wilbert
c/o Charles H. Keep,
410 So. Mich. Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

Ludikar, Pavel

Lulek, Ferry
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.

Lutton, Charles Edwin
64 E. Jackson Blvd.
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 1279

MacBurney, Thomas Noble
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

MacDonald, John
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3614

MacHugh, Edward
National Broadcasting Co.
RCA Bldg.,
New York City

Marais, Josef
261 W. 11th St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 3-0049

Marcoux, Vanni

MATHIAS, ELMER L.
238 Fair Ave., N.W.,
New Philadelphia, Ohio
Tel: 29622

Maxwell, Leon Ryder

McInnes, James Campbell
91 Dupont St.,
Toronto, Canada

McPhail, Douglas Saunders
Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios,
Culver City, Cal.

Miller, Foster
c/o Vera Bull Hull,
101 W. 55th St.,
New York City

Mills, Walter
c/o Willard Matthews
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City

Moore, Donald
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City

MORELLI, CARLO
Sherman Square Hotel,
New York City

Morley, Francke C.
45 S. 17th St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 8533

NADEAU, RAOUL
Radio Station WOR
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-8383

NEHER, JOHN
c/o National Concert League,
310 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 5541

Neil, Ronald J.
Georgia Teachers College,
Collegeboro, Ga.

Nelidoff, George
721 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 5018

Newill, James

Newton, George
319 N. Pennsylvania St.,
Indianapolis, Ind.

Olds, William Benjamin
University of Redlands,
Redlands, Cal.
Tel: 3634

Oliver, Earl
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
RKO Bldg., Radio City,
New York City

Peters, Errol Kunkel
535 Hamilton St.,
Allentown, Pa.
Tel: 2-8222

Picco, Millo

Plock, Walter W.
Metropolitan Opera Studios,
New York City

Post, Augustus
58 W. 47th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-5645

Rankel, John Robert
910 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7586

Ranous, Arthur
5208 N. Damen Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Reed, Graham
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.

Renan, Emile
c/o Standard Booking Office,
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Rhodes, Ellis Marshall
829 No. Mariposa,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Olympia 3072

Rimini, Giacomo

Ringling, Robert

Ritter, Blakely
c/o Johnston-Maschal,
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 9934

Roberts, Llewellyn
50 W. 67th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6699

Robertson, Stuart

Robeson, Paul
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Robison, Carson
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Bryant 9-8746

Rockwood, John
c/o Vera Bull Hull,
101 W. 52nd St.,
New York City

Roecker, Edward, Jr.
2826 Centre St.,
Merchantville, N. J.
Tel: Mer. 2339

Rogers, Francis

Rossi, Pat
Hotel Sharon,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-4680

Ruffo, Titta

Russ, Elmo
800 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-9171
Samuel, John Owen
606 Carnegie Hall,
Cleveland, O.
Schlusnus, Heinrich
SCHMIDT, REINHOLD
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Schorr, Friedrich
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Schroeder, Hans
3226 E. Fifth Ave.,
Knoxville, Tenn.
Tel: 3-6095
Seagle, John
344 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-3969
Seagle, Oscar
Selfridge, Blanchard
c/o Marshall Field and Co.
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: State 1000 Local 2698
Shawe, Loyal Phillips
Northwestern University
Evanston, Ill.
Simmions, Louis
210 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Ashland 4-7157
Smith, George Grammer
5424 N. Lawler Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 4069
Smith, Nathaniel
c/o Embree Concert Service
100 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Sovereign, Oliver
519 N. Sergeant
Joplin, Mo.
Tel: 4429
SPEAKER, ROBERT
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Speaks, Oley
Spencer, Miles
1358 Carmen Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Ravenswood 1628
Spicer, Earle
134 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Spiro, Robert 5440 N. Winthrop Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Edgewater 1415
Stewart, Albert Pearson
Purdue University
West Lafayette, Ind.
Tel: 2502
Stocker, Leonard
c/o Annie Friedberg
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Stracciari, Riccardo
Sved, Alexander
c/o Charles L. Wagner, Inc.,
511 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tagliabue, Carlo
Tailby, Ralph Thibault, Conrad
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York City
Thomas, John Charles
Metropolitan Opera House
New York City
Tibbett, Lawrence
c/o Evans and Salter,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
TOREN, E. CLIFFORD
North Park College,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Keystone 8200
Trevisan, Vittorio
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 2157
Turner, Lem
1220 E. 13th St.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 6-8229
Valentino, Francesco
c/o Metropolitan Opera Assn., Inc.,
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Vogel, Adolf
WALSH, HARRY S.
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 6602
Waring, Tom
c/o William Neill, Inc.,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
WARREN, LEONARD
c/o Haensel & Jones
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Wechsler, Jerome Beryl
c/o Meltz, 4939 N. Winthrop,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Ravenswood 1987
Weede, Robert
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Weil, Hermann
WEIL, LEROY WILLIAM
83 Second Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Hu. 3-8339
Welti, Walter
Utah State Agricultural College,
Logan, Utah
Tel: 100 Ext. 67
Werrenrath, Reinald
White, Ray Bridwell
1845 Champa St.,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Tabor 3733
WOLFF, ERNST
c/o Bernard R. LaBerge, Inc.
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
WORTH, MAYNARD
c/o Concerts Bureau of America, Inc.,
45 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Worthington, Floyd
Zerffi, William A. C.
31 W. 84th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-4385

BASSOS

Alvary, Lorenzo
Andresen, Ivar
AUSTIN, DAVID RYAN
American Conservatory of Music,
310 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Baccaloni, Salvatore
c/o Metropolitan Opera Association,
Metropolitan Opera House
New York City
Baromeo, Chase
Beattie, Douglas
NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York City
BELARSKY, SIDOR
c/o S. Hurok,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Blair, Jules
837 Spitzer Bldg.,
Toledo, Ohio
Tel: Ma-2844
Boals, Colonel L. R.
Station WFMJ
Youngstown, Ohio
Tel: 3-4121
Boucher, Edmond
c/o A. H. Handley
162 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.
Burke, Edmund Arbuckle
Cowles, Eugene
De Segurola, Andres
Didur, Adamo
Edmonson, William Ward
NBC,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Ernster, Dezso
Gould, Herbert
Drake University,
Des Moines, Ia.
Tel: 5-1161
Greve, Senia Arnold
Sherwood Music School,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Griffith, Yeatman
Hinshaw, William Wade
Kellerman, Marcus
5155 Second Blvd.,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Temple 1-3350
Kipnis, Alexander
c/o Charles L. Wagner, Inc.,
511 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Kravitt, Harold
135 W. 79th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-9866
Lazzari, Virgilio
List, Emanuel
Metropolitan Opera Association,
New York City
Love, Mark
Radio Station WGN
Chicago, Ill.
Mann, Carl F.
1535 Woodward Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.
Matz, Luke
Philadelphia Opera Co.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
McClelland, Stanley
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Moscona, Nicola
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Ottone, Augustus
119 W. 57th St., Rm. 701
New York City,
Tel: Circle 7-4500
Pasero, Tancredi
Pinza, Ezio
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York City
Rains, Leon
READ, JOHN T.
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Regneas, Joseph
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-6092
Rothier, Leon
Ruysdael, Basil
Scott, Henri
Soomer, Walter
Squire, Russel Nelson
George Pepperdine College,
1121 W. 79th St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Pl. 1-1151
STEWART, MICHAEL
c/o Bernard Pearlman,
75 E. Wacker Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dearborn 1714
Stults, Walter Allen
1822 Sherman Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 1900
VELD, HENRY
Augustana College,
Rock Island, Ill.
Tel: 246

Vidal, Antonio
2530 N. Beachwood Dr.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gl. 9215
Whitezel, Lee Bond
310 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 5595
Wolfe, James
Metropolitan Opera Association
New York City

CHORAL DIRECTORS

Abernethy, Emerson
4757 Sheridan Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Long Beach 0132
Adams, Frank Stewart
585 West 204th St.,
New York City
Adaskin, Murray
27 Winchester St.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Midway 2767
Allen, Jay
132-70 Sanford Ave.,
Flushing, N. Y.
Anderson, Hazel Pearl
5752 W .Chicago Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Anderson, Orlan P.
Andover, Ill.
Tel: 50
Archer, John Benjamin
Ardrey, Eldon Allen
Arizona State College,
Flagstaff, Ariz.
ARNOLD, ESTHER FRIEND
456 Glendenning Place,
Waukegan, Ill.
Tel: Ontario 6640
Atkinson, Lucy
800 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Bacon, Madi
Roycemore School,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 5790
Bain, Wilfred Conwell
Music Department,
North Texas State Teachers College,
Denton, Texas
Tel: 483
Baird, J. Julius
503 Reymer Bldg.,
237 Fifth Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Atlantic 3062
Baldwin, Ralph Lyman
Bampton, Ruth
Beaver College,
Jenkintown, Pa.
Tel: Ogontz 3500
Barlow, Leland
Dakota Wesleyan University,
Mitchell, S. Dak.
Tel: 3743
Barnes, William H.
1112 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 3444
Barnhart, Harry Horner
Bartholomew, Marshall Moore
Beach, Theodore
St. Andrew's P. E. Church,
2067 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Lehigh 4-0896
Beaverson, James H.
21 Spruce St.,
New York City
Tel: Beekman 3-2852
Bender, William Isett
20 Cumming St.,
New York City
Tel: Lorraine 7-1177
Berne, Alexander
14 Central Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Market 3-6174
Beyer, Mary Ethel
830 North Ave., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 4369
Biddle, Mark John
Winthrop College,
Rock Hill, S. C.
Binder, Fritz
Birge, Edward Bailey
Boepple, Paul
Dalcroze School of Music,
9 E. 59th St.,
New York City
BOORAS, MINAS
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6167
Bornes, James Foster
Duke University,
Durham, N. C.
Tel: F-131
Boyce, Alfred
135 W. 56th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-5657
Brennecke, Ernest, Jr.
Brown, Ethel Moore
3959 Poplar Pike
Memphis, Tenn.
Tel: 4-8244
Bruce, Dwight James
Station WTOC
516 Abercorn St.,
Savannah, Ga.
Brumley, David Joseph
515 Union Bldg.,
Knoxville, Tenn.
Tel: 2-7181
CAIN, NOBLE
1331 Chase,
Chicago, Ill.
Carey, Bruce
Girard College,
Philadelphia, Pa.
CHASE, KATE FOWLER
600 W. 116th St.,
New York City
Tel: Mo. 2-6929
Christiansen, F. Melius
St. Olaf College,
Northfield, Minn.
Coward, Sir Henry
Craig, Charles William, Jr.
316 W. Franklin St.,
Richmond, Va.
Tel: 3-2693
Craven, Carl
523-25 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3632
Crawford, Hadley R.
6701 Easton Ave.,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Mulberry 1630
Dasher, James A.
Emory Junior College,
Valdosta, Ga.
Davis, Ruth Ethel Administration Bldg.,
Scranton, Pa.
Tel: 7261
Dessoff, Margarete
Dewey, Malcolm H.
Emory University,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: De 3786
DOBSON, EDITH HEFFNER
605 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4831
Dorr, William Ripley
Palos Verdes Estates, California
Tel: Redondo 7104
Douglass, Ruth
Mount Holyoke College,
South Hadley, Mass.
Tel: Holyoke 8211
DUETZMANN, MAX
Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-7739
Duffield, Paul Edison
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Duncan, Sue Ellis
Russellville, Ky.
Tel: 430
Dunham, George Sawyer
Dunlop, Merrill
825 Barry Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lakeview 4200
Einecke, C. Harold
Park (First) Congregational Church,
Grand Rapids, Mich.
Evans, Mack
University of Chicago,
Choir Office,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Midway 0800
Fairclough, George H.
844 Fairmount Ave.,
St. Paul, Minn.
Tel: Dale 3962
FARRELL, MARY AGNES V.
209 W. Chestnut St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 1322
Finn, Rev. William J.
415 W. 59th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-1437
Fuhrmann, Edward August
c/o Bethlehem Steel Co.,
Johnstown, Penn.
Gamauf, Ladislaus C.
1956 N. Highland Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Hillside 6151
Garlinghouse, Burton
101 Mt. Veiw Ave.,
Akron, O.
Tel: Bl 5438
Gatwood, Elden J.
Peabody College,
Nashville, Tenn.
Tel: 7-3600
Geer, E. Harold
Vassar College,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Tel: Pok. 2800
GEON, MARCELLA
834 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-0751
Gfeller, Kenneth Arnold
914 Walnut St.,
Des Moines, Ia.
Tel: 3-7147
Gideon, Henry
Gilbert, Elizabeth Hallenbeck
La Grange College,
La Grange, Ga.
Tel: 41
Giroux, Paul Henri
Station KTAR
Phoenix, Ariz.
Tel: 4-4161
Glomski, Hyacinth M.
Chopin School,
2440 Rice St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Goldsworthy, William A.
St. Marks Church In-the-Bouwerie
10th St. at 2nd Ave.
New York City
Haage, George D.
226 S. Fifth St.,
Reading, Pa.
Hall, Juanita
225 W. 110th St.,
New York City
Hardy, E. B. L.
Northwestern State College,
Alva, Okla.
Tel: 44
HARMS, JOHN
39 W. 76th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-4968
Harris, Ralph Arthur
157 St. Paul's Place,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Bu. 2-7234
HARSHA, RUTH
300 8th Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Hatfield, Byron
16 Gramercy Park
New York City

HAWKINS, ESTHER BECKLINGER
320 Grant Place,
Park Ridge, Ill.
Tel: Park Ridge 197M

Hawkins, Warner M.
147 W. 87th St.,
New York City
Tel: Schuyler 4-3391

Hays, Ernest
Hampton Institute,
Hampton, Va.

Heeremans, Harold
New York University,
New York City
Tel: Raymond 9-2000

Helfman, Max
Paterson, New Jersey

Hemington, Francis
614 N. Ridgeland Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.

Hewlett, William Henry

Hjortsvang, Carl T.
Evansville College,
Evansville, Ind.
Tel: 3-1475

Huger, Nellie Beatrice
52 Putnam,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2870

HULTGREN, GEORGE
MacPhail School of Music,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424

Hunter, Albert G., Jr.
7 Mildred Ave.,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Tel: 5928

HUNTER, JANE OGDEN
64 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4687

Jaroff, Serge

Jenny, Herbert John

Jones, Griffith John
1420 E. 82nd St.,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Garfield 9088

JONES, J. WESLEY
4100 South Parkway
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Atlantic 4095

Jones, Philip A.
5929 W. Walton
Chicago, Ill.

Kanitz, Ernest
Winthrop College Station (Box 102)
Rock Hill, S. C.

KEMMER, GEORGE WILLIAM
St. George's Church,
207 E. 16th St.,
New York City

Kendel, John Clark
414 14th St.,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Tabor 7151

Kinder, Ralph

Krone, Max T.
School of Music,
University of Southern California,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Kwalwasser, Jacob
Syracuse University,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: 2-1251

Lawrence, Charles Wilson
University of Washington,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Melrose 0630

Lefebvre, Channing
211 Fulton St.,
New York City

Lemont, Cedric Wilmot

Lewis, H. Merrills
Furman University,
Greenville, S.C.

Loder, James Purdy
The Cheshire Academy,
Cheshire, Conn.
Tel: Cheshire 396

Losh, Sam S.
Losh Institute of Music,
Mutual Home Bldg.,
Fort Worth, Texas

MacCollin, Paul

Maitland, Rollo

Malmin, Gunnar Johannes
Pacific Lutheran College,
Parkland, Wash.
Tel: Garland 0577

Malone, Robert

Manchester, Arthur Livingston

Marsh, Charles Howard
640 Broadway,
San Diego, Cal.
Tel: Main 4122

McCormac, Halstead B.
Lone Pine Union High School,
Lone Pine, Cal.
Tel: 2511

McCutchan, Robert Guy

McDermott, Albin
New York City

McHose, Grace B.
616 10th Ave. S.,
Nampa, Ida.
Tel: 1133W

McKenzie, Lallie B.
Palm Beach High School,
West Palm Beach, Fla.
Tel: 7412

Miller, Leo C.
393 N. Euclid
St. Louis, Mo.

Moore, Earl Vincent
School of Music,
University of Michigan,
Ann Arbor, Mich.

Morgan, Tali Esen

Morris, Ruth
3154 Hudson Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lakeview 4406

Mowe, Homer G.
166 W. 72nd St.,
New York City

Mueller, Carl F.
46 Park St.,
Montclair, N. J.
Tel: Mo. 2-7482

Norris, Herbert
State College of Washington,
Pullman, Wash.
Tel: 8011

Olds, William Benjamin
University of Redlands
Redlands, Cal.
Tel: 3634

Olson, Clifford Julius
Augustana College,
Sioux Falls, S. Dak.
Tel: 851

Ossko, Eduard
14-206 General Motors Bldg.,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Trinity, 2-4600 Ext. 539

Owens, Janet Russell
High Point College,
High Point, N. C.
Tel: 4340

Pache, Joseph

Paine, Richmond Peck

Phillips, William
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
306 So. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Plumpton, Alfred E.
278 Myrtle St.,
Manchester, N. H.
Tel: 2217

Porter, Hugh
1 W. 48th St.,
New York City,
Tel: Bryant 9-7152

Post, Theodore H.
University of Nevada
Reno, Nev.

Price, Hugh C.
226 Wright St.,
La Salle, Ill.

Ranger, Richard H.
201 Verona Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Hu 2-0123

Ranous, Arthur
5208 N. Damen Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Rapp, Barney
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City

RAUSCHELBACH, REV. OSCAR A.
6406 S. Washtenaw,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Prospect 4619

Remley, Ernest J.
2547 Gaylord St.,
Denver, Colo.

Richmond, Eve Roine
Conservatory of Music,
Wooster, O.
Tel: 113

Richter, Clarence L.
4747 Milwaukee Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 5000

Robinson, Clarence Cramer
School of Music,
Ohio University,
Athens, O.
Tel: 23081

ROSS, HUGH 333 Fourth Ave.,
New York City

Rowe, Neille Odell
Conservatory of Music,
Wooster, O.
Tel: 113

Rowles, William Lloyd
Eastern Washington College of Education,
Cheney, Wash.
Tel: Black 631

Sackett, Lynn
323 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7815

Sanders, Erma Bellows
767 E. Madison,
Springfield, Mo.

Saylor, Rodney
820 Broad St.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Mitchell 2-0260

Seibert, Henry F.
Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity,
Central Park West & 65th St.,
New York City

Sister Mary Lucretia
Marywood College,
Scranton, Pa.
Tel: 3-0842

Smith, Herman F.
1111 N. 10th St.,
Milwaukee, Wis.
Tel: Marquette 4341

Spizzy, Mabel Seeds
Junior College,
Reedley, Cal.
Tel: Reedley 451

Stahl, Ruby Smith
First Congregational Church,
Washington, D. C.
Tel. Na. 4317

Starr, Charles Neil University of Akron,
Akron, O.
Tel: Bl. 4124

Steckel, Edwin M.
Oglebay Institute,
Wheeling, W. Va.

Steffen, Elmer Andrew
144 W. Georgia,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Tel: Lincoln 5271

Stewart, Albert Pearson
Purdue University,
West Lafayette, Ind.
Tel: 2502

Stone, Thompson
15 Newbury St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 5426

Strickling, George F.
Cleveland Heights High School,
Cleveland Heights, O.
Tel: Yellowstone 3100

STUMPF, MRS. CLARENCE
403 W. 30th,
Austin, Tex.
Tel: 22856

Sturdy, Lena Alice
5929 S. Vermont Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Pleasant 9175

SUTHERN, ORRIN CLAYTON, II
Florida A. and M. College,
Tallahassee, Fla.

Swanson, Wilbur F.
Augustana College,
Rock Island, Ill.
Tel: R. I. 246

Swarthout, Donald Malcolm
University of Kansas,
Lawrence, Kan.
Tel: 1637

Taferner, Theodore

Tollman, Harold Henry
Wayne University,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2020

Taylor, Harry Franklyn
Eastern New Mexico College,
Portales, N. M.
Tel: 11

Thayer, Arthur Wilder

Thompson, Edyth
Wilson College,
Chambersburg, Pa.

Thompson, Tahlulah Clonts
1111 West Johnson St.,
Madison, Wis.
Tel: F. 2014

Titus, Parvin
c/o Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,
Cincinnati, Ohio
Tel: Av 7800

TOREN, E. CLIFFORD
North Park College,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Keystone 8200

VELD, HENRY
Augustana College,
Rock Island, Ill.
Tel: 246

Wahlberg, Arthur Gustave
Fresno State College,
Fresno, Cal.
Tel: 2-7187

Walker, Cornelia Greer
Union, S. C.

Wallace, James Brevard
Belhaven College,
Jackson, Miss.

WALSH, HARRY S.
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 6602

Ward, Loftus Hume
Huron College,
Huron, S. Dak.
Tel: 3415

Waterman, Carl John
Lawrence Conservatory of Music
Appleton, Wis.

Weaver, Paul John
320 Wait Ave.,
Ithaca, N. Y.
Tel: 3331 Ext 1053

Weegand, Ruth 12th Floor, City Hall,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Wa. 3381

Weis, Ezra H. F.
Guilford College,
Guilford College P. O., N. C.

Westberg, J. Orville
c/o John Huneke,
Old National Bank Bldg.,
Spokane, Wash.
Tel: Main 6700

Wetzel, LeRoy
1127 N. Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 3133

White, Ray Bridwell
1845 Champa St.,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Tabor 3733

Widenor, David Kenneth
239 Passaic St.,
Hackensack, N. J.
Tel: Hackensack 2-4294-W

Wigent, John
North Park College,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Keystone 8200

Wilcox, John C.
American Conservtaory of Music
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Wild, Julianna M.
4642 Ellis Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Wilde, Edwin Ernest
7 Greenridge Ave.,
White Plaines, N. Y.
Tel: W.P. 7334-M

Williamson, John Finley
Westminster Choir College,
Princeton, N. J.
Tel: 1890

Willoughby, Winifred
Board of Education,
East St. Louis, Ill.
Tel: East 3100

Wilson, Harry Robert
Teachers College,
Columbia University,
New York City
Tel: University 4-7000

Wilson, William Llewellyn
Douglass High School,
Calhoun and Baker St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Tel: Lafayette 4248

WISE, B. FRED
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Yingling, Robert Wright
University of Connecticut,
Storrs, Conn.
Tel: 820

Youngdahl, Carl R.
Augustana College,
Sioux Falls, S. D.

Ziegler, M. Paul
Woodstock, N. Y.

COMPOSERS

Abraham, Paul

Achron, Isidor
45 W. 81st St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-9200

Achron, Joseph
2621 N. Beachwood Dr.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 5990

Adams, Mrs. Crosby
Montreat, N. C.
Tel: Number 8

ALBERTI, SOLON
Hotel Ansonia,
Broadway at 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300

Alexandroff, Anatole

Alfano, Franco

Alfven, Hugo

Allen, Creighton
549 Second Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Lexington 2-4419

Allen, Paul

Alpert, Pauline
350 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-8244

Altman, Adella Carlson
6810 East End Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Fairfax 2364

Amfiteatroff, Daniele

Andersen, Arthur Olaf
University of Arizona,
Tucson, Ariz.
Tel: 3030

Anderson, Laurel Everette
University of Kansas,
Lawrence, Kansas
Tel: 142

Antheil, George

ANTONE, ANTHONY
1576 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2684

Ascher, Leo.
617 W. 113th St.,
New York City
Tel: University 4-8936

Atherton, Percy Lee

Aulbach, Francis Edward
911 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4282

Auric, Georges

Avery, Stanley R.
432 Ridgewood Ave.,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Kenwood 2713

Bacon, Ernst

Baird, J. Julius
503 Reymer Bldg.,
237 Fifth Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Atlantic 3062

Baldwin, Ralph Lyman

Baldwin, Samuel Atkinson

Ballantine, Edward

Balogh, Erno

Barber, Samuel

Barbour, Florence Newell

Barge, Elsie
745 Irving Park Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.

Barlow, Howard
c/o Columbia Artists,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City

Barlow, Samuel L. M.

Barnes, Edward Shippen

Barnes, Edwin N. C.

Barnett, Alice
San Diego, Cal.

Barth, Hans
165 E. 60th St.,
New York City

Bartok, Bela

Bauer, Marion

Bautista, Julian

Beach, Mrs. H. H. A.

Beach, John Parsons

Beaton, Isabella

Beck, Johann Heinrich

Becker, John J.
445 City Hall,
St. Paul, Minn.
Tel: Nestor 5659

BEHREND, JEANNE
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525

Bennett, Robert Russell

Benter, Lieut, Charles
Navy Yard,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Atlantic 9300

Berckman, Evelyn

Berezowsky, Nicolai
815 Park Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-3058

Bergh, Arthur
159 N. Almont Dr.,
Beverly Hills, Cal.

Berwald, William Henry
College of Fine Arts,
Syracuse University,
Syracuse, N. Y.

Bestor, Dorothea
282 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6582

Biggs, Richard Keys
6657 Sunset Blvd.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 1835

BILBRO, MATHILDE
P. O. Box 1344
Birmingham, Ala.

Binder, Abraham Wolfe
Young Men's Hebrew Association,
1395 Lexington Ave.,
New York City

Black, Frank
c/o National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Blech, Leo
Bleecker, James W.
27 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-4200
Bliss, Arthur
Blitzstein, Marc
Bloch, Ernest
2516 Piedmont Ave.,
Berkeley, Cal.
Blum, Elias
Bode, Arnold George Henry
410 W. Montecito Ave.,
Sierra Madre, Cal.
Tel: Custer 5032
BOGUSLAWSKI, LILLIAN
323 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 6900
BOGUSLAWSKI, MOISSAYE
323 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 6900
Bollinger, Samuel
Bond, Carrie Jacobs
Bonner, Eugene MacDonald
Bonvin, Ludwig
Bornschein, Franz
708 E. 20th St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Tel: Un. 4312
Borowski, Felix
The Maryland Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Bowles, Paul Frederic
Boyd, Jeanne
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Boyle, George Frederick
1909 Walnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Locust 4493
Braine, Robert
151 W. 77th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-3027
Branscombe, Gena
Branson, Taylor
Brant, Henry Dreyfus
Bricken, Carl Ernest
University of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wis.
Bridge, Frank Britain, Radie
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Tel: Harrison 0500
Britten, Benjamin
Brockway, Howard
424 E. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Wi 2-8737
Brooks, Ernest
632 N. Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 0446
Brosky, Frank J.
5930 Kentucky Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Brown, Harold
210 W. 19th St.,
New York City
Tel: Watkins 9-7693
Browning, Mortimer
425 E. 86th St.,
New York City
Brunswick, Mark
Buchanan, Annabel Morris
Buehrer, Geoffrey Carl
Burleigh, Cecil
University of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wis.
Burleigh, Henry Thacker
Busch, Adolf Georg Wilhelm
NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Busch, Carl
Busch, William

Bush, Grace
1547 S. Gramercy Place,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Cadman, Charles Wakefield
Box 1063,
San Diego, Cal.
CAIN, NOBLE
1331 Chase,
Chicago, Ill.
Carbonara, Gerard
11289 Ivy Place,
West Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: West Los Angeles 91907
Carillo, Julian
Carpenter, John Alden
1020 Lake Shore Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Carre, John
219 Sixth St.,
Racine, Wis.
Tel: Jackson 148
Carter, Elliott Cook, Jr.
Carter, Ernest
115 E. 69th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-8723
Casadesus, Francis
Casella, Alfredo
Castelnuovo-Tedesco, Mario
c/o Albert Morini,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Cate, Harold Webster Library Farm,
Antrim, N. H.
Cazden, Norman
Cella, Theodore Chajes, Julius
c/o Transcontinental Music Corp.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Chanler, Theodore Ward
Charpentier, Gustave
Chavez, Carlos
CHERNIAVSKY, JOSEF
Radio Station WLW,
Cincinnati, O.
Cheslock, Louis
Peabody Conservatory of Music,
Mt. Vernon Place,
Baltimore, Md.
Christiansen, F. Melius
St. Olaf College,
Northfield, Minn.
Claflin, Avery
Clapp, Philip Greeley
Music Dept.,
University of Iowa,
Iowa City, Ia.
Clockey, Joseph W.
Miami University,
Oxford, Ohio
Cohn, Arthur
Colburn, George
Cole, Rossetter Gleason
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Cole, Ulric
Cooke, James Francis
1712 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Copland, Aaron
Cowell, Henry Dixon
Crawford, Louise
Coe College,
Cedar Rapids, Ia.
Tel: 3-2611
Crawford, Ruth Creston, Paul Crist, Bainbridge
Crowe, Bonita P'Pool
1057 Minnesota Ave.,
Winter Park, Fla.
Curry, Arthur Mansfield
Dallapiccola, Luigi
Damrosch, Walter Johannes
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8300
DANBURG, RUSSELL
Washington State College,
Pullman, Wash.
Tel: 8011

Daniels, Mabel
164 Riverway,
Boston, Mass.
Davis, John Carlyle
15 W. Hill Lane,
Wyoming, O.
Davise, Hugo
2507 Wellington Rd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Pa 4923
Dawson, William Levi
Tuskegee Institute,
Tuskegee, Ala.
de Falla, Manuel Maria
De Filippi, Amedeo
Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Deis, Carl
De Lamarter, Eric
Delaney, Robert Mills
De Leone, Francesco B.
34 S. High St.,
Akron, Ohio
Tel: He 9818
Demarest, Clifford
Demorest, Charles H.
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830
Dennee, Charles Frederick
De Sabata, Victor
Deshevoff, Vladimir
Desormiere, Roger Dessau, Paul
DE STEFANO, SALVATORE M.
180 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Dett, Robert Nathaniel
Diamond, David Leo
Dieter, Bernard
409 E. Chicago Ave.,
Naperville, Ill.
Tel: 649-M
Diggle, Roland
Dillon, Fannie Charles
Dobrowen, Issay Alexandrowitsch
Douglas, Charles Winfred
Douty, Nicholas
Downing, Lulu Jones
2208 Asbury Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: Greenleaf 2420
Drdla, Franz
Dreier, Marie
608 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3551
Dresden, Sem
DRUMM, GEORGE
300 E. 163rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Jerome 7-2384
Dubensky, Arcady
Carnegie Hall,
7th Ave. & 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-1350
Dudley, Marjorie Eastwood
University of South Dakota,
Vermillion, S. Dak.
Tel: 659
Duke, John Woods
Dukelsky, Vladimir (Vernon Duke)
Dumler, Martin G.
Dunkley, Ferdinand Luis
Dupre, Marcel
Durand, Mrs. Nella Wells
Tampa Heights Presbyterian Church,
Tampa, Fla.
Tel: M50 814
Durey, Louis E.
Dykema, Peter William
Teachers College,
Columbia University,
New York City
Tel: University 4-7000
Dyson, George
Egk, Werner
Eichheim, Henry
Eisler, Hanns
New School for Social Research,
New York City
Elie, Justin

Elkus, Albert I.
Department of Music,
University of California,
Berkeley, Cal.
Enesco, Georges
Engel, A. Lehman
Engel, Gabriel
English, Granville
251 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Enna, Emil
807 Studio Bldg.,
Portland, Ore.
Enters, Angna
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Eppert, Carl
1864 N. Cambridge Ave.,
Milwaukee, Wis.
ERB, JOHN WARREN
New York University,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 5-0617
FAIR, REX ELTON
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 9544
Fergus, Phyllis
1406 N. State Parkway,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 1009
Ferrahian, Eunice
665 E. Adams Blvd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Richmond 7986
Fichthorn, Claude L.
Missouri Valley College,
Marshall, Mo.
Fickenscher, Arthur
Finke, Fidelio F.
Finney, Ross Lee
Sage Hall,
Smith College,
Northampton, Mass.
Tel: 2700
Fisher, William Arms
200 St. Paul St.,
Brookline, Mass.
Fitelberg, Jerzy
Fleming, Len
3 Cortland St.,
Wellsboro, Pa.
Flock, Salle
c/o Izler Solomon,
4450 N. Magnolia,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Sunnyside 8056
Forst, Rudolph
Forsyth, Cecil
Foster, Dorothy
American Conservatory of Music,
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Fox, J. Bertram
853 7th Ave.,
New York City
Francaix, Jean Freed, Isadore
Freer, Mrs. Eleanor E.
33 Bellevue Pl.,
Chicago, Ill.
Friml, Rudolf
Fry, Henry S.
Fuleihan, Anis
Gaines, Samuel Richards
115 Newbury St.,
Boston, Mass.
Galajikan, Florence Grandland
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Gallico, Paolo
Ganci, Ralph
1916 Boulevard,
Jeresy City, N. J.
Tel: Be-3-0505
Ganz, Rudolph
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Gaul, Harvey Bartlett
315 Shady Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Montrose 0120
Gebhard, Heinrich
Gehring, Carl E.
George, Anna Evans
Mississippi Southern College,
Hattiesburg, Miss.
GIANNINI, VITTORIO
American Academy in Rome,
101 Park Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-7414
Gillespie, Marian
44 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 2-8060
Gillette, James Robert
169 N. Washington Circle,
Lake Forest, Ill.
Tel: 83
Goldman, Edwin Franko
The Goldman Band,
194 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Goldman, Maurice
11316 Whitmore Ave.,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Glenville 8049
Gomez, Vicente
1270 Sixth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-1332
Goossens, Eugene, Jr.
1316 American Bldg.,
Cincinnati, O.
Gould, Morton
7734 Austin St.,
Forest Hills, N. Y.
Tel: Boulevard 8-2116
Grainger, Percy Aldridge
Grandjany, Marcel
Grasse, Edwin
220 W. 107th St.,
New York City
Gray, Cecil
Green, Howard Sylvester
251 S. Main St.,
Butler, Pa.
Tel: 41-023
Greenwell, Robert Holmes
Gregor, Henry
2025 Brickell Ave.,
Miami, Fla.
Tel: 3-1920
GREVER, MARIA
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1250
Grey, Frank Herbert
c/o The New Dawn Music Publishing Co.,
516 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Griffis, Elliot
c/o The Composers Press, Inc.,
853 Seventh Ave.,
New York City
Griffiths, Samuel School Department,
Hyannis, Mass.
Grimm, Carl Hugo
Grofe, Ferde
GROSS, WALTER
405 E. 54th St.,
New York City
Grovlez, Gabriel
Gruenberg, Louis
Grunn, Homer
911 Westchester Place,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: R. O. 1267
Gualillo, Nicholas Demi
310 Beattie St.,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Guerrieri, Fulgenzio
343 W. 28th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lackawanna 4-5205
Guerrini, Guido
R. Conservatorio Luigi Cherubini,
Florence, Italy
Guion, David Wendell
Gulez-yan, H. Aram
52 Chester Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Humboldt 3-0724
Haba, Alois
Hageman, Richard
Paramount Studios,
Hollywood, Cal.
Hammer, Heinrich Albert Eduard
Hammond, Richard
Hanson, Howard
Eastman School of Music,
Rochester, N. Y.
HARDER, ERWIN E.
2115 Dayton St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lincoln 3287
HARDING, WILL A.
Sherwood Music School,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
Harling, W. Franke
Harp, Ernest Lynnwood
321 W. Dallas St.,
Artesia, New Mexico
Tel: 168
Harris, Roy
Harris, Victor
Hart, Frederic
Harty, Sir Hamilton
HAUBIEL, CHARLES
853 Seventh Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-3719
Haufreucht, Herbert
Heifetz, Vladimir
165-25 134th Rd.,
Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.
Heilman, William Clifford Helfer, Walter
Helfman, Max
67 Park Terrace East,
New York City
Tel: Lorraine 7-7497
HENRY, HAROLD
853 Seventh Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-7826
Henry, Leigh Vaughan
Hering, John Norris
Hermann, Bernard
Hier, Ethel Glenn
Hill, Edward Burlingame
HILL, M. WOOD
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 24746
Hillmann, Carl
1210 N. Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 2279
Hirschfeld, Max
B. B. Marks, Inc.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Hodgson, Walter Hutchinson
Conservatory of Music,
Mount Union College,
Alliance, Ohio
Tel: 3206
Hofland, Sigvart
c/o Boguslawski College of Music,
323 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Holst, Marie Seuel
25-27 W. Main St.,
Madison, Wis.
Tel: Fairchild 6737
Homer, Sidney
Honegger, Arthur
Hood, Helen HORWITZ, HANS
19 W. 69th St.,
New York City
Hosmer, Elmer Samuel
Howard, John Tasker
Howe, Mary
1821 H Street, N. W.,
Washington, D. C.
Howells, Herbert

Hubbell, Frank Allen
416 Isabel St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Capitol 7879
Huerter, Charles
318 Allen St.,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: 3-5552
Hughes, Rupert
Hugo, John Adam
Huhn, Bruno
Hunt, Arthur Billings
156 Fifth Avenue,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 2-4937
Huss, Henry Holden
Ibert, Jacques
Ide, Chester Edward
Inch, Herbert Reynolds
INSANA, SILVIO
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2833
Ireland, John
Ives, Charles Edward
West Redding, Conn.
Jacobi, Frederick
90 Pomeroy Ter.,
Northampton, Mass.
JACQUET, H. MAURICE
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-0788
James, Dorothy
James, Philip
New York University,
New York City
Janssen, Werner
Jaques-Dalcroze, Emile
Jarecki, Tadeusz
Jepson, Harry
Johnson, Harold McKinley
Horace Mann School,
Gary, Ind.
Johnson, Horace
Johnson, Hunter
Johnstone, Arthur Edward Joseffer, Anna Thelma Josten, Werner
Smith College,
Northampton, Mass.
Kanitz, Ernest
Winthrop College Station (Box 102)
Rock Hill, S. C.
Katz, Paul
Biltmore Hotel,
Dayton, O.
Tel: Fu. 4642
Kelley, Edgar Stillman
Great Northern Hotel,
New York City
KEMMER, GEORGE WILLIAM
St. Georges Church,
207 E. 16th St.,
New York City
Kennan, Kent
Music Department,
University of Texas
Austin, Tex.
Kesnar, Maurits
Augustana College,
Rock Island, Ill.
Tel: Rock Island 1267
Kidder, Max
Kilenyi, Edward
Twentieth Century Fox Film Studio,
Beverly Hills, Cal.
Tel: Ox. 2211
Klemperer, Otto
Kodaly, Zoltan
Kolar, Victor
Detroit Symphony Orchestra,
Masonic Temple,
Detroit, Mich.
Korn, Clara
Korngold, Erich Wolfgang
Warner Bros. Studio,
Burbank, Cal.
Tel: Hollywood 1251 Ext. 336
KOTTLER, MISCHA
Station WWJ,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: To. 70409
Kountz, Richard
Koutzen, Boris
162 W. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-1745
Kraft, William Jacob
Kramer, A. Walter Kreisler, Fritz
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Krenek, Ernst
Vassar College,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Kroll, William
160 W. 87th St.,
New York City
Krone, Max T.
School of Music,
University of Southern California,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Kubelik, Jeronym Rafael
Kubik, Gail T.
Kurtz, Edward Frampton
Department of Music,
Iowa State Teachers College,
Cedar Falls, Ia.
Kvelve, Rudolph
Postal Telegraph Bldg.,
La Crosse, Wis.
Tel: 2720 M
LA BARRE, CAPT. EUGENE
39 E. Broadway,
Long Beach, N. Y.
Labunski, Felix Roderick
Labunski, Wiktor
c/o Musical Artists Bureau,
312 Manhattan Ave.,
New York City
Lagourgue, Charles
35 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-2367
Lake, Mayhew Lester
1020 Edgewood Lane,
Palisade, N. J.
Tel: Cliffside 6-0327
Laliberte, Alfred
Lambert, Constant
Lane, Eastwood
26 E. 10th St.,
New York City
Tel: Stuyvestant 9-0748
Lane, Lewis
c/o Dorothy Porter,
1425 Broadway,
New York City
Lang, Margaret Ruthven
LAPHAM, CLAUDE
1674 Broadway,
New York City
La Prade, Ernest
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
La Violette, Wesley
Lazzari, Sylvio
Leach, Rowland
University of Redlands,
Redlands, Cal.
Leftwich, Vernon
1709 W. 8th St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Drexel 5957
Lehar, Franz
LEHMANN, OSCAR H.
327 N. Charles St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Tel: Saratoga 3765
Leichtentritt, Hugo
993 Memorial Dr.,
Cambridge, Mass.
Tel: Trowbridge 9050
Leidzen, Erik W. G.
251 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-1955
Le Massena, Charles E.
Steinway Bldg.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Leonard, Clair
Lester, Thomas William
Levant, Oscar
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Levey, Harold
19 Pine Brook Dr.,
Larchmont, N .Y.
Lewando, Ralph
The Pittsburgh Press,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Lewis, H. Merrills
Furman University,
Greenville, S. C.
Lewis, Leo Rich
Lieberson, Goddard
Lieberson, Samuel A.
De Paul University,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 1970
Liebling, George
St. George Apts.,
1245 N. Vine St.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 4734
Liebling, Leonard
Hotel Buckingham,
101 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Lieurance, Thurlow
Lilienthal, Abraham W.
Lipsky, Alexander
140 W. 69th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-4580
Lockwood, Normand
Oberlin Conservatory of Music,
Oberlin, O.
Tel: 58
Loesche, Paul Anthony
1140 Abbott Blvd.,
Palisade, N. J.
Tel: Cliffside 6-3729J
LONGAS, FEDERICO
75-17 41st St.,
Jackson Heights, N. Y.
Loomis, Clarence
1440 Broadway,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Lopatnikoff, Nicolai
Lorenz, Edmund Simon
501 E. 3rd St.,
Dayton, O.
Tel: Fu 6118
Lorenz, Ellen Jane
c/o Lorenz Publishing Co.,
23 Dorothy Lane,
Dayton, O.
Tel: Fu 6118
Loth, L. Leslie
243 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-2132
Low, Leo
864 West End Ave.,
New York City
Lucas, Clarence
Luening, Otto
Lund, Signe
Lustgarten, Egon
25 W. 76th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-2050
Maas, Marguerite Wilson
MacColl, Hugh Frederick
MacDougall, Hamilton Crawford
MacFarlane, William Charles
MacMillen, Francis
Maerz, Joseph
Maesch, LaVahn K.
Lawrence College,
Appleton, Wis.
Tel: 1659
Maganini, Quinto
Calhoun Dr.,
Greenwich, Conn.
Magnante, Charles
46 Constant Ave.,
Yonkers, N. Y.
Tel: Nepp. 293
Mahler, Fritz
Malin, Donald 834 Reba Place,
Evanston, Ill.
Malipiero, Francesco

Malkin, Joseph
299 Beacon St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 4166

Mana-Zucca

Mannes, Leopold Damrosch
157 E. 74th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-0656

Manney, Charles Fonteyn

Manning, Edward Betts

MARCELLI, RICO
c/o Leslie Clucus,
333 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Franklin 7100

Marcus, D. Frank
564 83rd St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Marinuzzi, Gino

Markevitch, Igor

Marsh, Charles Howard
640 Broadway,
San Diego, Cal.
Tel: Main 4122

Marsh, Lucile Crews
108 W. Fern Ave.,
Redlands, Cal.
Tel: 5368

Martelli, Henri

Martinu, Bohuslav

Marx, Burle
128 W. 80th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-9406

Marx, Joseph

Mascagni, Pietro

Mason, Daniel Gregory

Mason, Russell Green
10 Woodland Ave.,
New Rochelle, N. Y.

Matthews, H. Alexander
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 0810

Mattingly, Mrs. Jane McFarlin
North Avenue Presbyterian School,
341 Ponce de Leon Ave.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Vernon 7233

McBride, Robert Guyn

McCollin, Frances

McDonald, Harl
Philadelphia Orchestra Association,
Philadelphia, Pa.

McKay, George Frederick

McKinley, Carl

McNeely, Paul Pierre
907 Pine St.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Ma. 8639

McPhee, Colin

McWhood, Leonard Beecher

Medtner, Nicolas

Menotti, Gian-Carlo

Merriman, Rutherford Hayes
c/o Joseph T. Dunham & Co.,
Chatham, N. J.

Miessner, W. Otto

MIKESHINA, ARIADNA
330 W. 58th St.,
New York City

Milhaud, Darius

Miller, Horace Alden

Miller, Russell King

Milligan, Harold Vincent

Mills, Felix
1368 Holmby Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Mitropoulas, Dimitri
Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Mokrejs, John
222 E. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-8420

Montemezzi, Italo

Moore, Douglas

Moore, Mary Carr
Chapman College,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Olympia 2903

Moross, Jerome

Morris, Harold

Morris, Reginald Owen

Morse, Arthur Cleveland
120 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Hancock 9240

Mueller, Carl F.
46 Park St.,
Montclair, N. J.
Tel: Mo. 2-7482

Mukle, May Henrietta

Munn, William Oliver
235 Peachtree Street, N. E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Wa. 1042

Muscaro, Martin
119 Kendall Blvd.,
Oaklyn, N. J.
Tel: Collingswood 2246

Muschamp, Stanley
47 S. 17th St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 6833

Musser, Clair Omar
1770 Berteau Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Nabokoff, Nicolas

Naginski, Charles

Nevin, Arthur Finley

Nin-Culmell, Joaquin Maria

Nin Y Castellanos, Joaquin

Noelte, A. Albert

Norden, N. Lindsay

Nordoff, Paul
Philadelphia Conservatory of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Novak, Frank Joseph, Jr.
Room 1706,
9 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City

Nyman, Uno

Ogle, Louise Godfrey
6 Caledonia Road,
Asheville, N. C.
Tel: 6827-J

O'Hara, Geoffrey
58 Park Avenue,
Bronxville, N. Y.

Oldberg, Arne

Ondricek, Emanuel
14 E. 73rd St.,
New York City

Ornstein, Leo
251 S. 18th St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2777

O'Shea, John Augustine

Otterstrom, Thorvald
Chicago, Ill.

Overgard, Graham T.
Wayne University,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Co. 2020

Pache, Joseph

Paderewski, Ignace Jan
NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City

PAGANUCCI, ANTHONY
853 Carroll St.,
Brooklyn, New York
Tel: Nevins 8-3840

Page, Nathaniel C.

Palmer, Courtlandt

Palmer, Geoffrey Molyneux

Palmgren, Selim

Panizza, Ettore
Metropolitan Opera Ass'n.,
New York City

Pannain, Guido

Paray, Paul

PARRAGA, GRAZIELLA
c/o Mary L. Shank,
RKO Bldg., Radio City
New York City

Parrish, George C.
323 N. Carmelina,
Brentwood Hghts.,
W. Los Angeles, Cal.

Pasmore, Henry Bickford

Patterson, Franklin P.

Pattison, Lee
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City

PATTON, LOWELL
350 No. 55th St.,
New York City

PAULSEN, P. MARINUS
410 So. Michigan Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

Payne, Harriet Pauline
Indianapolis Symphony,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Tel: Riley 9597

PERLMAN, GEORGE
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7215

Perry, Rob Roy
2410 Walnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rit. 9833

Peterson, LaVerne
Radio Station WSAU,
Wausau, Wis.
Tel: 6521

Petus, Ruth Elizabeth
P. O. Box 304,
Huntsville, Ala.
Tel: 758-J

Pfitzner, Hans Erich

Phillips, Burrill

Phillips, Harold D.

Pimsleur, Solomon

Pinto, A. Francis
c/o G. F. MacFarlane,
1425 Broadway,
New York City

Pisk, Paul Amadeus
University of Redlands,
Redlands, Cal.
Tel: 3061

Piston, Walter

Pizzetti, Ildebrando

Porter, Quincy
New England Conservatory of Music,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Ken. 8600

Poulenc, Francis

Powell, John

Powell, Laurence
Michigan Music Project,
551 Houseman Bldg.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Preyer, Karl A.

PRICE, FLORENCE BEATRICE
647 E. 50th. Pl.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Drexel 4532

Prokofieff, Serge

Pugh, Melvyn Daniel
1924 Main St.,
Northampton, Pa.

Rabaud, Henri Benjamin

Rachmaninoff, Sergei
c/o Steinway & Sons,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Rapee, Erno
Radio City Music Hall,
44 W. 51st St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-4600

Rathaus, Karol

Ravonell, Willetta
6705 Alta Loma Terrace,
Hollywood, Cal.

Read, Angelo McCallum

READ, GARDNER
1824 Hinman Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 0050

Redman, Harry Newton

Reed, H. Owen
Department of Music,
Michigan State College,
East Lansing, Mich.
Tel: 5-9113

Reiser, Alois

Repper, Charles
Trinity Court,
Boston, Mass.

Reti, Rudolph
49 E. 83rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-8942

Riegger, Wallingford
352 W. 18th St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 3-6535
Riesenfeld, Hugo
Rieti, Vittorio
Robertson, LeRoy
Brigham Young University,
Provo, Utah
Tel: 134 Ext. 30
Robinson, Clarence Cramer
School of Music,
Ohio University,
Athens, O.
Tel: 23081
Robinson, Earl
c/o American Composers Alliance,
285 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Robitschek, Robert
Rogers, Bernard
Rogers, James Hotchkiss
Rolfe, Walter
11 Durham St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 6612
Romberg, Sigmund
Rosenstock, Josef
Rota, Nino
Row, Richard D.
725 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 3318
Royce, Edward
Eastman School of Music
University of Rochester,
Rochester, N. Y.
Rubinoff, David
Paramount Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Lackawanna 4-7147-8
Rubinstein, Beryl
3411 Euclid Ave.,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: He 4040
Rudhyar, Dane
Ruggles, Carl
Russ, Elmo
800 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-9171
Sabatini, Guglielmo
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 1981
Salazar, Adolfo
SALVI, AIDA
3430 N. Kildare,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 1998
Salzedo, Carlos
270 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-0775
Saminsky, Lazare
Sandberg, Mordecai
Sandby, Hermann
Sanders, Robert L.
University of Indiana,
Bloomington, Ind.
San Juan, Pedro
Saunders, Richard Drake
Citizen-News,
1545 N. Wilcox Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
SAVINE, ALEXANDER
901 Auditorium Bldg.,
431 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Schad, Walter C.
Grant Ave.,
Brentwood, N. Y.
Schillinger, Joseph
Schminke, Oscar Eberhard
Schmitt, Florent
Schoenberg, Arnold
University of California at Los Angeles,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: W.L.A. 35077
Schreiber, Fritz
140 W. 70th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-7921
Schulman, Alan
c/o NBC Symphony Orchestra,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Schuman, William Howard
Schuyler, Philippa
SCIAPIRO, MICHEL
878 West End Ave.,
New York City
Search, Frederick Preston
SECUNDA, SHOLOM
590 Fort Washington Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Wadsworth 8-2212
Seeger, Charles Louis, Jr.
Segall, Bernardo
c/o Paul H. Stoes, Inc.,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Semmann, Liborius
757 N. Broadway,
Milwaukee, Wis.
Tel: Daily 2770
Serly, Tibor
10 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 8-2579
Sessions, Roger Severn, Edmund
Sevitsky, Fabian
Shapleigh, Bertram
Sheldon, Charles A., Jr.
956 Blue Ridge Ave.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 6707
Shelley, Harry Rowe
Shepherd, Arthur
Western Reserve University,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Cedar 8780
SHILKRET, NATHANIEL
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 3-0191
Shortall, Harrington
339 Barry Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 2423
Shostakovich, Dmitri
Shugars, Florence Lovejoy
Station WROK,
Rockford, Ill.
Tel: M. 5632
Shure, R. Deane
Mt. Vernon Place M. E. Church,
Washinton, D. C.
Sibelius, Jean
Siegmeister, Elie
c/o Herbert Barrett,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-4640
Skilton, Charles Sanford
University of Kansas,
St. Lawrence, Kan.
Tel: K.U. 135
Slonimsky, Nicolas
238 Hemenway St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Commonwealth 2798
Small, Arnold M.
Music Department,
University of Iowa,
Iowa City, Ia.
Smith, David Stanley
SMITH, RAYMOND ALLYN
1229 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7529
Smith, Warren Storey 122 Bowdoin St.,
Boston, Mass.
Sodero, Cesare
Sontag, Wesley
90 East End Ave.,
New York City
SOREY, VINCENT
Metropolitan Opera Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2634
Sowerby, Leo
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Spaeth, Sigmund
1619 Broadway,
New York City
Speaks, Oley
Spelman, Timothy Mather
Spencer, S. Reid
SPIALEK, HANS
Chappell Co.,
1270 Sixth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-3870
SPONGBERG, VIOLA
850 E. 46th St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Ingersoll 2-6815
Stahl, Willy
Steele, Porter
Steffen, Elmer Andrew
144 W. Georgia,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Tel: Lincoln 5271
Stein, Leon
De Paul University School of Music.
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 1970
Steinert, Alexander L.
1555 N. Beverly Dr.,
Beverly Hills, Cal.
Tel: Oxford 1550
Stevens, Glenn
4950 W. Quincy St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Esterbrook 1253
Stevens, Halsey
Dakota Wesleyan University,
Mitchell, S. Dak.
Tel: 3743
Still, William Grant
Stock, Frederick
Orchestra Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Stocker, Stella
Stockhoff, Walter William
Stoehr, Richard
Curtis Institute,
Rittenhouse Square,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525
Stoessel, Albert
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4199
Stojowski, Sigismond
Strang, Gerald
Straus, Oskar
Strauss, Richard
Stravinsky, Igor
Strickland, Lily
171 W. Shore Rd.,
Great Neck, N. Y.
Tel: Great Neck 1896
STRINGFIELD, LAMAR
c/o George H. Dalrymple,
127 E. 54th St.,
New York City
Stringham, Edwin J.
c/o American Book Company,
88 Lexington Ave.,
New York City
Strong, George Templeton
Strube, Gustav
Sturkow-Ryder, Theodora
Bradley Griffen Studios,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Surette, Thomas Whitney
Swing, Raymond Gram
c/o Mutual Broadcasting System,
1440 Broadway,
New York City
SZELL, GEORG
7 Park Ave.,
New York City
Tailleferre, Germaine
Tansman, Aleksander
Taylor, Deems
Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tcherepnine, Alexander
Templeton, Alec
Seneca Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.

Thayer, Arthur Wilder
Thompson, John Winter
Thompson, Randall
Curtis Institute,
Rittenhouse Square,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Thompson, Virgil
Thunder, Henry Gordon
Toch, Ernst
601 Toyopa Dr.,
Pacific Palisades, Cal.
Tel: Santa Monica 58495
Tours, Frank E.
Treharne, Bryceson
Turina, Joaquin
TURKISHER, L. ARTHUR
239 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-4593
Tuthill, Burnet Corwin
Southwestern College,
Memphis, Tenn.
Tweedy, Donald Nichols
Tyler, Abram Ray
Tyler, George Harry
Municipal Auditorium,
Long Beach, Cal.
Tel: 644-58
Vail, Ira Francis
205 N. Milwaukee St.,
Canton, S. Dak.
Tel: 122J
Van Broekhoven, John A.
Van Vactor, David
Orchestra Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Vardell, Charles Gildersleeve
Salem College,
Winston-Salem, N. C.
Tel: 9526
Varese, Edgar
Vaughan Williams, Ralph
Villa-Lobos, Hector
Vincent, Henry Bethuel
Vogel, Vladimir Rudolfovitch
Von Doenhoff, Albert
251 W. 102nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-0057
Von Dohnanyi, Ernst
Von Webern, Anton
Von Weingartner, Paul Felix
Von Zemlinsky, Alexander
Vrionides, Christos
c/o Bernard R. La Berge, Inc.,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Wagenaar, Bernard
450 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Wagner, Franz
Wainer, Lee
310 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 4-1700
Wald, Max
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Walton, William Turner
Ware, Harriet
c/o Standard Booking Office,
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Ware, Helen Waring, Tom
c/o William Neill, Inc.,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Watts, Wintter
138 W. 65th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-8447
Weaver, Powell
First Baptist Church,
Kansas City, Mo.
Tel: Linwood 4777
Webber, Amherst
Weigl, Karl Weill, Kurt
Suffern, N. Y.
Tel: 371
Weinberg, Jacob
135 W. 84th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-1111
Weinberger, Jaromir
Weiner, Lazar
Weiner, Leo
Weiss, Adolph
1803½ N. Bronson Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Welch, Roy Dickinson
141 McCormick Hall,
Princeton, N. J.
Tel: 2300 Ext. 254
Wellesz, Egon
Werlé, Frederick Charles
405 Presser Bldg.,
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 9934
Wessel, Mark
Wetzler, Hermann Hans
Whelpley, Benjamin Lincoln
Whistler, Harvey S.
Box 3046,
Ohio State University,
Columbus, O.
White, Alma
1845 Champa St.,
Denver, Colo.
White, Clarence Cameron
White, Paul
Eastman School of Music,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Stone 2212
WHITE, WILLIAM CARTER
Fort Jay,
New York City
Tel: Whitehall 4-8010
Whithorne, Emerson
Whitmer, Thomas C.
Whitney, Robert S.
WICKHAM, FLORENCE
1215 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Atwater 9-8907
Willman, Allan Arthur
Willson, Meredith
Chateau Elysee,
5930 Franklin, Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Ho. 2171
Wilson, Harry Robert
Teachers College,
Columbia University,
New York City
Tel: University 4-7000
Wilson, Roger C.
c/o Lorenz Publishing Co.,
Dayton, O.
Wolf-Ferrari, Ermanno
Wolpe, Stefan
Woltmann, Frederick
Wood, Carl Paige
University of Washington,
Seattle, Wash.
Wood, Mary Knight
WOOD, RUSSELL A.
1234 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7529
Woodman, Raymond Huntington
131 Hicks St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Main 4-0268
Work, John Wesley
Fisk University,
Nashville, Tenn.
Wright, Norman S.
First Methodist Church,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Granite 2104
YON, PIETRO
c/o Institute of Concert Virtuosi,
852 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
York, Francis L.
52 Putnam,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Co. 2870
Young, Victor
Paramount Studio,
Hollywood, Cal.
Young, Victor
41 W. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-0679
Youngfelt, Frederic Seward
Sherwood Music School,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
Zador, Eugene
c/o Metro Goldwyn-Mayer,
Culver City, Cal.
Tel: As. 43311
Zahler, Lee
5823 Santa Monica Blvd.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: He. 7991
Zimbalist, Efrem
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Zimmer, Edward, Jr.
State Teachers College,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 1360
Zimmerman, Walter P.
220 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Zorn, Ray H.
Rayco Publications,
Box 626,
Troy Grove, Ill.

COMPOSERS (POPULAR)

Allen, Thornton W.
74 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6350
Baer, Abel H.
90 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-5279
Bailey, Mildred
c/o F. C. O'Keefe,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Barron, Ted
Benedict, Edward
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6829
Berlin, Irving
709 7th Ave.,
New York City
Bestor, Don
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Blake, Eubie
236 W. 138th St.,
New York City
Tel: Audubon 3-1181
Bring, Lou
4857 Westpark Dr.,
North Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Sunset 2-4492
Bryant, Hoyt
Station WRVA,
Richmond, Va.
Buck, Eugene Edward (Gene Buck)
Kensington, Great Neck, N. Y.
Calloway, Cab
Charles, Milton
Columbia Broadcasting System,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 6000
Coward, Noel
c/o John C. Wilson,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Davis, Benny
340 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-3931
De Leath, Vaughn
Donahue, Al
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-8270
Donatiu, Armando Castro
c/o Jack Lavin,
Park Central Hotel,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8000

Dyson, Hal
239 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Egan, Jack
331 E. 188th St.,
New York City
Tel: Fordham 4-5996
EVANS, DALE
61 E. Cedar St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 9605
Fernandez, Angelo Casimirs
2 W. 120th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lehigh 4-4956
Fio-Rito, Ted
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Gayle, Tim
The Baton,
140 W. 42nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Wisconsin 7-1220
Gold, Ernest
580 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Lackawanna 4-8011
Gordon, Eddie
1587 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-5950
Green, Johnny
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Grill, Andrew
4130 W. 26th St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lawndale 0467
Gryb, Arthur Charles
49 S. Terrace Ave.,
Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Tel: Oakwood 8639
HANDY, WILLIAM CHRISTOPHER
1587 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-8843
Henderson, Horace
417 E. 48th St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kenwood 4135
Himber, Richard
c/o NBC,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Howard, Eddy
c/o Biggie Levin,
612 N. Michigan Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Hupfeld, Herman
259 Park St.,
Montclair, N. J.
Tel: Mo. 2-2549
Jones, Isham
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists, Inc.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Jurgens, Dick
c/o M.C.A.,
430 N. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Kern, Jerome David
Kogen, Harry
National Broadcasting Co.,
Chicago, Ill.
LEAF, ANN
150 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lexington 2-1100
Light, Enoch
Hotel Taft,
New York City
Little, Little Jack
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists, Inc.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Livingston, Jerry
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
LUNCEFORD, JIMMIE
c/o Harold Oxley,
17 E. 49th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-3500
Luther, Frank
1393 6th Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-5886
McIntire, Lani
c/o General Amusement Corp.,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City
McKenna, William Joseph
156 Webster Ave.,
Jersey City, N. J.
Tel: Webster 3923
Meakin, Jack
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
Merrill, Milt
515 W. 110th St.,
New York City
Miller, Glenn
2306 RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1868
Mills, Billy
National Broadcasting Company,
Hollywood, Cal.
Morgan, Russ
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists,
New York City
Nelson, Edward G.
163-07 Crocheron Ave.,
Flushing, N. Y.
Noble, Ray
c/o NBC,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Perkins, Ray Rolling Wood,
Roslyn, L. I., N. Y.
Poulton, Curt A.
Radio Station WDZ,
Tuscola, Ill.
Tel: 98
Rome, Harold Jacob
1 University Place,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-2640
Sachs, Henry Everett
528 Race St.,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Emerson 0021
Shay, Larry 1440 Elmdale Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Rogers Park 1198
Sissle, Noble Lee
1560 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Bryant 9-2615
Sizemore, Arthur L.
4917 N. Kostner, Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Palisade 7026
Sosnik, Harry
Decca Record Co.,
50 W. 57th St.,
New York City

CONDUCTORS

Abravanel, Maurice
41 Central Park West,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-8500
Adaskin, John
CBL 850 Davenport Rd.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Kenwood 9411
Adler, Hermann
ALBERTI, SOLON
Hotel Ansonia,
Broadway at 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300
Allers, Franz
c/o S. Hurok,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Altschuler, Modest Alwin, Carl
Auditorium Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Amfiteatroff, Daniele
Anderson, Eva
1050 Dawson Avenue,
Long Beach, Cal.
Tel: 849-24
Ansermet, Ernest
Antonini, Alfredo
166 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-0888
Ardin, Leon
Arlington, Rex
P. O. Box 532
Huntington, Ind.
Balaban, Emanuel
Bamberger, Carl
128 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-1016
Bamboschek, Giuseppe
Barbirolli, John
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Barlow, Howard
c/o Columbia Artists,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Baron, Maurice
1650 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4798
Barone, Joseph
700 Montgomery Ave.,
Bryn Mawr, Pa.
Tel: Bryn Mawr 1022
Barr, George Francis
Eastern Washington College of Education,
Cheney, Wash.
Tel: Black 12
Barrere, Georges
Juilliard Institute,
130 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Barzin, Leon
Baugh, Joseph Eugene
Station WBAP-KGKO
Ft. Worth, Texas
Tel: 3-1234
Bay, Victor
Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Beck, Johann Heinrich
Becker, John J.
445 City Hall,
St. Paul, Minn.
Tel: Nestor 5659
Beecham, Sir Thomas
London, England
Bendix, Max
Bennett, Donald Wesley
152 N. Vermont Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
BILLOTTI, PAUL
Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2839
Bimboni, Alberto
Blachford, Frank E.
Toronto Conservatory of Music
Toronto, Canada
Black, Frank
c/o National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Blech, Leo
Bloch, Alexander
Winter Park, Fla.
Bok, Curtis
Bonime, Josef
50 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-7000
Bornschein, Franz
708 E. 20th St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Tel: Un. 4312
Boult, Adrian Cedric
BBC,
London, England
BOURDON, ROSARIO
116 E. 53rd St.,
New York City

Broekman, David
Hollywood, Cal.
Brown, George
7 Ashland St.,
Melrose, Mass.
Tel: Melrose 1482 W
Brown, H. Arthur
Hilton Hotel
El Paso, Texas
Tel: Main 3320
BROWNE, GAYLORD HAMILTON
Evansville College
Evansville, Ind.
Tel: 3-1475
Bryant, Will H.
Indiana State Teachers College
Terre Haute, Ind.
Tel: C 3321
Buckley, Emerson
4 W. 43rd St.,
New York City
Buisseret, Armand
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 3435
Buratti, Armando
56 W. 68th St.,
New York City
Busch, Carl
Busch, Fritz
Cameron, Basil
Carnevale, Luigi
1113 Watkins St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: How. 8063
Carpenter, Paul Simons
University of Oklahoma,
Norman, Okla.
Tel: 399
Cherkoff, Harry
New Grand in-the-Pines
Madison Ave. at 11th St.
Lakewood, N. J.
Tel: Lakewood 1478-98
CHERNIAVSKY, JOSEF
Radio Station WLW,
Cincinnati, O.
Chuhaldin-Lind, Alexander
Toronto Conservatory of Music
Toronto, Canada
Cimini, Pietro
620 S. Alexandria Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Fi. 0977
Clarke, Douglas McGill University,
Montreal, Canada
Clifton, Chalmers
25 E. 83rd St.,
New York City
Coates, Albert
Coleman, Iver
296 Lenox St.,
New Haven, Conn.
Tel: 8-3795
Coolidge, Arlan Ralph
Brown University
Providence, R. I.
Coullet, Armand
Robert E. Lee Hotel,
Jackson, Miss.
Tel: 2-1762
Czerwonky, Richard
DePaul University School of Music,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Damrosch, Walter Johannes
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8300
Dasch, George
Northwestern University School of Music,
Evanston, Ill.
Dawson, William Levi
Tuskegee Institute,
Tuskegee, Ala.
Defauw, Desire
De Horvath, Felice
University of South Carolina,
Columbia, S. C.
De Reszke, Simeon
151 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2166
De Ridder, Allard
1291 Devonshire Crescent,
Vancouver, B. C.
Tel: Bay 3300
De Roxlo, Guillermo S.
Charlotte Symphony Orchestra Studios,
Charlotte, N. C.
De Sabata, Victor
Desormiere, Roger Dessau, Paul
Deusinger, William F.
Northwestern State College
Alva, Okla.
Tel. 44:
Di Canio, John
1100 S. Oak Park Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.
Tel: Euclid 6138
Dickieson, George William
Woman's College,
University of North Carolina,
Greenboro, N. C.
Dobrowen, Issay Alexandrowitsch
Donovan, Richard Frank
DRUMM, GEORGE
300 E. 163rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Jerome 7-2384
Du Moulin, Theodore Station WLS,
Chicago, Ill.
Duncan, Richard E.
University of Omaha,
Omaha, Neb.
Tel: Gl. 4700
Eisler, Paul
144 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-2057
Egk, Werner
Elkan, Henri 1716 Sansom St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Emch, Walter
Millikin Conservatory
Decatur, Ill.
Tel: 24277
ENDRES, MARIE A.
Wisconsin School of Music,
Madison, Wis.
Tel: Fairchild 357
Enesco, Georges
Engberg, Mme. Davenport
1702 Belmont Ave.,
Seattle, Wash.
Engel, A. Lehman
Eppert, Carl
1864 N. Cambridge Ave.,
Milwaukee, Wis.
ERB, JOHN WARREN
New York University,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 5-0617
Faith, Percy
Falcone, Leonard Vincent
Michigan State College,
East Lansing, Mich.
Fastofsky, Jascha
150-11 87th Rd.,
Jamaica, N. Y.
Tel: Jamaica 6-7239
Feld, Ben
Radio Station KMOX,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Ce 8240
Fenyves, Gabriel
MacPhail School of Music,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424
Ficocelli, Carmine
Youngstown Symphony Orchestra,
Union Bank Bldg.,
Youngstown, Ohio
Tel: 6-6936
Ficocelli, Michael Strouss, Hirschberg Music Center,
Youngstown, Ohio
Tel: 3-5181
Fiedler, Arthur
Symphony Hall,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Commonwealth 1492
Findlay, Francis
290 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 8660
Finston, Nat. W.
MGM Studios,
Culver City, Cal.
Fischer, Irwin L.
American Conservatory,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Fishberg, Yasha
214 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-2067
Forsblad, Arthur Conrad
Fresno State College,
Fresno, Cal.
Foti, Frank
33 Brookfield Ave.,
Bridgeport, Conn.
Freccia, Massimo
Fried, Oscar
Fugmann, Andreas
Rockford College,
Rockford, Ill.
Tel: Main 746
Furtwangler, Wilhelm
Gales, Weston
Ganz, Rudolph
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
GATZ, FELIX MARIA
61 W. 106th St.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-2483
Gebert, Ernst E.
Cornish School,
Seattle, Wash.
Gentile, Americo
3222 Bronxwood Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Olinville 2-1494
Gerhart, Russell
1104 11th St.,
Altoona, Pa.
Tel: 2-2373
Ghione, Franco
Orchestra Hall,
Detroit, Mich.
GIANNINI, VITTORIO
American Academy in Rome
101 Park Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-7414
GLASSON, T. BATH
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2634
Gluskin, Lud
Columbia Broadcasting System,
Hollywood, Cal.
Goldberg, Albert L.
Illinois Music Project,
632 N. Dearborn,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 1193
Goldman, Maurice
11316 Whitmore Ave.,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Glenville 8049
Golschmann, Vladimir
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Good, John Hasler
Wyocolo Hotel,
Fort Morgan, Colo.
Goossens, Eugene, Jr.
1316 American Bldg.,
Cincinnati, O.
Gould, Morton
7734 Austin St.,
Forest Hills, N. Y.
Tel: Boulevard 8-2116
Gravina, Gilberto
Merano, Italy
Greenwell, Robert Holmes

Grey, Frank Herbert
c/o The New Dawn Music Publishing Co.,
516 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Grieb, Herbert
Station WBRC
Birmingham, Ala.
Grieves, Wallace
520 S. Second St.,
Springfield, Ill.
Tel: 2-8641
GRIGAITIS, WALTER
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Locust 3352
Grofe, Ferde
Gross, Walter
405 E. 54th St.,
New York City
Grossman, F. Karl
Western Reserve University
Cleveland, O.
Gualillo, Nicholas Demi
310 Beattie St.,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Guderyahn, Richard J.
Augustana College,
Sioux Falls, S. Dak.
Tel: 851
Guenther, Felix
Guerrieri, Fulgenzio
343 W. 28th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lackawanna 4-5205
Haas, Alexander-Sandor
151 E. 80th St.,
New York City
Hacker, William Penny
34 Chestnut St.,
Albany, N. Y.
Tel: 5-9955
Hageman, Richard
Paramount Studios.
Hollwood, Cal.
Hamliton, Gerald Lee
Marietta College,
Marietta, Ohio
Hammer, Heinrich Albert Eduard
Hammond, Vernon
1920 Spruce St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 1685
Hanson, Howard
Eastman School of Music,
Rochester, N. Y.
Harp, Ernest Lynnwood
321 W. Dallas Sat.,
Artesia, New Mexico
Tel: 168
Harreld, Kemper
Atlanta University,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Main 5818
Harris, Victor
Harrison, Guy Fraser
26 Gibbs St.,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Stone 2212
Harty, Sir Hamilton
Hasselmans, Louis
HAUBIEL, CHARLES
c/o Harriet Steel Pickermell,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Heermann, Walter
2234 Park Ave.,
Cincinnati, Ohio
Heeter, Eugene F.
Holland High School,
15th at River,
Holland, Mich.
Tel: 3043
Hein, Carl
Helfman, Max
67 Park Terrace East,
New York City
Tel: Lorraine 7-7497
HELLER, ADOLPH
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
Herbst, Gottfried
1305 W. 5th Ave.,
Spokane, Wash.
Tel. R. 5583
Herliczka, Gertrud
c/o RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Herrmann, Bernard
Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Hertz, Alfred 770 Camino del Mar,
San Francisco, Cal.
Tel: Bayview 7707
Hicks, Alfred H.
736 Fieldston Terr.
Webster Groves, Mo.
Tel: Webster 4547
Hilsberg, Alexander
Hindsley, Mark Hubert
University of Illinois,
Urbana, Ill.
Hirschfeld, Max
B. B. Marks, Inc.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Hodgson, Hugh University of Georgia,
Athens, Ga.
Tel: 2061
Hoff, Fred R.
523 W. 157th St.,
New York City
Tel: Wadsworth 3-6792
Hoffmann, Ernst
520 National Standard Bldg.,
Houston, Tex.
Tel: Preston 1888
Horlick, Harry
c/o Decca Recording Co.,
50 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-5662
HORWITZ, HANS
19 W. 69th St.,
New York City
Hubermann, Bronislaw
INSANA, SILVIO
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2833
Iturbi, Jose
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Jackson, Archibald C.
52 Putnam Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.
Jacobs, Max
JACQUET, H. MAURICE
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-0788
James, Philip
New York University,
New York City
Janssen, Werner
Johnson, H. Earle
Clark University,
Worcester, Mass.
Tel: 6-1525
Jones, Horace Allen
College of Music,
University of Colorado,
Boulder, Colo.
Josten, Werner
Smith College,
Northampton, Mass.
JUSTUS, T. M.
De Paul University,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 1970
KAINS, SHERWOOD
University of Cincinnati,
Cincinnati, O.
Tel: University 8000
Karp, Richard
Pittsburgh Symphony Society
Farmer Bank Bldg.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Katims, Milton Station WOR,
1440 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-8383
Katz, Paul
Biltmore Hotel,
Dayton, O.
Tel: Fu. 4642
Kelbe, Theodore
Kessler, Philip S.
Ithaca College,
Ithaca, N. Y.
Kiefer, T. Roy
Station WTRY
Troy, N. Y.
Kilenyi, Edward
Twentieth Century Fox Film Studio,
Beverly Hills, Cal.
Tel: Ox. 2211
Kindler, Hans
Woodward Bldg.,
Washington, D. C.
Kleiber, Erich
Klemperer, Otto
Knapp, Clifford Dickinson
Havre High School,
Havre, Mont.
Knappertsbusch, Hans
Knoch, Ernest
Koerner, Theodor
54 Clarion St.,
Johnstown, Pa.
Tel: 20132
Kogen, Harry
National Broadcasting Co.,
Chicago, Ill.
Kolar, Victor
Detroit Symphony Orchestra,
Masonic Temple,
Detroit, Mich.
Konnerth, Frank J.
Peekskill High School,
Peekskill, N. Y.
Korngold, Erich Wolfgang
Warner Bros. Studio,
Burbank, Cal.
Tel: Hollywood 1251 Ext. 336
Kostelanetz, Andre
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
KOTTLER, MISCHA
Station WWJ
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: To. 70409
Koussevitzky, Serge
Symphony Hall,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Commonwealth 1492
Kraeuter, Karl
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Krenek, Ernst
Vassar College,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Kristufek, George M.
1533 Allison Ave.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 7-4620
Krueger, Karl Kruse, Georg Richard
Kubelik, Jeronym Rafael
Kucinski, Leo
Morningside College of Music
Sioux City, Ia.
Tel: 67141
Kurtz, Efrem
Labunski, Wiktor
c/o Musical Artists Bureau
312 Manhattan Ave.,
New York City
Lake, Mayhew Lester
1020 Edgewood Lane,
Palisade, N. J.
Tel: Cliffside 6-0327
Lambert, Constant
LANGE, HANS
Orchestra Hall,
220 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Lansinger, Robert V.
4008 W. Franklin St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Tel: Gilmor 4791J

LAPHAM, CLAUDE
1674 Broadway,
New York City

LA PORTE, J. M.
574 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-1862

La Prade, Ernest
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City

Leftwich, Vernon
1709 W. 8th St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Drexel 5957

Leginska, Ethel

Lehmann, George

Lehmann, Otto
c/o Bernard R. La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Leide, Enrico
Brenau College,
Gainesville, Ga.

Leinsdorf, Erich
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City

Leman, J. W. F.

Lert, Ernest Joseph Maria
305 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-4239

Lert, Richard 1461 Amalfi Dr.,
Pacific Palisades, Cal.

Leschke, Hans

Letz, Hans

Levarie, Siegmund
University of Chicago,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Midway 0800

Levey, Harold
19 Pine Brook Dr.,
Larchmont, N. Y.

Levin, Sylvan
c/o C. David Hocker,
1726 Locust St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Levite, Myron
4910 14th Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Windsor 8-3000

Liegl, Leopold Joseph
De Pauw University,
Greencastle, Ind.
Tel: 365

Littau, Joseph
Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y.
Tel: Croton 3226

Low, Leo
864 West End Ave.,
New York City

Lucas, Clarence

Luening, Otto

MacMillan, Sir Ernest Campbell
Toronto Conservatory of Music,
135 College St.,
Toronto, Can.
Tel: Waverly 2655

Madden, William J.
Hotel Traymore,
Atlantic City, N. J.
Tel: 4-4315

Maddy, Joseph Edgar
University of Michigan,
Ann Arbor, Mich.
Tel: Ph. 4121

Maganini, Quinto
Calhoun Dr.,
Greenwich, Con.

Mahler, Fritz
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.
113 W. 57th St.
New York City

Malko, Nicolai Andreivitch
Music Department,
De Paul University,
Chicago, Ill.

Mann, Carl F.
1535 Woodward Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.

Mannes, David
157 E. 74th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-0656

MARCELLI, RICO
c/o Leslie Clucas,
333 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Franklin 7100

Marinuzzi, Gino

Marrow, Macklin

Marsh, Frank Earl, Jr.
Mississippi Southern College,
Hattiesburg, Miss.

Mason, Russell Green
10 Woodland Ave.,
New Rochelle, N. Y.

Maupin, Rex
National Broadcasting Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mayer, Herbert
344 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-2796

McArthur, Edwin
c/o NBC Artists Service
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City

McConathy, Osbourne
45 E. 17th St.,
New York City
Tel: Algonquin 4-9600

McDonald, Bert Allan
318 E. Third St.,
Pendleton, Ore.

McDonald, Harl
Philadelphia Orchestra Association,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mc Gee, Johnny
General Amusement Corp.,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City

McWhood, Leonard Beecher

Meltzer, Edward
64 E. Jackson,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4687

MENDELSSOHN, FELIX ROBERT
63-17 84th St.,
Forest Hills Crest, N. Y.

Mendoza, David
c/o Milton Bendiner,
Steinway Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-5094

Mengelberg, Willem

Meyrowitz, Selmar

Miller, Victor
Station WSYR,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: 3-7111

Mitropoulos, Dimitri
Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Molinari, Bernardino

Monteux, Pierre

Moranzoni, Roberto

Morin, Henri

Morley, Francke C.
5 S. 17th St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 8533

Musser, Clair Omar
1770 Berteau Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Neumann, Herman
2500 Municipal Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Worth 2-5600

Noble, Samson
1217 S. Bronson Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Republic 6079

Norton, William Wellington
Flint Community Music Ass'n.,
Flint, Mich.

Oberndorfer, Marx E.
Webster Hotel,
2150 Lincoln Park West,
Chicago, Ill.

Olson, Lee
260 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lackawanna 4-9282

Ormandy, Eugene
1910 Girard Trust Co. Bldg.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

PAGANUCCI, ANTHONY
853 Carroll St.,
Brooklyn, New York
Tel: Nevins 8-3840

Paige, Raymond
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City

Palmer, Claude Earl Ball State Teacher's College,
Muncie, Ind.
Tel: 7791

Panizza, Ettore
Metropolitan Opera Ass'n.,
New York City

Papi, Gennaro

Paranov, Moshe
187 Broad St.,
Hartford, Conn.
Tel: 2-3101

Paray, Paul

Parelli, Attilio

PAULSEN, P. MARINUS
410 So. Michigan Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267

Paumgartner, Bernhard

Pecheniha, Paul
205 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-5420

Peffer, Will Erie Daily Times,
Erie, Pa.

Pelletier, Wilfred
Metropolitan Opera Ass'n.,
New York City

Pepinsky, Abe
University of Minnesota,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 8177

Perry, Robert Dawson
State Teachers College,
Bowling Green, Ky.
Tel: 1700

PETRILLO, CAESAR
Radio Station WBBM,
410 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 6000

Pfitzner, Hans Erich

PHILIP, WILLIAM F.
Ursinus College,
Collegeville, Pa.
Tel: 3311

PIASTRO, MISHEL
853 7th Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-4410

Pick, Adolph
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Chicago, Ill.

Plettner, Arthur
University of Chattanooga,
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Poenisch, Lillian Juanita
926 Belden Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Mohawk 0345

Poinar, George
Baldwin-Wallace College,
Berea, Ohio
Tel: 601

Pollacco, Giorgio

Polah, Andre
Syracuse University,
Syracuse, New York
Tel: 2-1251

Pollak, Robert 5447 Russell Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Hi 4686

Pottle, Ralph R.
Head, Department of Music, Southeastern La. College,
Hammond, La.
Tel: 640-1

Powell, Laurence
Michigan Music Project,
551 Houseman Bldg.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Prince, Leopold
c/o Zeltner & Murray,
8 Lafayette St.,
New York City
Prokofieff, Serge
Rabaud, Henri Benjamin
Rachmaninoff, Sergei
c/o Steinway & Sons,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Raffaelli, Joseph
Civic Opera House,
Chicago, Ill.
Rapee, Erno
Radio City Music Hall,
44 W. 51st St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-4600
Raudenbush, George King
Read, Angelo McCallum
READ, GARDNER
1824 Hinman Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 0050
Reckzeh, Karl
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
Reiner, Fritz
913 Farmers Bank Bldg.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Reiser, Alois
Revelli, William Donald Morris Hall,
University of Michigan,
Ann Arbor, Mich.
Rich, Freddie
Riedel, Karl Heinrich
Riegger, Wallingford
352 W. 18th St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 3-6535
Riemenschneider, Albert
Badwin Wallace Conservatory,
Berea, O.
Robertson, LeRoy
Brigham Young University,
Provo, Utah
Tel: 134 Ext. 30
Robitschek, Robert
ROCHE, JAMES MAXWELL
58 W. 68th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-7443
Rodzinski, Artur
Severance Hall,
11001 Euclid Ave.,
Cleveland, Ohio
Rohner, Traugott
Northwestern University School of Music,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 1900
Rosenstock, Josef
Ross, Robert Wallace
Illinois Wesleyan University,
Bloomington, Ill.
Tel: 146
Roth, Allen
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Roth, Charles W.
1323 Dorr St.,
Toledo, O.
Tel: Forest 1282 W
ROXAS, EMILIO A.
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-3995
Rubinoff, Philip
1501 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Lackawanna 4-7147
Ruddick, Jay Leon
120 Board of Education Bldg.,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Cherry 3660
Sabatini, Guglielmo
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 1981
Sagerquist, Eric
Columbia Broadcasting System,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 6000
Saidenberg, Daniel 305 Fullerton Parkway,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lincoln 0756
Samuelson, Arvid
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4384
Sanford, Harold
15 W. 75th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-0979
San Juan, Pedro
SAVINE, ALEXANDER
901 Auditorium Bldg.,
431 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Schaefer, Ferdinand
799 E. Dr. Woodruff Place,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Scheerer, Jeannette
42 W. 53rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Wickersham 2-6293
Scherchen, Hermann
Schiller, Rudolph 852 Elm,
Manchester, N. H.
Tel: 7391
Schreyer, Ernest G.
4063 Milwaukee Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Palisade 4363
Schubert, Christian John
1259 W. 59th St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Th. 2188
SCIARRETTI, ALBERTO V.
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
SECUNDA, SHOLOM
590 Fort Washington Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Wadsworth 8-2212
Semmler, Alexander
Serafin, Tullio
Serly, Tibor
10 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 8-2579
Sevitzky, Fabien
c/o Franklin Miner,
Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra,
Murat Theater,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Tel: Riley 9596
Shapiro, George H.
Shield, Roy
National Broadcasting Co.,
Merchandise Mart,
Chicago, Ill.
SHILKRET, NATHANIEL
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 3-0191
Shuk, Lajos
6500 Yucca,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Hollywood 2961
Silving, Bert
64 W. 96th St.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-8927
Simon, Eric
12 E. 75th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-0679
Singer, Jacques
Dallas Symphony Orchestra
Dallas, Texas
Slonimsky, Nicolas
238 Hemenway St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Commonwealth 2798
Smallens, Alexander
Sodero, Cesare
Sokoloff, Nikolai
c/o Annie Friedberg
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Solomon, Izler
632 N. Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 1193
Sontag, Wesley
90 East End Ave.,
New York City
SORANTIN, ERIC
c/o Harry Culbertson, Inc.,
5525 S. Blackstone Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
SOREY, VINCENT
Metropolitan Opera Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2634
Spitalny, Phil
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Sprague, Adelbert Wells
University of Maine,
Orono, Me.
Tel: Bangor 5684
Stassevitch, Paul
Steinberg, Hans Wilhelm
National Broadcasting Co.,
New York City
Steinert, Alexander L.
1555 N. Beverly Dr.,
Beverly Hills, Cal.
Tel: Oxford 1550
Stevens, Glenn
4950 W. Quincy St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Esterbrook 1253
Stevens, Leith
Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Stewart, Reginald
205 Richview Ave.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Hyland 1014
Stiedry, Fritz
c/o New Friends of Music,
17 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 2-3337
Stock, Frederick
Orchestra Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Stoessel, Albert
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4199
Stokking, Willem
5513 Winchester Ave.,
Ventnor City, N. J.
Tel: 29735
Stokowski, Leopold
New Milford, Conn.
Stoloff, Morris
1000 Stone Canyon Rd.,
Bel-Air, Cal.
Tel: W.L.A. 34882
Strasfogel, Ignace
c/o New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra,
New York City
Strauss, Richard
Stringer, Edward A.
7027 Torresdale Ave.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
STRINGFIELD, LAMAR
c/o George H. Dalrymple,
127 E. 54th St.,
New York City
Strube, Gustav
SUNDSTROM, EBBA
c/o Estelle Lutz,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 3435
Swalin, Benjamin Franklin
University of North Carolina,
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Tel: 3226
Swann, William Francis Gray
Bartol Research Foundation,
Swarthmore, Pa.
Tel: Swarthmore 1539
SZELL, GEORG
7 Park Ave.,
New York City
Tango, Egisto
Tata, Romeo
Arizona State Teachers College,
Tempe, Ariz.
Tel: 600

TAUBMAN, LEO
52 W. 84th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-2985
Thaviu, A. F.
Thunder, Henry Gordon
Timm, Everett Le Roy
Morningside College,
Sioux City, Ia.
Toscanini, Arturo
c/o National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Troll, Hans
c/o Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Troostwyk, Isidore
Tureman, Horace Elder
Tuthill, Burnet Corwin
Southwestern College,
Memphis, Tenn.
Tyler, George Harry
Municipal Auditorium,
Long Beach, Cal.
Tel: 644-58
Uhe, Arthur Emil
Underwood, Rex University of Oregon,
Eugene, Ore.
Vail, Ira Francis
205 N. Milwaukee St.,
Canton, S. Dak.
Tel: 122J
Van Hoogstraten, Willem
Van Katwijk, Paul
Southern Methodist University,
Dallas, Tex.
Tel: 5-2141
Varese, Edgar Volpe, Arnold
Von Dohnanyi, Ernst
Von Webern, Anton
Von Weingartner, Paul Felix
Von Zemlinsky, Alexander
Voorhees, Don
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Vrionides, Christos
c/o Bernard R. LaBerge, Inc.,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Wagenaar, Bernard
450 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Wagner, Joseph Frederick
c/o R.D. Row,
725 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 3318
Walker, Leonard
c/o L. E. Behymer,
Loew State Bldg.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Tucker 6465
Wallenstein, Alfred Franz
1440 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-8383
Waller, Frank Laird
917 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3689
Waller, Gilbert R.
East Texas State Teachers College, Commerce, Tex.
Tel: 62
Walter, Bruno
Warburg, Gerald Felix
1109 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Ward, Charles A.
353 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 4-5081
Weber, Henry
Station WGN,
Tribune Tower,
Chicago, Ill.
Weber, Marek
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Weelans, Lester D.
Radio Station KLZ,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Ma. 4271
Weigert, Hermann O.
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
WEIL, LEROY WILLIAM
83 Second Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Hu. 3-8339
Weiner, Lazar
WEISMANN, DIEZ
456 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3726
Weissmann, Frieder
WELGE, GLADYS
1040 N. Humphrey Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.
Tel: Euclid 8274
Welsman, Frank S.
Wetzler, Hermann Hans
White, Paul
Eastman School of Music,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Stone 2212
Whitehead, Henry Cowles
WTAR Radio Corp.,
Norfolk, Va.
Tel: 25671
Whiteman, Paul
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Whitmore, Rogers
Department of Music,
University of Missouri,
Columbia, Mo.
Tel: 5218
Whitney, Robert S.
Whittington, Dorsey
Birmingham Conservatory of Music,
Birmingham, Ala.
Tel: 4-2611
WILLITS, SCOTT ALLISON
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Willson, Meredith
Chateau Elysee,
5930 Franklin Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Ho. 2171
Wilson, George Clay, Jr.
University of Arizona,
Tucson, Ariz.
Tel: 2637R
WINDINGSTAD, OLE
210 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Wirges, Bill
22 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2409
Woessner, Julius
263 E. Merrimack St.,
Lowell, Mass.
Tel: 2-3952
Wolf, Hans
John Fletcher College,
Oskaloosa, Ia.
Tel: 1607
Wolfes, Felix
228 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-4040
Wolff, Albert Louis
Wolff, Werner
Wood, Sir Henry Joseph
Young, Victor
Paramount Studio,
Hollywood, Cal.
Zaslawsky, Georges
Zech, Frederick
Zimmer, Edward, Jr.
State Teachers College,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 1360
Zweig, Fritz

CONDUCTORS (POPULAR)

Agnew, Charlie
Alexander, Van
Ames, George
Armstrong, Louis
Arnheim, Gus
Austin, Sid
33 Oakley Ave.,
Monticello, N. Y.
Tel: 84
Ayres, Mitchell
Bardo, Bill
General Amusement Corporation,
New York City
BARNES, GEORGE
5550 N. Kenmore,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Long Beach 9160
Barnet, Charlie
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists, Inc.,
New York City
Barrie, Dick
Barron, Blue
Basie, Count
Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Beecher, Keith
Belasco, Leon
Berigan, Bunny
Bernie, Ben
Music Corp. of America,
New York City
Berry, Art
1108 Merchants Bank Bldg.,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Tel: Market 4512
Bestor, Don
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Betton, Matt
Manhattan, Kansas
Tel: 4160
Blaine, Jerry
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Blake, Eubie
236 W. 138th St.,
New York City
Tel: Audubon 3-1181
Block, Ray
Brandwynne, Nat
Breese, Lou
c/o General Amusement Corp.,
360 N. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Brigode, Ace
Bring, Lou Brodie, Dale
Brown, Les Bryant, Hoyt
Station WRVA,
Richmond, Va.
Busse, Henry
c/o National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Byrne, Bobby
Calloway, Cab
Camden, Eddie
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists, Inc.,
New York City
Candulla, Harry Carlson, Eric
RKO Bldg.,
1670 6th Ave.,
New York City
Carlyn, Tommy
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
CAVALLARO, CARMEN
c/o Music Corp. of America,
New York City
Chester, Bob Chiesta, Don
Childs, Reggie
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City

Clinton, Larry
c/o General Amusement Corp.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Coleman, Emil Courtney, Del
c/o William Morris Agency,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-2160
Craig, Francis
Hermitage Hotel,
Nashville, Tenn.
Crosby, Bob
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Croxen, Wes
Box 9
Clifton, Ill.
Cugat, Xavier
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Cummins, Bernie
Cutler, Ben
314 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 6-8137
Davis, Billy
318 W. 81st St.,
New York City
Davis, Johnny
Davis, Meyer
221 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-6161
Davis, Phil.
Crosley Radio Corporation,
Cincinnati, O.
Tel: Kirby 4800
Delange, Eddie
Denny, Jack
Deutsch, Emery
Donahue, Al.
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-8270
Dorsey, Jimmy
c/o General Amusement Corp.,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Dorsey, Tommy
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Duchin, Eddy
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Dyson, Hal
239 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Ebener, Fred F.
Station WOW,
Omaha, Neb.
Eldridge, Roy
Ellington, Duke
Ennis, Skinnay
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Etta, Jimmy
76 Bay 19th St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Farmer, Willie
Felton, Happy Fields, Shep
c/o A. Weinberger,
67 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Fio-Rito, Ted
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
New York, N. Y.
Fitzgerald, Ella
c/o Gale, Inc.,
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 3-6110
Flindt, Emil
Foster, "Chuck"
Frederic, Marvin
Gail, Max
319 E. Kirby,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Madison 0000 Garber, Jan
c/o MCA,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
GART, JOHN
Belvedere Hotel,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-9100
Gasparre, Dick
Genovese, Vince
247 S. 8th St.,
Murphysboro, Ill.
Tel: 83
Gentry, Tom 180 Washington St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: State 2897
Gerow, Russ
Canadian Broadcasting Corp.,
805 Davenport Rd.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Kenwood 9411
Gill, Emerson
Goodman, Benny
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Gordon, Gray
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists, Inc.,
New York City
Gray, Glen
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Green, Johnny
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Grenfell, LeRoy K.
1024 Jay St.,
Colusa, Cal.
Tel: 221 R
Grier, Jimmie
Grill, Andrew
4130 W. 26th St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lawndale 0467
Hall, George Hall, Sleepy
Hallett, Mal
Halstead, Henry
Hamilton, George
Hamp, Johnny
Hampton, Lionel
Harris, Phil
4544 Encino Ave.,
Encino, Cal.
Hawkins, Coleman
Hawkins, Erskine
c/o Gale, Inc.,
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 3-6111
Heidt, Horace
c/o M. C. A.,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Henderson, Horace
417 E. 48th St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kenwood 4135
Herbeck, Ray
Herman, Woody
Herth, Milt
Hill, Teddy Himber, Richard
c/o NBC,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Hines, Earl
Hinckle, Freddie Hite, Les
Hoff, Carl
c/o NBC,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Hogan, Tweet
Hollander, Will Holst, Ernie
Hope, Hal
Essex House,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-0300
Hopkins, Claude
Jacobs, Ray
111 Water St.,
Stevens, Wis.
Tel: 182
James, Harry
James, Jimmy
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Jarrett, Art
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Jasen, Cholly
1529 W. Highland Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Sheldrake 3269
Jones, Isham
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists, Inc.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Joy, Jimmy Jurgens, Dick
c/o M.C.A.,
430 N. Mich.,
Chicago, Ill.
Kassel, Art
Kaufman, Whitey
Lebanon, Pa.
Tel: 2360
Kay, Herbie
c/o Music Corp. of America,
430 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Kaye, Sammy
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
KEMP, HAL
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
King, Henry
King, Wayne
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Kirk, Andy
Konchar, George Willison
6606 N. Ashland Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Rogers Park 8925
Kramer, Alex Charles
c/o Broadcast Music, Inc.,
580 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Krupa, Gene
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Kyser, Kay
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Lane, Eddie
15 Park Ave.,
New York City
La Verne, Lew
932 Addison St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 3333
Lee, Arthur Smith
29 Division St.,
Stamford, Conn.
Tel: Stamford 3-0649
Leonard, Harlan
Levant, Phil
Lewis, Ted
Light, Enoch
Hotel Taft,
New York City
Littee, Ramon
Columbia Recording Co.,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Little, Little Jack
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists, Inc.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Livingston, Jerry
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City

Lombardo, Guy
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Long, Johnny
Lopez, Vincent
Lown, Bert
LUNCEFORD, JIMMIE
c/o Harold Oxley,
17 E. 49th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-3500
LYMAN, ABE
247 Park Avenue,
New York City
Tel: Wickersham 2-5047
Madriguera, Enric
c/o John O'Conner,
1697 Broadway,
New York City
Malneck, Matty
Mando, Jay
15 Forest Ave.,
N. Plymouth, Mass.
Tel: 1012R
Mars, Buddie
431 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 5335
Marshard, Jack
Martin, Freddy
Music Corp. of America,
430 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Marvin, Mel
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
Masters, Frankie
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Masters, Freddie
225 W. 23rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 3-9637
McCoy, Clyde
McCune, Bill
McFarland, Arthur
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
McFarland, George
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
McFarland Twins
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
McGrew, Bob
McIntire, Lani
c/o General Amusement Corp.,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City
McShann, Jay
Meakin, Jack
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
Melvin, Jack
160 E. 48th St.,
New York City
Meroff, Benny
Merrill, Milt
515 W. 110th St.,
New York City
Messner, Johnny
Hotel McAlpin,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-5700
Miller, Glenn
2306 RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1868
Mills, Billy
National Broadcasting Company,
Hollywood, Cal.
Mills, Felix
1368 Holmby Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Molina, Carlos
Moore, Carl (Deacon)
Morgan, Russ
c/o Consolidated Radio Artists,
New York City
Moten, Bus
Mullender, Rex
1852 Sherman Ave.,
Denver, Col.
Tel: Cherry 4195
Munro, Hal
333 N. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Franklin 8300
Nagel, Fred
NAPOLEON, PHIL
1697 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-3885
Nelson, Ozzie
c/o MCA,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Newman, Ruby
Nichols, Red
Noble, Carl M.
Radio Station WLBC,
Muncie, Ind.
Noble, Ray
c/o NBC,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Norris, Stan
Norvo, Red
Olsen, George
c/o MCA,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Osborne, Will Ovando, Manuel
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
Owens, Harry Page, Joe
Palmer, Skeeter
221 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Pani, Nick
c/o William Morris,
1270 Sixth Ave.,
New York City
Panico, Louis
Paris, Ben
1350 Grand Concourse,
New York City
Tel: Jerome 7-6863
PEDRO, DON
Radio Station WGN,
Chicago, Ill.
Pendarvis, Paul
Pollack, Ben
Pott, Willard Edwin
Radio Stations WHK-WCLE,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Pr.-5800
Powell, Walter
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
Powers, Hayward
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 6-8146
Prima, Louis
Quartell, Frankie
2126 S. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Ravazza, Carl J.
Hotel Sir Francis Drake,
San Francisco, Cal.
Tel: Exbrook 7755
Redman, Don Reichman, Joe Reiser, Al and Lee
112 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Medallion 3-0680
Reisman, Leo
c/o RCA-Victor Co.,
Camden, N. J.
Richards, Jimmy
Commodore Perry Hotel,
Toledo, O.
Riley, Mike
Rio, Rita
Roberts, Red
Rodrigo, Nano
La Conga,
51st & Broadway,
New York City
Russell, Jack
140 N. Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Franklin 5070
Roy, Harry Rubinoff, Dave Sabin, Paul
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
Sanders, Joe
Savitt, Jan
Lincoln Hotel,
New York City
Scott, Billy
Allied Music,
155 N. Clark,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: State 4474
Scott, Raymond
Scotti, William (Bill)
45 Raymond St.,
Rockeville Centre, N. Y.
Tel: Rockeville Centre 1235
Shaw, Artie
c/o RCA-Victor Co.,
Camden, N. J.
Shelton, Dick
c/o Music Corp. of America,
430 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 1100
Sherman, Maurie
Shilling, Bud
Sissle, Noble
1560 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Bryant 9-2615
Sosnik, Harry
Decca Record Co.,
50 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Spanier, Muggsy
Spath, Jule
6225 Sayre Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Newcastle 1457
Specht, Paul
c/o Shepard Barclay,
122 E. 42nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 5-1884
Spitalny, Phil
Stabile, Dick
Stern, Harold Stipes, Eddie
Bank Bar Night Club,
Starr & E. Broadway,
Toledo, O.
Tel: Ta. 0328
Stone, Lew Storey, Lou
Strong, Bob
919 N. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 7200
Sudy, Joseph
Sutton, Myron Sylvester, Bob
c/o Music Corp. of Aerica,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Taylor, Sandy
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
Teagarden, Jack
c/o Paul Wimbish,
21 W. 58th St.,
New York City

Travers, Ted
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
TRENDLER, ROBERT
75 E. Wacker Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dearborn 1714
Trumbauer, Frank Tucker, Orrin
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tucker, Tommy Vallee, Rudy
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Van, Garwood
Varzos, Eddie
Venuti, Joe
Vincent, Harold Payne
45 Kron St.,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Genesee 5685J
Waller, Fats
Waring, Fred
1697 Broadway,
New York City
Weeks, Anson
Weems, Ted
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Welk, Lawrence
c/o Frederick Bros.,
520 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Whiteman, Paul
Williams, Griff
Wilson, Teddy Woodbury, "By"
KDYL Playhouse,
Salt Lake City, Utah
Tel: Was. 7180
Yates, Billy
c/o Stanford Zucker Agency,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677
Zurke, Bob
c/o William Morris Agency, Inc.,
1270 Sixth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-2160

CONTRALTOS

Alcock, Merle
Anday, Rosette
Anderson, Marian
c/o S. Hurok,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Appel, Mary
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Bacon, Dorothy
c/o Annie Friedberg
250 W. 57th St.
New York City
Bayer-Lee, Johanna L.
526 W. 113th St.,
New York City
Tel: Cathedral 8-1096
Berggren, Gertrude
c/o Willard Matthews
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Branzell, Karin
7 Park Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 3-7181
BROWN, ELIZABETH
211 E. Delaware Pl.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 4450
Burnham, Ruth Thayer
Huntington Chambers,
Boston, Mass.
Cahier, Mme. Charles
CASTAGNA, BRUNA
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Clemens, Clara
Covert, Bessie
919 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.,
Tel: Superior 6402
D'Alvarez, Marguerite
DOBSON, EDITH HEFFNER
605 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.,
Tel: Webster 4831
Doe, Doris Draper, Freda
64 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 2851
Ellerman, Amy
260 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Eustis, Edwina
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Fisher, Thelma Jo
Freeman, Jessica
122 N. Portage Path,
Akron, Ohio
Tel: He. 5791
Garner, Shirley Cleo
Radio Station KLCN
Blytheville, Ark.
GAUDENZI, EDITH W.
129 W. 78th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-3646
Gauthier, Eva
Gay, Maria
Gelling, Hilda Grace
171 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-3065
Glade, Coe
c/o Feature Presentations
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Glatz, Hertha
160 Cabrini Blvd.,
New York City
Tel: Wadsworth 3-7034
Gordon, Jeanne
Graves, Georgia
c/o Charles L. Wagner, Inc.,
511 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Haynes, Jessie Oliver
403 Spivey Bldg.,
E. St. Louis, Ill.
Tel: E. 1254
Homer, Louise Hopple, Mary
c/o NBC Artists Service
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Horadesky, Eva Gordon
630 Waveland Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Bittersweet 1057
Howard, Kathleen Ingram, Frances KASKAS, ANNA
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
KING, JESSIE
c/o Richard Copley,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Klink, Frieda
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-6625
Knowles, Lilian
304 W. 75th St.,
New York
Krasova, Marta
Kraus, Adrienne
KRUETGEN, ANNA
919 N. Franklin St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 1920-21-22
Lagerstrom, Maxine A. E.
Sherwood Music School,
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Lennox, Elizabeth
258 W. 22nd St.,
New York City
Littlefield, Mrs. Everett L.
Hillcrest,
Kennebunk, Maine Long, Lucille
1163 Greenbay Rd.,
Glencoe, Ill.
Tel: Glencoe 850
MacCue, Beatrice
135 E. 50th St.,
New York City
Matzenauer, Margaret McCain, Margaret
Denmark, S. Car.
Tel: 104
MEHAN, MRS. JOHN DENNIS
817 Carnegie Hall
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-1472
Meisle, Kathryn
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Morati, Grace Harris
619 W. Delavan Ave.,
Buffalo, N. Y.
Tel: Gr. 5406
Morrisey, Marie
180 E. Delaware Pl.,
Chicago, Ill.
MOTEN, ETTA
3507 South Parkway
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Oakland 0303
MULLER, MAUD
213 Evergreen,
Elmhurst, Ill.
Nadworney, Devora
39 W. 67th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-9835
Olitzka, Rosa
Olszewska, Maria
Otto, Louisa Ruisz
122 N. 14th St.,
Allentown, Pa.
Tel: 4628
Palmquist, Alvina
Sioux Falls College,
Sioux Falls, S. Dak.
Tel: 1400
Parker, Denne
Pazmor, Radiana
56 Lloyd St.,
San Francisco, Cal.
Peebles, Joan
Peppard, Vernelle
5035 Woodward,
Detroit, Mich.
Reynolds, Eleanor Schlosshauer
Rhodes, Carole
3950 60th St.,
Woodside, Long Island, N. Y.
Rile, Edna Steinmetz
Jay Cooke Junior High
13th & Louden Sts.
Philadelphia, Pa.
Sanders, Erma Bellows
767 E. Madison,
Springfield, Mo.
Sharnova, Sonia
Chicago Opera Company,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Randolph 9229
Shubell, Jean
c/o Willard Matthews
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Slater, Ruth
Chicago, Ill.
Slaughter, Bessie
Metropolitan Opera House Studios,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2634
Smith, Martha Althaus
479 E. High Ave.,
New Philadelphia, O.
Tel: 23372

STRAIN, KATHLEEN MARCH
315 N. Mason Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Mansfield 9241
Szantho, Enid
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Telva, Marion
Thorborg, Kerstin
Van Gordon, Cyrena
VAN WEY, ADELAIDE
c/o Vance Hayes,
ARS Musica Guild, Inc.,
37 King St.,
New York City
Wakefield, Henriette
Norwalk, Conn.
Tel. 2057 Norwalk
Warner, Ardelle
c/o Vera Bull Hull,
101 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Wettergren, Gertrud
White, Phoebe Ara
808 S. Broadway
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Tu 7954
WHITMIRE, ALICE GIDEON
Seward School,
4600 S. Hermitage,
Chicago, Ill.
Wiggins, Veronica
235 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Schuyler 4-6006
WYSOR, ELIZABETH
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

INSTRUMENTALISTS

ACCORDION

Arcari, Andy
Philadelphia, Pa.
BILLOTTI, PAUL
Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2839
Biviano, Joe
113 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 3-0510
BURNS, BOB
46 Auburn Ave,.
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Walnut 0419
Dawson, Sydney Boyce
783 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-4534
Frosini, Pietro
4141 46th St.,
Sunnyside, L. I., N. Y.
Galla-Rini, Anthony
783 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-4534
Geraci, Vincent
Greenfield, Jack R.
1818 S. Hamlin Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Rockwell 6940
Magnante, Charles
46 Constant Ave.,
Yonkers, N. Y.
Tel: Nepp. 293
NUNZIO, CHARLES
643 Broad St.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Mitchell 2-0908
Post, Clee S.
723 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2826
RIZZO, ANDY
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2826
ROBOTTI, JOSEPH
1576 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-0020
Simmons, Lee
1008 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Turner, Martha Brown
1220 E. 13th St.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 6-8229
Vernon, Bob
c/o J. C. Hagey, 6036 S. Kenwood Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Fairfax 10161
Von Hallberg, Gene
Accordion Center, Inc.,
113 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Wallin, John Arthur
1726 N. Mozart St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Armitage 5141

BASS

Bennett, Boyd
76 Washington Square,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 5-2444
Bernstein, Arthur
375 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Cowherd, Yelverton
717-18-19 Comer Bldg.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Evans, Jack
Chester St.,
New Cumberland, W. Va.
Fischal, Merwin
Radio Station KNX,
Hollywood, Cal.
Van Buskirk, John Joseph
4235 N. Ravenswood,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lake View 5828

BASSOON

Balaban, Bernard
c/o New Friends of Music,
15 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Knuth, William Edward
San Francisco State College,
San Francisco, Cal.
Tel: Underhill 0842
Kohon, Benjamin
128 Fort Washington Ave.,
New York City
Lychenheim, Marion
2030 Touhy Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Rogers Park 1207

CARILLON

Barker, Bryan
The Mercersburg Academy,
Mercersburg, Pa.
Chapman, Charles T.
Main St.,
Luray, Va.
Tel: 385
Kleinschmidt, Robert B.
Pennsylvania State College,
Pottsville, Pa.
Tel: 200
Parsons, Ernest John
8 Dettart St.,
Morristown, N. J.
Price, Percival
University of Michigan,
Ann Arbor, Mich.
Ranger, Richard H.
201 Verona Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Hu 2-0123

CLARINET

Amodeo, Ferdinand
28 Grove St.,
Mechanicville, N. Y.
Tel: 368-J
Andelman, Arnold Leonard
477 Central Park W.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 4-7200
BELLISON, SIMEON
751 Walton Ave.,
New York City
Birnbach, Fred Wolfe
39 Division St.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Humboldt 2-3400
Bonade, Daniel
205 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Bronson, Captain Howard Curtis
8 E. Front St.,
Mount Morris, Ill.
Tel: 224
Christmann, Arthur Henry
Juilliard School of Music,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3302
Dahm, Paul James
11 Gabriel Ave.,
Franklin Square, L. I., N. Y.
D'Amico, Hank
5 W. 101st St.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 4-9571
Detgen, Gene
219 W. Fourth St.,
Waterloo, Ia.
Fitzsimmons, Guy P., Jr.
Radio Station WOWO-WGL,
Ft. Wayne, Ind.
Tel: A 2136
Foster, Charles Peter
140 So. Mansfield St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Gentile, Americo
3222 Bronxwood Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Olinville 2-1494
Goodman, Benny
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Greenwald, Irving Sydney
Raido Station WHK,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Pr. 5800
HARDER, ERWIN E.
2115 Dayton St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lincoln 3287
Heney, Edward J.
Orlando Senior High School,
Orlando, Fla.
Kjos, Neil Andrew
14 W. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: State 7022
Liegl, Leopold Joseph
De Pauw University.
Greencastle, Ind.
Tel: 365
LUISETTI, PETER A.
1585 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-9866
Maze, Earl 1206 Harmar St.,
Fort Wayne, Ind.
Tel: A-69852
MEHLMANN, MAXIMILLIAN
4913 Church Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Di 2-4425
Poenisch, Lillian Juanita
826 Belden Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Mohawk 0345
Rosenberg, Harry 1904 Sunnyside Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Ardmore 3914
Scheerer, Jeannette
42 W. 53rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Wickersham 2-6293
Shaw, Artie
c/o RCA-Victor Co.
Camden, N. J.
SHILKRET, NATHANIEL
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 3-0191
Simon, Eric
12 E. 75th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-0679

Waldo, Harold
2651 Roosevelt Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Rockwell 6881

CORNET AND TRUMPET

Ballantine, Edward Dickenson
National Broadcasting Company,
Merchandise Mart,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 8300

Callender, Edward J.
1209 E. Main St.,
Ventura, Cal.

COSTELLO, WILLIAM
201 W. 49th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4092

East, Grace Adams
c/o G. H. Dalrymple,
127 E. 54th St.,
New York City

FLORENT, VERAN FREDERIC
School of Music,
Northwestern University,
Evanston, Ill.

Fosdick, Dudley
Carnegie Hall,
New York City

Golden, Julie Gomez
808 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-8994

Harner, Paul Abraham
401 E. Hanover St.,
Hanover, Pa.
Tel: 769X

Harris, Oliver Lloyd
6052 Dorchester Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Fairfax 4193

Hruby, William
Severance Hall,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Ce 7300

Hubbell, Frank Allen
416 Isabel St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Capitol 7879

Kauffman, David Leslie
1116 Laramie,
Alliance, Nebr.
Tel: 855

La Barre, Capt. Eugene
39 E. Broadway,
Long Beach, N. Y.

Lee, Bob
600 Leif Ericson Dr.,
Decorah, Iowa
Tel: 690

Limpus, Charles Everette
Box 153,
Orlando, Fla.
Tel: 3851

MALTBY, DICK
2607 Farragut Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Long Beach 4027

Montgomery, Henry C.
Wabash College,
Crawfordsville, Ind.
Tel: 660

Nicola, Forrest
Chicago, Ill.
228 S. Wabash Ave.,
Tel: Webster 7635

O'Donnell, John M.
705-06, Lyon & Healy Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3218

Perry, Robert Dawson
State Teachers College,
Bowling Green, Ky.
Tel: 1700

Rizo, James
744 S. Racine Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Haymarket 6691

Spengler, John Michael Station WHK,
Cleveland, O.

TARANTINO, NOAH
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Tinsley, William M., Jr.
254 Central Ave.,
St. Petersburg, Fla.
Tel: 52-662

Tyler, George Harry
Municipal Auditorium,
Long Beach, Cal.
Tel: 644-58

Woodbury, Max St. Clair
Murat Theatre,
Indianapolis, Ind.

Zottola, Frank 301 E. Bruce Park Ave.,
Greenwich, Conn.

ENGLISH HORN

Marchetti, Attilio
Metropolitan Opera Ass'n,
New York City

Witzel, Frank
c/o National Symphony,
Washington, D. C.

FLUTE

Barrere, Georges
Juilliard Institute,
130 Claremont Ave.,
New York City

FAIR, REX ELTON
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 9544

Gravina, Gilberto
Merano, Italy

Hamilton, Gerald Lee
Marietta College,
Marietta, Ohio

Hinkle, Luella
337 S. Hobart Blvd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Federal 9149

Jessen, Wolf E.
112 E. 9th St.,
Austin, Tex.
Tel: 2-9351

Le Roy, Rene
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Mason, Russell Green
10 Woodland Ave.,
New Rochelle, N. Y.

NEITZERT, GEORGE H.
601 W. 135th St.,
New York City
Tel: Audubon 3-3845

Peer, Ralph
Manson, Iowa

Rifkind, Herbert R.
Harper High School,
Chicago, Ill.

STRINGFIELD, LAMAR
c/o George H. Dalrymple,
127 E. 54th St.,
New York City

Timm, Everett Le Roy
Morningside College,
Sioux City, Ia.

Van Vactor, David
Orchestra Hall,
Chicago, Ill.

Wittgenstein, Milton
875 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-2032

Wren, Lorna
536 W. 113th St.,
New York City
Tel: Cathedral 8-2235

FRENCH HORN

Andrews, Luther G.
635 Stuart Bldg.,
Lincoln, Nebr.
Tel: 2-4304

Christoff, Joseph
1924 Hudson Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Diversy 0903

Miller, Clyde Elmer
5243 Carpenter St.,
Downers Grove, Ill.
Tel: 131-W

Moore, Richard Charles
Radio City Music Hall,
New York City

Namen, William A.
c/o Cleveland Orchestra,
Severance Hall,
Cleveland, Ohio

GUITAR

ANTONE, ANTHONY
1576 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2684

Gomez, Vicente
1270 Sixth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-1332

KANDLE, LETRITIA
306 S. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 5717

LUNDIN, JACK
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 5717

Oyanguren, Julio Martinez
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
National Broadcasting Co.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8300

PARRAGA, GRAZIELLA
c/o Mary L. Shank,
RKO Bldg., Radio City,
New York City

Rice, William Edwin Radio Station WHK
Cleveland, Ohio

Robison, Carson
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Bryant 9-8746

Segovia, Andres

HARP

Barbino, Frank 2541 N. Campbell Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Brunswick 7468

Bell, Dorothy
7534 113th St.,
Forest Hills, N. Y.
Tel: Boulevard 8-6365

Burford, Beatrice
Haensel and Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Clark, Melville
416 S. Salina St.,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: Syracuse 2-3101

Conti, Amelia
Chastleton Hotel,
Washington, D. C.

David, Annie Louise
Fairmont Hotel,
San Francisco, Cal.
Tel: Douglass 8800

DE STEFANO, SALVATORE M.
180 W. 58th St.,
New York City

Dilling, Mildred
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Epstein, Ruth
c/o G. F. MacFarlane,
1425 Broadway,
New York City

Grandjany, Marcel

Greco, Yolanda
c/o G. F. MacFarlane,
1425 Broadway,
New York City

McDowell, J. B. Francis
1015 S. High St.,
Columbus, Ohio
Tel: Ga. 4381

Morgan, Maud

Paret, Betty
140 E. 40th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lexington 2-9544

Pinto, A. Francis
c/o G. F. MacFarlane,
1425 Broadway,
New York City

SALVI, AIDA
3430 N. Kildare,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 1998

Salzedo, Carlos
270 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-0775

Salzedo, Marjorie Call
270 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-0775

Sassoli, Ada

Schuecker, Joseph E.

Weymer, Grace
c/o Willard Matthews,
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 4-0754

Woodside, Lula B.
113 Crescent Ave.,
Greenville, S. C.
Tel: 2832

Zimmer, Nellie
98 Hemenway St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 7935

HARPSICHORD

Ballon, Hedda
22 Mt. Pleasant St.,
Cambridge, Mass.
Tel: Kir 1445

Challis, John c/o Frederick Alexander
220 N. Huron St.,
Ypsilanti, Mich.

Ehlers, Alice
c/o Dorothy Huttenbach, 1518 N. Orange Grove Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Kirkpatrick, Ralph
c/o Richard Copley
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Landowska, Wanda

Luloff, Gwladis
7970 E. Jefferson,
Detroit, Mich.

Manuel, Philip
5518 S. Hyde Park Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Fairfax 5632

Marlowe, Sylvia
Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City

Pessl, Yella
Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City

Pelton-Jones, Frances
101 W. 81st St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6400

Richards, Lewis Loomis

Williamson, Gavin
5518 S. Hyde Park Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Fairfax 5632

Wolff, Ernst Victor
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-6625

LUTE

Gulez-yan, H. Aram
52 Chester Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Humboldt 3-0724

OBOE

Hicks, Alfred H.
736 Fieldston Terr.
Webster Groves, Mo.
Tel: Webster 4547

Holmes, Charlie
880 St. Nicholas Ave.,
New York City

Kahn, Meyer
106 Philip St.,
Albany, N. Y.
Tel: 3-2980

Marchetti, Attilio
Metropolitan Opera Ass'n,
New York City

Mueller, Florian
5711 Blackstone Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Hyde Park 8329

Siegel, Adrian
c/o Philadelphia Orchestra,
Broad & Locust Sts.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Wehrend, William R.
University of Oklahoma,
Norman, Okla.
Tel: 145

Witzel, Frank
c/o National Symphony,
Washington, D. C.

PERCUSSION

Boas, Franziska
4 W. 18th St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 2-6613

Brown, Glenn E.
Long Beach Jr.-Sr. High School,
Long Beach, N. Y.

Buggert, Robert William
1012 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3369

Carey, George J.
Palace Hotel,
Cincinnati, O.
Tel: Cherry 0180

Carroll, Norm
925 So. Harrison St.,
Ft. Wayne, Ind.
Tel: A 2136

Fehr, Hazel
Chippewa Falls, Wis.

Gilmore, William J.
441 S. 11th St.,
Richmond, Ind.

Hruby, William
Severance Hall,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Ce 7300

JACKSON, BURTON LYNN
225 N. Grant St.,
Hinsdale, Ill.
Tel: Hinsdale 299

Knapp, Donald Roy
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3369

KNAPP, ROY C.
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3369

Musser, Clair Omar
1770 Berteau Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

PEDRO, DON
Radio Station WGN,
Chicago, Ill.

Richley, Tom Crosley Corp.,
Cincinnati, O.
Tel: Kirby 4800

Stone, George Lawrence
61 Hanover St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Capitol 7454

Winter, Ernest W.
St. Paul Musicians Association,
Local No. 30, A.F.M.,
St. Paul, Minn.

SAXOPHONE

Akridge, Loyd
40-15 81st St.,
Jackson Heights, N. Y.
Tel: Newtown 9-1253

Garr, Charlie

Greenhalgh, Charles J.
263 Warren Ave.,
Palisade, N. J.
Tel: Cliffside 6-2635R

Greenwald, Irving Sydney
Radio Station WHK,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Pr. 5800

Grubb, Stanley Keller
1935 Spruce St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Huff, Walter Bernard
403 E. Plymouth St.,
Bremen, Ind.
Tel: 151

Johns, Clayton
1521 E. 86th St.,
Cleveland, Ohio

Nome, Robert
c/o Nat'l Variety Artists Club,
225 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Rascher, Sigurd
c/o Guild for Musicians
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Tieber, William Richard
1054 E. 71st St.,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: End. 0324

TIMOTHY, TOM
117 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 5-0655

Vincent, Harold Payne
45 Kron St.,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Genesee 5685J

Waldo, Harold
2651 Roosevelt Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Rockwell 6881

TROMBONE

CIMERA, JAROSLAV
Lyon & Healy Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 7900

DiCanio, John
1100 S. Oak Park Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.
Tel: Euclid 6138

Miller, Glenn
2306 RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1868

Nanton, Joseph
1270 6th Ave.,
New York City

PETRILLO, CAESAR
Radio Station WBBM,
410 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 6000

Schneider, Henry
Station WHK,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Pr. 5800

Scott, John W., Jr.
119 S. Washington St.,
Taylorville, Ill.
Tel: 52

Skiles, James LeRoy
40-60 Elbertson St.,
Elmhurst, N. Y.
Tel: Havermeyer 6-5370

Sordillo, Fortunato
15 Beacon St.,
Boston, Mass.

TARANTINO, NOAH
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Teagarden, Jack
c/o Paul Wimbish,
21 W. 58th St.,
New York City

VIOLA DE GAMBA

BILSTIN, YOURY
357 W. 55th St.,
New York City

Doebereiner, Christian

INSTRUMENTALISTS (POPULAR)

ACCORDION

Benedict, Edward
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6829

Brown, Jeane
WOWO-WGL,
Ft. Wayne, Ind.
Tel: A-2136

Burklund, Glen
914 Walnut St.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 3-7147

GART, JOHN
Belvedere Hotel,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-9100

Julius, George K.
4636 Magnolia,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Edgewater 1061

Palmer, Skeeter
221 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Piersanti, Leo
1555 Roosevelt Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Monroe 1333

Welk, Lawrence
c/o Frederick Bros.,
520 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

CORNET AND TRUMPET

Armstrong, Louis

Augustine, Bob 230 Jones St.,
San Francisco, Calif.
Tel: Tuxedo 4650

Breese, Lou
c/o General Amusement Corp.,
360 N. Michigan
Chicago, Ill.

Croxen, Wes
Box 9
Clifton, Ill.

Davison, Bill
1527 N. Marshall St.,
Milwaukee, Wis.
Tel: Bk. 5236

Dorsey, Tommy
c/o Music Corporation of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Genovese, Vince
247 S. 8th St.,
Murphysboro, Ill.
Tel: 83

Hackett, Bobby

Hawkins, Erskine
c/o Gale, Inc.,
48 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Longacre 3-6111

Jacobs, Ray
111 Water St.,
Stevens Point, Wis.
Tel: 182

Johnston, Herbert L.
Radio Station WDZ,
Tuscola, Ill.
Tel: 98

Lackey, Arthur Leon
Radio Station WHK,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Prospect 5800

Lee, Arthur Smith
29 Davison St.,
Stamford, Conn.
Tel: Stamford 3-0649

Masters, Freddie
225 W. 23rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 3-9637

NAPOLEON, PHIL
1697 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-3885

Nichols, Red

Polk, James
7633 W. 62nd St.,
Argo, Ill.
Tel: Summit 211-A

Quartell, Frankie
2126 S. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.

Quigley, "Quigg"
335 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-6144

Scott, Billy
Allied Music,
155 N. Clark,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: State 4474

Stern, Jack Nathanial
Station WHK-WCLE,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Pr. 5800

Williams, Charles
799 17th Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-7162

DRUMMER

Bauduc, Ray
c/o Music Corp of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Kingsland, Harry A.
1209 13th Ave. S.,
St. Petersburg, Fla.
Tel: 91-953

Krupa, Gene
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Mattinson, Bernie
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Mullender, Rex
1852 Sherman Ave.,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Cherry 4195

Spencer, Lee
916 Church St.,
Logan, O.
Tel: 2302

Spivack, Murray
20th Century Fox Studios,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Oxford 2211

Stern, Jack Nathanial
Station WHK-WCLE,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Pr. 5800

Stevenson, Dean
5028 Winthrop,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Ravenswood 7842

Stipes, Eddie
Bank Bar Night Club,
Starr & E. Broadway,
Toledo, O.
Tel: Ta. 0328

Taylor, Maurice S.
412 Main St.,
Lewiston, Idaho
Tel. 513

Thomas, John Allen
519 Ninth St., N. W.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Metropolitan 7294

Wettling, George
17 E. 45th St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 2-1888

GUITAR AND BANJO

Abbott, Vincent F.
607 Wellington,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lake View 4191

Alongi, Michael
1302 Cleveland Ave.,
Chicago, Illinois
Tel: Diversey 7986

Austin, Sid
33 Oakley Ave.,
Monticello, N. Y.
Tel: 84

BARNES, GEORGE
5550 N. Kenmore,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Long Beach 9160

Galbreath, Dick
Westinghouse Radio Station,
Ft. Wayne, Ind.
Tel: A. 2136

GODFREY, ARTHUR
808 Earle Bldg.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Metropolitan 3200

Gordoni, Don
1258 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Calumet 6700

Houchins, Kenneth
914 Walnut St.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 3-7147

Kay, Herbie
c/o Music Corp. of America,
430 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Melvin, Jack
160 E. 48th St.,
New York City

Paris, Ben
1350 Grand Concourse
New York City
Tel: Jerome 7-6863

Rodrigo, Nano
La Conga,
51st & Broadway,
New York City

Rosales, Marco
430 W. 119th St.,
New York City
Tel: Mohawk 2-2706

Rose, Arthur
5330 Blackstone Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Midway 1387

Smith, Jerry
914 Walnut St.,
Des Moines, Ia.
Tel: 3-7147

Weiss, Walter O.
404 W. 47th St.,
New York City

ORGAN

Bacal, Dave

BENNETT, BILL
1400 Belle Plaine Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 6453

Herth, Milt

Howell, Bernie
Radio Station KFYO,
Lubbock, Texas
Tel: 1192

Norris, Frank P.
422 Frances Bldg.,
Sioux City, Iowa
Tel: 87524

PIANISTS

Andersen, Bob 83 Union,
Memphis, Tenn.
Tel: 8-6990

Anderson, Horace
320 Toluca Ave.,
Alliance, Neb.
Tel: 931J

Basie, Count
Music Corp. of America
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

BENNETT, BILL
1400 Belle Plaine Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 6453

Benson, Harold C.
5668 Ridge Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Bring, Lou
4857 Westpark Dr.,
North Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Sunset 2-4492

CARNES, KATHLEEN
c/o Bernard Pearlman,
75 E. Wacker Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dearborn 1714

CAVALLERO, CARMEN
c/o Music Corp. of America,
New York City

CHARLES, RAY
6941 Merrill Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Plaza 6192

Coffey, Henry E.
54 W. Randolph St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dearborn 3172

Duchin, Eddy
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Egan, Jack
331 E. 188th St.,
New York City
Tel: Fordham 4-5996

Heidt, Horace
c/o M. C. A.,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Joseffer, Alexander
Chicago, Ill.

Julius, George K.
4636 Magnolia,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Edgewater 1061

Kramer, Alex Charles
c/o Broadcast Music, Inc.,
580 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

La Verne, Dot
1307 S. Tripp Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lawrence 6411

Lopez, Vincent

Marvin, Mel
c/o Stanford Zucker
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677

Milner, Gene
3901 Peters Ave.,
Sioux City, Iowa
Tel: 6-4974

Munro, Hal
333 N. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Franklin 8300

Nixon, Ted
614 7th Ave., N.,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Hy 7690

Noble, Carl M.
Radio Station WLBC,
Muncie, Ind.

Noeltner, Robert H.
c/o Crawford Music Corp.,
1619 Broadway,
New York City
Tel. Circle 7-7654

Rome, Harold Jacob
1 University Place,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-2640

Sax, Ray
c/o Fred Waring,
1697 Broadway,
New York City

Scott, Henry Lawrence
c/o Programs Associates, Inc.,
First National Bank Bldg.,
Utica, N. Y.

Thomas, John Allen
519 Ninth St., N. W.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Metropolitan 7294

Waller, Fats

Whitney, Joan
c/o Broadcast Music, Inc.,
580 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Zurke, Bob
c/o Williams Morris Agency, Inc.,
1270 Sixth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-2160

SAXOPHONE AND CLARINET

Anderson, Mickey
1421 W. 15th St.,
Sioux City, Iowa
Tel: 85723

Betton, Matt
Manhattan, Kansas
Tel: 4160

Bossert, Harold 1135 Euclid Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.
Tel: Euclid 3386M

Buchwald, E. H.
108 N. 11th Ave.,
Marshalltown, Iowa
Tel: 8675

Chase, Sammy
852 Main St.,
Stamford, Conn.
Tel: 3-6663

Cockerill, Charles Elton
c/o Warings Pennsylvanians,
1697 Broadway,
New York City

Davis, Billy
318 W. 81st St.,
New York City

Donatiu, Armando Castro
c/o Jack Lavin,
Park Central Hotel,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8000

Dorsey, Jimmy
c/o General Amusement Corp.,
RKO Bldg.,
New York City

Fernandez, Angelo Casimirs
2 W. 120th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lehigh 4-4956

Fields, Shep
c/o A. Weinberger,
67 W. 44th St.,
New York City

Gillette, Mickey
1735½ N. Vine St.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 0159

Gray, Glen
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City

Grenfell, LeRoy K.
1024 Jay St.,
Colusa, Cal.
Tel: 221R

Gryb, Arthur Charles
49 S. Terrace Ave.,
Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Tel: Oakland 8639

Hammond, Bill
1824 Stanwood Rd.,
East Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Potomac 9371

Haws, Johnny
3819 King St.,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Grand 5109

Hedley, Michael 24 Lenox Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Mo. 2-9694

Holmes, Charl
880 St. Nicholas Ave.,
New York City

James, Jimmy
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City

Jasen, Cholly
1529 W. Highland Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Sheldrake 3269

Johnson, Eugene McLean
2 Bainbridge St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Johnson, Lem
355 W. 116th St.,
New York City

KEMP, HAL
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

King, Wayne
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Landfield, Marvin
130 S. Harper St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Whitney 1486

La Verne, Lew
932 Addison St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 3333

LUNCEFORD, JIMMIE
c/o Harold Oxley,
17 E. 49th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-3500

Lynch, Frank A.
106 Court House,
Sioux City, Iowa
Tel: 85948

Mando, Jay
15 Forest Ave.,
N. Plymouth, Mass.
Tel: 1012R

Mars, Buddie
431 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 5335

Martin, Freddy
Music Corp. of America,
430 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Martin, Tony
National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City

McFarland, Arthur
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677

McFarland, George
c/o Stanford Zucker,
501 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-4677

Messner, Johnny
Hotle McAlpin,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-5700

Pott, Willard Edwin
Radio Stations WHK-WCLE,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Pr.-5800

Powers, Hayward
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 6-8146

Quigley, "Quiggs"
335 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-6144

Runyon, Santy
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dearborn 8964

Russell, Larry
410 N. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 6000

Sax, Ray
c/o Fred Waring,
1697 Broadway,
New York City

Scotti, William (Bill)
45 Raymond St.,
Rockeville Centre, N. Y.
Tel: Rockeville Centre 1235

Seymour, Skeets
6451 S. Talman Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Prospect 6831

Strong, Bob
919 N. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 7200

Williams, Mahlon
914 Walnut St.,
Des Moines, Ia.
Tel: 3-7147

Wilson, Lloyd H.
332 S. Main St.,
Darlington, Wis.
Tel: 49

Woodbury, "By"
KDYL Playhouse
Salt Lake City, Utah
Tel: Was. 7180

STRING BASS

Brown, Steve 2136 Antoinette,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Tyler 5-7539

Longsworth, Howard Tommy 925 S. Harrison,
Ft. Wayne, Ind.
Tel: A-2136

Stephens, George Haig
1393 Sixth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1854

TROMBONE

Bone, Everett "Red"
Massapequa, Long Island, N. Y.
Tel: Massapequa 1208

Brunis, Georg
6005 Greenway Ave.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Saratoga 0992

Dorsey, Tommy
c/o Music Corporation of America
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Nixon, Ted
614 7th Ave., N.,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Hy 7690

Webb, Francis Wayne
Hotel Biltmore,
New York City

VIOLINISTS

Berry, Art
1108 Merchants Bank Bldg.,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Tel: Market 4512

Cugat, Xavier
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Diamond, Dave
854 Michigan Theatre Bldg.,
Detroit, Mich.

Garber, Jan
c/o Music Corp. of America,
745 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Kaufman, Whitey
Lebanon, Pa.
Tel: 2360

Lane, Eddie
15 Park Ave.,
New York City

Madriguera, Enric
c/o John O'Conner,
1697 Broadway,
New York City

LECTURERS

Arnoux, Louise
c/o Bernard R. La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

BOHNET, CLEVELAND
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Bonner, Aletha McKnight
Rives, Tenn., Box 207

CAIN, NOBLE
1331 Chase,
Chicago, Ill.

DE SELLEM, ELAINE
American Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Evans, Etelka
Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,
Cincinnati, Ohio
Tel: Av. 7800

GEON, MARCELLA
834 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-0751

Gest, Elizabeth A.
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Griffis, Elliot
c/o The Composers Press, Inc.,
853 Seventh Ave.,
New York City

Hardin, Bristow
413 Boissevain Ave.,
Norfolk, Va.
Tel: 21970

Hartley, Walter E.
Occidental College,
1600 Campus Rd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Albany 1151

HAUBIEL, CHARLES
c/o Harriet Steel Pickernell,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Heller, James G.

HOFHEIMER, GRACE
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8178

Huger, Nellie Beatrice
52 Putnam,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2870

Hulman, Anna Elizabeth
824 Sixth St.,
Terre Haute, Ind.
Tel: Crawford 4444

Kessler, Maurice P.
Oberlin College,
The Conservatory of Music,
Oberlin, O.
Tel: 58

Klein, Kenneth Town Hall,
123 W. 43rd St.,
New York City

Kroeze, Jeannette G.
Jamestown College,
Jamestown, N. D.

Landau, Anneliese
109-10 Park Lane South,
Richmond Hill,
Long Island, N. Y.
Tel: Virginia 7-6827 R

Landrum, Miriam Gordon
2010 Wichita St.,
Austin, Tex.
Tel: 9935

Liebling, Leonard
Hotel Buckingram,
101 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Loring, Harold Amasa

Lund, Charlotte
45 E. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-6800

MacCarthy, Maud

MAC CONACHIE, MARGARET E.
L. B. 944,
Brownsville, Tex.

Mautner, Edith Robechek
1348 E. 48th St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Melton, Frances Virginie
334 N. Capitol,
Salem, Ore.
Tel: 6846

MIROVITCH, ALFRED
117 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-5590

Munsey, Ethel Holmes
20 Bidwell Parkway,
Buffalo, N. Y.
Tel: Garfield 4150

Nabokoff, Nicolas

NICKERSON, CAMILLE LUCIE
Howard University,
Washington, D. C.

Oberndorfer, Anne Shaw Faulkner
Webster Hotel,
2150 Lincoln Park West,
Chicago, Ill.

O'Hara, Geoffrey
58 Park Avenue,
Bronxville, N. Y.

OLSSON, EMMA
200 W. 57th. St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1857

Romar, Jane
2340 Maine St.,
Quincy, Ill.
Tel: 3064

ROSENWALD, HANS
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830

Samoiloff, Lazar S.
610 S. Van Ness Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Fe. 8294

Sandberg, Mordecai

Schillinger, Joseph

Shapleigh, Bertram

Smith, Carleton Sprague
Division of Music,
New York Public Library,
New York City

Spaeth, Sigmund
1619 Broadway,
New York City

Spain, Helen Knox
Piedmont Hotel,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Main 3024

Spofford, Grace
8 Pitt St.,
New York City
Tel: Orchard 4-1100

Talley, Howard
Department of Music,
University of Chicago,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Midway 0800

Terry, Warren Lee
Lambs Club,
130 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Tel: Bryant 9-8020

UNKALUNT, PRINCESS ATALIE
316 E. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-8052

Ussher, Bruno David
6122 Scenic Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.

WALDMAN, DOROTHY J.
739 Park Dr., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 3436

Weld, Ethel Ross
2030 2nd Ave.,
Hibbing, Minn.

ORGANISTS

Adams, Frank Stewart
585 West 204th St.,
New York City

Akin, Nita
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Allen, Warren Dwight
Memorial Church,
Stanford University, Cal.
Tel: P. A. 9411

Ambrose, Paul

Anderson, Ferdinand Valjean
172 Worth Avenue,
Palm Beach, Florida
Tel: 8275

Anderson, Laurel Everette
University of Kansas,
Lawrence, Kansas
Tel: 142

Archer, John Benjamin

Arnold, Heinz
790 Seneca Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Hezeman 3-5836

Ashton, Joseph Nickerson

Asper, Frank W.
61 Laurel St.,
Salt Lake City, Utah
Tel: Hyland 3760

Atwood, Birdie
534 S. Jefferson Ave.,
Springfield, Mo.
Tel: 2188

Avery, Stanley R.
432 Ridgewood Ave.,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Kenwood 2713

Bacal, Dave
410 N. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 6000

Bacon, Allan
College of the Pacific,
Stockton, Cal.

Baker, Charles Albert

Baldwin, Samuel Atkinson

Bamboschek, Giuseppe

Barnes, Billy
First Presbyterian Church,
State Street,
Winston-Salem, N. C.
Tel: 3-7195

Barnes, Edward Shippen

Barnes, William H.
1112 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 3444

Barr, George Francis
Eastern Washington College of Education
Cheney, Wash.
Tel: Black 12

Bates, Helen Oliphant
214 Ewald,
San Antonio, Texas
Tel: Parkview 21942

Beach, Theodore
St. Andrew's P.E. Church,
2067 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Lehigh 4-0896

Beard, Ramona Cruikshank
Ferry Hall,
Lake Forest, Ill.
Tel: Lake Forest 3

Beatty, Erl
7038-40 W. Garrett Rd.,
Upper Darby, Pa.

BECKER, ARTHUR C.
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 8194

Bender, William Isett
20 Cumming St.,
New York City
Tel: Lorraine 7-1177

Berentsen, Robert J.
Central Presbyterian Church,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Main 730

Beveridge, Lowell Pierson
Columbia University,
New York City
Tel: University 4-3200

Biggs, E. Power
c/o Bernard La Berge
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Biggs, Richard Keys
6657 Sunset Blvd.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 1835

Bingham, Seth
Department of Music,
Columbia University,
New York City
Tel: University 4-3200

Bingham, Virgil
Station WHB,
Kansas City, Mo.
Tel: Harrison 1161

Bitgood, Roberta
Westminster Presbyterian Church,
Bloomfield, N. J.
Tel: Bl. 2-2172

Black, Joseph Saylor
Jamestown College,
Jamestown, N. D.
Tel: 443 W

Blauvelt, Bula Caswell
57 Gardner Ave.,
Jersey City, N. J.
Tel: Delaware 3-1034

Blayney, Mary Dee
Music Hall,
Athens, Ohio
Tel: 27192

Blum, Elias

Bode, Arnold George Henry
410 W. Montecito Ave.,
Sierra Madre, Cal.
Tel: Custer 5032

Bonnet, Joseph Elie

Boyce, Alfred
135 W. 56th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-5657

Brant, LeRoy Verne
69 N. 8th St.,
San Jose, Cal.
Tel: Ballard 3

Brennecke, Ernest, Jr.
New York City

Bretz, William E.
Reymer Bldg.,
237 Fifth Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: At. 9135

Brigham, Ralph Hibbard
Second Congregational Church,
Rockford, Ill.
Tel: Main 3525

Britton, Elizabeth
15 Johnson Ave.,
Binghamton, N. Y.
Tel: 2-2273

Broadhead, Edward Hall
Duke University,
Durham, N. C.
Tel: F-131

Brown, Dorothy 3000 Harrison,
Amarillo, Tex.
Tel: 2-2095

Brown, Ethel Moore
3959 Poplar Pike,
Memphis, Tenn.
Tel: 4-8244

Brown, Grace V.
53 Main St.,
Woodbridge, N. J.

Bruce, Dwight James
Station WTOC,
516 Abercorn St.,
Savannah, Ga.

Bunge, Rev. Gerhard R.
518 5th St., N.E.,
Independence, Ia.
Tel: 654

Burdett, George Alvert
80 Hillcrest,
Belmont, Mass.

Callahan, Bob
National Broadcasting Co.,
Washington, D.C.
Tel: Republic 4000

Callaway, Paul
c/o Bernard R. Laberge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Camp, John Spencer

Carman, Charles Philip Stanley
Ware Block,
Huntsville, Ont., Canada
Tel: 222

Carrington-Thomas, Virginia

Carter, Ernest
115 E. 69th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-8723

Cassler, Glenn Winston
St. Paul's Episcopal Church,
Canton, O.
Tel: 5029

Cesner, Charles Henry, Jr.
Radio Station WCOL,
Columbus, Ohio
Tel: Ma 4581

Charles, Milton
Columbia Broadcasting System,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 6000

Cheney, Winslow
c/o Bernard R. Laberge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Childe, Christopher Stephen
10625 Hillhaven St.,
Tujunga, Cal.
Tel: Sunland 2586

Christian, Palmer
c/o Bernard R. Laberge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Church, Frank Martin
Athens College,
Athens, Ala.

Clement, Alice Linfield College,
McMinnville, Ore.

Clements, H. Loren
305 8th Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Clewell, Ralph E.
Western Reserve Academy,
Hudson, O.

Coci, Claire
c/o Bernard R. Laberge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Coffman, Lillian Craig
6607 Virginia Ave.,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Ric. 0143

Coombs, Charles Whitney

Corey, Newton J.

Courboin, Charles Marie

Craig, Charles William, Jr.
316 W. Franklyn St.,
Richmond, Va.
Tel: 3-2693

Craven, Mary Ruth
500 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Crouch, Ruth Lucile
Radio Station KWFT,
Wichita Falls, Texas
Tel: 4182

Crowe, Bonita P'Pool
1057 Minnesota Ave.,
Winter Park, Fla.

Crowell, Maytie Case
Highland Park,
Manchester, Conn.

Crum, Edward S.
712 Taylor St., N.W.,
Washington, D.C.
Tel: Taylor 2384

Cummins, Annie Blair Titman
202 Mansfield St.,
Belvidere, N. J.
Tel: 30

Curry, Lawrence
Beaver College,
Jenkintown, Pa.

Cutler, Kenneth Lee
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Dasher, James A.
Emory Junior College,
Valdosta, Ga.

Davis, Glenn
3516 Van Buren St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kedzie 6197

Davis, Mrs. W. H.
16 Carilina Apts.,
Asheville, N. C.
Tel: 1925 J.

De Lamarter, Eric

Demarest, Clifford

Demorest, Charles H.
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830

Dethier, Gaston Marie

DICKINSON, CLARENCE
Union Theological Seminary,
Broadway at 120th St.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-7100

Dickinson, Edward Oberlin, Ohio

Diggle, Roland

Doane, John

Donley, William Henry

Donovan, Richard Frank
Douglas, Charles Winfred
Douglas, Ernest
312 S. Westmoreland Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Fitzroy 2747
Dow, Margaret Whitney
Florida State College for Women,
Tallahassee, Fla.
Duffield, Paul Edison
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Dufford, Mamie Ericson
312 S. Garth Ave.,
Columbia, Mo.
Tel: 6132
Dunham, George Sawyer
Dunham, Rowland Warren
College of Music,
University of Colorado,
Boulder, Colo.
Dunkley, Ferdinand Luis
Dunlop, Merrill
825 Barry Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lakeview 4200
Dupre, Marcel
Durand, Mrs. Nella Wells
Tampa Heights Presbyterian Church,
Tampa, Fla.
Tel: M50 814
Durkee, Abbie Marguerite
1137 E. River St.,
El Paso, Texas
Tel: M7197 W
Einecke, C. Harold
Park (First) Congregational Church,
Grand Rapids, Mich.
Ender, Edmund Sereno
4502 Carleview Rd.,
Baltimore, Md.
Ensrud, Paul
Newberry College,
Newberry, S. C.
Erb, John Lawrence
736 Williams St.,
New London, Conn.
Tel: 2-1824
Erickson, John Theodore
Gustavus Adolphus Lutheran Church,
New York City
Estes, Charles E.
Robert College,
P.O. Box 1392,
Istanbul, Turkey
Faasen, Fred
27th and Elisha Ave.,
Zion, Ill.
Tel: 201
Fairchild, Helen
52 Putnam Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.
Fairclough, George H.
844 Fairmount Ave.,
St. Paul, Minn.
Tel: Dale 3962
Falk, William J.
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6700
FARRELL, MARY AGNES V.
209 W. Chestnut St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 1322
Fay, John Edward 562 Congress St.,
Portland, Maine
Tel: 22388
Federlein, Gottfried H.
1 East 65th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-1400
Felt, Lula M.
1215½ W. 85th St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Ferris, Isabel Dungan
Wilson College,
Chambersburg, Pa.
Fichthorn, Claude L.
Missouri Valley College,
Marshall, Mo.
Finn, Rev. William J.
415 W. 59th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-1437
Fitch, Dudley Warner
615 S. Figueroa St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Flandorf, Walter
235 Cornelia Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Buckingham 8949
Fletcher, Joseph
15 Euclid Ave.,
Ridgefield Park, N. J.
Hackensack 2-7731
Flint, H. Harrison
Station WLAW,
Lawrence, Mass.
Foster, Anna Blanche
850 Cajon St.,
Redlands, Cal.
Tel: 9141
Foster, Bertha
University of Miami,
Coral Gables, Fla.
Fowler, George Fox, Virgil
c/o Bernard La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Fricker, Herbert Austin
9 Powell Ave.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Midway 6831
Fry, Henry S.
Fulton, Lulu Hill
Carnegie Library,
Cleburne, Tex.
Gale, Waler C.
Gales, Weston
Gardiner, Bertha Mae
115 E. Bernard St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 629 W.
GART, JOHN
Belvedere Hotel,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-9100
Gaul, Harvey Bartlett
315 Shady Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Montrose 0120
Gee, Russell Lowell
Geer, E. Harold
Vassar College,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Tel: Pok. 2800
Gideon, Henry
Gillette, James Robert
169 N. Washington Circle,
Lake Forest, Ill.
Tel: 83
GLASSON, T. BATH
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Tel: Pennsylvania 6-2634
Glen, Irma
National Broadcasting Co.,
Merchandise Mart,
Chicago, Ill.
Goldsworthy, William A.
St. Marks Church In The Bouwerie,
10th. St. at Second Ave.,
New York City
Goodrich, Frederick William Goodrich, Wallace
New England Conservatory,
290 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Grabill, Glenn Grant
Otterbein College,
Westerville, O.
Tel: 125
Grant-Schaeffer, George Alfred
Grieb, Herbert
Station WBRC,
Birmingham, Ala.
Groom, Lester W.
Wheaton College,
Wheaton, Ill.
Tel: Wheaton 698
Gruenstein, Siegfried E.
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 3149
Hagan, Helen Eugenia
Hamrick, George Lee
754 Peachtree St., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 3053
Hannum, Harold Byron
Emmanuel Missionary College,
Berrien Springs, Mich.
Harling, W. Franke
HARMS, JOHN
39 W. 76th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-4968
Harris, Edward
25 Park Ave.,
New York City
Harris, Ralph Arthur
157 St. Paul's Place,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Bu. 2-7234
HARSHA, RUTH
300 8th Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Hartley, Walter E.
Occidental College,
1600 Campus Rd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Albany 1151
HAWKINS, ESTHER BECKLINGER
320 Grant Place
Park Ridge, Ill.
Tel: Park Ridge 197M
Hawkins, Warner M.
147 W. 87th St.,
New York City
Tel: Schuyler 4-3391
Hays, Ernest
Hampton Institute,
Hampton, Va.
Heaps, Porter Warrington
2308 Central St.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: Davis 1113
Heeremans, Harold
New York University,
New York City
Tel: Raymond 9-2000
Heinroth, Charles
Hemington, Francis
614 N. Ridgeland Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.
Henshaw, Helen Rockwell
Albany Academy,
Academy Rd.,
Albany, N. Y.
Tel: 5-1641
Henson, Mary Atkinson
914 Carter Rd.,
Roanoke, Va.
Herbert, Oliver Leo
50 W. 67th St.,
New York City
Hering, John Norris
Herth, Milton
Consolidated Radio Artists, Inc.,
New York City
Hewlett, William Henry
Hinett, Arthur
1619 Walnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Locust 3760
Hosmer, Elmer Samuel
Hovey, Donald B.
914 Walnut St.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 3-7147
Huber, Frederick R.
Huhn, Bruno
HULTGREN, GEORGE
MacPhail School of Music,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424
Hunt, Robert Wilson
Northwest Conservatory of Music,
122½ S. 3rd,
Grand Forks, N. Dak.
Tel: 338
Iacapraro, Ida
1941 Hone Ave.,
New York City
Tel: University 3-0049
Ihrke, Walter Rudolph
Stephens College,
Columbia, Mo.
Tel: 2121

Inghram, Lillian Brown
Conservatory of Music,
Quincy, Ill.
Tel: 2310 J

Irwin, Francis Alan Friends University,
Wichita, Kan.
Tel: 37236

Ives, Charles Edward
West Redding, Conn.

Jenny, Herbert John

Jensen, Carl A.
1660 Hillcrest Ave.,
St. Paul, Minn.
Tel: Em. 2093

Jepson, Harry

Johnson, Evelyn May
172 Pawling Ave.,
Troy, N. Y.
Tel: Troy 844

JOHNSON, JAMES P.
171-38 108th Ave.,
Jamaica, N. Y.
Tel: Republic 9-5166

Johnson, Margaret Rose
193 W. 7th St.,
Winona, Minn.
Tel: 7530

Johnson, Terese La Juett
218 Holland St.,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: 5-2607

Jones, Elizabeth Fly Kirkpatrick
2103 Government Street,
Baton Rouge, La.

KEMMER, GEORGE WILLIAM
St. Georges Church,
207 E. 16th. St.,
New York City

Kern, Carl Wilhelm
511 N. Taylor,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Forest 6115

Kilgen, Eugene Robyn
429 S. 12th Blvd.,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Chestnut 6544

Killgrove, William
4304 S. Figueroa St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Ad. 8665

Kinder, Ralph

Klein, Charlotte
St. Margaret's Episcopal Church,
Washington, D.C.
Tel: Michigan 9869

Kleinschmidt, Oliver Henry
Lebanon, Ill.
Tel: 20L

Koch, Caspar Petrus
Carnegie Hall,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Fa. 0389

Kraft, Edwin Arthur
Trinity Cathedral,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Pr. 3631

Lambuth, Archer
1578 Oak Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 6559

Lane, Lorna
Radio Station WROK,
Rockford, Ill.
Tel: Main 5632

Lawrence, Burton
920 Wilson Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Longbeach 3000

LEAF, ANN
150 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lexington 2-1100

Lee, Frances
Radio Station WBBM,
Wrigley Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.

Lefebvre, Channing
211 Fulton St.,
New York City

Lemont, Cedric Wilmot

Le Sueur, Peter
156 W. 7th St.,
Erie, Pa.
Tel: 22-824

Lindquist, Lansing B.
Station WSYR,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: 3-7111

Lockwood, Charlotte
c/o Bernard La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Long, Thomas Alexander
Johnson C. Smith University,
Charlotte, N. C.
Tel: 3-2406

Lovewell, Samuel Harrison

Luke, Carol Wilson
Tutwiler Hotel,
Birmingham, Ala.
Tel: 78161

MacDonald, Robert Neilson
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

MacDougall, Hamilton Crawford

MacFarlane, William Charles

MacMillan, Sir Ernest Campbell
Toronto Conservatory of Music,
135 College St.,
Toronto, Can.
Tel: Waverly 2655

Maesch, LaVahn K.
Lawrence College,
Appleton, Wis.
Tel: 1659

Maitland, Rollo

Malloy, Herbert
706 Paramount Theatre Bldg.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: El. 7175

Malmin, Gunnar Johannes
Pacific Lutheran College,
Parkland, Wash.
Tel: Garland 0577

Marks, Eugene Franklin
122 Eighth St.,
Augusta, Ga.
Tel: 2-8182

Marsh, Charles Howard
640 Broadway,
San Diego, Cal.
Tel: Main 4122

Marsh, Frank Earl, Jr.
Mississippi Southern College,
Hattiesburg, Miss.

Martin, Miles I'Anson
St. John's Parish,
Waterbury, Conn.

Martin, Vivian Louise
1120 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6829

MATHIAS, ELMER L.
238 Fair Ave., N. W.,
New Philadelphia, Ohio
Tel: 29622

Mattfeld, Julius

McCormac, Halstead B.
Lone Pine Union High School,
Lone Pine, Cal.
Tel: 2511

McCurdy, Alexander
c/o Bernard R. La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

McDowell, J. B. Francis
1015 S. High St.,
Columbus, Ohio
Tel: Ga. 4381

McIlwraith, Isa Roberta
University of Chattanooga,
Chattanooga, Tenn.

MeKenzie, Duncan

McKorell, Bessie King
903 Carolina Ave.,
Hartsville, S. C.
Tel: 223

McNeil, Ruth
Music Bldg.,
University of Mississippi,
University, Miss.
Tel: Oxford 9393

Merritt, Ida Shipman
3207 Ave. N½,
Galveston, Texas
Tel: 22498

Mervynne, Rev. Duncan Salisbury
1875 San Pasqual St.,
Pasadena, Cal.
Tel: Sycamore 3-9622

Meyer, Alfred Henry
25 Blagden St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Commonwealth 6230

Middelschulte, Wilhelm

Miller, Russell King

Milligan, Harold Vincent

Mitchell, Francis Humphries
1697 Noble Dr., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Vernon 2313

Munson, Lawrence J.
357 Ovington Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Shore Road 8-0416

Murdoch, Martha Myers
5914 Wellesley Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Murphree, Claude Leon
University of Florida,
Gainesville, Fla.
Tel: 1000

Murphy, Howard A.
Teachers College,
Columbia University,
New York City
Tel: University 4-7000 Ext. 584

Noble, Thomas Tertius

Norden, N. Lindsay

Oberg, Paul Matthews
University of Wichita,
Wichita, Kan.
Tel: 4-5331

Oetting, William H.

Ogle, Louise Godfrey
6 Caledonia Road,
Asheville, N. C.
Tel: 6827-J

Oman, Virginia
c/o Stan. Booking Office,
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City

O'Shea, John Augustine

Ossko, Eduard
14-206 General Motors Bldg.,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Trinity 2-4600, Ext. 539

Paine, Richmond Peck

Parmalee, Emilie Martha
North Avenue Presbyterian Church,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Ve 6532

Parsons, Ernest John
8 Dettart St.,
Morristown, N. J.

Pasmore, Henry Bickford

PATTON, LOWELL
350 No. 55th St.,
New York City

Percy, Vincent H.
Euclid Ave. & E. 96th St.,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Garfield 2638

PERKINS, CLELLA LESTER
Hyde Park Branch High School,
Chicago, Ill.

Peters, Kate Johnston
205 Jefferson,
Ripley, Tenn.
Tel: 116

Peterson, LaVerne
Radio Station WSAU,
Wausau, Wis.
Tel: 6521

Phillips, Harold D.

Poister, Arthur William
c/o Bernard R. La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City

Porter, Hugh
1 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Bryant 9-7152

Price, Hugh C.
226 Wright St.,
La Salle, Ill.

Pusateri, Cosmo R.
171 W. 71st. St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-0120

Quarles, James Thomas
University of Missouri,
Columbia, Mo.
Quimby, Arthur W.
Western Reserve University,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Ce. 8780
Ranger, Richard H.
201 Verona Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Hu 2-0123
RAUSCHELBACH, REV. OSCAR A.
6406 S. Washtenaw,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Prospect 4619
Rechlin, Edward
Box 349,
Grand Central Annex,
New York City
Reddick, William J.
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-0200
Redlund, Alice
MacPhail School of Music,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Ma. 4424
Remley, Lucy Friend
2547 Gaylord St.,
Denver, Colo.
Renzulli, John Henry
79 Culloden Rd.,
Stamford, Conn.
Tel: 4-3572
Richmond, Colin Beckett
Riemenschneider, Albert
Baldwin Wallace Conservatory,
Berea, O.
Riesberg, Frederick W.
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4500
Robinson, Franklin Whitman
ROSS, HUGH
333 Fourth Ave.,
New York City
Rowand, Wilbur H.
Shorter College,
Rome, Ga.
Tel: 2996 J
Rowe, Neille Odell
Conservatory of Music,
Wooster, O.
Tel: 113
Russell, Alexander
RYAN, BESSIE
c/o Austin College of Music,
3334 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kedzie 3350
Salter, Sumner
Salvador, Mario
517 S. Throop St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Sammond, Herbert Stavely
725 Argyle Rd.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Mansfield 6-5268
Saylor, Rodney
820 Broad St.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Mitchell 2-0260
Schwarz, Margaret Z.
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868
Scott, Carrie
910 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7586
Seibert, Henry F.
Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity,
Central Park West & 65th St.,
New York City
Sharpe, Tony
Station WTRY,
Troy, N. Y.
Tel: 2-100
Sheldon, Charles A., Jr.
956 Blue Ridge Ave.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 6707
Shelley, Harry Rowe
Shepherd, Wilma Rosemary
228 Third Ave.,
Havre, Mont.
Tel: 315
SHERMAN, BESSIE WILLIAMS
619 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Shure, R. Deane
Mt. Vernon Place M.E. Church,
Washington, D.C.
Siewert, Herman Fredrick
Rollins College,
Winter Park, Fla.
Sister Mary Lucretia
Maryville College,
Scranton, Pa.
Tel: 3-0842
Skilton, Charles Sanford
University of Kansas,
St. Lawrence, Kan.
Tel: K.U. 135
Sleeper, Henry Dike
Smith, Melville
Western Reserve University,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: Cedar 8780
SMITH, RAYMOND ALLYN
1229 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7529
Speissegger, Arthur
125 E. 34th St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 6-8949
Spelman, Leslie P.
421 Cajon St.,
Redlands, Cal.
Tel: 6757
SPONGBERG, VIOLA
850 E. 46th St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Ingersoll 2-6815
Spross, Charles Gilbert
4 Allen Place,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Tel: 584
Stamm, E. Prang
Beaumont High School,
St. Louis, Mo.
Stanziola, Ernest
8 W. King St.,
Lancaster, Pa.
Tel: 5252
Stead, Franklin
1142 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Steckel, Edwin M.
Oglebay Institute,
Wheeling, W. Va.
Steele, Ted
9 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-6188
Sterling, Winthrop Smith
Stevenson, Gladys
Hammond Organ Co.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2290
Stiven, Frederic Benjamin
University of Illinois,
Urbana, Ill.
Sumsion, Herbert Whitton
SUTHERN, ORRIN CLAYTON, II
c/o Musical Artists Bureau,
312 Manhattan Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3275
Swanson, Wilbur F.
Augustana College,
Rock Island, Ill.
Tel: R. I. 246
Taferner, Theodore
Thatcher, Howard Rutledge
Thayer, William Armour
Thomas, Virginia Carrington
Hammond Organ Co.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2290
Thompson, Lucia Mae
Radio Station WHBF,
Rock Island, Ill.
Tel: R.I. 918
Tilton, George Irvin
3rd Presbyterian Church,
Trenton, N. J.
Tel: 3-6938
Titus, Parvin
c/o Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,
Cincinnati, Ohio
Tel: Av 7800
Tower, Celia Warne
2050 Watson Ave.,
Alliance, Ohio
Tel: 7782
Trondson, G. Orville
c/o MacPhail School of Music,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424
Turner, Harold
Radio Station WGN,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 0100
TUTHILL, JAMES A. BROWN
205 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tyler, Abram Ray
Upton, William Treat
Van Dusen, Frank
306 S. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
VELD, HENRY
Augustana College,
Rock Island, Ill.
Tel: 246
Vincent, Henry Bethuel
Von Antalffy-Zsiross, Desider
Wagner, Joseph Frederick
c/o R. D. Row,
725 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 3318
Wallace, James Brevard
Belhaven College,
Jackson, Miss.
Ward, Frank Edwin
924 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-8949
Ward, Jack
550 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Weaver, Powell
First Baptist Church,
Kansas City, Mo.
Tel: Linwood 4777
Wedertz, C. Gordon
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830
Weinrich
c/o Bernard R. La Berge, Inc.,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Widenor, David Kenneth
239 Passaic St.,
Hackensack, N. J.
Tel: Hackensack 2-4294-W
Wiesemann, Carl
Box 3865 T.S.C.W.,
Deuton, Tex.
Tel: 602
Wilde, Edwin Ernest
7 Greenridge Ave.,
White Plains, N. Y.
Tel: W.P. 7334-M
Wilson, M. Emett
Ohio State University,
Columbus, O.
Wilson, William Llewellyn
Douglass High School,
Calhoun and Baker St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Tel: Lafayette 4248
Woodman, Raymond Huntington
131 Hicks St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Main 4-0268
Wright, Norman S.
First Methodist Church,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Granite 2104

YON, PIETRO
c/o Institute of Concert Virtuosi,
852 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Zaring, Irene Belden
4308 N. Ashland Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 5858
Ziegler, M. Paul
Woodstock, N. Y.
Zimmerman, Walter P.
220 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Zuidema, Alle D.
52 Putnam,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2870

PIANISTS

Abram, Jacques
17 East 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 5-8635
Abravanel, Maurice
41 Central Park West,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-8500
ABT, CYBELLE
c/o Estelle Lutz,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 3435
Achron, Isidor
45 W. 81st St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-9200
Addonizio, Philomena
7014 Fort Hamilton Parkway,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Shore Road 8-5110
Adler, Clarence
336 Central Park West,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-4922
Adler, Lois
720 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-3300
Aitken, Webster
231 E. 45th St.,
New York City
Albright, Lois
Auditorium Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 5000
Alden, John Carver
Alexander, Elsie
4757 Sheridan Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Long Beach 0132
Allen, Creighton
549 Second Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Lexington 2-4419
Allen, Guy
2300 Highland Ave.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Tel: 3-2619
Allen, William
International House,
Riverside Drive,
New York City
Allison, Irl
640 Riverside Drive,
New York City
Tel: Audubon 3-1539
Alpert, Pauline
350 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-8244
Althouse, Lillian
233 S. Figueroa St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Va. 4832
Alwin, Carl
Auditorium Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Anderson, Stell
c/o Albert Morini,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Anderson, Jane
4414 N. Paulina St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Longbeach 4166
Armstrong, Louise H.
78 High St.,
Portland, Me.
Tel: 4-5063
Arneke, Arthur H.
1328 E. Albion St.,
Milwaukee, Wis.
Tel: Be. 1218 R.
Aubert, Roger
c/o Bernard R. La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Babin, Victor
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Backhaus, Wilhelm
Bacon, Katherine
260 Riverside Drive,
New York City
Baerwald, Hellmut
173 E. 74th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-1239
Bagby, Albert Morris
Baird, Martha
Baker, Addie Belle
1568 Gordon St.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gl. 4407
Balas, Clarice
3057 W. 14th St.,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Prospect 0439
Balatka, Christian F.
702 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3077
Baldwin, Ellis Kennedy
Utica Observer-Dispatch,
Oriskany Plaza,
Utica, N. Y.
Tel: 2-1111
Balling, Marie L.
231 E. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-7315
Ballon, Ellen
c/o Constance Hope Associates, Inc.,
29 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-3390
Ballon, Hedda
22 Mt. Pleasant St.,
Cambridge, Mass.
Tel: Kir 1445
Ballou, Florence
Radio Station WICC,
Bridgeport, Conn.
Tel: 6-1121
Balogh, Erno
Barbour, Florence Newell
Bard, Vivien
608 S. Center St.,
Terre Haute, Ind.
Tel: Harrison 1166
Barer, Simon
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Barge, Elsie
745 Irving Park Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Barnes, Billy
First Presbyterian Church,
State Street,
Winston-Salem, N. C.
Tel: 3-7195
Barnes, Esther Wilburn
Georgia Teachers College,
Statesboro, Georgia
Tel: 53 M
Barnett, David
Barris, Chester
College of Wooster,
Wooster, Ohio
Tel: 113
Barth, Hans
165 E. 60th St.,
New York City
Bartlett, Ethel
c/o Arthur Judson. Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Batchelder, Alice Coleman
626 S. Arroyo Blvd.,
Pasadena, Cal.
Tel: Sycamore 91288
Bates, Helen Oliphant
214 Ewald,
San Antonio, Texas
Tel: Parkview 21942
Bates, Mona
519 Jarvis St.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Midway 9674
Bauer, Harold
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Baume, Emile
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Beach, Mrs. H. H. A.
Becker, Gustave L.
Beebe, Carolyn
BEHREND, JEANNE
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525
Bell, J. Bertram
5035 Woodward,
Detroit, Mich.
Benditzky, Leon
Station WGN,
Chicago, Ill.
Berl, Paul
8 W. 74th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-9470
BERNING, HARRY M.
4747 Milwaukee Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 5000
Berryman, Cecil Wells
214 Baldrige Bldg.,
20th and Farnam,
Omaha, Neb.
Bert, Berthe
170 E. 78th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-1735
Beyer, Mary Ethel
830 North Ave. N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 4369
Bibb, Frank
Peabody Conservatory,
Baltimore, Md.
Bienfang, Esther
Whitman Conservatory,
Walla Walla, Wash.
Tel: 2643
Bigelow, Earl Raymond
Northwestern University School of Music,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 1900
Bilbro, Mathilde
Birmingham, Ala.
P. O. Box 1344
Binder, Fritz
Bingham, Virgil
Station WHB,
Kansas City, Mo.
Tel: Harrison 1161
Birnbach, Fred Wolfe
39 Division St.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Humboldt 2-3400
Biro, Sari
c/o W. D. Warren,
286 Fifth Ave. ,
New York City
Tel: Lo. 5-9282
Bishop, Frank
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Bitter, Marguerite
2823 Ellendale Place,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Republic 9743

Black, Frank
c/o National Broadcasting Co.,
RCA Bldg.
New York City
Black, Joseph Saylor
Jamestown College,
Jamestown, N. D.
Tel: 443 W
BOARDMAN, ROGER
451 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 4-7861
Boguslawski, Lillian
323 S. Wabash Ave. ,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 6900
Boguslawski, Moissaye
323 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 6900
BOHNET, CLEVELAND
Kimball Hall
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Bolet, Jorge
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525
Bonime, Gertrude
26 E. 81st St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-5882
Bonime, Josef
50 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-7000
Bonner, Aletha McKnight
Rives, Tenn., Box 207
Bos, Coenraad V.
Hotel Wellington,
7th Ave. & 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-3900
Bowers, Sara Alice Cooper
518 E. Spring St.,
Gainesville, Ga.
Tel: 614 W
Boyd, Anna Tomlinson
6937 34th St.,
Berwyn, Ill.
Tel: Berwyn 675
Boynet, Emma Station WEAF,
New York City
Brailowsky, Alexander
Braine, Robert
151 W. 77th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-3027
Brazelton, Edgar A.
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Tel: Harrison 0500
Brigham, Ralph Hibbard
Second Congregational Church,
Rockford, Ill.
Tel: Main 3525
Brinkman, Florence
Bristol, Frederick
120 E. 39th St.,
New York City
Tel: Caledonia 5-5161
Brodsky, Vera
c/o Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Brooks, Ernest
632 N. Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 0446
Browda, Morris
1808 N. Kenmore Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: No. 21783
Browda, Rae Fink
1808 Kenmore Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: No. 21783
Brown, Lucy
885 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-6303
Bruhns, George Frederick William 27 Grove St.,
Cranford, N. J.
Brumley, David Joseph
515 Union Bldg.,
Knoxville, Tenn.
Tel: 2-7181
Buhlig, Richard
Burnham, Thuel
Burrows, Raymond Murdock
Teachers College,
Columbia University,
New York City
Tell: University 4-7000
Burton, Thomas Eldin
608 Grand Theater Building,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Walnut 7323
Busch, William
Bush, Grace
1547 S. Gramercy Place,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Butts, R. Dale
National Broadcasting Company,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 8300
BUXTON, EUGENIA
c/o Richard Copley,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Callahan, Bob
National Broadcasting Co.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Republic 4000
Calzin, Alfred
121 W. 80th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-7394
Carlsen, Erma E.
5908 Terrace Drive,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Carlson, Mildred
219 Sixth St.,
Racine, Wis.
Carlson, Wendell Oliver
2518 McFaul Ave.,
Sioux City, Iowa
Carman, Charles Philip Stanley
Ware Block,
Huntsville, Ont., Canada
Tel: 222
CARNAHAN, FRANKLYN
612 Carnegie Hall,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Main 0665
CARRERAS, MARIA
c/o Ruth B. Mitchell,
169 E. 78th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-0311
Carroll, Grace Potter
19 Zillicoa St.,
Homewood, Asheville, N. C.
Tel: Del. 3555
Carroll, Norm
925 So. Harrison St.,
Fort Wayne, Ind.
Tel: A 2136
Casadesus, Robert
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Castagnetta, Grace
Steinway Hall
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Castelnuovo-Tedesco, Mario
c/o Albert Morini
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Catsiff, Oscar
c/o Crawford Music Corporation
1619 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-7654
Celli, Edoardo
Cahjes, Julius
c/o Transcontinental Music Corp.
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Chalmers, Ruby
839 Penn Ave., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 1569
Charmbury, Walter
Rollins College
Winter Park, Fla.
Chase, Mary Wood
Chasins, Abram
c/o Paul Stoes
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Cherkassky, Shura
1418½ N. Sierra Bonita Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 2388
Childe, Christopher Stephen
10625 Hillhaven St.,
Tujunga, Cal.
Tel: Sunland 2586
Childe, Robert
National Broadcasting Co.
Chicago, Ill.
Childs, Emma Winslow
20 Blackstone Blvd.,
Providence, R. I.
Tel: Plantations 5727
Church, Frank Martin
Athens College,
Athens, Ala.
Clark, Eugene Walter
Box 223,
Ulster Park, N. Y.
Coffman, Lillian Craig
6607 Virginia Ave. ,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Riv. 0143
Cohen, Harriet
c/o Ray Halmans,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Coles, Etta
c/o George Mitford Ltd.,
68 King St. E.,
Toronto, Canada
Collins, Edward
310 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Coney, Malcolm
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Copeland, George
Corti, Wanda Martha Emilia
448 Wrightwood Ave,.
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lincoln 8765
CORYELL, MAY HOPE
1512 24th St.,
Sacramento, Cal.
Cottlow, Augusta
Cox, Leland, Jr.
187 North Ave., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Vernon 6787
Crawford, Louise
Coe College,
Cedar Rapids, Ia.
Tel: 3-2611
Crerar, Louis
Cromweed, Frederick William Durfee
564 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Cronkhite, Grace Louise
Anderson College,
Anderson, S. C.
Tel: 438
Crost, Dorothy
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830
Crouch, Ruth Lucile
Radio Station KWFT,
Wichita Falls, Texas
Tel: 4182
Crum, Edward S.
712 Taylor St., N.W.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Taylor 2384
Cummins, Annie Blair Titman
202 Mansfield St.,
Belvidere, N. J.
Tel: 30
Curnutt, Leah
Cole Apartments,
Greencastle, Ind.
Tel: 592
Cutting, Ernest
538 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Da Camara, Palmyra
22 Dale St.,
Cambridge, Mass.
Tel: Kirkland 8682

Dallmeyer, Russell
131 Bellefield Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tel: Ma. 1000

Daly, Geraldine
Joliet Herald-News,
Joliet, Ill.
Tel: 6161

Damrosch, Walter Johannes
National Broadcasting Co.,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8300

DANBURG, RUSSELL
Washington State College,
Pullman, Wash.
Tel: 8011

Davis, John Carlyle
15 W. Hill Lane,
Wyoming, Ohio

Dayer, Ruth
5103 Cass,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Terrace 8550

Dayer, Walter
5103 Cass,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Terrace 8550

Decreus, Camille

Deering, Henri

De Filippi, Amedeo
Columbia Broadcasting System,
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City

DE GRAY, JULIAN
Bennington College,
Bennington, Vt.

De Horvath, Cecile
418 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4989

Deis, Carl

De Leone, Francesco B.
34 S. High St.,
Akron, Ohio
Tel: He 9818

DEL TERZO, EMILIA
816 Carnegie Hall,
7th Ave. & 57th St.,
New York City

De Obarrio, Carmen
c/o Dr. P. de Obarrio, 232 Calle de Chihuahua,
Mexico City, D.F., Mexico

Dickert, Georgia Belle 342 Trade St.,
Rock Hill, S. C.
Tel: 587 W

Dieter, Bernard
409 E. Chicago Ave.,
Naperville, Ill.
Tel: 649-M

Donahue, Lester

Donnelly, Mary Elizabet
1650 Selby,
West Los Angeles, Cal.

Doolittle, Maude Tucker
3434 83rd St.,
Jackson Heights, N. Y.
Tel: Ha. 4-2477

DORFMAN, SAUL
1234 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7529

Dorfmann, Ania

Dormagen, Amy
Dormagen Conservatory of Music,
33 Waltham St.,
Hammond, Ind.

Downing, Lulu Jones
2208 Asbury Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: Greenleaf 2420

Downs, Ocy L.
10 Congress Square,
Portland, Me.
Tel: 3-3181

Draa, Charles Clifton
1440 W. 29th St.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Republic 3820

Dreher, Ted
1205 W. 10th St.,
Ft. Worth, Texas

Drittler, Max Wolfgang
307 Church St.,
Boonton, N. J.
Tel: Boonton 8-0019

Duckwitz, William Edward
John B. Stetson University,
DeLand, Fla.
Tel: 780

Dudley, Marjorie Eastwood
University of South Dakota,
Vermillion, S. Dak.
Tel: 659

Dufford, Mamie Ericson
312 S. Garth Ave.,
Columbia, Mo.
Tel: 6132

Duke, John Woods

DU MOULIN, ROSE LYON
607 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Dunham, Rowland Warren
College of Music,
University of Colorado,
Boulder, Colo.

Durno, Jeannette

Dvorak, Marie

Eames, Harry Purmont
American Conservatory of Music,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Web. 0620

Eberly, J. Wilgus
Flora Macdonald College,
Red Springs, N. C.

Echaniz, Jose
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Eisenberger, Severyn

Elfenbein, Ethel
1466 48th St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Elie, Justin

Elinson, Iso

Enders, Edmee Langham Basin, Wyo.
Tel: 81 W

Endres, Emma
417 Riverside Dr.,
New York city

Enna, Emil
807 Studio Bldg.,
Portland, Ore.

Eppiniele, Beatrice
4816 N. Harding Ave.
Chicago, Ill .
Tel: Keystone 4020

Erickson, Thelman Holm
11638 Otsego,
North Hollywood, Cal.

Ericourt, Daniel
Chicago Musical College,
Chicago, Ill.

Ernst, Kenneth Gilbert
Butterfield Bldg.,
Queen Anne and Boston Sts.,
Seattle, Wash.

Erskine, John

Eschman, Karl Henry
Denison University,
Granville, Ohio

Ewing, Adelaide Frances Lynchburg College,
Lynchburg, Va.

Falk, William J.
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6700

Farquhar, Pauline
624 Loma Ave.,
Long Beach, Cal.
Tel: 806-13

Fay, John Edward 562 Congress St.,
Portland, Maine
Tel: 22388

Feldmann, Eliza Holmes
Brenau College,
Gainesville, Ga.
Tel: 350

Fenyves, Gabriel
MacPhail School of Music
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424

Feuerring, Jacob
330 E. 34th St.,
New York City

Figueroa, Narciso

Fine, Eleanor
115 W. 197th St.,
New York City

Fischer, Irwin L.
American Conservatory,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Fishman, Louis
3864 Lake Park,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kenwood 9534

Flandorf, Walter
235 Cornelia Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Buckingham 8949

Fleming, Len
3 Cortland St.,
Wellsboro, Pa.

Foster, Anna Blanche
850 Cajon St.,
Redlands, Cal.
Tel: 9141

Foster, Dorothy
American Conservatory of Music
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Foster, Everett Kin
Miami University
Oxford, Ohio

Foster, Fay

Foster, Sidney
222 E. 56th St.,
New York City

Fowler, George

Fox, Felix

Frank, Willem
c/o A. H. Handley,
162 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.

Frantz, Dalies
c/o Evans and Salter
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

FREUND, HELEN BROWNE
1018 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3480

Friedberg, Carl
Juilliard School of Music,
130 Claremont St.,
New York City

Friedman, Edith
31 W. 88th St.,
New York City

Friedman, Ignaz

Friskin, James
300 W. 108th St.,
New York City

Frysinger, J. Frank
First Presbyterian Church, York, Penn.

Fugmann, Andreas
Rockford College,
Rockford, Ill.
Tel: Main 746

Fuleihan, Anis

Fulton, Lulu Hill
Carnegie Library,
Cleburne, Tex.

Furcron, Elizabeth
Henry Street Settlement Music
School,
New York City

Ganapol, Mrs. Boris
5103 Cass,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Terrace 2-8550

Gannon, Helen C.

GANZ, RUDOLPH
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.

Gauntlett, Basil
Stephens College,
Columbia, Mo.
Tel: 2211

GELBTRUNK, ADAM
325 W. 45th St.,

New York City
Tel: Circle 6-0430

GEMMER, EDWIN J.
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Genhart, Cecile

Gentsch, Augusta
405 Norfolk Bldg.,
Spokane, Wash.
Tel: M 3051

George, Anna Evans
Mississippi Southern College,
Hattiesburg, Miss.

Gerschefski, Edwin
516 E. 89th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-5813

Gieseking, Walter
c/o Charles L. Wagner,
511 Fifth Ave.,
New York City

Glass, Winifred
5344 Greenwood Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Hyde Park 8395

Glazer, Frank
444 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-5757

Glen, Irma
National Broadcasting Co.,
Merchandise Mart,
Chicago, Ill.

GLICKMAN, EDA
Glickman College of Fine Arts,
228 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4679

Godden, Reginald
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

GODFREY, ARTHUR
808 Earle Bldg.,
Washington, D.C.
Tel: Metropolitan 3200

Goldberg, Albert L.
Illinois Music Project,
632 N. Dearborn,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 1193

Golde, Walter

Goldsand, Robert

Golschmann, Boris

Good, John Hasler
Wyocolo Hotel,
Fort Morgan, Colo.

Goodman, Lawrence

Gorno, Romeo

Gradova, Gitta

Graef, Rose Cecilia 3522 Utah St.,
St. Louis, Mo.

Grainger, Percy Aldridge

Graudan, Joanna
3325 York Ave. N.,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Cherry 2997

Green, Howard Sylvester
251 S. Main St.,
Butler, Pa.
Tel: 41-023

Green, William Hatton
105 Gay St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: West Chester 800

Greenfield, Jack R.
1818 S. Hamlin Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Rockwell 6940

Gregor, Henry
2025 Brickell Ave.,
Miami, Fla.
Tel: 3-1920

Greim, Helen A.
State Teachers College,
St. Cloud, Minn.
Tel: 601

Griggs, Hazel
Steinway Hall,
New York City

GROSS, WALTER
405 E. 54th St.,
New York City

Gruen, Herta
215 W. 75th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 4-2362

Gruen, Rudolph
c/o Vera Bull Hull,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Grunn, Homer
911 Westchester Place,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: R.O. 1267

Grunwald, Hugo

Gruss, Hermann
32 E. Boston Ave.,
Youngstown, O.
Tel: 23154

Guerry, Ophelia Smith
Atlanta Athletic Club,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Wa. 7430

Gunn, Glenn Dillard
1325 G St., N.W.,
Washington, D.C.
Tel: Wo. 5125

Gunzbourg, Mark
449 W. Ferry,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Temple 1-7145

Haake, Charles John American Conservatory,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Haake, Gail Martin
American Conservatory,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

Hacker, William Penny
34 Chestnut St.,
Albany, N. Y.
Tel: 5-9955

Hagan, Helen Eugenia

HAGERTY DELLA
New York Conservatory of Music,
402 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-7739

Haigh, Andrew Comstock
Cornell University,
Ithaca, N. Y.

Hall, Ruth Julia
159 E. 56th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-7118

Hambourg, Mark

Hamilton, G. May Hamilton School of Music,
7038-40 W. Garrett Rd.,
Upper Darby, Pa.
Tel: Boulevard 4147

Hammond, Vernon
1920 Spruce St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 1685

Hanson, Betty Runyon
963 Cuyler Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Bittersweet 7069

Harms, William
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Harris, Edward
25 Park Ave.,
New York City

Harris, Henry
1812 Spruce St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Penn. 6408

Harris, Irene Leftwich
855 Piedmont Ave., NE.
Atlanta, Ga.

Harrison, Alice Gray
43 Golf Circle, N. E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: 6126

Harrison, Guy Fraser
26 Gibbs St.,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Stone 2212

HARSHA, RUTH
300 8th Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hastings, Florence
2420 Madison St.,
Wilmington, Del.

Hatch, Edith 716 Locust St.,
Anaconda, Mont.
Tel: 449M

HAUBIEL, CHARLES
c/o Harriet Steel Pickermell,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Havens, Raymond Lester
12 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 8796

HAWKINS, ESTHER BECKLINGER
320 Grant Place,
Park Ridge, Ill.
Tel: Park Ridge 197M

Haynes, Zola
514 Main St.,
Lafayette, Ind.
Tel: 7917

Hays, Virginia
Ambassador East Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 7200

Hayward, Dolores
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-0373

Heifetz, Vladimir
165-25 134th Rd.,
Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Heim, Leo
50 Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620

HEITMAN, HAZEL FERN
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868

Heizer, Ruth
4851 N. Damen,
Chicago, Ill.

HELLER, ADOLPH
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

HENRY, HAROLD
853 Seventh Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-7826

Henshaw, Helen Rockwell
Albany Academy,
Academy Rd.,
Albany, N. Y.
Tel: 5-1641

Henslee, Rebecca Field
State Teachers College,
West Chester, Pa.

Henson, Mary Atkinson
914 Carter Rd.,
Roanoke, Va.

Herzer, Clifford
17 E. 61st St.,
New York City
Tel: Regent 4-0873

Hess, Myra

Heyman, Katherine Ruth
c/o Richard Copley,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Hice, Arthur

Hieber, Olga E.
3639 N. Wolcott,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Graceland 4894

Hill, Gussie Parkhurst
91 Eleventh St., N. E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 4456

HILL, ROBERT PAYSON
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6700

Hilsberg, Ignace
740 Orange Grove Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Hodgson, Hugh
University of Georgia,
Athens, Ga.
Tel: 2061

Hodgson, Leslie
Hotel Wellington,
New York City
Hoff, Fred R.
523 W. 157th St.,
New York City
Tel: Wadsworth 3-6792
Hoffman, Wilhelmina Dorothea
Parma, Ida.
Tel: 120W
Hoffmann, Ernst
520 National Standard Bldg.,
Houston, Tex.
Tel: Preston 1888
HOFHEIMER, GRACE
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8178
Hofmann, Josef
Metropolitan Musical Bureau
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Hokanson, Randolph
c/o Haensel and Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Holst, Marie Seuel
25-27 W. Main St.,
Madison, Wis.
Tel: Fairchild 6737
Holtz, Guy
4747 Milwaukee Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 5000
Hood, Marguerite Vivian
Radio Station KFPY,
Spokane, Wash.
Horowitz, Linnea
59 W. 83rd St.,
New York City
Horowitz, Vladimir
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
HORWITZ, HANS
19 W. 69th St.,
New York City
Houk, Merwin D.
360 9th. St. N.,
St. Petersburg, Fla.
Houts, Eleanor
c/o Coe College,
Cedar Rapids, Ia.
Tel: 3-2611
Howe, Esther Louise
Shorter College,
Rome, Ga.
Tel: 1910
Howe, Mary
1821 H Street, N.W.,
Washington, D. C.
Huerter, Charles
318 Allen St.,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: 3-5552
Huffman, Daniel Leonard
Hughes, Edwin
338 W. 89th St.,
New York City
Hulman, Anna Elizabeth
824 Sixth St.,
Terre Haute, Ind.
Tel: Crawford 4444
Hunt, Robert Wilson
Northwest Conservatory of Music,
122½ S. 3rd,
Grand Forks, N. Dak.
Tel: 338
Hunter, Albert G., Jr.
7 Mildred Ave.,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Tel: 5928
HUNTER, MABEL WREDE
American Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Huss, Henry Holden
Hutcheson, Ernest
Ihrke, Walter Rudolph
Stephens College,
Columbia, Mo.
Tel: 2121
Ingham, Clara
138 Highland Place,
Monrovia, Cal.
Inghram, Lillian Brown
Conservatory of Music,
Quincy, Ill.
Tel: 2310 J
Iturbi, Amparo
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Iturbi, Jose
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Iverson, Maurice T.
1221 Pierce St.,
Sioux City, Iowa
Tel: 80184
James, Carlton
1658 Broadway,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-3092
Jedlicka, Anthony G.
5413 S. Sacramento Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Prospect 3378
Jenkins, Florence Foster
Hotel Seymour,
50 W. 45th St.,
New York City
Jewett, Albert Dewey
520 Meridan Ter.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Cleveland 63686
Johansen, Gunnar
Ass'n. of American Colleges,
19 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Johnson, Evelyn May
172 Pawling Ave.,
Troy, N. Y.
Tel: Troy 844
Johnson, Frances Dwight
1122 Avery St.,
Parkersburg, W. Va.
Tel: 860
JOHNSON, JAMES P.
171-38 108th Ave.,
Jamaica, N. Y.
Tel: Republic 9-5166
Johnson, Margaret Rose
193 W. 7th St.,
Winona, Minn.
Tel: 7530
Johnson, Terese La Juett
218 Holland St.,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: 5-2607
Jonas, Alberto
Jones, Addison
437 E. Chestnut St.,
Washington, Pa.
Tel: 1764 R
Jones, Alton
c/o William Neill, Inc.,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Jones, Elisabeth Fly Kirkpatrick
2103 Government Street,
Baton Rouge, La.
Kalb, Abraham I.
120 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Kane, Helen Birmingham
1319 Chicago Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: Dan. 2619
Katchen, Julius
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Kaufman, Harry
Curtis Institute of Music,
Rittenhouse Square,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Keeney, Wendell
Furman University,
Greenville, S. C.
Tel: 115
Kelso, Hugh Alexander
Kendrick, Dorothy
27 Chatfield Rd.,
Bronxville, N. Y.
Tel: Bronxville 4022
Kennan, Kent
Music Department,
University of Texas,
Austin, Tex.
King, Charles
4 Lincoln Terrace,
Meriden, Conn.
Tel: 4063 W
Kisch, Harriette
1822 Sherman Ave.,
Evanston, Ill.
Tel: University 5315
Klein, Charlotte
St. Margaret's Episcopal Church,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Michigan 9869
Knupfer, Walter
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
KOBER, GEORGIA
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Kolling, Henry Benson
De Pauw University,
Greencastle, Ind.
Tel: 148
Kostelanetz, Andre
485 Madison Ave.,
New York City
KOTTLER, MISCHA
Station WWJ,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: To. 70409
KRAMER, SELMA
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-5189
Krehm, Ida
c/o Wolfsohn Musical Bureau, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Krohn, Ernst Christopher
511 N. Taylor St.,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Rosedale 4074
Labunski, Wiktor
c/o Musical Artists Bureau,
312 Manhattan Ave.,
New York City
La Forge, Frank
1100 Park Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Atwater 9-7470
Laliberte, Alfred
Lane, Eastwood
26 E. 10th St.,
New York City
Tel: Stuyvesant 9-0748
Lane, Lewis
c/o Dorothy Porter
1425 Broadway,
New York City
Lane, Lorna
Radio Station WROK,
Rockford, Ill.
Tel: Main 5632
LAUE, ADELA
c/o International Concerts Corp.
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Law, Eva Lorena
117 S. Lafayette Park Pl.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Exposition 2567
Lawton, Ralph
Centerville, Mass.
Lawver, Aloha Studier
627 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7282
LEAF, ANN
150 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lexington 2-1100
Leaman, Harold
Radio Station WICA,
Ashtabula, Ohio
Tel: 1211
Lee, J. Earl
Augustana College,
Sioux Falls, S. Dak.
Tel: 851
Leginska, Ethel
LEOPOLD, RALPH
c/o Arthur Culbertson,

33 W. 42nd St.,
New York City
Lerner, Tina
Lester, Thomas William
Le Sueur, Peter
156 W. 7th St.,
Erie, Pa.
Tel: 22-824
Lev, Ray
c/o Alexander Mirovitch,
19 W. 69th St.,
New York City
Levant, Oscar
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
New York City
LEVEE, SARA
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
Levin, Sylvan
c/o C. David Hocker,
1726 Locust St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Levine, Issac
Kimball, Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Levitzki, Mischa
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
Radio City,
New York City
Levitzki, Sandra
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
Radio City,
New York City
Levy, Heniot
Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 1819
Lewyn, Helena
6683 Sunset Blvd.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Lhevinne, Josef
Lhevinne, Rosina
Lichtman, Sina
Suite 1114,
Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-5377
Lichtmann, Maurice Meru
Liebling, George
St. George Apts.,
1245 N. Vine St.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Gladstone 4734
Liebling, Leonard
Hotel Buckingham,
101 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Lipsky, Alexander
140 W. 69th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-4580
List, Eugene
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Litwin, Leo
18 Hillcrest St.,
Arlington, Mass.
Tel: Arlington 4299
Locke, Arthur Ware
Loder, James Purdy
The Cheshire Academy
Cheshire, Conn.
Tel: Cheshire 396
Loesser, Arthur
c/o Vera Bull Hull,
101 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Lonegren, Opal Church
1128 La Salle Ave.,
Minneapolis, Minn.
Tel: Main 4424
Long, Kathleen LONGAS, FEDERICO
c/o Radio Koncert Bureau,
2415 RKO Bldg.,
New York City
Loomis, Clarence
1440 Broadway,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Loth, L. Leslie
243 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-2132
LOUDON, M. JENNETTE
726 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2342
Love, Gene
2015 E. 10th St.,
Austin, Texas
Tel: 84597
Loyanich, Peter Paul
c/o Evans & Salter,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
LUBOSHUTZ, PIERRE
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Luckstone, Isidore
Ludwigs, Juanita Frey
315 Newell St.,
Walla Walla, Wash.
Lychenheim, Marion
2030 Touhy Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Rogers Park 1207
Lyman, Lony Warinka
120 Holmes Ave.,
Glenbrook, Conn.
Tel: 3-0440
Maas, Marguerite Wilson
Maazel, Marvin
c/o NBC Artists Service
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
MAC DONALD, AMANDA
911 Auditorium Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4282
MacDonald, Robert Neilson
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Building,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
MacElree, Mary Eyre
609 S. High St.,
West Chester, Pa.
Tel: 905W
MacGregor, Willard
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Madriguera, Paquita
Maerz, Joseph
Magendanz, Johannes
Maguire, Alice Carl
Columbia College,
Columbia, S. C.
Tel: 9275
Maier, Guy
Maiman, Earl Malcolm, Scott
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Malkin, Manfred
Hotel Ansonia,
Broadway at 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300
Mana-Zucca
Manker, Lucille
7050 Oglesby Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Mannes, Clara
Mannes, Leopold Damrosch
157 E. 74th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-0656
Mannheimer, Fank
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Marden, Kate Dell
1232 N. W. 25th,
Portland, Ore.
Maren, Ilse
5816 Glenwood Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Sunnyside 0911
Margolies, Mollie
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Markevitch, Igor
Markley, Gertrude
403 S. Hobart Blvd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Marsh, Frank Earl, Jr.
Mississippi Southern College,
Hattiesburg, Miss.
MARTENS, VIOLET
621 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 9279
Martucci, Paolo
Martz, Alice
64 E. Van Buren St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 1294
Marx, Burle
128 W. 80th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-9406
MASSMANN, MAGDALEN
De Paul University,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 8194
Matthay, Tobias
MAURO-COTTONE, AURORA
150 Lexington Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 5-0680
Maxon, Margaret Mary
219 Sixth St.,
Racine, Wis.
Tel: Jackson 148
Mayer, Herbert
344 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel. Endicott 2-2796
McArthur, Edwin
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
MC AULIFF, MARYA
c/o Bertha Ott,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 7595
McCain, Margaret
Denmark, S. Car.,
Tel: 104
McCracken, Glenn
410 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8362
McDowell, J. B. Francis
1015 S. High St.,
Columbus, Ohio
Tel: Ga. 4381
McEachern, Edna Evelyn
State Teachers College,
Upper Montclair, N. J.
Tel: Montclair 9210
MC KITRICK, KATHLEEN
156 E. Superior St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 9013
McKorell, Bessie King
903 Carolina Ave.,
Hartsville, S. C.
Tel: 223
McNeely, Paul Pierre
907 Pine St.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Ma. 8639
McNeil, Ruth
Music Bldg.,
University of Mississippi,
University, Miss.
Tel: Oxford 9393
Medtner, Nicolas
Meek, Dorothy Pfingstag
Angola, Ind.
Tel: 54
Melton, Frances Virginie
334 N. Capitol,
Salem, Ore.
Tel: 6846
Mero-Irion, Yolanda
Merritt, Ida Shipman
3207 Ave. N½,
Galveston, Texas
Tel: 22498
Mesirow-Minchin, Nina Plaza Hotel,

Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 2680
Metz, Robert Roy
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3700
MEYER, MARION
951 Chicago Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.
Meyer, Pauline
5128 Cornell Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Plaza 2354
MIKESHINA, ARIADNA
330 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Mikova, Marie
119 S. Madison Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Federal 5508
Mildner, Poldi
c/o NBC Artists Service,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Miles, Hazel Weiler
c/o E. A. LaDow, Times Bldg.,
New York City
Milinowski, Marta
126 Raymond Ave.,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Miller, Leo C.
393 N. Euclid,
St. Louis, Mo.
Miller, Victor
Station WSYR,
Syracuse, N. Y.
Tel: 3-7111
Miquel, Pablo
157 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-5051
MIROVITCH, ALFRED
117 W. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-5590
Mitchell, Francis Humphries
1697 Noble Dr., N. E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Vernon 2313
MITTMANN, LEOPOLD
712 Steinway Bldg.,
New York City
Moiseivitch, Benno
Mokrejs, John
222 E. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-8420
Monath, Hortense
c/o NBC Artists Service
RCA Bldg.
New York City
Morgan, Philip Sidney
514 St. Paul St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Morris, Harold
Morris, Ruth
3154 Hudson Ave.
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Lakeview 4406
Morris, Zollie D.
4747 N. Milwaukee Ave.
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kildare 5000
Morsztyn, Helena
58 W. 68th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-5826
Munn, William Oliver
235 Peachtree St., N. E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Wa. 1042
Munson, Ellen
Chicago Conservatory
25 East Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
Munz, Mieczyslaw
c/o Haensel & Jones
113 W. 57th St.
New York City
Murdoch, Martha Myers
5914 Wellesley Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Murdoch, William
c/o George Leydon Colledge
RKO Bldg.
New York City
Murphree, Claude Leon
University of Florida,
Gainesville, Fla.
Tel: 1000
Naegele, Charles Nason, Harold
1712-14 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
NELSON, RUTH DANIELS
1302 Jackson St.,
La Porte, Ind.
Tel: 399
NEMENOFF, GENIA
120 E. 89th St.,
New York City
Neumann, Herman
2500 Municipal Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Worth 2-5600
Newton, Mary W.
110 S. Everett St.,
Bennetsville, S. C.
Ney, Elly
NICKERSON, CAMILLE LUCIE
Howard University,
Washington, D. C.
Nin-Culmell, Joaquin Maria
Nininger, Eve
Radio Station WDBJ
Roanoke, Va.
Nin Y Castellanos, Joaquin
Nixon, Eugenia
180 N. Miami St.,
Wabash, Ind.
Nolte-Davidson, Fern
223 19th Ave., S.,
Nampa, Idaho
Tel: 1037
Norton, Eunice Novaes, Guiomar
c/o Haensel and Jones
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Noyes, Edith Rowena
Oberg, Paul Matthews
University of Wichita
Wichita, Kan.
Tel: 4-5331
Oberndorfer, Marx E.
Webster Hotel
2150 Lincoln Park West
Chicago, Ill.
Oetting, William H.
Oettinger, Carolyn G.
2243 E. Lake Rd., N. E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Dearborn 3203
Oldberg, Arne
Oles, Helen Louise
1104 17th Ave., N.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: East 3684
OLSSON, EMMA
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1857
Ondricek, Gladys Posselt
250 Huntington Ave.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Commonwealth 5592
Ornstein, Leo
251 S. 18th St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2777
Owens, Janet Russell
High Point College
High Point, N. C.
Tel: 4340
Paderewski, Ignace Jan
NBC Artists Service
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York City
Paeff, Sara
212 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-0546
Paff, Mary Louise
c/o Bernard R. La Berge
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Palmer, Courtlandt
Palmgren, Selim
Paranov, Moshe
187 Broad St.,
Hartford, Conn.
Tel: 2-3101
Parker, Ina Belle 2163 Lee Rd.,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Yell. 0578
Pattison, Lee
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Paul, Wanda
64 E. Van Buren
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Har. 6830
Paumgartner, Bernhard
Payne, Esther
109 S. Summit St.,
Iowa City, Iowa
Tel: 4201
Payne, Harriet Pauline
Indianapolis Symphony,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Tel: Riley 9597
Peppercorn, Gertrude
Perkins, Ivy Berry
American Conservatory of Music,
7227 Bennett Ave. (So. Shore Br.),
Chicago, Illinois
Tel: Dorchester 4615
Peters, Kate Johnston
205 Jefferson,
Ripley, Tenn.
Tel: 116
PETRI, EGON
Laurelton Hotel,
New York City
Pfleger, Edward
105 W. 74th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-8016
Philipp, Isidor
Pimsleur, Solomon
Plumpton, Alfred E.
278 Myrtle St.,
Manchester, N. H.
Tel: 2217
Podolsky, Leo
Sherwood Music School,
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: So. Shore 4522
Porter, Mayme Helen Salem College,
Winston-Salem, No. Car.
Tel: 7440
Potter, Harrison
One University Pl.,
New York City
Tel: Gramercy 7-1773
Powell, John
PRICE, FLORENCE BEATRICE
647 E. 50th Pl.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Drexel 4532
Prohaska, Addi
449 E. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-1136
Prokofieff, Serge
Pusateri, Cosmo R.
171 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-0120
Raab, Alexander
Rachlin, Ezra
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Rachmaninoff, Sergei
c/o Steinway & Sons,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Randegger, G. Aldo
c/o E. Richards,
13 W. 88th St.,
New York City
Tel: Schuyler 4-7119
Ravonell, Willetta
6705 Alta Loma Terrace,
Hollywood, Cal.

Reckzeh, Karl
306 S. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
Reeder, Charles G.
Station WING,
Dayton, O.
Tel: Ad. 3288
Reever, Harold
3225 Foster Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Reisenberg, Nadia
317 W. 83rd St.,
New York City
Reiser, Al
112 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Medallion 3-0680
Reiser, Lee
112 W. 48th St.,
New York City
Tel: Medallion 3-0680
Remde, Bernice Karoline
224 8th Ave., S.E.,
Aberdeen, S. D.
Tel: 4714
Renzulli, John Henry
79 Culloden Rd.,
Stamford, Conn.
Tel: 4-3572
Repper, Charles
Trinity Court,
Boston, Mass.
Reti, Rudolph
49 E. 83rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-8942
Reuter, Rudolph
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Richards, Lewis Loomis
Richner, Thomas
c/o Willard Matthews
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 4-0754
Riemenschneider, Carl H.
718 The Arcade,
Cleveland, O.
Riesberg, Frederick, W.
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City.
Tel: Circle 7-4500
Risler, Jeanette May
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
ROBBINS, MAY
327 W. 56th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-8882
Roberts, Walter Buchanan
Winthrop College,
Rock Hill, S. C.
Tel: 125
Robinson, Carol
405 E. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Wickersham 2-5123
Robyn, Louise
Roeder, Carl M.
607-8 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-9244
Rosenthal, Hedwig Kanner-
c/o Alix B. Williamson,
67 W. 44th St.,
New York City
Tel: Vanderbilt 6-1466
Rosenthal, Moriz
c/o Paul H. Stoes,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
ROSS, HUGH
333 Fourth Ave.,
New York City
Rothermel, Rita
1400 Lake Shore Dr,.
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Whitehall 4180
ROUNDS, ERMA
Chicago Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Rowe, Gertrude M.
615 Beall Ave.,
Wooster, O.
Tel: 113
RUBINSTEIN, ARTUR
c/o S. Hurok,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Rubinstein, Beryl
3411 Euclid Ave.,
Cleveland, O.
Tel: He 4040
Rubstein, Ariel
1539 N.E. 10th,
Portland, Ore.
Tel: Tr. 1218
Ruegnitz, Lena
Iowa State Teachers College,
Cedar Falls, Ia.
Rupp, Franz
c/o NBC Artists Service,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Ruvinska, Paulina
c/o Vera Bull Hull,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City.
Ruzicka, Vincenz
c/o Ray Halmans,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Rybner, Dagmar de Corval
Sabatini, Guglielmo
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 1981
Samaroff, Olga
Samuelson, Arvid
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-4384
Sandor, Arpad
136 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Saperton, David
Curtis Institute of Music,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Pennypacker 2525
Savler, Roberta
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
SCHAFMEISTER, HELEN
6 E. 35th St.,
New York City
Tel: Lexington 2-1154
SCHEFF, MORTIMER LOUIS
Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4425
Schmitt, Elvin
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Schmitz, E. Robert
Schnabel, Artur
Schnabel, Karl Ulrich
Schnee, Vitaly
728 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Schnitzer, Germaine
Scholz, Heinz
Scholz, Robert
SCHULTZ, ARNOLD
622 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8362
SCHUMANN, HENRIETTA
50 Central Park West,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-7094
Schuster, Hilda M.
Oberlin Conservatory,
Oberlin, O.
Tel: 58
Schuyler, Philippa
Schwarz, Joseph
Settlement Music School,
416 Queen St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Schwarz, Margaret Z.
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868
SCIARRETTI, ALBERTO V.
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Scionti, Isabel Laughlin
c/o Paul H. Stoes,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Scionti, Silvo
c/o Paul H. Stoes,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Sechrest, Lola Poplar St.,
Poplar Bluff, Mo.
Tel: 1310
See, Arthur M.
26 Gibbs St.,
Rochester, N. Y.
Tel: Stone 2212
Segall, Bernardo
c/o Paul H. Stoes, Inc.,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Serkin, Rudolf
c/o NBC Artists Service,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Sharpe, Tony
Station WTRY,
Troy, N. Y.
Tel: 2-100
Shattuck, Arthur
Shelton, Gari
c/o Bernard R. La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Shepherd, Wilma Rosemary
228 Third Ave.,
Havre, Mont.
Tel: 315
Sheridan, Frank
SHERMAN, BESSIE WILLIAMS
619 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
SHEYNE, MICHAEL B.
50 W. 67th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-4950
Short, Eleanor Virginia
408 Almaden Ave.,
San Jose, Cal.
Tel: Col. 2073
SHUBOW, RACHELLE
c/o Milton Bendiner,
113 W. 57th St,.
New York City
Shugars, Florence Lovejoy
Station WROK,
Rockford, Ill.
Tel: M. 5632
Shure, Leonard
c/o Bernard R. La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Silber, Sidney
Sherwood Music School,
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
Silberer, Howard
3225 Foster Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Keystone 8200
Siloti, Alexander
Simmons, Lee
1008 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Simonds, Bruce
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Simpson, Lylian Niquette
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Singer, Richard
c/o Spencer B. Driggs,
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Sittig, Frederick V.
R.D. No. 3,
Stroudsburg, Pa.
Tel: Saylorsburg 22-2
Skalski, Andre
The University of Music,

59 E. Van Buren St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Sladon, Eugenie
336 W. 89th St.,
New York City
Tel: Schuyler 4-7753

Slenczynski, Ruth

Smeterlin, Jan

Smit, Leo
c/o NBC Artists Service,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City

SMITH, EARLE CHESTER
716 Loew's Grand Theatre Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Walnut 7488

Smith, Margery M.
618 N. Hayes,
Pocatello, Ida.

Snow, Eugenia Caroline
73 Palisades Rd. N.W.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 4963

Snow, Leta G.
113 Allen Blvd.,
Kalamazoo, Mich.
Tel: 6523

Solomon

Spencer, Allen
American Conservatory of Music,
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8763

Spencer, Eleanor

SPONGBERG, VIOLA
850 E. 46th St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Ingersoll 2-6815

Spross, Charles Gilbert
4 Allen Place,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Tel: 584

Spry, Walter

Stahl, Beatrice
6347 Kester Ave.,
Van Nuys, Cal.
Tel: State 5-3931

Stanley, Jane
205 Chestnut Ave.,
Long Beach, Cal.

Stead, Mabel Riggs
1142 S. Michigan,
Chicago, Ill.

Steele, Porter

Steele, Ted
9 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-6188

Stein, Gladys Marie
Stein School of Music,
1109 W. 26th St.,
Erie, Pa.
Tel: 76-474

Stein, Simon R.
Boguslawski College of Music,
323 S. Wabash,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 7815

Stephens, Frances
New Richmond, Ind.

Sternsdorff, Else
117 S. Washington St.,
Butler, Pa.

Stevenson, Gladys
Hammond Organ Co.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-2290

Stewart, Reginald
205 Richview Ave.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Hyland 1014

Stokowski, Olga Samaroff
Juilliard Graduate School,
130 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3302

Stoye, Paul
Drake University,
Des Moines, Ia.

Strahm, Franz J.
Teachers College,
Box 275,
Bowling Green, Ky.
Tel: 1700

Stravinsky, Igor

Strickland, Lily
171 W. Shore Rd.,
Great Neck, N. Y.
Tel: Great Neck 1896

STROUP, DONALD
25 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500

Stueckgold, Jacques
235 W. 76th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-7464

STUMPF, MRS. CLARENCE
403 W. 30th,
Austin, Tex.
Tel: 22856

Sukman, Harry Palmer House,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Randolph 7500

Sukoenig, Sidney
393 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-9138

Swing, Raymond Gram
c/o Mutual Broadcasting System,
1440 Broadway,
New York City

Szanto, Gizi
5035 Woodward,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2810

SZELL, GEORG
7 Park Ave.,
New York City

Tagliafero, Magda
c/o Constance Hope
29 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Tallarico, Constance N.
557 W. 124th St.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-4350

TALLARICO, VICTOR A.
557 W. 124th St.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-4350

Talley, Howard
Dept. of Music,
University of Chicago,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Midway 0800

Tansman, Aleksander

Tarnowsky, Sergei
De Paul University,
64 E. Lake St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Central 8194

TAUBMAN, LEO
52 W. 84th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-2985

Taylor, William H.
400 W. 150th St.,
New York City
Tel: Edgecombe 4-3938

Tcherepnine, Alexander

Templeton, Alec
Seneca Hotel
Chicago, Ill.

Thalberg, Marcian

Thalman, J. William
605 Stevens St.,
Iowa Falls, Iowa
Tel: 98-M

Thompson, Lucia Mae
Radio Station WHBF,
Rock Island, Ill.
Tel: R.I. 918

Thompson, Martha

Thompson, Tahlulah Clonts
1111 West Johnson St.,
Madison, Wis.
Tel: F. 2014

TILLMAN, ELIZABETH
1870 Murphy Ave., S.W.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Raymond 5421

Tillotson, Frederic Elre Thornlay
181 Park Row,
Brunswick, Me.
Tel: 155W

Tollefsen, Augusta

Tolson, Margaret Cooper
6911 Sixth St.,
Washington, D. C.
Tel: Georgia 0988

Townsley, Lois
c/o Tenney,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Tracy, Gerald
35 Sutton Pl., So.,
New York City
Tel: Wickersham 2-9738

TRENDLER, ROBERT
75 E. Wacker Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Dearborn 1714

Treshansky, Milton
719 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 9558

Treumann, Edward E.
837 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-4357

Troendle, Theodora
640 Kemper Pl.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Diversey 0124

Turina, Joaquin

Turner, Harold
Radio Station WGN,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 0100

Turner, Robert
Hotel Ansonia,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300

Tyler, Abram Ray

Vandenberg, Berthe
370 Central Park West,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-1808

Van Doren, Mary
Toledo Museum of Art,
Toledo, O.
Tel: Ma. 2251

Van Katwijk, Paul
Southern Methodist University,
Dallas, Tex.
Tel: 5-2141

Vecsei, Desider Josef

VERSON, CARA
610 Fine Arts Bldg.,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Villa-Lobos, Hector

Von Doenhoff, Albert
251 W. 102nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Academy 2-0057

Vronsky, Vitya
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Wagner, Franz

Wagner, Josef
c/o Milton Bendiner,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Wagner, Oscar
130 Claremont Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Monument 2-3302

WALDMAN, DOROTHY JEANNETTE
739 Park Dr., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 3436

Walker, Cornelia Greer
Union, S. C.

Ware, Harriet
c/o Standard Booking Office,
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Warren, Gladys Ethelwyn
Georgia State Woman's College,
Valdosta, Ga.

Waters, George Maro
20 Collier Rd.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Vernon 9878

Watts, Harry William
Eastman School of Music,
Rochester, N. Y.

WEBSTER, BEVERIDGE
c/o NBC Artists Service
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
WEBSTER, VERA
507 Hunt Lane,
Manhasset, N. Y.
Tel: Manhasset 2682
Weelans, Lester D.
Radio Station KLZ,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Ma. 4271
Weinberg, Jacob
135 W. 84th St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-1111
Wells, Howard
603 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 5572
Wendell, Bruce
c/o George W. Lattimore,
110 W. 47th St.,
New York City
Werlé, Frederick Charles
405 Presser Bldg.,
1714 Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel: Rittenhouse 9934
Weschler, Angela E.
New York College of Music,
114 E. 85th St.,
New York City
Tel: Butterfield 8-9377
West, Edith Adair
94 Inman Circle, N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 5549
Whitney, Maurice C.
Hudson Falls Public Schools,
Hudson Falls, N. Y.
Whittington, Dorsey
Birmingham Conservatory of Music,
Birmingham, Ala.
Tel: 4-2611
Wild, Earl
325 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 5-5637
Wildermann, Maria Bernadette
Steinway Hall,
New York City
Wilks, Norman
Toronto Conservatory of Music,
135 College St.,
Toronto, Canada
Willard, Carolyn
140 Capital Ave., N.E.,
Battle Creek, Mich.
Tel: 5325
Willman, Allan Arthur
Wilson, Mrs. R. Wayne
1040 Peachtree St., N.E.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Hemlock 3606
Windsor, Helen
66 E. 93rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Sacramento 2-5662
Winkler, Emil
520 North Ave., 54,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Cleveland 62415
Wittgenstein, Paul
WOLFE, LILLIAN REZNIKOFF
1379 Union St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: President 4-1270
Wolfes, Felix
228 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-4040
Wolff, Ernst Victor
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-6625
Wolffers, Jules
c/o Willard Matthew,
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
WOOD, ANNABELLE
201 W. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-1988
Wood, Mary Knight
Woodside, Lula B.
113 Crescent Ave.,
Greenville, S. C.
Tel: 2832
Yalkovsky, Isabelle Yanova, Naomi
c/o George Mitford, Lt.,
68 King St. E.,
Toronto, Canada
Yost, Dixie
1338 W. Roosevelt,
Phoenix, Ariz.
Tel: 3-3462
Young, Mozelle Horton
712 Loews Grand Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Young, Victor
41 W. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-6079
Zadora, Michael
c/o Gordon Harbord, Ltd.,
414 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Zahler, Lee
5823 Santa Monica Blvd.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: He. 7991
ZAKIN, ALEXANDER
38 Central Park South,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 5-6699
Zech, Frederick
Zuch, Annett V.
123 Carnegie Hall,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-9193

SOPRANOS

ABT, CYBELLE
c/o Estelle Lutz,
410 S. Michigan Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 3435
Ackte, Aino
Adams, Suzanne Ahrling, Adelaide
510 Blanchard Parkway,
Allenhurst, N. J.
Tel: Allenhurst 711
Alda, Frances
Aldrich, Mariska
Anderson, Elsie
c/o James Maxwell Roche
58 W. 68th St.,
New York City
Anderson, Mildred
161 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 4-1494
Anderson, Sara
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-6092
Antoine, Josephine
c/o Evans & Salter,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Arendt, Elsa Harthan
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
ARNOLD, ESTHER FRIEND
456 Glendenning Place
Waukegan, Ill.
Tel: Ontario 6640
Arnoldson, Sigrid
ATKINS, MAE GRAVES
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 0500
Attwood, Martha Aundrey, Carolyn
c/o Standard Booking Office
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Austral, Florence
Averino, Olgo
Axman, Gladys
419 E. 57th St.,
New York City
Bailey, Patricia 150 Hazelwood Ave.,
Toronto, Ont., Canada
Tel: Hargrave 8852
Baker, Dorothy
c/o Vera Bull Hull
101 W. 55th St.,
New York City
BALLOU, ELECTRA
3300 Warren Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kedzie 4482
Bampton, Rose
Metropolitan Opera House
New York City
Barrett, Esther May
c/o A. H. Handley,
162 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.
Barrientos, Maria
BARRON, MAY
4718 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Bassian, Alexia
1803 N. Western Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: Ho. 2366
Beaman, Elizabeth
c/o A. H. Handley,
162 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.
Bell, Mary
37 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-0573
BELTZ, MARY LOUISE
506 W. 169th St.,
New York City
Bernstein, Florence
1018 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3480
Bert, Lys
c/o Standard Booking Office
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Besanzoni, Gabriella
Besuner, Pearl
Metropolitan Opera Company
New York City
Bickerton, Helen
Sherwood Music School
300 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
Blauvelt, Lillian Evans
Bodanya, Natalie
c/o Haensel & Jones
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
BOLMAR, NENA
410 S. Michigan
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4285
Bori, Lucrezia
c/o Metropolitan Opera Company,
Broadway and 7th Ave.,
New York City
BORZI, AGATA
100 W. 55th St.,
New York City
BOTHWELL, MARY
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
BOWLER, EVA 1136 Statler Bldg.,
Boston, Mass.
Bradish, Elizabeth Burritt
85 Prospect St.,
Burlington, Vt.
Tel: 4587
Brancato, Rosemarie
1560 Grand Concourse,
New York City
Brocks, Hanna
257 W. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-6625
BROWN, ANNE
c/o Goldie & Gumm
1540 Broadway
New York City
Browning, Larra
c/o Willard Matthews,

333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Browning, Lucielle
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Brune-Marcusson, Grace
619 N. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Delaware 5581
Burgess, Marjorie
c/o Bertha Ott Concert Management,
1223 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Burke, Hilda
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Case, Anna
CASE, HARRIET
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868
Cavalieri, Lina
Cavan, Marie
Chekova, Josepha
23 E. 62nd St.,
New York City
Childs, Lee
National Broadcasting Co.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 8300
Claire, Marion
Radio Station WGN
Chicago, Ill.
Claughsey, Delphine M.
Box 981,
Balboa, Canal Zone
Claussen, Julia
Coe, Lydia Pearl
3830 Waldo Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Kingsbridge 3-1177
Coffey, Maria Conway
c/o Standard Booking Office
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Cook, Naomi Cullen
323 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4839
Craft, Marcella
4539 Main St.,
Riverside, Cal.
Tel: 2538-J
CRAIG, MARY
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Curtis, Vera
17 E. 86th St.,
New York City
Dal Monte, Toti
Darbo, Erica Davis, Agnes
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Davis, Veronica
John B. Stetson University,
Deland, Fla.
Tel: 780 extension 10
DELLA CHIESA, VIVIAN
150 W. 58th St.,
New York City
De Lys, Edith
DE SELLEM, ELAINE
American Conservatory of Music,
Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
De Trevelle, Yvonne
DICKENSON, JEAN
c/o Constance Hope Associates, Inc.,
29 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-3390
DICKEY, ANNAMARY
2 Sutton Place,
New York City
DICKS, ELIZABETH
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868
Dickson, Muriel
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
DIKE, VICTORIA
Victoria Dike School of Music,
Carnegie Hall,
7th Ave. & 57th St.,
New York City
Dirman, Rose
58 W. 72nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-2247
Dodds, Maybelle Crockett
1027 Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Douglass, Ruth
Mount Holyoke College,
South Hadley, Mass.
Tel: Holyoke 8211
Dragonette, Jessica
c/o N. D. Loftus,
Box 594,
New York City
Dreslin, Dorothy
National Broadcasting Co.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-8300
Durbin, Deanna
6305 Yucca Ave.,
Hollywood, Cal.
Dux, Claire
209 E. Lake Shore Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Eames, Emma Easton, Florence
Eberhart, Constance
3059 Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Kedzie 3681
Engle, Lillian
c/o Standard Booking Office,
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Evanti, Lillian
c/o Columbian Musical Bureau,
1910 Vermont Ave.,
Washington, D.C.
Eversman, Alice Evening Star,
Washington, D.C.
Fabian, Mary Jacqueline
Hotel Ansonia,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-3300
Farneti, Maria
Farrar, Geraldine
Favero, Mafaldo
c/o Metropolitan Music Bureau, Inc.,
New York City
Fay, Maud
FERRIO, TERESA
431 So. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Wabash 7055
Field, Kate Keith
14 Washington Square,
New York City
Tel: Algonquin 4-3897
Fisher, Susanne
NBC Artists Service,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Fitzu, Anna
Congress Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Flagstad, Kirsten Marie
NBC Artists Service,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Florea, Louise
NBC, RCA Bldg.,
New York City
FRIJSH, POVLA
419 E. 57th.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-3487
GAINSWORTH, MARJORIE
c/o William Morris Agency,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-2160
Gall, Yvonne Irma Garden, Mary
Gardini, Berta Gerster
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-9131
Gardini, Nelli
Chicago Musical College,
64 E. Van Buren,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6830
Garland, Mrs. Frank Nowell
445 Mt. Prospect Ave.,
Newark, N. J.
Tel: Hu. 2-5537
Garrison, Mabel
Gates, Lucy
Genovese, Nana
Gentle, Alice Gerhardt, Elena
Giannini, Dusolina
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
GIAUQUE, ALICE HOLMEN
211 W. Pine St.,
Selinsgrove, Pa.
Tel: 1092
Gilbert, Louise
1531 Kimball Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
Gillespie, Mary Edith Lebanon Valley College,
Annville, Pa.
Gilli, Julia M.
780 Lexington Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Gonzalez, Enya
Gordon, Dorothy Grazzini, Sylvia
c/o J. W. Turn,
515 Madison Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-8336
Grenville, Lillian Grob, Linda
7431 Lafayette,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Aberdeen 3820
Guerry, Ophelia Smith
Atlanta Athletic Club,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Wa. 7430
Guilford, Nanette
Gustafson, Lillian
c/o Annie Friedberg,
25 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Halstead, Margaret
40 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-6434
Hampton, Hope
Haskell, Blanche
725 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.
Tel: Kenmore 3122
Haskins, Virginia
443 W. Wrightwood Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Mohawk 2923
Hayden, Ethyl
HAYES, HAZEL
Navarro Hotel,
112 Central Park South,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-7900
Hecht, Margaret Maria
Loew's Grand Theater Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Walnut 5066
HEITMAN, HAZEL FERN
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868
Heizer, Ruth
4851 N. Damen,
Chicago, Ill.
HELLER, MILDRED GREY
1034 N. La Salle St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Diversey 6671
Hempel, Frieda
Henders, Harriet
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Herbruck, Bertha A.

Rideway, Rd.,
Dayton, Ohio
Herdien, Mabel Sharp
1462 Bryn Mawr Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Edgewater 7252
Herrmann, Mrs. Christian
520 No. Capitol Ave.,
Lansing, Mich.
Tel: 29154
Hinman, Florence Lamont
Lamont School of Music,
Denver, Colo.
Tel: Ta-6269
HOBER, BEAL
c/o Willmore & Powers,
2 W. 45th St.,
New York City
HOE, LOUISA
428 St. James Place,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Mohawk 2811
Houston, Elsie
107 E. 63rd St.,
New York City
Huger, Nellie Beatrice
52 Putnam,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Columbia 2870
Hullum, Stella Bobo
1405 Fairview Ave.,
Monroe, La.
Tel: 3351
Hunsicker, Lillian 1451 Twiner St.,
Allentown, Pa.
Tel: 6511
HUNTER, JANE OGDEN
64 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 4687
Hurt, Corine Lockett
102 Hampton Ave.,
Roanoke, Va.
Tel: 2-0632
Hussa, Maria
7436 South Shore Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Inghram, Lillian Brown
Conservatory of Music,
Quincy, Ill.
Tel: 2310 J
Inskeep, Alice Carey
Board of Education,
Cedar Rapids, Ia.
Tel: 8921
Ivoguen, Maria
James, Frances
27 Winchester St.,
Toronto, Canada
Tel: Midway 2767
Jamison, Anne
NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Jarboro, Caterina
c/o Georges Lattimore,
110 W. 47th St.,
New York City
Jayne, Alta Beatrice
Melbourne Hotel,
St. Louis, Mo.
Tel: Jefferson 6980
Jaynes, Betty
MGM Studios,
Culver City, Cal.
Jenkins, Florence Foster
Hotel Seymour,
50 W. 45th St.,
New York City
Jepson, Helen
c/o Evans and Salter,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Jerguson, Thelma Fletcher
1393 Sixth Ave.,
New York City
Jeritza, Maria
Jessner, Irene
Beacon Hotel,
Broadway at 75th St.,
New York City
Johnson, Carabella
NBC Artists Service,
Auditorium Bldg.,
Cleveland, Ohio
Tel: Cherry 0942
Johnson, Dorothy
c/o Standard Booking Office,
100 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Johnson, Edna Evans
1339 Normandie Circle,
Salt Lake City, Utah
JOHNSON, JEANNETTE
9 Lakeview Ave.,
Peachtree Heights,
Atlanta, Ga.
Kappel, Gertrude
Kargau, Olga
Windermere East Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Fairfax 6000
Keller, Virginia Braun
1083 S. High St.,
Columbus, O.
Kent, Eleanor Klingmann, Ruth C.
3861 Carman Place,
New York City
Koessler, Elizabeth
410 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: University 4-7912
Korjus, Meliza
Koshetz, Nina Koussevitzky, Maria
c/o Franklin Miner,
Murat Theatre,
Indianapolis, Ind.
Kozen, Marguerite
Hotel Wellington,
55th St. & 7th Ave.,
New York City
KRUETGEN, ANNA
919 Franklin St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 1920-21-22
Kurenko, Maria
c/o Paul H. Stoes, Inc.,
119 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Kurt, Melanie
LA BARRE, COUNTESS ANNE
Hotel Wellington,
55th and 7th Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-3900
Labia, Maria
Lacey, Olive June
8141 Langley Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Radcliff 3661 LANIER, HELEN
c/o Richard Copley,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Larsen-Todsen, Nanny
Lawrence, Marjorie
Metropolitan Opera Ass'n.,
New York City
Lehman, Lotte
c/o Constance Hope Ass'tes, Inc.,
29 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Leider, Frida
LENOX, LUCIE
457 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Columbus 5-8450
Lewis, Lois
Jean Lafitte Hotel,
Galveston, Tex.
Tel: 4301
Lewis, Mary
Liebling, Estelle
Ljubljana
818 Steinway Bldg.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-6279
Ljungberg, Goeta
c/o Columbia Artists,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Macbeth, Florence
MacDonald, Florence
49 S. Mulberry St.,
Mansfield, O.
Tel: Canal 3339
MacDonald, Jeannette
c/o Charles L. Wagner,
511 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
MAC KINLAY, ELEANOR
3000 Sheridan Rd.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Bittersweet 1283
MAC WATTERS, VIRGINIA
49 Elm Ave.,
Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Tel: Hillcrest 3793J
Madison, Grace K.
728 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3700
Manners, Lucille
c/o NBC Artists Service,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
Manski, Dorothee
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
MARCA, MARIA
353 W. 85th St.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-9683
Marchetti, Lillian Eleanor
320 W. 26th St.,
New York City
Mario, Queena
Marshall, Helen
c/o Willard Matthews,
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
MARSHALL, LILLIAN C.
50 Edison Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.
Tel: Townsend 8-7372
Martini, Aida
Mason, Edith 229 Lake Shore Dr.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Superior 1934
Mayle, Helena
RCA Bureau,
140 W. 42nd St.,
New York City
Maynor, Dorothy
c/o Evans & Salter,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
McCook, Lillian Gerow
Louisiana State Normal College,
Natchitoches, La.
McCormic, Mary
McMillan, Mrs. Flora B.
329 W. Main St.,
Laurens, S. C.
Tel: 835
MEUSEL, LUCILLE
1009 S. Quincy,
Green Bay, Wis.
MILANOV, ZINKA
Metropolitan Opera Ass'n.,
New York City
Miller, Ada Holding 28 Everett Ave.,
Providence, R. I.
Miller, Ruth
8118 Hollywood Blvd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Hemstead 0951
Miloradovich, Milo
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Miura, Tamaki
Monroe, Lucy
c/o Arthur Judson,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-6900
MONTELL, MARJORIE
c/o Concerts Bureau of America, Inc.,
45 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Moore, Grace
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Morena, Berta
Morgana, Nina

Moulton, Dorothy
Mueller, Mrs. Kurt
708 Loew's Grand Theatre Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Muller, Maria
MURIO, JAY
530 Home Ave.,
Oak Park, Ill.
Tel: Euclid 4996
Namara, Marguerite
Nevada, Emma Newman, Isidora
Hotel White,
Lexington Ave. at 37th St.,
New York City
Nicholls, Agnes Norena, Eide
Novotna, Jarmila
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Ober, Margarete
ODIERNO, EMILIA VERGERI
2646 Broadway,
New York City
Ohlin, Hilda
25 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-0029
Ohms, Elizabeth
Olheim, Helen Metropolitan Opera Ass'n.,
New York City
Onegin, Sigrid
Osborn-Hannah, Jane Otero, Emma
645 W. 160th St.,
New York City
Tel: Wa. 3-4612
Otis, Florence
155 E. 47th St.,
New York City
Tel: Plaza 3-1236
Padorr, Lillian
426 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 2933
Paggi, Ada
616 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Illinois
Tel: Harrison 2685
Pagliughi, Lina
Palmer, Jeanne
PARRAGA, GRAZIELLA
c/o Mary L. Shank,
RKO Bldg., Radio City,
New York City
Patterson, Grace A.
301 W. Penn St.,
Butler, Pa.
Pauly, Rose
Peaker, Ada Beth Bankers Life Co.,
Des Moines, Lowa
Tel: 4-3131
Peck, Mary Emma Pearson
Athens College,
Athens, Ala.
Tel: 220W
PEMBERTON, VIRGINIA
c/o Bernard R. La Berge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Perini, Flora
Peter, Ruth
246 W. 71st St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-0672
Peters, Julia
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Peterson, Lucille
Metropolitan Opera House Studios,
New York City
Petina, Irra
136 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-6363
Phillips, Alice
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868
Phillips, Helen
127 So. Ave. 58,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Albany 9848
Plum, Henriette Bagger
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
RKO Bldg., Radio City,
New York City
Pons, Lily
c/o Metropolitan Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
PONSELLE, CARMELA
230 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-5232
Ponselle, Rosa
c/o Libbie Miller
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Portelli, Katherine
c/o Vincent Sorey,
Metropolitan Opera Bldg.,
New York City
Porter, Janis
Edgewater Beach Apts.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Long Beach 8500
Porto, Marguerite
1048 Ardmore,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Edgewater 1544
Potter, Dorothy
c/o Tenney,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 7-1495
Powell, Alma Webster
Pyne, Ethel
6351 Utah Ave. N. W.,
Washington, D.C.
Tel: Woodley 7473
RABINOFF, ANASTASIA
22 W. 89th St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 4-7203
Raisa, Rosa
Congress Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Rajdl, Maria
Rappold, Marie
Ravonell, Willetta
6705 Alta Loma Terrace,
Hollywood, Cal.
Read, Sue
147 W. 55th St.,
New York City
Redell, Emma
REID, ETHEL
5545 Giddings St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Palisade 1946
Reiner, Catherine
c/o Bernard R. LaBerge,
2 W. 46th St.,
New York City
Rethberg, Elisabeth
Reubben, Carmen
150 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Tel: Circle 6-8636
Richmond, Eve Roine
Conservatory of Music,
Wooster, O.
Tel: 113
Rickman, Bernice Mae
609 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 3551
Rider-Kelsey, Corinne
Ringo, Marguertie
Brenau College,
Gainesville, Ga.
Rio, Anita
360 W. 22nd St.,
New York City
Tel: Chelsea 3-6911
Robinson, Suzanne Roman, Stella
c/o Metropolitan Opera Ass'n, Inc.,
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York City
Roosevelt, Emily
Rose, Dora
240 West End Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Endicott 2-9072
Rose, Mildred
59 W. 54th St.,
New York City
Roselle, Anne
42 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-7152
ROWE, GENEVIEVE
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Trafalgar 7-6700
Royak, Annette
410 W. E Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Susquehanna 7-6751
Russell, Patricia 800 So. Crenshaw Blvd.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
SABANIEEVA, THALIA
c/o George Leyden Colledge,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
Sack, Erna
Sacks, Lilyan
6448 Greenview Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Sheldrake 2213
Saltzmann-Stevens, Minnie SALVI, MARGARITA
7517 41st Ave.,
Jackson Heights, N. Y.
Tel: Newtown 9-1807
Sayao, Bidu
SCHAVER, EMMA LAZAROFF
75 Bank St.,
New York City
Scheff, Fritzi
SCHROEDER, MARION
Sherwood Music School,
410 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 6267
Schulze, Estelle
124½ S. Grand St.,
Monroe, La.
Tel: 2248
Schumann, Elisabeth
SEARLE, ELEANOR
c/o Willard Matthews,
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
Tel: Murray Hill 4-0754
Shain, Rose Wies
162 Babcock St.,
Brookline, Mass.
Tel: Asp. 7717
Sheridan, Margaret
Smith, Florence Gullans
619 Fine Arts Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 8438
Smith, Margery M.
618 N. Hayes,
Pocatello, Ida.
Sneed, Katharine Lanier
Valdes Hotel,
Valdosta, Ga.
Tel: 868
Snelling, Helen Crowe
Helen Crowe Snelling Music Studio,
Fischer Studio Bldg.,
Seattle, Wash.
Tel: Seneca 9041
Snyder, Ina
Jenkins Music Co.,
Kansas City, Mo.
Tel: Victor 9430
Spain, Helen Knox
Piedmont Hotel,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Main 3024
Speaks, Margaret
c/o NBC Artists Service,
RCA Bldg.,
New York City
SPONGBERG, VIOLA
850 E. 46th St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel: Ingersoll 2-6815
Stanley, Helen Steber, Eleanor
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City

Steen, Eunice
64 E. Jackson,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 7735
STEN, SUZANNE
c/o Haensel & Jones,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Stevens, Rise
c/o Arthur Judson, Inc.,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Stoll, Frieda
1337 N. Sierra Bonita
Hollywood, Cal.
Tel: He. 2998
Strong, Susan
Stueckgold, Grete
Sturdy, Lena Alice
5929 S. Vermont Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Tel: Plesant 9175
Sturm, Virginia Dadswell
Dayton Daily News
Dayton, O.
SUMMER, ALBERTA CARROLL
722 Loew's Grand Theatre Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Tel: Ma. 5997
Sundelius, Marie
Swarthout, Gladys
c/o NBC Artists Service,
30 Rockefeller Plaza,
New York City
SYMONS, CHARLOTTE
715 Monticello,
Evanston, Ill.
Talley, Marion 255 McCarty Dr.,
Beverly Hills, Cal.
Tentoni, Rosa
c/o Wolfsohn Musical Bureau,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Teyte, Maggie
Tiffany, Marie
131 E. 66th St.,
New York City
Tel: Rhinelander 4-7841
Tobin, Alice Virginia
605 W. 115th St.,
New York City
Tel: University 4-5280
Todd, Dorothy E.
5570 Cates Ave.,
St. Louis, Mo.,
Tel: Rosedale 7932
Traubel, Helen Metropolitan Opera Ass'n.,
New York City
Tricomi, Anglea
1414 W. Polk St.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Haymarket 6938
UNKALUNT, PRINCESS ATALIE
316 E. 58th St.,
New York City
Tel: Eldorado 5-8052
Urbanek, Carolyn
c/o Embree Concert Service,
100 W. 58th St.,
New York City
VALDANE, ARVIDA
430 E. 86th St.,
New York City
Tel: Regent 4-1338
Van Delden, Maria
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Van Loon, Helen
c/o Annie Friedberg,
250 W. 57th St.,
New York City
VANNA, GINA
c/o Walter L. Larsen
310 S. Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.
Vega, Kathryn Lewis
121 Leisard St.,
Donaldsonville, La.
Tel: 694
Vicarino, Regina
Brenau College,
Gainesville, Ga.
Villani, Luisa
Volpe, Rosina
160 W. 73rd St.,
New York City
Von Granfelt, Lillian Hanna
Von Steuben, Maude
c/o Willard Matthews,
333 E. 43rd St.,
New York City
VRETA, BELLE
c/o B. Mary Pringle
200 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Waalkes, Flora
1625 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Harrison 4868
Wagner, Marie Louise
243 Riverside Dr.,
New York City
Tel: Riverside 9-0700
Walker, Edyth
Waters, Crystal
405 E. 54th St.,
New York City
Tel: Volunteer 5-1362
Waters, Nadine
c/o Richard Copley,
113 W. 57th St.,
New York City
Weed, Marion
Wenaas, Virginia
c/o Bankers Life Co.,
Des Moines, Iowa
Tel: 4-3131
WESCOTT, MARCY
c/o George Abbott,
630 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Whalen, Mary A.
3273 Parkside Place,
Bronx, N.Y.C.
Tel: Olinville 2-0275
White, Alma
1845 Champa St.,
Denver, Colo.
WHITE, FRANCIA
c/o A. & S. Lyons,
515 Madison Ave.,
New York City
WICKHAM, FLORENCE
1215 Fifth Ave.,
New York City
Tel: Atwater 9-8907
WIENKE, EVELYN
500 Kimball Bldg.,
Chicago, Ill.
Tel: Webster 0620
Williams, Jean Elizabeth
315 N. E. 41st Ave.,
Portland, Ore.
Tel: Ea 6582
